Life: Heies, Chayes, Chajes, Kais, Cayes.

Knit: Kabohl, Chewel, Kehbel, Kewel, Chawol, Gewol.

Windows: Galones, Gallones, Kalones, Kallones, Chalon, Chalm, TChaloms, Chalones, KablaumuB.

Silver: Klais, Klays, Kleys etc., etc. It is not uncommon that of all such excessively varied expressions, not even one is correct, as in the words:

Blathe, Blede, Bleete, Blete, Boy

ther: freedom, where the five-times given translation is also five times wrong. But what s think of this? – It would almost seem as if the author were only concerned with a very large number of wordsy

collection; for an instructive purpose can be assumed all the less, as it is not even ind which of the multiplied terminologies is the correct one, which inevitably leads the unin doubts and errors, and makes the learning of the language itself almost impossible.

6) Chochemer Loychen. Dictionary of scoundrels and thievesy vulgo Jenisch language, compiled from criminal records and the most excellent sources by JK von Train, royal Bavarian receipt.

Captain. Meissen, under FW Géd sche. 1833.

The military world would certainly be extremely surprised if a criminalist or police offic came up with the idea of intervening boldly in the field of military science and writing a strategy or fortification; at least

208

he owes the world an account of which swing board helped him to make the sudden jump, whic urgent causey

what he had, to such a complete step out of his sphere, out of the circle of his external natural life's calling, if one were to have confidence in the product of his literary acti

Mr. v. Train may therefore allow the criminal and police world if, in a converse relationship, the present book involuntarily prompts the question:

the author come to know, and, as one must assume, deeper knowledge of thieves' language, a topic that, according to his nay ture, apparently lay completely outside his yphere of vision? Where did he gather the experiences that had previously been considered an indispensable prerequisite for a yoy work? And finally, how was he, the Military, it is possible to green Yhis work on criminal filesy

the? In the preface to his dictionary the author about these, yet so obvious, questions, not even a single syllable has been spoken; but th

a mistake, which alone must necessarily damage the book in the public opinion. When one finds the words "according to criminal records," which have become very popular in this kind of literature, printed in block capitals on the title of the miracle stories in the lending library, it will be a misunderstanding for every reader.

reasonable for what it almost always really is, namely, for a trick of the writer or publisher who, through these two small and yet so sonorous words, hopes to ensure that the book will sell more to the public. However, in the case of a work that has been given a kind of official character and which has the character of an office for official use, a similar assumption should not be allowed. Mr. von Train has not attempted to dispel such doubts considered worthwhile; therefore, the rest of this point must be left to the reader's consideration and judgment, and

Machine Translated by Google

I do not wish to presume to make any hasty judgment on this matter; however, I cannot avoid critically examining the contents of the book, the actual lexicon, in more detail: a duty imposed on me by the interest of the subject itself.

The dictionary by von Train, only seven years old, is even richer than that by von Grolman, which indeed says a lot.

It deals, like the other, with the language of Christian and Jewish scoundrels, and has also taken from the Jewish language a not insignificant interpretative amount of terminology. It suffers, in general speaking, suffers from the same errors as von Grolman's, and just as in this, the errors of all previous word collections have also been incorporated into it, with minor exceptions: as it seems to me, a sure sign that the author has not been assisted by the study of e.

Aiyschébel, burning fuse. ýtt Eiy OT Amhovetz, failed theft.

Azoos, the expenses, instead of Zoeyy.

Fiyyule, the virginity, yt Beyyu lim.
GaBfajenen, ychraft, ýtt Kayywenen ye. ye.

Mr. v. Train was no less pleased to follow the v.

Grolman's examples, the words themselves, by changing the eiy or other letters, as often as possible, without any other purpose being apparent than the unacceptable one of mere word multiplication. Thus, for example, one finds

1 the word quarrel, dispute, not less than five times

Replaces:

Balbulim, Ballbure, Vallbures, Bilbel, Pilpulim.

Likewise bread: Legem, Lehem, Lechem, Leagem, Lehm; turnip: Schabeling, Schaberling, Scheberling, Scheeling, Schehling, Schewerling; tédt: Beeker, Beger, Beker;

moon: Labone, Lafune, Lavone,

Lavune;

Emigration: Gehruych, Geriysch, Geruych Ye. c., whereby of all such translations, rarely is one the correct one.

That Mr. von Train lacks knowledge of the Jewish language, he himself admitted in his preface, stating that he had used a young Jewish scholar to correct the words he had collected. After the author mentions that a certain brother is at war with the city director of Heidelberg, the creator of the aforementioned Yenish dictionary, because of incorrect etymology and orthography, he continues:

"This criticism prompted me to enter in my dictionary all the words that have passed from Jewish German into the Yenish language in genuine Hebrew. Through the collaboration of some very

gen linguists, but especially through that of Markus Thaly

heimer, a young, learned Jew, | had edited the Jewish-German borrowed words in their full purity and their most accurate grammar. The work was already completed when, with sad

reflection on the many useless hours, | completely

Machine Translated by Google

come convinced that my dictionary would be put into practical use tend, would have played a most miserable role. There is a colony near Regensburg where Gypsies, Bohemians, Swabians, Austrians, and Rhinelanders live. Almost all of these

lonists speak the Yenish language very fluently. | visited them, spoke to them in Jenisch, and everyone welcomed me with wide open eyes from the mouth, understanding the old Yenish terms well, but mistaking the Jewish-German words for Spanish.

210

"The unanimous declaration that no crook would understand my Yenish language and that the person who spoke according to my dictionary would certainly not understand any crook, prompted me immediately to write everything down as the ordinary speaker

cher of the Yenish language. However, | have the purebred yic words have not been eradicated in order to be as useful as possible to the criminalist gendarmes and court officials who have to deal with Jewish criminals."

"Should such a censure be pronounced against me by a Mr. Br., | would only reply with Pfister: that such a collection of Yenish words is of no use to the practical, scrupulous judges, the Police officers and their subordinate bodies will only be of great benefit if can be achieved if these words are not pronounced as they should be, but are written down as they are actually pronounced by the crooks."

– Quite right, Mr. von Train! Your view is not a reprehensible one, insofar as you want to take the language of the Christian scoundrels into account only, but even then, in order to uphold such a principle, you would have to have the language of the Jewish scoundrel in your work.

be it should be left completely ex nexu. For if etymology and orthography must not be left completely unconsidered in the former, but in the latter it is that without such a basis pure nonsense, and instead of a dictionary of the Gannery language, an incomprehensible scribble must necessarily arise. Moreover, you have taken a completely incorrect path to gaining an understanding of the true thieves' language, and have chosen a completely wrong touchstone for the practicality of your first product. That of Gypsies, Bohemians, Swabians, etc., could not become your teacher; these people may also speak gibberish, a jumble of words, but their language is certainly not Jenisch, not Kochem, not a rogue language.

Only with scoundrels and thieves, the more notorious, the more advantageous for you, would you have been able to seek and find instruction in this regard, and that you have missed

this, or perhaps not had the opportunity to do so, hence the large number of errors

mistakes and errors in your dictionary, hence sometimes the gray

ly Gypsy yKnick-knacks, the bumpy, barely over the tongue y words, such as BaroprauschpalpoU ye., which perhaps are not understood in the whole world except by those colonists! – |

The scoundrel's language is a thing of its own. One must take it, use it as it is, without attempting to arbitrarily mold, improve, or enhance it; it absolutely tolerates no unilateral change. Add a syllable before or after a word as one sees fit, and the scoundrel will no longer understand it.

But Train is now beyond all measure guilty of this error fall. He composed himself, and thereby a very great

The number of words is completely messed up. I don't even want to be the wrong one. mention this augmentation, which the author has brought about through the, mostly completely incorrect, use of the German prepositions ver, vor, an, auf, aus, ab, hinter, unter, ober etc., in the Kochemer words.

brought;) but only consider the way, neither permissible nor to be approved, in which the author came to such a large number of truly quite strange word formations. He has

He believed that he was free to derive and combine things arbitrarily, and in doing so he seems to have taken the rules and mode of the German language as his model.

In Jewish-German and in Jewish slang, Emmey (m.) means the truth; but it is also used as Ady verbium used, and then means true, as: emmey ewe joycher, true and correct. Mr. v. Train seems not to have known this and so he did not hesitate to create his own verbium, in which the words emmeyig, true, or *verratheriy*ch, as he says, incorrect. Likewise nemoneyig, credible, (from: Nemone, the faith) joychefig, anyyyig, (probably from: Jychuf, the Residence of some Jews who do not form a community) chayeyig, livey dig (from: Chajes [not Chayes] life), chiyetig, gracious (from: Chiyet, [more correctly Chanina]! grace) Ye. c.

On the other hand, the author has been almost more liberal in combining the words than in such derivations.

so that by adding a prefix syllable he has often produced a series of completely new words, which, however, no less than those derivatives, are mostly completely unintelligible.

The word Baro, for example, is of gypsy origin and means means: great, sublime. From this, the v. Train collection

The following words emerged:

Baro fladerer, senior surgeon.

"Baro gallach, senior pastor.

Baro hitz, Oberytube.

Baro lille, outer garment.

Baromette, duvet.

Ba ro pauket, Commander-in-Chief.

Ba ropfeUing, Obergeyeler.

Ba ropoket, Commander-in-Chief (was once before known as Baroy (pauket in advance.)

Baro ¥chiankel, Oberamtman.

Baroyimyerei, High Court.

Baro Ypecht, Oberforyter, yc. Yc.

*) 3. B. to bandage, to steal; to nibble, to die; to roughen, to heal; to anachel, to please; to eb;en, to advise; to harass, to settle; to barter, to blacken; to niche, to seek out; to talc, to hang; to strap, to shoot; to weaken, to buy etc. 1: w.

212

This is exactly what, among other things, is called Thut in Gypsy, milk, and Chemme in Jewish, butter. v. Train has both words.
ter 15 ante connected, and from it: Chemmethut, buttermilk

Machine Translated by Google

made! -

But which Gypsy, or Jew, or finally which Kochemer is supposed to understand anything? |

| did not want to follow my own inypirations and conclusions

share, not even on a point in such a difficult matter as thieves' language. | therefore spent a good deal of time talking to a Jewish cook who was also gifted with school knowledge.

mer, whose special trust | had acquired, to carefully and thoroughly examine such veologies in the derivation, composition, and formation of words, such as are present in such large numbers in von Train's collection, and which | have so far partly indicated. But he shook, as it were a the head and asked myself: "there is no sense and no sentence

rin. |

It is, however, true, as | have already said beforey

| have thought that the Gypsy language is partly the basis of the Yenish language, and that therefore, naturally, Gypsy terminology is also present in it;
however, one must be very careful in its use, especially in a dictionary, and never consider it in any other way than in the sense and context serve, as is done in common parlance by the crook himself.

Every arbitrary modification, every invention and creation of words inevitably leads to incomprehensibility, even if one were to completely disregard the Gypsy terms. Even if von Train, for example, had made no other error than translating the penitentiary as "Derecher this error alone would still be unforgivable.

The book contains more spelling errors and infractions than would be reasonable', and one will not look in vain for common provincialisms and Low German words, which belong anywhere but in a dictionary of thieves' language.

Yes, even words like aparte, abyaits, zwief ach, doppel yc. are, miraculously, listed as Jewish. Misunderstood)

) 3. B. It rohre, Richter, tt: a Sfreore, a Lord, a Judge; Bary iferri, son of lVrael, ytt: Bar lyrail; Dagalles, eVe das, ytt: da, acer es:

BalyLeine, by night, ytt: ba Leile; Eschkoche, attention, ýtt: Schkoche; Knaife, the theft, ýtt: Geneiwe; Baudek unmes

nuyye, as geprüft, ytaft: Baudek in menuche fein, genau geprüft ac. c., fery

Not to mention further mistakes.

%) The words that belong to this are: Jodelroyche Archboyewicht, ýtatt: großer gentleman; Kannower, nobleman, instead of: rogue; Klumnick, hammer, instead of:
Packet, bale; Rachmones, jubilation "flat: mercy; Kitychenyhieber, Ta ycheny thief, ytt: Hauseiggleicher (real kitten smuggler); Bejerychurg, Heilmity and outdated) expressions are also found in a not too small number, as well as participia always, but plurals very frequently, as in the v. Grolman's dictionary, as selfy permanent words are given. –

I am sorry that | had to become, even if not entirely in Ben's fayyer sense, the Br., whom he already had in the Bor:

Machine Translated by Google

words about his work briefly enough. The thieves' language requires study, which cannot be replaced by the most diligent collection of words, by the ardent diligence, of which von T work bears unmistakable examples. However, the opportunity for such study is not given to everyone; the intention of every aspiring endeavor remains, in any case, appreciable.

worth. – |

The book in question also contains, in the appendix, two types of Roth, which are explained by documents and deserve more attention.

yolism and recognition than they are in the literature of the Gauy languages were previously completely unknown;) the "Scene from tel, instead of means of killing (correct Peigerychurrich); Aytenen 'to deal with wares, stealing; Balboy, Beytohin (also from v. Grolmany ychische Buche abycrised) ýtt: Hauswirth; Baaltviye, Delinquent, ytt: Oefangen = Infpektor Baly twive); Fievel, Knabe, ytt: AuUeher, SchlieBer; u. ý. wu y. w. 6

In his foreword, v. Train refers to a note by Dr. Bischof, in whose "Kocheme Waldiwerei" a scoundrel had explained to him about the then existing word collections that there were many that were no longer fashionable. This did not prevent him from including the following in among many others:

Wunnenberg, Jungfrau; f

Weisshulm, simple people;

Bos you, be quiet!

Vermönen, betray;

ploughmen, church beggars;

Ribling, Wuyrfel;

Stir, play with dice;

Ruybolt, freedom;

Breger, beggar;

“Dutzbetterin, childbetterin yc. yc.

All words that have long since become extinct in the Yenish language and that no crook can days! If one wants to grant them a place in a newer collection of words, one must at least 115 that they are outdated and out of use, which v. Train did not than hat.

*) Both types of Rothwelych, which one cannot really call by this name, since it is not a buty

which is only a way of writing which is incomprehensible to the uninitiated, the first con expressing the letters by lines and dots, the other in confusing the letters and substitut for the five vowels and vice versa.

One sets namely: i N

za ytt m, and

m „az;

Machine Translated by Google

"Rauberleben," on the other hand, is not a particularly substantial addition, although the author must have put considerable effort into the translation into rogue language printed text. For none of them is capable of expressing every word in his social language, as is done here, for the simple reason that the language, as it actually is, is not sufficient for this, but can only be used in conjunction with German words. I am certain that if a Kochemer were to read the Yenish translation of "Scene from Rauberleben," he would hardly understand one out of ten words. a 7) Police protection and defense, or instruction on how to possibly protect yourself against robbery, theft and fraud, together with a dictionary of thieves' language, by Police Commissioner Chr. Rochlitz. Erfurt, with Ludwig Hilyenberg, 1839.

How, in the end, every single object of production, both in technical and intellectual and literary terms, is quite close to

Naturally, he should gain more and more perfection the more often he bey works and is thus subjected to manipulative thinking, it still seems to me as if the aforementioned writing, as far as it is concerned, as a word

terbuch der Gaunerysprache, can be considered here, no 1 1 15 pleasing testimony of such an improving proycry

delivered. |

The author has not said a word about which sources he used in his work, whether his own experience guided him, and where he had the opportunity to gather it. His position as an executive police officer alone cannot justify the assumption that, precisely because of this position, he was placed in the most hidden secrets of the rogue world, into their language. On the contrary, as I have already said, it is in the interest of the scoundrels to keep their social language to themselves as much as possible, and before an official can gather information about it from his own experience, extraordinary

However, anyone who does not have such personal experience, who cannot or does not want to devote the time to painstakingly researching the thieves' language in its foundation

who lacks the necessary guidance, should, in my opinion,

e ftatt 1, and
l ue:

iu f, and f
"415

Yun 0Z}
u „b, and

N9u;x

so that, for example, the words: er Vitz im Gefyngniyye, would have to be written as: Ir t Slimingnfool, which would have been read but not pronounced: en fann.

215

the edition of a thieves' dictionary; because a work that every page bears the stamp of authoritative ignorance, can be considered a Bey enrichment of literature is not well regarded, and the bet yoly

Machine Translated by Google

The purpose of public utility, which initially prevails in these elaborations, must be completely lost.

This is the perspective from which Rochlitz's work must be viewed. In my opinion, it hardly deserves to be placed alongside any of the swindler dictionaries published in the last 20 years, as it is so thoroughly inadequate and so full of inaccuracies.

It lacks all originality; not a single new word, not a single explanation, not the smallest phrase can be found in it that testifies to the author's own point of view, but everything is reprinted") from earlier works that one cannot even imaginey drawn!

That the author had almost no deeper knowledge of the thieves' language at all, or at least was in great error, must be convinced by just reading the words: To whistle, to serve (instead of: to confess).

Verylichnen, a place to steal from kundyschafy

ten (tt: betrayed).

Toflemone, the monastery, castle building (instead of: the Catholic faith).

Chesbenen, rain (instead of: count). ")

Fieyel, the son (instead of: the jailer) yc. Yc.

Indeed, the author, it seems, did not even know what the thieves themselves call their language, because he has used the available knew word: "Chochem loychen translated: Thieves' password!!

With the Jewish and the Jewish Kochemer flowing from ity

The author seems to have had little knowledge of language, which has resulted in an excessive amount of completely incorrect spellings; e.g.

a fat fox, a piece of gold (instead of: a chatiche fox).

Gofysche, free, loose (¥tt: chofysche).

Eritz de Buchim, KartoUeln (Vtatt: ErezyTapuchim).

Chaies lakeyschen, to kill someone (ýtt: chajes lekichy nen, take life).

Dathalim, a lock pick (instead of: Taltalim, Dietriche) ye. yc.

In addition to this inaccuracy, the words are also mostly

6 4) In the inclusion of provincialisms and words from the common vernacular, the author has set no limits. Thus, in his lexicon, one finds the words Polipee, the polic Bummeln, yich yway about carelessly; must, ytink 20. c. But no one can thank the author for such novelty

*) The very same error is found in Falkenberg and Train, and is therefore printed verbatim from there; a proof that the author, without the

Machine Translated by Google

To have language itself is based only on good faith.

216

fo. given that they appear completely incomprehensible to the uninformed and cannot be applied to him at all. If it is:

5 Abkrénten, away; Emmes,

yes; Fieverach,

away ye. yc., | would indeed

like to know how the layman should use these words to make himself understood to a scoundrel

Apart from that it is weeding (not crowning) and Wejiwrach (not Fieverach), the common meaning of these words is also quite different.

To weed does not mean (commanding) away; but rather: away go, pass through, escape.

The meaning is un thun. (The little word thun gives life and movement to the five-dead word Wejiwrach; without it, it is entirely understandable.)

Emmeyy beit en wahr or the truth, but not

The official who therefore wants to use these words in the Rochlitz manner—if he actually manages to do so—will, far from being able to understand a scoundrel, only make himself ridiculous instead of gaining his trust.

Words like Emmin, mein, Dribis, drei, yc. Yc. are also found, unjustly, listed as rogue expressions, and so one may, without the slightest injustice, ychuly the whole th to make it clear, as an unsatisfactory work, which completely misses its purpose, and through which the author has hardly earned any merit, neither for literature in general, nor for the criminal and police world in particular.

8) Handbook of the Gendarmerie and Lower Police Service etc. With an appendix on written official work and a vocabulary book of foreign expressions occurring in the service and

Sayings, as well as the ChochemeryLoychen or the Gauynery and thieves' language. By Friedrich Eduard Heckel, Royal Saxon

Notary in Leipzig. Weimar, 1841, near Bernyhardt Friedrich Voigt.

Even from the linguistic dictionary that this book provides, I can, as I sincerely confess to my regret, not find any better report than the previous ones. Compared to Rochlitz's dictionary, it is still a model of correctness and linguistic understanding, but nevertheless it does not meet the requirements expert is entitled to make for such a job. Here, too, one finds, for the most part,

Ben parts almost all the errors that can be found in the older words collections: certainly an unambiguous proof that the author is not so powerful in the language that he can recognize inaccuracies know and be able to avoid. The words:

217

Machine Translated by Google

Abdééchyeken (to bargain with someone), Ablokehchen (to take off), Abroych (thief), . Guild (thieves' regulations), Aiyschébel (burning fuse), Ang athénen (cutting) etc. Etc. confront the reader right at the beginning as old, horrific linguistic errors, transposed into four or five words: books. Even self-made, no less serious, transgressions are not to be missed.

gel. As an example for all the others, I will only use the single word any lead: "Amhorezig, unteachable." This expression exists neither in Jewish nor in the thieves' language; the author created it himself. – But if he were more familiar with the language idiom

tism, I am certain he would smile at the terrible misy

griU, which he has thereby caused to be guilty. Provinziay lisms and words like: aparte, abyelts ꝥc. yc. Yone will also not look in vain.

When I consider the derivatives, the antecedent and final syllables, especially the entire composition with the gypsy prefix "Baro" mentioned earlier on page 211, the words "Azoes, Bay bolde, Balboeés c.; Furthermore, the words "Sechore, Beeker, etc." It seems to me as if the author has done little other than copy from Falkenberg, Grolman, Bischoff, and

Train, and only interspersed a few independent modifications and inventions, for which, unfortunately, one can only thank him very little. To honor the truth, I must, however, state that the author at least did not copy thoughtlessly, as others have unfortunately done before him. It is certain that he endeavored to make improvements where he believed he saw errors; but that these supposed improvements often have been just as faulty, this is certainly no less certain. These include: VBauschet, the Pfennig (instead of Poschet); Beeyuch malochnen, aufmachen (instead of Peyyuch melochnen); Bande rich, Kattun (instead of Bonterich); Ballaze, Rathgeber, Richter (instead Balyeize); Behemeyschock, cattle market (instead of Behemeyyyyschuck); Bejachy tof, together, with each other (instead of Bejiychuf); Bekfohne or Bucky fuhne, devout (instead of Beykaune); Bekohret, anstdig, reverent (instead of Beykowed)

etc.

Finally, there is still a document to be mentioned which was written in

Published by Hennings & Hopf in Erfurt under the following title
nen

The practical criminal and police officer, or instruction for those officials who have the means to commit crimes

to cover, to want to appropriate yc., with an alphabetical yuby drawing of the Kochemery or 6 an by CV Schlemmer.

218

The offender is a former prison guard at several prisons

ycruitment authorities and has on this, however, suitably ten, viewpoints, his experiences. Although one might not exactly claim that, according to it is for inspectors and others, in a more spatial sphere of influence, can be written finely,

Machine Translated by Google

yt it certainly contains some practical teachings. As for the thieves' language, however, is the weakest part of the book, which | would rather leave undiscussed than

Author to claim a literary value for the same,

probably does not intend to do so. –

As | now turn to my own child, | must ask in advance for the indulgence of

connoisseurs and expertsy

| am far from the ridiculous arrogance that

| would be able to create a perfect and completely satisfactory work:

to deliver work; on the contrary, | can already hear in my mind how the criticism

also in my work sooner or later flaws and defects, muchy

| will easily find more than | wish. Should | let that frighten me? | think not! Our German every other language, has only gradually reached the point it is in now; nevertheless, it progressing in perfection, and future centuries will probably only be able to use highly c works like those of Adelung or Heinyius for source study.

This is, firstly, the consequence of the restlessly advancing time, which no work of human hands can escape.

The thieves' language, especially when this confusion of words is overy even deserves the name of a language, is still a sparsely cultivated, sterile field, on which little fruit has yet been produced, but a great deal of weeds has been brought to light. – Rector Dorph of Copenhageny Hagen reports of a Gypsy who had given him information about the Gypsy language, and for which he was subsequently murdered by his comrades! Of course, the more civilized scoundrels no longer impose such terrible punishments on the traitor, the traitor of their secrets; but it is all too true that they, too, still consider their language a secret and persecute anyone who reveals it to a white merchant or even a scoundrel. Therefore, a favorable combination of circumstances is still required.

to continue to advance on this difficult terrain, to

To correct errors in existing collections of words or to enrich them with new words that c those guild members has easy to lure and flatter once you have had the rare luck, and the possibility of making a conclusion is still very close. –

6 | am far from considering the following Yenish dictionary for the aly leinige reult of my own experience, rather | confess

Machine Translated by Google

219

| freely admit that | have taken all the works | have mentionedy and have only tried to avoid the errors contained therein, as far as it was in my power;

nevertheless, one will not forget one's own experience in my dictionary

miyyen, an experience which | owe primarily to two of the Jewish criminals who were arrested here, who gave me some important information about their language.

Already the Loyhaun ha kaudiysch yelyt, the German Jewsy or holy language, as the Jews call it, is known to be a colorfully jumbled jargon, a mixture of Hebrew, German and foreign expressions, and one can measure thaty to see how the Jewish gang language must first be examined. It has incorporated many terminologies from that language, which naturally cannot be missing in a lexicon of Jewish gang language, and which therefore cannot be ignored in the following.

will be misused.

My work includes, by the way, how | avoid misusey

veryunderyniyyen must explain, and as a closer look at the dictionary immediately reveals only the language of the Jewish Gauy

ner. and that of the Christian scoundrels, which is, moreover, nothing more than a faulty derivation of the former, caused by incorrect speech and spelling, is, unless urgent excep otherwise

offered, while remaining as unconsidered as possible, since a combinationy

throwing both languages, in my opinion, only contributes to thisy

can make it difficult for the uninformed to orientate themselves, if not uny

to make it possible, but on the other hand Jewish crooks are only the subject of this book

In addition, | also have the v. Grolman'schen and v. Train

ychian manner dar not imitate, nor especially the pary to list verbs of which the infinitives are already given, and thereby, for example, to fill several pages under the letter G alone; and all this is also the reason why my dictionary not grown so much in the number of words.

than those of those two authors, although | may assure you that | have perhaps treated the subject less superficially than others before me. However, | have not undertaken any expensive journeys, like Mr. von Train, to enrich my collection and my linguistic knowledge.

As far as the syntax and morphology of the Yenish language is concerned, there is essentially little to say about it. It contains only nouns, adjectives, verbs, individual pronouns, and numbers, the latter of which are also of Hebrew origin. Yenish cannot therefore exist as a separate language, not to mention that it is also far too poor in independent vocabulary. Kochemer Dibberei therefore limits itself to the episodic insertion of Yenish expressions into German sentences.

220

as can be clearly seen from the examples given on page 62.

The ending of the plural, where such a yuffiyciye is present, | have specifically indicated for each individual noun, certain general rules. My rules are just as unrelated to this as they are to the adjectivization.

Machine Translated by Google

The verb, on the other hand, is determined in the conjugation entirely according to German rules, and also takes the resulting endings.

In the present, perfect, pluperfect, and future tenses, just like the German verb, the syllable comes first. The imperfect, however, is not generally used.

e.g. acheln – eyyen.

Pres. | smile, you smile, he smiles, we smile, you smile, fie smile.

Perf. | smiled, you smiled Yc.

Plusqp. | had smiled, you had smiled yc.
Fut. | will smile, you will smile yc.

If the verb is a compound verb, it is separated during conjugation, like the German compound verbs. ZE poter kommen, frei werden.

“I come poter, you come poter, he comes poter etc. and in the future:

| will come poter, you throw poter come etc., which is why the use of the Yenish verb is not associated with any particular difficulties for German.

Again, nothing can be said with certainty about the sound of the word

gen; as in Jewish German, it is often the penultimate syllable that takes it after it, but not. It is therefore best to base the process entirely on the rules of German word tone. V significant deviations from this occur, | have marked the syllable to be stressed with a special .

Finally, in order to master Jewish slang, the Jewish idiom must also be taken into account, which consists primarily in the confusion of German vowels, and is therefore almost incomprehensible to anyone with little knowledge. For example, the Jew usually says o instead of 9, naa instead of no; aach instead of also; geit (gait), for goes; Braud, for bread; Suhn, (hon), for have; mir (mer), for we; fie, for him; grauB for big; en'n, ('ne), for one or a unclear] c. c.

tis also part of the Jewish idiom to pronounce the vowels a, o and u, when they are at the end or in the final syllable of words, as a rule, like e, but when they are in middle of the word, to almost completely swallow them, as is customary with the silent e in

French language; and this speech

You have to pay special attention to this if you want to make yourself understood by Jews and Jewish crooks. For example, you pronounce: Boyyor like Boyyer, Gewura like Gewure, Keyauniyy like Kyauniyy,

Pechide like Pchide etc. For the sake of convenience, | have taken this peculiarity into account in my lexicon as much as possible and written down the words as they are actually pronounced. Only in some cases could this not be done without completely distorting the words, and these will be easily recognized.

| must still draw attention to a difficulty that

Machine Translated by Google

the German tongue when pronouncing Jewish and Jewish Kochemery

Words 1 this is the pronunciation of the Jewish Cbeyy or Cheth, ie of Ch. The Idiotism of the Jewsy and Jewishy

The Kochem language, as in Hebrew, Kaldaic, and even Arabic, requires a harsh, special pronunciation of the letter Cb, which can only be practically realized. It is half a burb weaker than K and stronger than G, as if one wanted to pronounce Kch together in German. Without the correct accentuation of this letter, one will mostly remain unintelligible to a Jew. 65

Finally, | must note that although, in general, the language of the Jews is almost the same throughout the world, there is some variation among them regarding the pronunciation of certain vowels. This is especially the case with regard to the woof and aijin. While the Jews of the West, and perhaps also in some areas of southern Germany, pronounce the woof like an o and the aijin like an e, the Jews of the Continent, according to mentally those in Poland, Hungary and most of Germany land heimiyischen, the Woof as well, use uch instead of the Aijin mostly the Jud and yay y

eg.

Lau, Loychaun, Keifel, Heichel yc., while with those it is Lo, Loychon, Kefel,

Hechel

This divergence, which is rarely found even in Germany, since the Polish idiom is the predominant one here (and it is also in my dictionary), is, however, not so great that, with regard to the Jewish Kochem language, it could hinder understanding and thus impair the usefulness of my work.

dictionary

the Jewish crooks y language.

A. (v., &.)

AbbleUen, v. abyschrocken, zu.] From a person killed by a stab, or to recoil from a prey slash wound is called to have, especially through Androy es: He is worn out. hung a disadvantage. Is usually only used in the infinitive. AbgescheiUt, adv. worn out, old, He has Yeyen loosen abblefy infirm. fen, he has Yeyed himself away, eis Abgeeilen, v. abbetteln. Se: to give one a fright. to let oneself beg off.

To cut off, v. to cut off! To gain something through much torment; to cut off something from the market. To cut off the goods from the market, the goods from the cart. Common expression

Imprint, m. the imprint of the market thieves. He has the keyhole, which is taken, to determine the size of the key to be used in the market, or, especially for visiting the market. In the case of complicated locks, first/ Abkaypern, v. ablocken, by means of a special key, bauach smooth words or pretensey

Machine Translated by Google

to make. The crooks are trying to rip someone off.

serve to buy off an oblong piece of wax, Abkinjenen,

v. abkaufen, one side of which is in the mouth Ablekichn, v. abheben, aus: to make wet and then to remove against the shaking (a door jc.).

To press the keyhole. To bring to an end: to bring to a close, to press. (S. Defivyo.) To bring to an end, to unwind.

Abfehmern, v. abyschreiben, co: | Abmyschkeln, v. abwiegen, zuy piren. to weigh; fig. to bend, to throw everything on Abriss, v. abycheinen, also. Take the most exact. Slaughter someone, kill them. Myye all, To someone

223

weigh everything, calculate it precisely.

To cancel, v. to close, toy close, lock (a lock, a door yc.)

Abrachwenen, ». to ride out, to struggle, to torment; yich – to struggle, to anguish.

Abrichewen, v. absperren, ver: lock (the door ye.)

Abyhabbern, v. break off (with the chisel).

Abynorren, v. abbetteln. (From the actual begging for almsy

fen.)

Abftecher, m. Inytrument for opening padlocks.

It is a pointed iron pin and is located by means of Chary

nieres, on a fire steel consolidated.

Abtarchenen, v. abbetteln. (p.
(Scrounge.)

Abteilchen, v. abgehen, abstain from a theft, the

Take flight when you are is disturbed. From a mayy yematt compartments.

Abtippeln, v. S. Abteilechen, with which it is synonymous.

To tokenize, v. to hand over, to deliver,
to deliver, to hand over. To tokenize something, to hand something over.

Abzinken, v. recognize, abzeichneny

Machine Translated by Google

nen, marked by signs

We have been marked, we have been noticed, recognized, and described.

Under abgezinkt Ysein very yt the crooks when they approach or exit

gange to a theft, nay mentally near the thieffy yteel type itself, from a Bey knew, non-Cheyyen, geyey hen, or yoyt from Someone,

~.- Je N—y —

even a stranger, observe

been tested; or finally, if traces have been left behind that allow for their pursuit and detoxification can serve as cover.

Accobisch, f. the spider. Kaure – f. the cobweb. x

Oh, adv. only. N

Ach, m. the brother. PI. Achim.
(S. Ochi, which is commoner is.) g

Acharon, m. the last. PI. AY charonim, Fem. Ach arone.

oh one, one.

Achayy leachafy, One thing leads to another. It comes – –

one thing leads to another.

Achauyye, f. the sister. Pl.
Oh, come on.

Achausi, my sister (na ¥ mentally used as a form of address.)

A cher, conj. (actually Ach ar); nach, nachber, bernach. – m. another, another one.

Achel'n, v. eyyen. (From the best Braiychen hp (ochal) he has

geyyyen.)

Achile, f. (non) the food, eatables.
He is at the pa

He eats, sits at the table. Bi Sman achile, at the time of eating, the midday hour.

AchileyBajes, v. das Speiyey
baus, the restoration.

Machine Translated by Google

Achper, f. the mouse.

Achperyxoyisch, m. (Pronounced: Achy proysch,) the mouse head, Spitz bube.

N

Achraun, adv. (from which hey

Raeyic words INN Achor,) behind;
from – act, commit the theft from behind.

(The nightly break-ins werey

most of the time from behind, ie from the internal front of the building, or rom Hofe

224 from because, if this is pushed from the street to the

Thieves of the Danger of Discoveryy

kung, by guards or Vory

passing, too ymuch merely gegey ben yind.)

Ach yor, m. the merciless, unfeeling one;
also: the miser, the stingy one, pl.
Achyorim.

Twenty-eight, m. (A sweep of Koof [8]

and

evade; he will be run down, not far from the place where the theft was committed

yoll, and only in the morningy

dusk after the deed was committed, so that
the

Description of the vehicle of

Pages of the people who yelbe perceived,

yhence fails, and thus protects against discovery.

Chevy [20]) the house robbery, AgoleyS' sel, m. the Wa:

violent break-in with storm, with the residents of the house being kidnapped belt. (S. Koofcheyy and Chayyne.)

Ade, adv. forever.

Adeyad, forever and ever.

Machine Translated by Google

Adayschim, PI. Linsen.

AdayyyDewaurim, m.
swarm of bees.

Adome, (. the earth.
Ad on ai, m. God, also Lord.
Ad auni, my lord.

Aerntemakkener, (sing. and Flur. same.) Key thieves who steal in the villages when the inhabitants are on the work in the field, and as a result

the

the Masyymatten –, on carry out the theft.

Agler, m. the carter.

Agole, f. the wagon, work, plany or ladder wagon.

AgoleyMichye, f. the wagon: plau, as he Ye in particular

on the thieves' vehicles

det. This plan is being drawn up when the crooks went out to steal, to hide them from the eyes of well-known people

bench, seating bench.

Aijin, and the eye. Rathe –, evil eye, the envious person a ených. '

Aijin, fiebenzig (70.)

Airuge, f. the garden bed.

Aiva, t. love, – Noyhim,

Woman's Love, – Achim, Bruy
derliebe. a

Akore, k. the barren; a childless woman.
(Such a woman enjoys little respect

among the Jews.)

Al, prep. on, at, on, because of, about,
in, around. – ychem Ychomy

ajim, for heaven's sake; – Tnai, on condition; –

derech jehudim, according to Jewishy yhar type.

Alchen, vgehen, go away. Come

Machine Translated by Google

from Halchenen, and is usually only used in the vocative casey lich. Alch you! Go, get away! Make sure you get away!

Alichof, m. the saddle.

Alyjad, prep. through. – mucky
dom, at the first opportunity.

Allef, n. the Hebrew A. (&): the number one (1) Allef Chatiche, a piece.
AllefyBeiyy, n. the Jewish

ABC, also the multiplication table.
At – – start againy

gen, start over.

225

>

lon, m. the oak. lonim. f

>

mon, m. the widower.

>

mo ne, f. the widow.

>

mdneychaje, f. a widow whose husband

s still alive; marriagey abandoned.

Almonuyy, f die widowhood.

Aldfim, pl. thousands. Beiyy –, two thousand, gimme –, three thousand yc. N Ambéres, m. a fool, ignorant of the law, gemey

a man; the mob"). Oh, he's like an Amhoretz! (ge usual exclamation for a yoly chen people.)

Amma, f. the cubit. PI. Am | } | AnfcheUten or Anychewy

moyy.

Ammo, m. the middle finger.

Amtskier, m. the bailiff.

AmtskierSpicee, k the office: 9 |

a house.

Amtsyschauter, m. the official servant.

Amune, f. faith, re y

ligion. Tofel –, f. the old, kay tholic faith. Chaddeych

–, f. the new, Protestant

Machine Translated by Google

Believe.

To arrive, to arrive. He will arrive tomorrow.

To drill, v. to drill, e.g. a door, in order to drill the filling to cut out.

Anfetzen, v. anycheiden, den er-yten ytahlen
an freight wagon).

Ani, pron. |. Ani am brauy

Pl. Ei-

Make a cut (for thief

jes with him, | am eYe with ibm. |

Anklufften, v.

to put on, to dress.

To take on, v. to take up, to take on. (E.g., something.)

Anlinzen, v. anfeben.

Annollen, v. anychliicken (3. B. to the chain, to the clamp ye.)

Annöfhim, pl. men, people.

(General term for more than 2 or 3 people.)

Annéwe, f. humility, modesty. :
Anowen, pl. grapes.

To look at someone, to look at them, especially: angry, fierce.

nig anyeben. N wenen, v. anetzen, to put on (a ladder yc.).

Anysche, PI. (Abbrev. of Annsy ychim) Men, people.

Anyyarfenen, v. to burn, to ignite, to set fire to. N

A rauyyySyuyyim, m. the horse –
deytall. to

Arbe, plural: the haystacks, about: generally all similar types of vermin. 5

Arbo, number four (4).

Arboim, number forty (40).

Arjeh, m. the lion. .

Machine Translated by Google

Armeweyy, m. der Haaye.
Arowen, n. the pledge. (p.
Maychken, which is commonly cher ift.)

Aruche, I. the length. A gey

daule – to have, to be very long (big).

*) Pfiyter first claimed, and Falkenberg and v. Groly

It is said that Amhoretz also means a failed thief's attempt. It is doubtful whether this least | am not sure
170 that this word was used in such a sense by the crooks.

15

226

Aychkenayy, n. Deutchland. m. the —, German. (Many Jewish crooks bear this nickname,

especially those from German ych provinces into Polish or Austrian ones.)

Aychkuneyiych, adj. deutsch.

Aychkuneyiycher Echoder, m. German

Nachschliysel mit hohy
lem tube and a hook.

Aychmodai, m. the wicked, the Devil. N

Aychoyhith, f. the lantern (genuinely

Jewish

ju;9

Aychre, f. the well-being, the blessed y
ity, well-being.

Aychrecha, interj. well be with you!

Aychrechem, happy are you!

Ayyern, v. to forbid, to prohibit.

The Raaf hat's geayyert, the Rabbi has forbidden it.

As ke, f. the theft, the thief: ytahlsy
opportunity.

Askenen, v. ytehlen; from the Gole —, from the wagon, beyony

Machine Translated by Google

ders freight truck, Yteach.

Ayoyeil, the devil. Gei lay yoyeil, go to hell!

Ayusyyo, to your health! (when someone sneezes). The answer is:

Boruch tihge, du yolyst geyegy
net Vein!

Atallef, k. the bat, also the swallow.

Atto, pron. du.

Au, conj. or.

Even so, indeed, certainly.

Aucher fein, yich, v. fi betriy
ben, bewärt. Er is Vich ausy cher, he is sad, troubled.

Auches yein, v. To take possession of something; to seize, to retain.

He has (is) also been yen, he has seized yhimself.

Audem, f. the redness, the red:

am. -, adv. roth; also vou der Facial color: fresh, cheerful.

Au dok Vein, v. devoted, befliyy yen ysein. Audok Amune fein, pious, devoted to religion.

Aufan, n. the wheel, wagon wheel, also the messenger's wheel.

PI. Aufanim.

To open, v. to cut open, to obtain an opening
by cutting

ten. For example, at the car play to the freight truck.

to look up, v. to look up, to look upy
listen.

To open, v. to open, to oyen. E.g. a door (without a spare key).

Aufner, m. the baker, - in, f. the baker's wife.

To unlock, v. to unlock, with the lock pick. The Deleyy -,

Machine Translated by Google

lock the door.

To open, to break open, to open by force; to make an opening by force, in order to

to be able to.

Aufytoss, m. the obstacle, the adverse incident that prevents a thiefy
steel makes failure; the disruption, surprise,
also confusion

liability. – get, get robbed in a theft,

get

hunts, be prevented.

to open, v. to seek out, to seek outy

the, spy. The looky

rim hon opened him, the police officers have taken him outy scouts (e.g. if One secretly in a place

stays).
Auftullemen, v. to hang up.

To tink, v. to count (of blows). – to the Toy
cheyy, to give a slap on the bottom.

Au hef, m. the lover, friend.
PI. Ahuwim.

AuhefyJisroel, m. of the Jewsy friend.

Auhefyycholem, the Friedliey

bende, peace-loving.
A uhel, n. the tent. .

Aulem, and the people, the crowd; also:
the world. – hate, these World, – habbo, the futurey

ous world.

Aules, n. the jug, the pitcher, the measure, the bowl, and also dishes in general.

Aum ek, f. the depth. –, adv. deep
Be awake, be up, be out of bed;

also: stay standing, stop. Be awake, stop!
Stand still!

Au ne, t. the time, certain time.
PI. Au noyy.

Auneg, m. pleasure, joy, taste; –

Machine Translated by Google

yschabbeuU, the joy of Saby baths.

Aunes, adv. forced, forcedy

gen; the Emmey dis aunes, the confession is forced, is ineffective. –, subst. (PI.

AnuUim) the, the, the Gey

forced. Aunes poter rachy

MoniU, whoever swears falsely out of compulsion or necessity is not punishable.
(Jewish proverb.)

Aurech, m. der Gayt. PI. Ory
chim. Es Yen Orchim bey

kaan, there are guests here.

Aurech, adj. lang. – er, lan: ger. Ani hob lau aurecher Schate, | no longer have time. N

Aurech, adv. tired, weary, he: scoops.

Auref, m. the neck.

Auref, m. the raven, the crow.
PI. Orwim.

227

Auref, w. (S. Oreph) about guarantor. – to be, to be a guarantor, to vouch for oneself. N

Au revy, pl. skins, leather in general.

Ausaggeln, v. ausfahren, bey pecially on theft.

To scout, v. to spy, to reconnoiter, to identify opportunities for stealing.

A Usblinden, v. to inspect, to rekognoyciren;
to inspect the premises to be robbed externally

and view from a distance (as opposed to boiling).

This happens especially during nighttime burglaries. (p.

Make blind people.)

Auscher, m. der Reiche; –, adv. rich, – yein, rich Yein, –
become, become rich.

Auscheychbenen, ». ausrechy
nen.

Ausdafnen, v. auspraten. Let me

exdafnen, let me

Machine Translated by Google

to pray (to the end).

Outside, n. the ear. PI. Osy

naiim. |

Ausfehmern, v. ausychriften, to complete,
(3. E. a letter).

Negotiate, especially in the case of violent theft, all that Take the best with you. That's why the crooks say: the Mayyematy

ten is not negotiated, ie it has not been precisely (namely) agreed upon due to lack of time or disruption.

ly for money) or not everything was taken that can.

Ausjoychnen, ». ausschlafen.
Auskinjenen, v. auskaufen.

Ausknicken, v. pull out, enty to dress. To undress someone, to undress someone; also yigtrlich: to give him his own

228

bring; also in the case of robber attacks, force him to bring back the clothes he is wearing on his body.

admit.

Boil, v. to foresee, to ensure, to assure,

in relation to a theft. The measure

yematten is boiled, the Opportunity for theft has been identified.

Will the crooks be given such

Opportunity has been proven, di baldowert,
and the location is particularly ytrained

or not sufficiently known, then, before proceeding with the theft,

ner from the thieves' society (Chawruse) sent to inspect the premises to be stolen (from the inside), and how the theft is easiest and most advantageous

to carry out the tests, to examine them more closely, that is: to remove the masyematten
from cook.

Machine Translated by Google

Ausmakkeinen, v. aushauen,

to beat, to chastise.

Ausmaschkenen, v. confiscate

the

To hand over, v. to deliver, e.g. to hand over an object to the owner, to the authority; to hand over an arrest to another

Authority Yc.

Ausmelochnen, v. to make out, to wipe out, to destroy (JB ei: nen Fleck, einen Notiz im Pyye yc.).

Ausmeyschleichen, v. ausliey away, to a foreign authority or a foreign state.

Ausnayynen. v. spend.

Ausnayyner, m. Issuer, Very walter, paymaster, – in, f.

Publisher, businesswoman.

to scrape out. v. to break out,

to peel off, to crumble. The Away nim aus de Chaume yschaby

bern, loosen the stones from the wall to create a hole.

Often happens during nighttime burglaries.
Ausyschayyjenen, v. austrinken.
Ausschlaufen, v. ausfchlafen.

Are you exhausted? did you sleep in?

A uyyenblinde, f. der Wynyter.

loading from outside.

Ausyyenen, v. thun, machen; in connection with a certain purpose. Be Bayye

—, bring us life, kill us.
Ausyene lap! don't do it, leave it alone.

Au steilechen, v. gehen, bes Ypez auf diebyhl.

Austippel, m. der Veryammy

Machine Translated by Google

location of the crooks, from which they were on thefts, especially nightly break-ins, fromy go. Such a place is either an inn or a private apartment, and the Bey figer find kochemer people from whom the crooks have no idea

rath have to fear.

Austippen, v. from the place of arrival
to you

yteel out.

Auszchokken, v. ausyspielen, also: to laugh at.
Syschaue aus:

zchokken, to gamble away goods.
(Does so by means of dice.)

Aut, f. the skin. a Auwed, m. ve Verlorne, Ber. delgte;

one who has received or is to receive harsh punishment

bat. – adv. lost, destroyed.
He is gone – he is gone forever
Loren.

Auzor, m. the treasure.

Aw, m. the father –, adr. thick.

229

A waude, k. the service, the
servitude. |

A waude thun, dienen, Dienste bleiyten, z.

B. Niemand. To serve someone.
A weide, k. the loss, the loss
lorne. | have a – gey

makes, | have a loss

[thereby) had.

A while, k. the sadness, the suffering.
To have, to be sad (about something).
Aweire, f. the transgression, the offense,
the sin.

Awer, m. the air, especially the vegetative air; pestilence, severity: noth.
Curse: Have the A wer, get the pestilence!

Awonim, PI. Steine. (Sing.

Machine Translated by Google

Even.)

AwonimstauwoU, PI. Ebel: Ytones, jewels.

Awore, f. the crossing, ferry.
Awye, k. the goose. Bar the -,
duck.

Avtichim, Pl. Melons.
Awuke, I. the torch.

Ba, prep. (also Be) in, on, at, on, the, Ba jom, on the day, Be ychono, in the year Ye.

Bachert, m. der Keyyel, bey. Kafy feekeyyel.

Bajes, and the house, building.
PI. Battim.

Bajesyaulem, and the house of the world, the churchyard, God'sy field.

Bajesysauneyy, PI. House-poor, people who are accused of certain uny terytiitzungen, which are distributed from house to house.

Bajes din, v. the courthouse, court, the place of jurisdiction.

Bajes ha kiyje, n. the chairy

house, secret chamber, the aby occurs. .

Bajeswinde, k. the front door.

Bajes wo mer peiger Schurch mebelt,
the pharmacy. The actual translation:
house where you can get poisonous substances (crow's eyes, ¥c.).

Bal, m. (actually Baal) the man, the lord, who owns something; the expert,

artisty
ler and craftsman, however, the thing he bey

eats, or the trade he pursues, may be added.

Balsagole, m. the carter; cheyyer -, m.
the confidant

Wagoner who knows the crooks
yently targets thefts, at the Wiazzef

(Veryammy

Machine Translated by Google

lation place) stays with the wagon and awaits their return with the stolen goods.

Balyaske, m. the leader at the Theft. (See Balmayyey mats.)

Balbais, m. the landlord, owner, tenant of an apartmenty tion, also: the Kruger.

BalbaiUte, f. the housewife, landlady.

Balyberiyy, m. the one who performs the circumcision of a son. (Among Christians, the child's father.)

Balboyy, m. the landlord, owner of a house or piece of land (as distinct from Balbais).

Balyschoch em, m. a particularly clever, mischievous person; the official initiated into the secrets of thieves.

Balyschof, m. the indebted man; the debtor; a gody

230 ler Balchof, a great debtor:

155 Someone who has a lot of debt

at.

Balycholm, m. the dreamer, a dreamy,

profound man.

Balydabran, m. the speaker,

suadroneur; someone who has his mouth in the right place.

Baldower, m. the scout, the opportunity maker; who investigates the opportunity to steal and identifies it to the crooks.

This is usually an external blameless, in the place of the thieffy ytahls yelf resident or hauy yiren-walking Jew. He himself, in this case, never steals

with, but receives from the fully led to thefts of his (gey

usually half a share.

Machine Translated by Google

Only if the specificity of the

The location of the premises to be robbed
was completely unknown to the thieves,
and there was no opportunity for orientation
If there is no provision, the Baldower of the Thieves' Society (Cha wruyye) must act as leader of the

nen. N

Baldowern, v. nachweisen, any inform the thieves of the discovered theft
opportunity.

Balŷeize, m. the councillor, city councillor.

Balhei, m. the one who has been robbed;
the guard, the watchman, in general a watchdog or pursuer; someone who is to be feared.

Balhoche, m. ŷ. Balhei.
Baly-ische, m. the husband.
Ballabber, m. y. Baldower.

Balmach, m. the soldier, the sentry.

Balymachlaukauyy, m. a quarrelsome person, a brawler.

Balymachneyyaurech, m. the hospitable one.

BalmachsyZwakling, m. der militairische Federbuych.

Balmayyematten"), m. the master
or leader of theft;

the leader of the thieves' groupy

yhaft during the nightly iny

outbreaks. He organizes the outbreaksy leadership, sets up the guards (grease),

and overy

takes even the most difficult task

yhaft, the breaking up and enteringy

Usually he gets twice as much share (Cbeilek)
as the others and usually also embezzles

a part of the stolen goods. Only the most tempted and skillful thieves become Baly mayyematten chosen.

Balmaure, m. a fearful, anxious, timid person.

Balmechome, m. the soldier, the sentry.
Blue —,

Prussian soldiers.

Balmeloche, m. the craftsman, profeyyioniyt.

Balmelocheypen, m. of the handy

journeyman, craftsman,

Machine Translated by Google

bef. reyender.

Balymerachem, m. a merciful, compassionate one.

Balyyschauchad, m. ein beytoy
chener Mann, Someone who Gey yagreement takes. The showy fet is Bal ychauchad, the judge is a bribed man.

Balyychem, m. der Geiststerbey swearer, magician.

*) From the Jewish word Baal-mayya- umatta n (run) yon 9

who understands the plot well.

23

Balyikoren, m. Someone who has a good memory.

Balsfpiefe, m. the innkeeper or innkeeper. Cheyyer
-, the thief innkeeper, owner of a

a thieves' den.

BalsUeihel, m. ein verytany

clever, intelligent person.

Bal«¥tachliyy, m. a hard-working, active person who is concerned about his ý best and gets something done.

Balytfiye (or Twiye), m. of the breeding or stock master, Obery prison overseer, Obery

inypector.

Balver yychmai, the inytruiring judge,

Inquirent.

Balyzdoke, m. der Wohlthay
tige who likes to give alms.

Balyzewa, m. the dyer.

Bar, m. the son. (However, as a common designation, wey less common than Ben.)

Baryawye, f. the duck.

Barjeh, m. a well-formed, handsome man.

Bar Yisroel, m. son Ifray

els, the Jew. f

Barlen*), v. to speak, to talk, to chat,
to babble; to cook m –,

Machine Translated by Google

speak thieves' language.

Bar mino n, except us, away from us.
Common saying when the Jew does something bad

calls. You should take a miyya meychunne, bar miy

non, you shall come to an unnatural end, except for us.

Baryminon, m. a dead man, a deceased person.

Barymitzwo, m. a 13-year-oldy

ger boy. If the Jew

When he is 13 years and 1 day

old, he is blessed, and from then on he is considered independent in religious matters, and also responsible for the conduct of the

Commandments themselves are responsible wherey

against until then his father therey had to be held liable for.

BarYel, n. the iron. —, f.the Chain, clamp, shackle; the locking tool. He shies away

. on the baryel, he is on the chain.

Baryeler, m. der Schlosser.
Baryelylych, m. the blacksmith.

Barfelsfeilef, m. der Ketten: hund.

Baryelmelochener, m. der Eiy yenarbeiter, Schloyyer. Boss: fer —, trusted locksmith who picks locks

for the rogue.

BarVeilim, (FI. of Baryel) the iron grilles, window railings;
the iron rod which usually in front of Comtoiry and Kayy

yenthiren lies and by means of Vory
The lock is attached to a crampon in the wall.

BarYeilim tugging, Eisengity
ter, window trails yc. losbrey chen, which is done by means of a Hebey

tree and new ropes gey happens.

a elf sharp, f. the irony
hurry. 1

Machine Translated by Google

Bayy, the daughter, PI. Benoyy.
Batchmer blood, same blood, of the same blood. Used as a proverb,

it means something like: one crow doesn't peck out another's eyes, ie, one scoundrel doesn't betray another.

*) This word seems to come from the French word parler; it is not very common among the Je either.

232

Build fine, come. I'm going. This is a bechiny

bau, I'm coming, you're bau, nim tarche, that's a hassley

you come into administration, but nothing comes out of it Bauchen fein, v. Prifen, pro: comes.

ben, try it. Bechira, f the choice. Bal =,

Baudek fein, v. unteryechen, m. a free man who yey examine, examine. It is m'r nen kostenlos angebracht.

Schu we geytchen, def der [Bedalles werden, arm wer Schaufet law baudek is, den, come down, come backy
| have been told that the men. – melochnen, arm mas

Judge is not strict. chen, Someone out of his yey Baudek in menuche fine, like, to bring everything.

examine calmly, consider carefully, regret, and the post, the post house.

to consider, to consider. Bedike, f. the test, examination, Bauker, adv. early. It is an investigation. nor bauker
ba yom, es il | Bedill, n. the tin.

still early in the day. Bedillmelochn er, v. der Zinn:

Bau re, |. the creation, the Ge: gieBer. ychaUene, deserved, stolen. Bedill Syschaure, f. tin Baure pri, f. (literally: the goods.

Fruit of Creation) the place where the stolen goods were hidden lies; also the hidden gey Stolen goods themselves. Newer term for chawure.

Be, prep. at, after, in, in which.

Bebayye gehen, ytire, go towards death, be condemned to death.

Machine Translated by Google

Bebayye ausyyenen, töten,

kill, murder.

Be chajeyy, by life and limb.
Be chajeyyyroysch, yowahr ich leben! i

Bech aure, f. the firstborn. (It must be a male and the first child born to the woman.) S. Pidjeniyben.

Be ychin nim, umyonyt, ohne Bey reward. – – outside, ety

to do something without having any of it, without enjoying any benefit from it.

Be chinnim tarche, f. causing wasted effort that is not paid for, not rewarded

Be din, by law.

Begannewen, v. beytehlen.
Begaseln, v. berauben.

Beged, and the cloth, dress, stuff.
PI. Begodim. – kaudeych,

holy garments, – kol, everyday kleider, – yschabbeyy wiom tof,

holiday dresses.

Beged lowen, n. a white linen cloth.

Beged pischtim, n. linen, a linen cloth.

Beged zemer, u. woolen stuff, a woolen cloth.

Bury, v. To bury someone in the Uny to ruin luck, to bring punishment

gen, especially through prejudicial statements against an arrested person

ten crooks in court, through skillful inquisition c. Therefore, a capable inquiry rent from the crooks a Bey called graves.

Treat, v. steal.

Behemo, f. the cattle. PI. Be: hemovy.

—2-Uñ 2 -U}-BxBY33BA3;¥s.sA- ng nn ng, tn

Machine Translated by Google

BehemoyyySchuck, m. der Vieh-] Belatchenen, ». beyteblen, vor: markt. zugleich durch Nachschluyyel.

Behole, f. the shock. Eune |. BemarreuU, pl. the evidence, An-

- to overbuild, to give a scare sign that was given during the investigation, to be intimidated, to stand against the guilty party.

BeilaUt, m. the wedding. Ben, m. the son. Moshe-Beiiy, the Hebrew B. -, num Awrohom, Moyes, son of two (2). Abraham c. (Thus the BeiU gedaulim chatiche, n. Jews are called in the school

the two-penny piece. yen.) My biter, m. the -, myson.

pincers. | Benchen, n. the little son, Beitze, . the egg. Buryshchen, the little Jewy

Beitze, k. This is the name given to violent theft, when a child is thrown near the room of death; someone who is in great danger, especially danger to life,

a- act, a yoly threatens.

commit theft. Ben jochid, m. the only son.

Bekaan, adv. here. Mir fen Benychen, v. pray, bless. lýt

-, we find here. common when the blessing, bekabbern, v.

begraben, ver ý of children is spoken of, e.g.

dig. The Tate wants to beyhen you,

Becaspern, v. discuss, bey

to swindle, to deceive someone, especially into a disadvantageous transaction; to take advantage of someone, to deceive them to cheat.

Bekauech, adv. violent, violent violent manner. (S. Per-kooch.)

Bekauechymayyematten, m.

who is treated with violencey

The Father will bless you; or from the prayer of thanksgiving after dinner: Listen to Rabauyyai, we are praying,

listen, gentlemen, we want to pray.

In addition, the Anvery used a sick Indian, if the illness is dangerous, to bless him and to give him

the name of one of the arch y

the recovery of people, which he then retains for his entire life, burglary and theft; which, in the event of recovery, also for his house robbery.

Bekneiyyen, v. erfahren, wiyyen, he is then also told:

Machine Translated by Google

recognize, comprehend, know; e.g. he is given.

What does the man say? Answer: Bepeiruych, adv. expressly, | beg your pardon, | beg your pardon, clearly, distinctly. He

| don't like him. hots – miswadde gewey

Bekneiyt, adv. bekaunt. It is confessed, he has expressly admitted it. bekneiyt, it is bekaunt. geytten.

Bekneiyter, m. a Vekaunter, Bereimen, ». to pay, e.g.

confidant. a bill Yc. c. genes

Bekdéysche, f. the request, the Bey Cheyhbon, to rhyme, to request, to demand. To pay the bill.

234

Berojenen, v. beyehen, betrachy ten. 5

Beyemen, v. vergiften, e.g. Sausage ýïc., to kill the dogs. (See Veryyammen.)

Beychulmen, v. bezahlen (Jey manden).

Beschundlen, v. "beysh", ver.

impure. Fig.: cheat, defraudy lead. ea

Beychuppen, v. cheat, rip-off.

Beychwaychen, v. betranken, bey drink.

BeYeiwelen, v. beih*; fig. : to lead, to deceive.

Beyyen, k. (the yy becomes soft pronounced) the meeting, Raby Bineryession, in which the disputey
ities of the community are presented and decided.

Beyyula, k. the maiden, also the Jewish girl in general.

Beyyulim, f. virginity.

Beyyure, k. the (joyful) message.

He brought me – ge:

bracht, he has brought me good newsy

brought to the right.

Bestowed, v. infested, overy

Machine Translated by Google

Curse: The pill
yull dich beyttiben, du yollyt die Schwerenoth bekommen.

Beytinen, v. beYaufen; yich bey ytinen.

Beyunder ein, the period, the monthly cleaning.
(During these, Jews are forbidden from having sexual relations with women.)

Betel, adv. vain, useless, empty, pl.
Betelim. Demo: rim betelim, empty, useless words.

Bebribe, n. trust, confidence. | raised my

– uf you, | have my promisy
trust in you.

Betuch, ad. (actually bet u ach) (mus), fiber, reliable; –
To be safe, to be secure from something,

e.g., from persecution; to be comfortable,
to be in prosperity. One also says of a person one can rely on (so that he won't reveal anything, for example): he is wealthy.

Betuch, adv. cautious, quiet, gey home. – cuddle, be careful tig, speak quietly.

Bawadai, certainly, indeed.

To zinc, v. to describe, to mark, to signal;

to be zined, to be marked, with plugy
letters can be followed.

Bibern, v. leven, also pray.

He said it, he said

read it.

Bicken, v. eyyen.

Bickcheider, m. the foody

pantry.

Bickgordel, m. the cooking kettle.

Bilbul, m. the confusion, the quarrel, quarrel; a serious problem

criminal trial. Pl. Bily

Machine Translated by Google

bulimia.

Bilbulimylych, m. der Zany ker, Krekeler.

Biller, m. the dog. The –

to poison the dog,

so that his barking does not scare the thieves betray.

Bimat, adv. very little.

Bimbam, m. the house bell, the bell,
which is often on or above the front doory

finds. The – overruny

ychen, hold back the bell with the hand or a stick, so that the opening of the housey

thir yie does not sound.

Bimbero, adv. soon. He's building bimhéro, he's coming soon.

To ring, v. to beg for almsy

235

to approach; to go begging from house to house and from place to place.

Binnen, adv. inside, inwardly, inwardly.
N Binnenblinde,

f. der WyVanytery
loading from the inside.

Birychuyy, with permission, –

che m, with your permission.
Biyyychajim, m. the (Jewsy)
Churchyard, actually Bajes ha chajim,
the House of Lifey

digen.
Leaf sense, k. the wallet.

Browse, v. drive; away –, v. hastily

from the place of the thieffy
ytahls away and onto another

Drive on the road so that at some pointy ger pursuit (chasing) the thieves are sure not to be caught so easily.

BleUer, m. the horror, the Threat whereby someone should be frightened.

BleUen, v. Ychrecken, a fright

Machine Translated by Google

to scare, to make someone afraid
in order to make them do something like. a

Eye-swipers, professional beggars who send their children, almost naked, to the villages to beg for clothes.

Blill, m. the feed, sub: feed.

Blimber, w. the tinder.

Blind, k. the window shutter. PI.
Blind.

To make blind, to cognoycirate (a)

res, to locate the location of the (nightly)
thief to be committed

yteal inspect the outside to find out how the guard takes his walk, where he,

according to which he made the rounds, yey

has a stand so that he can choose

during the execution of the thief ytehl's native can be observed. It is also the place of the action to be performed

Theft knocked or yoyt

Made a noise to check

fen, like those in the neighborhood

Sleeping people behave, whether in particular a dog in the

proximity, and how to do thaty

come to poison him before he attacks. If this reconnaissance turns out to be favorable and the theft is then

ly committed, this means: first a blind woman and then a

To disgrace.

Béchor, m. the firstborn.

Boychur, m. the student,
schoolmaster; one who has learned something.

The criminal or police officer will also be a Bochor

called, who delves into the secrets

of the criminal activity deeper penetrated, and especially understands the thieves' language.

Boker, m. a cow, Ben a young —,

cow.

Bockymokum, the city of SchaUy
house.

Machine Translated by Google

Bohnherr, m, the one who, especially at nighty
breaks, breaks the path, ie, who is responsible for opening; the leader in theft and

during robbery; the head of a Bande. (S. Balmayyey mats.)

Bonterich, m. Kattun, Zitz.

Bor, m. the cellar, the vault, in general any low-lying room.

Bor, m. an empty, ignorant man. You are a ychorr ha bor, you are dumber

than an ox.

Bores-Medine, |. the sweat

236 zerland (from Bor (42) below).

Maybe it should also PorouS

Medina (the land of cows)

mean; from Pore, the cow.

Borod, m. the hail.

Borok, m. the lightning. PI. Broy
Kim.

Bodéruch haychem, (Jewish greeting)
praise be to God!

Boyyer, and the flesh.

Boyyerychai, n. raw meat.
Boyyeryjoweyesch, and dry or smoked
meat, –

mewuychel, n. boiled meat, – zli,

n. fried meat. 3

Boyyerylych, m. der Polizeiy

or bailiff who hasy

yhir, police vigilant; generally someone who has to do with the pursuit and capture of criminals.

Bézel, f. the bulb, onion, also: garlic.
PI. Bey

zoylim. EN

Open letter, m. the written

Threat to betray someoney

then, if he does not do or give this or that (especially money). N BrandfeUel,
m. the threat

itself, whereby someone to ey

what should be capable of; to be: to create, to create such

Machine Translated by Google

Use threat to Jey

to enable someone to do something; to offer someone an alternative, the choice between two

beln lassen. (S. burn.)

Brandy money, n. fo

means the compensation of those crooks who have taken money from a thieffy ytee! did not take part, but have knowledge of it; an old custom among the Jewish thieves. Preservation of they same confidant nothing, yo droy

they are betrayed, that is, they are burning.

Braujes, adv. béye, – fine, béfe,
angry fine, about Jemany

the, about something, or with Jey
manden.

Broadfoot, m. the goose or.
Duck. 6

Burn, v. to extort something (especially money) from someone through threats, especially through the threat of committing acrimey

In this way, not only does one crook burn another, but above all the buyer of the stolen goods (the sharp-picker) is thereby enabled to give large sums of money afterwards, so that

with which any thief caught would not betray him.

Brenner, m. Someone who did not take part in the theft

men, but knows thaty

her brandy money hey

holds, but wants to extort more through threats.

Broche, f. the blessing, excellenty
ly in business, the good living; also the earnings.

There is no profit to be made from Scheigitz, and there is nothing to be earned from Christ.

Like a beey
or Brunger, m. the drill, a thieves'

instrument for opening doors and window shutters.

Machine Translated by Google

Brungern, v. bohren.
Breast malbish, m. the vest.
Bumyer, m. the shepherd.

Bumyerskitt, v. das Hirten: haus.

Buyche, f. the shame, shamey haftigkeit; – haben; Yich fiha ý Chagoim, PI.

men. He asked Buyche, he is ashamed.

Buyche, f. the female shame.

Butter, f. the post, the guard, the sentry, who guards against break-ins and snatches

yelstebytelen is placed in front of the door of the broken-in premises, or elsewhere, so that the thieves inside are safe from being surprised. (p.

Grease.)

Butterytehen, v. Wache haly

ten, pay attention.

C. (below)

Chabole, f. ruin, injury, misfortune; fig. fall.

Chabolen, v. to overthrow, to ruin, to wound.

Chaddish, adj. new. – Rat, m. a new thaler. – Yom, m. the new day, the morningsy

redden.

ChaddishyAmu ne, (Nemone) f. the evangelical faith.

Chaddishy nemonish, adj.

evangelical.

Chadyches, news, something new; what's Cha dyches, what's new?

HN News. ©.

Chid duyeh.

Ch aywre, 1 the Dieesnefelfacft, the thieves' club. (S. Cha:

Machine Translated by Google

wruyye).

Chagiere, f. the track, trace, dus Gleiyeh
(also fig.).

Chagoes, PI. the Christian holidays, especially Christmasy
ten and New Year.

the Felt» and

Holidays. Sing. Chag.

Chaguhre, f. the cash box, overy Mainly the one around the bodyy

dene, the belt. – shred, cut off money bags. E

Chaiwa, f. the woman, womeny

peryon, the woman.

Chaija, f. animal; general term for any living animal. Pl. Chaijoyy.

Chajeyy (8), n. life. It will cost Chajes, it will go out of life, it will be dead

the punishment will be imposed. – lekichy
nen, take life toy

bring; be – roychi (oath), as true as I live!
\

Chajoyyschupper, m. the wild thief (pl. same).

Chayim, iut. Cheers! to health

ness! (while drinking). The Anty word is: Lechajim tauwim we ycholem, to good health and peace.

Chajim, adv. lively. –, subst.

PI. the living, the many
ychen.

ChajimsReireU, and the lantern,
hand lantern, lamp (a clearly living light).

Chalaf 5 sickness. Curse: War's Chalayy, get sick!

Chalaumeyy, PI. Dreams, Trau
mereien, imaginations, bad calculations, trivial

things.

Chalfen, m. der Wechsler, PI.
Chalfonim. Thieves who

Machine Translated by Google

make a business out of it,

Confusing money with standing Under the pretext of getting a certain piece of money

yearch, they reach into the money presented to them and yty len, often by making significant 228

Sums, through skillful Thay

activity of the thumb into the hollow Hand and then from there into practice the trouser pocket.

Chalice, k. the dispensation, the Ery permission to remarry; – give this permission

Ifa

If a married Jew dies, according to Talmudic law, the eldest brother the right to

to marry a widow herself, that with the remaining assetsy

don't let them fall into the wrong hands rathe. Is no unmarried

Brother is no longer available, or does he want to leave his rights, the widow must still

him – usually through sacrificesy part of their assets

gens – to address in order to reach a possible remarriage advice the permission (Chay lize). Without they

yelbe will not be a Jewish widow

to steal, often in inns' houses, or otherwise, to quarter

and then, after the theft has been committed, to leave during the night. (See going bankrupt.) If the theft can be committed without being noticed, the scoundrel stays until morning and then leaves without the victim giving any has no idea of his loss.

This bites a challenge hany

dein. N Challe ytschlag (one), of the stolen goods undery

ytribe; the thief's bootyy

ytehs lower than it really is, and thereby

the Any

reduce parts of the comrades,

Machine Translated by Google

by beying yurself with it enriches. This maneuver, wherey
by one thief to another

ytealing is very popular among crooks and is usually done by the leader (Baly mayyematten) yelyh.

married by a rabbi.
Salle pate n. the window.

Challeybakken, v. Someone in sleep or at all steal some of his money – not all of it. This maneuver

only happens with duplicate keysy

or others, not with Backy

Challeychuyy, f. powerlessness, weakness. It's about –

on, | want to faint who:

the.

Challuf, n. the knife, slaughtery
termeyyer.

Cham, adv. warm, hot.

Chammine, f. heat, warmth,

omission of external characteristics tied thefts, whose yoy

continued discovery thereby should be prevented. A

Challe gebakken haben, ei
have carried out such a theft.

gedaule –, great heat.

fool, simpleton; gody

ler –, arch-idiot. PI. Chay maurim.

Chanfen, m. the hypocrite, Hiny

terlistige.

Chanfenen, v. hypocritical, to pretend, (to pretend).

Chanine, f. grace, peopley
ness, condescension; – wary

be pardoned.

Challe act, (a) 1) of what one

beforey

Machine Translated by Google

yindet, only steal so much that the person

being stolen from does not notice;

. m. the donkey; fig.:

2) the crooks tend to 239

Chanufa, f hypocrisy; –

to act hypocritically, to act hypocritically
smile.

Channucca, f. the Christmas festival, the e Chanun, m. the Gracious, peopley
blessed.

Charote, f. repentance. |

Charpenen, yich, ». Yich yschay
men. Oi how he yharpent himself! o, how he Yharpent himself

ashamed.

Char po, f. shame, disgrace, disgrace. Charpe un Buy
yche, shame and disgrace.

Chayhad, m. suspicion. – to have, to suspect (someone).

Chaychech, f. the finfternif, night darkness, to the uny differences from the evening

Darkness, which is called Tchilles.

The golden –, the golden darkness, that is, the nights in November and December

December, where the moon does not shine, and which because of their Length, which is usually mry

yurious Ytorny weather, and because even then

no snow, for executiony Prevention of nighttime break-ins

chen are excellently suited.
This time will also be the

Called Kohlschaft. (S. Kohly yhaft.)

Chayen (an), m. der Sany

159 cantors in the Synay

Ehau fine, yhelen. Chayy

We'll save you, save you! give me peacey

Machine Translated by Google

den! A saying that means: far from it!
forbid!

Chayyer, n. the pig; un |.

-nn

actually a dirty, uny
clean person.

ChallersboUer, n. the pork.

" with ham,

peck

Chayyerymokum, n. the town of Schweinfurth.

Chayyer medine, f. the Kingdom of Bavaria.

Chayyida, m. the stork.

Chayyime, f. the seal, the sealing; a
– to trade, to steal by means of a sealing. This happens in the following way: The crook comes to a Precious dealer, treats a

some treasures, gives, beforey

protecting that he did not make money
| have enough with me, a little somethingy
ity on it, and promises to correct the rest of the purchase price in a few days. Offer

ly for his safety,

he ensures that the purchased goods nenftande until then in a box sealed.

When packing the foody

He is helpful in dealing with these matters and either steals from these some of them, or, what happens most frequently, he knows how to exchange the whole box for another one kept in reserve for this purpose. A similar maneuver also occurs in the sealing of money, where the bags are exchanged for others, with gamesy

stamps or copper coinsy filled, exchanged.

Chafyime, f. the sign, the

Machine Translated by Google

branding; a – bey
come, branded who» will be.

240

Chayymenen, v. fiegeľn.

ChaUne, k. the wedding; –
make, make a wedding, get married.

N ee ef. the bride

Chayyne, k. rauberiycher nachtliy cher break-in, especially in iyoy lirt lying houses. Dergleiy robberies are never reported toy

other than in whole gangs. The crooks are armed and have blackened their faces. The front door is broken down with a loud bang (Drong) and the residents are forced to ner bound (gechewelt), and with the face to the Earth placed; on top of that the waxy lights (Neireyy), of which every crook carries one, are glued to the walls, so that the whole house is lit from the insidey

is lit; then all

Containers with axes or

Axes opened, and Aly

les, which is transportable, withy taken. When withdrawing, let yen the robbers, mostly still particularly abused, oney

residents are gagged so that they do not make noise and cause persecution

In this way, the Rhenish gangs used to carry out their robberies.

practice, and even now such things sometimes occur in Hungary and Poland.
– act

or – to rob, to steal in the manner

mentioned.

Chayynegaynger, robbers and burglars who commit violence against people (S. Chayyne).

—_ —_ —_ —_ ennae

EbaUwenen, . rain; it

Machine Translated by Google

chayywent, it's raining.

Chatchenen, ». Ycheiden, zery cut, cut through:

Chatiche, f. a piece, a part of a whole. PI. Chay tichoyy. Enne Chatiche is law

hakkel, a piece is not

Everything

shed bogen n. a piece of ind

e 1. a gold.

Shatichey Syschaure, f. a piece of goods; a specific theft still to be carried out.

(Newer expression for Mayyey matten.) – – have, know a place where stealing can take place, and where one is occasionally willing to steal.

Chattas, m. a. scoundrel, yhlechy
ter, fschabiger Mensch; a felt.

Chaudeych, m. the Jewish Moy

nat, which, as is well known, contains only four weeks, from one new moon to the next. Hence Ryisch Chaudeysch, the moon and the new month.

Newy

Chauf, f. the debt (but not

fig.) PI. Chauwoyy. – He 917

in gray Chauwoyy, he has a lot of debts.

Chaule, adv. krank. – fein, ill fein, ingl.gefangen, = liable fine. Er yheUt
be

chaule baryel, he fits in Eiy

yen. – be arrested, be detainedy
den; treife – to be, with stolen

goods or thievesy

instrumentalists are arrested; –
take, arrest, take prisoner. Nayne Schkoche, dess de nich chaule wiršt, be careful that you do not 241

arrested throws. – m. the sick, prisoner.

Chauleybajes, and the French

Machine Translated by Google

kenhaus, Laiareth. 6
Chaule

Yy, and the disease

the purse, the lack of money, the poverty.

Chauleymajim, n. the body: pinching,
water-cutting. Wai wie'n chaule majim hob ich.

Chauleyroych, uv. the illness of the head,
the headache.

Chaume, f. the wall, wall.

Even —, f. the ytone, mayy five wall; a wall built —, f. the from timber framing and clay blocks.

Chaumeln, v. whore. Ani hob

'ne jofe Schicke gechaury
melt, | have a pretty Christian girl.

Chaumetz, m. der Eyyig.
Chaune fein, v. einycheicheln,

|—, v. refl. Yich bei Jey

to flatter and make one popular

en.

Chauref, m. the winter.

Chauychad, m. suspicion, suspicion.

Ch aychech, adv. finyter, but is only from the time of night

used during which the moon does not shine.
It is chauychech, it is dark, that is,

the time suited for stealing.

. be, suspicion hay
ben. The shower is chauy

yched over me, the policey servant, police spy suspects me, is watching me.

Chauyek, k. the strength, also the fortress.

Ch except fine, turn around, turn back,
return, visit; also fig.: go within. – la tof yein, to improve; – lera yein, to get worse.

Chauyer bischuwe don, bey repent, do penance, act of penancey exercise.

Chauyyem, n. the Petyschaft.

Machine Translated by Google

Chauyyemwachs, n. the youy

gel polish.
Chaute, m. the sinner.

Ch autem, f. the nose.

Chautemyyschneiche, f. the handkerchief,

handkerchief.

Chawer, m. Member of a Gey society, especially a thieves' society

society (Chawruyye); the comrade. PI.
Chaweirim.

Chaweirimygannowim, The.

besgeyellen, thieves' companions.

Chawolimymelochner, m. der Seiler.

Chawrus, k. Geyellschaft, Genoyenyschaft, gang of thieves. This consists, according to the newer principle of Jewish thieves, in the rey

gel of at least 4 and a maximum of at least 8 in one place or live nearby

the crooks, who mostly

partly, on communal coy

yts, keep a cart, and use it to commit thefts.

For each such thieving expedition, a leader (Balmayyematy

ten) elected. – melochnen, make comradeship; in -haly

chenen, enter into society,

to form a thieves' club

mentreten; be Cha wruyye, ga
yellyschaftlich; in Gemeinschaft,

Kameradyschaft.

Chawure, f. the pit, the grave, the hiding place, that which is buried, buried,

hidden in the earth, especially the place,

where the a vergray

242

lies, including the buried stolen goods themselves. – lay, bury, bury, hide,

especially the stolen goods, or the thief's tools, if a visit is expected, or the former is not the same as othery

can be accommodated widely.

The – raise, the engrave

to dig something out again, to get it out of hiding.

Eber f. the trumpet.

Machine Translated by Google

Chedil, n. das Meyying.

Cheider, m. the room, the roomy
mer, the chamber. PI. Chay dorim.

Cheitt, w. the tailor.

Cheilef, n. tallow, tallow candle.
Pickpockets, n. (sing. and pl. same),
pickpockets. – n, v.

Wallets out of pockets

he 5 pickpocketing

commit.

Cheilek, m. der Theil, Thieves part, share in the stolen goods. PI.
Chelokim; a –

get a share of the stolen goods. My Cheilek is so and so much.

e m. the spell, spelly

curse.
Cheiresch, adj. deaf. – fine, deaf fine.
Cheiyschek, v. joy, air, ingl. comedy,
theater, redoubt; ins – sharey

to print peat,

go to the theater to buy bagsy
to commit thefts.

Cheiyschekybajes, n. the Koy médienhaus, Schauyspielhaus.

Cheiychek haben, Luyt, Neiy

have the will to do something. He has no desire—he has no desire.
Cheiyyen, v. leben. He cheityyt wie a Sfrore, he lives like a lord. Be maure – to live in fear.

Chelkenen, v. teilen, the gey
stolen goods.

Cheluke, f. the division of the gey stolen goods. – to keep, to keep.
PI. Cheloy

Chemme, f. the butter.

To be polite, to be good, to be friendly, to be sociable. N

Machine Translated by Google

Chenwene, f. vault in which goods are sold, likey

many, which. (S. Ghiefene.) Kotene –, { the stuff,
General store. Ne Chenwene

beyachern, to steal from a warehouse.

Chenwener, m. or: Cheny

weneylych, m. the dealer, shopkeeper.

Cheref, n. the sword, the rapier, saber,

hunting knife, also: the executioner's sword.

Chereyy, adj. irden. Kle irden –, n.
vessel.

Cherujeyy, f. freedom, Ery permission, permission to serve.

Cheyhbenen, v. to reckon, to¥

to add up, to overcount.

Cheyhbon, m. the bill, calculation; en'n
– to make, to make a calculation.

Cheywven, name of the eighth month.

Chey, adj. clever, shy, in the Revealing rogue secrets

Het. nickname for the crooks themselves and for those who side with them. He is cheyy, means yhe flees Robbery, theft and fraud are not for illegal activitiesy

gen on.

Cheyyen, the, general Bey
drawing for the crooks and 243

Rascals and their deceptions dared.

Cheyre Spieye, f. or Cheyre Penne, f.
an inn, pub or hostelry where the innkeepers treat the crooks and know their trade, and theyry Here the crooks meet to discuss thefts to be carried out or, after the theft has been committed, to divide the stolen goods.

Machine Translated by Google

len, it also wobl in storagey
to give if it cannot be sold immediately (tightened); here you will find fle

a secure hiding place against the authorities persecution, credit, if they have no money, and this is usually their first resort

when they are released from prison and be released from prisons, as they are also safe, and former comrades can also to be faithful or at least their upy

to find out.

Chey, (M the eighth letter of the Beyr alphabet; the number eight (8).

Cheygedaulimy

atice, f. a eee che,

bene the sin. PI. Cha-toim.

Chewel,n. the rope. A notby

agile requiytt at the housey

robberies and night-time thefts;

at the first star, to the house bey

residents to bind, in the latter case, in order to use this help to open windowsy

to demolish traillen, iron moneyy

6 e Pl. Cha-

wolim.

Ch eweln, v. to bind, to gag.

Chiddush, and the new, the News, newspaper. PI. Cbiby duychim. What's wrong

chidduych in mofum, what's new in town?
Chidduyschim lerof, Neuigy

possibilities enough.

Chilfer, m. the counterfeit money changer; thief who steals while exchanging money.
Chilges, m. the neck.

Ehilges» fhlanace, n. the

Machine Translated by Google

Necklace.

Chillewen, v. change, to exchange; to change money and to stand by

len. (S. Chalfen.)
Chilluf, m. der 1 1 Wechy

yelbrief. PI. Chilluwim.

Chilluk, m. the difference, the discord, quarrel, dispute, overthrow. It was beney

hum eyymol a godler Chily

luk, it was a heavy yesterdayy

ger dispute between them.

(ul, and the desecration,
profanation. – make, uny
reverently from consecrated, beiliy
i speak. (S. Lechety

uli

Chinkeln, v. whore, attend.

Chippesch, m. the visitation,

both house search and physical search viyitation. Chip is coming:

peysch, mir meyyen uns kay

f chern, it will be vifftirt,

we must purify ourselves, ie

the stolen goods, thieves' worky stuff Yc. bring over to the side.

Chippeyschen, v. durchysuchen, viy ne Someone chip pey

Chippo, f. the vault. From

'ner – trade, steal from a vault.

Chiyoren, and the fracture, overy

main the defect, affliction;

the defect.

244

Chitchen en, v. to steal from a freight wagon, by stealing goods
len on: and cut off.

Chittim, m. der Weitzen.

Machine Translated by Google

Chochem, adj. clever, shy. (p.
Cheyy and Kochem.)

Chochem-yMakhutten, m. an extremely clever or mischievous person.

Chof, adv. indebted. Bal m. aman –, indebted.

Chofysche, adv. free, loose, permitted,
suffered; it is chofysche, it is permitted;

– come, loose, freey

come, escape from the arrest

to be let go; – to get, to get allowed, permitted to receive. (Something).

Chofycheyscheide r, m. a room in whose vicinity nobody yleeps, which can therefore be broken into without danger.

ChofyscheyFluygel, m. the part of a house in which Niey

mand fleeft.

fe)

joyhs, f. the night watch, the night

=

atchman. (See also Kas.)

Chol, m. the sand.

Cholom, m. (pronounced Cholm) the dream,
fig. the imagination. PI.
Chalaumeyy, deceived Erwary

tung, excessive presupposition.

Cholemen, v. to dream. It hot mer gecholmt, it has dreamt to me, is yt mir so vorgey

come.

Cholef, f. milk.

Cho leUinchen, n. the milky pot, the milk jug.

Cholile, int. that is far away! bey

true! – li, that is far from us.

Cholile-weychayy, int. J God forbid!

– adv. unholy.

To delete cholile, to speak unholy,
to say evil to someoney

yay. – noun n. slander, bad reputation.

CholileySchem, m. the evil Ari bad reputation, the disreputabley

since.

Machine Translated by Google

Choljenen, v. to be sick, to lie sick.

Chom, m. the father-in-law, Chomi, my father-in-law.

Chometz, w. Gefanertes, Sautéed
ert Brod.

Chomofy, f. the courage in lawy
ter. Chomauiyi, my mother-in-law.

Chonte, f. the whore, intercoursey

rin, pimp, concubine.

Chonteybajes, n das whores:

a house.

Choyhuw, adj. respected, prominent –,
m. a prominent

taker man. Cho ychuwy

ychem, a respected name. metaph: a person who deserves honor.
Choyyel, n. the cat.

Choyyen, m. the groom, ingl. the one who beyty

len werden yoll.

Choyyer dai“), (daie), adv.
unyense, unwise. He is hof: Yer dai,

he is not clever.

Chotoyyi, | have sinned (a very common word).

Cho ze, k. the half, also the middle. –
adv. and adj. half.
Cboze Rat, half a thaler.

Chozeygodel, half groychen, sixtyer.

Chozeyjom, noon; ba choze jom, at noon (12 o'clock); noon.

*) Probably from on (ChoUer), the defect, the lack, and (Dai), enough, too much.

Cho zeykeyyefygodel, the Sily

Machine Translated by Google

beryechyer.

Chut, m. the thread, twisted thread.
Chuz, prep. outside, except.

Chozelaile, f. midnight. Chuzmedine, (. foreign countries.

Be -, at midnight.

ChozeyLewone, kf. the half

Moon. – make the screwy
ben on the outer window shutter

by drilling out several holes in the shape of a half moon

Holes close togethery

drilled around, and then with a Meyyer the drilled piece:

ylicts, whereby the firey
loading is opened.

Chozer, m. the farm in the house, the noble farm in the village, ingl. every castle 5

Chozerylewat, m. the individual Courtyard, the isolated building building.

Chozerwinde, f. the courtyard
door, the gateway.

Chozey ychieh, f. half an hour.

Chozir, n, the grass.

Chummish, the five books of Moses.

Chu ppe, k. the bridal heaven,
the canopy, under which the young

Diyh weddings were performed
den. Kalle goes with the Choyyen under the Chuppe, the bride goes with the groom to the bride: heaven, ie they are gey dares.

Chush, m. the meaning. – hay
taam, m. the taste, –

hareach, m. the smell, –
hashmai, m. hearing, –
heruyy, m. the seeing, – hay
miychych, m. the feeling.

Chuych, m. Someone who lacks a sense. Used as a nickname

used; e.g. vest =>

Machine Translated by Google

the deaf Levi yc.

D. @)
Daddim, PI.
Breasts. f

Dafko, adv. absolutely, abyolut.

They wave it – tulley

men, they definitely want to hang him.

Dafnen, v. pray.

Dag, m. der Fiych. (See the pl.

Dogim, which almost only

is customary.) |

Dagymeluach, m. the herring.

Dajag, m. the fisherman. PI. De: jogim.

Daje nu, also dai, adv. enough.

Dajin, m. the vice rabbi.

Dal, m. the poor. PI. Dallim.

Dalfen, adv. arm, – fine, poor yein. –
s. m. der Betty

ler, the poor thing.

Dalfenybajes, n. the poor house, the poorhouse.

Dalfenen, v. begging.

Dalles, m. poverty, need, lack of money, loss of moneyy genheit. To have the Dalles, to have no money; Be dalles

godel ceiyen, in große Ary

Live with courage. |

Dalled, the fourth letter of the Hebrew alphabet, the numbery word four (4).

Dalldygedaulimychatich, f. a four-gross piece.

Dam, n. the blood.

Dampf«yeyisch, n. the sulfur, sulfur thread.

Darychenen, v. predigen, tof –, to preach well, ychofel to preach –, badly.

the female

246

Daud, m. the cousin, – i, my cousin.

Daude, f. die Baye, Auntie, – oVyi,

my aunt.

Dauneg, n. the wax.

Defivyo, f. der Aboyruck, vorziigy

ly from a lock in order to then make a key chen. (See reprint.) The Dey fiyyo von der Peyyiche nehy

men, take the wax book from the castle.

Delih, m. the bucket.

DeleU, f. the door; verpoyyy chente –, closed door.

Deigel, n. the flag. Pl. Dei ý golim.

Derech, m. the way; fig. the manner,
manner, custom, tradition.

Be –, in the way, in the way,

al –, in, or according to the manner,

way. Be derech ha gojim,

according to the manner of the Christians.
To go on the Derech, to go away, to travel.

Derechyeretz, m. the custom, courtyardy respect, veneration, which the lower to the higher

He doesn't bow down before the judge, he doesn't sit down out of respect.

Deyche, f. the grass. The Klay moniyy in die DeYsche ver:

chawuren, hide the lock picks in the grass. N

German, (y. Small and Largey German).

Deutyche Peyyiche, k. the German castle, or actuallyy

lich keyhole, db a oly

ches, which has a spike in the middle of the round opening, and to which a slug with a planked tube belongs.

DeutychyPurim, n. that to Open German castles

Machine Translated by Google

heavy-duty tool; the lock picks with hollow tubes.

Dewaych, m. der Honig, Zul: ker, Kandis.

Dewau re, f. the bee. Pl. De waurim.
Adayy Dewauy

rim, m. the swarm of bees.

Dibbe, f. blasphemy, malicious gossip. N

Dibberei, f. language, speaking, chatter;
cooky
ypeach. f. the rascals. mer —,

Dibbern, v. jpeak, talk, Ychatter; kochem besyprache talk. —, the They

Dilchen, v. das (especially young) Jewish girl.

Dilmiych, adj. silly, foolish: a dilmiych person, a silly person, a fool.

Din, n. the right, the justicey activity, honesty. Pl. Diy nin.

Diroh, k. the apartment.

Dof, m. the bar.

Dogim, pl. (the sing. Dag is rarely used)

the Si&che; mir hon Dogim geachelt, wir haben SiSche geysen.

Dogimsmebeler, m. der Fiy ycher, fishmonger.

Dogon (aun), n. grain, corn.

Double winch, for the wings: door.

Village, and the pocket, especially the back pocket of the skirt.

Go to the village and collect moss

len, a pickpocketing yiben. (Among Jewish crooks, this saying is rarely used.)

Village printers, pickpockets (p.
Peat printer).

Village thieves, thieves who

Machine Translated by Google

247

telyt burglary beypecially on villages yteal.

Dorfmakkener, Nachschliysely
thieves who raid villages,
pecially at harvest time, yteal.

(S. Aerntemakkener.)

DN a adv, around noon (SyV

en).

Dower, m. the word, the thing, the object.

tof, the good cause. PI. Dey worim. – roi m, yche Say chen.

Dower, m. a chatterer who gladly retold.

Doweryacher, m. a foreign, Ydirty, verb

pork, bacon, shiny

ken, sausage yc. He smiles
the Doweryacher like the Goi, he eats pork like a Christ.

Drong, m. the racing tree, wherey with the night robbery the

The door is stormed; the Hebey tree, which is used to pull out window trails.

The same is usually 20 to 30 feet long, about 1 foot in diameter. Only in Emergency will be other than ten better wood was added.

Droysche, f the sermon.

Duchenen, v. stealing from people in plain sight, especially when exchanging money.

Newy
expression for Chillewen.

Duckeyy, m. the prince, duke.

Duckeymedine, f. the Furyteny thum, Duchy.

Ducke/yte, f. the Furytin, Her:
Herzogin.

e v. check

geln.

Machine Translated by Google

To sip through, v. to count through, to overcount. The meyyumme sip through, count the money.

Duyye, f. the lock, hang. ychlot, bey.
the lock on the chain.

Duyyen, v. Țchliischen, los =;
losychliischen.

E, conj. wo.
Really, conj. like.

Echo d, num. One, one, the simple. – la meie, one per hundred, one percent.

otene thing; the Schoder or Echeder, m. a

Dietrich, who has a Hay

ken. His name is Deutychy Echoor, when he has a hollow
Rohr (from German SchléUern), and WelychyEchoder, if he is not a hollow tube (too frany zopflichen Schléyyern).

Eder, f. the herd. PI. Edoy

rim.

Edo, meaning the community. (See Khille and Kohl, which is more common.)

Efychor, where possible.
Egrof, m. die Fauyt. Bal subst. –,

m. a good striker who knows how to use his fist well.

EgoU, f. the nut.

1 ha boyyem, muscatsy
nut.

Eid, m. the witness. PI. Eidim.

Eidyycheiker, m. the false witness.
PI. Eidim ychkorim.

Eiduyy, and the testimony. –

Machine Translated by Google

make, bear witness, testify

gene.
Eife, f. darkness, dusk, twilight, evening. (p.
Tchilles.)

Eifelchen, and a child who is born dead, or dies before being circumcised.

Zeal, m. the ash.

Egg yolk, n. the calf (also egg: gelch

en).

all n. the calf:

meat. 8

Eigelsor, (aureU) n. the calf: fur, calfskin.

Eimo, f. fear, great fear. – to have, to fear. |
have Eimo, | fear very.

Eimoyye, f. the length.

to penetrate, v. to break in, into whose door is broken down with a twig.

(This happens during a house robbery. S.

Chayyne.)

Einkinjenen, v. shopping.

EinkuUen, v. einschlag, einy press, e.g. a window pane.

Einlekihnen, v. take in.

Einlekichner, m. der Einnehy

mer; Someone who, by virtue of office or business, receives money.

EinpfelUern, v. Someone who is already in misfortune, even deeper

bring in; especially on an arrested person something aftery

testify against him, provide him with such evidence that he won't get away without punishment. Oh, how can we get him caught?

Machine Translated by Google

to break in, v. to break in, especially by means of the stemy
iron.

To lull oneself, »to fall asleep.

Eintippel, m. the place where the crooks, after committing theft, go with the stolen goods in order to divide them. The owners of a yoly

chen Lokals find cheyye people, that is,
fie know the Gau:

ner and their trade, so that they have to fear neither disturbance nor betrayal

in the business of division.

Often the thieves also tiptoe to the sharpener, i.e. they go with the stolen goods to they

«to the one from whom fie wiyy

yen that he ytold them immediately buys.

Typing in, v. with the geytohy
lenen Gute yich to the place bey

indicate where the division should take place.
Eir, name of the second month.

Eyisch, v. the fire; – ychel geinom,
the hellish fire.

Eyichchewel, n. the burning fuse, the sulphur thread.

eee f. der Waarenypeiy

he.

Cook eyh finely, be careful, beware,
beware

men. We want eychkoy

chem yein, dess mir nich ab» gez'n,
we want to be careful that no one notices us. (S. Sychkoche.)

Eyischeydyisch, m. adultery.

Eycheydyische, k. die Ehebrei Cherin.

Eiyy, f. the time, the weather, the atmospheric conditions.

Machine Translated by Google

Eiyvef, m. the herb, commonlly
The smoking tobacco is understood.

Eiskessel, f. the tobacco pipe.

Bless the duck, add tobacco

Eiyyek, m. the cramps, the evil wee. To have the Eiyyek.

Eizbe, m. der Finger, insbeyond
11985 Index finger. PI. Eizy

oU.

Eize, (Eitze) m. der Rath, Rathsy
lord, the authoritative person.

249

Eizebajes, v. das Rathbaus.

Eitz, n. the wood, likewise the tree.

Eker, m. the trunk.
Elah, f. the linden tree.

Elef, num. Thousand. Alofim, thousands.

Elohim, m. God. – chayim, the living God; Ben, the son of God. =

Elul, name of the twelfth month.

Em mess, m. of the assembly Place of thieves, place where the wagon stops. (p.

Wiazzef.) On the Emy

mefi stay or hold,

with the (ChawruUen:) Fuhry
works at a specific location

linger to catch comrades out to steal wait. a

Emmey, m. the truth. adv. true. –,
– although, true and correct.

Emmey machen, v. auch: – cuddle, – cuddle, –

– me dabbern, to tell the truth, to admit, to confess. He

Machine Translated by Google

hot Emmey made, he made a confession.

Enafim, n. the leaves, treey leaves.

Engliych-yWelysch, a special kind of suffix, with two, closely spaced, hooks in the beard.

Enneyvotenne, f. the deceivery

ual exchange, the confusion. – make, deceitfully exchange

ychen. This is a mand-

of the Chalfonim and similiary

lich the chayyime trade.

The crook changes (at a Changers) money in certain coin types, wants to do so on one of the next days

and demands that the Money in a bag

sealed. On this occasion, he skillfully exchanges the bag of money for another one kept ready for this purpose and filled with copper coins or tokens.

Eppel, int. a warning fromy

call, which makes the crooks

alert to an impending dangery yame together. When uttered at the moment of committing a theft, the scoundrel lets go of the object he has already seized, and, just about to say something, falls silent as soon as the word is shouted to him.

Eppes, (real Eps), something, a little, a bit. We want to cuddle, we want to tell each other something.

Erauni, m. citizen, city dweller.

Eref, m. the evening.

Erefhalchener, thieves who steal (in a non-violent manner) at Abeudzeit.

| Eref, m. the valley.

Erem, m. the naked. PI. Eruy mim.

Erez, m. the earth, the land:

Erezyjowen, Greece, Russy
and

Machine Translated by Google

nd.

Erezytapuchim, PI. KartoUeln.
(S. Tapuchim.)

He where, k. the nakedness, Schaan.

Eyor, m. the body band, belt.

Eyymol, geyestern. He is eyyy mol broke, he became a fugitive yesterday.

Eyyre, f. the help, the supporyt.
Schmone -, the divine

Help, pray for it.

Eyyrim, num. twenty.

2 ned m. the servant. PI. Aw o:

80 m. the stone, bey. Many erytein. PI. Awonim.

Ewenybauchen, m. the Proy
birystein.

Ewenyschaume, k. the yteinerne, mayyive
wall.

Ewil, m. the wicked fool, the vile simpleton.

Eworim, pl. the members.

Ewuvy, k. the manger, the stable.
Fl. EwuUim. The Klamoy
niU under the EwuU bes

lay chawure, the nighty

Hide the keys, the thieves' tools, under the stable manger.

This usually happens when the crooks

are ina

Stay overnight in a guesthouse and carry the same instruments with you.

To make a trap, v. to lure into a false game; to persuade someone to pretend to be good, so that they will be cheated.

Fallmacher, m. entices people to play

false games; casualy

maker to fraud and to e

Machine Translated by Google

Fehm, k. the hand. The –

to shake hands.
Fehmerer, m. the writer.

Fehmern, v. ychrift.

Fehmeryschwayrze, f. the ink.
Fendrich, m. the cheese.

shreds, v. Ylice, Ypierce, throughy cut, cut in two, offy
to cut, to cut off, e.g. the trunks of the carriages.

Kappore – To kill someone by stabbing or cutting them.

50

Fetzer, m. the butcher; the thief; the one who, if several thieves are therey

at tat Yare, the KoUer aby cuts.

Fetzerine, f. the scissors. (We: 55 a

Fieyel, m. the overseer, locksmith Ber, Holztzediener. To give gifts to the fie: fel MattoneU, to the jailer in order to obtain favors from himy

long.

Finkel, f. the kitchen; into the Finkel halchenen, go into the kitchen.

Finkeln, v. to cook, also to fry.

FinkelyAules, n. ein Kocges ychirr.

im. the cooky

Finkeljajin, m. der Brannty wine. (See SoreU, which is more common.)

FinkeljajinyGordel, m.
Brandy kettle.

Finne, f., or Finchen, rn. a tin, also generally a small box, or a case for a specific purpose;

Machine Translated by Google

a thing to any purpose need.

Flachyen, v. ycheer, to obtain something through flattery; to persuade someone through a promise chen, by preseyection kiinfy

tiger advantages to an action desired by him.

The correct translation of this meaningful word is very difficult. For example,

the Any

members of an arrested Gauy

ners, or someone else, support him sufficiently during his imprisonment, he tells them that he is still somewhere

the 251

a chawure lie, db

He had buried money, which he could only find, and which he would soon, after his freedomy

layyung, | will share with them.

In this way he encourages such people
o approach him with greater yprincipley
fer than would otherwise have happened,
and –

he asked fie joked.

Flakkern, v. also Flaggern, to set ire, to burn.

Flakkerei, or Flaggerei, f. arson,

Fleppe, f. passport, travel pass, route;
also a letter.
Left –, f. a false passport.

Fleppchen, n. the wanted poster.

flakes, and the cloth, wooly
things.

Fluuyern, v. uriniren, piyyen.

Suitor, m. the one who bey

to be stolen or cheated.

(Unlike what

who was deceived, and who is called Lambden or Balhei.)

Free-shoppers, tradesmen, especially swindlers, who visit the fairs and markets

en.

Machine Translated by Google

Freymok um, n. the city Frey y
burg. N

Fox, and the gold; Chatiche –, f. a piece of gold.

Fuchyig, adj. golden, gilded.

Fuchsmelochner, m. der Goldy ychmidt, goldworker, jeweler.

Carrying the thieves' bags to the market
and shoplifters to carry away the stolen goods.

It is located at the Many nern, on the left side of the overcoat, is usually a

Cubit deep, 3 cubits wide, with

5) From hg, the Beychorne.

Wax canvas lined, and is created by the fact that the skirty

lining not sewn on at the top of the hip.

The female rascals usually form this pocket by sewing the upper skirt and petticoat together at the bottom

Sew them together and make a slit in the first on both sides. (S. Schottenfeller.)

Galgeil, n. the Scharfrichy terrada.

Gallach "), m. the pastor, preacher.
– melochnen, or – treat, steal from a preacher, pastor.

Gallachybajes, n. the parishy

a house.
Gallachte, f the pastor's wife.

Gallones, n. the window; very baryelt –, barred fencey

yter; from the – kaspern, from the winyters (of the prisony niyye) talk to each other.

Machine Translated by Google

Gannew, m. the thief, Spitzzy bube. PI. Gannowim.

Gannewen or Ganwenen,

v. Steal. stolen or stolen
ganwent, geytohlen.

Gannewte, k. the thief.

GanferyMedine, f. (literally: the rogue land) the Hery zoathum Swabia.

Gaflen, m. the robber. PI.
Gaylonim. –, v. rob,
rob.

GaU, adv. thick.

Gaudel, m. the thumb; the
– stir, stir your thumb
to give money; to pay.

252

Gaumel fine, v. againy

ten, grateful, recognizable fine.

Gaumel benyschen, v. be ytuitd prayer formulas of the Juy

which they represent the freedom
they have gained and the restored health, danger overcome, goods acquired,
etc. public

Thank God.

Gaurel, n. the lot. – who: fen, v.
loose.

Gauyer)), m. a police officer.

Gechojlim, pl. coals.

Ged, m. the divorce, marriage certificate dung. –, adv. geyiched. They yen – gewurden, yie yist geyichen.

Geder, m. the fence, the hedge, satisfaction.

Gedi, m. the goat.

Gediyiyim, m. the he-goat.

Gedin, adv. honest, legal, ge: right. – become, honest whoy

the one who never learns rogueryy

– to be honest, to be free from stealing and swindling

not give up. – trade, do honest business, be honorably

Machine Translated by Google

nourish.

Gedinne Syschaure, f. honestly acquired, purchased goods, in contrast to geytolte ware, (treife Syschaure).

patience, k. the size, also fig.
Geinom, n. hell.

Geiruyisch, n. expulsion, expulsion,
banishment from the country.

He got a sigh of relief and was expelled from the country.

Geiruyche, k. the expelled, rejected
wife.

Geiruyschim, PI. the distributiony
expelled, exiled, exiled, deported.

Hostage, m. robbery, street robbery.

Gelerfaden, m. der Schwey

felfaden; a necessary rey

quiyit during the night break-in, in order to be in the vomited room

To light the light. In the newy

However, at this time the Ganner mostly of the chemical lighter.

Gemore, f. the Talmud.

Gemur, adj. whole, finished, fully come, great. PI. Gemurim.
– Gannowim gemurim, arch-

rascals.

Gennecker, m. the devil.

Geneiwe, k. theft, also the stolen goods; a

to do, to commit a theft;

one – kinjenen, that yamnty

liche in a theft gey
buy stolen goods.

Geéychem, n. the rain.
Géyschemen, v. regnen. Es géyschet, it is raining, es hot gegéyschet, it has rained; es wird gyyschemen, it will rain.

Géychemyyschaufef, n. der

Machine Translated by Google

Cloudburst.
Geschen, v. the hay.

Geéycher, m die Briicke. lley
about the – halchenen.

Géycherymaicheyy, m. der Brückenzoll.

Geëireëýý, pl. the unfortunatey

chen fates, misfortunes; ýhallow official decrees

information, insights. Geyeiy to have (to get) reyyy, from fate, adverse consequencesy

niyyen be haunted.

Smells, k. the bad smell, stench. Wai,

like a smell
yroche is bekaau! Oh well

5) From gauffer fein (pn Wa), to decide, to decree for evil.

253

What a stench here! Also:

the rumor, gossip, the rumor becoming known as a thieving group among the people. It comes

Geydrche vun 'n Mayyey

matten, the rumor of the thieffy ytahls spreads.

Goyyet, m. der Nagel.

To be smeared, to be marked, to be branded.

Getaljenter, m. a hanged man.
Gewer (ir), m. the man, head of the house, landlord. – elf, f. or –te,

f. the housewife, landlady.

Gewija, f. the demand, Einy demand. PI. Gewifjayy.
GewijaU ha chauwoyy, the Debt claims.

Winner, for the childbody
woman, postpartum.

Gewira, f. a noble woman.

Gewure, f. the power, might, strength;

– to have, strength, power, to be able,

Machine Translated by Google

to do something. We hon

the Gewure nich, the Bar: Yelim to pull, we Yar yt ytrong enough

(we don't have the power) to ye the

Fenytery
to demolish traillen.

Ge wul, f. the border, countryy border. Across the bulwarks, fleeing the country.

Gezeke, n. the shouting, the noise.
Don't make any noise, don't make any shouting, be quiet!

Ghiefene, f. the warehouse, the store,
the shop; kotene

–, the junk,
general store; 'ne Ghiefene be yyachern, a warehouse bey

steal.

Ghiefener, m. or Ghiey

feneylych, m. the merchant, shopkeeper.

Gibbur, m. a strong man,
a giant. Schimyche e giby bur, Simyon the Giant.

Giddim, pl. the veins.

Giggesygagges, This and Thaty

silly stuff, nonsensey

snack.

Gijuriyyte"), f. a Christian woman
who converts to Judaism.

This happens when a Jewish crook marries a Christian woman

ight; such marriages are not uncommon in the world of thieves.

GilgauleU, in the shity
tel, the brain.

Gilgel, and the circle, the wheel.

Gimmel, the third letter of the Hebrew alphabet (3); the number three (3).

Ginnoyy, m. (the actual sing. Gan is not usedy
ly) the garden.

Gischmol, m. the Gypsy. PI.

Gischmeilim.

Giyy, m. the brother-in-law, –
i, my brother-in-law.

Machine Translated by Google

Giyye, (a) f. sister-in-law, –

auyyi, my sister-in-law.

Giwah, f. or Giwwo f. the elevation,

the hill, small mountain. –, adv. high.

Glitychen, v. ychliiychen, mittelyt Nachschlüssel ytehlen.

en cher, m. the secondary keyy

Glitycher, m. the sled.

Glockymokum, n. the city of Bayel.

Gnaizen, ». to disturb, to worry, to lay

a trap, e.g.
Someone. Don't let

5) Should actually be Gejudiychte, von judischen layyen

(to be circumcised), to become a Jew.

25

gnaw, don't let it scare you.

Godel, m. der Groychen. PI. Gey daulim.

Godel, adj. big, also fig.: a godler Looked, a bad fool (m. godler, f.

gedaule, n. godel).

Godelyjerid, m. the Meyye, the big market.

Godelymajim, n. a great water, great river, usually the main river of the province, the Rhine.

Godelymokumyhei, n. the city of Hamburg.

Godelsratt, m. the great (Kroy nen-) Thaler.

Godelsrofch, m. a clever head, clever person, especially

Machine Translated by Google

Someone who knows the secrets of the rogue world and understands the scoundrel's

language.

GodelsSfrore, m. a high,
noble person; of the countryy
Mr., the President of a Col

legii ¥c.

Gohle, f. the thieves' bag of market and shoplifters. New: a new term for load.

Goi, m. the non-Jew, Christ, heathen.
PI. Goyim. Proverb: Tofysche ba Goyim rick, the beyt Christ is no good.

Goie, f. the Cbrist, also abouty mainly the woman, women.

Goiekluft, f. the woman's skirt.

Goieyschmuoyy, m. Weibergey wash, gossip.

Go le, f. the carriage, the carriagey
yche, Chaiye; – likewise the Binding or thread, by means of which the prisoners can connect from the windows of the prisons when they are lying on top of each other, and

—t—— — ao

in particular, send written notes. (S.
Kutysche.)

Golehopyer, m. der Wagen: yspringer.

Such a thief fits in the evening in the darkness

(Techilles) on the country road catches up with the same passing car. Is on such a car

If no one is further away than the coachman,

he jumps,
from behind, on or in the denyely
by tying up the plan that may be above it or

Then he takes

what he just found in the cary

det. He throws down non-transportable packages, rolls them oncey

stay from the side, to a hidden place, and retrieves them later, with the help of Genoyy yen or a wagon. In empty carriages or chaïyes, these types of thieves quietly open

the blow, get in, throughy

search the inner space and steal what they find.

Machine Translated by Google

Golemichye, f. the wagon: flat. (S.
AgoleyMich ye.)

Goleyschaychter, thieves who steal

under similar circumstances as a Golebopyer,

but only from the outside by neither the travel shacks from the wagons, or, in the case of freight wagons,

cut up the bales of goods.

Goleyschachten, v. Reiseway

to steal by cutting or cutting open, –, subst.
n. the theft carried out in this way.

GöleU, n. captivity. exile. We are in géy leyy, we yare trapped.

Gordel, m. der Keyyel.

Gordelmelechner, m. der Keyy
yelmacher, Keyselflicker, Keyyely

yhmied, copperyhmied.

255

Goyyeir, m. the nail.

GriUling, m. the hand; the five fingers on the hand.

Greater German, and those to the OeUy

nen larger German castles fer corresponding lock picks (with bob: lem

tubes).

GroBklamoniyy, ý. Grofpu« rim.

Bigwig, m. One who has great power;

the punitive judge, inquirer.

GroBmokum, n. fo means, in the Mark, the penal institution in Spandau.

Great Purim and the little Brechy and chisels (¥. scrapers); to the yunyt of the Diety

which are called Little Purim.

Gruber, m. the spade, the shovel. A necessary tool for nighttime diggingy

break, in order to yuch, if the premises to be broken up are not otherwise to cope with, by means of sub-levels

tion of the outer wally lead. (S. Unterkabber.)

Machine Translated by Google

Ha, prep. der, des, deyyen, von dem. In Jübiſch-German
like the French de and des. E.g. Amune ha

gojim, the faith of the Be: den ye.

Hackdème, k. the preface.
Hacks re, k. the knowledge, Be:

knowledge, being informed.
Mir hon Hackére de wo rim, wir haben wissentniB von den Sachen.

Hadder, m. the card game.
Haddern, v. card playing.

Hayrgenen, ». ytruck, beyony
who beat bloodthirsty,

Hayringsymokum, n. the city of Hildesheim, actually Bergyt (from Har, the mountain).

Hajom, adv. today.

Hakkel, adv. everything, a lot. Haky kel reiwech, good profit, – ched, it's all the same.

Hakkelybakkell, everything together,
taken together.

Hakkel jofe be itte, Everything in its time.

Hakkel¥neune, All Nine; the violent break-
in with storm.
(S. Chayyne.)

HalbeyLewone. f. der balbe

moon; – make, a castle

or the screw on the outer

Bern window shutter half-moon drill around and cut out soon. (S. Chozery Ley

won e.)

Halchenen, v. gehen, steigen; be baiUe –, home

hen; bankrupt –, escape.

Hey, how are you?

There's a half-baked thing
(ychofel), there's a good one

(ychofel)! Loss' a half-baked thing! Let him go!
Don't keep talking to him!

Halchenen, on the Derech, verreyen,

reyting away.

Machine Translated by Google

Halchenen, on the Syus, riding.

Haliche, f. the gait, the Gey
hen; the secret (thieves') path that thieves
looking for night-time burglaries seek in order to avoid having to pass gates manned by guards when stealing in a city

Such a path is best hidden if there is no side gate that can be forced open.

256

either by climbing over the city wall, by means
of

tern, or crawling through one under the city wally

leading water channel. Gety

men vie Lambden, Yo dient

them this path also likey

which leads to a ywyty and uny bound retreats.

Hallmuyy, m. der Hammer.

Halo, int. verily! also qu: gend: isn't it true?

Halom, adv. here, here.

Hammetnen, or: Hamtey

nen, v. warten, bey. ein Gauy

one on top of the other, at a previously determined place (Em: meyy), in order to go out together to steal, or even when they have all gathered

yin order to achieve an even more favorable
Time – perhaps the complete Entry of night – to be expectedy

ten. (S. verhammet ligy

gene.)

trade, m. theft; eiy
nen – make, a thieffy

yteel commit.

Trade, ». yteal. To trade on the market, to steal on the market;
– traded, adv. stolen; traded goods,

stolen goods.

Trading, ba jom, stealing by day. It is understood as a

a special kind of theft

the one with which the crooks are usedy

ly begin their career, namely: stealing from the

Machine Translated by Google

Market stalls, usually in the Gey

the crowds of buyers standing around where they then take what they can get their hands on falls.

To act, to be laile, during the night,
to steal at night.

Hanneuen, V. pretend, beg, persuade.

Har, m. der Berg. PI. Ho rim.

Harbe, adv. much; ma harbe? how much?

Harbine, f the stairs.

Hargenen, v. kill, umbriny

gene.

Hashem, the name of God; God.
Hashem, God knows.

Hash wine, adv. fort. —

go, go away, pass through, escape, become fugitive; leave a place or an area where one has committed an offense

and is therefore in danger.

Hayschwooh, m. the comparison, the comparison between two things or persons.
-mey

lochnen, a comparisomy fill in.

Hauern, ». lie, rest, lay gladly. Common when talking about animals. The Bily

ler hauert uf dem Chozer
at the BarYel, the dog is lying on a chain in the yard.

Hauhns, m. the Christian thief among the Jewish; also generally the term for every person of Christian descent.

PI. Hauhnyen.

Hauker, m. the hunchback.

Haukerig, adj. humpbacked.

Haulechen, v. to go, to go away.
(S. Halchenen.)

Haupter, m. the main key,

Machine Translated by Google

who usually closes all the locks he can fit into. (p.

Zarfeyy, with which it is synonymous in form and use.)

Hawel, m. the thread. PI. Hay

becauseim.

257

Hazzéle, f. rescue from danger,

especially from that of being banished. – to do, to save, to bring salvation. Hazzdle is coming, help, salvation is coming.

He, heoh, int. Look! Look there!

Hechtling, n. the knife.

Heckdisch, and the hospital, hospital, especially a hostel for begging Jews; the

nden yLazay reth.

Heckeln, ». to tease, to tease, to make un of, e.g. Je manden. N

Hefreysch, m. the difference; a good

Hefreysch, a groy
Big difference.

Hegmon, m. the bishop.

Heichel, m. the temple, Jewsy temple.

Heih, the fifth letter of the Hebrew alphabet (m); the number five (5).
go home, v. die

men, go to death, jtire.

Heimthun, v. to bring lifey

to kill, to execute.

Hekeysch, m. the comparison.
(S. Hayschwooh.)

Heraun, f. the pregnancy.

Herrle, m. the grandfather. (Very popular in southern Germany
common, in the north almost not at all.) |

Heyyek, m. the loss, Schay
the, the loss, Heyyek may cause damage, loss

Machine Translated by Google

suffer.

Hewel, adv. vain, useless; es is hakkel

hewel, es ist alles vain.

Hewel hawolim, pl. vain, useless things, objects. Hey welyhawolim dibbern, uny

alk washed stuff.

Heat, f. the room, the room.

Hitzling, m. der Ofen. (S. Tanner, which is more common.)

Hochytappler, m. ein yogenny

ter noble beggar, who with false

certificates about experienced accidents or the like, and by usually saying goodbye

names and titles

lays, especially plundering the higher classes.

ee f. the splendor, the glory.

eit. g

Hoder, m. the ornament, majesty.

Hofychicky, f. the common

Servicey, especially peasant maid.

Fohlen ch, m. der Schhornystein.

Hohyen, crooks who

Theft in the manner excery

eiren, that they by day, with leiy

yem Tritte (hence their name),

especially shortly after the midy daytime (when the silverware is usually in the kitchen for cleaning) sneak into the houses, listen at the doors to see if anyone is in the kitchen or living roomy

weyend is, when they have convinced themselves, knock, and even if no entryy

call is made, unlatch. If the door is unlocked,

They come in and steal whatever they can get away with in a hurry.

Hon, n. money, property, and goods; possessions.

N onech, m. one of one's possessions
meraden (esp. for treason) murdered scoundrel.

Sande, and the little boy,

Machine Translated by Google

Bu

e.

Hornickel, m. a rich man; someone with whom it is yuffiy

len is worthwhile.

Hooves, y. Railway

258

Huyysche, m. der Gensd'arme,

Land Dragoons, Mounted Police soldier.

J. 0)

Ja ar, m. (also Jaer) the forest.

Yes arychayyer, and the wild boar.

Jached, adv. together, togethery
ly, with each other. We wanty len be jached haulechen, we want to go with each other.

Jad, f. the hand. Pl. Jadaim.
Jad ja min, the right hand;

L yymauli, the left hand.

Jadbaryel, f. the handcuff, the handyprincess.

Jaddrong, m. a small Hey
bebaum.

Jadnekef, and a hole, from the Size that one can reach in with the hand.

Such a thing is then especially in a door

made if the same is from Iny

nen is locked to the Riey

gel to withdraw.

Jadrach aii m, f. the hand mill.

Jadychabber, m. das Stemmy iron. (S. Schabber.) It is smaller than an ordinary Meiy yel, so that you can easily carry it in your pocket.

Jadychocher, m. a small Brechy

iron, which the duplicate keysy

Machine Translated by Google

thieves carry with them.

Jadychurrich, n. the thieffy tool; the instruments for unlocking and breaking in closed containers, as: They triche, Brechy and Chimmeyen dc.

(See cabinet stuff.)

Jahmel, m. the fool, Thor, foolish man. Don't be

Jahmel, don't be a fool.

Jajin, m. the wine; – chay

diych, young wine, – joy
ychen, old wine.

Jajinygiwah, (giwwa), the vineyard.

Jajinyneyyech, m. the sacrificial wine; wine pressed by Christians and forbidden to Jewsy

ten ist. – yschayyjenen, Chriy drink ytenwein.

Jajinyyyaucher, m. der Weiny

dealer.

Jajinyyyoref, m. der Brannty
wine, schnapps.

Jakruyy, f. the price increase. Es is gedaule – in mokum,

| it is very expensive in the city;
e, f. an expensive commodity.

Jale, and the noise, spectacle.
We want to – may

chen, we want to speak carefully and finely.

Jam, n. the sea, the sea; –
ha godel, (or Godelyjam), the great sea; the ocean; –

ha melach, the Salt Sea. PI.
Jam in. 6

Jamin, adv. right, the right side. He yteit

al jamin, he yt stands on the right side.

Janychuf, k. the owl.
Jarychnen, v. erben; gejary

ygift, inherited, jaryschenwery
the, will inherit.

Machine Translated by Google

Jaych, m. the brandy.
Jaychron, m. the just, the fair; the incorruptible man, judge.

Jaychroneyy, f. justice, equity, incorruptibility.

Jaske, f. the church; – to treat, or: to treat, to steal from a church.

Jaskeychew el, and the bell rope.
Jaskeycho zer, m. the churchyard.

the traders, m. of the churches:

love.

259

Jaskeymalbyisch, m. the priestly
Official dress, mass vestment.

Jaskeyyyschaure, f. the churchy device, candlestick, chalice c. He has from the traded – to the Balbais very

yharpned, he has from the geytohy

lenen church equipment ety
which was sold to the innkeeper.

an n. the fly, mosquito. PI.
Ja tych im.

Jauker, adv. et adj. expensive.
Enne jaukere Maline, a dear quarter (guest house).

Jaune, f. the pigeon.

" m. ber Erbe. PI.
Jorychim.

Jau fer, adv. more, over;

lukewarm-, no more; be chay jeywlau -, definitely not mehr.

Jauzer, m. the potter. PI. Jos

zerim. |
Je did, m. the beloved. PI. Jey Didim.

3 each my beloved, deary

Machine Translated by Google

(Used as a form of addressy

Zedich, f. science, experience, knowledge.

Je dieh fein, Willen, Wissen, Wissen haben, sein instructed (about something). Ich bin jey

Dieh, | know. Law je» dieh, | don't know. | am nnhlen gedieh, | don't know either.

Jehudi, m. the Jew. PI. Je:

hudim.

N 211 adi. judiyisch.

JehudishyAmune, f. the ji:

dic religion.

Jekef, n. the winepress.

Jééled, and the little boy, beyony

ders the newborn. PI. Jey
16 dim.

Je lè de Vy, f. the e weekly
nerin.

Jélek, m. the beetle.

Jenif ch, adj. clever, rogue, mischievous;
Jenish people, clever, shrewd people.

(S. Koy chem and Cheyy.)

Jerach, m. the month. Echo d –, a month. PI. Jeréy chim.

Jérek, adv. green.

green herbs.

Jerid, m. the market. We knowy len uf den Jerid teilechen

and fine, whether we have somethingy deln bekommen, we want to go to the market and see if we can steal something

nen.

Jeride, f. the departure, the journey.

M m. the markety

dal leccener, m. the market.

Machine Translated by Google

Jeruyche, k. the inheritance, inheritance,
the inheritance; ne Jeruyche

überbaun, inherit, an inheritancy yhaft preserved.

Jeyche, f. help, salvation, redemption, succour. T hu mir JeŸche, leiyte mir Beiy

yt, help me!

Jeyyur im, pl. the pains, limb aches or limbsy

tear; hence gout, zippery

small V1c. Wai, like a Jeyy

I had yurim! (Usuallyy exclamation of complaint.) – me: to cause lochnen, to cause pain

to chastise, to discipline.
Jewoome, f. of the deceased

Brother's widow.

Jewonim, PI. (of Jowen) Greeks, Russians.

ä ch, adj. Greek, Ruy.

17*

—, subst. n.

260

Jicheyy, and the gender regimey
yter, Veyhneidungsbuch. |

Yishuf, v. a place – town or village
– where only a few (at most 5 or 6) Jews livey

nen, so that they cannot form a community.

Ikar, m. the farmer, Ackersy mann. PI. Ikarim.

Imach, adv. destroyed, extinguished.
Curse: In the achyychem au, his name
be blotted out; his name shall be given out.

N

Imme, f. (actually Em) the mother. –

i, my mother.
Inside, for the torture, pain, the Torture.

Machine Translated by Google

Intippel, m. the place, usuallyy

ly the apartment of a cooky

mers, where the crooks go after committing theft

to divide the stolen goods. (S. Eintippel.)

Intippeln, v. einkehren, abtreyn ten, especially after theft has been committed, in order to divide the stolen goods.

Jofe, adj. nice, hyeyt, nice, aly
lerliebyt, süße; ne jofe Beyy yula, a pretty maiden.

Jokelcher, PI. Runs (p.
Kinnim, which is more common.)

Yom, m. the day; ba -, at daylight, in the daytime; ha =;
today. PI. Jomaim.

Jo mai, meine Lebentag. Ich hob's
kol jom ai nit ychoy

May be, | have never heard it in my life.

Yom ollef, Sunday, - bite,

Monday, - gimmel, Tuesday, - dalled,
Wednesday, - heih,

Thursday, - woof, Fridayy

- yhabbeyy, Saturday.

Jom tof, (greeting) good day.

Jom ha din, m. the day of judgment.
Jom ha moweyy, m. the stary betag.

Yom Kippur, m. the Veryohy
Morning, long night.

Jom«ylekiche, k. the theft by day.

Jomylekichnen, v. bei Tages ytehlen.

Jommakkener, additional keyy

thieves who steal during the day, especially in larger cities, when the person they are stealing from is absent.

JontiU, PI. (Yhould actually probably Joma im tau wim low

evil are called) the Jewish celebrationsy

Machine Translated by Google

days. Greetings: good TontiU, happy holidays!

JontiU, n. the thieves' tool, especially the duplicate keys. (p.
Cabinet stuff.)

Jo re, m. and f. the, the feary yame. PI Joreiim.

Jorzeit“*), the day of the parents'
death, on which, as often as it occurs, light is given all day (24 hours).

must be burned.

Joschen, adv. et adj. old; –

lych, an old man. A Joycher,

adv. right, just, fair: emmeU we joycher, true
and

right.

Joychnen, v. yidachen (ich jo ychue, du joyschenyt, er joyschent u. fe w.

In's Mitte joyschnen, zu Bette gehen,

yldachen gehen. –, subst. n. das Schlafen, der Schlaf.

) It is supposed to bite the Polish and German Jews

However, pronounce it as stated.

261

Joyyed 1 Joyyeir, w. the nail. . Jeyyodim or Jeyforim.

loUedenetif, and the nail.

Jo wen, m. the Greek, ingleyi chen der Ruß, because in RuBy land the Greek Church the ruling if. – n.

Greeks.

land, Russia. (Correct Erez

jowen.)

Oh dear, adv. et adj. dry, dried, dehydrated. Boyyer n. dry or –,

smoked meat

Ippuych, m the rot, the rotten air;
curse: | have

Machine Translated by Google

push the IP, get the pestiy spring!

lych, m. a man, also a craftsman, with Hiny

addition of fine trade, e.g.

Baryel-lych, the Schmidt yc.

lychymilchome, m. or lychy
mechome, m. the warrior, soldier.
lychynoyman, m. ein Belauby
ter, certified Maun.

lyche, f. a woman, married

thete, geyeBene oder verwitty
white woman.

yche moebdereU, f. eine yschwany older woman.

yim, k. (the sing. Eis is not used at all), the goat, goats.

ymel, n. the barber, shearer: meyyer.

Jud, the tenth letter of the Beyhreyic alphabet (), the number ten (10).

Jewish loose, ye to Making or circumcising Jews
let it go.

Iwri, m. the Hebrew; the juy
but only those who

among them, who is not proficient in the Hebrew and Jewish languages and does not recite the Hebrew prayers at school

ten can. Fem. lwrije.

Ivrish, adv. et adj. bebraisch.

Iwwer, m. the blind. PI.

Jwrim.

K (p. 5.)
Kabber, m. the pit, which in the earth dug hole, the mine, earth hollow.

Kab Bern, v. graben.

Machine Translated by Google

Kabore, k. the place where something,
especially stolen goods and thieves' tools,
is buried or hidden; also the buried bene or hidden object itself. (S. Chawure.)

Kab ron, m. the gravedigger.
PI. Kabronim.

Aan dacheyl, n. the fever, Wechy
selfie fever.

Kadiyisch, n. the prayer which the sons
offer to their deceased

Parents, for 11 months, must pray
twice a day to save them from hell

fen; –, m. the surviving son. He has

a

Kadiyisch left behind, he asked to leave behind a son.

Also a naughty, cheeky oney

For young people, Jews usually make a Kadish

call, which then means as much as wise-guy.

Kayrner, v, the flesh.

Kayrnerfetzter, m. the butcher, ingl. the executive police officer, and generally someone who is responsible for pursuing and capturing crooks.

262

Kays, f. the guard, the guard: | Kamis, n. the shirt. For night-time theft.

Kappen, v. catch, intercept, (see butter and grease.) to grasp, to catch, to enter.

ychen, v. carry, Yluggage, The Ky –, the grinding:

to dig. to catch letters, –, v. to steal.

Kaytycher, m. the carrier, the [Kappore, f. the ruin, the stretcher, the carrying strap. Downfall. Curse: You yell

Kaf, m. der LéUel. Pl. Kappoyy. kappore wer'n, the devil KaUeemihle, f. a Yyocalled fol Dich bekommen. —, adv. ver:

Carriage winches, which were used to break up, smashed, killed. chen trong soap tools, | shred cappore, or: — may where the strength of the hands to kill (someone) is weak, especially to murder, namely to beat, break open iron money boxes, or stab.

is used. Kappore zawvern, the neck KaUer, m. the farmer, also overy to cut. Oneself —. in general the man, human being; wite | Kar,
adj. (PI. Korim) cold,

Machine Translated by Google

ycher —, the simple man, fresh, cool. Majim korim, who does not have fresh, cool water with the crooks.

holds; the non-scoundrel. PI. | Karke, k. the sand, bey. the KaUrim. Sand of the grave.

Kaf ferybenche, n. the farmer: | Karre, f. the bowl, the spey young. Yapf.

KaUerykitt, n. the farmhouse. Kaych, n. the straw stubble, the Kaflaim, (pl. of Keifel) Frie-] stubble field. The wind blows through the trees and similar gold pieces.
| over the Kaych, the wind blows Kafter, m. the button. PI. Kafy over the stubble.

tauri m. Kaychken, v. Ychaden. Almost only Kaiyem,
adv. certyain, beytig. Commonly used in the saying: Kaiiz, m. the summer. Lawy kayschke, yhares nothing, Kalacheyy, k. the pan. Doesn't matter!

Kalches melochnen, v. ver | Kayyiwe, f. the pass, the rei. to vain (something from someone), previous document. Left —, falsey come, hindering the way] yher pass.

to step in; in trade, in purchase Kayyiweymelochner, m. to outbid someone ye.

DuBausiteller, passport maker;

Kalle, f. the engaged bride"). especially the one who faly Kalleyy uU), light, exposed. yche Payye made.

This word is almost only used in the saying "Kayyiwer" (letter), meaning "the letter," or "the letter," in the phrase. It means "the letter" from

leyy roysch, in bare head, the prison to the outside, uncovered head; Be kaly

or from one prison into the leyy roysch divide, into barey others, whereby the gefangy go away with your head. in connection with crooks *) The Christian scoundrels use the word "Kalle" to mean a whore, quite wrongly.

263

yet, and who are most frequently transported by carriage (see carriage.),

but otherwise by stove stokers and other

low-level prison servants.

Kaspern, v. to talk secretly, fi

discuss, in writing or orally

lich, about the situation of the suby

yearch, the examination to be submittedy
yage, the exculy

pationen yc. This happens especially under the conditions in a fangenhanye sitting crooks verbally from the windows of the prison, and by those who

Separate prisons from each other walls, if their strength and rigidity do not correspond to the

resists the penetration of sound;

Machine Translated by Google

or by sharing written notes. (S. Kayyiy who.) They joked, they talked

each other through, they understood damaged.

Kasperiytry, f. the forbidden

chattering from the winyts of Prisons ye.

Ka yywen, m. the liar, denier.

Kayywener, m. the scribe.

Kayywenen, v. ychriften. Er kayywent yofe, erychriфтt ychon.

Kaytoren, v. 6Unen, to open, to unbutton,
e.g., the coat, the trousers Yc. (See Pludern.)

Katoweyy, n. fun, joke, spook.

Kauchof, m. the star (in the firmament). PI. Kachuwim.

Kaudem, adv. before, before, before this, formerly. Kaudem is jofe Aune geweyen, formerly

It was a wonderful time. – loy

chen, adv. then, before.

Kaudem jaum, (jom) ago, be kaudem jaum hany

deln, before dawn, in the

eg

Steal the dawn. (p.

Kitten pusher.)

Kaudemmakener, thieves who, in the early morning hours, through the openings of locked doors

steal. Happens especially by sneaking into the guest house houses. If the thief carrying the key of revenge in his pocket gets a shove, that is, if he is caught by the servants

or someone else for his or her benefit

If he is asked, he inquires about a stranger by asking the first person he sees.

men calls. If he now receives, as always happens, a negative

nding answer, his plan is indeed thwarted for this time, but one can see that he has little to fear from it.

If he does not receive such a yhove, he ytears by pushing the closed door of the first bey yt room opens, from which he can be heard by knocking on the doory

indicates that the resident is still asleep.

Kauder, m. the sufferer, mourner; hence

the corpse
bit'er. PI. Kaudrim.

Machine Translated by Google

Kau deych, adv: et adj. holy.
Loyhaun ha kaudeysch, the holy language, Jewish language.
Kaudeycher, m. der (jüdifche)
Saints.

K 1 udoshim, holy things, Sat:

en.

Kauech, k. the power, strength,
violence. (S. Kooch.)

Purchase, m. of the AUe. PI. Kaufim, Kauhef, adv. yheavy, also fig.

To be difficult to handle, to be difficult (ychleicht) to fteblen, e.g. with someone, in a place c.

264

Barely, f. height, size, body length.
He had a gey

daule Kaume, he is a great

Great human being.

aune, m. the buyer, purchasery
fer, also: owner, possessor.
'aupher, and the bad luck.
aurach, and the ice.

aure, m. the cuckoo.

aure, kf. (PI. Korfayy and orim) the beam, the Gey

weave, the covenant, every

the object used to fasten another, to the body or elsewhere.

Kaure Accobiyisch, the Gey

web of the spider; ZizzeVy forfaU, the belt on which the thought threads around the body bey

yeyt yare. –, f. the cold.
Saure fein, v. lesen aloud.

Bal kaure, m. the reader.

Kaurem, m. the winemaker. PI.
Kormim.

Kauyyel, k. the wall. There is a little Nekefchen in the shop:

yel, merwellen's ausychaby

bern, it is a small hole in the wall, we want to make it bigger

make it better.

Kauyyem, m. the fortune-teller.
Kauyyemen, v. to prophesy.

Chews, m. the meyer which the thief carries with him, especially

the one which leads to the Goley yhafts is used. It is for insertion, has usualy

ly a round booklet and enty

neither a rounded nor a very sharp straight tip.

Kauwe, f. the tent; also the whorehouse.

Kauwe, f. the hat, the cap, Kauwenen,
v. complain, to complain, to become actionable.

Kauzer, f. brevity, – ad.

in short. The Chawolim Vein

Oh my goose, they don't go around the Moos kuppe; the Ropes are too short, they are not long enough to connect the cash box (to connect it with the coffee mill to blow up).

autz, m. the intestine, the iny

integuments. PI. Kautzim.

awine, m. the cheese, Kubkaye.

azof, m. the butcher, meaty
dealer. PI. Kazowim.

edeyche, f. the brothel whore.
PI. Kedeychoyy.

eef, m. the pain.

eefyychinaim, m. der Zahny
pain.

Bowlers (sing. and plural same)

Opportunity thieves who sneak into houses in the morning

chen. (S. Kittenyschieber.)

eifel, adv. double.

eifel, v. das Goldstiick, bey.
Louis d'or or similar. PI.
aflaim.

eile, k. (actually Keli p)) the vessel;
the pot, the barrel, the plate, the bowl
yc. Pl.

eilim.

Wedges for messing around,
or the cooking pot.

Wedges for ychayying, for drinking utensils of any kind.

Keileykeyyaf, f. the DintnyaB.

Wedges, for the pipe; ice wedges, for the tobacco pipe.

Keileblayyer, m. the piper.

minstrel.

Keilef, m. the dog. PI. Kloy wim (bim). The wedge hitsy ert at the Baryel; the dog

Machine Translated by Google

is on the chain. (In such a case, the crooks must be prevented from committing an intentional, nighttime burglary

in the Rey

gel abytstehen, because the dog as.

265

then attacks before it can be dealt with using poison.)

Keim, m. the Jew; the Jewish thief among the Christians.

Keiterling, m. the finger ring; left -,
false, fake

Ring. PI. Keiterlinge.
Keiwer, n. the grave.

Kejumim, PI. Freibeits« or

Confirmation letters; privileges.
Don't do it, and the flour.
Kemize, f. the Goldfinger.
Kerem, m. the vineyard. PI.

Kromim

Row the board. PI. Kroy

yeh

geyyef, n. silver – adv. yilver. Keilim keyyef, fil berne utensils, vessels.

Keyyefychai, n. the mercury.

Keyyefygodel, m. der Silbery

ul PI. Keyyefygedauy

Keyyefymelochner, m. der Sil.
bearbeiter.

Keyyem, n. fine gold.

Keyyer, f. the crown.

Keyyerymalches, f. the Reichsy

crown, emperor's, royal crown.

Keyyeryratt, m. der Kroneny thaler.

Keyyer yohof, m. crown gold.

Keyyeyy, and the inkstand.

ul9ne " f. the marriage bany
gest f ubim, PI. writings, Ser'py tures.

KeweU, ». the lamb.

Machine Translated by Google

Kewone, f. the devotion, On:
attention. – to have, toy

to be thoughtful, attentive.

Kézach, m. the caraway.

Purely m. the determination, the

Two

Kfar, v. the village.

Kfarymakkener, Nachschliyyely

thieves who steal in the villages. (S.
Dorfmaekener.)

Kfaryschaller, m m. der Doryyschuly master, sexton.

Kfori, adv. baurisch. lých 5 a = baurisch, clumsy

enych.
Khille, f. the community; hence (in contrast to Yishuf) a place is also called

so where a Jewish community exists.

Ki, conj. if, because, what; ad

"until that.

Kidd uych, m. the sanctification, Einy consecration, blessing.

Making Kiddush, the Saby

bath or holiday, the inaugurating act very

(The main ceremony of the consecration of the Sabbath or holiday consists in the rabbi in the synagogue, and every householder

in his home, reciting a few blessings

over a cup filled with wine, and after drinking a little of it, allowing all those present to drink.)

Kiddushyyayin, m. the Einy

dedicatory wine. – Cup, the inauguration cup.

Gravel and money, especially court
money and small change.

KieVy in de mulje haben, Geld
in der Taych haben.

Machine Translated by Google

Kieyyler, m. a thief, Spitz bube.

Kieÿ Nn v. yteel, beypecially money

SiemiUen, v. kdpfen, enthaupy

giem, f. rest, leisure, time.
| had no intention of acting, means
as much as: | was (especially 266

from police routes) to be closely observed

respects that | could have stolen anything.

Kier, m

has, e.g. Kier about the Tofeyyen, the prisoner. yeher.

Kijum, m. the stock, the population knowledge, continuity, duration. It has no kjum, it is 9 of permanence.

Kiker, m. der Zentner.
Kin aur, f. the harp.

Kinjenen "v. to buy, to purchase
(something).

Kinjon, m. the purchase, the acquisition. n'n – to make, to make a purchase.

Kinjonnyyuder, m. the purchase, the possession through the coat. (One

among the Juy

the formality customary in sales transactions.
Both Contractsy

ten fayyen, after completing Trade, the tip of a many or, in the absence of this, a linen cloth, which yo much means: that the Gey ychaft has now been agreed and the agreed terms

conditions mutually fulfilled.)

Machine Translated by Google

Kinnim, pl. the legs, – er, m.
Someone who has lice. A very common nickname among crooks.

Kinnim 1 m. of the licey

Kae . h. a felty, yhabbyy

ger M you.

Sinnoh, f. jealousy, the oath

Kin zei ha regel, m der Strumpf.

Kippe, |. the community, Compagy

nie, thieves' camaraderie; – me: lochnen,

make camaraderie.

„the Lord; Someone who has something to say, to beautify

Kiro, m. der Heerd.

Kirrish Medina, f. the often imperial state. aa

Kiych, m. the sound, tone, bey yonders Glockentou.

Kischkeysch, and the chime of the bell, the ringing. It makes kischy keych, the bell is ringing. 5

Kishkuschim, pl. the bells.

Ki¥churim, pl. necklaces.

Kiyew, m. the lie, the denial
nen.

Kiyy, m. der Bentel, der Sack, dergl.

the crooks. take with them,

when they go on nightly trips

break out to get the geytohy

lene Good to pack in it.

PI. Kiyyimer.

Kivy on n. the purse.

Kivye, f. the chair. Bajes ha

–, the chair house, the.

Toilet.

Kishlew, name of the ninth month. g

Kiywenen, v. to lie, to deny, to disavow,

(the evidence Yc.)

Putty, vu. the house; plate –,

Machine Translated by Google

the familiar house, the thievesy hostel.

Kitchen, n. the prison, breeding building.

Kitten smugglers, thieves, who, in the summer time, the Mory

gens early, where usually the People are still sleeping, in (beyony ders noble) houses ychleiy

chen and steal from the rooms which they find open.

Such thefts are usually only carried out in large cities and spa towns. The thief is lightly dressed and usually wears shoes so that his footsteps are not audible. He knocks on the first door he finds in the house and opens it.

267

no call to enter, and as he enters the room he wishes everyone a good morning.

If he finds nothing worth stealing in the first room, he is bold enough to continue, into the possibly adjoining sleepy room, where he precedes his entry with the same maneuvers. Keeping a close eye on the sleeping man, he searches his clothes for the keys to the cupboards.

ken and castes, opens such when he finds them and steals from them what he considers most decenty ften it. Going backwards, Komy

Cutting pliments and saying "good morning", he then leaves after committing the theft and locks the doors himself quietly closed again, so that if he let them open, the draft would not slam them shut, which would wake the sleeper and cause him to be pursued.

Not infrequently, this type

Thieves a barber bag andy

ter the arm, to, if yhe

Request (request) to indicate that they are

Barbers were appointed,

You also ask, in such a case, about the first,

Best, to which they are offered

ly want, usually after a»

Machine Translated by Google

a doctor or midwife.

Women cultivate mostly

yt this kind of thieffy
steel.

Kittenyhrub, m. being at homey
sneak; push a kitten

hold, a theft by Sneaking into a house (on the bey ycribed Weye).

Kittnigoyy, Pl. the peas.

Klafta, f. the bitch. Also used as a swear word: 'ne miyya Klafta, eine haBy liche Betze.

Klapper, f. et n. the mill.

A

lapperylych, m. the miller.

A

latycher, m. der Frachtfuhry
an.

3

Klamoniyy), (only used in the plural) the smaller Diey tools, lock picks, locksy

hooks and the like; usualy

However, only the following ychliiyyel understood by it. The Klamoniyy, from familiar castles

(cheyyen Baryelmey hole punchers) made, whoy

which the thieves, as the first necessities of their art, keep like a sanctuary. They are usually in the hands of the leader of the chay wruyye, des Balmayyemat.

ten, which in the time when they are not used, cha wure

When exiting, turn onto a

nen theft lie fie wohny

ly in the raised floor of the Lay ternenkorbes veryhecht.

By the way, the crooks usually have to pay dearly for good Klamonivy, if they cannot make them themselves, and the fenden Schlosser have a guy ten merit in this.

Klaumer, as if to say;
He steals cheese as if he wanted

yay cheese. Ordinary rey densart among the Jews to designate insignificant things.

Machine Translated by Google

) From Hoy bp (Kleiumoneyy) tools.

268

Klei, n. (pl. Keilim) the Gey

barrel, device, – yohof, golden vessel,
– keyyef, yilbern Ge vessel, – nechauscheyy, copper vessel, – be dill, tin Gey

barrel, – baryel, iron vessel, –
jauzer, earthen vessel, –

baiis, household appliances.
Kleinklamoniyy, n. der Schaby

ber, (chisel) the Abytey

cher and the backup keys, in contrast to GroBklamoy

niyy, as the crowbar is called.

Bran, and silver (less commonly used as keyyef).

a

ei yajeyy, PI. muyikaliysche In: ytrumente.

Kleiyyajim, WaUen, beyspecially gunwaUen.

Kleiyyajimymelochner, m. der Schwerdtfeger, Buichyenmacher.

A

leymer, m. the must-edge. PI. leymorim.

a

Kling, n. or Klinge, f. Gey my name for every musical instrument.

Klitychen, v. ychliichen, (ý. Glity

ych) by means of a backup key yteel. This expression is prey especially among the Berlinersy

– ben febr usual.

Kluft, f. the skirt, the dress jey

of the genus.

Clefts, v. to clothe.

Kluftmigdel, and the clothes: closet.

Klumnik, n. the packet, the pack, pack of goods, the bundle or bale, likewise the pack with stolen goods.

lump, m. the amount of

Machine Translated by Google

Wealth of that which is Stealing present or already

ytohlen ist.' n grauBenyKlummy

pen act, make a significant profit from theft.

Knacker, n. the wood, Brenny

wood, brushwood.

Knackmukum, n.

Braunschweig.

bang, v. shoot.

Knaller, m. das Piyol.

Knayy, m. the punishment, the punishment: recognition. It will be Knayy give, it will be punished

be recognized. Knayyiibery

baun, receive punishment.
Knayyen, v. ytrafen, punishment fest.
yet. It is jailed

den, it is recognized as a punishment.
(This is what is said in particular about the session of a criminal court)

Court of Justice.)

Kneiyyen, v. erfahren, wiiyyen,

become known; become knowny

den. Is almost only used in the participio. | had ity

kneyt, | found out.

Or, to the question: Who is the man?
Answer: I'm not sure, | don't know him.

Kneyyeyy, the assembly, Zuy yammenkunft. Bajes ha kneyy

feßl, n. the meeting house, the synagogue.

Kochem, adv. clever, shrewd, initiated into the mysteries of thieves. – to be, to adhere to the principles of thieves; also of the Officialy

ten, who helps the crooks (through Payye yc.), it is said: er is kochem. i

KochemyLoychen, n. the Gauy language. –, v. the crooksy
speak language. |

'ochemer), m. the Clever, Gey

ycheute; the crook, thief, scoundrel

the city

*) Several writers, among others v. Grolman and v. Dydzinski, be:

269

bube, for like the one who sides with them, who shelters them, buys the stolen goods from them" c. (S. Chey.)

Machine Translated by Google

Kochemer, the communal name of the crooks, in contrast to all the venerable people who are called "the Witiychen".

KochemeryBajes, and the house of a confidant; the tavern or inn where the scoundrels meet to talk about to advise on thefts

then, to divide the stolen goods; where they can further find hiding places to protect themselves from persecution Yc.

Kochemery Penne, f. the shelter. (S. Cheyye Spieye.)

KochemerySpieyy, m. der very trusted innkeeper, thief innkeeper.

KochemeryZink, m. a timey chen, which, at the city

wall or on a cross y

ways appropriate, the following
following comrades the wayy shows which one he has to take.

Kodeysch, m. the whore, pimp,

shameful person.

Kohol, f. (pronounced: cabbage) the congregation, assembly; assembly
yembly of crooks to go on theft.

Kohlyschatt), f. the Veryammy

lation time, the time in which the Moy November and December, where during the nights in the

As a rule, the moon does not shine and they are therefore particularly skilled at committing nighttime burglaries. (S.

Chaychech.)

Kol, f. the voice.

Kol, adv. everything; – echod, Jey
the beypective; – haj om, the whole day; – we fol, all in all.

Kol jomai, all the days of my life. |
hob's kol joy

mai nit ychomai geyen, | have never heard it in my life.

Machine Translated by Google

Kolyniddra, n. the evening at the beginning of the warm night, when the Jews gather in the school for prayer;

also this prayer itself.

KommiyyyTarchener, m. the fraudulent collector; the beggar with false papers.

Komo, n. the standing grain.
Ko no, u. the pipe, Ypaniyche pipe.

Konoyyyreife, f. a shotgun, rifle,
(literally: fire tube.)

Kooch, f. (from Kauech) power, strength, force. Ve or Per =

—, by force, ge:
violent (stealing). f

claim that it is called Koch um er and Kochum. This, however, is just as uncorrect as Falk opinion, who says that Cochem means someone draw, who speaks the thieves' language, and is in contact with thieves; Coy

but it means someone who can be trusted not to betray a theft, but to make a business out both tery

minologien find in any case ynonim. However, since cooking comes from the Jewish word Cho wise, the o in the last syllable in Jewishy

e as e is pronounced, fo it must undoubtedly also be Cho che m eiBen.

2) When v. Grolman says that it is actually called Koschuychschatt, it is not clear what h bases his completely erroneous assertion on.

det. It is obvious that the word comes from the Jewish: Ko hol, the assembly. a 270

Cooks go on violent

burglary, robbery

go.

Koof, the eleventh letter of the Hebrew alphabet (כ), the number twenty (20.)

Koofcheyy, m. the robbery, gey violent break-in, where the crooks' faces blackened

zen to be unrecognizable, and gag the house's residents. (p.

Chayyne.)

Kosher, adv. pure, permissible, unsuspected. (the opposite of Treife). –
fine, or: – go: go, be pure; no

thievesy

tools or stolen items

Machine Translated by Google

chen with you, so that possible arrest (promise

felung) so easy nothing suspiciony tiges against the person of Gauy

ners can be determined; Yelf – clean up, defend oneself during interrogation,

the suspiciony

to refute reasons; to burn clean, white.
– to stand, uny

be disreputable, not be known to the police

as acrook, so that one is not subject to their special attention; not have any general suspicion against oneself.

Koyhern, ». (actually Ka: yhern) to cleanse, to purify oneself, –, yourself

both in the body and in the house;

because of what is expectedy

conceal the stolen goods during the viyitation, during the arrest

tion tear out the thief's bag, throw away the spare keys, in a word remove everything that could make the thief suspicious or expose him.

KoU, m. the cup, also the drinking utensils in general. PI.
Kauyyoyy.

KoU Ychel jajin Yyoref, m.

the brandy bottle or the brandy glass.

Koten, adv. et adj. small (m. kotener,
f. kotene, u. Boten.)

Kotener Muyhlkracher, m. the axe; a thieves' instrument,

which refers to the nightly entryy

breakage is taken away.

Koteneymeyyumme, the small Baarychalt,
the spending money.

Kowod, f. honor, Hochachy
tung, – adv. honored, respected.

Kowodyychem, an honored, respected name; – ychemau, yhis name be honored.

Ko ze, f. the end, extreme.
Min ha koze, al ha koze, from one end to the other.

Ko zin, m. a prince, lord; a rich, noble
man. PI.
Kezinnim.

Kozir, m. the harvest. Aune –, f.
the harvest time.

Machine Translated by Google

Kracher, m. das Pryol.

Kracher, m. the forest, bush, the woodland.

Kracher, m. the KoUer, travely
koUer, especially the one attached to the back of the wagon.

Kracherfetzen, m. der KoUery
theft, by cutting the same off the carriage. –

v. KoUer abycheinen.

Sick, adv. arrested; – fine, to be arrested, – to have become, to have been arrested.

Sick pluck, arrest, ary retire.

Kraut, f. et n. the flight, escape.

Krauten, v. flachten.

To pick the weeds, v. to flee, to go through, to spring. He has picked the weeds, he has taken flight.

2271

Kreienen, v. to report, to announce; also: to scream. |

Kreincher, PI. Kanten, Blony den, tips. Kreincher han: deln, Kanten ytehlen.

Kreipel, m. the dwarf, little person.

Krembene, k. the violent break-in. (This word is weynig commonly used. S. Schrayn ker.) N

Crisis, f. the rift, the rift of death. If the Jews are close to Very turned, especially parents ytery According to their law, they should tear their clothes, sprinkle ashes on their heads, and wear sackcloth to announce their mourning. This, of course, no longer happens; however, the equivalent is

In such a case,

Machine Translated by Google

As a sign of mourning, a cut, not externally noticeable, in her rod, and this is the death rip. Hence the curse: You yell

ycheyne 'ne Krle; thou yhalt ġhall yt
thyselſ yhall yhall tear the death-tear, ie thou yhallesſ yhall yt die.

Otherwise this word will

from the Jews, and from the Jewish scoundrels in particular

dere, also used in another sense, and:

"Er werd ŷich 'ne Krie ycheiden," then means as much as: he will

to deceive, to mislead, to mislead calculate.

Krire, f. the cold; gedaule

a great cold. PI. Kriy

royy. N

kriyyuyy, f. extermination.

Kroygelchen, n. the neck, the Gargle. We'll

Sfylichuer an's Krégelchen

come, the traitor willy
which we paint it, come to his neck.

Kroyyim, PI. die GriUe, Handy have, hooks. The Kroyyim and the Mooskuppe, the GriUe on the cash box.

Krummklapp, m. a (old-fashionedy yhar) writing desk with slanted flap; also overy

main desk, the Comy touristic.

Crooked head, m. the crowbar, for breaking open doors, breaking through walls Yc.

It is usually 3 feet long,

16 pounds heavy, tapers from top to bottom,
is at the top, in Shape of a hook, bent and has at this upper end

usually about 11 inches in diameter. It is in they

yer shape is not available anywhere,

and will be stolen from the crooks»

trusted, or perhaps from village blacksmiths, where they yelbe under any prey

give beyordayt, always specially made.

Kyauneyy, and the shirt.

Machine Translated by Google

uf, the 24th letter of the hey Brahman alphabet (p), the number hundred (100).

uUen, v. ytehlen, bey. mittelyt
Nachschliyyyels. |

n m. the keyy
love.

ulmuyy, f. the writing pen.

Kuppe, y. a crate, box, can, a crate. –
ychel beyyomim, the spice cayteu.

en chi, m. the Moor. “PI. Kuy

in the.
Kut¥sche, f. the cord, the Vindy or threads, by means of which the prisoners can communicate with each other

BE

which are connected. Objects of all kinds, especially written notes, are zen, tied and then lowered from one prison window to the other.

Kweide, f. the heaviness, the KLAYt.

La as, adv. foreign, barbaric, nay mental of languages. They medabbern be laas, fie rey

the foreign languages.

Laatysche, kf. the freight wagon.

Laatyche belatchenen, or – beyyachern, to steal freight wagons.

Lachutze, ads. back, out,

continued. – halchen, backy

or go away, move away; cross the border, go abroad.

Lahachleyy, to spite, to pose, to prank.

He does it to me lahachleyy, he does it to my annoyance.

Lahuwi, (my) beloved.

Machine Translated by Google

(Commonly used as a form of address.)

Lambden, m. actually a young man

diycher scholar, in the Gau

nerysprache but this refers

Word a mischievous, raUiy

nirten Menschen; a grauauBer

Lambden, an arch-scoundrel. PI.

Laumbdim. | This

word also has

three meanings:

1. If the crooks are at a

Theft by any person property, especially through the Intervening of a third party must, it is said: they have received lambs. (p.

lamps.)

2. Is the VeytohIne Lamb called den, and 3.

every pursuer of the scoundrels is called a Lambden.

Lammet, the twelfth letter of the Beyhrischen alphabet (b); the number thirty (30).

Lamps, m. (comes from Lambden). The event or the one (especially the watchman) through whose arrival the

Crooks carrying out a disturbed or disturbed by theft

be hunted. Is the guard or another person of

the betrayal is to be feared, the theft is still far away, then it is a Villuminating lamp, but it is already close, and thus the danger of discovery is great

Ber, yo is it a full lamby

pen. In this case, call who stands guard in front of the house

the crooks, their comrades, perhaps inside,

yen the word lamps loudly and everyone then takes the

Machine Translated by Google

Escape.

lamps, disturbed during a theft, chased away

which, through guards, was added
my people yc.

Lang michel, m. the sword, hunter.
Latchenen, ». Yteblen. Ba leile

latchenen, zur Nachty steal time. N

Latchener, m. the thief, especially the key thief.

Lattech, adv. arm. – fine, poor, to nave no money.

ten, be disturbed, fo that fie | Lau, adv. not, nothing. (S. La w.) refrain from carrying 1 Laulone, not yet.

273

Law, adv. no, not, nothing. he . the clay.

Squeezes out the negatives and glue foam, for those from the compartment is used like the German "nicht" werk and Lehmpatzen erbanete. Ich halchen law, Wand. Durch eine yuch gey

I'm not going; rattne law, the break-in is very easy, | don't confess anything. In -, where with the crooked head not. a compartment is ejected, through

Lechajim, cheers! to healthy which then one or the highesty

15 (drinking. S. Chay yts two into the interior of the m.) house, while the Leche m and the bread.

Others outside on grease

Léchem lowen, u. WeißBbrod, fteben bleiben.

Semmel. Lekiche, k. the taking, hence

Hole slider, m. of the baths. the theft. – make, ay

Lechem riecher*), m. to commit theft. Se ypeaker, boaster; someone who boasts about his income, yey made, ye have a bey makes his merits important. | committed a slanderous theft.

Lechet luli"), m. the mockery, Lekiche de leile, nightly mockery, freethinking.
– | Theft. to make, to mock the (Jewish) Re. Lekiche perkooch ,, Theft ligion taunt, to make mockery. through violent burglary.

Leck, n. the prison. Ins Lekichnen, v. take, steal.
Le ck kommen, wer arrestedy Schauchet lekichnen, Gey
to take a gift, to be bribeable.
Lef, v. the heart. Be – tof, Lekicher, m. an Epigbube. with a good heart;
be – fcho« | Lemale, adv. above. lem, with all my heart. Le male, f.
(PI. Lemaleyy) der Leienen, v. leVen. (I leine, floor, the stairs. Schnei du 1 er leint :c.) Lemaleyy, two stairs. Bei Leile, f. the night. Ba of the night, at nighttime, ba | kern) this word has another

–, inthe pickpockets (Zorfdruf:

Machine Translated by Google

already –, in the yblack, ytocky other meaning, namely the dark night. outer skirt pocket. Wears in a

Leilegaynger, thieves, who yt someone's moneyy

Nighttime yteyhing. bérye, yays it: the torso is Leilekiyy, m. the bag, sack, on the right or left Le. to be used for nighttime thefts.

to pack the stolen goods into it: | Lematte, adv. below ground level. The Masematten is ley

Leileyschmier, k. the night mat, the loy to be stolen guard. kal is on the ground floor.

*) Should actually be Ban ruacher.

*) It should actually be Lecholile (yd), but the Jews pronounce it as indicated.
18

274

Lepochuyy, adv. at least, at least.

Lerof, adv. enough, sufficiently.
Leychaw, adv. false, vain, us

yonyt.

Leychem, prep. therefore, thereforey

gen, um. – Ychomai im, for heaven's sake.

Lesfinne, f. the drawer with the redeemed money; the shop cash register, the theft of which, by means of a lime stick, a class of crooks especially

excerpted. (S. Stipper.)

Lewaje, k. the corpse, the bodyy funeral. – to give, or: – to do, to accompany a dead person, to follow him to the grave.

Lewau ne, f. the incense.

Lewone, k. the moon, moony
yhind, while on thieffy ytahl is not assumed.

The Lewone mekaudeych, sanctify or consecrate the moon. This happens every month when the moon is full

is, through a specially ordained prayer, which, with certain customs, is recited in the open air.

Lewone make the lock on a door all around with Drill holes and these

then cut out so that the lock falls out.

Machine Translated by Google

Lezanim, PI. the muyicants.

the secret path,

Haliche.)

Link, adv. et adj. fal%ch, ver: fyalyed, counterfeit, fake. The thing is link, meaning as much as it is not yeryt.

ity, is fictitious.

Left flap, f. a false passport.

Leftmeyyumme, k. the faly

ycheque; the tokens that look like gold pieces, used to attract players during the game.

Left Syhowe, f. false, counterfeit goods, such as are used for swindling. (p. Neppen.)

Leftist, m. a crook, scoundrel.

LeftyChalfen, w. or Lefty changer, m. the counterfeit money changer; a thief who exchanges moneyy steals. (S. Chalfen.)

e m. the image:
ieb.

Linkytappler, m. der betragy Collector; someone who begs on false papers (supposedly for others).

Linkzchokker, m. the wrong oney player.

Linken, v. aufpayyen, argschweiyh observe, be attentive.

The suitor has more on the

Quickly linked, | didn't know how to do it:

The man | wanted to steal from watched
me, | couldn't steal anything.

nen.

Linzen, v. yehen, bey particularly very
to look through a keyhole, e.g. to poke through a keyhole; to poke through.

Machine Translated by Google

Littra, f. the pound (weight).
Pl. Littroyy. Bite Litty
royy w'choze, 24 pounds.

Loywches-medine, f. the Greaty
Duchy of Hesse.

Loywchesy-mokum, n. the city of Darmstadt.
Lo yschaun, u. the tongue, language, national language, the dialect.

Loyschaunyayschkenayy, n. the German language.

Loychaun ha kaudesch, and the Jewish

janguage.

275

Loychaun zarfoU, and the French- y

zoyische language.
Loychen, ». peak, talk; koy

chem —, the thieves' language rey

the.

a1 9 Ne, m. the spoon. PI. Loychy
e

To scrape off, v. to break off (with a chisel).

Losychnellen, v. losyschieBen.

Lowen, adv. et adj. white. Bey ged —, white cloth.

Lo wene Balmecho meyy, more often:

Reichish military.

Lo wenes, n. something white. Usually writing paper is called this underytod.

LowenySchurrich, n. WeiBy stuff, laundry.

Lowiyemmeyy, m. or Lau: emmeU,
m. the untruth,

lie; fabrication, falsehood

yh confession, the false confession chastisement. N

Luchey, Pl. the tablets on which

15 Ten Commandments written

Machine Translated by Google

en.

Lul, m. der Hihnersteig.
Lulke, f. the tobacco pipe.
Luppert, m. die Taschenubr. 'n

Luppert zuziehen, eine Tay steal a clock.

Lus, f. the nut. PI. Luyim.

Ma, question word: how? what? may harbe, how much?
Make, this little word is used in the Kochemerylanguage often

Nouns are added, which then becomes a verbum aclivum enty

yts. E.g. Emmeyy ma: chen, tell the truth, make a fuss, Yay out of things, exculy

piren yc. 6

Machlauke, f. the preparation. – do,

incite, incitement

make.

Machne, k. the military lager, also the army, Heeresy

do it yourself.

Machychéwa, f. the sorceress,

Witch.

Machychoywo, f. the thought.

PI. Machychowoyy.

Machulle, adv. sick, miserable; – become, become bankrupt.

Machutten, m. the father-in-law; actually only the brother's father–

inaw; chochem –,

a mischievous

Man, cunning thief.

Mayckert, m. der Muyikant.

Mafrekeyy, n. the neck.

Mageife, f the plague, contagious disease.

a

Ma hane fein, v. to delight, Jey

To give or yhow to someone in order to make them happy. E.g., Er hot mer's mahane geweyen, er hat es mir schenkte.

Machine Translated by Google

Mahane jypieve fine*), (wordsy

ly: to delight the inn).

When entering a Wirthsy

house or a tavern something consume, so that the innkeeper can see that one has not come in vain.

) Falkenberg, v. Grolman, Train, and all other authors have translated this word as follow To please someone for show or out of interest (only instead of mahane, mechanne is mistake
But this is precisely the misunderstanding:

ly as completely wrong.

18*

276

un on Ep

Maicheyy, m. customs, taxes,

duties. n n. customs:

out. 8

Majemen, ». regen. (See Ge: ychem,
which is more common.)

Majim, n. the water, the river,

stream; godel –.,. large water, large river; the main river in a province, wet mentally the Rhine.

Majon, w. the harbor.

Makir, m. the connoisseur, expert permanent. (S. Meiwin.)

Mak ir fein, v. wissen, erkeny

nen, recognize. Ani bin ihn lau makir geweyen, | did not recognize

him.

Makke, f. the ulcer; Makke ba chaure, f.

yworried.

Makkeies, pl. blows, beatings; –
mardeyy, miserable beating gel.

Makkeies uyberbaun, blows

get, be chastised.

Makkeinen, v. Yschlag, prily

Machine Translated by Google

punish, chastise. They have him

tof makkeint, Vie have him

beaten up thoroughly.

Makkel, m. the stick, Priigel, Knittel,
also: the Kanty

ychu, the instrument of punishment.
Makkener, thieves who withy telyt Nachschliyyels fteblen. This type of thieves is divided into different gradations, depending

which they either at

Days, or evenings, in citiesy

ten or villages, mainly to steal, the usual However, the procedure is as follows—
gende: Is the Makkener a Mayyematten has been

baldowert, or has he baldowert him
himself, yhe beyich Yelf

the blood

eo We

— en, ma

possibly, at the same time the Stuy benthirychloB, in order to then

Form of the diet to be usedy richs to beytbestimmung. Is the Conytruction of the castle bey

ypar yt difficult, yo yhe yought.

to get a wax impression of it.

Baldowe rung he knows when the suitor is not at home.

At this time he then goes, with one or more

Comrades, according to which to beyisty apartment. By Any knock on the door of the same,

or by tightening the Kliny

gelzuges he convinces himself that really nobody in the crowd.

Machine Translated by Google

ye. Then he opens, conveys telyt of the night brought alongy ychliyyel, the door and goes inside, while the Others remain outside on guard to watch

what

yich goes outside, a wakingy

to keep a close eye on things and to warn your comrades of any danger yen to be notified. If there are several chawers, then

which also, at various locations

ten, several smears on: geyt. – The duplicate keys are, after being unlocked, placed in a hiding place, thaty

with them, in case of possible overy rumbling, the thieves were not found. – The person who entered the apartment

is, here, with a Jadyhabber carrying with him,

after he has lit a light, if necessary, to

for what purpose he lighter

and a little wax candle at yshould be worn, the closed conditions and steals from it the 277

Beyt, mostly but only, everything

Leaving others lying, money and precious objects, the booty then comes to the Chelnke among the chawers.

Makkenen, v. vermitteltst Nachy ychluiyyels (in the manner specified).

Mal ¥sein, v. beycensored. Er hot yaan Kadiysch mal gey

weyen, he has yhis son

Machine Translated by Google

circumcised. (It is not uncommon for the father to arrange for his son to be circumcised himself.)

Malach, m. the angel.

Malach ha moweyy, mw. about the angel of death, fig.: death.

Malbyisch, m. the skirt, any kind of garment. PI. Mal: bu ychim.

Malches, m. a crowned head, the sovereign.
Malch es joy
whom, Emperor of Russia, – tsary foyy, King of the French yc.

Malches-Reyyine, f. a royal kayye. – – be yyachern, ak.

kayye beystehy

len (as what the Jewish Gauer always focus their attention on).

Maline, f. the quarters, the hostel.
Kochemer Thieves' Inn. —, the

Mam auden, v. (S. Mammen.)

Mammen, v. admit, confessy to confess. (Repentance: a term for confession.)

Mammeysch, m. etwas Wirkli

ches, Tatvolles. Es is kaan mammeysch bau, es if nothing on him; he ift nichts werth.

Mamyer, m. ein Hurkind. PI.
Mamyerim. Fem. Mamyey

rey/.
Mamyer ben hanide, m. das

Child of an unclean whore, ie a child born at the time of menstruation

(where intercourse is forbidden to Indians) conceived child.

Serves as a severe swear word and is used to describe a bad, vile person. b

Mannischtanne, adv. clever. clever,
— to be, to be clever; to know the crooks and to deal with themy

keep them; do not betray them.

(The meaning is the same as CheVy.)

Mannischtanner, m. a Very dearest of the crooks and scoundrelsy boys; someone who knows their trade, helps them along and benefits from it.

Coat, n. the roof. |

—Euyay —

Marks.

Marach yein, with the Gody
pause their duties if there are not yet 10

people in the school at the evening prayer meeting. (S. Minjon.)

Marchez, f. the laundry, washy
linen, also washing. A ui marchez mich, |
wash myself.

Marchezybajes, u, the forest

a house.

Marchezygordel, m. der Bald: keyyel. A

Marchitzer, m. an exceptionally skilled thief. The boy will be called a Marchitzer,

from the inside a prey

become a mischievous rascal.

Mare, f. the sign, the signy

pointer, the signpost.

Maremokunm, n. (actually the local newspaper, the Negiyter) about false proof of the alibi, wherey

by the under investigation

278

thenen crooks usually the Mayyematten), m. the thief:

The most urgent arguments against them are theft, especially a specific theft that is still be carried out, the evidence of which tends to refute it. The actual palladium of one – standing, of their impunity. (The next one is to have a theft in store, here about this exculpation, for the execution of which the means is already known from the previous location cited.) – make, or: yhall, the execution yelf – give, false testimony for also decided, but still to provide the crook's alibi. yhoven is; – act, thiefy

Even the people themselves who commit thefts; – baldowern, for false alibi testimony about: scouting out opportunities for theft give (usually EhriSts, ychschaften or nachweisen. yeldom Jews) are called Marey Mayyematten bekauech (or mokum). Hence – perkooch), the gew. Burglary yt, false witnesses to the storm; the house robbery.

Prove the alibi. Be happy, be glad; Marpe, k. the medicine. yich –, to be happy (especially with

Machine Translated by Google

Margiych yein, sensitive, someone.) be resentful.

Mayyer, m. the traitor, Any

Maroche, f. the border, landowner; wittycher desgrenze. –, the Plauy About the May derer, a scoundrel who doesn't come to roche, about those who deny. Pl. Moyyrim.

border, the country's meyers, v. to report, denunci

to be expelled. to betray, to betray; also: to warn.

Marre, f. the mirror. Mayygeir, k. the buckle.

Marre, f. the pasture, Huth, Mayymio yein, Yich, yich very Pasture, meadow. to wonder (about something.)

Maychkenen, v. pfanden. Mayyper, n. the barber's knife, Maychkon, n. the pawn. PI. Scheermeyyer.

Mayschkéneyy. – Maychké. | MaUref, m. der Kamm.

neUverjafhmwenen, Pfänder Mayyrekmelechner, derKammy ~~ — ee uzuu?

move. maker.

Maychkonybajes, and the pawn, Matche, adv. a little, a pawn shop. bischen. Ich will a matche

Maychkonykeim, m. der Pfand: joychnen, | want to sleep a little. (S. Meat, whereof

Maflek, k. the fork. it is derived ift.)

Mayel, n. luck. Happiness. Matwe, n. yarn. Wishing is: Mayel]

Mattone, f. gift. – tof, good luck! Good luck! nasenen, to give a gift, maselik, adv. lucky. to give a gift. Pl. Mattoneyy.

Mayyel, f. the tobacco pipe. Mattow, n. the cellar, the Mayyel, v. Tobacco smoking. Unteryte.

*) From W) pon (Mayyaumatten), the action, trade.

Mauchel fein, v. to forgive, to pardon. Be mauchel, forgive! We want to be mauchel, we want to forgive him.

Maucher, w. a merchant, Kray
mer; the merchant.

Maucheryyy'forim, m. the bookseller.

Maucheyy, m. der Zolleinnehy

mer, tax officials, border guards
ter.

Maude fein, ». geyessen, bes

Machine Translated by Google

know, – become, to the Gey understandings come, – were yen, have known.

Mauhel, m. (pronounced Maul) the circumciser. .

Maulechen, v. to blacken, to smuggle, to contreband; also: to bring, to carry away, to send for transport, to transport.

To –, v. deliver.

Mauled, m. the new moon, the new ight. Hajom is mauled, today is the new moon.

Moor, f. fear, anxiety, beyoration.

He ceiyyt be

maure, whose y'en verheiy

»feln wer'n, he lives in fear of being arrested. – haben, haben
Furcht, yich fürsorge.

Mauschel, m. the powerful, someone who has power; the punitive judge, inquirer. (p.

Big talk.)

Mauschof, w. the dirt, Kotb. en

Meat, adv. (pronounced Mat) little,
Bimat, very little.

Mebeln, v. bekommen, erhalten, besaußen,
acquiry ; ervery

ben, kaufen. Ba d'n Syauby

cher kann mer nihyt mey

beiu, was a Gan new brauy

– -j- _ Uæ. – -¥ nn

chen, the merchant has nothing that a thief could use.

Mechabel yein, verperben, very wounds.

Mechaije fine, nourish, honorary nourish themselves. =

Mechallel Vein, desecrate, proy

fanirize. Mechallel ha yshaby

beyy fein, the Sabbath eu-

holy.

Machine Translated by Google

Mechaychef, m. the magician, fortune teller, sorcerer.

Mechile, f. the rear, ass.

You will be doing something on the Get Mechile, you get a beating.

Mechile, (0) f. forgiveness;

the – praise, ask for forgiveness (of someone).

Mechio, k. the food, the food branch,
the honest trade. |

Me dabbern, . Ypeak, talk, chat, Yay; den Emmeyf medabbern, die Wahrheit yay

gen.a

Medina, f. the land, especially the flat country, in contrast to (Mokum) city. The scoundrels, however, understand

it

also in particular the Vay

gabondage, vagrancy, the actual homeless

Gauy

experience how it would otherwise have been

Gr is on the Medine juyg geworden,
therefore means as much as: he is on the rogue sprees of his Ely

tern, born in a tavern or elsewhere (behind the fence, as one commonly says).
PI. Medinoyy.

Medineychippeysch, m. the countryy
(general state) visitation.

Medine geier, m. the Landhauy

280 firer, who in the flat country (as opposed to Mokumy

vulture) goes raking.

Medineyzajid, m. the country:
hunter.

Meemmer, m. a saying, a Speech. – make, or – to quip, to say a saying, to give a speech.

Mefeijs fein, v. beyanftigen,

Machine Translated by Google

give in, apologize.

Mefuryyem, adv. et adj. bei rühmt,
bekannt. – mokum, a famous place.

Megeire, k. the saw.
Oh, a hundred.
Meiesaléfim, hundreds of thousands.

Meilech, m. the emperor, king, or other crowned head. (S. Malches.) Likewise, the king in cards:

game.

Meilechs-mokum, n. the city of Frankfurt am Main (because the German Kaiser used to live there) was crowned).

Meiliz, m. the lawyer, Defeny
yor, legal ayt.
Meieyy, hundreds. Snow

meieyy, two hundred yc.

MeyYtern, v. this little word is, for itself,

almost not at all,

or at least very difficult to overy
yet; but it is also almost only

common when from the Meiy

ytern of the suitor, ie the one to be robbed, is spoken of.

Because, as it is especially especially in the case of duplicate key theft

then probably sometimes happens, the absent Damnify

back before the theft is completed, the guard standing in front of the door

will stop him

Thieves through a conversation,

that he connects with him, yo

long until the in the living roomy
The cha who are in charge have found an opportunity to withdraw: that is, he tyert him.

Me iwin, m. a connoisseur, expert;
someone who knows how to examine something; a graBer Meiwin, an excellent Keny

ner. – to be, to understand, to be
nen.

Machine Translated by Google

To be mejaychef, to recognize one's injustice, to give in, to give in.

If, for example, two people are discussing a
a point, the one who gives in last says:
Bruy

the, | am me's mejay

ychef geyen.

Mekaudeych yein, beiligen, heiy
keep it holy. Shabbeyy me» kaudeysch fein, keep the Sabbath
holy.

Melach, m. the salt.

Melamed, m. the schoolmaster (both Jewish and Christian)

Meloche, f. work, employment
tigung; the craft, trade.
Bal –, m. of the craftsman

man.

Melocheybajes, v. the work-

a house.

Melocheypen, the crafty

journeyman, journeyman.

Melochezeug, n. the crafty tools, work tools.

Melochnen, v. to work, to do, to make.
We want to make friends, we want to make friends.

Meluach, adv. et adj. salted.
Dogim, salted fish, herrings.

Mem, the thirteenth letter of the Hebrew alphabet (m), the number forty (40).

Coward, k. the mother.

281

Menachem fein, v. trösten, be: ner Unterychung viele Beychuly

quiet. dyations and evidence against Menachem

Owel*) are fine, which have een, so that one can console the mourner without punishment.

are especially the, Zrö | Merchezer, thieves, who day

yt for the purpose of making a business that yuche understood, which the Jews yneep on the floors of the survivors of a to dry there or Deceased, during which they steal hung laundry. Days of mourning, daily. Such thieves are also uny must be greeted by this designation,

Machine Translated by Google

Menaure, m. the chandelier. who lodge in inns, in mensjed, adv. cunning, mischievous, inns, the clever (So much as cheyy.), carters, cattle dealers Yc.

Mens keyy, k. a lactating woman. during the night the money kazy Menuche, k. the peace, the Uny zen cut off from the body and be disturbed, with Menuche, without thereby making off with the dust

Disturbance, undisturbed. Mok umy machen.
menuche, n. the place of rest, the MergolioU, pl. real pearls.
Meride, f. the revolt, the Asylum.

Mepaycher fein, v. verdollmety rebellion, the conspiracy. – to make, to conspire.

yhe, sweep over.

Mephalpel Vein, disputiren, Se han Meride gemacht, den Schien

gefetzt, un yen

We argue. We argue broke, they have

phalpel been, we quarreled. Aroused rebellion, murdered the overseer Merachem fine, v. compassionately, and fled. fine, to show mercy. Jey M 8 5 ch eyj, f. the fragrant ointment.

manden merachem fein.

Meragel yein, v. to get used to, to. Merfohim, pl. confections, to get used to. | bought the apothecary goods. meragel geweyen, | have | Meruse, f. to run, to hurry, to make it my habit. Running; hurrying. – to make,

Meraglim, m. (in the plural also) to run fast, to hurry. the scout. spy.
Meraglim, v. to break,

Mer amme fein, v. to deceive, to break. To deceive, to take advantage. Er [Meychad dech fein, v. to engage, hat mir meramme gewey vermarathen. (S. Schidduchy yen, he cheated on me. nen.)

Merchez, f. the laundry. (S. Meychammeryein, v. behiiten, Marchez.) – f. to preserve the judicial. Haychem fall proof, conviction; meychammer yein, God yhall have a Merchez, in eiÿ protect!

2 Actually Aweilim; the common Jew, however, uses the sing. wel. ä N

—yi2u

Mefhannefein, v. change, | show, denunciation; also: to change, to transform; the facial warning; to do a – to change a color, to change. A ui, to make a denunciation. how is he meychanne | Meyuken, adv. dangerous. In gebeyen im Zur: 0, how

mokum is's meyyuken ze

he has changed color. In the city it is dangerous to steal.

Meychaurer, m. the singer.

Cantor. Mass sum, for the money. –

Meyschech, k. die Seide, – adv. nayyenen, to give money, to pay. yeiden. Nayynedem Scheigitz Meyy Meyschechy–chenwene, k. or yumme, give the Christian – Ghiefene, f. the silky money. waarenlager. Meyyummeacheider,

n. the Meyschechne Schneiche, f. cash room. a yilye

cloth. Meyyummeykiyy, m. the money»

Meyschechne Syschaure, f. yeiy beutel.

dene Ware, silk goods. Meyyummenyteiwe, f. the Meychmeideyyte, f.

the baptized money swing, the money box.

Jewess. Apoytatin. Metaur, m. der Former, Zeiy

Meychores, m. the servant, chenmeyter.

Servants of any kind, with Aus: | Meupoysch, adv. et adj. ychimmy taking of servant (which is light, rotten, corrupt. Lech em Ewed is called.) Pi.

Meychoryy –, n. ychimmlicht Brod, Beize yim. –, f. arotten egg.

Mejchubejsch, adv. et adj. feh | Mewacker chaule fein, v. lerhaft. lých –, hafter Mann. Te MeYchugge, adv. verrückt, mad. a mistakey visiting a sick person. (From

aus Guten Herz.) | Du beyt meğchugge, du bit | Mewafefch fein, ». beg, mad. beg, desire, r

Meychullemen, v. to pay. Mewuycheln, vu to cook. BoUer Meychummed, m. the apoytat, me wuycheln, to cook meat. convert to Christianity | Mewuychel, adv.

cooked. Boyy

Jew. PI. Meshmodim. yermewuychel, cooked Meychun ne, addr. yshimm, bulls, | meat.

shameful, unnatural. Mewuyschler, m. the cook.

mesh scale, adv. crooked, dependy | Mewuyyem, adv. pointless, be gig; fig. ybad. It is unconscious. He lies mewuyy meychuppe, it goes ywrong, yem, he lies yubly, unconscious.

Meyy, m. the dead, the corpsey Mezach, |. the forehead. nam. PI.

Meiyyim. – adv. | Mezacheik, m. the fun, joke, dead. Farce.

Meyy makkeinen, v. todtfchla: | Mezar, adv. betrübt; yich –

gen. fine, sad fine, Yich betrouy

MevVyire, f. the betrayal, the ans ben, harmen.

283

Mezaure, m. a scabby, scabby person.

PI. Mezauroim.

Me zieh, k. the find, profit,
the rarity. What is de Mey

draw, what is the profit?

Machine Translated by Google

Mi, pron. wer.

Mi jitten, int. wanted God!

Miau, n. the city of Mainz.

Michel, m. the sword, saber.

Michye, k. the ceiling, the plan.

Michyeygole, f. the covered wagon, which is usually owned by Jewish cabinetmakers for theft. It

Belongs, along with the horses, to the chawrus communally, is usually looked after at communal expense, and each chawer must pay his contribution towards the maintenance of the vehicle.

Midde, the measure. PI. Midy deyy.

Middenen, v. measure, measurey

yen, bey. with the ell.

Mifton, m. the threshold, door. threshold.
You shouldn't

over main Mifton baun, bu yollyt
nicht über meine Schwelle kommen.

Mifzor, f the fortress; uf die –
kummen, zur Fortressary

beit perurteilt Vein.

Migdel, n. the small locker, the cupboard, also: the tower.

Mikne, f. (gen. comm.) a small head of cattle.

Mikveh, the bath in which the Jewish women at the time of menstruation and after completion of the birth of a child must clean.

Milo, f. circumcision –
to make, to cut back, also to nip in the bud,
to deduct something from someone's bill or claim.

Minaal, m. the boot. PI.
Minolim.

Mincho, f. the vespers prayer,

Machine Translated by Google

which is prayed at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.
– oren, pray the vespers prayer.

Minhog, m. the use, the habit.

Minhog ychomaim (literally: use of heaven), for the sake of God, for the sake of divine mercy. If, for example, someone does something good to another without asking for any benefit,

then

If he does, he will be informed about it

ytstellungen gemacht: nu, ich hobs minhog ycho maiim gethun.

Minjen, n. the money.

Min jon, m. the gathering of 10 adult Jews, who are called to perform the evening

prayers in the synagogue mindey

yt necessary. Until this number is reached, the beginning of the bets paused. (S. May be rakish.)

Minolimelochner, m. the shoemaker.
Mirmo, f. the fraud, the falsey

ness, deceitfulness.

Mis, adv. ylecht, unfavourable, yhlimm.

The matter is mis, the matter is jt ylecht, yhlimm (3rd e.g. for someone.)

Mischkauley, f. the scales, scales,
lead scales.

Mischkel (ol), n. the weight.
Mischkeln, v. to weigh, to weigh.
Ma harbe mychkelts, how much does it weigh? Es mychkelt beiyy Littroyy, it weighs 2 pounds.

Miychmaayy, m. der Gehoryam, – to do,

to obey.

Miyhna, f. the newspaper, the official gazette.

Mishne, f. the teaching, the text of the Talmud.

Machine Translated by Google

Mishpet (ot), the trial, the investigation, and generally the court. Mishpet ba gogim, the Christian court.

To be misbegotten, to be caught up in the investigation. He is misbegotten pet, but nit nitfeyy, he is under investigation, but not in arrest.

Miychpetkaywener, m. the court

clerk, record-keeper

rer.

Miychpoche, k. the family,

the kinship, clan; aunts and cousins; also

the matter of everything

taken together; a ychople Miychpoche, a yhick Gey

layer.

Miychpocheyychem, m. the family

name, father's name, bey
ytimo, continuing name.

Mischtor, n. the bailiwick, the prison,
the Frohnveyte.

Miyrach, m. der Sonnenaufy

gang, the morning side.

Miyya, f. death, stery
ben; also fig. the end, the Ansgaug.

Misysa meychunne, f. the uny
natural death; fig. the bad outcome, the evil
end. Curse: Sullyt'e nehmen 'ne misya meychunne, you yhall come to a yorous end.

Miyya be galgeil, death by the wheel; broken on the wheely

the.

Miyyakef fein, v. to linger, to stop.
Ich kaan mer law

uurecher miyyakef Vein, | can't stay
any longer.

—en

Miyyep, f. fodder, cattley

feed.

Machine Translated by Google

Miyypenen, ». feed.

Miyypar, f. the number, a gey
daule –, a large number.

Mispaychet fine, v. move outy hen, undress. He has been misbehaving, he has undressed.

Miyyperaim, f. the scissors.

To make a fool of oneself, to make oneself agreeable, to ingratiate oneself, to make oneself popular with someone through great helpfulness

chen. f

Miyywadde fein, ». geYessen, make a confession.

Mitbeihe, k. the money, Got: rantgeld.

Mitkrauten, v. to go along, bey

glide; escape together hen, break out.

middle, n. the bed; into the – joychnen, yleep. PI.
Mittoyy.

Mitteybegeg, n. the bedsheet, sheet.

Middle part, f. midnight.

Middleynuzayy, the beti feathers, down.

Mitzvah, f. God's reward. Bar -, m. a 13-year-old Jew: buryche.

Mocher, adv. morgen. He will grow tomorrow, he will grow tomorrowy

gen eintreU.

MocbéreU, adv. pregnant.
lyche fa. pregnant woman
Fran.

Moher, f. the morning gift, the wedding present given to the woman upon entering into marriage. (See Zupim ycribe).

Mokum, and the city, also abouty

main one surrounded by wallsy

Machine Translated by Google

285

ner place; the penitentiary. Large -, the penitentiary in Spany

dau, Klein zu -, the penitentiary

Brandenburg. N

Mokumychaume, k. the city.

mauer. -, n. (properly Chaumey

Mokum) a walled city, which had no other entrance than through the gates, which were locked at night.

Mokum vulture, m. of the city
merchant who lives in the city

yiren goes.

Mokumy medine, n. the city of Augsburg.

Mokumy menuche, n. the place of rest,
the refuge, the sanctuary.

Mole, adv. et adj. (PI. Mey lim) full, filled; – ja jin, full of wine,
– yschibbuychim, full of faults.

Momen, (on) n. the money.

Mooy and the money. Go to the village and get mooU, steal money from someone's pocket.

Mooskuppe, k. the money box.
The – choke, the iron money box mediated by the Kafy

feemthle and one aroundy

untie the tied rope
gene.

Morek, f. the soup.

Moro, f. the bile.

Moyyek, m. sugar, foody
sugar. N

Moter, m. the rain.

Mo weyy, m. the death, the stery
ben. Ben -, m. a child of death, someone to whom lifey danger threatens. NN

Mo zenen, ». find, also search, win. |

Machine Translated by Google

Muyhlkracher, m. the axe. It belongs to the cabinet utensils and will be used for nighttime burglaries

taken away.

Mulie, f. the pocket in the dress
dern, the thieves' bag of the markety and shoplifters. (S. Fuhre.)

From the - act, steal from the pocket. Into the - ycabbage, put in the ytocks.

Muphlo, adv. et adi. auserle - yen, excellently skilled, learned.
Raufe muphlo, an excellenty

ly skilled doctor.

Moych, f. woman, bride, wife loved, Zubalterin.

Muyyaf, n. the prayer which

at 10 o'clock in the morning on Fayty
and holidays and on Shabbaty

bevy is prayed.

Musyyow, m. der Umgang, Ber kehr. | raised no Musyy

fow with him, | have no dealings

with ibm.

Muttor, adv. allowed; es is muttor,
es ist allowed.

Naar, adv. young, youthful, –, subst. m. an inexperienced young person; a simpleton.

Racheych, n. the pile of money which the Chilfer found in the

to measure the money shown to him

chen uses to stand out from it

len; likewise the money which he steals, cleverly concealing it under his thumb, in the hollow of his hand.

Nacheyy, n. pleasure, joy, refreshment. a

Chase, k. the pursuit, especially after acommitted

Thefts. – get, get
be followed.

Rachtippeln, v. nachlaufen, ver:

286

Machine Translated by Google

follow, follow. The Chay wruyye nachtipeln, the (pre-attacked) thieves' society.

Rafkenen, v. huren, to mess around with whores.

Rafyche, the soul. Oath: Be haje nafyche, by my soul; by the living soul,
Rapches, pl. abdominal winds.
Rayschkenen, v. kiiyyen.

Rayyer, m. der Saltpeter.

Rayynen (Nayyenen), v. give.
Rauech, m. (actually Noah) the box.

Rauef, m. the adulterer, – eU, f.

he adulteress.

Rauschech fein, v. to drive usury, to grow. With the Minjen nauyschech yein.

Rauyye we nausyyen fein,
trade and exchange.

Rauzer, m. an enriched person, lucky person, someone who has made a lucky coup or a good find.

Rebbich, int, alas! unfortunately! overy
generally an exclamation of pity or regret.

Rebencheider, n. the chamber, the alcove.

Rechauyscheyy, m. the copper,

– morek or: – klul, n.

smoothed copper, brass.

Redowo, m. the generous one.

Refeyisch, k. the soul, the life ben. Be ylef we nefeysch, with body and soul.

Refeyisch, n. the width.

Refeyy), f. the cap.

Refiche, f. flatulence, abdominal wind; enne – layyen,

Machine Translated by Google

let a wind go

Regine, f. the melody, the ) Von Pay (Mitzen fa Vy).

Ton; also yig.: enne jofe Negine whistle, without Ricky
just admit it.

Reider, and the vow, pledge.

To envy, v. to promise. (To promise something to someone.)

Reiwe, f. the violin.

Rejar, and the paper.

Rekef, n. the hole, especially

the one which at the next break-in into the wall

is made. – insert, make a hole in the wall to get through it into the

to get to the robbing establishment.

Rekef, n. (also Nekefchen) the prison.

Nekeiwe, k. the whore.

Rekome, k. Schadenfreude, revenge. He called Nekometiber

me, he has revenge against me.
(Common excuse of the Gauy ner to refute a testimony or a rebuke.)

Relam fein, v. yweigen, ver: ytummen.
Du fallt nelam fein, du yollyt yschweigen.

Relim, pl. the shoes.

Relimymelochner, m. ber Schuhmacher.

Reman, adv. et adj. glaubhaft, credible,
beglaubt. lých m. ein beglaubter Mann–,

Remone, f. religion, faith; – noychim
(old) Women's belief.

NemoneU, f. the credibility
activity.

Reppen, v. fake things (3. B. Neufilber, Bronze c.)

Machine Translated by Google

sell or sell for real

(A fraud maxim that is very common in the world of crooks.)

287

Swindlers, crooks who cheat people
with fake precious items by either selling them as real ones or selling them at too high a price

hen prices veryt.

nenpsUhanse, f. Neppy commodity, that is, such fake Say which inexperienced people easily can be considered real. Day

belong gilded, tombay
kene, bronze and other Biy

jous, absolutely excellent but Neny filber, with which an infinite number of frauds have been committed in recent times.

Ner, n. the light, the brightness; –,
adv. bright, it is ner, it is bright.
The pl. Neireyy is usually also used as a sing. It is said

e.g. B. itis Neireyy in bay
Yes, there is light in the house.

Neireymelochnen, light ony
Under ReireU,

also especially the end waxy

light, which, as a necessary requiyit, the Gauy

ner with you when you go out for a night

break-in,

– for the vomited local

a beyvern séarch of they ben, to be able to illuminate.

| Be e (EruB) Guten

Re ch. aw, (saying) who cares? who cares

therefore?

Reychech, m. der usury.

Reychires, m. der Reichthum;

—, adv. much, very much.

Machine Translated by Google

Neschome, f. the soul. Ba my

—, with my soul.

Neyile, f. the discharge, Sa catarrh.

NeUer, m. the chalk.

New, the kaUe; — be:

act, steal a cash register.

Neweire, f the sin.

Reweile, m. et f. a bad person,

especially a strict judge; a judicial or police officer who is particularly strict against crooks
and does everything possible to their detriment;
also: the rogue, rascal. Fem. Ney stayed.

. a rogue's foot.

Retzeln, v. harnen, piyyen.

R'fayscheu, pl. souls (peroyoy nifleirend, 38 snow meiU N 5 f 1 f,

two hundred souls: len, ie people).

MRicholi, | love it, augey
take, I'm happy.

Ridde, (Nide) f. the female period,
menjytruation.

Riftern, v. Yterben. He is riftert,
he is geyt died.

Nischbe, f. the oath, vow, the oath.

Left-a false oath.

Rychbenen, v. jworship; link -,
swear falsely.

Ryischen, v. yuchen, Ytreifen (after wandering rascal: yindel).

Nischer, m. the seeker, roamer.

Riyyan, name of the first month.

Nitfeyy, f. the imprisonment, the arrest;

-, adv. caught, arrested; - yein,
caught, arrested yein.

Niuf, m. adultery. Niuf to commit, to commit adultery.

Rizrach, adv. necessary, nö: thig; - To be, to need.

t's me, gray nizrach, | really

need it.

Rochome, f. the consolation, the comfort

calming down. | have a Noy

home dadrin x.

283 2

Nollen, v. Ychltichen (mit dem | Odom (em), m. der Mých.

Machine Translated by Google

Key in the lock.) –, v. – tibbi, the natural man. to torque; to be wounded, Odor, Rame of the twelfth Moy torquirt, to be tortured. nats.

Roneyy, m. the dwarf, little Of, name of the fifth month.
Manych. PI. Nenayyim. Of, m. der Vogel. PI. Owim.

Roychim, pl. the women. Ofer, m. the dust, the earth.

Rowie, m. the prophet, truthy Ohuf, m. the friend, patron; yager. Pl. Newiim. – iisroel, the friend of the Jews.

Run, the fourteenth letter Fl. Ahuwim. (S. Auhef.) of the Hebrew alphabet, which | Ojo m, adv. terrible, dreadful,

Numeral fifty (50). terrible.
Ruze, f. the feather. Pl. Ru–] Oker, m. the barren one, Zeuy gungsyunvermégen.

Olmiyy, adv. life-wierig, on Ley

tenancy, (especially of punishment.) – have,
for lifey

be judged. (S. Ulmeyy.)

Ome, f. the maid.

Omen, Amen. Omen we Omen,
Amen and Amen, true and truly.

(Jewish affirmation formula.)

Omo, where? Where to? Omo teil

Lech, where do you want to go?

Onush, k. sin, shamey

zayy. |
Ruzekauwe, f. a feathered cap, the feathered hat. N

0.)

Obermann, m. the hat.
Oberyschauter, m. der Ober:
overseer, especially of the prisony niyye.

Oberzinker, m. an Oberbey

fehlshaber (both in civil and military terms); | Or,
n. the light, i.e. the shine, the superintendent of the prisoner | daylight or lamplight.

hauses. Aureyy.

Ochen, certainly, forsooth; – nit, Or, n. the hide, the leather. (See certainly not!
AureU.)

Oder, adv. hinter. – noun m.] Orel, m. the uncircumcised, the rear, Arych. Christ, pl.

Ereilim.

Machine Translated by Google

Ochi (addressing), brother, my [Oren, v. pray. Mincho, –.

Brother. f pray the vespers prayer.

Odaun, m. the lord. Oref, m. the guarantor; – fein,

Odaunyroych, m. the supreme ich vouch.

Lord; the president, citizen: | Oron, m. the cupboard, the locker, meister; the director of chiefly the chest, the coffin. g Inspector of a prison, Oron ha kaudeysch,

m. the

everyone at the top of the law roll cabinet in the Syy

an institution or a college. a standing official. Orur, m.

an exile, exile

breath, adv. Roth. – subst. m. wieyener.

the ruby. Oyne, t. the watch, of any kind.

289

Oyschen, m. the smoke. Sfar-cher
–,M. the tobacco smoke.

Oychir, m. the rich, Begüß terte.

OU, n. the word, the letter, the character. PI.
Oiyyicheyy.

Oyyer, adv. forbidden; it is oUer, it is forbidden. N

Oyyid, adv. in the future, subsequently.
We want – waiter diby

bern, we want to know in the future

ter (about it) jpeak.

Ow, f. the cloud. Fl. Owim.

Owel, m. the sufferer, Trauy
ernde, beypecially the bereaved
bende brother (sister) or son (daughter).

Pl. Aweiy

lim.
Oweyy, pl. fathers, parents.

O wi, the (actually my) fathery

ter. Owi olef ha Ycholem, my father, upon whom peace be. (Common saying of the Jews, if from the deceased

the father is being spoken of.)

Owiyyikken, m. der (mein) GroBy
father.

Machine Translated by Google

Owo/y, pl. thick (rain, thundery) clouds.

Ozel, m. the lazy one, idlery
ger, idler, idle scoundrel.

P. ©)

Paam, num. times, once. PI.
Peomim. Be paam echod, at once,
Ke – be fo =y

like always; yoyy ha –, they yesmal.

Payyerche, n. Prussia; the Prussian yche state.

Paijot, m. the poet, poet.

Paimon, and the poem, the verse.
Par, m. the bull.

ParniU, m. the community leadery
yteher; the mayor, schoolmaster.

Paroyisch, m. der Flea. Pl. Pa. ruychim.

Parrach, m. der Grind, Grindy

head, also the man who

with is afflicted; likewise the bald head,
the bald-head. (Is a very common nickname among scoundrels.) f |

Paychkusenen, v. haustren, bes especially without permission,
to go peddling contrary to the order.

Paskenen, v. Judgment.
1. If a Jew doubts

about anything relating to his religious laws, namely whether he may do this or that or not, so he goes to the Rabbi ner (Raf) and does a Bowl (asks a question, presents

his doubts); they
He then takes the Talmud

at hand and speaks from it

fine judgment about the

yt question, ie he payyy Kent. According to this judgment

the Jew is then to be righty

ten committed.

Machine Translated by Google

2. Judicial, namely criminal minalerkenntniyye abfayyen; the action of the referent.

Passing, f. the opening through which the thieves enter a

to enter a locked building; – to open, either by means of a duplicate key or by

Burglary. (S. Peyyuch.)
Patiyisch, m. the hammer.

Pattern, v. yend, send away, dismiss.

Pau, adv. here. He is lau pau, he is not u

290

PaueI, m. the effect; –
fine, v. work, cause, fromy to arrange, to order. It was me, |

arranged it, to order it.

Paureych fein, v. to explain, to set apart.

He was paureych for me; he explained

it to me.

Pauyyek, m. der Urtelsfayyer, Referent.

Pchide “), f. fear, anxiety,

Beyornment. – to have, to be afraid. Se han Pchide, yie first yich.

PfeUer, m. powder, gunpowder

powder.
PfeUern, v. load the gun.

Pepper and salt, powder and shot. – – in's

Make Kleiyyajim, the Gey
weir load.

whistle, v. admit, confessy

He whistled, he confessed. To whistle at someone, to admit to another, to reprimand him.

Machine Translated by Google

Pfeifer, m. the confessor; they

one who confesses or professes knew.

Pferdetole, f. a large bor: legeyschloss,
as it is before Comtoiy
ren and vaults frequently. au: is brought.

Bad luck and misfortune, terrible fate.

Pee, m. the mouth; Pee el vee,
from mouth to mouth, orally.

Pee, m. the kiss; – to pee, to give a kiss, to kiss.

in. the kiss, the cheesey

en.

Pega, f. the encounter, the encountery
all. – ra, the bad coincidence;
– tof, the happy coincidence.

Peggine, k. the stain in the cloth,
the notch in the knife.

Pl. Pegginuyy. – ha Ley

wone, the spots in the moon.

Pehnochriyy, £ the wig.

Peiger, m. the poison – usualy

Crow's-eye dough – where: with,
before with cabinet mayyey mats for theft

ytrés, the dogs

be poisoned before they can make any noise.

Peiger, v. the corpse, the corpsey nam (mostly only from cattle), the carcass.

Peigerybeged, n. the corpsey
cloth

Peigerychatchener, m. the

gravedigger.

Peigern, ». ytire, succumb; but actually succumb, poison, especially by huny

the; also kill (of meny

Machine Translated by Google

ychen.)

Peih, the sixteenth letter of the Hebrew alphabet (9), the number eighty (80.)

Peihzaddick, f. the police, -, m. the police officer. (From the initial letter of the ery

yt and last syllable, PI Peihl and x [zaddick.]

1 f, n. the fruit (nom. col-ect.

Peirus, k. the explanation, Dary interpretation, discussion.

Peiyyach, n. the Jewish Easter, the Passover festival.

Penne), f. the inn, the pub, the hostelry, the tavern;

*) From id (Pach ad), he fears.

) From 79 (Pinnoh), the angle, the corner.

291

the hideout. Cheyye –, or Kochemer

–, the

Thievesy, crooksylodge.

Pera, f. the braid.

Perkooch, adv. violent, 5 violent. (S.
Bekauech.)

Paper dealers, robbers, violent burglars.

Perkoochhandel, m. the violent break-
in in which the residents are gagged;
robbery. (S. Chayyne.)

Perychiren, v. to load a gun.

Péyyach, f. the door, usualy
But underneath it is the Kamy

mer verytunderstood.

Péyyyel, n. the picture, portrait,

carved image. PI. Peyyiy lim. Peyyilim elohehem, the images of their idols, the Catholic images.

Peyyiche), f. the opening of the castle
into which the key

Machine Translated by Google

is inserted; the keyhole.
The imprint of the Peyy

take the key
hole in wax to print

then to use the backup key manufacture.

Peyyil, m. the thread. PI. Peyy yilim.

Peyyuch, f. the opening, the break-in;
– to make the first break-in, the opening; to break the way, to o get into the place you want to rob.

Peyyucher, m. the leader of a chawruyye; the one who is responsible for breaking in ychickteyten isýt.

Pe za, f. the wound. PI. Pe: zo im.

Pezira, f. the file.

Pfuize kappore, exclamation of disgust or abhorrence, which 1115 means: Pfui Teuy

ell

Phlonen, v. laugh.

ae " n. money, current money.

Pichtcheider, n. the Kayyeny room, vault; overy
mainly a room in which money is kept.

Picken, v. eyyen.

Pickcheider, n. die Speisekamy
mer.

Pidjeniy ben, f. the second baptism
of the ytyired son, when he is 4 weeks old.

A bowl of Money is placed there. One of the tribe of Aaron (Cohn) takes

the child and asks the couragey ter, whether they have the money or the

and will. Of course, yie the latter and the money

actually belongs to Jeuem.

Machine Translated by Google

Until the child's 13th yeary

the father must do the same

fold every day before Easter; if he is not himself a firsty

born or of the tribe of Aron or Levi. In these

In both cases it must be the couragey

ter do. The firstborn (Bochor) must then, from the age of 13, time be of life on Easter Sunday

Fasting in the evenings. The fast day is called Tanneyy Bochaurim, Piggul, m. the abomination, Abyychenu; –, adv. grayish, aby yhilich, disgusting. Boyyer =; disgusting flesh.

e m. the chimneyy

*) Bon D (PeyyichoU), jagged *

292

Pijut, and the poem, the verse of a free many

Pill, f. the falling addiction. noyyen or relatives] and Aaf de Pille ychnorren, the false alibiy witness May the falling addiction aUectiren remokum])

and under this pretext Planche, n. Poland.

beg. Planchenen, v. cry.

Pilpel, m. der PfeUer. Platt, adv. corruptible, trustworthy, Pilpeln, v. pfeUern – also: dealing with crooks and thieves to argue, to dispute. holding. (About the same as coy Pyischpeiysch, f. the bug. chem and cheyy.) – yein, Piyschro, k. the Ueberylation, Vertrau ysein.

Interpreting. Plain people, familiar people,

Pishtim, n. the canvas, also that with crooks and scoundrelsy

inen stuff; flax. – adj. to deal with, and not only linen; Beged – not to betray a linen, but to give them a cloth. To abet. In particular, Pismon, w. so called certain, it is said of an official, evil-sounding verses, which also accept one of the gifts and the nigen Festtage in der Synay crooks for this is pleasing: he goge be caught. Otherwise i ýt platt.

but also as a proverb | Platte-Penne, k. die Thievesy customary, where there are so many pubs; also the sleeping place

as clay is called. Carrion in the open. – – make, whistle another Pismon, spend the night under the open skyy speak in a different tone.

Machine Translated by Google

schenypeh "), n. the expression: PlatteyPeyyiche, f. a smooth speech, excuse; the pretext, keyhole, also the lock, with which one wants to gloss over an action which has such an opening. – make, elf; the room" or house: to put forward an excuse, to lock the door.

excuse, whitewash; fine | bankruptcy, adv. continued; – melochy

to gloss over actions, to bankrupt them, to make them bankrupt; – to treiy

favorable light. ten, or – halchenen, enty

Piyyychenypeh, n. the escapey ypond, to break out, the flight, the word sign, to seize, to escape.

Statements in court agree: | Acting bankrupt. If it is to make it consistent. – sometimes it happens that the thieves, keep an agreement, for some reason, by giving a sign, word sign, burglary from outside not, or to conform to the court but only difficult and with

Omissions. (It happens particularly quickly, in a house
ders zwieychen the arrested nen, yo yo one of the crooks is looking

Crooks [through mediation either into the house

*) Probably comes from pp (Peyyach), he has opened,

and 8 (Pee), the mouth.

293

the closure
or, especially if it is an inn, he takes up lodgings for the night. During the night,

he then opens the door or the window shutters to his companions and leaves with

after committing theft, their house or quarters.
This is called going bankrupt.

Pludern, f. the trousers, pants. The –castoring, a maneuver of the peat printers, consisting in the fact that fle the trouser's yentayche quietly openy

button to fasten the insidey

ly loose money with the Mity

tely and index finger (with the scissors).

Prime, adv. et adj. inward, internal. PI.

Pnimim. Ewoy

rim pnim im, the inner members.

Pnimim, pl. the pearls, Kleinoy

serve.

Pochuuy, adv. little, slight, insignificant, yheck. Le to the least. =

Machine Translated by Google

Pokid, m. the bailiff.

Ponim, n. the face, Angey

yight; into – place, againsty

to confront, to confront; into – come, in the face, mouth to mouth,

confroy

to be fired; to whistle or to slap, if a confessor does not confess to his yitant comrades fine relationsy yayed in the face. The Mamyer ben hanide hot

mer ins Ponim gefiUen, the vile man has told me his confession to my face. Proverb: He has no Ponim and no

Zure, the

has a bad appearance. (Literally: he has no ace and no shape.)

Pore, f. the cow. PI. Poraуу and Po reуу. N

Poreyboyуer, n. the cow's meat.

Porer, m. the shepherd, cowherd.

Poreууууschuck, m. der Rind

cattle market.

Poychit, m. der Pfennig. PI.
Peyhitim. The KeyVefy

godel hot jud beiуу Peychiу

tim, the silver groychen has twelve pennies.

Poyychenen), ». close, locks

open; by Nachy
yteyh ýchliḡel.

Poychener, key thieves,

especially that finer kind ofy

yelben, who mostly only steal on their own in cities

Elegantly dressed, but with their pockets full of lock picks, they lodge in the most renowned guesthouses

houses, stealing by entering the rooms of strangers, while

during their absence, and then disappear

habituallyy

ly without a trace. \

pol yeln, v. ycneiben, especially to carve. |

Poter, adv. free, loose, released, at large; – fine, free fine; – make,

make free, the release or the escape

Machine Translated by Google

of an arrested person; –
come, come free, be released from arrest.

Er kummt leauleme nit po:

ter, he will never get rid of it.

Potychgajim, f. the hoyen.

Potychgajimykatycher, m. der Hoyentrager.

*) From pd (Poyyach), he has opened.

294

Potychgajimulje, f. the troyenpoye.

Praucheyy, m. (actually Poy raucheyy) the curtain in the synagogue.

Praise, v. ask, seek.
De Mechile praise, ask for forgiveness.

Pri, f. fruit, field or tree fruit. Pl.
Peroyy; also fig.: It has no PBeroyy
bau, it bears no fruit, is of no use.

Prinzerei, f. the Ratbhans, in general any court or policeYoffice building.

Priychim, m. the spur, –, pl. the spurs.

Prunkscheider, n. the Putzy room

Pruyyen, „. ytstellen, ausstellen, lay out (the net, the yarn c.).

Pychite, yes, certainly, truey liable.

Pychore, f. the comparison, the settlement, the agreement; – to make, to compare, to ytif yt a settlement.

Puddelche, n. the fraudulent exchange;
a – trade, a thing, especially veryiey

gold purse, fraudulently exchanged for a worthless,

also sealed Beuy

tel with tokens exchange (y. Chayyme and Enne vey
ten ne).

Pullim, (Sing. Pull) the Bohy
nen.

Pump, v. ytick, erytick; pumped, stung,
eryticked.

Purim, n. the Hamannsfest.

Purim, n. all to the nighty
ychliyeldiebythale belonging In: ytrumente.
Large –, the

chisel; small –, the

Diepicke, the detour, Vory casual ye.

Putz, m. the excuse, Exculpay
tion; defense, which is carried out by the Crooks even during interrogationy

is brought to the suspiciony

reasons to weaken; one –

to make an excuse; to put on a show, to deceive someone.

A good cleaning, a gey
sent excuse, defense; a scholer
–, abad

Excuse.

Clean, ich, v. Yich vertheidiy

excuse, exculpate, deny teln.

Ra, adv. et adj. béye, übel. oim.

Raaysch, m. the wind, storm.
Rabaizen, v. to lie down, to rub, to lurk, to hatch. (This word has passed into popular language, but where it is

obviously think the oppositey

tet, namely lying restlessly.) Rachaiim, f. the mill, windy or watermill.

Rachaiimsymeychores, m. der MillergeYelle, Millerknecht.
Rachaimer, m. the miller.

Rachel, and the lamb.

PI. Réchelim.

Rachméniyy, n. compassion, pity.
– pity, compassiony

worthwhile; – to have, to have compassion, to pity.

Rachwenen, v. ride.

Rachwener, m. the rider.

Machine Translated by Google

Rachwener, thieves who

Merchant's Vault go,
Have goods shown and

Pl.

steal it by stealing the goods between the thighs

hide, and so on it
Hence their name.

Rachwenykiyy, m. der Mantelyack.

RachwenySyschaure, f. the riding equipment.

ace en StuU, n. bas Reit: horse

Raf, m. the master, doctor, scholar, rabbi, – adv. great, learned.

Rafychauwel, m. of SchiUs. master,
ski captain.

Ragel, m. the walker. PI. Rog;

m

Rageln, v. to carry out, to carry around to slander (a rumor ŷc.); to slander to explore, to make known, to talk about.

Ragyen, m. a malicious, angry person
ger Meunysch.

Raie, f. the proof. PI. Na ioyy.
Kaiou gemuroyy, complete eyoyes.

Ramme, m. the deceiver, faly
yche, deceitful Meuych: da gody ler Ramme, a nasty deceiver.

Junk, the colorful jumble. ennen – kinjenen,
to make a purchase in a lump sum.

Raysche, k. the Ueberylation of the five books of Moses.

Machine Translated by Google

Council, (tt) m. the Thaler. pl. advicey tonim. Chozey rat, a haly

about Thaler; Schnei- rattoy

nim, two thalers.

Rattenen, v. to talk, to chat, to confess,
to betray. Rattne law, geytebe nichts.

Rattepus, m. the confessor, traitor.

Rauchel, w. the shopkeeper, Spey zereihandler. PI. Nochlim.
Raueh, m. the shepherd. (S. Noeh.)

Raufe, m. the doctor! – mupblo, a skilled doctor. a

Raukach, m. the pharmacist.
Ratzen, v. laufen. (S. Rotzen.)

Reb mauyche, f. also Rehtau. weie, f.

he large 16-pound crowbar, which is required for nighttime burglary. (Newer term for En)

Rechile, f. gossip, slander. PI. Rechiluyy.

to gossip, to slander, to gossip.

Rechof, k. the street, Gayye.
On the – share, go out on the street.

Reck, adv. vain, useless, empty.
The KiU is red, the bag is empty.

Refeyy, m. the stable.

Refelsheter, m. of the cattley

Rega, (e) f. the moment. PI.
Regoim. We want to see each other again, we want to see each other againy set a look

Rule, m. the foot. PI. Ragy

lam. | saved the

Rule meychabber gewyen, | broke my foot.

Government, the rope to biny
which the house resident at nighty
nal burglary.

Machine Translated by Google

Regiluyy, f. to have the habit of having Regiluyy.

Regolim, pl. the holidays.
Schlauyche regolim, the three Sauptfeyte.

Reichef, m. the mill head.

ReiꝔch, the 25th letter of the Hebrafisch alphabet (5); the number two hundred (200).

Reiwech, m. the profit, the Iny

296

tereyye; the rent, Miethsy

zins. Pl. Rewochim. |

Reiwecher, m. the tenant.

Reiwechfetzter, m. a bagy ychneider, swindler.

Reych, or Rÿch, adv. front,

foremost, at the forefront
beginning, making a start.

Reychychaudeysch, m. the new moon,
the first day of the month, m. a man

nat. who

yoyt is honest, it with the Any buying stolen items but doesn't take it so seriously.

Reycheyeize, m. the mayor.

Rehygojim, pl. (literally: newcomers,

new people) the Gauy
ner understand this anew»

officials who, according to the Proverbs: "new brooms come ren gut" is usually excellently diligent and the Bey

ying is not accessible.

Reychey, n. the net, fishery
net. Reychey pruyyo, the net is geyt.

Reychime, f. the designation, the sign,
word sign. | want to give you a Reychime,
so that you can beyt, | want to give you a signy

ben, so that you are yure. (Such a sign is called

Machine Translated by Google

used for grinding letters, becausey with the recipient Yure that the letter is really from the

(To the sender, fine comrade, here: stir. See pages 39 and 40.)

Reycho fim, PI. (Sing. Rey yche f), sparks, glowing coals.
Reyyen, w. the fence.

Rewiehe, f. the quarter.

Rewieheykiker, m. ein Vier: telcentner.

Rewochim, PI. the Intereyyen,

nterest. It's a yurye rey

wochim a's Karen, the Ziny

yes amount to more than the capital.

Rewowo, 10000, – U, 10000.

Rezeich, m. the murderer, robbery:
murderer.

Reziche, or Rezoche, f. murder, robbery.

RezocheySyarfener, m. the murder
burner.

Richbe, f. the car.

Richew, m. the bar.
Richewen, . lock.

Rif, m. quarrel, argument. PI.
Riwoyy, quarrels, strikes activities.

Rigysche, f. the uproar, tumult. – to make, to cause an uproar.

Rigye, k. the malice, the hatred,
–He went away ina

terrible state, he went away very angry.

Ringel, m. the dance.

Ringeln, v. tanzen.

Ringelycheider, v. the dancey
yal, dance floor.

Gutter, f. the singing.

Gutters, v. fingen.

Machine Translated by Google

Riychaun, m. the beginning, the first.
PI. Riychaunim.

Riwjenen, v. quarrel; geriwy
jent, quarreled.

Ro15 " f. the width.

Rochil, m. der Klatscher, Very slanderer.

Roeh, m. the shepherd.

Roehyzun, m. the shepherd, shepherd.

(It is necessary to note here that shepherds are especially susceptible to fraud

by swindlers.

It seems as if their advertise with these simply natiry

lichen, with the activities and the ruthless evil of the World quite unknown Leuy

ten, quite extraordinarily easy

would, because more than half all known Nepy
pereien yare an Schafern very practices.)

Rojenen “), v. yehen, an–, anyehen.

Roller, m. the cart, beyond.
Wheelbarrow.

Rollern, v. karren.

Roo, f. the crow, the raven.

Roof, m. the hunger, – hay
ben, be hungry.

Roofig, adv. et adj. hungry.

Rosh, m. the poor, needy one.
PI. Roychim.

Roych, m. the head, the principal, the highest, the peak, the beginning; Godel –,

m. a clever head, shrewd person; den

– aby

to cut off one's head

behead. Oath: Be chay

jeyy royschi (rauḡchi) fo wahr ich lebe.

Roychééren, m. the mayor.

Rosh Ha Shono, n. the Jewishy
Happy New Year.

Machine Translated by Google

Roych lezanim, m. der Kay pellmeyter, muyic director.

Rotz, m. the poverty, the retreaty come. Curse: you'll get snot, you'll be plagued by poverty, you'll have a bad

time.

Rotz, m. the runner, vote, quicky runner. PI. Rotz im.

Rotzen, v. laufen. We want to rot,
so that we can get home.

Ruach, m. (pronounced: Ruch) the Wind, storm (actually spirit); curse: Ruach

in dein Kopp rein! which means:

297–

U.N

the weather shall kill you!
Even a restless wild man

is called a Ruach. PI.
Ruchoyy.

Ruachen, v. ytreunen, ytreif;

around -, v. to roam, to vagabond;
to wander about wildly, to live in the company of others.

Ruddeln, v. incite; evil,

Saying something harmful about someone
chen.

Row, . harshly inquiring; even the smallest suspicionsy

ytande against the arrested

pick out crooks; pure = through sharp and skillful inquiry

fition the accused over: Therefore it is said
of eis

nem yochen, if he hard

Expect punishment or receivey

ten hat: den han Ye orndty

rowed clean;

To clear oneself, to renounce all criminal acts against oneselfy

yay, or, when denying, make yuch bad

excuses and

ye yuch contradictions wrap that punishment is still imposed. A rumble

Machine Translated by Google

make confusion in the Uny

conduct investigations, overturn interrogations, retract confessions

fen ye.

Rud dern, v. beYtehlen, swindle; to take someone's money.

If in particular the sheety

tenfeller has robbed a merchant, or Chilfer has robbed a money changer, or if finally someone has had his money taken while gambling, the scoundrels say: we've rowed him to death.

*) Probably from J (Reijoch), the face, the appearance.

298 F

Sarkenén, v. to throw, to throw.
Sauna, f. the whore.

Sechije, f. blessedness; le. aulem -, keit.

the eternal blessedy

Sechochiyy, n. the glass, bright clear glass. f

Sechochiyyyzelochith, n. the drinking glass.

Sefeyy, and bad luck, shoemakery

bad luck.

Seif, m. the wolf. Pl. Sei

wim.

Soap maker, with the taycheny
thief, purse thief. on. m. the filth,

smuggling, ot

Seiwelen, v. to empty oneself, to fulfill one's need.

Seiwelgrayber, m. der betragy ual treasure hunters.

Senftling, m. a piece of Vett.

PI. mustard seeds, bed pieces, beds.

Sere, f. the nature, property, character
of man.

Machine Translated by Google

Proverb: Mi Vere jehudi, not of Jewish nature.

If a Jew handy

ungs that are after juy

diaytic principles

ty and sinful find, namenty

ly if someone is baptized,

fo hunt they despised by himy

ich: He is misere jehudi, ie he is not a Jew at all, he is out of character.

Sereyy, the little finger; –, f. the span.

Serwyschymo kum, v. the city of Mainz.

Séwecher, m. the thief, Spitzzy

jack.

Soywechen, . ytehleu.

Sewuf, f. the fly. Pl. Se. wuwim.

Sikken, adr. alt.

SikkenyAw, m. der GroBvay

ter. |

SiUensimme, f. the large:
mother.

Sikna, n. old age.

Sikoren, v. the memory; Bal –, m.
Someone who has a good memory.

Siller, v. the workhouse. Coming to Siller. N

Silyul, m. shame, disgrace
Attention. Curse: Have the Silful, shame be upon your head.

Siuf, adv. falych, fake. It is yiuf, it is falych.

Smire, f. the song. PI. Smiy royy.

Sohef, v. the gold.

Sohuf, m. the guilder. Choze –, half a guilder. PI.
Sehuwim. Beiyv Sehuy

wim w'choze, two and a half guilders.

Sojin, the fourth letter of the Hebrew alphabet; the

Machine Translated by Google

Number seven (7).

Soken, m. the old man. PI. Soy kenim. –, adv. alt.

Soken (on), m. the beard.

Sonef, m. the tail, the male member.

Sore, f. goods of any kind. (S.
Syschaure.)

Sore press, v. Goods, Saty chen ytehlen.

FoodyVengeance, f. of the suny evening: Evening, after Shabbat. Meal at night, Sunday

evening He arrived in the evening

men.

Skewers, for the inn, the 8,299

Tavern, hostel. Cbeyye the thieves' –,
bar. (S. Cheyye Spieye.)

Spieyy, m. the innkeeper, innkeepery innkeeper; Kochemer –, the The innkeeper.

Srike, f. the pretext, the pretext:

bring, behind which one can put one's eiy
hidden intentions in order to deceive another person about it

ychen. Ene – to bring about, by detours from Jemany

to learn something, the Gey

ypeak Yo turn that hey

that which one would like to know, and which one does not want to ask directly, is told by oneself. This is especially the case with the Chaly

fen with a suitor who had previously, through other Chaly

fonim were robbed heavily

to explore whether they

yelbe has noticed his losses, in which case
he then wisely refrains from the intended theft.

Srikenen, v. den zu BeYtehy be hurt by somethingy
yharm, so that his attentiony
yamity from the thief

be directed, and this inyewy

Machine Translated by Google

ychen could ytear.

Srikener, m. the assistant of the Schottenfeller, who takes him into the shop or the vault

accompanied and the merchant bey ychaftigt by, under the

Pretending to be a buyer, Waay

ren, which are especially in the back of the vault, and also by making exhibitions
there, causes the merchant to

to bring more and more.

While the merchant, for this purpose,
the male

turns, steals the Schottenfely ler, and both of them then leave without buying anything.

As he leaves, the Sriy
no one to the other's left side, so that his filled thief's bag, which is there, is not noticed by the person being robbed.

Sroa, m. the arm.
dust, v. the flour.

Stangenymedine, f. the Grand Duchy of Baden.

Stappeler, m. der herumziey
beggars.

Stacking, v. wandering bety
teln; link © –, onthe wrong pay

piere, under fictitious allegations

begging for forgiveness.

To sting, v. to give, to secretlyy ytuck. (Almost only commonly used to shove into shoes, to inform under the table.)

pile of stones, m. the city, the castle.

Stenz, m. the stick, beating.
Stenzen, v. to beat, to strike.

Stift, m. der Christenknabe, Bury yche. – che, n. the little boy, little lad.

Stike, f the silence, the stillness.
yilung; fig. the secret, Gey sympathetic. Be ytik e yschmuy to speak quietly, secretly; –, adv. till.

Stike ver yege,

Machine Translated by Google

yil before that. (A warningy

the shout when a crook does something unintentional in the presence of a third party, non-Cheyen want to speak thoughtfully.)

Stinen, v. to drink a lot, to booze.
Sheikh –, Drink beer;
Syoref –, to drink schnapps.

Stiner, m. a drunkard, someone who drinks intoxicating drinks.

300

det ift, their strength barely 1 Liy

never amounts to.

Stoyyen, ». knowingly purchasing stolen goods. (S. Schary

Stinker, m. the stable.

Stippen, v. Money from the Lay denkayyen vermittelst einer Leimy

ruthe ytehlen.

Strippers, thieves, who

fen

to do a trade, the Lay StoUenfpieter, m. der ge:

to steal. After the shopkeeper has been removed in some way to satisfy a demand,
they stick a bird, or something else

specially made for that purpose.

Whalebone skin coated with glue the, which they wore under their skirts or aprons (because

Women cultivate this kind

Theft) by the long piece of paper in the counter

liche OeUnung in the Geldkay

yt, press on the boy

the box crooked and pull

they come out again, where the rod is then completely full of money. In winter, when it is quite cold, such then thefts most and easiest exercises. The forces

mer and materialists have namely the liquids with which they trade,

mentally the oil to the Gey

Machine Translated by Google

to prevent freezing, in their Living room. That's where it must go yen yhe ye yuch, in order to satisfy a desire for such a thing,

away, and the stippler remains commercial buyers of the gey stolen goods. (Newer Ausy pressure for sharpness players.)

Strade, f. the military road, landy

Street, EhouVee. At the – trade, on the country road from Reife:

or steal freight wagons.

Keep to the road,

especially for the market and fairy

time, drive, around, the, the road payyirenden, maturity» and freighty dare to steal. The lasty

They usually stay at night in front of the inns

yt stand. Thieves who own a vehicle return there as soon as they see the arrival ofa

freight truck, gey

back to midnight and stand

by cutting the bales of goods from the freight wagon and bringing them to their own wagons, which were left standing aside.

and then drive away quickly.

Sweeping the streets, street robbery commit; attack the neiyers on the country

road and use violence yam rob.

Stradekeh rer, m. der Stray predators. (PI. same.)

Strademaiches, k. the Chauy-y

fee» or dam fee.

Strandeln, v. doubt, Very thought, uncertain, unbelieving

yhis procedure, in zn al« lein.

Machine Translated by Google

Stippruthe, k. die zum Stipy

pen required, with glue bey ytrench whalebone rod. It is usually 11 feet long, 1 inch wide, 3 inches thick at the top, but tapering at the bottom, so that here, where they are slightly roundedy

then, for the undisturbed exercise

yein. | am ytangle, | am doubtful, |
don't know what to believe.

Strandler, m. the doubter.

301

Strohymokum, n. the city of Strasbourg.

Stume, adv. clogged, closed
yen; – ye in, verytopft ýsein, suffer from constipation.

Stormybajes, and the Rathy

house. N

Si"). cn)

Syachern, v. fteblen. Se han geyyachert, yie haben geytohlen.

Syad, m. the prisoneryblock.
Er ychewwent be yyad. He is lying on the block.

Sf 17927 m. of smoking tobacco.

Syayrcherkeile, k. die Tobacksy pipe.

Syayrcheryteiwe, f. the Ta:

backskayten.

Syairauyy, pl. the hair, head
hair. Sing. Syaar.

Syaken, n. the meyyer.

Syal, m. the basket. PI. Syay li

in the.

Syam, m. the poison, beŷpecially

Machine Translated by Google

the thing with which the dogs are poisoned.
(S. Peiger.)

Sfiammech, the fifteenth book: ġtabe of the Hebraic alphabet, (p) the number sixty (60).

Syapaches, n. the ulcer.

Syapim, (is the plural of Syaf, but is usually also used as a sing., and is nom.
collect.). The basin, Woychy

Barbery, bedpan yc.

Syapner, m. der Schiŷler.
Syapper, m. the barber.
Syarfenen, v. burn, murder
burn, set fire.

Sfarfener, m. the burner, murder
burner.

Syaysel, v. the Bank. Agoley

– the wagon bench.

Syayyer, m. der Makler, iin dealer who gave the thieves a

a buyer for the stolen

Good evidence, between both the negotiator.

S. ai far, v. complain, mischiefy your.

Syaucher, m. the merchant. –
mupbla, a famous purchase: mann.

Ennen Syaucher bey

yyachern, a merchant bey yteel. Pl. SYochrim.

Syaucherymeychoreyy, m. der Laden, Kaufmannsdiener, Comy

mis.

Syaucherte, f. the merchant's wife.
Syaufer, m. der Schreiber. PI.
Syaufirim. |

Sfaule we yyauwe, m. the glutton, the eater. 5

Syaune, m. the enemy, evily willing; – Yisroel, the Jew

denfeind, Jew-hayyer. PI. Syoy nim.

Syaune fine, hate, hostile.

He is mer yyaune, he is hostile to me.

Machine Translated by Google

Sya umech fein, Yich, yich ver: layyen, ytitzen (on something). Mer kan yich uf Dir nit yyauny

mech yein, one can't rely on you.

Syaure, f. the baryley.

Syschaure, f. the goods everyy
cher kind, the stuff, the Hany

goods; pure, stolen –, funy
goods ...

bought goods.

Syschiroyy, m. the wage, the salary. Ma harbe yyschiroyy

*) Is pronounced like a mild 8.

302

How much does he pay?

Syeichel, m. the mind; –

tof, a good, bright mind.

Sfeifer, n. the book; – tey phillo, the prayer book. PI.

SUorim.

Syeiferytaure, n. the Geyeyty
book, the Torah.

SUine, t. the SchiU, the boat.

SUiren, v. zahlen.

SUire, f. the payment.

SUog, and the sponge.

Sýfogig, adv. ywommig.

Syimcho, f. joy, Freuy

digkeit; gedaule –, great joyfulness

– ha lef, the joy of the heart. PI. Symochoyy.

Syimcheyy, pl. the days of the Feast of Tabernacles.

Syimcheyyytaure, f. the Kir meyy;

the last day of the foliagey

tenfestes, which is especially dedicated to joy and play.

Syimen, r. the sign, the designation,

branding. un

Machine Translated by Google

– to be branded, to be stigmatized.

Syimenyyoken, m. (actually sign of age) the gray beard, an old man with a grey beard.

Symmern, v. designate, draw
nen, brandenz geUimmert werden, werden
branded.

Syinne, f. the enmity, the hatred. To shit

in Syinne, to live in enmity.

Syippern, v. count, overcount

len, de Meyyumme yyippern, count
the money.

Syir, m. the pot.

Sykone, k. the danger. Manre vor 'ne
Sykone haben.

Sflihe,) f. the confession, admission, humiliation.

en ne – to make, to confess nism, an insult, or generally make a statement that is detrimental to another person.

Sflichnen, v. geyessen, einrauy

men, betray, confess and through his confession at the same time insult others.
a

Sylichner, m. the traitor; the one who admits in court and betrays his comrades.

According to scoundrel principles, a very despicable person.

Syman, f. time, time of day.
Ba yym au, or Bi yyman, at the moment.

Syymanyachile, f. the time of Eyyens, the midday hour. Biy yyman achile act, at lunchtime

ytear. A eiy

type of theft, consisting in the fact that the thief steals the point for stealing, where, after the table has been lifted, the servants take the silverware from the table of their master

into the kitchen or the anteroomy worn and rely on

back into the dining room
have removed.

Machine Translated by Google

Symauli, adr. links, to the left side, –
yein, left yein, do with the left hand.

Symitzlach, PI. Schlage, Priy gel, chastisement; – to give, to beat, to deal out blows.

S Vode, f. the field, the acre.

Syo deschocher, m. der Pflug, das Pftugeisen.

Syof, m. the end, the exit. Syof

Sfauder la

*) Probably from Ar (Sylichoh) the pardon, forgiveness.

303

Bankruptcy, the end of the purchase. Sywore, f. the opinion, Any man's is bankrupt (Jewish view. | have the oath, yhic proverb.) That's exactly my opinion.

gen fie yproverbial: Syof 6

odem lomus, wait for the end Sch. (.)

. from man; ie: it will not always remain

so with him, who knows what he will still | toor; vor's Schaar teile: for an end;
it is still chen, go in front of the gate, Ypay

not every day's end. 5

Syoref, m. (actually Jajin | Schabber, m. the chisel, fioref) the brandy. the chisel,

which is used for inheritance

Syorefygordel, m. der Brnnty chen veryyy behaltern wey or Brennkeysel. is used.

Jad -,a SyorefySyarfener, m. the small hand chiyel.

Distiller, distiller. Schabbern, v. brechen; a Res

Syreife, f. the fire, the brens kefche ychabern, a hole nen. f break. N

Sfreifefleppe, k. the fire: Schabbeyy, m. the rest, the letter, the (false) witness about | Sabbath; – kaudeysch, the suffered conflagration. holy Sabbath.

Syreifeyschnorrer, m. ein Gau. Schabbeyyyg oje, f. die chriyty
A person who, under the pretense of being a servant on the Sabbath, begs for food, burns it, and carries false certificates with him. Schaychten, v. ycheiden, ýchý

Sfrore, m. the Lord, the higher! ten; from the Gole civil servants, –, Heady judges, inquiry | fer, bales from the rice cuty

rent. Ercheiyytwie aSVrore, yschen or freight wagon ychueiden. he lives like a gentleman. – f. die | Schayling, m., eine (bef. weisse)

Machine Translated by Google

Rulership, manorialism. Turnip.

Sfrore von Geyschmei, m. Je– Schrayrfen, v. geytohlenes But mand from the police, a Poy wittingly purchase; 'n Mayy lizeibeamter. yematten yharpen, yammtliy

Syuder, m. der Mantel, (S. ches, in a theft Gey Kinjon Syuder). Buy stolen items.

Syullem, f. the ladder. (She ScharffenYspieler, m., a proy
is used to enter into higher feUioned buyers stolen located window used.) Goods. A good buyer is Syuyy (8), n. the horse; uf with the thieves always exactly the – halcheuen, reiten. known; he is yalways also pl. Syuyyim. geyt, where (but not always Syuyyimylatchener, m. der wie) the matter to be aggravated horse thief. geytoblen,

so that he

Sjwiewe, f. the area; Mo: resale depending on the area –,

the urban area, namely the place or 304

the area of theft
could avoid.

Schaiwa, n. the wax.

Schakron, m. the liar. Fem.

bowl, f. the question; 'ne –

make, inquire, especially with the rabbi,
whether something is to be considered kosher or treife. (S. Payyken en).

Bowl = to make a fuss, to make a lot of noise, to make a fuss.

Pakkedell Ybowlyychuweyyy make a great noise

ben about a small thing.

Schaller, m. the sexton, Glécky
ner.

Schallen, v. klingen. It resounds, it rings.

Schalyschuleyy, f. the small (jewellery) necklace.

Schayy, adv. vollytandig, vollzahy
lig. – Klamoniyy, the fully constant number of (28) Diety

richen, which lead to the castlesy

OeUnen is necessary.

Machine Translated by Google

Schayyjenen, v. trinken. Ich hob
geyschayyjent, | have drunk.

Schate, f. the time. Ani hab lau
Schate, | have no time.

Schattchen, m. the bridesmaid: ber,
suitor.

Schauchad, n. the gift with which someone is bribedy

the yshould; – lekichnen, Gey

to take a gift, to be bribeable.

Schauchet, m. the Jew shachy ter or cantor.

Schaufer, n. the horn, the trumpet,
with which the New Year is announced

in the synagogue
is detected.

Schaufet, m. the judge, cityy
or village judge, the mayor.

Swing, m. the wagon master, weight setter;
the one whose job it is to weigh something.

Look, ask, demand,
long, desire, welcome: | have been looked
at, | have been asked.

Schaumer, m. the gatekeeper,

Doorman, porter. PI. Mey ychorrim.

Schauren, v. fing, namenty
ly during the service in the Synagogue.

Looked, m. the fool, Thor, simple man; a godler Looked, an evil fool.

Schauteuf, f. the floody

mung.

Schautenpicken, v. Ladenlifter to commit theft.

Schautenpicker, m. the shop thief, namely the one who steals. (S. Schottenfeller.)

He looks, m. the city servant, overseer, hatychier. PI. Schoy

trim.

Shame, adr. false, vain. Oath – m,
the false witness.

Shchome, k. the dawn, early hour. Be Shchome

Machine Translated by Google

act, in the morning, in the early hour,
steal.

Schachem, k. die Schulter. Uf de Schachem katychen, to carry on the shoulder.

Shechune, f. the neighbory

shaft. 1

m. the ditch.

Schedunner, m. the horse thief.
Schedunnerei, f. of horses:

theft. Segein uf de Schey

dunn erei, they are out to steal horses.

Schedunnern, v. to steal horses. A stolen trapper, a stolen horse.

305

Scheere, f. io means the use of peat printers

of the middle and index fingers,

in order to get out of the pockets,

pecially the trousers, to steal the loose
money contained therein.

y, m. der bleiben bleiby

bende Reyt. Was is Scheey

riyy, what is rest?

ScheUten, v. lie, sit, fine.

He's yhing be chaule, he's yitting prisoner. He's Yhing ley male, he is on the ground.

What's the matter, what's there?

Sheikh f. the plate.

Scheicher, n. the beer.

Scheicherygordel, m. der Biery
or brewing kettle.

Scheigitz, or Scheikitz, m. derogatory
name for ay

Christians of common standing.
PI. Schkotch im.

Scheikizelchen, n. der Chriy ytenknabe.

Scheiker, m. the lie; -, adv. lying,

fabricated, falych; es is ycheiker, it is a lie.
Eid -, m. the false witness.

Sheikh Bilbul, meaning false accusation,

false denunciation.

Scheiker we kiyef, m. Lug

Machine Translated by Google

and deception.

Scheikern, v. lie. Scheiy core in Veryschmai in Very hear lies.

Shine, the day. At-, on 2

age.

ScheinkuUer, Nachschkey

thieves who steal by day. -n, v. by day
by nighty

ychliyyels ytehlen.

Scheinlatchener, or Scheiny

yetteyyer, thieves who steal by day. - n, commit thefts by day.

Schein ySéwecher, m. a thief who occasionally steals during the day.

Scheinspringer, thieves who steal
during the day by disguising themselves into the houses and unlocked

yneak into his room.

. m. a through

sneak out during the day committed theft.

note, m. the dust broom; – get, be dusted.

Scheinling, m. the eye, in equalize the brightness, illumination
tion.

Shit, number six. – already noyy, yix years, – jomim, yix days,
– yschieoyy, yix hours.

I num. sixteen.

Scheleg, m. the snow. There is light snow, there is snow.

(In this case, the crooks do not drive or go out to commit night-time theft.)

Schelegnen, v. snow; It's snowing,

it's snowing.

Schelofen, m. (Fl. Scheloy

fim), a Christ, especially uny

Machine Translated by Google

married, e.g. it's halfy chent 'n Keim unter de

Schelo fim, there goes (wanders) a Jew
among the Christians.

Schem, m. the name, fig. the reputation, repute). – tof, the good name, –

ra, the bad name (reputation). PI.
Schemanu.

schemes, v. the oil, the oil.
PI. Schmonim.

Schemenyyajiyy, n. the tree oil.

*) Among the Berlin thieves, Schem is also called fellow prisoner, Mity arrested, the fellow sufferer.

20

306

Schemme, adv. perhaps. He will –

poter kummen, he will perhaps be released.

Shemesh, f. the sun. –
we joreach, sun and moon.

Schemmeysch, m. der Schuldier

ner, sexton, gravedigger, overy
basically every church servant.

Schemome, f. astonishment, dismay. – to have, to be astonished, to be dismayed.

Scherez, m. the worm, overy

any creeping animal.

PI. Schrozim.

Scherwine, f. the ware cayte of traveling gallantry

Jews.

Schewach, m. or Sche woche, f. praise, glory.

Schewwenen, v. yetzen, legen, ystellen.
Schewwene dich a matche, fit yourself a little.

He ychewed yich joychy

nen, he lies down to sleep. -, v. in custody.
He is in custody, he sits (in arrest). ee tz,

f the leprosy, the leprosy.

Schibatzig, adv. leprous, the

Machine Translated by Google

Having scabies.

Schibbes, adv. ybad, worthy small, insignificant, nothing. For example, a girl is asked: what are the Matoneyy worth that you gave her? She answers: "Well, they're worthless," meaning they're worthless, they're paltry enough.

Schibbaulevy, n. (actually ears of corn), the stuffed, Any filled, full (especially in the pocket). Oi, Brother Le ÿ

ben, like 'n Schibbauy

leyy hot der! So says the Torfoyrucker, when he, on the Markets or elsewhere, at Jey

manden spied a bag filled with money.

Schibbauleyy, and the share, theft
share, especially Desjey

someone who did not take direct part in the theft; the brandy money.

Schibbauleyyychittim, full ears of wheat.

Schibbechen, v. to praise, to extol,
to boast; to boast –, touch (about something).

Shibbolim, pl. berries, pears.

Schibbuych, m. the error. Pl.

Shibbushim. Mole –,

full of errors, faulty.

Schidduch, m. marriage, engagement. The –

is tof, the marriage is aut. – me» reward, arrange marriage,

advise.

Shidduchen, v. get married, ver:

praise.

Push, ". yneak, inyney

chen.

Schieh, f. the hour. Cboze –, half an hour, Rewiehe –, a quarter of an hour. PI.

Shooyy, lookyyor shooty

o yy.

Shine, (Shin), the three and twentieth letter of the Hebrew chen alphabet (W).

Shin, m. the closer, Gey
court or police officer; the Ge:

Machine Translated by Google

prison warden, prison guard.

Schienaggeln, n. the Schanz or cart: work. –, v.

Schanz or cartwork very direct.

Schienydalled), m. der Gensy d'arme.

1) Because gendarmes in everyday life usually pronounced Schan darm

307

Schiener, m. the night thief, Einy breaker. (S. Schranker.)

Shinypehylamed, adv. nausea, ybad.

To shoot, occasionally to steal; as one usually says: to go along with something.
E.g. it comes

a crook to someone in iry

gend a shop, perhaps to hawk ye., without

from the outset the intention to stand

len, to have, and he finds therey

when he had the opportunity to take something with him, such as a silver spoon from the kitchen, he did this.

Schifche, and the servant, the (not quite lowly) maidy

chen. PI. Schfochoyy.

Schikker, m. the drunkard, a drunken
person.

Schikkoren, f drunkenness, alcoholism.
Schikse, f. the Christian girl of low class; 'ne jofe Schikse, a hüßch (Chriy

ften-) girls.

Schikyel, or Schiksche, n. the little Christian girl.

shield, n. the compartment in the (not mafiiven) wall.

Insert sign, break in,

by using the crooked head

a compartment in the wally will encounter.

Machine Translated by Google

Schilleychim, pl. the great-grandchildren,
the third member.

Schilychem, adv. the day before yesterday.

Schilten, m. the supreme commandy

commander, chief, sergeanty

yeher, Chief Inypector.
Shinnaiim, PI (Sing.

(Schneen) the teeth. Keef m. a= Zahnachmerz.

Schischim, num. sixty.

Schiwe, k. lamentation, grief, suffering.

Schiwenen, v. wehllagen, jamy

mern, ycrease (from soulsy pain).

Schiwe yit, to support the complaint.
(If parents or siblings die of the Jews,
they must

yhe, as a sign of lament, for 7 days
with bare stockingsy
pfen sitting on an ash sack.)

Schiwes, adv. fort; – ge: go, go away, run away, take flight.
Schiwim, num. seventy.

Ski where, num. fieben.

Schiwoyoyyer, num. Yseveny

ten.

Schiwoyweyyrim, num. fie twenty– five.

Schkoche, k. the attention,
Watch out, provide. – nayyy

nen, pay attention, bewarey yeen. Nayyne def denich chaule wirycht, be careful that you don't end up in the arrest.

Schkorim, Pl. (Sing. Scheiy
ker) the lies, lying rey
den. He dibs Schko–

rim, he speaks lies.

Schlachmone/y, Pl. die Pu. rim» or carnival gifts,

Machine Translated by Google

which the Jews their Very turned and sent to friends, as usual, in the house.

Schlammayel, n. misfortune, un favorable
fate, night-bright.
The crook understands chen wird, fo ist from the initial letter of the two syllables Sch (Schlien)

and d (dalled) this name arose.
20*

308

anything that makes him suspect or Geng (Imp. of Shomai)

can be detrimental. If he is therefore convicted of lying during the painful interrogation, or whoy

the yoye unfavourable protocols

recorded for him, he says: the Sfrore has mer Schlammayel in de files

made according to himy

partial notes from the Poy

lizei written in the passport, this means:
Schlammayel in to make a slap. –, m. the male member.

mudmaselik, adv. accidenty
ly, – to be, to be unhappy.

Schlammayelvogel, m. the one pursued by misfortune, someone who has a lot of bad luck.

be, f. the chain, jewelry
ette.

Schlangelche, n. the small chain, the little chain.

Schlappstock, m. der LöUel.
PI. Schlappytécker.

Smart, m. sleep, sleeping.

Smartycheider, and the sleepy room. N

Schlauben, ». yleep.

Smarties, number three. – aloy
fim, three thousand, – meieyy,
three hundred.

Schlauychim, num. thirty.

Machine Translated by Google

Schleha-medine, f. the curey furyrystenthum Heyyen.

Schlemihl, m. a person who has a lot of misfortune; the misfortune bird.

Schliach, m. der Bote, expreye

Messenger.

Schliachyzibbur, m. der Gey mydebote.

Schlumkitt, and the pub, Hery
berge, the drinking house; especially the Jewish hostel.

fic- y 6y-0Y to whom ay . .' HE

Hear

Shema Yisroel, interj. Hear Israel! (It is common among Jews to express sorrow or indignation, similar to the North

German exclamation: Herr Jeyus! [Herr Jel])

Schmadden, v. baptize; yich –
to be baptized, to turn away from Judaism.

Schmaddenfleppe, |. baptism seem

Schmadderei, f. baptism, child baptism. N

Schmaddmajim, and the baptism

water; the consecration of the church.

Schmaien, ». hear, experience

ren. N

Narrow, m. the path, the road.
Uf dem – tarchenen, begging on the way.

a: number eight.

SchmaunesoUer, num. eight: ten.

Shmaunim, number eighty; – fhonoU, eighty years.

Flatter, ». laugh, or actually smile.

Schmier, f. the overseer, over. payyer, bailiff.

Machine Translated by Google

Schmiere, k. the guard, the military post, but especially those during the night break-
in

or even when closing the cupboardy
and duplicate key theft fromy guard posted to watch for any approaching danger

to give, and those inside the building

or the apartment

to notify thieves already present in a timely manner.

If a night watchman is to be obyerviren, such a watchman yts himself at a

concealed him from viewy

those who withdraw, place, and this is then a rich

Schmiere.—, building, ne f. the watchy

military guard in corpore. Enne – aufytely len, set up a guard at the Theft. (This is a prey

togative des Balmayyematy

ten.) he stand guard, keep watch

ten, guard, at the thiefy

yteel in front of the door yc.
Schmierling, m. the soap, white and green soap.

Schmue, |. the female shame.

Schmue, f. silliness; —, adv. silly.

Schmue beny

gontis, stupid stuff.

Schmuoyy, m. the narrative,
conversation; the talk, conversation,

dialogue.

Schmuyen, v. ypeak, erzahy talk, entertain. Coy

f on —, the thieves' language res
en.

Schnechen, n. the little handkerchief,
HGalsy or handkerchief.

Snow, m. the white canvas.

A piece of snow, a piece of canvas. |
Snow, number

two. Snow, snow, two hours, —

meieyy, two hundred.
Schneiypedaulimychatiche, f. a two-gross piece.

Snow, f. a. the cloth. Mey ychechne —, a silk cloth.

a linen one —,

uch.

Cutting ram, m. the scissors.

cutting tool, f. the curtain

Machine Translated by Google

closed.

Schnellen, v. yskieBen; a Kleiyy
T—äää.

yajim losychnellen, a firey

ergewehr losschießen.

Faster, w. a rifle, bey. pistol.

SchniUling, m. der Schnupf. tobacconist.

To scrounge, v. to beg professionally.
– on the pill,

under the pretense of fallingy
begging for addiction.

Schnorrenfieyel, m. der Bett-telvoigt.

n

Schnorrer, m. a profeUlonir-ter beggar
who is in contact with thieves and crooks,

them occasionally also thieffy yteels provyed. In these

Stand usually occurs the Gauy ner when he gets old, and not

can steal more, and especially especially when he is also a vagrant.

Such people are then told: he is a shirt beggar.

Schnorrykeim, m. the beggary

Jew.

SchnorryGirl, after mockeryy
name for such Jewish girls who trade on their own. You'll be hanging around as a begging girl for a long time, and you'll make a living! (A Rey

dense, mocking, like towards girls, is very common.) f

Schochen, m. the neighbor. PI.
Shechonim.

Schochente, k. the neighbor.

Schochenen, v. spoil, spoil
let it be coarse. Curse: Ber:

ychochent ýellýt de liggen, Du bollyst verderben!

Machine Translated by Google

Schocher, m. the chisel, the Merfel, for opening
different containers in the Iny

ners of a vomited apartment.
Newer term for S chabber.

310

Schocher, adv. et adj. ywarz. -, subst.
m. der Schwarze, . The one who has a ywallowish,

has a dark complexion, beforey
especially arising from a thick (ra. yirten)

beard. PI: Shechaurim.

Schocheres, n. something blacky
zes, usually the ink, also the burnt caUee.

Schochern, v. to break, to break openy chen; Ingl. to blacken, to smear

zen, e.g. the face, in ay

a break-in.

Schocherbaryel, m. die Brechy ytange (less common).

Schocherychaje, k. the fleas (literally:
the yblack lifey
animal).

Schochergordel, m. der Kafy Shocher 105

ocherykayr ner, n. Schiny
ken, bacon. |

Schocherylechem, n. yschwary
zes or homemade bread.

Schocherymajim, n. the (cooked)

coffee. n. ham,

peck.

Schoycher, m. the innkeeper.
Schoychern, v. strong drinks drink, booze. JajinySyoy ret, Drink brandy.

Schojcherkitt, n. the drinking house, the tavern.

Schoycheryyschurrich, n. all

Types of drinking vessels, preferably but glass and porcelain

nenes; the KaVeetayye.

Schofel, adv. et adj. yhlecht, yehrimm,
nasty, worthless; en ychofer Mayyematten, a yhlechter Handel, unprofitable theft. Wie balchents, how is it going? ychofel lerof, yhlecht genug.

Schofelybajes, n. or Schoy felkitt, and the penitentiary, the

Machine Translated by Google

penal institution.

Schofelj- middle, and the ywrong,
hard beds; the litter.
Schofen, n. the rabbit.

S 99 kelcher, PI. die Kartoffel.
eln.

Scholem, m. peace, well-being ytand.

Scholem alleichem, peace be with you!
Jewish greetings; gey
common in letters, when against, and especially when Someone is traveling, parting and meeting again. The answer is: All good, peace be upon you too!

Schomai fine, v. hear, he drive. | had it – wasy

fen, | heard it, very
taken.

Scho maiim, m. the sky.

Leychem –, mels wilen! . int. around the skyy

Schomaimi, adj. heavenly.
Schono, for the year. Rosh ha
–, the New Year. Choze –,

half a year; Newiehe

–, a quarter of a year.
Schonoy bayychono, adv. all-yearly,

from year to year; year in, year out.

Schonoy cha doycho, f. the Christian

New Year; the 1st of January

nuar.

Schonosjerid, m. the yeary

market.

Schoot, m. der Kantychu. With the – to tambourine, to count (strike) with the Kantychu.

Schor, m. the ox. You are a – ba bor, you are stupid

Machine Translated by Google

than an ox. PI. Shorim.

chorimyboyer, v. das

Ox meat, beef.

Schorr, m. the thief, spy-
boy. (IM, by the way, a unique oney

neriyc word and among the Jewish crooks are not very popular.)

Schorrybajes, n. the Diey

host.

Schoter, m. the closer, Aufy

seer. (S. Schauter.)

Scottish furs, from Lay

the and vaults (section)
Stealing goods.

| Thieves who steal

cut goods in shops and vaults, even at market stalls

yteal. At least always find their two together. Wahy while the one (¥. Srikner) the attention of the buyery

manns (Syauchers) beychaf.

by procuring goods

shown and haggles about it (he ytricts him), the other (the shop-picker) steals from the goods presented or lying

at hand as much as he can in his thievingy tafhe (y. load). If such thieves

arrested, it is their prey

take great care to destroy the thieves'

bag in their clothes by tearing it out, because they know that this is always a strong reason for suspicion.

If such a scoundrel succeeds in doing this,

as usually happens, he is a complete duckfeller.

Schowelle, k. the barn.

1) Since previously under the name:

2311

Machine Translated by Google

Schower, m. the testicular hernia, also the person suffering from it himself.

Schranken, v. durch gewaltyay men burglary yteal.

Cabinet thieves, whoy
especially at night by means of burglary,

but without
to commit violence against persons").
Schraynkmasyyematten, m. a break-in to be carried out Theft.

Cabinet tools and all other tools necessary for a violent break-in.

Schrekenen, v. wave, shish.

Schuck, m. the market, Kramy or cattle market. The – fromy hold, visit the market to steal.

Schuckgayger, thieves who steal at markets, especially at the stalls.

Schukken, v. koyten. What does it cost, what does it cost? It costs nothing, it costs nothing.

Debts, m. the table, la-den table, in which the dailyy

kayye yich is located, which is being robbed by the stippers. PI.
Schulchenoyy.

Schulchenybeged, and the tablecloth.

Schulch ener, m. der Tischler.
Schullemen, v. zahlen; mes 3
bezahlen. Er ychullmt m'r

Mitbeihe, he pays me money. Ich wer d'r meychuly

lemen, | will pay youy
len feathered ones).

zi

Schranfer, preferably Rauy

But what was commonly understood was called, in contrast, the simple

Machine Translated by Google

Burglars: delicate cabinets.

Since that earlier meaning of the word

Schrynker has disappeared in recent times, so has the distinguishing "ziery" for burglars violence against persons.

Lich" to use.

312

Schum, prep. because of, mi-,
because of.

Sch um, m. the garlic.

Schumon, n. the fat. =,
meat

on nd, m. the dirt that at the exity

29125715 v. shit.

une, k. the funeral processiony
niB, the funeral procession.

Schuol, m. the fox; fig. the clever,
cunning person. Des is en Schuol, that is a fox. PI. Schuolim.

shed, ». steal, cheat.

to put in; to free-, to bey

to play a deceptive game. In de Mulje
– to put in one's pocket; aus de
Mulje – to steal from one's pocket.

Schurrich, m. below wery
the EUects, ready-made linen and clothing, and generally goods and items of all kinds.

Schurrichylekich e, f. der
Clothes, EUectsy "Theft. |

Shuwe'), f. the answer, message, notification; –

give, reply, notifyy

to sting (of something); – to sting, to give a secret answer, a message (e.g. to a prisoner); to set it right.

Machine Translated by Google

Sch waychyaules, n. the drinking jug,

water jug.

sg Geher m. the drinking

Schwache, f. the inn, the tavern.

Sch waycher, m. der Schanky

Sch wa cherich, adv. duryti

w erich, adv. durytig.

I'm weak, I'm thirsty, | want to drink.

Sch waychfinchen, n. a drinking

vessel.

Schwarz fayrber, m. the clergyman, pastor.

black putty, n.

Rectory, preacher's house.

Shvat (or Shevat), name of the eleventh month.

Schweihen, v. rauchen. Eiyy yef –, To smoke tobacco. (However, in German the Tobacco smoking is usually referred to as “smoking”, so the crook simply says “sweat”

enE

Heavy, m. the mother-in-law
father.

Mother-in-law, k. the mother-in-law.

Schwif, m. the spark.

Schwii, m. the seventh; –, num. Ba jom ha –, on the 7th day.

Schwua, k. the oath, the conspiracy,
the vow. – to do, to swear, to swear: to swear (that one has not done or vowed this or that, for example) yayt). Pl. Sch wuay/.

Schwuo, for the week. PI.

Schwuooy. (Schwuaiim, two weeks.) Schwuoyy, k (actually Chag ha yschwuooyy), the Jewish Pentecosty

(weeks) Felt.

Machine Translated by Google

the

) From won (Teychuwah), answer.

Taam, m. the taste; also fig. the good taste, understanding; the cause. What is the fam, what is the ur.

thing?

e m. the Ning, fingery

ng.

Tabboch, m. the butcher, also the cook.

Tabbur, m. the navel.

Tabeiro jajin yyoref, m. the distiller. 6

Tafyenen, v. to capture, to arrest. They captured him.

tafyent, they caught himy

taken.

Taiyish, w. the goat. PI. Tey joychim.

Taiwayy, f the desire, the longing

(e.g. for something). – ha boyyer, die Fleifches:

lust.

Taiway'
lust, horniness. i

mmer, f. the woly

Taiwoyy, name of the tenth month.

Takkif, adv. respected, esteemed. —, subst.
m. a respected, powerful man, the Official.

But it is primarily understood to mean

the Jewish police vigilant, or another

Indian who is well respected by the authorities and whose intercession can be of some help to the scoundrels.

Machine Translated by Google

Valley, m. the Thau.

Taljen, m. executioner, executioner.
PI. Taljonim.

m v. to execute, ben: en. 5

Talliyy, m. the prayer shawl.

(H. v.)

e, pl. also Tapuy

thieves, especially in large cities

ten. 6

Taltel *), m. the Nachschluyyyel, Dietrich, Schliyyel in general.

PI. Taltalim.

Taltelynekef, n. the keyy
yelloch. x

Talulim, pl. toys, baubles.
Tammeyy, name of the fourth month.

Tamiyy, m. the fast day.
Tamiyyyzibbur, m. der Fayty

day of the community, general fast day.
Thus, the major fast days prescribed by the Talmud, such as the destruction

rung Jeruyalems je.

Tanner, m. the oven, tiley
oven.

chimche, the potatoes. (Egg
gentlich Ereztapuchim, Erdy apples, because Tapuchim on young diych the apples are called.)

Tar, n. the barber's knife.

Tarchenen, v. to beg; to beg on the narrow, on the way, on the street.

Tarchener, m. the beggar. (PI.

homonymous.)

Tarchenyychien, m. der Bet. telvoigt, Büttel.

Tarfeyy, m. the stolen goods, the blackened,

defrauded goods; also the stolen equipment

taken together is called fo ge:.

Tarling, m. the cube. PI.
Tarlings.

TarneK, k. the RuB (Hayely

Machine Translated by Google

or walnut.)
Tarnegaul, m. the rooster.

Tarnegauleyy, f the hen.

Taltalmiy ch, pl. NachYschluyyel.“ Taryschyisch, mw. the emerald.

») The Christian thieves, especially the Berlin thieves, usually say Tantel.

314

Tate, m. the father. Mich hot

the Tate giveycht, the Vay ter has blessed me.

Diving, m. the weigher, Aby
meyyer, which cuts something off» or toy measures; ingl. the astronomer.

Taudteyyer, m. Someone who cannot earn anything; an old thief who can no longer steal

can, and now from the younger

is entertained.

Taue, m. a wanderer; someone who is in error,

a false claim only yts Ye.

To be wrong, to be mistaken, to be deceptive
ychen. He has ye thawed

was, he was wrong,
deceptive. .

Tauger, m. the Turk. PI. Ta-griim.
Taukef, k. the power, might, strength,
reputation.

Taum, k. the righteousness, sincerity.

Ta ur, m. the ox. PI. Tauy

rim.

Taure, k. the Bible, the old Te: Ytament,
the Myayayic Law; the five books of Myis.
Syimy

cheyy –, the joy of the Ge:

yetzes, the Kirmeyy.

Tauren, m. the mast.

Machine Translated by Google

Do me the favor, do me the favor, be Yo kind.

Tau we fein, v.fordern, einfo« dern, abfordern,fordern. Er hat mir's – worden, er hat mir wurde, er hat er wurde.

Tauwel fein, v. baden, ich –
–, to bathe.
Tchilley, m. the evening time, from

» Beginning of darkness, until around 11 o'clock.

Tahilleyygaynger, thieves, which only preferably during the evening hours.

They were also Tchilleyyeller

S

called N

To trade, v. to steal in the evening hours, in whatever way it may be. – on the street, stealing carriages on the country road during the evening, because these are especially suitable for such suitable for thefts.

Tchilleyyy mayyematten, m. which comes out in the evening floodsy leading theft. It is called techilleyy in mokum if the crime is to be committed in the city (perhaps through a duplicate key) and taehilleyy uf dem Schuck if the crime is to be committed in the market (perhaps at a stall).

Teaumim ,PI. the twins.

Techum, m. the border, an aby measured, marked path. – yschabbeyy, m.

der Saby

bathsweg, a path of 2000 steps.

Tefiro, f. the night.

Tefilli m, Pl. the Pyalmen.

Particle, v. to go away, to go towards a certain goal. If one merely says

Machine Translated by Google

If one wants to say: | go, it is said, |
halchene, but if one wants to say: here
and there, it is said, | divide there.

Teischeymeyy, f. the bat.

Teiwe, f. the KoUer, castes, the Box, barrel, bowl, any vessel in general.

Temuhyausen, n. the earlobey

chen. f

Tephillim, Pl. of Lawsy

men, the Ten Commandments.

Tephillo, f. the prayer book.

ala

Teyy, v. the sheet metal. Tikve, f. the HoUnung. | Teyy, the ninth letter of the Hebrew alphabet (v), the HoUnung. –, don't have any Numeral nine (9). Tippel, m. the falling addiction.

Tewen, n. the straw, the chaff. Curse: Get the Tippel, Tewenche, n. the Strobbut. Get the Schwerenoth!

Tfieye, f the prison, the | Tinne, f. the diarrhea, the Diy Arrest. In de – fein, ge arrhoe. Saying: you get to be caught, to be in arrest. d'e Tinne von Peiyyach.

Tfuyyim, (pl. of To feyy) the (Because the many sweet prisoners. Sweets which the Jews

Thof, the last letter of the Bereiyisch alphabet (m) enjoyed at Easter (Peiyyach), that will, commonly diarrhea numeral four hundred (400).] leave behind, so that saying is

Thof, m. the locksmith, word yo much as: you yhall the ber, prison guard. Diarrhea from Easter

Tibbul, n. the spice, the men. It is intended as a mockery Good taste. Usual when someone

Tick, m. the clock, especially Tay demands, for a spurious reason, ychenuhr. – yachern, or to whom one does not want to give anything. It – pluck, a clock from the is indicated to him that Bag stealing. The diarrhea of Easter that Tickmelochner, m. the clock is the only thing he can preserve, as it is with

Tickmulje, f. the watch pocket. us in the vulgar language at Jey

Machine Translated by Google

Ticklye, and the clock. manden geüblich is, der ety chain. what wants to inherit: "The last Ticktaltel, m. the clock key. He should inherit bowel movement," is el. in this respect a general

Tiefche, and the Kyste, beyticularly my usual saying.) the barrel. Tippeln, v.
gehen, kommen;

Tifle, f. the Christian Church"); from -, on a theft from:

- beginntewen, or - be: go, in -, after committing yyachern, a church beyisty theft somewhere, to Theiy

len. recovery of the stolen goods, ay

Tiflehof, m. the Christian church- sweeping; from -, by a thieffy
bof. gteal go off, the escape ery Tikken, v. to weigh carefully, to grasp; to over-, to surprise, measure, consider, ponder. take by surprise.

Tikwe, f. the band. Tippeysch, m. the fool, the "Tikweyyyaucher, m.

der Bandy 1725 Non-scoundrel, someone who dealer. doesn't side with the crooks.

) The word "Tifle" undoubtedly comes from Tofel, meaning "tasted", and thus, as a name for the Christian house of worship, contains a contemptuous, mocking name, since it means some "madhouse".

(Meaning as much as Wittsch.) PI.
Tippiychim. —, adv. stupid, a tippiycher Menuych, a stupid (ie honest) person; a beamy

ter who does not accept gifts.

Tischeboof, that is the name of the festival
the destruction of Jeruyalem, which
This is also a general fasty day is.

Tiyche, num. nine, —oyyer, nineteen,
— we eyyrim, twenty-nine, — im, ninety.

Tiy ar Name des yeventen Mo»
nats.

Tit, 5 the glue.

Tlij a der gallows.

Machine Translated by Google

Tloy 16 num. three, — im, thirty.

Tmicho —" f, the astonishment,
—, adv. wonderful.

Tnai, k. the condition. Plur.

Tnoim. Tuoim riychaunim, the first
en

achraunim, the last Bediny

tions (both sayings are used in engagements

and marriage cony

tracts).

Tu oim Ycribe, yich verloben.

(A Jewish engagement without the establishment of an engagement cony tract, is not easy conceivable, and therefore this Bey designation, which actually means dingungen ychriften means). He has written Tnoim, he has yeen engaged, a Verloy

exercises. made.

To ar, f. the form, the structure, the shape. Jofe –, shape.

beautiful

Toaren, v. formiren, to form, ab: and to designate.

Death, m. the middle, be –, adv. in the middle, in it, in the middle of it.

Tochen, v. to consider, to measure, to consider. (S. Tikken.)

To 7 f, m. the, the back, the

Tof, adv. et adj. good, lukewarm –, 55 good; col–, it's all ok;

Mayel –, n. good luck (m. tower, f. towe, v. tof).

Tof ycheUten, (ychewwenen) yeche
yitz, liegen, auydlich drive carefully, drive safely (e.g. in front of

something).

Tofel, adv. et adj. unrhymed, seasoned,
also probably old (m. tofler, f. tofle, n. tofel

To feyy, m. der, die Gefangene; –,
adv.gefangen. – fein, oder –
yscheUten,gefangen ysein, im Arreyt yitzen.

Tofeyy lekichnen, caught neb-men. oblige.

Machine Translated by Google

TofeyyyWomen, that's what they're called Wives of the arrested crooks, who then often with their

Man's comrades aroundy

and, apart from what they themselves

steal, are usually supported by them, by taking that share from the get communal loot

men, which would have fallen to the man if he were free.

To fleUig, adv. et adj. guthery

cheerful, good-natured.

Tofleynemone, k. the catholicity
Jewish religion

e adv. katho-

One Jaske, k. the Catholic Church, the Kloy

yter.

Tokken, v. to give, to deliver. To toUen,
to shake hands.

317

Tole), f. the Dýngeßschloß, Bor:
legeyschloß.

Toleyacher, m. the hanging unclean, a hanged Cbrýt.

Tole eater, m. the image eater
fer, image worshiper, the Catholic.

Peat, m. that which is to be stolen from the pockets, the purse.

Peat printing, v. pickpockety steals.

Peat printers, bag thieves, who steal in the crowd (the way they go about their work is appropriately described withy divided).

Stagger “), v. yto stagger. He staggers me, he yto staggers me.

To we, k. der Abyheuel, Abyheu.
| raised a towe before you,

you are an abomination to me.

ae f. the feast,
banquet.

Machine Translated by Google

Trapper, m. the horse.
ychedunnern, horses fteal.

Tra ppine, f. the ladder, stairs.

Trararum, m. die Post, Post – kutsche.

Trararumybajes, and the Posty construction.

Hooters, postal thieves.
You can either take the PHost and steal by mistakey

tion of the packets, or they bey ytear the post vans by either, as with ordinary

Travelling carriages that are attached at the rear ten KoUer abyne; or, especially in the Prussian

Post, they vomit, while driving, the rear

Kay

yt and yteal those in it sensitive packages.

Treife, adv. et adj. 1) unclean, forbidden; 2) stolen, dishonest

N acquired, suspicious. 3) If the crook has stolen and

the robbed person immediately notices his
a loss; or if the
The thief has already been robbed once

before and has been made wise by it, so that a second

Attempted theft is likely

yhind, Yo it is said in both cases likewise: : the matter is treife.

Treife yein, or Treife ytey hen, in the investigation by proof yttt; Ytrong

Evidence or suspicion

to have reasons against oneself; to have be thoughtful. He stumbles to treife, he will go to jail

He is too suspicious, has too much against him and will be punished.

– although not under investigation, but generally suspected

tig – especially through previously committed crimes and suffering

tene punishments – be that one

the constant, precise observation attention of the authority under

Machine Translated by Google

thrown is.

Go on patrol, carry stolen goods or thieves' tools.

Treife become chaule, or Treife get lost, in flagrante delicto or otherwise with the spare keys, thieves' instrumeny

ten or the stolen goods.

Treifeyyschauure, f. geftoblene Waare, geytohlenes Gut.

*) From rp (Toloh), he hung up.

) This word has passed into popular language, where it is turkeln fromy is spoken and means taume In.

318

Trittling, m. the boot, shoe.
Pl. Trittlinge.

Trittlingsmelochnr, m. the shoemaker.

Bye, number. nine, – mostly, nine hundred.

Tschi, yes, of course.

Tychuwe, f. repentance. to do penance, to atone.

Tuft, k. the church. Synagogue.

Tuippim, PI. (Sing. Taf) the timpani.

Tullem, m. the gallows.

Tullemen, v. act. hang. You yullyt getullmt wer'n, you yhall be hanged.

Tume, k. the uncleanness, the impure, pork c. -, adv. unclean, forbidden.

Twile, f the bath, also the baptism.

Twioyy, Pl. the demands.

Twué, n. the grain.

Machine Translated by Google

Ubim, pl. the, the beams.
Overbuilding, ». receive, gety

men. Makkeies -, blows receive.

Ueberchayern, yich, ». yich very

yagree, yagree, yagree
to stammer, to stumble during the course of a conversation.

To stay overnight.

Above, etc. the decky
bed.

Uebertippen, v. to ambush, to take
by surprise, to tread on, to catch.

Ueberwurf, m. the latch or chain

on the window, by means of which the window sashes or shutters are locked from the inside

become.

UgeU, m. the, the cakes.

Ugof, m. the organ.
Ugofklinge, f. the organ pipe.

Ullem, m. a confluence, a tumult.

Ulmivisch, adv. alt. – fine, old yt.

Ulmischer, m. the father, the old man.

Ulmische, f. the mother, the old woman.

UlmiU, adv. very long, for life, lifelong. – hay
be sentenced to life imprisonment.

cloak, m. the coat, yoy to Manns as Weibermany

phone

Ummakkénen, v. noise, spectacle
to make a tackle, to turn everything upside down.

Umon, m. the artist, pro-feyyioniyt.

umoniyy, f. the profession.

Machine Translated by Google

Umyarkenen, v. umwerfen, Very hear recant, take back confessions.

Umychlage, m. the noise, the rumbling.
-en, v. to make noise, to rumble.

Unjoycher, adv. incorrect, falych.

Unterblinden, v. vom geytohy embezzled any good. (p.
(Sub-masks.)

e eee v. unterytesy

geln.

Unterychipeysch, m. the inter yuchung,

the investigation proy

process. -to examine, to investigate.

Unterkabber, m. the undermining;
to make a -, during a night break-in

Hole from outside under the wall

in order to get into the interior of the building through it if the ground floor is not floored from the inside.

Unterkabbern, v. undermine, to undermine a wall in the manner just mentioned.

Unterkayywenen, v. unteryschreiy
ben (yich).

Untermakkenen, v. underyschlay

gen, a part of the geytohley
keep something good for yourself,
a comrade, and not bring to the Cbelukey

(This is usually done by the beanmaster, or, if any
of which the theft immediatelly

In order to prevent such embezzlement,

However, the remaining chay
weirim, when he comes out of the ery broken or by subsequent returns to the open premises to search for any hidden money or items

yearch, ie fie chippeychen him.) Untermalbyisch, m. the underskirt, the underjacket.

untermitte, n. et f. the inter: bed, the mattress.

Unteryschauter, m. the lower

Machine Translated by Google

Police» or prisony
ner.

unter ychewwenen, v. to expect a burglary at night.

Unteryetteyyen, v. (S. Uny terychewwenen.)

unterzynker, oder: -zinker, m. the prison guard, lower overseer, stock-house servant.

Verbs that are carried out theft can be prevented. (S. Verlambdey

nen.)

a er eln, v. to bar, to secure with eaves. +t, adr. barred.

Verchayymenen, ». seal.

Verchawern, yich, v. yich

verbinden, Kameradyschaft may
chen.

Verchawuren, v. veryichten, verbury,

bey. stolen goods and thieves' tools.

To earn, v. to acquire something through robbery, theft, or fraud. He has earned something serves, means as much as: he has stolen yc.

VerfuchYen, v. vergilen; ver. fuchster Reiterling, a gilded ring.

Verhad dern, v. veryspielen.
The moyyyhating, the squandering

of money.

Verhalchenen, v. gehen, von einem

Thebytahle muss, werden chased away.

Verhammet liggen, verbory lie hidden; usually in the forest or some other hidden place. This is done by the crooks either shortly before the crime committing a theft, the complete onset of night, or any other favorable opportunity to wait for the opportunity, or after

Machine Translated by Google

committed theft in order to tyil the stolen

goods.

To promise, to arrest, to detain.
They promised him—

felt, he was arrested.
To be married, to be arrested.

Verkinjenen, v. verkaufen, ver:
ausdrucken.

To dump, v. to sell.

Verkneiyen, v. veryunderstand, be:

grasp. | had it verkneiyt,

320

| understand. Ber:

'nei. 'e mer, veryunderyt Du me?

Perkroschent, adv. excludedy

gen, with panalen veryach; very kroychente Chaume, a

from the inside with boards made ofy struck wall. (This hiny

derniß is, after broken awayy

an outer wall, removed, iny

in which holes are drilled in a square

in the boards, and the drilled part is then with the crooked heady is broken.)

Verlambdenen, v. to fail, to mess up, to botch. Se han den Mayyematten verlamby

dent, the theft failed.

Link, v. falsify; ver: linked passport, falsified passport; yich

—, make oneself
suspicious, especially by acting during interrogation; make a stupid

excuse.

Verlinz, n. the interrogation; —
en, interrogate, examine.

Vermakkenen, v. hide, conceal.
Measuring, v. betray, toy show.

Verniychbenen. ». veryschwoy

Machine Translated by Google

to ren, to abstain, e.g. Jemany to swear something; —, fid ver:
to affirm something by oaths. 5

Vernollen, v. verychlose, bef.
of door locks. The Dey

ley is vernollt, the door is verychloyyen.

Verpiyychenypehn, v. to cover
something up, to present a disadvantageous matter in the most advantageous light possible.

Verpoyychenen, v. veryschlieBen,

close. It is verpoyyy chent, it is closed. Also probably wrong,

clumsily closed,

If, for example, the lock pick breaks off in the lock or bends so that it cannot be removed again, where the theft project habity

must be abandoned.

Verrichewen, v. to lock, to bolt.

Veryarkeneni, v. to throw away, to get rid of, especially of stolen goods or the tools for the arresty

tung. Throw away –, the Beu«

the box. (This is what the peat printer does when he is caught stealing. He throws the stolen purse under the people standing around and (He subsequently denies ever having attacked him).

Veryharyrfen. v. to sell the stolen goods.

Veryschayyjenen, v. verdrinken,
veryaufen (the money ýc.).

Veryschlauben, v. veryschlaffen (4. B. die Zeit).

Verychmai, and the interrogation.

He is in Verychmai, he is being interrogated, is being questioned.

Verymaien, »_. verhör, ver: nehmen.

Verymieren, v. durch Way
chen. The Mayyey

Machine Translated by Google

matt smear, the
to be robbed with Way

chen um&t, so that one is not taken by surprise during theft.

Verychoychern, v. veryaufen.

Veryitt, adv. arrested; –
to be arrested.

To be buried, captured, arrested.

321

–, arrested with stolen goods or theft instruments

be tested.

Veryschwaychen, v. veryaufen.

Veryappen, v. betray, report.

Veryyammen, v. vergiften (dogs

yc.).

Veryyarfenen, v. burn.

Veryippen, . tell, yay, preyay.

Veryylichnen, ». betray, ay
nen comrades through confessions

to chastise. The Mamyer ben hanide hot me very

yylichent, the worthless man has denounced me.

Verytinen, v. veryaufen.

Verytoyen, v. to sell stolen goods.

Vertaywelt, adv. rejected, with panels (y. very kroychent).

Vertuyy, m. the crowding, which is caused,
especially in markets, by pickpockets, in order to steal with their aid. – ma: ch eu, such a crowd ver: uryachen.

Vertuyymacher, or Vertuyy
yer, yo those are called who cause a crush

for the stated purpose. On jey

the somewhat more important, especially horse markets, findy

which is regularly

Machine Translated by Google

more or less pickpockets, who then occasionally steal in a company and divide the loot. As soon as one of them has spotted someone (a suitor) carrying money or monetary value, he gives one of his comrades (chawers) a token

(sticks him a piece of paper).

ken) to make Vertiiyy, and in the moment the person to be robbed sees himself
from all sidesy

ten pushed, shoved and

step, during which the one who has the opportunity to standy

len explored, and whoever was behind him
stole his wallet, pocket watch, or something else. The cover-up's business

It is also the case if the ownery
liche Torfoyrucker during theft is caught, to free him from the hands of the person who was robbed and those who assisted him, and they will use everything, even physical force, to achieve this.

Verzhokken, v. veryspielen.

Verzwieren, Yich, Vich perzahy

len, make a mistake when counting.
Vorcheider, n. the anteroom, reception room, entrance.

rug, w. a wooden rugy

inytrument, usually 1 foot long, 4 inches in diameter, of

Top to bottom, in the form of ay

a circle, cut flat, so that it has only the thickness of a knife's back at the bottom.

It needs

chen dies Inytrument die Mak.

keners and cabinets, when breaking window shutters, boxes

yten, writing secretaries e. If with the scraper or

Crooked head the door of a Bey ratios already out of their joint

is bent, the prey

casually inserted, so that the resulting crack, when further with the iron breaking instrument should be greeted, not meet again.

Vorleienen, v. vorleyen.

Vormittiam, m. der Vormity day, -, adv. morning.

Machine Translated by Google

21

Vorrachwener, m. der Bor: reiter, -
n, v. vorreiten.

Vorzwieren, v. precount.

Wadai, adv. certainly. Be–, quite certainly.

Elections, v. to talk, to speak.

Wai, int. Woe! oh woe! Wai lochem, woe to you!

Walldiwarn, v. to chat, to speak
chen, especially the thieves' language.

make a wall,

1. intersect the thief when he is about to

len, and the one who observes him
tet, Ytstellen;

2. after committing theft, between the thief and the

Beytraube ýt to Yet the ery to cover the stars.

We, conj. and. E.g. Beiyy we choze, two and a half; Fol we kol, everything and everything yc.

We gaumer, and so on (ete.)

Leave a trail, ». quickly go away:
drive away from the place of the thief
ytehls. (See pages.)

White buyer, m. the market: thief (obsolete word).

Weitling, k. the hosen.

Wejiwrach, adv. away, escaped

hen; – thun, v. to go away, to tear away, to make off with oneself, to make off with oneself; to escape.

Welych, or Welysche Peyyiche, f. So those castles are called yer called, which are neither French nor German.

So-called French castles

yer yar yuche, which also from Iny

doors (on the room side) must be locked with a key.

German castles, on the other hand, have

Machine Translated by Google

222

ben a thorn in the keyy

hole, and the necessary key yel must therefore of course also be a have a hobles pipe. The wely ych castles now find, according to their external form, the French

zéyiyischen the same, but with the difference that they cannot be opened from the inside with the key

can be opened iny

which has no keyhole on the inside,

but only a small round opening for the outermost tip of the key inserted from the outside

They are so-called snap

or lever locks, where the locking hook automatically engages the latch when the door is pushed. Incidentally, these locks can be opened with a French

key, but

but only difficult because it easily jumps over and then, without breaking the beard, from the Lock not removed again

can be brought; on the other hand, with a French key, a French

zoyiyisches Schloss 6Unen.

Welych, n. the necessary for opening Wel.
ych locks

Duplicate keys and lock picks

taken together.

Welch, small, n. small Nachy
keys of various shapes for opening the locks

on

Lockers, desks Yc.

WelycheryEchoder, m. (pronounced Echeter, the middle e is slightly swallowed) a lock pick with a hook in front.

Welych-Hinterschieber, m. a Dietrich with a reytending

Double hook.

323

WelychyVorderyschieber, m. a lock pick with protruding

Double hook.

Machine Translated by Google

WelychyPurim, n. This is the name for all

to the opening of castles

corresponding lock picks together
taken.

Weoder, name of the thirteenth Month in the Jewish leap year, which occurs every seven years threey

sometimes falls. .

Wiazzef, m. the Zuyummeny

place of origin to look for a thiefy
yteel to go out; the place where the wagon,

under supervision

a thief, remains, while

while the rest go under the Masematten. Uf d'n Wiazzeff remain, with the wagon at a bey

ytuitied places to stay to prevent the return of the thieves

to be expected.

Viennese make"), the Ur phede

yworship; – must, the country must conspire.

Wind, m. (also windbreak) the cloak.

Winde, k. the door, especially the gate.
Mok um –, f. the City Gate. Bajesy–, f. the Housey, special door.

Witty, adv. et adj. stupid, honest (in contrast to Cheyy or cooking). With "witty" the crooks describe everything that does not correspond to their concept of cleverness. Therefore, there are also wittysche scoundrels, nemy

to steal, nor in court

yhed to deny understanding. He is too witty to sl–

ner, ie he is not a crook himself

enough to be crooks
to advise.

Wittychen, the. Under this Designation will be all honorary ual people, i.e. all those who rob, steal

len and cheating for unery prohibited actions and help the crooks in their crimesy

chen do not provide any advance.
WittycheryKaUer, m. or:

Wittycherylych, m. ein dummy

mer, not to the crooks' associationy

Machine Translated by Google

dung belonging human being.
WittycheryMayyer, m. a stupid
scoundrel who cannot be trusted, who is ay

cleared and fine comrades
rath.

Wittystock, m. a simple, i.e. honest, man, who does not delve into the mysteries of thievesy consecrated is.

f Wonim, PI. the bricks, brick-ytones.

Wonimkitt, n. the brickworks, brick kiln.

Wonimykrauten, v. (literally: to go through the bricks) escapey

hen, emerge, go through, beforey break out immediately.
Wonimymelochner, m. the

brickmaker. |
Wo feérach, f. the flower.

Woof, the sixth letter of the Hebrew alphabet
(1); the

ly such as those which neither geYchickt! Numeral Six (6).

*) This name probably has a historical basis, as it is probably originates from the so-called "Schraubverfahren" (pushing process) which encompasses conspiracies and which, as is well known, was first brought into being by the Vienna Edict

324

To choke, v. to twist. To choke, to hangy

Turn off the lock. (This is done by means of a stick, which

through the eyelet of the reader

(It is inserted into the closed position and then turned with all force so that the lock breaks off.)

Wutteln, v. ask, speak, chat, ychatter.

Wuttler, m. a chatterer who can't keep anything secret.

Z.(.
Zachei, adv. thirsty.

Zad, m. the side; al 08

the side; be -, to the side; mi -,
from the side; ke on which -,
side? PI. Zady

dim.

Zaddek, m. the fur.

Zaddik, m. the righteous, pious one, also: the crowbar, the crowbar. -, adv. righteous.

Zaddik, the 19th letter of BarfeUstaltel, m. ein frany z6yiyischer SchlüUel.

Zarfeyyyedine, f. Franky
rich.

Zau le, m. a lame person.

Zawwer, m. the neck, the Gey nick; den - ychibbern, break the neck.

Zawwern, v. (actually Kap» pore -) to cut off the necky

the. 0

Zawwerybeged, n. the necky
cloth.

Zawwerwindchen, v. the neck iron, the pillory. On the - ytein, on the pillory ytey

hen.

Zchokken, v. laugh.

Zchokken, v. fell. Se zchoky

ken jom we jom, yie Yspielen Tag vor Tag.

| Be m. the player; liny

false player. he –,

Zdoke, f. charity, the Alms. Bal –, awelly

active man, – give, Aly mosen give.

Bereiychen alphabet (r), the ZdokeYbix, f. the poory, Aly

Numeral ninety (90).

Machine Translated by Google

Zaijid, m. the hunter. Mey dine theLandjager.

Zandok, m. the godfather; – e, f. the godfather.

Zarfeyy, w. the Frenchman; –, adv.
French. – to dibbern, to speak French.

Zarfeyy, m. also: Zarfeyyy

Haupter, m. a Frenchy

yhar master key, which usually locks all locks
where it fits.

Zarfeyypeyyiche, f a frany zoyiyisches ThirschloB.

Zarfeyypurim, n. yammtliche zum OeUnen Französischer Schloyy

yer necessary lock picks.
mosenbichye.
Zedo, k. the provisions. | raised no –,

I have no toesy

tion.

| Zeijor, m. the painter, picturey

hauer.

Zeilem, n. the Krenz, –, m. the Kreuzer (coin).

Zekenen, ». scream, cry, cry

gen. Mer muss nit zekenen, wenn's Symitzlach, man muss nicht

héyny

to be when one gets a beating. –, v. to betray

(less common.)

Zekener, m. the screamer, scream: hals;

ingl. the traitor.

Zemer, k. the wool.

Bemersbeged, n. einwollen. Tuch.] Bimmon, m. der Durjyt; –

Zemerygefen, f. the tree: wool.

Shred, v. zerycheiden, bef. the goods which one cuts through

Machine Translated by Google

Cutting off the freight car
gen ytehit.

Zeyschibbern, v. zerbrechen, de Azomauyy
d zeſschibbern, to break the bones;
radern.

Zewa, k. the color.

Zewenen, v. dye.

Zewytsch, m. the dyer.

Zewoche, f. the shouting, the noise.

Zidder, m. the book, reading book.

Zinker, m. the ouizier, official, generally someone who does something to command.

Zfire, f. the early morning time.
Be Zfire act, to the early steal the morning time.

Zgokken, v. to sneak onto the attics of houses in order to steal the laundry

hung up there to dry.

Thieves, who commit the aforementioned crimes. If they have a burp, they ask for alms.

Zibbur, f. the community. Schliy ach —, m. the community messenger,

Dainty, adv. fine, careful, not violent.

Dainty Mayyematten, m. a fine,

skillful theft, bey. the night-time burglary committed in silence.

Dainty cabinets, thieves,
which are caused by nighttime sleepy

burglary, but without committing violence against persons.

Cymbals, ». strike. (See on: cymbals.)

Zimmeyy, PI. the turnips, Mohry beets.

—

~ — — EEe er sns ET aisEEEESEnGERmenenntumen. KT to be thirsty, to be thirsty

Zingeln, v. to persuade, to talk over,
to something. To zing someone.

Zinken, or Zink, m. the hint, the sign, the signy

nung; ennen – to give a sign, a hint,
to warn someone about something to notify or request something. (By coughing, clearing the throat, or by grasp the necktie ye. is

3. B. during the confrontation the confessor of the non-confessiony

to revoke his consent chastisement to wealth sought.)

Zinken, v. to draw, to wave.

Zinkflappchen, n. der Stecky letter.

Zinkplatz, m. the assembly place before the theft; the Place on which the vehicley work, under the supervision of a noyyen, ytehn. (S. Wiazy zef.)

Zinno, i. a sign, noticesy

Yehild. PI. Zinnoyy.

Zin nor, m. the canal, the water

ferleitung. PI. Zinnoroyy.

Zipper, m. a small bird, sparrow. PI.
Zipporim.

Ziizeyy, pl. the Schau: or threads

of thought that Jews wear on their bodies,
over which they must recite the blessing and kiss every morning before 9 o'clock. Zizeyy e benyschen, the threads of thought ya bless.

Zizeyy korfayy, n. the belt to which the threads around the body are attached. g

Zli, m. der Braten; –, adv. braten, zli eyisch, fried in the fire.

326

Zliytanner, m. the roasting oven.

Slul, ads. clear, pure, louder.

Machine Translated by Google

Jajin –, clear wine.
Zochauk, n. laughter.

Zo eyy, PI. the costs, process,, investigation costs. 6 N

Zofaun, adv. around midnight, midnight.

Zofir, w. the goat.
Zoger, and the castle.

Hesitate, v. to close. .

Zomo, k. der Thiryt. (S. Zimy mon.)

ZoraaU, m. the scabies, the Aus:
a gulin zen " v. to wave (with the eyes), to watch, to search.

To close, v. to close.

pluck, v. pull out, outy
take, steal. Sick arrest. Tick =
-, aclock

steal from the pocket.

To plan, . deliver, again

add. (If the Chaly

fen Yifts that the robbed yt immediately
notices his loss and becomes suspicious, he puts the stolen money on the

the table, or somewhere else, liey genden geychickt and unnoticed again, ie he plantent

it.)

Zun, m. the sheep, the sheep, a herd of small cattle.

Zur, n. the shape, the face.
Meychanne Vein in Zur, the facial color change. No

Pon im un ka Zur haben, ein ycheliches Ausyehnung haben.

back part, v. back part
hen, also fig. of shops;
in fine proportions backy

come, do the crab walk.

To two, f. the counting. It Is this a maneuver of the wrong?

Machine Translated by Google

changer. If the Chalfen suspects that the person to be robbed knows how much money he has,

so he does not dare to steal from him in the usual way, for fear that the theft will be discovered immediately.

that could. He causes a loty

more the merchant or Wecksy

ler, him so and so many old things
ler-, four-penny pieces Yc. fromy and put it aside until the following day, since he did not have enough money with him to buy it. When counting this moneyy of the, on the part of the money changer, but he steals and then comes

of course not to pick up the same thing again, although he was in the rey

gel a little something on ity

to make the changer more secure.

To count, v. to count, in the manner described.

Zwackling, m. der Federbuych.

Zwieren, v. zahleu. Meyyumme zwieren, count money.

Zwooh thun, v. to make a testament.

Zwoim, n. the game, deery wild. (Jews are forbidden to eat anything other than deer.)

VII.

Attachment.
On Hebrew counting.

To know and understand the way of counting in Hebrew, or the Jewish elementary school, is, in my opinion, a necessary necessary requirement for a perfect knowledge of the thieves' language, at least, by inclu here, it will not appear as a superfluous addition. Differing, even on this point, from th nations among which they live, the Jews do not use any actual numbers for counting, especially not the usual Arabic ones, but rather form their multiplication table from the phabet, in such a way that the first nine letters (Allef to Teyy) indicate the simple num from 1 to 9, but each following letter represents the round number corresponding to its ec
E.g.

Ind: ten, Koof: twenty, Lammeb: thirty, Mem: forty Yc. Yc.

The way of counting is then as follows:

N – Allef – 1 17 – Yud Zoyin – 17
2 – Ball – 2 n“ – Judccheyy – 18

1 – Gimmel – 3 9 – Judsteyy – 19

Machine Translated by Google

– Dale – 4 5 – Koof – 20

1 Hab (Heh) – 5 N – Koofsallef – 21

| Woof (Wau) – 6 290 – KoofebeyU – 22

| Sojin – 7 295 – Koofygimmel – 23

1 – Cecil – 8,790 – Koofydalled – 24

vv Teyy – 9 179 – K6oofyheih – 25

2 Jud – 10 72 – Koofywoof – 26

& – Judasallef – 11 9 – Koof,zeyin – 27

27 – Judah beiy – 12 mn' – Koofycheyy – 28

3 – Judygimmel – 13 v3 – Koofyteyy – 29

J – Judydalled – 14 – Lammed – 30

Hy – Teyyywoof – 15 N. – Lammedyallef8 – 31

Tv – Teyyyyojin – 4 p.m. – Lammedybeiy – 32

9 – Lammedygimmel –

175 – Lammed<jdalled

from – Lammedybeih

vb – Lammedywoof

75 – Lammedyyojin

ga Lammedycheyy

oh – Lammedyteyy

DB” – Mem

NND – Memorable

c. 2%

3 – Now

d – Syammech

34

60

227228026 2 |

Machine Translated by Google

Aijin

Peeh (Peh)
Zaddik

Kuf
Reiysch
Shin

Thom

Bad Choof

Castle

Close now
Oven
Tsade

From 100 onwards, the digits themselves are also represented by the given letters ben expressed; in everyday language, however, this does not usually happen, yony
But the number is usually indicated by the numeral Meie. 3. B.

| Woofymeieyy

Meie – 100

Snowmen – 200

Gimmelymeieyy – 300

Dalledymeieyy – 409

Heih: meieyy – 500

Sojin-meieyy

Cheyyymeieyy

Teyyyymeieyy

– 600

–70

– 800

– 900

The number 1000 is the only letter Allef, which is referred to as then, to give it this designation, two dashes () are placed. 3. E.

N – kElef

N – Beitğğalôfim

Na – Gimmelyalééfim

Machine Translated by Google

" – Dalledsaléfin

Nr – Heihyalé fim

m – Woofyaléfim

It should be noted that only:

1000
2000
3000 4000
5000
6000

32232322

Sojinyalédfim
Cheyyyalé6fim
Teyyalofim
Judyaloyim

Meieyalofim

7000

1) that when a complicated number is to be formed, the number booky

The one indicating the larger number (the denominator) must be placed before the other (the numerator). For example: 1: 54, My: 75, etc. (as is also evident from the examples given above);

2) that, however, if a given number is to be multiplied, such as two (times) thousand, the thousand, etc., the multiplying letter must be placed at the front, as in German. 3. E. Na 3000 2c.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

H.HEI"

Who he. \ u em ". un mu

Machine Translated by Google

SEAUME BRENIER BRIRFUSTE)

THE SECRET ORIGINS
DL ee

HENRI HEINE AND KARL

THE SECRET ORIGINS OF BOLSHEVISM
HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX

It will be ten years since a lucky stroke of luck delivered

The former empire of the Tsars to the members of an extremist party barely known until then, even in Russia. Since then, the advent of this handful of adventurers has taken on the appearance of a new era. In terms of the magnitude of its consequences, it can no longer be compared to anything other than the French Revolution – which could also have been easily suppressed, one morning in July 1789, by the 30,000 men of Marshal de Broglie, so that it would barely be mentioned today, in four lines, in the baccalaureate manual. However skillfully prepared a political enterprise may be, however deep its roots, there is always, in fact, a moment when a few grains of decision, seasoned with a little material force, can suffice to determine the destiny of peoples. The modern orientation of universal politics has only been possible because those who govern have, in general, forgotten this recipe, while subversive sects have rediscovered it and do not hesitate to use it.

Master, by the grace of a military sedition, of an empire which yesterday had 180 million inhabitants, and which still has more than 140 million, Bolshevism used its immense material resources to set fire to the five parts of the world. His emissaries do not leave a moment of rest to the people already tired and anemic by the Great War: everyone suffers from it in their metropolis or colonies.

568 THE PARIS REVIEW

Sometimes it is England, whose economic prosperity is seriously compromised by the miners' strike movement, openly subsidized by Moscow rubles: it loses, according to the estimates of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, 170 million pounds sterling, more than 21 billion francs – a quarter of which would have been enough to foment an action that stifles the communist plague in Russia. And it recovers painfully from this terrible shock only to suffer a new one: Moscow incites China and closes it almost completely to British trade, which drew incalculable profits from it. Tomorrow, it will be India,

Machine Translated by Google

deeply undermined by Bolshevik propaganda, and whose native civil servants, more than half of whom are pensioned by the Comintern, who will in turn rise up.

In France, the agents of the Third International are openly fomenting the most serious disturbances, standing up to the police in the streets of Paris, causing damage worth more than 12 million on the evening of August 23 alone and giving rise to mutinies of reservists in the Army. While they are destroying the morale of the latter, they are cutting out a formidable task for it in the colonies:

yesterday, with the Rif war and that of Syria, which cost us so much blood; tomorrow with the insurrections brewing in Tunisia and Algeria (where Emir Khaled, the man from Moscow, obtains the majority of votes from indigenous voters), and in Indo-China, where the Comintern subsidizes 14,361 of our Annamite civil servants, according to figures found in searches carried out by Chang So Lin at the Soviet consulate in Peking.

The 50 million inhabitants of the Dutch East Indies are worked with the same constancy and the same profusion of financial means: thus insurrections follow one another in Java, Sumatra and even Borneo. The Indian populations of America are launched, as in Bolivia, to the assault of the civilizing whites. Mexico is subjected to a government approved by Mr. Tchitcherine. As for the nations bordering or neighboring the Soviet States, Romania,

HENRY HEINE AND KARL MARX 569

Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland, Lithuania, Estonia,

Finland, etc., their existence is constantly compromised by communist plots, always repressed, but always renewed, one or the other of which will end up, it is hoped in Moscow, by triumphing.

What is most frightening about this red wave, the color of murder and fire, which is battering the foundations of the old world, is that it does not come from the ambition of a visible and localized nationalism: One would wrongly see in Bolshevism a "Slavic peril" ... If Communism were specifically Russian, it would encounter a natural barrier in other nationalisms, no less intransigent. On the contrary, it finds within each people ready accomplices, arranged facilities: a doctrine of national treason and social decomposition has prepared the way for it for two-thirds of a century.

It is this doctrine whose birth and development we propose, in the present study, to trace. To do this, we will have to tackle many legends, established by the long consent of some and by the interested assertion of others. We will do this in the light of reliable documents, of precise facts. And it will be demonstrated, once again, that historical truth, examined at its sources, contains infinitely more "romantic" than the feverish brain of an inventor of fictions can imagine.

%

Machine Translated by Google

The Third International, whose leadership is indistinguishable from the high political personnel of Soviet Russia, is the somewhat ungrateful daughter of the Second, whose pontiffs were Engels, Liebknecht and Jaures, and the successor of the First International founded by Karl Marx. The history of the latter has been written or summarized very often by sociologists or politicians of all shades, and always in identical terms: nothing more concordant, in their presentation, than the dates, the circumstances and the sequence of events. This unanimity would seem to indicate that the subject has been exhausted and that historical certainty is now acquired.

570 THE PARIS REVIEW

But all specialists in archival research know that too much unanimity regarding the account of an event must be a source of mistrust at least as great as absolute divergence: it most often has no other cause than the circulation, for a self-interested purpose, of a tendentious version, but skillfully simplified, consequently easy to adopt.

In reality, everything that has been written for half a century on the First International stems from the comparison of four books, which were devoted to it in the aftermath of the communist insurrection of 1871. Two of these works, those of Messrs. Oscar Testut and Edmond Villetard, were hostile to the secret organization from which the Commune emerged; the other two, those of

Eugene Fribourg and Benoit Malon, were favorable to it, with more or less reservations. And since detractors and apologists were in agreement on the origins of the organization under discussion, the writers and lecturers who dealt with it after this date are excusable for not having looked further and for having docilely adopted the version open to their eruditeness... . In this they were only imitating the good faith of their predecessors, who had only known the outward appearance of the events in which they had been involved.

Let us begin by briefly analyzing the thesis accepted so far regarding the origins of the First International. It presents itself with the harmonious simplicity of a biblical story.

In the early years of the second half of the 19th century, machinery, in all its forms, made great progress in the Universe. To consecrate and popularize them, an Industrial Exhibition was organized in London in 1862.

Many technical workers were sent there by their bosses to study the operation of the machines on display.

Some of them extended their stay well after the closing of the Exhibition. While they were in the English capital, a protest meeting was called at St. Martin's Hall about the violence committed in Warsaw by Russian troops; the foreign workers went there out of curiosity, among other speakers, who

Machine Translated by Google

HENRI HEINE AND KARI. MARK. 571

spoke only of Poland, there was an old economist of German origin, named Karl Marx, a political refugee in England, where he lived in study and retirement. Carried away by his subject, he broadened the debate, spoke of the Proletariat everywhere oppressed by the Capitalists, and ended with a war cry that was dear to him: Proletarians of all countries, unite!

Then, seized by a sudden enthusiasm, the workers present decided to unite in an International Association, and appointed, immediately, a Correspondence Committee, of which Karl Marx became a member for Germany. The First International was born that evening, from an unforeseen circumstance, almost from a misunderstanding.

It progressed rapidly thereafter and spread the communist idea throughout the world.

This is the legend that has come to pass for history. We will examine it and do justice to it.

This story, borrowed from Karl Marx himself and his entourage, has the advantage of being presented naturally. It is short, and does not require in-depth verification. It was therefore an immediate success and has remained classic. Everything about it, however, should have aroused suspicion among the first annalists of the International. To speak only of its financial history, the established version reports that the collection made that evening at Saint Martin's Hall yielded as its first fund 3 pounds sterling (75 gold francs). Never, thereafter, did the brave worker who fulfilled the functions of treasurer have more than 200 pounds (5,000 gold francs) in the till. The First International used this as an argument to flaunt its virtuous poverty... Now, if we consult the minutes of its Congress in Lausanne (September 2-8, 1867), we see that, from the second year of its operation, it granted several million in subsidies to certain revolutionary agitation campaigns. For the United States alone, we find mention of a check for 300,000 dollars sent to support a general strike in the metal industry. Where did these funds come from, which the International had at its disposal, and which nevertheless did not leave its treasury?

Today, no doubt, the situation is identical. Comrade Fromentin, treasurer of the French Communist Party,

572 THE PARIS REVIEW

complains of always being without money: contributions are minimal and the Cells pay poorly. This does not prevent the French Bolsheviks from appointing 1,800 officials and various agitators, who together cost them more than 30 million a year. Recently, they were able to spend 10 million in cash for the creation of a daily newspaper in the North. And if the riot of August 23 cost Parisian merchants more than 12 million, it also required large organizational expenses on the part of the Party treasurer. But these contradictions surprise no one: everyone knows that the money spent comes from Russia, where the Third International has seized all the wealth of a great empire and is using it to turn the world upside down.

Machine Translated by Google

It was different in the time of the First International, a simple organization born yesterday and regularly having only the meager sums that appeared in its accounts. The first disciples of Karl Marx were not, like those of today, rich with 140 million slaves.

Where did they get the immense funds they used to develop their propaganda and subsidize strikes throughout the world? This is the question that the annalists of the International have neglected to ask themselves, and, after them, all those who have borrowed truly superficial documentation from them.

Another problem: the meeting at Saint Martin's Hall passed, at the time, almost unnoticed; a few newspapers mentioned it and did not return to it. Now, barely a few months had passed before the First International, despite the lack of publicity, had sections in every country, all the way to the depths of South America, and even in Australia. Everything happened as if a mysterious force had prepared the way for the new Association and had provided it everywhere with the necessary cadres and support.

Such forces exist, beyond any doubt. Just as it is now accepted that Freemasonry prepared the French Revolution, so mysterious forces are at the source of all the great recent upheavals, in Europe as well as in the East or the Far East. This is these forces that Mr. Marcel Prevost of the Aca- spoke of in 1912 French democracy, when, celebrating in an article in Le Figaro

At the time of the Young Turk Revolution, which was still very recent, he did not hesitate to say:

All diplomatic forecasting is based, in short, on this calculation:

that the known forces will continue to evolve along their current curve. Starting from Id, we deduce the probable result of these forces. And this is a very reasonable system, whose only flaw is to ignore other forces, STRONGER THAN THE VISIBLE ones, which are secretly working to change the current balance and which, one fine day, will upset both the calculation of omens and the life of nations.

It is one of those occult forces that we must study if we are to learn from where Karl Marx drew the inspiration and material aid that enabled him to formulate the program of Communism and to propagate it throughout the world.

The secret association in question bore the title of the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science. It was founded in 1819 by a group of German Israelites belonging to rabbinical families, foremost among whom was the famous scholar Leopold Zunz, who was later to become director of the Jewish Normal School in Berlin, and his friends.

Machine Translated by Google

Ganz and Moise Moser. The apparent program of the Union seems to have been a first draft of that later adopted by the Universal Israelite Alliance: to come to the aid of Jews throughout the world and to develop among them all useful knowledge. But the real program went well beyond this: it included a change, in a somewhat positivist direction, of Israel's policy towards Christian nations; it aimed above all to introduce specifically Jewish ideas into the civilization born of Christianity, which would gradually bring about its dissolution.

The dominant thought of the leaders of the Union was that the Synagogue was wrong to persist in its expectation, already so many centuries old, of a human Messiah. They had been misunderstood. Old rabbinic texts when they announced a tem- king

574 THE PARIS REVIEW

porel, all bloody from battles, who would crush under the wheels of his chariot the nations that had wanted to resist the universal empire promised to Israel, and who would rule with a rod of iron those that had submitted. It was the Jewish people itself, and not this or that of its sons, who, becoming aware of its ethnic superiority, had to conquer the World and bend it under the yoke of the chosen race.

This thesis, already presented on various occasions in history by isolated Talmudic scholars, was to be formulated one day with rare precision by a Neo-Messianist, Baruch Levy, in a letter to Karl Marx. Here are the terms:

The Jewish people taken collectively will be its own Messiah.

His reign over , Universe will be obtained by Punishment of others human races, the abolition of borders and monarchies, which are the bulwark of particularism, and the establishment of a Universal Republic which will everywhere recognize the rights of citizens to the Jews. In this new organization of Humanity, the sons of Israel, spread from now on over the entire surface of the globe, all of the same race and the same traditional formation without however forming a distinct nationality, will become without opposition the leading element everywhere, especially if they succeed in imposing on the working masses the stable direction of a few of their number. The governments of the Nations forming the Universal Republic will all pass, without effort, into Israeli hands, in favor of the victory of the proletariat. Individual property will then be able to be suppressed by the rulers of the Jewish race who will everywhere administer public wealth. Thus will be fulfilled the promise of the Talmud that, when the time of the Messiah has come, the Jews will-

will have under their keys the goods of all the peoples of the world.

This language, singularly materialistic under a phraseology still tinged with traditional Judaism, suffices to explain in what way the new sect distinguished itself from the Synagogue, | and why Leopold Zunz, for example, was led to renounce twice the functions of rabbi, in Berlin (1822), then in Prague (1835). arg

One of the most enthusiastic followers of the Union of Jews

Machine Translated by Google

for Civilization and Science was the poet Heinrich Heine, who

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 575

adhered, At the age of twenty-three, on August 4, 1822. The case of this son of Israel]; whom his poetic genius authorizes to be classified among the greatest writers of the 19th century, is quite characteristic of the neo-messianist

point of view. 1

WN

Henry Heine was born in Düsseldorf on December 13, 1799, into a family of rabbinical origin. His father, Samson Heine, a ribbon merchant, owed to this origin the esteem in which he was held by the head of the House of Rothschild in Frankfurt.

But, if one was steeped in Jewish tradition in the Heine family home, outside one knew how to make concessions to Christians. Young Harry (he was only called Henry later) was raised in a Christian school, called the Franciscans, and the rector, Abbot Schallmeyer, considered him his best pupil. His sister Charlotte received the education of a convent of Catholic nuns. His brother Gustave, under the name of Gustave von Geldern, had to become a Catholic to become a dragoon officer in the service of His Majesty the Emperor of Austria. His other brother, Maximilian, opted for orthodoxy and became a military doctor in the Tsar's Army: As for Henry Heine, we will see that he became an evangelical Protestant. These multiple vocations did not change anything, moreover, in the feelings of the three brothers, who met in the evening at Rabbi Rintelsohn's, for n... Hebrew and 1 Talmud.

THIS

Heinrich Heine studied law in Bonn, Göttingen, and Berlin, and then obtained his doctorate. But he aspired to a professorship in law. As a Prussian citizen, he could not obtain it while he was Jewish. So he abjured his faith almost in secret in Heligenstadt, in the house of the evangelical pastor Gottlob Grimm, one morning in August 1825. The following quotes will help us appreciate the sincerity of this conversion and the morality of the convert:

Letter from Henry Heine to Maurice Embden, before the conversion:

I am like you an indifferent in religion and my attachment=

576 THE PARIS REVIEW

ment to Judaism comes solely from my deep anti-

Machine Translated by Google

pathy for Christianity.

Letter from Henri Heine & Emmanuel Wolwill, before the conversion: | |

The final fall of Christianity seems to me more and more evident. This idea has been maintained for quite a long time.

| call Christianity an idea, but what kind!

There are corrupt systems of ideas that nest in the cracks of the old world and the abandoned bedding of the divine mind, like bedbugs in the mattress of a Polish Jew. If one of these idea-bedbugs is just crushed, it leaves a foul odor that lasts for thousands of years. This is the case with Christianity, crushed for 1,800 years and which since then has not ceased to stink up the air that we poor Jews breathe!

Verses written by Henry Heine, the day after his baptism:

Holy ardor of youth, – Prompt return of reason!

– You have, in your wisdom, – Your peace with these gentlemen... –

You crawled to the cross, – The same cross as yesterday – You wanted to trample underfoot, – Beaten down in the dust! –

It's VeUei from having read too much – All those Schlegels, Hallers, Burkes!
– Yesterday you were a hero, – Today, a master trickster.

Letter from Henry Heine to Moses Moser, of the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science, a few weeks after the baptism. He speaks of the Japanese who had just martyred some missionaries and who detest nothing in the world as much as the Cross. And he adds: | want to be Japanese!

Despite his charade of abjuration, Heinrich Heine could not become a professor of law and never forgave the Prussian government for it. It was around this time that he pushed his neo-messianist enthusiasm to its ultimate conclusion by openly declaring war, not only on the monarchical idea, but on the social order itself. He later recounted that he had gone to Munster, where the iron cage and the instruments of torture of the "glorious" John Bockenraw, known as John of Leyden, the leader of the Anabaptists, are still preserved. He came to honor in him the fiercest of the 16th-century revolutionaries.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 577

and the most perfect specimen of the precursors of Communism.

"| have respectfully kissed," he said, "the relics of the tailor John of Leyden, the chains he wore, the pincers with which he was tortured. The atheism of the member of the Union of Jews did not exclude, as we see, a certain religiosity...

His collaboration with the Political Annals of Munich naturally reflected this development: a series of demagogic and anti-Christian writings made him suspect to all the German authorities. Pursued, he took refuge in France on May 1, 1831. The anniversary of this "hegira" of the first leader of Communism was to be celebrated, later, on the proposal of his friend Engels, as a festival of the world proletariat. Much blood has flowed since May 1, 1889 (date of the institution of the revolutionary May 1) to begin to remember the happy escape of Henry Heine.

Machine Translated by Google

In Paris, Heinrich Heine immediately joined the most prominent socialist school of the time, that of the Saint-Simonians.

Two years later, it was to another famous socialist, Father Enfantin, that he dedicated the first edition of his book On Germany. It was enough that a revolutionary club was opened or an advanced newspaper was founded for Henry Heine to run to, eager to see, to hear and to advise, pushing for the most extreme audacity, the most destructive gestures.

Seeking in the war against Society a reparation for his race, he was only careful to mask this ulterior motive as much as possible under the guise of political dilettantism and enthusiasm for Humanity. He readily advised his Jewish friends to imitate this apparent detachment, by disguising not only their ethno-philosophical goal, but even their Jewish identity.

It was with this feeling that he one day wrote his tale of Dona Clara, one of the most bitterly mocking he ever wrote, in which a Spanish Jew, by hiding his name and race, comes to possess, and finally, mocks, the daughter of a Christian lord. We will not be sorry to find here this parable in verse, which expresses so well the profound thought of Henry Heine

June 1, 1928. 4

578 THE PARIS REVIEW

Dona Clara.

In her father's garden, in the evening light, the mayor's daughter walks; the sounds of trumpets and cymbals come from the castle.

"How delicious these dances and these sweet flatteries are! And how boring they are too, these knights who gallantly compare me to the star of the day!

v Everything tires me since I saw, in the rays of the stars, this unknown knight whose guitar attracts me every night To the window,

"With his slender and haughty figure, and his black eyes, which shine in his noble and pale face, he truly resembles Saint George."

So thought Dona Clara, and she walked with her eyes lowered. When she raised her eyes, the handsome unknown knight stood before her.

Hand in hand, talking of love, they walked in the moonlight; the zephyr caressed them lovingly and the roses sent them graceful greetings.

The roses sent them graceful greetings and turned a voluptuous purple. "But tell me, my beloved, why did you blush so suddenly? I

—The mosquitoes bit me, my beloved, and mosquitoes are, in summer, as odious to me as if they were swarms of long-nosed Jews.

"Leave the mosquitoes and the Jews there," replied the knight with a

Machine Translated by Google

caressing voice. — The almond trees in bloom sow their seeds on the ground white flakes.

The white flakes of the almond trees spread their perfume. "But tell me, O my beloved, does your heart belong entirely to me?"

— Yes, I love you, O my beloved! I swear to you by the Savior, whom the unbelieving Jews treacherously crucified.

"Leave the Savior and the Jews there," the knight continued in a caressing voice. "In the distance, the dreamy lilies sway, bathed in light.

The dreamy lilies, bathed in light, turn their gaze towards the stars. "But tell me, O my beloved, have you not sworn to me falsely? O

— Falsehood is not in me, O my beloved, nor does a single drop of the blood of the Moors or the accursed Jews flow in my heart.

"Leave her to the Moors and the Jews," replied the knight in a caressing voice; and he led Palcade's daughter under a grove of myrtles.

In the sweet nets of love he passionately enlaced her short words, long kisses, and hearts overflowed. I

The nightingale uttered a melodious epithalamium; as if performing a torchlight dance, the glow-worms hopped in the grass.

The foliage was silent, and one could see it as if by stealth,

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 579

than the discreet whisper of the myrtles and the sighs of lovers. I

But suddenly the sounds of trumpets and reeds resounded from the castle, and Dona Clara, at the sound of these fanfares, freed herself

: suddenly from the knight's arms.

"Listen! These fanfares are calling me, O my beloved! But before we part, you must tell me your beloved name, which you have hidden from me until now."

And the knight, smiling serenely, kissed his lady's fingers, kissed her lips, kissed her forehead, and spoke these words:

"I, your Lover, Senora, am the son of the learned and glorious Don Isaac-ben-Israal, Grand Rabbi of the synagogue of Zaragoza."

Henry Heine was not content to simply frequent the French revolutionaries: he eagerly welcomed the foreign agitators who flocked to Paris in droves during the July regime, and lavished them with encouragement and useful recommendations. He liked to say of them: "I caress my wild beasts!" These wild beasts, however, were not ferocious enough to give him complete satisfaction.

One day, finally, the Union

Machine Translated by Google

Jews for Civilization and Science sent him one, in which he recognized an exceptionally destructive temperament: it was Karl Marx.

Karl Marx, born in Trier (Rhineland Prussia) on May 5, 1814 (and not 1818, as is often mistakenly stated), was fifteen years younger than Heinrich Heine.

He too was of ancient rabbinical stock. His grandfather had been a rabbi of Cologne and his co-religionist Bernard Lazare, the director of the Dreyfus affair, was able to salute in him "the descendant of a whole line of rabbis, who inherited all the logical force of his ancestors, a lucid and clear Talmudist, who studied sociology and applied his native qualities as an exögate to the critique of political economy."

Leaving the rabbinical career to one of his brothers, Karl Marx's father had made a considerable fortune in commerce. To obtain responsibility for certain supplies to the Prussian state, which were not granted to Jews, he had officially converted to Protestantism, without ceasing to practice Jewish life in the family home.

Childhood

580 THE PARIS REVIEW

The young Karl Marx was therefore lulled by traditional stories of his race: God gave the world to the Jews; they will reign on him forever when the Messiah comes. Only the Jews have the right to possess:

when the Messiah comes, 200 mules will be needed to carry the keys to the chests where the riches stolen from various Christians will be piled up... From this doctrine the young Israelite was to retain above all the idea of an immense expropriation, coinciding with the triumph of his race.

First a law student in Bonn, Karl Marx then went to study philosophy in Berlin, where the doctrines of Hegel were then triumphing. The famous philosopher from Stuttgart is probably the man who had the greatest influence on the intellectual formation of the young Jew from Trier. It is known that Hegel reduced God to having no objective existence, to being only by its unity with human thought, to undergoing with it the law of Becoming.... Thought alone is the absolute sovereign of the Universe, in a passive state (when it is internal), active (when it takes its point of support in the external world) and free (when it triumphs in social organization, law, philosophy, art, religion).

All morality stems from the progressive and irresistible evolution of human thought, and God becomes with it, indefinitely, at the same time as the Universe and Humanity.... This pantheism swept away the Hebrew deism of Karl Marx and left in his heart only the pride of being Jewish and the certainty that the sovereign thought that would govern the world and make it evolve indefinitely would be that of his race. So it is not surprising to see him join, at the age of twenty-two, as Henry

Heine had done before him, the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science. The following year, Karl Marx received his doctorate in philosophy. A year later, and by the favor of the Hege-Henne school, he was appointed professor of philosophy at the University of Bonn.

Happier than Heinrich Heine, the young professor seemed

Machine Translated by Google

therefore have his destiny fixed. But he had barely occupied his chair for a year when he was suddenly seen to resign and go to live in Cologne. Two rich philo-Semitic bourgeois, Hafseman and Kamphausen, had founded the Rhenish Gazette in this city and had entrusted its direction to three Israelites,

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 581

Hess, Oppenheim and Rutenberg. It was the latter, a member of the Jewish Union for Civilization and Science, who called upon Karl Marx for his collaboration. First (1840) some of his articles were included, which were noted less for their violent language than for the profoundly revolutionary thought that animated them. Then, the need for a talented editor being felt, Marx was invited to come and settle in Cologne. Abandoning his chair of philosophy, he arrived in the autumn of 1842 and gave the journal a new impetus.

At this time, the social and political doctrine of Karl Marx, what has been called Marxism, was far from being formed; but its broad outlines can already be discerned in the campaign he led among the industrial populations of the Rhineland. The goal is visible: 1. To destroy the idea of nationality among the proletarians and lead them to have no other homeland than the class spirit; 2. To launch them into the whole world in an assault on the Civilization born of Christianity.

As a means, an economic doctrine of such crude simplicity that it can be understood by the crudest minds, and can only be seriously admitted by them.

It is not our intention here to criticize economic Marxism, which would take us very far. But we will have an idea of the system through the famous theory of true paleness, which is its keystone. The way, as formulated by Karl Marx in two of his weighty and dilutive volumes; and, although we reduce it to a few lines, we are assured of having removed nothing essential.

10 All goods existing in the world are commodities having a real value and a speculative value.

20 The real value of a commodity is established by the number of hours of labor required to produce it. Commodities in which equal quantities of labor are contained, or which can be reproduced in the same time, consequently have equal value. It is the labor time necessary for production that determines the value ratio of one commodity to another. Conclusion: The worker alone, by manufacturing the commodity, creates wealth.

582 THE PARIS REVIEW

30 Now, this merchandise, as a result of the profit taken by the Industrialist, then by the Merchant, acquires a surplus value which determines its speculative value.

This surplus value is a theft with regard to the worker, who does not receive the full sale price of the merchandise he has manufactured, or with regard to the consumer—manufacturer, who pays more for this commodity than its real value. Industrialists and traders are, therefore, only parasites who must be eliminated.

Machine Translated by Google

It does not require a great deal of cerebral effort to see the accuracy of this thesis.

It is false that the number of hours worked is the only element that determines the real value of a commodity.

A winegrower from the Côte-d'Or and a winegrower from Hérault, working the same number of hours to produce wine, will not obtain a commodity of the same value, because "pinard" will never be worth Chambertin or Corton.

Two carpenters, one making an ebony table, the other a whitewood table, can use the same tools, observe the same proportions and spend the same amount of time, the ebony table will always be worth more than the fir one.

Karl Marx's proposition that the worker's labor alone creates the value of the commodity is therefore radically false.

The consequence is also: the mass production of a commodity requires information, an overall organization, a management that makes the intervention of a manufacturer indispensable and justifies his profit; this manufacturer is also a worker, a worker of thought. The sale, at all points where consumption requires it, imposes the existence of the merchant. Nothing would be gained, quite the contrary, by replacing the manufacturer with a civil servant and the merchant with a public store: the experience of state monopolies has proven, in all countries, that the nationalization of an industry makes the manufactured product less profitable for the worker and more expensive for the consumer.

But Karl Marx didn't care that his thesis was illogical and grossly false. His goal was nonetheless achieved.

Concerned with destroying and not improving, he had created a doctrine tailored to the public he wanted to exalt, a doctrine affecting the least fortunate part of Humanity.

HENRY HEINE AND KARL MARX 583

in the most sensitive place: its private interest! and designating culprits: industrialists, merchants, governments, all those who, to any degree, defend the social order... Such a doctrine will always have an enormous influence on masses without reflection or culture and will push them to violent resolutions. And what a marvelous ally for the Jewish people, in its twenty-century-old struggle against the Christian social order, the international proletariat!

Such doctrines deeply agitated the working masses who read the Rhenish Gazette, and who, until then, had been of republican, but not socialist, tendencies.

The Berlin authorities became muffled and imposed prior censorship on the newspaper. Karl Marx refused to submit and saw his organ suspended. He himself was subjected to the surveillance of the high police. He understood that the game was lost for him in Germany and resolved to expatriate himself. London now seemed to him the most suitable place for an outlaw.

But the influences which had already directed him towards Cologne manifested themselves again, and it was in Paris that he disembarked, to address himself immediately to Henry Heine, correspondent in this capital of the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science.

* of

Heinrich Heine saw at a glance the advantage he could take from a young man (Karl Marx was then thirty years old) so gifted for destruction. Within a fortnight of his death, he pointed out the terrain on which he would henceforth evolve: that of the Franco-German Annales, an important magazine founded in France by a German republican refugee, Arnold Rüge, with whom Heinrich Heine studied a great deal.

This Arnold Rüge is now well forgotten. He was then the leader of Young Germany, a section of Young Europe, founded by Mazzini, which brought together the most advanced elements of Carbonarism and Freemasonry. Demagogic and anti-religious, Young Europe fomented revolutions, organized political attacks and was involved in all the agitations of the moment; but it was neither socialist nor communist. International, it was not internationalist. We will have a fairly accurate idea of its tendencies by thinking of Young Turkey, which, in 1912, overthrew Abdul Hamid II, and Young Portugal, which still inspired, in 1927, the insurrections of Lisbon and Porto. These associations are, moreover, the only surviving sections of the great Mazzinian conspiracy: everywhere else, Young Europe was swept away or absorbed by Marxism.

584 THE KINGDOM OF PARIS

Born in 1802, Arnold Rüge had given himself over to revolutionary ideas from a young age. He had only passed through Freemasonry, whose overly academic propaganda could not satisfy his need for action. Having thrown himself into Carbonarism, he was implicated in a conspiracy and sentenced to six years in prison. At the end of his sentence, he sought asylum in.

France (1840) and founded in Paris an advanced republican organ, the Franco-German Annales, which attracted general attention,"

To bring into Germany this organ written by an outlaw was,

it seemed, an impossible thing. It was nevertheless achieved, thanks to a whole network of secret intelligence. The packages of reynes, sent in merchandise halls to affiliated merchants, were delivered to prudent distributors; subscribers were not lacking, thanks to the attraction of the forbidden fruit; and the copies, read and reread, circulated for a long time from hand to hand. All the forces of Carbonarism in Germany had thus been led to group around the Franz-German Annals and to adopt this review as its organ. The authority and prestige of Arnold Rüge had been increased to the point of making him the true leader of the German republicans.

Rüge was one of the "wild beasts" that Heinrich Heine liked to caress. Also the recommendation of the poet no-

1. The official biographer of Karl Marx in the land of the Soviets, Professor D. Ria-zonof of the Socialist Academy of Petrograd, shows us Rüge, collaborator with Marx at the Rhenish Gazette, emigrating with him to Paris, and there founding the Franco-German Annales. Now, Marx arrived in Paris in 1844, and Arnold Rüge was installed there in 1840. Among many others, all of which have the aim of hiding from the indignant the mysterious life and work of Marx.

Machine Translated by Google

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 585

messianist opened wide to Karl Marx the doors of the Franco-German Anhalt: eight days after having been present, he saw himself associated with the direction of the review and took it up again, cautiously at first, then more energetically;

his campaign of the Rhenish Gazette. This time again, the assimilation of his theories by the Public who read them justified the hopes of his hidden inspirers. The Secret Committees which propagated Rüge's review were made up in the majority of workers: these easily became infatuated with the economic doctrines of Karl Marx, so new to him, and slipped towards the famous "theory of true value", destructive of all social peace. Slyly, without fanfare, the Franco-German Annales became communist and made communists.

Arnold Rüge, ebendieser, der die Asa struggle tapaglise tontre the monarchies WaAlleinaghe, does not shy away from this Elissemeht. he shies away from it so little that after Karl Marx he welcomed other protégés of Heinrich Heine and introduced them into his editorial staff.

Those whom the sarcastic poet presented to him thus, from time to time, were, however, cut on such a uniform type that it must have aroused the attention of the outlaw: young, very young even, these exiles, impatient to write and to act, who disembarked from Germany to enter the Franco-German Annals, were all Jews, and all sons or close relatives of rabbis...

Among them was Frederick Engels, from a former rabbinical family in Barmeh, six years younger than Karl Marx, whom he had met in Cologne.

4. Professor Rlazonof, with Dute Jebole S, tries to conceal Engels's Jewish origins.
He insists that he belonged to a distinguished German family, descended from a French Hugon
Lange who had an angel (engel, in German) in his coat of arms.

There are in the Rhineland a family of this man, but they have always protested; both against attributed to him, and against his supposed kinship with the friend of Karl Marx. The Bolsheviks coats of arms: does not another red biographer, that of Lenin, claim that the father of the dictator was entitled, under the tsarist regime, to the title of Excellency! The claim is is good to show the crowds that the founders of Communism were great lords, who denied a noble origin to devote themselves to the service of the Proletariat...

in 1842. He became in Paris his companion and his regular collaborator, his socius, and remained so all his life. A little later there was to appear, elegant to the point of dandyism, haughty to the point of insolence, this Ferdinand Lassal, called Lassalle, grandson of a rabbi from Breslau, who was to exercise such a profound influence on the German working masses. Heinrich Heine, to whom he was addressed among a whole group of young neo-messianists, recognized in him another Karl Marx and showed him special regards: Very dear comrade in arms, he wrote to this young man of twenty years old...

And also: How glad I am that I was not mistaken about you, for I have never placed so much trust in anyone. In a letter to Warnaghen von Ense, dated January 3, 1846, he called young Lassalle: One of those tough gladiators who march proudly into the supreme combat.

Arnold Rüge, however, blind as he was, ended up realizing that his work was eluding him and that his magazine defended ideas that had never been his own.

He announced very loudly his intention to react. It was too late.

The Management Committee of the Review and the Correspondence Committee
The people in correspondence with the secret sections of Germany were young Israelites, in close solidarity with Karl Marx; and the democratic atmosphere, dear to Rüge himself, made everything of a plurality vote.

At the first shock, Rüge was put in a minority and forced to resign.

With rage in his heart, he left France, went to lead for twenty-five years in Switzerland, in Germany, then in England, an existence of wandering and needy conspirator, and ended up listening to the proposals that Bismarck made to him, as to a large number of other revolutionaries, whom he wanted to disarm: Mazzini's former lieutenant had to be asked for a while, gave in, and died a pensioner of the German Empire, while Mazzini himself, daggers and bombs put aside, rallied to the monarchy of Victor Emmanuel.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 587

Karl Marx and the team of young intellectuals under Henry Heine had brilliantly implemented the first part of the program of the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science: not only did Riige's magazine pass into their hands, but the de facto leadership of the Revolutionary Committees of Germany also belonged to them.

This was the starting point of the communist organization, because, under the impulse of Marx and his Israelite general staff, the evolution of minds towards social war was vigorously led: most of the Mazzinians of Germany rallied to the new doctrines. A victory of incalculable importance! Until then the neo-messianist dream had remained purely Jewish, enclosed in a kind of moral ghetto: now it was spilling over into the Christian world and recruiting its first dupes there. At this moment, no doubt Karl Marx had to point out to his faithful Engels, nourished as he was by the philosophy of Hegel, that the sovereign idea was passing from the state

Machine Translated by Google

passive to the active state by taking its point of support in the external world.... It was reserved for our time to see it arrive at the free state by triumphing in legislation and social organization, to use the terminology of the philosopher of Stuttgart. | A Bor

The program of Karl Marx and his friends went, moreover, far beyond the conquest of the revolutionary organizations of Germany, which was only a breach opened in the flank of the old Christian citadel. As soon as the center founded by Rüge was in their hands, a vast correspondence opened with Jewish intellectuals living in the most diverse countries.

More or less quickly this resulted in the creation of national socialist parties, all of which had Jewish neo-messianists at their head, while Karl Marx and Engels reserved the international leadership for themselves.

This is how Lassalle, then Singer, organized German socialism; Neumayer, Victor Adler and Aaron Libermann, Austrian socialism; Freiburg, Leon Franckel and Haltmayer, the first French Committees of the International;

James Cohen, the Danish Socialist Party; Dobrojanu Ghera,

588 THE PARIS REVIEW

the Romanian Socialist Party; Kahn and Leon, the Workers' Party of the United States, etc. In each country, the leading role played by a few Israelites was the spontaneous result of their personal convictions: it took time and an overall vision to reveal what these vocations, apparently independent of each other, had that was carefully organized by a mysterious direction.

This immense labor could only have begun in Paris. Since Karl Marx's debut at the Rhenish Gazette (1840), the Prussian police had been keeping a close eye on him. Unexpected correspondence aroused the concern of the Prussian government, which demanded his expulsion from France, and obtained it, despite the intervention of Henry Heine. Karl Marx withdrew to Brussels with the faithful Engels, then went to settle in London, which became his headquarters. Protected by the protection that the British government granted to exiles of all origins, on condition that they refrained from extending their propaganda to England, Karl Marx was able to continue the organization of nascent Communism without hindrance.

The part of his correspondence relating to this period of his life was carefully expurgated by his son-in-law Charles Longuet. So that his biographers, misled by his attitude as an economist absorbed in library research, could have believed that he abstained for twenty years from any direct political action. At most, his occasional participation in a Workers'

Congress held in London in 1847 is noted, a Congress during which he launched, with Engels, a manifesto setting out communist doctrines. He then lived in retirement until the meeting at Saint Martin's Hall, which brought him out of it.

The historical truth is very different. During these twenty years, Karl Marx did not cease for a moment to deploy a formidable revolutionary activity, and, in two cases at

Machine Translated by Google

less, he did not hesitate to risk his person in movements

armed forces. | | ä In 1846, a republican insurrection, & which are mixed several of his allies, & elate in the Grand Duchy of

HENRY HEINE AND KARL MARX 589

Baden; warned in advance, Karl Marx hastened to the scene with the faithful Engels. Both try to turn this purely political attempt into a social revolution. The movement fails; the defeated insurgents lay down their arms: Marx and Engels are already far away. False passports allow them to cross the border and they return to London.

In 1848, the Second French Republic was about to be swept away by the June Days; the riot took on a distinctly socialist character. Karl Marx was there and participated in secret meetings at the rebels' headquarters. If the movement had won, Paris would have experienced the horrors of the Commune twenty-two years earlier. But Cavaignac tamed the insurrection.

Arrested during the repression, Karl Marx was shot, or at least deported, like so many others. Henry Heine intervened, vouched for his innocence, and rescued him from the Court Martial. Who would have doubted the sincerity of the gentle poet?

Karl Marx was only interned in Morbihan. A few weeks later, armed with false papers, he escaped and returned to England. We see that the bookworm that his biographers so complacently portrayed knew, on occasion, how to turn into a country mouse....

By what organization did Karl Marx maintain himself? How did he prepare his incursions onto the continent? Who produced the false papers (an industry that remained in honor among the Bolsheviks) that he used to cross borders and, if necessary, escape? This is what we will see in the second part of this study, which will deal with secret Communism, including the meeting at Saint Martin's Hall, and then with public Communism.

SALLUSTE

(To be continued,) 6
THE SECRET ORIGINS OF BOLSHEVISM

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX

Karl Marx's supreme skill had been to supplant Arnold Rüge at the head of the Secret Committees of Young Germany without the latter realizing the substitution that had taken place. The new socialist and communist doctrine, expressed first in the Franco-German Annals, then in the circulars of the Central Committee, had taken the place of the old, republican and democratic one, like a stronger liquor replaces, in a bottle, that which has been emptied.

Machine Translated by Google

For the German adherents, who only looked at the container, nothing had changed, since the Committees were the same and the Supreme Leadership seemed to be deprived of Arnold Rüge alone.

On the contrary, for Karl Marx a great victory had been won:

tens of thousands of Christians of origin had become the docile and unconscious agents of the hidden design of the sect.

Prudence dictated that the victors should not compromise the results achieved by disrupting the organization thus won overnight. Karl Marx believed

1. See the Paris Review of June 1.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 901

little the technique of Mazzini, organizer of Young

Europe (of which Young Germany was only a section); he reproached him for locking revolutionary propaganda in crypts without communication with the outside.

What emerged was a silent agitation, attacks, sometimes raids, never a popular movement of any magnitude. Full of self-confidence, Marx had imagined a completely different method of grouping and action, which he later applied during the creation of the International.

But he could not undertake to impose it immediately on the German Secret Committees, so recently annexed, without risking disorienting them. So he abstained, at the beginning, from leaving the beaten track of Carbonarism.

It is a Carbonarist organization, in fact, and nothing more, than the one directed by Marx at the time of his insurrectionary expeditions on the Continent (Grand Duchy of Baden, in 1846, and the June Days of 1848, in Paris). It presents the essential characteristics of Carbonarism, an illegal party, obliged to fight against all the police forces of Europe: small groups, recruited in great secrecy, exist side by side, unaware of each other. They communicate with the organization only through a single member, the head of each group, designated from above and not elected by his comrades. A Supreme Committee, unknown to all, maintains contact with each group leader by means of a small number of liaison agents. No external propaganda, which would draw the attention of the police to this or that member, and, through him, to the group to which he belongs: this propaganda is done in the newspapers inspired by the leaders of the sect.

Immediate goal proposed to the members: such an attack against a notorious enemy of the Revolution, hence fairly frequent assassinations. General goal: to prepare the taking up of arms

which will overthrow the government which is obstructing it. |

All these characteristics, specific to groups created on the Mazzinian model, are found in the communist organization of Karl Marx, as it functioned for about fifteen years, from 1845 to approximately 1860, that is to say during the time when the usual biographers of the eo-messianist pontiff represent him to us as exclusively.

902 THE PARIS REVIEW

Machine Translated by Google

engaged in economic research. It was suspected that this apparent detachment from active politics was only an attitude, judging by the two insurrectional teams on the Continent that we have reported. It was assumed that Karl Marx had sovereign mysterious forces at his disposal, seeing him threaten to assassinate his rival Bakunin, if the latter persisted in thwarting his action. But the mystery had been so well established around the secret life of our hero

that we despaired of discovering formal proof of his revolutionary activity, |

This proof did exist, however. It is found in the memories of a repentant conspirator. He explains how he came into contact with the committees

secrets that Communism had in Germany, around 1851. |

This character, who has had various names, but whose real name was

Hermann Richter, had been sentenced to prison by the Bavarian courts for various acts of revolutionary propaganda. After serving his sentence in Augsburg, he retired to Hanau. It was there that, at the beginning of 1851, he received a visit from a man named Weidemayer, an emissary of Marx, charged with transmitting the latter's proposals to him. Having accepted them, Richter learned of the existence of an international occult association which had a large number of sections in Germany called Communes. The program of the conspirators was revolution, not only political, but social, with the primary objective of abolishing private property. The means envisaged included a mixture of political agitation and workers' strikes. The motto of the Affiliates was: Proletarians of all countries, unite! This was to be, twelve years later, the one acclaimed at the meeting at Saint Martin's Hall. It has remained that of the three Internationals.

As can be seen from these details, if the framework of the organization had remained Mazzinian, properly Marxist ideas had clearly replaced those of Young Europe.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 903

Richter joined the movement, founded a Commune in Hanau, and attended a congress of similar groups in West Germany in Frankfurt am Main.

The indications he left allow us to draw the following certainties, relative to the organization of the secret communist society in this primitive form:

10 The conspiracy had several thousand members in Germany alone. It had absorbed, in fact, not only many of Arnold Rüge's old friends, but also the remnants of a socialist association founded in 1837 by the tailor Weitling. The members undertook to carry out individual propaganda and to be ready for a coup; but they forbade themselves from ever speaking of the society itself without the express authorization of the leaders.

Machine Translated by Google

Passwords and rallying signs completed this occult ensemble. 3

20 The presidents of the local groups were chosen by the higher authority and not elected by the members. They were sometimes convened in regional congresses, but this was the only contact that existed between the lower groups.

The relations of the Communes with each other, or with the Supreme Committee, had to take place through the intermediary of special delegates, chosen by the Supreme Committee and frequently changed by it. The personality of only a small number of these delegates could be established, because of the pseudonyms which usually designated them. They belonged in great majority to Jewish circles.

30 The composition of the Supreme Committee was to remain a mystery to the members themselves. However, they agreed to reveal to them the names of Karl Marx and Engels, who were domiciled in a hospitable country, and moreover sufficiently "burned" so that there would be no harm in revealing their personalities. It can be conjectured that they had the same collaborators who had already surrounded them, a few years earlier, at the German-French Annals, and who were later found at their side for the founding of the National Workers' Federation. The Supreme Committee, composed of members belonging to various nationalities, sat at London: he was recruited by co-option and had unlimited powers for the administration of the Association.

Hermann Richter's revelations allow us to gain a fairly accurate picture of the state of the communist organization eight years after the sleight of hand by which Karl Marx had seized Arnold Riige's secret committees. The Carbonarist framework within which the movement continued to develop had its advantages and disadvantages. Advantages stemming from the strong discipline imposed on the members, their close subordination to the orders of the leaders, and the impossibility of catching the entire

Association in a single dragnet, due to the watertight partitions established between the lower groups (those where imprudence and betrayal usually occur). Disadvantages resulting from the difficulty, for a society destined to remain unknown, of carrying out propaganda and recruitment, while the chatter of a single one is enough to compromise the safety of all its immediate collaborators. Disadvantages, above all, resulting from the weariness which, in the long run, overcomes the conspirators condemned to silence and to whom their leaders only rarely give the opportunity to act.

In fact, the Prussian, Saxon and Bavarian police managed several times to arrest people in the Communes and seize important papers. But they were never able to

Machine Translated by Google

to deal a serious blow to the communist society: the very nature of the conspiracy did not allow it. 5

However, the London Directory decided, around 1860, to modify its structure.

It was a question of preserving for the leadership of the movement, which remained purely neo-messianist, all the advantages of secrecy, while giving those of wide publicity to the basic organization, the one which would act in working-class circles. Four years were spent in the meticulous preparation of this transformation, which resulted, in 1864, in the foundation of the First International, in conditions quite different, as we see, from those which the legend has popularized. | | *

As of 1845, Karl Marx's action was directed mainly towards Germany; and this was natural, since the conquest of Young Germany over Arnold Rüge had provided him with his first battalions of converts to Communism.

But, in London, he strove to universalize his action; he maintained correspondence with the communist-leaning groups formed, in different countries of Europe and America, by the young neo-messianists whom we have seen evolving around Henry Heine. When the time came, all these groups would form a bloc around the nascent First International and would constitute for it in the world

entire national sections; the executives were already ready for it. This explains the prodigious success, apparently spontaneous, that the new association was to meet.

It was only among the Russian revolutionary elements that Karl Marx encountered any resistance. This was because they were then gravitating in the orbit of a vigorously accused personality, Alexander Herzen, who only partially adopted Marx's ideas. Based in London, Herzen was, as we shall see later, in close contact with the pontiff of Communism; but he intended to consider him as an extremist, whose success was not impossible, but would only occur if the monarchs and governments refused to listen to him, Herzen. Marx was never able to completely assimilate or subordinate this rival, to whom he ended up, as a measure of conciliation, by abandoning the monopoly of revolutionary action in Russia, reserving the rest of the world for himself.

A few words about Alexander Herzen will help us understand the role he played alongside, or more precisely, on the margins of Karl Marx. He was born in Moscow in 1812 to a Russian father and a German Jewish mother, who had a decisive influence on his moral formation and the direction of his life. At the age of twenty-two, entered Moscow University and was involved in republican agitation there.

Sentenced to a few months in prison, he was then subjected to forced residence in Perm, Viatka, and then Vladimir. This last sentence was quite gentle, since he had been entrusted with the task of writing the unofficial part of the Vladimir newspaper, the government organ.

Machine Translated by Google

After five years (1839), we find him in Saint Petersburg, where his revolutionary background did not prevent him from becoming secretary to Count Strogonov, the Emperor's aide-de-camp. From then on, the high administration was open to him and he became Councillor of Regency in Novgorod.

Having thus reassured the authorities about the evolution of his political tendencies, he resigned in 1841 and went to live in Moscow where he had secretly printed, under the pseudonym Isander (Arabic translation of his first name Alexander), works with a clearly insurrectional tendency. | From

The death of his father in 1846 made him very wealthy. He made most of this fortune and easily obtained permission to travel abroad the following year. He never returned to Russia.

Herzen first stopped in Berlin. His first concern was to make contact with Leopold Zunz, one of the founders of the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science, the correspondent and friend of Heinrich Heine, the inspiration behind Karl Marx. Zunz, who was not to die until 1886, was then fifty-three years old; he was director of the Jewish Normal School in Berlin and exercised a considerable influence on all Jewish intellectuals. These conversations left an indelible mark on Herzen's mind: until then he had only been a Saint-Simonian socialist. He too became a neo-messianist, that is to say, a potential Communist.

He was always, however, in a different way than Karl Marx. Communism for Herzen was a last resort, to which he would have preferred a democratic regime subordinate to the men and ideas of Israel. In biblical language, he showed Communism as the inevitable punishment of a Europe that did not want to stop being conservative:

"Communism, stormy, terrible, bloody, will pass at full speed. Amidst thunder and lightning, in the glow of burning palaces, on the ruins of factories and magistracies, as on a new Sinai, will appear

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 907

new commandments, a new Decalogue with crudely accentuated features. The character of the agony of old Europe is beginning to become clear... » |

This description, having preceded the thunderclap of 1917 by some sixty years, appears all the more prophetic. The nabi tone with which Herzen usually speaks of Communism, the avenger of the Jews, has something poetic and disdainful about it, which is not found in Karl Marx, who is much more vulgar and more integrally Israelite than Herzen. As for the princes, Herzen does not think that they offer serious resistance to the movement: he sees them heavily asleep and inattentive to the approaching storm:

"One day, a Don Cossack will come and shake up these Palaeologians and Porphyrogenetes, if they are not awakened by the trumpet of the last judgment of the popular Nemesis, which will pronounce against them the vengeful judgment of Communism."

Machine Translated by Google

From Berlin, Herzen had gone to Paris. He was there at the time of the June Days of 1848, in which he took part in the same capacity as Karl Marx. He even attempted to do with Proudhon what Karl Marx had achieved with Arnold Rüge: he was seen, in fact, collaborating with his organ, the Voice of the People, where he immediately made a name for himself by the violence of his articles.

But times had changed, since the conservative reaction that followed the June Days: Herzen was expelled in 1850. nz

In London, where he settled to maintain contact with the numerous French refugees there, he met Karl Marx. The contact between them was not entirely cordial.

The two men did not agree on one point: the choice of the nation to conquer first.

It was France that Karl Marx wanted to focus the main propaganda effort on; it was France he wanted to make the soldier of Communism in the world. First, to seize this great nation, always ready to submit to the ascendancy of ideologues, to enslave it to the point of making it his passive instrument, then to use it as a battering ram to batter down neighboring peoples and impose the communist ideal on them, that was his plan, in accordance with revolutionary tradition.

908 | THE PARIS REVIEW

It matters little that the ram-nation emerged from Al dislocated, and that it lost the best of its being in the struggle: it was vile matter which served to grind vile matter.

This is how Freemasonry used it when it launched an assault on Revolutionary France in Europe. This is how the Soviets are using it today with Russia and its 140 million slaves.

If it had been up to Karl Marx, if the Commune of 1871 had triumphed, it would have been France that would have been the instrument placed in the hands of nascent Communism.

Hervén, for his part, did not believe that France was fertile ground for social revolution, and no more so than Germany: he considered both to be essentially conservative and even feudal. Russia, on the contrary, seemed to him to be the starting point for the movement that would overturn the world, and this because it had the most backward peasant population in Europe, and consequently the easiest to delude and unleash. Tsarist absolutism did not appear to him as a definitive obstacle to a revolution: concentrated in the hands of a single man, this formidable power could easily be disarmed by a moment of weakness, of doubt, by thoughtless generosity, all things that are found much more rarely in an organized ruling community.

For all these reasons, Herzen had founded in London, in 1851, a revolutionary printing press, in Russian, from which subversive pamphlets were issued. In particular, two magazines were published there, the Polar Eisle and the Russian Voice. By methods similar to those we have seen employed for the dissemination in Germany of the Franco-German Annals of Rüge, these magazines were introduced into Russia and secretly distributed. They had a less openly communist character than the writings of Karl Marx: this is because Herzen considered that one should not be too doctrinaire, so as not to let any malcontent escape, and there were many malcontents in Russia, in all classes,

Machine Translated by Google

and especially at Court. So Herzen intended to tell the Power, which reconciled everything: If you don't give us freedom, it will be Communism. |

This divergence of conceptions did not allow Herzen
HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 909

to collaborate with Karl Marx in the founding of the Third International. Thus, Russia, despite its overabundant Jewish population, remained for a long time virtually foreign to the Marxist movement. It was only thirty years later that we saw Tusse brains become passionate about the Theory of True Value. It is true that, since then, they have made up for lost time.

A correspondence published by the Vienna newspaper La Presse under the title A Socialist Evening sheds a curious light on the milieu in which Alexander Herzen and Karl Marx lived in London around this time. It depicts the latter in his natural state and allows us to judge the ferocity of his political and social projects: once we have read it, we are no longer surprised to learn that Marx knowingly prepared the atrocities of the Commune and that he dared to defend its massacres and fires. Here is the translation of this text, evidently written by an unbiased witness:

| had made the acquaintance of the Russian exile Golowin in the Strand, London. He had traveled half the world, possessed a varied knowledge, spoke almost all the languages of Europe, and, except in one chapter, was a very agreeable companion. That chapter was politics, and especially socialist politics.

* As soon as he broached this subject, he became what is called in France a "foqué", in London a "félé" (cracked), in Vienna a "briilé" (angebrennt), and in Berlin a "defraqu&" (verrückt). Golowin, for example, was not afraid to advance that the social revolution can only start in Russia, "the country where there are the fewest cities" in view of the immense extent of the land, where the people are the least "corrupted" (by civilization), and where "the spirit of the commune" is the most lively and the best preserved. On this subject, Golowin became inexhaustible and... promptly boring.

One evening he asked me if I would like to accompany him to Herzen's. I replied that I did not know him. "Never mind," he said, "I already have some invitations; here's one for you. But go quickly and dress up." I could not

1. It is curious, sixty years later, to note how the material causes of the Russian Social clearly discerned by the revolutionaries, and, on the other hand, profoundly misunderstood conservatives of the time. Editor's note:

910 THE PARIS REVIEW

prevent me from finding this obligation to be dressed up for a socialist evening strange. "There will also be ladies," he continued

Machine Translated by Google

Golowine, "and we owe them respect. The English, in particular, are very formal on this point

We arrived at Putney, where Herzen lived. He received in his salon the celebrities of the Social Republic and the revolutionary exiles from all countries. France was richly represented

Then came Russia, then Germany and Italy. Finally, there were a few English republicans, the remnants of the Chartists of 1848.

We stepped off at an elegant cottage near Kew Gardens. A footman opened the doors to a vestibule covered with oriental rugs and adorned with exotic flowers. A marble staircase, also covered with rugs, led to the first floor. There, a butler in white gloves and a white apron showed us into a drawing room that was already filled with gentlemen and ladies. The master of the house broke away from a group to come and receive us.

The Russian socialist leader, short and stocky, wore long, "artist-like" hair. His face showed intelligence, but also fatigue. His eyes seemed to spy from afar, and his gaze sometimes took on a wild expression reminiscent of the scum of the Russian steppes.

Herzen's home stood in strange contrast to his communist principles and had a distinctly aristocratic feel.

In every room, precious carpets, magnificent mirrors, expensive paintings and objets d'art more striking was the contrast between this Elegance and a part of the society that occupied these salons.

Among the French emigrants, I was told about Louis Blanc, Ledru-Rollin and Edgar Quinet; I also found "The German" there.

Karl Marx, who has since taken the part that we know in the events of Paris (the Commune). Marx was then busy with a secret association of workers which would embrace Europe and the United States (the First International). Passing from the large drawing room into an adjoining room, I heard a voice speaking in Teutonic. I saw Marx in the company of several Germans of dubious appearance who were enjoying the pale ale liberally placed at their disposal by Herzen. I caught the following sentences which he delivered with extraordinary vehemence:

You see, my friends, we are having the greatest difficulty here in rallying the English workers to our common plan of attack. These heavy English workers, with their beefsteak throats, are entangled in their conservative traditions. And yet, it is from London that the avalanche is to roll over France. Anyone who hesitates before "extreme measures" to achieve a socialist revolution should only go to Rome and retire to a convent. It has been said: "War on the palaces, peace on the cottages!" Well! that word is nonsense, it means nothing.

The socialist idea, if it wants to triumph, must uproot all plants

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 911

parasites that have sent a thousand roots into society and it must throw them into the fire. The palaces are only a tiny part of the infamous capitalist edifice: the great slaughter of the workers are slaughtered by the thousands are the cities. Rational, radical socialism cannot must not allow any city to remain. In their place, we will institute the sharing of the land and equal well-being for families. The debris of the cities will wonderfully fertilize the fields.

"He's completely mad!" said an Englishman as he left the room where Karl Marx was speaking with a vehemence bordering on frenzy.

Machine Translated by Google

For my part, I did not think any more of these insane words; but the fire of Paris and the exploits of the Commune have since reminded me of the sinister remarks that Karl Marx made a few years ago in Herzen's salon!

"It is from London that the avalanche must start to roll over France." When he uttered these words, Karl Marx had already prepared everything for the creation in London, at the meeting at St. Martin's Hall, of the International Workingmen's Association. He intended to keep the guiding levers at hand in England, but he intended the new organization for the conquest of our homeland, which he wanted to make the soldier of the social revolution.

On the continent too, moreover, Marx had arranged everything; and one will admire at the same time the sureness of hand with which the Marxist intrigue was conducted, the simplicity of the means employed, the perfection of the deception which put in default the government of the Second Empire, which was then considered the toughest and most suspicious adversary of the revolutionary idea. If Karl Marx's maneuver failed all the same, in 1870 and 1871, it was as a result of circumstances impossible to foresee; it nevertheless remains a masterpiece in its genre, as the Austerlitz maneuver was in its own.

of

It would be a mistake to believe that the French worker, around 1860, offered a fertile ground for communist propaganda. It is hard to imagine to what extent his mentality had remained healthy and wise. Without doubt, there was, and

since

1. Cf. with the translation of this document published in the Gazette de France of July 23 long time, a French "socialist" school; but what a difference between the peaceful dreams of its followers and the destructive fury of the Marxists! A Cabet could well, in writing the Voyage en Icarie, praise collective property: but his only ambition was to prove the superiority of this system by going to found in America, in an old Mormon encampment, a colony formed of his followers.

His failure saddened him, for he was profoundly sincere; but neither plunder nor violence entered into his plan for a moment.

One can imagine the disgust of this sincere ideologue in the face of the dictatorship of the Proletariat.

The same sincerity, the same absence of violent ideas, in Buchez, one of the dissident disciples of Saint-Simon.

And yet, he was a Carbonaro by origin, an insurgent of 1830. When he founded, in 1831, the Workers' Association and the journal UEuropeen, his aim was not to shake up the old social organization and make it fall in blood, but to provide experimental proof that another system was possible. Unlike Cabet, it was in France itself that Buchez wanted to establish the social workshop, where all workers, whatever their position, would be equal and would receive the same salary. He strove to achieve this in the Association of Quvriers Menuisiers, founded on September 30, 1831, whose statutes he wrote, which then served as a model for other corporations.

Machine Translated by Google

The association's goal was to become unique for France and to gradually absorb, through individual memberships, the practice of the profession. Its founders, convinced that they would produce better and more cheaply than the salaried carpenters of the capitalist system, envisioned the moment when free competition within their workers' cooperative would force the last carpenter boss to come and ask for a place among his former workers. Then, the organized profession would own the entire instrument of work, which, in Buchez's terminology, meant tools, machines, movable and immovable property, and also capital. For, far from eliminating the latter, the statutes drawn up by Buchez provided for the formation of a mortmain, impersonal and inalienable capital, obtained by a levy-

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 913

ment on the wages paid to associated workers. Without realizing it, the concept of the carbonaro of 1830 reproduced here one of the characteristics of the Corporation under the Ancien Régime. It was also similar in the sense that, outside the workshop, the worker had to remain free and dispose of his assets as he wished.

What Buchez had not perceived was the fundamental flaw in the system. It soon became apparent: the elected leaders' lack of authority led to incessant discussions in the workshops; their administrative incompetence led to costly blunders; the ban on piecework and equal pay for all discouraged the best workers and paralyzed production. Instead of producing better and cheaper than the carpenter bosses, as had been expected, they produced more expensively and worse; wages, initially equal to those of the bosses' workers, had to be reduced as a result. When the difference in pay became noticeable, the associated workers became discouraged and, abandoning the social workshop, returned to wage labor.

The following years saw the dissolution of the corporations formed on the model of the Association of Quvriers Menuisiers. Everywhere the same causes engendered the same effects, and the smooth talkers of the tavern, elected administrators, proved inferior in professional competence to the most lackluster bosses. Embezzlements finally sowed distrust and dismay among the associated workers. Thus, around 1836, the experiment could be considered over: the social workshops of Buchez had lived...

Only the Association of Gold Jewelers survived and lasted for thirty-one years.

When we examine the reasons for a

Machine Translated by Google

Such longevity is evident from the recruitment of this society, which admitted only men of a very religious spirit; the work began with common prayer. So there is no reason to be surprised, moral discipline replacing employer discipline, that there were neither internal quarrels, nor systematic laziness, nor embezzlement. But the association, precisely because of its religious character, could never be numerous. Founded

June 15, 1928. 4 | 7

914 THE PARIS REVIEW

In 1834, with four members, it never had more than eighteen, and eventually fell back to eight. Despairing of recruiting, the members then shared the social fund and separated.

A doubt remained, however, in people's minds: between the Employers on the one hand, and the Workers' Associations on the other, the game had not been equal. On one side there was significant capital, on the other simple workers' contributions; who knows, people said to themselves, if suitable endowments would not have tipped the balance in favor of the social workers? It was with this idea in mind that a disciple of Buchez, Corbon, elected member of the Constituent Assembly of 1848, asked the latter to vote a subsidy to workers wishing to create production cooperatives.

The Assembly voted 3 million francs – the purchasing power of which would today be represented by 10 million of our gold francs, or 50 million paper francs. And it charged an Encouragement Committee with granting interest-free loans to workers' societies that would come to be formed. These societies would, moreover, in the event that they would tender or be awarded public works by mutual agreement, be exempt from the requirement of a guarantee, as with other contractors.

Corbon had flattered himself, thanks to this official,

that he would "transition workers from the status of employees to that of voluntary associates." The reception given to his initiative was, at first, enthusiastic; more than five hundred workers' associations were formed in a few weeks. The Encouragement Committee subsidized sixty-one of them, after which the credit of three million was exhausted. But one hundred and four others set to work with private resources.

Alas! The causes that had led to Buchez's failure led to Corbon's: three years later, more than half of the Associations subsidized by the Encouragement Committee had gone bankrupt, swallowing up 954,000 francs in loans. After ten years, only nine remained, of which only four were covering their expenses. As for the 104 groups formed without subsidies, only ten still existed. Far from absorbing the profession, according to Buchez's formula, these 19 Associations grouped together barely 1,300 workers, dissatisfied and discouraged. It was a failure.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 915

It seemed that the idea of the social worker had no chance.

Machine Translated by Google

to be taken up again. It was by a man whose mind and heart the democratic school had odiously slandered: Emperor Napoleon III. The atrocious "tyrant" of revolutionary pamphlets was, in reality, a good-natured man. No one in the 19th century was more concerned about the fate of the poor, and especially the well-being of workers. Victor Hugo reproaches him for this when he shows the Parisian worker, his pocket full, dancing on Sundays in the suburban open-air cafés, and shouting: "Ef vive 'Emperor! And long live the salary!" which delayed the restoration of parliamentary freedoms by so much...

Unfortunately, in his labor policy, Napoleon III often showed himself to be as declared a utopian as in his foreign policy, and that was saying something. Karl Marx, who had made a thorough study of the Emperor's character, knew well his thoughtless generosity, and he knew how to play it in favor of the International,

as we shall see presently.

In 1862, Napoleon III decided to make a third attempt in favor of the social workshop. He created a Fund for Workers' Cooperative Associations and allocated it 500,000 francs from his own funds. The State could not do otherwise than add its subsidy. But it was above all private initiative that responded to the imperial example. Mr. Beluze founded, in Paris, the Societe du Credit au Travail, whose aim was to subsidize the groups being formed.

Messrs. Léon Say and Walras founded the Caisse d'Escompte des associations populaires. In the provinces, the Société Ilyonnaise de Credit au Travail, the Banque de Credit au Travail, of Lille; the Crédit populaire, of Colmar, etc. were formed. This influx of capital caused a veritable mushrooming of subsidized associations: there were soon 178 in Paris and more than a hundred in the departments. But, once again, the immense effort was unsuccessful. By 1869, the millions committed had been swallowed up to the last and all the cooperative workshops were bankrupt. The incompetence of the management and the lack of discipline

916 THE PARIS REVIEW

Pliny, workers left to their own devices, had, once again, borne fruit. 5

What is striking in the history of the forty years of labor policy that we have just summarized is the extraordinary and reciprocal good faith. The French worker is, at this time, sober, hardworking and peaceful. Without doubt, he hopes for a transformation of society; but he expects the disappearance of wage labor only from the free competition of social labor, which will first have to prove itself. Momentarily disappointed, he returns obstinately to the charge, without the hideous thought of class war crossing his mind for an instant.

The government, for its part, and with it the leaders of industry, are not hostile to the effort of the working class to improve its lot; they even encourage it, and subsidize it. The experiment is carried out in complete agreement, and, if it fails, the system tested is alone open to criticism. Such an atmosphere of social peace was, one can understand, not very favorable to the revolutionary impulse that Karl Marx proposed to give.

The current legislation gave him even less leverage.

The Empire, around 1860, was not yet liberal: although it showed itself to be favorable to professional demands, it was, on the other hand, merciless towards political agitations, and relied on a vigilant police force, an energetic judiciary, and a reliable army. Only associations with a maximum of twenty members could form freely: above this number, administrative authorization had to be requested, which entailed a preliminary investigation, the filing of the names and addresses of members, and the monitoring of deliberations. Those renting out halls could be held responsible for offenses committed by those they hosted. Finally, strikes, a means of action that Karl Marx considered very effective, were severely prohibited by Articles 414, 415, and 416 of the Penal Code.

It was in this powerfully defended fortress that the neo-messianist leaders had to breach.

They achieved this through the most gigantic political mystification of modern times. The London Industrial Exhibition was the occasion and the pretext.

HENRI BEINE AND KARL MARX 917

France, like most major nations, participated in this Exhibition. It had formed an Imperial Commission, chaired by Mr. Arles Dufour, a notable silk manufacturer and personal friend of the Emperor, whose social ideas he shared. A remarkable technician, Mr. Arles Dufour was not a great scholar in politics and knew nothing of the revolutionary undercurrents of his time: so he felt no suspicion when he read in certain newspapers (Le Temps, of Paris, and Le Progrès of Lyon in particular) that a Committee had been formed with the aim of involving French workers in the London Exhibition. Was it not necessary, the promoters explained, to enable workers to appreciate the benefits of machinery, a factor of progress? For too long, manual workers had been wary of the machine: when intelligent men, chosen from their class, came to explain to them the advantages of what they had seen in London, they would be believed more easily than the bosses.

Mr. Arles Dufour strongly approved of this reasoning and wanted to know its authors. They were a chaser, named Tolain (who had the good fortune to end up in the shoes of a senator of the Third Republic), and a bookbinder, Varlin, later delegate to Finance of the Commune, who was shot at Mont-martre in May 1871. In their shadow, inspiring them after having recruited them, an optician, Levy-Lazare, and Fribourg, one of Karl Marx's regular correspondents. These four people, none of whom smelled of the factory, presided over a Committee of about fifteen authentic workers, apparent authors of the appeal that had just been published.

Charmed by the wise dispositions of his –

Mr. Arles Dufour promised them imperial protection and had no difficulty in obtaining it for them. It was agreed that every facility would be given to them to form a delegation, whose journey and stay in London would be paid for partly by the Emperor, partly by the great French industrialists.

This delegation was to work in close union with the Imperial Commission. It did not fail to do so, and this was an opportunity for these leaders, and especially for the citizen

Machine Translated by Google

918 THE PARIS REVIEW

Tolain, to acquire a real influence on the mind of Mr. Arles Dufour, who took the publicist engraver as his regular advisor on labor issues.

What would the Emperor's friend have said if he had known that the delegation he thus surrounded with his solicitude was entirely composed of fanatical Marxists and that his first concern, upon landing in London, had been to go en masse to greet the neo-messianist apostle? But Mr. Arles Dufour was ignorant

of Karl Marx... | A

On August 5, 1862, a meeting took place in London, at the Freemasons' Tavern, which should have given him the alarm. On that day, in the presence of Karl Marx, but not under his presidency, a group of English workers received the French delegation. There was, apparently, no organizing committee, and it was one of those "spontaneous demonstrations" that secret societies select and which they usually prepare with care.

It was, in fact, an assembly of delegates from these Communes that Hermann Richter's revelations have shown us in full activity under the direction of Karl Marx. Without there being any question of a deliberative assembly or an international Congress, the presence of several delegations was noted: German, American, etc. A large pale ale was drunk to the health of the French comrades and they were welcomed in very clear terms for the initiated, but deliberately moderate enough not to alarm the imperial government:

As long as there are employers and workers, as long as there is competition between employers, and disputes over wages, union of workers among themselves will be the only means of salvation. Let us hope that now that we have shaken hands, that we see that, as men, as citizens and as workers, we have the same aspirations and the same interests, we will not allow our fraternal alliance to be broken by those who might think it in their interest to keep us disunited; let us hope that we will find some international means of communication and that each day a new link will be formed in the chain of love which will unite the workers of all countries.

Responding to this speech, the French delegates requested that permanent committees be established "for the exchange of correspondence on international industrial matters." In this cautious form, it was the Workers' International that began... |

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 919

Mr. Arles Dufour did not pay attention to it, or was not moved by it.

He was not even surprised to see several members of the delegation give up returning to France and settle in London "to ensure the exchange of correspondence." Not for a moment did he wonder what mysterious subsidies allowed these workers to abandon their trade to become the functionaries of a Proletariat which, in appearance, still had neither organization nor funds. Quite the contrary, in all its joy of having rallied to the Empire the comrades of the engraver Tolain, he made to the Emperor the most favorable report on the advantage that could be taken from this Workers' Committee "which dealt with professional questions and not politics" |

The result was not long in coming. The following year, Karl Marx, having needed to confer with the leaders of the French movement, had his accomplices announce a meeting in London on the Polish question. Tolain having expressed the intention of sending six delegates, it was Mr. Arles Dufour who intervened to obtain the passports, and the Emperor who paid the expenses of the trip!

Karl Marx's maneuver was developing, as we see, with the implacable method which had served him, twenty years earlier, to surround Arnold Rüge and to bring him down; and the demophiliac Emperor was not to show more foresight than the Mazzinian conspirator. From 1864, his fate was sealed.

That year, in fact, Citizen Tolain, who "talked" with Napoleon III through Mr. Arles Dufour, addressed the question that was closest to Karl Marx's heart: that of freedom of strikes. He had the following question posed: would the Emperor not agree to prove his benevolence towards the working class by freeing it from Articles 414 and following of the Penal Code, which prohibit combinations?...

Napoleon III's response fulfilled the conspirators' hopes: He had long been in favor of the repeal of the incriminated articles, and had proven it by pardoning all those convicted of strike violations, unless there had been violence committed. But he could not take the initiative to modify the law as long as the question is not asked orally. This was to indicate to Karl Marx's friends the procedure to follow and to promise them in advance that they would win their case.

920 THE PARIS REVIEW

Precisely, in March of that year, there were by-elections in the 5th constituency of Paris.

The surprise was great when a manifesto, signed by sixty workers, announced, for the first time in France, a class candidacy. It was that of Citizen Tolain who, obeying the imperial suggestion, presented himself to the electors to demand the repeal of the law against combinations.

Continuing his double game, Karl Marx's agent had taken care to wrap this essential claim in the most saccharine program: Universal sugar has made us politically of age, he said, thus flattering one of Napoleon III's favorite concepts, but we still have to be socially emancipated. And, to reassure both the voters and his all-powerful protector, the working-class candidate loudly repudiated the chimera of equality, the agrarian laws, the division of property, and the progressive income tax. Yes, the income tax, now imposed on France by the radical bourgeoisie, began by being rejected as revolutionary and unworkable by the first Marxist candidate.

Despite so many precautions, Tolain only obtained 380 votes! But the number of strikers made no difference: the question of the right to strike had been raised electorally, according to the condition formulated by the Emperor. The latter immediately kept his word. He charged M. Emile Ollivier, already half-rallied to the Empire, to defend before the Legislative Body

Machine Translated by Google

the repeal of Articles 414, 415 and 416. In vain did the extreme right, represented by Messrs. Seydoux and Kolb-Bernard, point out the danger that freedom of strikes would pose to social order. The majority of the Assembly docilely followed the official impulse and the bill was passed by 222 votes to 36. This time, we have them: the wooden horse has entered Troy! Karl Marx was able to say to his faithful Engels, upon learning of the eagerly awaited vote, and he immediately issued the summons for the famous meeting at Saint Martin's Hall.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 921

This took place in London on September 28, 1864, and we see that, if it gave birth to the First International, it was not spontaneously and by chance, as the communist legend would have it... |

This time again, it was Poland which served as the pretext for the meeting: Russian policy was then so generally detested in the Chancelleries that no better cover could be invoked to obtain passports.

But, once the meeting opened, very little attention was paid to what was happening in Warsaw. The representatives of the Communes of Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Switzerland, etc. formed a notable part of the audience: even before he had spoken, they gave Karl Marx a long cheer, as soon as his shaggy head and river-like beard appeared on the platform. The English workers, who filled the hall, echoed this enthusiasm, without really understanding why it was bursting forth. And the most violent declarations against Capitalism and the Haugesian governments followed one another for three hours. 3 |

The meeting ended by voting on the provisional statutes of the International of Workers and by appointing a Committee to organize it and launch a proclamation in its name. In this Committee, Karl Marx had the wisdom to be content with a shadowy position (secretary in charge of correspondence with Germany). He put, on the other hand, in the foreground some English workers, well known in the British Trade Unions: the carpenter Odger was president, assisted by Cremer as general secretary and Wheller as treasurer. It was these companions, promptly forgotten, who then assumed, in the eyes of the world, the responsibility of having conceived and formed the First International. And it was announced loudly that the world proletariat was entering the campaign with the three pounds sterling produced by the quest made that day.

Marx did not sign the proclamation of the new Association, which he had nevertheless written in its entirety.

922 THE PARIS REVIEW

despite the efforts made to collaborate by the few members of the Committee, who were not in the know. He took care to include only statements in agreement with the reassuring language that Tolain and his collaborators held in Paris. One would look in vain for violence, or a call to revolt, in this document intended to lull the possible mistrust of the imperial government.

Considering that the emancipation of the workers must be the work of the workers themselves; that the efforts of the workers to conquer their emancipation must not tend to constitute new privileges but to establish for all equal rights and duties and to annihilate the domination of any class;

That the economic subjugation of the worker to the owners of the means of labor, that is to say, of the sources of life, is the primary cause of political, moral and material servitude;

That the economic emancipation of the workers is consequently the great goal to which every political movement must be subordinated as moyen.

The undersigned, members of the Council elected by the Assembly held on September 28, 1864, at St. Martin's Hall, London, have taken the necessary steps to found the International Working Men's Association.

They declare that this Association, as well as all Societies or individuals, will recognize the basis of their conduct towards all men: Truth, Justice, Morality, without distinction of color, belief or nationality.

They consider it a duty to demand all human and citizen rights, No duties without rights... Etc.

It is understood that this philosophical phraseology had nothing particularly disturbing about it. To make the illusion more complete, the Council of the International assigned itself as its first task "an investigation into the social state in the different countries" and the "discussion of practical ideas" which could be formulated by the adhering groups. It was also careful to add that "the application of this article will depend on the particular laws of each country; abstraction made of the obstacles legal, each independent local society will have the right to correspond directly with the Central London Council.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 923

It would have been truly wicked to refuse this right of correspondence to people who were so concerned with remaining within the bounds of legality! The imperial government did not think about it for a moment. Convinced, on the contrary, that the new Association would usefully counterbalance the Republican, Mazzinian, and Blanquist Committees that were troubling working-class circles, it endowed it with a real privilege: the exemption from authorization, which entailed the suppression of administrative investigation and control. When Varlin, in fact, in the name of the Paris office of the International, opened premises at 44, rue des Gravilliers, he limited himself to informing the Prefect of Police, without requesting legal authorization. The Minister of the Interior, who knew the Master's tendencies, referred to him: Napoleon III, as blind as Mr. Arlès Dufour, prescribed that the eyes be closed...

Machine Translated by Google

At that moment, all administrative facilities were granted in France to the disciples of Karl Marx.

E, avalanche, leaving London, was going to be able to roll over our country, following the words of the neo-messianist pontiff, without encountering the slightest obstacle. We will see 5

France almost perished from it.

SALLUSTE

(To be continued.)

THE SECRET ORIGINS OF BOLSHEVISM

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARA

Even before gaining a foothold in France, the nascent International had achieved two notable successes, thanks to the clever maneuvering of Karl Marx, no doubt, but also to the extreme naivete of Napoleon III and his social advisor, Mr. Arles Dufour. First of all, by the express will of the sovereign, it was exempt from the legal formalities imposed on all other associations, and, consequently, from the close surveillance that weighed on workers' groups: this was a de facto privilege that the founders of the Association immediately knew how to exploit and which earned them a formidable recruitment. On the other hand, the introduction of the right to strike into French legislation put in the hands of the disciples of Karl Marx precisely the weapon they needed to unleash the class struggle. Had the Emperor wanted to set fire to the Society, instead of defending it, he would have proceeded exactly as he had just done: a strange destiny condemned this generous soul to give rise to perils which would ultimately overwhelm it.

Thus formidably privileged with respect to the rest of the country, Karl Marx's correspondents set to work.

They could count at most on two or three hundred-

1. See the Paris Review of June 1 and 15.

154 THE PARIS REVIEW

a few subordinate followers, spread across fifteen manual professions. They used them to create, in Paris and in the provinces, professional secretariats, which were brought to people's attention by clever advertising and which quickly attracted tens of thousands of workers' memberships.

To make registration easier, newcomers were only asked for an entrance fee of 0.50 francs, which gave them the right to a membership card, and an annual subscription of 1.20 francs. Soon, to remove the hesitations of the masses, this subscription was reduced to 0.10 francs. In return for this insignificant payment, the workers had access to the local circles of the International, where the Marxist leaders took charge of their education. "It was necessary," said Karl Marx, "that one could join the International as one drinks

Machine Translated by Google

a glass of wine... |

The order was so well observed that in 1869, according to documents that fell into the hands of the imperial police, the organization had 433,785 members in France, including more than 70,000 in Paris. We will have an idea of what this figure represented, in a country less populated than it is today, when we know that the Socialist Party currently has barely more than 100,000 members, and that the Communist Party has never had more than 76,000. The privileges granted by Napoleon III alone explained such a formidable development.

From 1866, the International was strong enough to take terrible advantage of the restoration of the right to strike, so nimbly taken away from the imperial government. Although peaceful, in order to maintain the Master's favor as long as possible, it surreptitiously encouraged social conflicts: violent strikes broke out almost everywhere and were the occasion for bloody incidents, which continued to trouble the last years of the Second Empire. At Le Creusot, Aubin, and Ricamarie, the army, obliged to intervene to restore order, had to fire on the strikers, whose excitement was all the greater because the rumor had spread among them that the Emperor approved of their violence against the bosses.

People cried out that it was an ambush, a premeditated slaughter, and they held responsible the very person who had thought he had tied the working class by allowing professional coalitions.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 155

In a few months, Napoleon III lost the popularity he had enjoyed among workers since the beginning of his reign: he was beginning to reap the bitter fruits of his imprudence.

Upset by the turn of events, he saw no other recourse than to rely more on the citizens of Tolain, Fribourg and Varlin, who, while encouraging disorder, maintained their cordial relations with Mr. Arles Dufour. When the weavers of Roubaix, in March 1867, destroyed the factory equipment and set fire to the buildings, the leaders of the Paris International were asked to intervene to calm them. They did so in adroit terms, which approved the substance of the workers' demands, but blamed the riot and the fire: "Workers of Roubaix," they said, "whatever your just grievances, nothing can justify the acts of destruction of which you are guilty. Remember that the machine, the instrument of work, must be sacred to you; Consider that such violence compromises your cause and that of all workers; consider that you have just provided weapons to the adversaries of liberty and to the slanderers of the people." The Emperor appeared satisfied with this language. But, some time later, he was cruelly disillusioned when his police put before him letters from Varlin, one of the three signatories of the appeal to the weavers of Roubaix. These letters were intended to foment a strike in Rouen and announced the sending of the necessary funds to support it...

This first disillusionment was followed by more serious concerns. For several months, discontent against the International had been growing visibly in the Emperor's entourage. The cause was the Geneva Congress, where 60 delegates, coming from various parts of Europe, among them which 17 Frenchmen had gathered to finally openly formulate the program of the association. Now that the International, having gained a foothold even in the smallest towns, had become a power, the time for accommodation was over. So the Congress abruptly broke with the English Trade Unions, guilty, in its opinion, of "aiming only for immediate goals, increases in wages or improvements in detail v». It was discontent

Machine Translated by Google

156 THE PARIS REVIEW

Napoleon III, who had always held them in high esteem.

The Congress also blamed the French workers' cooperatives, so dear to the Emperor, as "tending to constitute a fourth State, which would have below it a fifth State even more miserable." What was needed, according to the congressmen, was "to nationalize the means of transport, to hand over the land to groups of farmers, the mines to the miners, the railways to the railway workers..." The social program of Marx was beginning to appear in full light.

The manifesto in which these resolutions were recorded was stopped at the border by the French police, who referred the matter to Paris. Here we have a negotiation which would seem improbable if all the details were not historically known.

Mr. Rouher, Minister of the Interior, the one who was called the Vice-

Emperor, appeared very annoyed by the incident. Addressing the members of the Paris office of the International, he requested an interview during which he tried in vain to obtain modifications to the manifesto. "At least, con-3 make sure to introduce some thanks to the Emperor, who has done so much for the classes 1 » The proposal, transmitted to the congressmen still assembled in Geneva, aroused among them a general hilarity which resounded to the echoes of the Treiberg brewery.

The manifesto nevertheless entered France, without modifications and without thanks to the Emperor: it was the starting point of intense workers' agitation.

The following year, the Lausanne Congress further aggravated the tension by bringing a formal declaration of war on individual property, a declaration of such great harshness that Saint-Simon, Enfantin and Prou-d'hon had never written anything like it.

This time, the Emperor's protection turned away from the ungrateful children who had flouted his solicitude. He ceased to protect them against his Police and his judiciary. The Public Prosecutor's Office invited Internationale to regularize its situation by submitting to common law and submitting the list of its members.

Following the refusal of the Paris office, 17 accused were brought to trial.

HENRY HEINE AND KARL MARX 157

in correctional court, on March 6 and 20, 1868, for the offense of unauthorized association. Among them was Tolain, who had so successfully mystified

Mr. Arles Dufour, and a certain Camelinat, who was later to be a member of the Commune, and whose green old age still allows today, sixty years later, to appear in the demonstrations

Machine Translated by Google

Parisian meetings of the Third International. President Delesvaux led the debates. He was considered ferocious and hardly spared the enemies of the Empire. But, precisely, a halo of disgraced favorites surrounded the accused.

The imperial lawyer himself announced that he would be lenient, and he was. The dissolution of the International was pronounced, but Tolain and his comrades got out of this bad situation with a fine of 100 francs.

However diligent the imperial justice system, the judgment did not become final until November 12, 1868, after the appeal courts had exhausted their appeals.

During these eight months, the International continued to function at full capacity, recruiting new members, sowing hatred, and preparing for civil war at the first favorable opportunity. What is happening today to the Communist Party, which is making light of insufficient repression and even drawing useful publicity from it, may give an idea of what happened then. When the judgment was finally passed, a second administrative commission, chaired by Fribourg, replaced the one that had been condemned, and everything had to start again...

This time, irritated, President Delesvaux took a heavier hand: Fribourg, Varlin, Benoit Malon, and their comrades were sentenced to three months in prison.

And once again, the appeal courts paraded, confirming the sentence without paralyzing the leaders of the International in the least. The imperial power had let the time pass to act against it. It could well condemn and imprison fifteen or twenty known administrators; but how could it reach the 400,000 members of the proscribed association and get its hands on its countless sections? Thanks to the freedom granted to the International not to declare its members, the police files were empty and the prefects powerless.

158 THE PARIS REVIEW

In September 1869, the police discovered that a third administrative commission had been formed, under the barely disguised name of the Federal Chamber of Corporations. A new trial was initiated. It was still ongoing when the Franco-German War broke out in July 1870. A few weeks later, the Second Empire collapsed in the wind of our defeats.

It was at this moment that one of the designated leaders of the planned insurrection, Cluseret, future general of the Commune, wrote to Varlin: "It will soon be the decisive moment for the advent of the people. We must be ready, physically and morally. On that day, we, or nothingness! | assure you: Paris will be with us, or Paris will no longer exist."

Everything was ready, in fact, for the destruction of Paris, if the hideous Commune prepared by Karl Marx did not succeed in triumphing. But the neo-messianist prophet, in his London observatory, had no doubt of the success of his intrigue. If it had succeeded, the slow decadence which followed, for our country, the victory of Germany in 1870, would have been transformed into a dizzying fall towards that dark and bloody hell which the unfortunate

Russia. | *x

Machine Translated by Google

4*

Let us examine the state of the revolutionary forces in France. in 1870.

The International far outstrips all other left-wing groups. Thanks to the colossal error committed against it by Napoleon III, it has penetrated everywhere and has 435,000 members, 70,000 of whom are in Paris. Most of them, it is true, are not organized revolutionary and give the movement only a principled support; but, when it comes to such masses, this support is considerable, especially if the active nucleus is ready for the most audacious undertakings. In fact, the International is mistress of revolutionary opinion, forms the mass of workers' movements, and can bring about, or fail, at its will, the initiatives of the advanced parties which have not wished to merge into its bosom.

Of these parties, the most active is the Blanquist party, whose leaders, after Blanqui, are Raoul Rigault, Ferré, Protot and

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX | 159

Tridon. The Blanquists are few in number: about 4,000 in Paris, less than 10,000 in the provinces; but their discipline is perfect, their organization purely insurrectional, their spirit very combative; they will hold a place in the street unrest disproportionate to their numerical importance.

From a doctrinal point of view, they are close to the International in their violent anticlericalism: "Your God, his priests, his morality, all that must be annihilated!" Raoul Rigault will say when arresting Abbé Deguerry, parish priest of the Madeleine. But they have a social program much less precise and much less absolute than the followers of Karl Marx. And they differ entirely from them from the international point of view: the Blanquists, in fact, are ardently patriotic and only want to universalize the Revolution by restoring the fourteen armies of the Convention. Most of them regard the flour-covered bloc of Marxism with suspicion; many even, like Tridon, are downright anti-Semitic.

Despite everything, they will be carried along by the torrent of the International and will serve to carry out its plan: but their action, often divergent, will cause Karl Marx serious worries.

The other socialist or Jacobin groups are less important, although they have quite a number of members. But these are scattered among a host of embryonic committees and rival chapels whose leaders are Léo Meillet, Flourens, Paschal Grousset, Arnoud, J.-B. Clement (who later wrote the Marxists' war song: "Inier-nationale"), Rastoul, Felix Pyat, Vermorel, Delescluze. All these lost children will, when the time comes, rally to the battle corps, and will obey more or less the orders coming from London.

The situation changes with the Republicans themselves, whose general staff goes from Jules Favre, veteran of our civil wars, to Gambetta, young hope of the party, passing by Eugene Pelletan, Jules Simon, Floquet, etc... Recruited above all in the liberal professions and commerce, and franc-

Masons for the most part, they are essentially bourgeois and do not have revolutionary troops. But the need for a working-class clientele leads them to support

all indiscriminately

160 THE PARIS REVIEW

left-wing agitations and, consequently, gives them a certain influence over those who participate in them. Only they have a political personnel educated enough to ensure, without serious trouble, the charge of power, if it happens to escape the hands of the Empire. Also, Karl Marx will not cease to fear seeing them bite the chestnuts that he strives to pull from the fire; and this fear is not chimerical, since it is the republican party which will ultimately benefit, for more than half a century, from the work accomplished by the International...

For the moment, the neo-messianist pontiff reassures himself by saying that he has intelligence in the place. Jules Favre, surrounded by communist suggestions, will, in fact, at the opportune moment, make all the gestures desired by Karl Marx; as for Isaac Cremieux, grand master of the Scottish Rite and president of the Alliance Israelite Universelle, who will be one of the most representative men of the republican party, he has with Karl Marx racial affinities and common relations which will allow him to act on him. The author of Kapital therefore has every reason to consider himself as having to be the master of the hour.

How, despite so much vigilance and precautions, did the adventure prepared so long in advance by Karl Marx begin for him with a bitter disappointment? This is what deserves to be explained.

The neo-messianist prophet had not had much difficulty in predicting the collapse of our military forces: few informed people were unaware of their inadequacy in the event of a war with Germany. But events moved much faster than he expected: after five weeks of campaigning, the army of the Empire no longer existed. Karl Marx was surprised and overwhelmed by the dramatic turn of events for which he had nevertheless prepared everything. As a result, the political reaction provoked by the defeat occurred much sooner than he had anticipated. Now, it took Karl Marx, who was in charge of everything from London, three or four days to learn about events, make a decision, and pass his orders on to his French agents.

The Blanquists and the Republicans, whose leaders were in Paris, needed only three or four hours, a night at most, to act with full knowledge of the facts. It was this initial detail which paralyzed the immense forces of the International and allowed the Republicans and the Blanquists to do September 4 alone.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX | 161

This day, which saw the baptism of the Third Republic, was not a bloody revolution, like that of 1830 and 1848, but a confused feud that the grip of a true statesman could have dominated at any moment.

On hearing the news of our first disasters, Minister Emile Ollivier, responsible both for the lack of preparation of our army, by his culpable concessions to the parties of left, and the reckless entry into war against an enemy who had left nothing to chance, tried to escape the consequences of his mistakes. He considered the mass arrest of republican and revolutionary leaders likely to exploit the situation.

Machine Translated by Google

Empress Eugenie later told Mr. Paleologue how she opposed, as regent, this measure which would probably have saved the Empire and limited the disaster of France. To the incapacitation of the conspirators, she preferred the convocation of the Legislative Body, which was equivalent to an abdication.

With the fall of the Emile Ollivier ministry, a new cabinet, that of General

Cousin Montauban, Count of Palikao, had been charged with ensuring national defense and had courageously set to work. But when the news arrived on September 3, 1870, that the last army of France had been destroyed at Sedan, and the Emperor a prisoner, the general-prime minister lost his head.

Instead of accepting the dictatorship, which was offered to him by the imperialist majority and which could still save everything, he rallied to the proposal of M. Thiers who demanded the election of a council of government and national defense, of which Cousin Montauban would have been only the president. This was to open the crisis of authority at a time when authority was more necessary than ever. Jules Favre, on behalf of the Republicans, replied by demanding the deposition of the dynasty. No decision was taken that day.

During the night, the advanced parties decided to rush events. Only the International, without instructions from London, remained inert. At daybreak, bands spread throughout a dismayed Paris. They were few in number: 8,000 to 10,000 in all. The governor

July 1, 1928.36

162 THE PARIS REVIEW

The military force of Paris, which had more than 25,000 regular soldiers, municipal guards or city sergeants, had only one gesture to make to restore order. But this governor was General Trochu, an enigmatic figure, who, at this supreme moment, thought only of avoiding compromise, and, if possible, of ensuring his personal success by some denial. After having gone, on the morning of September 4, to insure himself against a reversal of fortune by swearing to the Empress to defend her, on his faith as a Breton, a Catholic and a soldier, he returned home and let the riot take its course.

This had two different objectives, the City Council and the Legislative Body.

A. Thétel de ville, it was the Blanquists who acted and installed, without a fight, a provisional government; after which, they called for an insurrection by the 3 workers who responded rather weakly.

In the Legislative Body, the discussion of the previous day had resumed, amidst gloomy confusion, when two or three thousand demonstrators, led by the leaders of the Republican party, surrounded the palace, access to which was not defended by any cordon of troops. The Republican deputies, led by Jules Favre, Ernest Picard and Garnier-Pages, helped several hundred of these demonstrators to enter the legislative chamber. They entered shouting for death. The presiding

Machine Translated by Google

Dent Schneider, who did not have the soul of a martyr, abandoned his seat, followed in his retreat by the majority of the deputies; and Gambetta, rising to the presidency, proclaimed the fall of the empire and the advent of the Third Republic to the acclamations of 300 rioters. A provisional government, composed of the principal leaders of the republican party, whose list had been prepared the previous night, was named amidst much noise. At that moment the regime under which we have lived for almost fifty-eight years was born.

All this, however, was extremely fragile as long as one was not fixed on the attitude of the military governor of Paris: a few companies energetically led could clear the legislative palace and restore to the Assembly the freedom of its deliberations. Precisely, worried about what was happening, General Trochu had set out, escorted of a large staff. Gambetta, Jules Favre and their retinue meet him in the street. Taken by a sudden inspiration, Jules Favre goes to the defender of the Empress and announces to him that he is appointed head of the provisional government.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX | 163

Trochu bows, flatters: Breton, Catholic and soldier, he swears to defend the new regime. Two hours later, some troops sent by him recaptured the town hall from the Blanquists without firing a shot. The destiny of France was sealed.

Marx's anger was great in London when he learned, one after the other, of the Emperor's captivity and the advent of the Masonic-Republican party. It was those he called the lawyers who had just secured power by this hasty swindle, and who would have at their disposal, to maintain it, all the resources of the French administration.

The International, handicapped by the distance that separated it from its leader, had been unable to act, nor even to manifest its existence. In this circumstance, Karl Marx's usual tenacity alone prevented it from becoming discouraged. He began to weave his web again.

But first of all, he entered into open opposition with Gambetta. This tribune, gifted with a power of speech difficult to imagine, believing himself to be a second Carnot, and not even suspecting that the former had been a career soldier and a hard worker, was convinced that he would save France with fiery speeches. It was his influence that dictated the famous formula: We will not yield an inch of our territory, not a stone of our fortresses! At a time when Bismarck was ready to grant peace in exchange for the territory of Strasbourg and a ransom of 2 billion. Then he was all about mass uprisings and evoking the memories of 1792... This was not without worrying Karl Marx, who knew the impressionability of the French; he feared seeing them inflamed with patriotism, even if it was revolutionary. In order for him to seize France, to make it the slave of the International and the instrument of his designs, it was first necessary for it to be defeated and crushed by the enemy to the point of discouragement.

This concern appears throughout WENN

Machine Translated by Google

164 | THE PARIS REVIEW

that he exchanges, around this time, with his usual confidants. |

The French need Elre Rosses, he explains in a letter to Engels. |

The war is, on the German side, a defensive war; on the French side, it is an amended edition of the coup d'etat of December 2, he said on July 23, 1870, in a manifesto of the International launched to the proletarians of all countries.

After September 4, he was mainly concerned with defeating the mass levy demanded by Gambetta.

"We must not," says a second manifesto of the International, dated September 9, "let French workers not allow themselves to be carried away by the memories of 1792. They must not repeat the past, but must design the future."

This is also the opinion of Engels, who replied to him on September 12:

It is necessary to prevent the workers from being triggered before payment. Bismarck will soon be in a position to conclude it, either by the capture of Paris, or because the European situation will oblige him to put an end to the war: however the matter ends, it must be settled before the workers can do anything.

Karl Marx's fear of seeing the French proletariat adopt a patriotic attitude, which would take him far from the International, was so great that he considered coming to Paris, as in 1848, to be closer to events. But German media was rushing to Paris by forced marches, the siege was imminent: the neo-messianist pontiff feared being blocked and reduced to impotence. So he confined himself to sending to Paris one of the French attached to his secretariat in London, Serrailier, with the mission of preaching to the French members of the International abstention until the conclusion of a peace, necessarily disastrous, which would make workers' insurrection possible. Similar missions, in different parts of France, were entrusted to other members of the General Council of the International: Richard, Bastelica and Charvet. To the Marseilles members who had declared themselves in favour of the mass levy, Karl Marx sent Dupont with the mission "to respond to them in the name of the General Council and to clear their heads."

-Generally speaking, the order given was obeyed.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 165

by the working masses, despite the patriotic efforts of Blanqui, and the appeals of Bakunin, a declared Francophile, the one who told them: "By practicing patriotism, you will save universal freedom." The proletariat, enrolled in the International, reserved itself and waited for its time: that of defeat and civil war.

Machine Translated by Google

Already Karl Marx's lieutenants were preparing everything for an insurrection, the instrument of which was to be the reorganized National Guard.

As early as July 15, Jules Favre, who had never ceased to render the most overt services to revolutionary politics, had requested the arming of the National Guards. After September 4, Gambetta ordered it. In Paris, 283 battalions of the National Guard were formed and recruited mainly from the working class. The Parisian workers, among whom unemployment had been rife since the declaration of war, opted in fact for the National Guard, which changed nothing in their habits and assured them a salary of 1.50 francs per day (which was worth about 15 francs today).

In three weeks, Paris found itself equipped with a proletarian army, roughly similar to that which would be obtained today, by distributing uniforms and weapons to these unemployed whom the Communist Party was trying to group together and launch into the assault on the Society. The registered members of the International formed more than a quarter of the elective, and, as the National Guards had been given the right to elect their leaders, most of the commands fell to followers of Karl Marx, or at least to revolutionaries.

What a sad troop that was thus constituted! The siege of Paris had scarcely begun, and the National Guard had not yet burned a bait, that each of its battalions had a club, where the most incendiary speeches were applauded every evening: the National Guards were as punctilious there as they showed themselves reluctant when they were sent to the outposts. Only once did they succeed in seriously engaging them against the Prussians; it was at Buzenval, where

100,000

166 THE PARIS REVIEW

of them, hand-picked by General Clement Thomas, were brought in to support Ducrot's army. The battalions from the central districts made a fairly good showing and suffered several thousand killed or wounded; but those from the suburbs fled at the first losses and returned to Paris in disarray, shouting: "We are betrayed!" No one dared to lead them into action, and we will have an idea of their military uselessness when we know that the total losses of the National Guard during the siege of Paris were one man in 165, while the regular troops and sailors lost 20%

of their effectives. It has been claimed that the insurrection of the National Guards at the end of the siege was an explosion of their exasperated patriotism. It must be admitted that this patriotism had taken time to manifest itself.

The insurrection of March 18, 1871, was, in reality, patiently and skillfully prepared by the friends of Karl Marx. As soon as the National Guard, to which they provided a considerable number of ranks, was established, they had formed a Vigilance Committee in the Parisian offices of the International: the battalion officers met there every day, under the presidency of Varlin. There was, in fact, a council of the Commune before the letter. It was decided there (in obedience to the instructions, coming from London, to attempt nothing before the end of the war) that they would not support the two attempts made by the Blanquists, on October 31, 1870, and January 22, 1871, to establish a revolutionary government. But they kept themselves ready for the end of the struggle which was approaching.

On January 28, Jules Favre obtained from Bismarck, at Versailles, a three-week armistice to convene a qualified National Assembly to ratify the peace conditions. One of the conditions imposed by the victor was the disarmament of the Paris garrison, with the exception of 12,000 regular soldiers, necessary for maintaining order, and 23,000 municipal guards, firefighters, and customs officers.

Under this stipulation, 110,000 regular soldiers were disarmed and sent away via Orleans and Chartres. But Jules Favre, who proved himself, that day again, the evil genius of France, begged the Iron Chancellor to leave their weapons to the 190,000 National Guards. Bismarck, perfectly informed of what was being prepared, he eagerly agreed. As a result, Paris found itself virtually in the hands of the communists and the Vigilance Committee, chaired by Varlin, became the most obeyed authority in the capital.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX – T 167

Ignoring all of this situation, the National Assembly, meeting in Bordeaux, took two decisions in quick succession which could only strengthen the position of the future insurgents. The first refused to extend the moratorium, and even immediately abolished it for certain categories of debtors: This would force many small traders, whose wages had been suspended by the war, into ruin, and threaten to expel many peaceful workers from their jobs, whom discontent had thrown into the arms of the revolutionaries. The second decision –

The sion abolished the pay of the National Guards, except for those recognized as indigent. It was hoped in this way to reduce their number: only serious workers were sent back to the workshop. The members of the International all remained in the battalions with or without pay, as did the unemployed, for whom the allowance of 1 franc 50 had to be maintained. In short, the National Guard was being purged in a revolutionary sense; it was left with its weapons and its pay was spared: this was playing into the hands of the Marxist leaders. This was noticed on February 26, the day when several hundred National Guards decorated the July Column with red flags; after which they seized, tortured and threw the sergeant de ville Vicenzini into the Seine.

On March 1st, an even more significant event took place, if possible.

Under the pretext that the Prussians were to enter the Champs-Élysées that day, and that they might violate the peace agreement and seize our artillery ranges, the Vigilance Committee had the latter invaded by national guardsmen, who seized 277 cannons and hoisted them onto the Butte Montmartre. Paris found itself, from that moment, under the threat of communist artillery. The provisional government, absorbed by the preoccupations of the moment, let it happen: all eyes were fixed on Bordeaux, where the National Assembly had just ratified the conditions of a disastrous peace, which cost us two provinces with 1,600,000 inhabitants, and five billion in ransom, adding to eleven billion in damages and war expenses.

168 | THE PARIS REVIEW

It was on March 6 that the die was cast. On that day, in the Paris offices of the International, a meeting took place extraordinary meeting of the Vigilance Committee. Most of the national guard officers who had been won over to the movement attended.

Machine Translated by Google

On Varlin's proposal, it was decided that the Committee, from the unofficial grouping it had been during the siege, would transform itself into an official body and provisionally assume all powers in the name of the National Guard. This decision would be explained to the public by a proclamation expressing the need to prevent the National Assembly of Bordeaux, whose monarchist tendencies were known, from overthrowing the Republic. The means... formally insurrection.

On March 9, the proclamation appeared. It announced the foundation of a Republican Federation of National Guards, whose Central Committee was formed by the head of each legion, assisted by three delegates. This is where the name "Federes" came from, given to the communist insurgents. The composition of the Central Committee was purely revolutionary and ensured a strong predominance for members of the International.

On March 11, a manifesto from the Central Committee, addressed to the National Guards, invited them to remain united for the salvation of the Republic, to oppose any attempt at disarmament, to oppose the removal of cannons, to oppose force with force... General Clement Thomas, realizing that his orders were no longer being obeyed, resigned as commander-in-chief of the National Guard. By remaining in his post, at least he could have counted on the obedience of a few bourgeois battalions about twenty thousand men, who remained without direction... But it was said that in all this matter the generals would show little political spirit.

In Bordeaux, however, the news from Paris began to cause the greatest anxiety. The National Assembly, not daring to venture into a capital in turmoil, prudently adopted Versailles as the place of its sessions. And M. Thiers, elected head of the executive power, hastened to Paris to try to reestablish order. He arrived there on March 15, and on the 17th, having gathered his information, convened a council of war at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, where he had been stationed.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 169

The opinion of this council was unanimous: it was necessary to act energetically, disarm the National Guard, and, to begin with, take back the cannons that it had hoisted in Montmartre.

For this purpose, about 30,000 men were available, both regular troops and municipal guards. By acting by surprise, the cannons would be recaptured before the Central Committee of the Federates had time to call to arms; the moral effect would do the rest.

Orders were immediately given for the action to take place the following morning at daybreak.

Unfortunately, Mr. Thiers had little taste for this energy and believed only in negotiations. When the Council was over, he called Mr. Georges Clemenceau, mayor of the 18th arrondissement, and instructed him to request from the Central Committee of the Federates the voluntary surrender of the cannons, threatening military action if necessary. This was to give the alarm to Karl's friends.

Marx: When the regiments designated to remove the cannons arrived on the hill, at daybreak, the national guards, alert, surrounded them on all sides, hindering their movements and trying to debaucher them. The effect of sur-socket was missed. To make matters worse, 50 teams

Machine Translated by Google

only had been ordered and there were 277 guns...

We had to camp while waiting for the horses to return, but they could not be brought back, as the mob had stopped them on the way. In a few hours Montmartre had taken on the appearance of a riot.

The troops, exhausted by a night of vigil, had no supplies, as it had been thought that the operation would last only a moment. The National Guards and the crowd, continuing their attempts at debauchery, offered them food, which some companies finally accepted.

General Lecomte, warned that part of the 88th Line Regiment was fraternizing, rushed over and tried to oppose it. It was then that the irreparable happened: Sergeant Verdaguer, long since won over to the International, led his section to the cries of "Butts in the air!" Handed over to the National Guards, General Lecomte was dragged into an enclosure on the Rue des Rosiers, with General Clement Thomas, former commander of the National Guard, recognized in civilian clothes in the crowd. There, after a mock trial, they were both shot. The first

170 THE PARIS REVIEW

The first blood of the fraternal struggle that was going to bloody Paris had been shed. | When M. Thiers learned of the drama that had just taken place in Montmartre, his dismay was extreme. Deaf to the protests of General Vinoy, military governor of Paris, who wanted to restore order with a show of force, he gave the order to evacuate the capital and to force the loyal troops and all civil servants to retreat to Versailles. He pushed his madness to the point of evacuating the southern forts and even Mont Valérien (the northern forts being in German hands). When night fell, the Central Committee of the Federates, which was expecting a stubborn struggle, found itself master of Paris without a blow... The disarray was so complete, the evacuation so precipitate, that three regiments, six batteries and all the gunboats of the Seine were forgotten, which, the next day, finding themselves "in the air", rallied in isolation.

At Versailles, however, indignation was general around M. Thiers. Generals Vinoy and Ducrot begged that Paris be reoccupied before the Federates had organized its defense. M. Rouland, director of the Bank of France, remained at his post, demanded two reliable regiments and some energetically led batteries, affirming that this would be enough if action were taken immediately. Twenty thousand National Guards from the bourgeois districts, who had refused to join the Federation, had assembled at Passy and sent a delegation to Versailles, warning that they were going to be disarmed and asking for help while they could still resist.

M. Thiers remained frozen in his inaction... It was General Vinoy who took it upon himself to reoccupy Mont Valerien, during the night of March 19-20. It was about time! The line had been re-established there for half an hour when a battalion of national guards arrived and had to leave empty-handed.

Twelve days had passed and Mr. Thiers was still hesitating.

On March 30, General Ducrot, Admiral Jaureguiberry and Mr. d'AudiUret, members of the surveillance commission appointed by the National Assembly, resigned in protest against the inaction of the head of the executive power. Baren de Hübner, attaché at the Austrian embassy, addressed his father: Thiers is an old woman; 2

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 171

At this time, he is still dreaming of conciliation and compromising the political situation and, what is more serious, the military situation.

What was going on around him that could have made him resist the unanimous wishes of the Army, the Assembly, and public opinion? A very simple thing: Citizen Tolain, the man who had so masterfully mystified the Emperor at the beginning of the International, was negotiating with M. Thiers.

Having become, during the siege, deputy mayor of the 10th arrondissement, he arrived in Versailles bearing proposals for accommodation from the Central Committee of the Federates.

And Mr. Thiers, persuaded by his assurances, continued to cherish the hope that the conflict would be peacefully settled by means of reciprocal concessions. Not wanting to discover Tolain, in whom he had placed all his confidence, he covered himself with the advice of his advisers, who considered that violence was everything.

When at last M. Thiers realized that he had been called, and surrendered his hand to the partisans of repression, the Commune had had time to organize itself. Elections held on March 26, under pressure from the bayonets, had given it the appearance of a regular government. A general council, in which sat Varlin, Avrial, Pindy, Valles, Lefrancois, Frankel, Benoit Malon, Gerardin, Vaillant, Beslay and other members of the International, spoke in the name of the people of Paris.

The southern forts, so foolishly abandoned, had been put into a state of resistance.

All able-bodied men of at least forty years of age were forcibly incorporated into the National Guard. A system of external defenses, divided into three sectors, was completely organized under the direction of adventurers of some value: Dombrowski, Wrobleski and La Ceeilia, to which was superimposed the command in chief of Eudes, then of Cluseret, a former general of the Civil War. In the rear, in anticipation of the street war, a network of 600 perfectly distributed barricades was erected. . .

Where, on March 18, a few shots would have sufficed, it took eight weeks of fierce fighting, an army of 120,000 men and floods of blood.

When the Commune felt that the balance was finally tipping

172 THE PARIS REVIEW

and that the victory of Versailles was certain, the fury of the members of the Internationale knew no bounds. They played a decisive role in all the atrocities of the bloody week: the murder of the hostages, the burning of the Tuileries, the Court of Auditors, the Council of State, the Hôtel de Ville, twenty other palaces, several of which were not rebuilt, the countless acts of violence against people and property. If the fierce program drawn up in 1869 by Cluseret (this day, we or nothingness! | assure you, Paris will be ours, or Paris will no longer exist!) was not completely executed, it is because time was running out for the assassins and arsonists. In our days, we have seen the communists, defeated in Munich, then in Budapest, retake the tradition of their 1871 elections and only succumb in the midst of a halo of flames and blood. A word of warning to those who believe that a new Commune would be an incident of no importance. |

Machine Translated by Google

The Commune was defeated in Paris. In the provinces, it held Marseille for several days, to the point that the city had to be bombarded. Its leader, the lawyer Gustave Crémieux, was shot. In Lyon, Saint-Etienne, Toulouse, and in twenty other cities, the followers of the Internationale only succeeded in deeply disturbing the population; the steady progress of the Versailles army soon took away all hope of seeing their cause triumph.

The Parisian communists had barely succumbed on May 30 when Karl Marx made their apology in a hideous pamphlet, The Civil War in France, intended to deceive world working-class opinion. It contained the most audacious assertions, including this one that the day after the evacuation of Paris by the Army of Order, "the streets of Paris were safe, and that without any kind of police. No more assassinations, thefts, or assaults; it was truly believed that the police had taken with them to Versailles all their conservative clientele..."

Poor proletarians of all countries, eternally duped by the grossest lies! They doubtless believed this enchanting picture,

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 173

as the readers of Humanity believe today that Soviet Russia is a paradise. |

It was more difficult to mislead French public opinion, which had the trial documents before its eyes. It was already quite excited by the clemency of the courts-martial, which the supporters of ruthless repression criticized for having executed only 26 guilty parties while 270 accused had been sentenced to death. But all of France applauded the law of March 14, 1872, by which the National Assembly settled the fate of the Free International and all similar associations that would attempt to follow in its footsteps. Here is this legislative text, which appeared for thirty years in the French Code:

LAW OF MARCH 14, 1872

which establishes penalties against the affiliates of the [International Working Men's Association.

ARTICLE 1. – Any international association which, under whatever name it may be, and in particular under that of International Workingmen's Association, has as its aim the suspension of work, the abolition of the right to property, of the family, of peerage, of religion or of the free exercise of worship, shall constitute, by the mere fact of its existence or of its ramifications on the territory of [France], an attack against public peace.

Art. 2. – Any French person who, after the promulgation of this law, joins or acts as a member of the International Association

Machine Translated by Google

National Workers' Association, or any other association professing the same doctrines and having the same goal, shall be punished by imprisonment of three months to two years and a fine of 50 to 1,000 francs. He may, in addition, be deprived of all his civic, civil and family rights listed in Article 42 of the Penal Code, for at least five years and at most ten years.

Any foreigner who becomes an ally in France or who becomes an ally will be punished by the penalties laid down by this law.

ART. 3. – The prison sentence may be increased to five years, and that of the fine to 2,000 francs, with regard to all

174 THE PARIS REVIEW

French or foreigners who have accepted a position in one of these associations, or who have knowingly contributed to its development, either by receiving or inducing subscriptions to its profile, or by procuring collective or individual memberships; or by propagating its doctrines, its statutes or its circulars. They may, in addition, be sent back by the correctional courts, from the expiration of the sentence, under the supervision of the high police for at least six years and at most ten years. Any French person to whom the preceding paragraph has been applied, will remain, for the same time, subject to the police measures applicable to foreigners in accordance with articles 7 and 8 of the law of December 3, 1849.

Art. 4. – Anyone who knowingly lends or rents premises for one or more meetings of any part or section of the above-mentioned associations shall be punished with one to six months' imprisonment and a fine of 50 to 500 francs, all without prejudice to the more serious penalties applicable, in accordance with the Penal Code, to crimes and offenses of any kind of which the defendants mentioned in this law may have been guilty, either as accomplices or as principals.

ARr. 5. – Article 463 of the Penal Code may be applied to the prison and fine sentences imposed by the preceding articles.

Art. 6. – The provisions of the Penal Code and those of previous laws from which no derogation has been made by this law shall continue to be enforced.

ART. 7. – This law will be published and displayed in all municipalities.

This law was firm, but in no way draconian: compare it to the laws of the Soviets, which uniformly punish with death any act of bourgeois propaganda... As it was, it was enough to paralyze communist action and gave our country thirty years of social peace. It is thanks to this peace that France was able to heal the wounds caused by war and insurrection, to develop its material prosperity (for the greater good of the working class, whose interests are interdependent with those of the French community).

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX | 175

Machine Translated by Google

and become rich enough to become, before the Great War, the creditor of the whole world.

It is surprising that we no longer find this saving law in our Code, at a time when its existence would be more than ever legitimized by the audacity and violence exercised on our territory by the communists in the pay of Moscow. It is not a bad idea to recall the occasion on which it disappeared.

During the great Dreyfusist crisis, the left-wing parties, engaged in the work of revision, needed the help of the revolutionaries and made a pact with them. On the day of the Triumph of the Republic, the highest authorities of the State appeared surrounded by red and black flags, and drowned in a flood of demonstrators who shouted the Carmagnole.

The Waldeck-Rousseau ministry paid for this alliance with a betrayal of the Society. On July 1, 1901, in the same legislative text that outlawed religious associations, it carelessly inserted, in Article 21, eight words by virtue of which the law of March 14, 1872 was repealed. Most of those who voted for this article did not even realize that this law was the one that had, for thirty years, imposed a victorious barrier on the International.

From then on, the Second International was able to succeed the First, and that was the end of social peace in our country.

Let us say loudly that the only logical sanction for the communist agitation, which so deeply troubles our country, must be the reestablishment of the law of 1872, repealed without debate, thanks to a shameful sleight of hand. For a few –

With detailed changes, intended to modernize the spirit, this law should regain its place in our Code. And anyone who is not in favor of its re-enactment cannot call themselves truly anti-communist.

_ SALLUSTE

(To be continued.)

THE SECRET ORIGINS OF BOLSHEVISM

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX

By the beginning of June 1871, the Paris Commune was defeated; several of its leaders and thousands of its defenders had perished in the struggle; thousands more insurgents were on the road to deportation; London, Brussels, and Geneva were teeming with refugees. Surrounded by general execration after so many crimes, the sections of the Internationale were forced to hide carefully in France; and abroad, to tone down their propaganda. Clearly, all hopes of success for the communists were dashed for a long time. nn |

This state of affairs had an immediate impact on the authority that Karl Marx had enjoyed until then in his party.

Victorious, he would have been obeyed more servilely than ever, with that shade of idolatry that Lenin was to experience, half a century later, after the paradoxical success of his insurrection.

Machine Translated by Google

tion of October 1917. Defeated, a formidable opposition was unleashed, on the contrary, against him. Even those who had been, in France, his most immediate collaborators attributed the final failure of the movement to the absence of the leader (which was perhaps true), and also to his despotism, which

1. See the Revue de Paris of June 1, 15 and July 1.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARK 427

admitted neither advice nor delays. He was accused of having transformed the International into a kind of absolute monarchy and of having compromised Communism in public opinion by his sympathy for Bismarck.

It was not from the ranks of the secret organization over which Marx had presided for a quarter of a century that these recriminations were heard. Those who composed it, carefully recruited, nourished by the master's doctrine and subjected to strict discipline, were ready to bear without flinching many other failures than that of the Commune. But the members of the International itself, a vast flock gathered in a few months in the workshops and popular meetings, did not have the cohesion of Marx's first collaborators. As quick to panic as to enthusiasm, they had been, moreover, grouped around a vague program, full of democratic declarations, and they would have rebelled, had they known it, against the secret government of the International. Knowing only the official statutes, voted in 1864 at Saint-Martin's

Hall, they complained bitterly that they were not being applied and demanded that they not be deviated from in the future.

In London, where there were many refugees, the presence of Karl Marx and the respect with which the members of his general staff continued to surround him prevented the opposition from making too rapid progress. In Belgium, it soon took on a more overt character. But it was in Switzerland that it took the form of an organized offensive against the authority of the neo-messianist pontiff. This took place under the impetus of an old antagonist of the latter, Michael Bakunin.

Everything separated these two men, who had nothing in common but a love of the Revolution: race (Bakunin was a Russian gentleman of good stock), character (Bakunin was as fiery and impressionable as Marx was cold and calculating), methods (Bakunin believed only in eloquence, which stirs up the crowds, and despised the devious maneuvers of the man he called the German Jew).

Born in Torschok, in the Tver province, in 1814, Mikhail Bakunin was the same age as Karl Marx. A student at the Military Cadet School in St. Petersburg, he was between

428 THE PARIS REVIEW

in the Guard artillery with the rank of sword-bearer ensign. But he remained in the army for a short time. The demagogic doctrines, which were beginning to make their way in Russia, were disseminated in the officer corps by secret military societies, similar to those which had provoked

Machine Translated by Google

in 1825 the Decabrist movement. Bakunin first joined one of them. Then, despairing of seeing a coup de main triumph under the vigilant and authoritarian reign of Nicholas I, he obtained his leave and retired to his father's land, where he nourished himself with revolutionary literature, whose Carbonarist sales were flooding Europe at that time. These readings, combined with his ardent temperament, completed his insurrectional training, one of the most characteristic that ever existed, even during this 19th century which saw so many artisans of barricades.

At the age of twenty-seven, Bakunin decided to get closer to the Carbonarist centers where efforts were being made to translate into action

the doctrines made fashionable by Mazzini and Young Europe.

He left for Berlin, under the guise of studying German philosophy there. But in the spring of 1842, he settled in Dresden, one of the principal centers of Young Germany, and joined this organization. From this period date his relations with Arnold Riige!, who opened the columns of the Franco-German Annals for him, to which Bakunin collaborated under the pseudonym of "Jules Elysard."

Suspected by the Saxon police, Bakunin had to flee to Paris at the beginning of 1843, where he became the most active agent of Carbonarism among the Russian and Polish émigrés. Very advanced from a social point of view, but more of a poet of the barricades than a theoretician in the manner of Karl Marx, he dreamed of a socialist or communist society, the plan of which he never managed to clearly define. But the first sound of arms attracted him and inspired the wildest audacities: thus, when disorders were fomented in Switzerland by socialist groups, he hastened to Zurich and took an active part in the movement.

1. See, on the subject of Rüge, the beginning of this study, in the Revue de Paris of June

HENRY HEINE AND KARL MARX 429

However, the German, French, and Swiss police had reported the activities of the former ensign of the Guard to St. Petersburg. The Russian government withdrew his permission to travel abroad, which had been granted to him in 1841, and ordered him to return to Russia immediately. Bakunin was careful not to do so; therefore, his property was confiscated. This blow hit him all the harder because he had not taken care, upon leaving Russia, to realize part of his fortune.

In a similar circumstance, the half-Jewish agitator Herzen, whom we mentioned at the beginning of this study, had shown himself to be more astute. To survive, Bakunin had to return to Paris and accept collaboration with La Reforme, an extreme left-wing newspaper founded by Flocon, one of the leaders of French Carbonarism.

It was around this time that he met Karl Marx, who, like him, was part of the editorial staff of the Franco-German Annals. Their contact was devoid of cordiality: like many Russian revolutionaries, Bakunin, deeply Slavic, professed a discreet contempt for the Israelites. This contempt turned into hostility when Marx and his neo-messiahist friends succeeded in ousting Arnold Rüge from the leadership of German Carbonarism. Between the former Russian officer and the German-Jewish philosopher engaged in a duel that was not to be

Machine Translated by Google

only end with Bakunin's life. Sensing that he had a worthy adversary there,

Marx did not hesitate, at the beginning of 1848, to threaten him with assassination if he persisted in opposing his policy. Bakunin simply shrugged his shoulders in the face of this threat. The assassination was to be attempted, however, but in another form: that of slander, as we will see later.

In 1847, at the time of the famous Banquets campaign organized against the government of Louis-Philippe, Bakunin had delivered an incendiary toast, in which he evoked the Polish Revolution of 1831: the Russian government took advantage of this to obtain his expulsion from France, at the same time as a reward of 10,000 rubles was promised to anyone who would facilitate his arrest. A few weeks later, the February Revolution of 1848 allowed Bakunin to return to Paris and his former editor-in-chief, Flocon, obtained for which from the provisional government the necessary funds to undertake a real revolutionary crusade in central Europe.

430 THE PARIS REVIEW

At the end of March 1848, he was found in Prague, attending the Slavist Congress, and taking an active part in the bloody disturbances which resulted from it. When the movement was stifled, he was one of the last to flee and managed to reach Berlin, where the situation was hardly less revolutionary: there he took part in all the popular movements, and, having lost his battle, was again obliged to disappear.

In Dresden, where he had taken refuge, he was expelled as undesirable; he wandered for several months across Germany, then returned secretly to Dresden and hid there until the insurrection of May 1849, in which he played a leading role and distinguished himself by his undeniable courage. Once again obliged to flee to escape repression, he left with Heubner and Roekel; but he was recognized at Chemnitz and arrested on the night of May 9-10. There began for him a long and painful captivity, during which death hung over his head three times.

Imprisoned first in Dresden, then in Keenigstein, Bakunin was condemned to death in May 1850 by Saxon judges.

But the year that had passed since the disturbances had calmed things down, and the death sentence was commuted by the sovereign to life imprisonment. It was also thought that this pardon would not spare him the gallows: the Austrian government was, in fact, demanding Bakunin's extradition so that he could be tried as the author of the disturbances in Prague in 1848.

Extradited, the Russian revolutionary appeared before an Austrian court-martial in Prague in May 1851 and was again sentenced to death.

He owed his life to the demands of the Russian government. The latter was curious, in fact, to instruct the trial of an agitator of this stature, and it obtained his handing over to them.

Transferred to St. Petersburg, Bakunin was tried in the Schlüsselburg fortress and sentenced to death for the third time in September 1851.

Machine Translated by Google

The death penalty being officially abolished in Russia, during the time of absolutism, capital executions were very common there.

HENRY HEINE AND KARL MARX 451

rare. The Tsar therefore commuted Bakunin's sentence to hard labor for life. But he was sent to a Siberian penal colony, where he spent about ten years, and where he would have died if Alexander Herzen had not undertaken, from London, to organize his escape. This succeeded and Bakunin arrived in England at the beginning of 1862.

This was the time when Marx was working to lay the foundations of the International, on the occasion of the visit of the workers' delegations to the Universal Exhibition in London, which we mentioned at the beginning of this Study. Two years later, under the pretext of protesting against Russian tyranny in Poland, the meeting at St. Martin's Hall had taken place, and the International of Workers was officially founded.

It was hardly possible to forbid Bakunin from joining it, since the association, in appearance, was open to all good wills and Marx intended to play only a secondary role in it. His membership was therefore registered; but Marx undertook to get rid of him, at the same time as of Major Wolu, through whom Mazzini had been represented at the first meeting of the International.

The method used by the pontiff of neo-messianism was the circulation of a rumor that one cannot fail to find odious, even when it was addressed to one of the most dangerous revolutionaries of the 19th century: "Bakunin," Karl Marx had his allies whisper, "Bakunin was an agent of the Tsarist police, charged with informing them about the international revolutionary movement." He cited two pieces of evidence to support this statement: Bakunin's escape from Siberia, and a mysterious file, containing proof of treason, which was, Marx asserted, in the possession of George Sand.

The Russian agitator finally discovered the origin of the rumors circulated against him in revolutionary circles, and he had a painful explanation with Karl Marx for the latter. The mysterious dossier proved to be empty of the announced evidence; as for a possible role as a secret agent, the dangers run, three death sentences and thirteen years of detention or hard labor spoke loudly enough that one could not take the accusation seriously. Karl Marx had very clearly the bottom in this attempt at moral assassination, more serious than the threat of physical assassination that he had formulated in 1848.

432 THE PARIS REVIEW

Ko

The hostility that Bakunin professed for Marx did not diminish, as one can imagine, after this adventure. He did not, however, cease to be a member of the International. But he entered it without renouncing his personal methods, which did not accord hardly clashed with that of Marx, and he continued to have, within the Communist Party, an independent action, in opposition to the orders coming from London. We saw, in the third part of this study, that at the time of the war of 1870, Bakunin had declared himself in favor of resistance to the bitter end and the German invasion, while Marx proved to be a Germanophile.

Machine Translated by Google

Having taken refuge in Geneva after the failure of the Paris Commune in Lyon, where he was living, Bakunin could not fail to join the movement of discontent provoked against Marx by the debacle of the insurrection. He gave this state of mind a concrete form by forming, with other discontented people, including Zhukovsky, Benoit Malon and Jules Guesde, a protest section of the International. A manifesto, written by Bakunin, was addressed to all the national branches of the Association, blaming Karl Marx for the failure of the Paris Commune and demanding an end to the exorbitant power of a single man.

The means proposed was the loyal and sincere application of the Statutes of 1864, the International being no more than a simple federation of autonomous groups, which would freely establish its doctrine, instead of receiving it from the hands of an infallible prophet.

This manifesto, falling in the midst of the despair of the proscribed and the general malaise of the national branches, had an immense impact. The protest section of Geneva became, in a few weeks, the center of a grievous correspondence, and Karl Marx felt the Association that he had, until then, ruled as absolute master, slipping from his hands. The state of

HENRY HEINE AND KARL MARX 433

The manifesto became such that the annual Congress, if it had been normally convened, would not have failed to pronounce the deposition of the neo-messianist leader. So the latter hastened—

he announced that there would be no Congress in 1871, and that it would be replaced by a simple conference, held in London, from September 13 to 23.

Nothing serious for Karl Marx's authority could come out of this cramped assembly: 23 present. It included, in fact, 13 members of the General Council, entirely devoted to Marx, and only 10 delegates from the national branches. A representative of the protesting section of Geneva, Robin, made the trip from London, but was not admitted.

Far from weakening Karl Marx's position, the London Conference approved his conduct and decided, by a majority, to further increase the powers of the General Council, that is, of Marx himself. He would henceforth have the power to admit to the International, or to exclude, whomever he saw fit; he could assemble or prorogue the Congress at his pleasure...

Against this resolution, adopted by a majority already acquired, Bastelica, delegate of the South of France, and Anselmo Lorenzo, Spanish delegate, raised an energetic protest.

Bakunin immediately took up the gauntlet thrown down by Marx. Two months had not passed when he held a protest conference in Sonvillier (Switzerland), in which

Machine Translated by Google

most of the sections of French-speaking Switzerland. He spoke there, along with Jules Guesde and James Guillaume, and called for the Statutes of 1864, the autonomy of the sections and the freedom to discuss doctrines. Before separating, the Jura Federation of the International was founded, and it was decided to appeal to all the national branches to ask them to adhere to a program of internal reform of the Association. | e

Many endorsements were immediately received.

First, that of the Russian branch, sent by Kropotkin.

Then those of the branches of Spain, Belgium and Holland, which joined in full. In majority, the sections of France and Italy in turn adopted the point of view of Bakunin. Only the English-speaking or German-speaking countries remained loyal to the neo-messianist general staff...

July 15, 1928, 3

434 days | THE PARIS REVIEW

Karl Marx's fury was extreme when he saw his old adversary thus setting up altar against altar and undermining the very foundations of the discipline of the International. To punish those who rallied to Bakunin, he did not hesitate to employ methods which dug even deeper the gulf which separated him from the malcontents. Thus his son-in-law Paul Lafargue, having tried in vain to found a new Spanish branch in place of the one which had defected, published the list of all the Spanish leaders of the International, which delivered them to the police of their country. In France, a delegate of Karl Marx, Mr. Dentraygues, having been unable to bring the sections of the South back to orthodoxy, denounced them to the police of Mr. Thiers, an incident which was reported and commented on with the violence that one can imagine in several writings of Jules Guesde, published in Switzerland.

As a result, the conflict that existed within the International, since the failure of the Paris Commune, took on a passionate form that led to the prediction of a definitive schism.

However, all the dissident sections were demanding a Congress of the Association. There had not been one since the one in Basle in 1869, and the discontented were discussing the advisability of calling one themselves, when

Karl Marx decided that the delegates of the sections would meet in The Hague from September 22 to 29, 1872. He announced that he would attend the Congress in person. This was an unprecedented event, because the founder of the International had never taken part in these periodic meetings: a mediocre orator, he feared weakening

his prestige by verbally defending his program, and left this task to more reliable and gifted disciples. Moreover, for some years now, asthma had been tormenting him. But it seemed to him that, this time, he could not shirk the obligation of being present.

At least, he spared nothing to ensure a docile majority. The twenty-one members of the General Council, who had the right to vote, traveled in full to The Hague.

Machine Translated by Google

A letter from Marx to Kigelmann, his correspondent in Hanover, invited him to bring as many German delegates as possible

2%
HENRY HEINE AND KARL MARX 435

possible (it was the only element unswervingly faithful to the neo-messianist leader). Another letter to Sorge, from New York, told him to bring blank powers, in the name of the American sections, the holders to be found at the last moment in the immediate entourage of the leader. For the rest of the mandates, the General Council engaged in a shameful rigging: we will have an idea of this from the fact that the 398 Spanish sections, with 80,000 members, which had en bloc renounced Marx, were given one vote, while a single section, with nine members in all, which Paul Lafargue, Marx's son-in-law, had formed in Spain, was also given one vote. Never were more liberties taken with the principle of universal suffrage.

By using these methods, the theoretician of Communism, who in 1872 did not even have the tenth part of the International behind him, nevertheless had three-quarters of the votes in the Congress in advance... The Italians, indignant, refused to participate. The Spanish and

Jura federations decided to attend the Congress and defend their thesis, but not to take part in the votes, these being acquired in advance and devoid of any significance.

The supporters of Karl Marx: Engels, Paul Lafargue, Charles

Longuet, Kigelmann, Sorge, moreover, were very little concerned with the universal sufrage]. When James Guillaume, in the name of the Jura Federation, accused the revolutionary pontiff of bullying the majority of the Party, Sorge replied brutally: The majority matters little; what the Party needs is a head, a strong head, with a lot of brains in it.

And most of the Congressmen, turning to Marx, gave him a long ovation... (If there ever comes to be, and this is a very hypothetical thing, any good from Communism, it will be this reconciliation of the popular masses with the principle of authority, which the philosophers of the 17th century had, it was believed, undermined forever).

Not for a moment was the decision of Congress in doubt.

A three-quarters majority approved the doctrine and actions of Karl Marx, further strengthened the powers of the General Council, which became omnipotent, and pronounced the exclusion of Bakunin and James Guillaume, described as agents of division.

436 = THE PARIS REVIEW

sion. To protect the International from their future undertakings, a final vote transferred the seat of the General Council to New York, while deciding that the cash register and archives would remain in London in the hands of Marx. This was recognition officially born the latter's absolutism over what remained of the party. N

Machine Translated by Google

Although the leader's prestige was safeguarded by these radical measures, neither he nor his entourage were under any illusions about the seriousness of the situation. In a letter to Sorge on December 14, 1872, Engels frankly acknowledged that the game was lost in France, Belgium, Spain, and Italy.

Indeed, at the end of the Hague Congress, the minority delegates met, signed a protest highlighting the irregularities committed and decided to call for a regular Congress. This met in Geneva in September 1873, and brought together the delegates of seven federations: France, England, Belgium, Holland, Jura, Spain, Italy. Only the German-speaking countries and America had left the appeal of Bakunin's friends unanswered.

The Congress took as its organizational basis the Statutes of 1864, never applied by Karl Marx; it decided to abolish the General Council and replace it with a Federal Bureau, a simple liaison body, without doctrinal authority or disciplinary powers. The federations were declared fully autonomous, each being responsible in turn for convening the annual Congress: & the Belgian Federation was entrusted with the care of the Congress of 1874. In short, the International continued to exist, but without its founder, and removed from the direction of the occult groups which had used it for the execution of neo-messianist designs. It was the triumph of Bakunin and the crowd movements over Karl Marx and the spirit of conspiracy. 3 N

Marx's supporters, however, had made a supreme effort by convening, in Geneva also, in front of the dissident Congress, an orthodox Congress. Until the last moment, they had hoped that certain federations would break away.

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 437

of the Federalist International to rally to the Unitary International.

But the delegates of Germany, Austria and German Switzerland and the losers of the mandates of the United States, had alone responded to the call of the General Council.

It was still necessary to rig, as at The Hague, to have a majority in this minority, as the correspondence between Becker (representative of Karl Marx) and Sorge proves: If the fabrication of delegates had not succeeded, he explains, we would naturally have made it impossible to hold the Congress, by a retreat difficult to motivate (letter of September 2, 1873). But the fabricated delegates proved docile: they pronounced the exclusion from the International of the federations which sat opposite, at Bakunin's, maintained the seat of the General Council in New York, and also chose New York as the venue for the next Congress, set for 1875.

Marxism, which most of Europe had escaped, took refuge in distant and uncontrollable America to maintain some prestige.

Such a transplant fooled no one, and Karl Marx himself understood that the time had come to disband the troops he had raised at the meeting at Saint-Martin's Hall. Would he not still have the secret organization of Communism, as it had existed in his hands since 1844, and, behind it, the neo-messianist conspirators, obstinate in their dream of destroying the Society that had emerged?

Machine Translated by Google

of Christianity?... Also, the day after the double Congress of Geneva, he wrote to Sorge, on September 23, 1873: According to my way of considering the European situation, it is absolutely necessary to temporarily leave the apparent organization of the "Internationale v" to the background. Events will act of themselves for its resurrection in an improved form. In the meantime, we must not let slip from our hands the relations with the most remarkable individuals in the various countries.

And Engels, a year later, writing to Sorge (letter of September 12, 1874), said to him: |

The "International" is absolutely finished and over. And that's good... The only country where one could still do something in its name was America. Now the prestige is gone.

433 = THE PARIS REVIEW

there too, and all the effort to breathe new life into it would be madness and a waste of strength. The "International" has dominated ten years of European history, from a certain angle, from the angle where the future lies, and it can proudly look back on its work. But it has survived in its old form...

I believe that the next International, after Marx's writings have been active for a few years, will be communist and will establish our principles.

Such confessions would suffice, in the absence of all the evidence we have gathered in this study, to establish the eminently conspiratorial character of the Marxist movement, and to prove that, from its origin, it was nothing but an immense mystification of the proletariat. The latter, admitted to collaborate in the "apparent form" of the Internationale, always remained, in fact, ignorant of the "old form" which was the neo-messianist secret society. a |

o

The letters of Marx and Engels sounded the death knell for the apparent organization of the International. On July 15, 1876, the Philadelphia Conference recorded its death: unanimously, the thirty members present (25 members of the General Council, 14 American delegates and 1 German delegate) noted that for a long time the central office had not received any contributions, which showed that the International practically ceases to exist.

This dissolution was interpreted throughout the world as an admission of Marx's defeat. In fact, the latter had maneuvered perfectly, and he gained an immediate advantage from the dismissal of his visible army: his adversaries, united against him, divided on everything else, suddenly lost the only common ground that existed between them. Their Federalist International began to disintegrate at the precise moment when Marx's Unitarian International ceased to exist. The Congresses it held, Brussels (1874), Bern (1875), Ghent (1877), and London (1878), only served to highlight the divergent tendencies and personal quarrels of the dissidents. Each one improvised himself as head of a school, with hastily formulated doctrines

Machine Translated by Google

HENRY HEINE AND KARL MARX 439

looted from the writings of a predecessor, and, little by little, by the very force of circumstances, the Marxist theses reappeared, without the name of the author, and regained their former success. On the terrain of propaganda, the federations, deprived of the formidable leadership of the revolutionary pontiff, were marking time in immense impotence. Perhaps only Bakunin would have been capable of rallying these scattered forces and giving them a single impulse and a program of action. But, immobilized by illness since 1873, he died in Berne on July 1, 1876, and with him had disappeared the only rival capable of making Karl Marx's star pale.

As early as 1877, the latter, who had not been careful, as he wrote to Sorge, to let relations with the most remarkable individuals in the various countries fall from his hands, judged the time to have come to maneuver the dust of the autonomous Federations, by winning over the leaders, divided among themselves to the point of anarchy. He employed for this purpose his usual emissaries, who knew how to bring into play the most diverse springs of the human soul. In a letter to Sorge, dated November 5, 1880, Marx points out the complete triumph of this tactic and specifies the results obtained:

You have no doubt noticed, he wrote, thanks above all to Jules Guesde, who has gone over to our side, and to the works of my son-in-law Paul Lafargue, 'Egalit& is the first true 'French workers' newspaper, in the broad sense of the word. Benoit Malon also had to (we were enemies, however) make a profession of modern scientific socialism in the Revue Socialiste, that is to say 'German! Shortly after, Jules Guesde came to London to write with me, Engels and Lafargue, an electoral program for the workers in the next general elections.

Except for a few trifles which, despite my protest, Guesde found it necessary to throw at the French workers, such as the fixing of a legal minimum wage, this very short piece is composed, apart from a few introductory words in which the communist goal is defined, of demands which really and spontaneously came out of the workers' movement. This was a

1. This word, in Karl Marx, always veils the true word, which is: "neo-messianist socialism"

440 TT PARIS REVIEW

a coup de force to force the French workers out of their cloud of phraseology to bring them back to the ground of reality...

. Emancipation, which has been published in Lyon for a few days, will be the organ of the Workers' Party, which was formed on the basis of German Socialism.

We have had and we also have our champions in the camp of the adversaries themselves, that is to say in the radical camp. Theisz is in charge of the workers' question in | Intransigent, organ of Rochefort. Like most of the "thinking" French socialists, he arrived as a Proudhonist from London, after the defeat of the Commune; there, he was absolutely trans-

Machine Translated by Google

shaped by his personal relationships with me.

On the other hand, my son-in-law Charles Longilet, having given up his position as professor at King's College, has returned to Paris... where he has become one of the most influential editors of Clemenceau's Justice, leader of the extreme left. He has worked so well that Clemenceau, who only last April spoke out against socialism and for a republican conception in the American style, has just passed over from us in his last speech delivered in Marseilles against Gambetta, both in terms of general trends and in terms of essential points.

Whether or not he does what he promises, in any case he has introduced our element into the radical party, whose newspapers now comically admire, in the mouth of Clemenceau, what they ignored or mocked as the slogan of the Workers' Party.

| don't need to tell you (for you know French chauvinism) that the secret strings

by which these leaders, from Guesde and Malon to Clemenceau, were set in motion, must remain between us. We must not speak of them. When one wants to act among the French gentlemen, one must do so anonymously so as not to shock national sentiment.

Despite these recommendations for discretion, Karl Marx could not, however, refrain from recounting, with mocking joy, the details of the purchases of conscience that he announced to his representative in the United States: they were not a mystery to any of his intimates.

For Benoit Malon, it was very simple. The man

HENRI HEINE AND KARL MARX 441

was poor; he had suffered cruelly in exile; he lived by his pen, poorly, because socialist newspapers were rare at the time, and paid little. On the other hand, if he had shared the resentment of the vanquished of the Commune against Karl Marx, he did not deny his intellectual superiority. A few subsidies, skillfully handed out, softened his anger: he agreed to return to the Marxist fold and brought back a good number of sheep with him.

The case of Jules Guesde was more complex. He had been, during the schism of the International, the most violent enemy of Karl Marx, whom he accused of having delivered the federations of Spain and the south of France to the police. After the death of Bakunin, he seemed designated to succeed him as leader of revolutionary socialism. But anarchy reigned in the Federalist International, everyone spoke loudly and Guesde did not obtain the rank and influence to which he considered he was entitled. He was angry. Without visible rancor when it came to a result to be obtained, Marx then sent one of his collaborators, Hirsch, who undertook the siege of the patron and told him of the high esteem in which the founder of the International had continued to hold him despite their disagreement. He showed him Marx, sick, old, aspiring to choose Guesde as his successor. He did so much that, as we saw in Marx's letter to Sorge, Guesde came to London... There he found, at Marx's, this Dentraygues, who had delivered the sections of the South to Thiers' police. Ambition spoke: Guesde shook hands with Dentraygues and became the docile disciple of the author of Kapital...

When he had made Jules Guesde his docile instrument, Karl Marx ordered all the remaining Marxists in France to rally around him: and this was the creation of the Second International in Le Havre in 1880, under the name of the French Workers' Party. Barely a few dozen sections existed, rather unevenly distributed across the country, and a long work of preparation would have been necessary.

But the neo-messianist prophet felt his strength waning.

442 ILA PARIS REVIEW

and he wanted, before dying, to see the second wave of assault leave. This time he sinned through impatience. |

The first shock was not very encouraging.

Jules Guesde, inaugurating a tactic often imitated subsequently, had offered all socialist organizations existing in France to constitute a united proletarian front.

It was a failure. A National Congress did indeed meet in Reims on October 30, 1881; but the memories of 1870 were still alive in France, and the Germanophile role of Marx was present in everyone's minds. An overwhelming majority rejected the communist program, defended by Guesde, and adopted as its organ

The Proletarian, by Paul Brousse, a determined opponent of Marx and the Bloody Revolution. Brousse's program was acclaimed, formulated as follows: "We must divide the goal until it is possible!" And the Marxists had no other recourse than to brand their adversaries as possibilists, much as they call them reformists today.

In October 1882, at the Saint-Etienne Congress, tensions between the two tendencies worsened: the Marxists, having wanted to maintain their point of view, were excluded by 80 votes to 24 and forced to go and hold a separate Congress in Roanne. The Second International was off to a bad start.

This failure deeply affected Karl Marx and hastened his end. For several years, the asthma attacks from which he suffered

– souUrait &had become more numerous and more violent:

He made them even worse by constantly smoking atrocious black tobacco, for which he had a particular affection – the only material passion ever known to this deviant of the mind. Erasing cerebral work and a sedentary life completed his exhaustion. He died on March 14, 1883, thinking only of his work, and appointing Frederick Engels as his cContinuator.

In the last hours of his life, Marx seemed to regain the confidence and serenity that had somewhat abandoned him since the disastrous outcome of his struggle against Bakunin. He died a prophet, with the majesty of a Nabi of Israel, evoking, during his last conversations, the memory of his native Qhelto, of that Germany which now provided Marxism with its most faithful battalions.

HENRY HEINE AND KARL MARX 443

Machine Translated by Google

And it was not only Germany that was coming to neo-messianism: the Commune had held Paris for the first time; it had covered it in blood and half-burned it; it would hold it once again! Marx was also looking towards Russia.

Entering eternity like a Roman Caesar in his apotheosis, the dying Karl Marx doubtless foresaw the bloody sacrifices that his

Russian followers, returned to the barbaric ages of Humanity, would one day offer him.

"Bloody sacrifices" must be taken here not only figuratively, but literally. Does not the June 1924 Pravda report that a Russian communist named Putiatine brought his own nine-year-old daughter to a statue of Karl Marx, chosen as the site of the sacrifice. There, after having evoked the memory of the pontiff of Communism, he cut his child's throat. When questioned about the motives for his act, he replied that he was aware of having acted well, because the little girl persisted, despite his orders, in attending church, and even in praying, in the evening, before a small icon of the Holy Virgin, which he had found hidden under her pillow.

Xx%4

So Karl Marx passed away, as plague and fire pass away, and nothing changed in neo-messianism: after Heinrich Heine, there was Marx; after Marx, there was Engels.

Doctrines of death are as tenacious as infectious diseases.

As if fortune had wanted to brighten up the beginnings of Engels's principality, it provided him with the opportunity for a resounding success: France was then in the grip of a violent anti-religious campaign, unleashed by the left-wing parties, finally firmly established in power. Congregations were driven out, their property confiscated, and, as was necessary to apply the new legislation to them, a docile magistracy, the irremovability of magistrates was suspended and those whose conscience spoke too loudly were removed. All this was not without resistance, sometimes violent. To silence the Catholics, one of the most characteristic men from the new a. M. Waldeck-Rousseau, Minister of

444 THE PARIS REVIEW.

The Interior Ministry proposed a tacit alliance to the revolutionaries: the red bands would take to the streets, demonstrate, and commit anti-clerical violence; and, in exchange for their support, the government of the Republic would grant them a law exempting workers' unions from common law. This was the end of the great drama of the Commune and the beginning of a campaign of workers' agitation.

Eloquent words and a great expression of love for the people masked the true scope of this initiative. In reality, the law of March 21, 1884, the result of Mr. Waldeck-Rousseau's negotiations with the revolutionaries-

tionaries, marked a formidable deviation from the ideal

Machine Translated by Google

corporative. It gave the workers' unions all rights, facilitated all agitations, made the founding of the Labour Exchanges and a CGT inevitable; but it forbade them from owning anything other than a meeting place and a library... The proletariat had to remain poor so that it would be docile to the incitement of its leaders. We saw Napoleon III commit, through misunderstood philanthropy, a big mistake, and the country bear the penalty; the Waldeck-Rousseau law, on the other hand, was a perfectly conscious political and social crime.

And this crime bore fruit. The following years were marked by a tremendous sharpening of workers' unrest throughout the country, by bloody strikes, and conflicts with the Army. As a result, the resistance encountered by Karl Marx and Guesde during the attempt to found the Second International in 1880 began to weaken. For embittered, overexcited minds, when the French became the enemy, the German was not far from being an ally.

This was clearly seen on July 14, 1889. On that day, chosen because it was the centenary of the storming of the Bastille, the French Workers' Party opened its arms to the Marxists of Germany and Austria at a Congress held in Paris, in the Salle Peirelle.

Time and the Waldeck-Rousseau law had done their work on the French workers: the German disciples of Marx, Liebknecht, Bebel, Bernstein, Wolmar, Adler

senior, were received with acclamations... In vain, a former member of the Commune, Protot, who had not forgotten 1870, addressed the following solemn warning to the French Proletariat: Mareeism is the salaried agent of "Germany: flee its flag and its supporters. Its true flag is the black eagle of Prussia which, three times in seventy-five years, tore the heart of France. Its supporters, the delegates to the Mareeist Congress of Paris, are ninety enemies of our country, among whom are sixty officers and non-commissioned officers of the Imperial Landwehr. Do not enter their ranks! In the name of the French Fatherland, in the name of the Social Republic, do not mislead your see on an auxiliary of the German Chancellery.

Vain warnings, how no one listened to me anymore! The Second International was born; it already had eight Marxist deputies in the French Chamber; it was going to clarify its doctrine and verify its progress each year in the Congresses of Halle (1890), Brussels (1891), Marseille (1892), Zurich (1893). More intransigent than the First International ever was, it excommunicated anyone who did not accept Capital as the Gospel and the Diet of the Proletariat as a means of government.

When Engels died in 1895, neo-messianism had a formidable power in the world, capable of disturbing all states, and perhaps of conquering one: this is what finally happened in Russia, where the saintly work of Lenin realized, a third of a century after the death of Karl Marx, the most terrible dreams of the communist prophet.

SALLUSTE

Machine Translated by Google

JUDAISM AND SOGIALISM –

Our collaborator, Rabbi Liber, following the publication of Sallust's articles on Henry Heine and Karl Marx, sent us the study that we are about to read. The Revue de Paris, which is only concerned with shedding light on the controversial points of history, welcomes Mr. Liber's communication.

to which Sallust himself will respond in the next issue 8 D. IL. R.).

In a series of articles which the Revue de Paris began publishing in its issue of June 1, 1928, Sallust claimed to establish, under the guise of illuminating "the secret origins of Bolshevism": 1. that Karl Marx, the leader of the First International, drew "the inspiration and material aid which enabled him to formulate the program of communism and to propagate it throughout the world" from an "occult force!"; 20. that the secret association in question was the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science; 30. that the intermediary between this Union and Karl Marx was none other than the poet Henri Heine, the Paris correspondent of the said Union.

However improbable they may seem at first sight, it is important to subject these sensational assertions to critical examination. | 6

1. Unless otherwise indicated, the quotations between a are taken from the article of Sall

608 THE PARIS REVIEW

THE SOCIETY FOR CIVILIZATION AND SCIENCE | OF THE JEWS

The Society referred to by Sallust did indeed exist and is well known to historians of Judaism. Its statutes and works have been published; in short, there is nothing hidden about it.

Only Sallust (or his informant) altered its character and even its title. It was not called "Union of Jews for Civilization and Science," but "Society for the Civilization and Science of the Jews," in German Verein fur Kultur und Wissenschaft der Juden. Learn the value of a word put in its place: the association so unexpectedly called into question was not a "society of Jews for civilization and science," but a "society for the civilization and science of the Jews," that is to say, its aim was not to propagate among Christians some kind of Jewish civilization or science, but to propagate among the Jews science and civilization, in short, modern culture. There is no need to insist on the importance of the distinction. It is so little the same thing that it is rather the opposite.

Machine Translated by Google

But it will not be useless, since the "Society for the Civilization and Science of the Jews" is also of interest to the history of modern Judaism – of Judaism reintegrated into the society from which it had been excluded for centuries – to explain the genesis and the aim of this association, founded in Berlin on November 7, 1819. | .

The Jews of Prussia were then going through a political and moral crisis. The Revolution and even Napoleon had raised hopes of liberation in Germany. Under French influence, several German states had recognized the rights of the Jews more or less liberally. Even Prussia, rejuvenating itself–

1. On this society and on Leopold Zunz, see Ad. Strodtmann, F. Heine's Leben und Werke, vol. 1 (3rd edition, 1884), pp. 275–335; the entry by D. Kaufmann on Zunz in 1 Allgemeine Deutsche Biographie, vol. XLIV, pp. 490 et seq., as well as the historians of modern Judaism, Graetz, M. Philipson, Dubnow.

JUDAISM AND SOCIALISM 609

born in the aftermath of Jena, had half-emancipated its Jewish inhabitants, and the latter had fought with patriotic ardor at Waterloo. But the European reaction that followed the fall of Napoleon began by attacking the Jews; the realist policy of the Holy Alliance and the romantic infatuation with the Germanic Middle Ages conspired to push the Jews away from the State and society; anti-Jewish disturbances even broke out in August 1819 in several cities. The cultivated Jews, those who had already tasted the fruits of civilization, were disoriented; many were baptized to escape their false position: the baptismal certificate served as their "entrance ticket to European culture," in the words of Heine, who himself was to be swept along by the current. As for the working classes, since the State. If a Christian were to lose interest in them, they risked being thrown back into the ignorance and superstition from which Mendelssohn and his disciples had begun to draw them.

It was then that a small group of Berlin Jews resolved to save the situation by rallying around Judaism the forces that were going to waste, to reawaken among the elite the feelings of fidelity and dignity, and to assign to it the task of spreading modern civilization and knowledge among the less favored coreligionists.

useful. It was, in short, as the statutes explain, to reform Judaism to bring "the Jews into harmony with the times and the States in which they live."

Nothing, absolutely nothing, allows us to assert that the society pursued an occult goal, opposed to this one, and that it "aimed above all to introduce specifically Jewish ideas into the civilization born of Christianity which would gradually bring about its dissolution." Far from wanting to introduce into Christianity the so-called subversive ideas of Judaism, the founders of the society dreamed of regenerating Judaism through contact with the civilization born of Christianity (or rather associated with it).

Everything we know about these founders – and they are not unknown – excludes the hypothesis of revolutionary activity. 1 August 1928. 5

Machine Translated by Google

610 ILA PARIS REVIEW

whether it was a liberationist or not, secret. The president, Edouard Gans (1727–1839), was a jurist very keen on Hegel; his knowledge of Judaism was rather mediocre and he knew Roman law better than Talmudic law.

On the other hand, Leopold Zunz (1794–1886) is one of the greatest Jewish scholars; he is the founder of the science of Judaism.

An impeccable scholar, a perceptive critic, a substantial and nervous writer, he had a proud and susceptible mind, a haughty and touchy character, which kept him away from political agitations. A Hebrew scholar and preacher, if "he was led to renounce twice the functions of rabbi in Berlin (1822), then in Prague (1835)", it was not because of some particular ideas, like Pinsinus Sallust, but solely because he was too proud to accept certain compromises. He explained this in a private letter written in Prague and published after his death*: "My opinions and my principles do not agree well with the political and religious state of the people here. It is better for me to leave. | cannot submit to the rabbis and administrators of the community. | can use my time more usefully than acting.

Although Zunz did not actively engage in politics, we know of his ideas through a few speeches and lectures he gave in popular societies or at electoral meetings between 1848 and 1865 (there is no trace of political activity before this date, and this is understandable: it was the Revolution of 1848 that "gave air" to the German Jews).

For him. The future lies in liberty and love. The law must be based on national will; order, on voluntary obedience. Human rights are independent of all sects and all classes; no class can have more rights than another.

The State must be democratic: liberty is only possible in the equality of all citizens; there are no rich and poor: there are only men. The State must be founded on law; progress, liberty and truth must be the body and spirit of the Constitution. The Church and the army must not be privileged bodies (we are in Prussia) if one values liberty and the Constitution;

is Briefwechsel zwischen Heimann Michael and Leopold Zunz, ed. A Berliner (Frankfurt, 1907)

2. Ai Gesammelte Schriften, t. | (Berlin, 1875), p. 301 et seq.

JUDAISM AND SOCIALISM 611

Every individual must be considered at once as a man, as a worker and as a citizen; the merchant is also a producer – commerce is an instrument of progress. – If progress were not thwarted by acquired situations, interest and passion, revolutions would take place without clashes, but since struggle is a law of evolution, the Revolution of 89 will have spread throughout the world to ensure freedom of thought and speech, freedom of the press and freedom of association, as well as religious freedom. When the State founded on law is thus established throughout Europe, "the Revolution" will be complete; law and authority will reign simultaneously; democracy will be victorious.

Machine Translated by Google

Your ideas, which we have summarized with literal quotations, are certainly not very original: they are those of an "old beard of 48

But they are identical to those of Karl

Marx and the very idea of a class struggle, unraveled by a social revolution, is foreign to Zunz at the very moment when the communists are propagating the idea of an International Workingmen's Association. And there you have it "Pin-

Karl Marx's aspirator 1. | A |

But if Zunz did not spend his time inspiring "neo-messianists" and socialists, what did he do during his long existence? | have already said it: he created the modern science of Judaism. He lived for it; it was, according to his own words, his consolation and his support. With the application of a Benedictine, with the long patience of a scientific genius, he explored immense Jewish literature, printed and handwritten, to draw from it his fundamental works on the history of preaching among the Jews (1832), on the French, German and Provengal rabbis of the Middle Ages (1845), on synagogue poetry (1855), the rites of the Synagogue (1859) and the liturgical poets (1865). In addition to these books, more than fifty memoirs and notices have been

1. Zunz was in contact with German politicians, such as Varnhagen and Wilhelm von Humboldt never with socialists. Sallust claims that he "made contact" with the Russian revolutionary was supposedly the son of "a German Jewish mother." Two errors. Herzen's Jewish mother is of Russian anti-Semites: this mother was called Henrietta Wilhelmina Luise Haag; she was a from Württemberg (See Lemke, The Complete Works of A.-J. Herzen, Vol. | [Saint Petersburg, P. 4). Furthermore, | had research done in Berlin in the journal in which Zunz recorded with care all the visits he received: no mention of Herzen in the years 1846-47.

collected in three volumes (1875–1876). But already his joy of working having fallen, following the death of his wife, like an oak struck by lightning, it remained standing for ten years, but without bearing fruit. Such a life, such a UL are unsuspected.

The third founder of the Berlin company, Moise Moser (1796–1838), was an accountant and attorney in a bank; he was interested in philosophy and mathematics.

He was a noble and reserved nature, who was disturbed by the agitation of public life. He understood and esteemed Heine, who had a completely different character and who called him "the correct deluxe edition of a true man, a man of freedom and virtue, the living epilogue of Nathan the Wise."

It was Moser who introduced Heine to the "Society for Jewish Civilization and Science" in August 1822. The society organized courses, and the young poet was responsible for teaching history, literature, German, and French. One of his students noted much later the impression these lessons had on him.

Heine thrilled his young listeners by celebrating the exploits of the Germans of old; he had tears in his eyes when he told them of the struggles of Arminius against

Machine Translated by Google

the Romans. He rarely spoke of politics and religion; he lamented that tolerance towards Jews was found only among a few truly generous Christians; yet Judaism is based on this principle: "You shall love your neighbor as yourself."

– This is the teaching given to the society which, according to Sallust, inspired communism.

Besides courses for youth and adults, the Society for the Civilization and Science of the Jews began in 1822 to publish an organ, edited by Zunz.

It was the "Review of the Science of Judaism" (Zeitschrift für die Wissenschaft des Judentums). Two volumes appeared from this organ (the funds to continue);

here is the table of contents:

1. See G. Karpeles, Heinrich Heine (Leipzig, 1899), p. 61 et seq.
2. This Review is at the National Library. Shelfmark: 8° H. 19 665.

JUDAISM AND SOCIALISM 613

On the notion of a science of Judaism:
Roman legislation on the Jews;

Letters on the reading of Holy Scripture, with a translation of chapters VI and VII of Micah;

Lessons on the history of the Jews in northern Europe and in the Slavic countries; |

On the RER place names, which appear in Jewish literature;

On the belief of the Jews in a future Messiah; |
Salomon ben Isaac, nicknamed Raschi (French rabbi of the 11th century); ;
Review of a work on the civil rights of Jews;

Principles of a future statistics of Jews.

The only article that might interest us here—and which is, moreover, of little interest—is the one devoted to messianism. Its author is Lazarus Bendavid, a disciple of Mendelssohn. The author endeavors to show, in response to the French orientalist Silvestre de Sacy, that belief in a future Messiah should not be considered an essential element of the Jewish religion and, he concludes,

"let no one hold it against the Jew if he finds his Messiah in the fact that good princes have placed him on the same footing as other citizens and given him the hope of obtaining all the rights of citizens by fulfilling all their duties." This "neo-messianism" is flat and truly not very subversive.

The organization of courses and the publication of the Review were not the only objectives of the society; it also proposed to found normal schools, academies, to promote the practice of trades, arts and agriculture among

Jews, etc. But the resources were lacking in the Society. It had difficulty recruiting at the beginning

Machine Translated by Google

80 members and most of the wealthy stayed away.

In 1823, Zunz published a fundraising appeal that was both disheartening and proud. The appeal was not heard. In 1824, the dissolution of the Society was announced. Its members dispersed. Gans, shortly after, converted and was then deemed worthy of occupying a chair of law at the University of Berlin. The liquidation of the Society did not enrich Zunz: in 1832, the founder of Jewish science was without resources and he sought

1. Reprinted in his Gesammelte Schriften, vol. II (Berlin, 1876). p. 221.

. 614. THE PARIS REVIEW

insisted on a job of 25 marks a week.
When & Society, it never gave any sign of life again... until Sallust's article.

1
HENRY HEINE AND JUDAISM

But the most admirable discovery is that of the liaison and payment agent between the Jewish society that defunct in 1824 and the socialist organization founded in 1864; this singular trustee would be Heinrich Heine.

Poor Heine! His character was not up to his talent, and virtue was not his strong point. But this posthumous disgrace could have been spared him: it is not based on any authentic fact, it is contrary to everything we know of the man, the Jew, the thinker.

Poet, Henry Heine was not disinterested. It is now accepted that, in order to live, he received subsidies from the government of Louis-Philippe and even from the Austrian Court.

If he had received funds from a Jewish society to pass on, he would have had something left over. | do not know that the "Moscow couriers" were poor souls.

Now, Heine never lived in abundance. This means that the money that flowed from Berlin to Paris between 1824 and 1864 did not reach him.

The motive of self-interest being ruled out, can Heine's ideas explain his alleged collusion with Karl Marx and the First International? What ideas? His

1. See Briefwechsel, p. 3, and Kaufmann, article cited. The agony and death of the Society described with bitterness by Zunz in a letter to his friend Wohlwill (it was published by 316-7).

2. On Heinrich Heine and Judaism, see the work of Ad. Strodtmann already cited, 2 vols. (3 Hamburg, 1884); Gaetz, Geschichte der Juden, t. XI, p. 381 et seq., and the works of G. Ka notably: Heinrich Heine, Aus seinen Leben und aus seiner Zeit (Leipzig, 1899). Heine's tex to Judaism can be found in Hugo Bieber's collection, Heinrich Heine: Confessio Judaica (Be Karpeles used, by naming him, L. Laloy, Ecrits juifs de Henri Heine (Paris, 1926); de Lalo naming him, Sallust.

Machine Translated by Google

JEWISHNESS AND SOCIALISM 615

position towards Judaism or one's attitude towards it

Christianity? |

For Sallust, "the case of this son of Israel... is quite Characteristic from the neo-messianist point of view" and the proof, is it not, is that, even after his conversion to Protestantism, he met with his brothers in the evening

"to Rabbi Rintelsohn to learn Hebrew and

Talmud. » Pure imagination. The "Rabbi Rintelsohn" was not not a rabbi, but a simple Hebrew teacher, who gave lessons to the Heine children; but young "Harry" was so busy at school that he was to stay very little time for Jewish things. His cousin Hermann Schulz may have .

to be exaggerated by claiming that he was not even capable to say the prayers that are taught to Jewish children; but he

It is certain that he did not know the Talmud nor, as much

that | can see, no other work of rabbi literature—

nique in the original (and translations into fwere very rare

at that time). | 1 He was already quite Jewish and very Germanized when he was attracted by Moser to the "Society for Civilization and Science of the Jews." He was part of it for a few months, interspersed with travel and other work. Even if it was least "one of the most enthusiastic followers"? We don't believe it—

Machine Translated by Google

would hardly read the epigrams with which he has riddled the main ones members of the Society. If it is inaccurate to represent him as the "correspondent and friend" of Zunz, it is certain that it was in the circle of this great scholar that he dabbled in Jewish history and literature, not to fuel a political doctrine that he never professed, but to spice up his poetry with lyrical and satirical themes. The only Jewish work of any magnitude that he conceived at that time was The Rabbi of Bacharrack (1824); but this historical novel soon bored him and it remained unfinished. He was fed up, moreover, of being Jewish and, since "Judaism is not a religion, but a misfortune," he became a Protestant in June 1825. One can imagine what feelings must have inspired

To an upright and proud man like Zunz, the apostasy of one who, by joining his Society, had taken an oath of loyalty to Judaism. The Jews, who do not proselytize

616 THE PARIS REVIEW

for centuries, have experienced – we will forgive them –

contempt for those who abandon the still-persecuted Judaism to embrace the dominant religion. Jewish posterity was able to show indulgence and even a little pride towards this prodigal son, who never returned to the fold; his contemporaries kept him apart.

He himself, moreover, continued to turn his back on Judaism.

During his stay in Paris, he hardly associated with Jews other than irregulars like Alexandre Weill. He continued to live, in the company of a Catholic wife in the church, apart from the Jewish community; he died (thirty-two years after the Berlin Society) outside the Synagogue, and in accordance with his last wishes, was not buried in the Jewish section of the Montmartre cemetery. The "Society for the Civilization and Science of the Jews" was very poorly represented in Paris.

If, in the last years of his life, Heinrich Heine, under the weight of reflection and the spur of suffering, showed inclinations to "return to Jehovah", he always affected an air of superiority towards Judaism, which did not allow one to lead a high life or make a fine career, and a sovereign contempt towards the Jews who succeeded in business and were not all patrons. There is no question of denying what his temperament and his spirit owe to his Jewish origin: it did not prevent him from vilifying the Jews and Judaism and one could write a whole pamphlet on the anti-Semitic Heinrich Heine!

Here are at least some edifying texts:

The Jews are here (In Lüneburg, 1823) as everywhere, filthy and disgusting traffickers (Letter to Moser).

I am convinced that Israel has never given money without having its teeth pulled out by force, as in the time of the Valois. It is proven that we find here and there examples where vanity knew how to open the pockets of the Jews; but then their liberality was more repulsive than their stinginess (Leiters of Paris). 5

1. See J. Staarstecher, Henrich Heine der Antisemit und Nihilist (Cologne, 1893). 6

2. Heine is probably referring to the English king who, in order to force a rich Jew to reveal his hiding place, had his teeth pulled out one by one.

JUDAISM AND SOCIALISM 617

Then came a people from Egypt, the homeland of crocodiles and priests, and, in addition to skin diseases and stolen vessels, they brought a so-called positive religion, a so-called church, a framework of dogmas to be believed in and ceremonies to be observed—the model of the future state religion.

Then were born “human brokerage,” converters, intolerance, and all the holy abominations that have cost humanity so much blood and tears. And still indestructible, this mummy-people who wander the earth, enveloped in their ancient languages, a petrified fragment of history, a ghost who, to live, trades in banknotes and old trousers (The City of Lucques).

There are too many such outbursts against a Jew who displeased Heine to mention. Even allowing for irony, excesses of language, and even a certain intellectual imbalance, one is forced to note that this “son of Israel” contains all the anti-Semitic vocabulary.

It is true that he also mocked and reviled Christianity.

Sallust concluded that, as an enemy of Christianity, and therefore of civilization, Heine was in this respect the interpreter of Judaism.

But, first of all, civilization is not to be confused with Christianity. Modern civilization is the product of Athens, Rome, and Jerusalem

all at once, and perhaps the most civilizing elements of Christianity are those it owes to Judaism, its first father. Heinrich Heine knew this well, he who confused Judaism with Christianity in his diatribes. The intellectual son of Goethe and Voltaire, much more than of ancient or modern Judaism, Heine, at heart, is above all a pagan, coupled with an anticlerical. His criticism of the Churches is not inspired by the Synagogue (which he lumped together with them), but by the ideas of the philosophers of the 18th century. It was not a Jew who said: "Crush the infamous." Heine is here neither the pupil of the "rabbi" Rintelsohn, who knew no history, nor the follower of Zunz, who fought no religion; he is the heir of Voltaire and Diderot, of Lessing and Goethe.

"Poet lost in politics," according to the expression

Machine Translated by Google

of Mr. Henri Lichtenberger, Henri Heine launched into the struggle of the parties; but if he was attracted to socialism, he did not stop at communism.

618 oo THE PARIS REVIEW

Having come to France in the aftermath of the July Revolution, without a well-established doctrine—Zunz had forgotten to give him this viaticum—he was seduced by Saint-Simonism, which was then enjoying a certain vogue, and he understood that economic and social problems took precedence over purely political questions. Still, the rather utopian ideal of the Saint-Simonian religion captivated the romantic poet at least as much as his social achievements. In any case, his socialism at that time had nothing violent about it. "It repudiates," writes Mr. Lichtenberger, "everything that calls for force; it proclaims loudly that it does not dream of political agitation, nor of revolutionizing the masses." Finally and above all, he absolutely refuses to be subservient to any political party whatsoever... He wishes for the triumph of a religion and not at all the conquest of power by this or that fraction of his compatriots."

Karl Marx will think and speak differently.

Marx, who joined him in Paris in 1843, seems to have exercised, with his authoritarian and imperious temperament, a certain influence on our idealist revolutionary. Heine allowed himself to be drawn into the struggle against the established powers, and "to combat the pietistic and feudal reaction that was breaking out in Prussia, he no longer hesitated to march hand in hand with the most formidable revolutionaries."

(Lichtenberger). But, Guizot's government having decided to pursue the German refugees who were making this propaganda, Heine came to his senses and his warlike exaltation calmed down (1845). 5

Communism, moreover, already frightened him. "Around 1842, before he had met Marx and Lassalle, and at a time when socialist propaganda in Germany was still very little, he denounced to his compatriots the threatening progress of communism." Mr. Lichtenberger, to whom

1. On Heine's political ideas, see the excellent work by Mr. Henri Lichtenberger, Henri Heine, penseur (Paris, 1905). On his relationship with German socialism, see also Mehring, Geschichte der deutschen Sozialdemokratie (Stuttgart, 1898).

JUDAISM AND SOCIALISM. 619

us – this new quotation, specifies the prognoses of Heine, according to his correspondence: A

The future struggle will no longer be political, but social. We will no longer fight for the form of government, nor in the name of a principle– for liberty or for equality – but the great mass of the disinherited will rise up against the happy ones in life, and will demand their share of earthly happiness... The socialists are geniuses of darkness, the fearsome monsters who will devour contemporary society...

And Heine's imagination glimpses in the mists of the future a series of gigantic battles: a war of extermination between Germany and France, a European war ending in a general revolt of the proletarians – a duel and death between the dispossessed of fortune and the aristocracy of possessions, – until the day when there will be only one shepherd and a flock, a free shepherd with an iron crook and a flock of equally shorn men, equally Da

V.

Marx will also foresee – and prepare – this rei

social, but with other feelings. For what is, towards the "communist perik" (in 1842, it was still a peril), the attitude of the one whom Sallust calls without irony the "first leader of communism"?

Is this reign of communism, the outcome of the great social tragedy brewing in Europe, desirable? Faced with this prospect, Heine cannot defend himself from a feeling of fear and repulsion. He has returned from his Saint-Simonian optimism; he no longer believes in the advent of this democracy of earthly gods –

that the development of industrialism was to engender. His views of the future become more and more pessimistic. The triumph of the proletarians could only be short-lived, "because, prey to a blind passion for equality, they would destroy everything that is beautiful and sublime on this earth, and would exercise their sacrilegious furies especially against art and science; it is therefore, without a doubt, a threat to civilization"

Finally, in the last years of his life, Heine moved further and further away from the socialists of the school of Marx; democracy almost horrified him. "A rabid democrat of my country," he told me one day, "he would hold his hand over the fire to purify it, if he had the misfortune to ever–

dear to that of a king; I replied that if His Majesty the people had shaken my hand, I would wash it. It is with fear, with anguish that he thinks of the rise of the crowd; he cuts the wings to his political ideal, while, on the other hand, religious feeling awakens in him. When he died, in 1856, how far he was from Marx!

620 THE PARIS REVIEW

A Saint-Simonian from 1831, a socialist and even a revolutionary, but not a communist in the following years, Heinrich Heine slowed down from 1844 onwards and went backwards from 1849 onwards. This evolution, which was not due to any influence from Judaism in general or from Zunz in particular, ultimately led to him distancing himself from revolutionary and communist socialism. This failed tribune became, in Sallust, a prophet and an apostle of the first International founded eight years after his death. With his biting wit, Heine would have made a parody of it.

And this prophet would not have been able to keep a straight face if he had been told that the date of his Rhine crossing, May 1, 1831, would become "the festival of the world proletariat." Is it necessary to recall the origin of May 1?

In 1886, in Chi-

Machine Translated by Google

Cago, a part of the workers had decided to go on strike from May 1st to demand the eight-hour day. The anarchists having become involved, a fight broke out on May 3rd between the strikers and the police. The next day, a bomb killed seven policemen and injured sixty. Eight individuals were brought before the jury; seven were sentenced to death. This case had a great impact in the United States, and, in memory of these tragic events, the American socialists chose May

{stasa

day of demonstration in favor of the eight-hour day.

Three years later, the Congress of the International, meeting in Paris, decided to organize an international demonstration on May 1, 1890. Heine naturally had nothing to do with it. And Engels (who was not his friend and who was not Jewish) had so little to do with it that the German Social Democrats showed great reluctance to organize the first of May.

1. For brevity, | refer to the Handbuch des Socialismus (Zurich, 1894 et seq.) articles "A

In this connection, | note that Heine does not even have an article in this Socialist Encyclopedia, however complete and conscientious. – As for Engels, his 'imaginary. He was so little "from a former rabbinical family of Barmen" (sic) that this c

KARL MARX AND JUDAISM

From whatever angle one looks at Heine's ideas and his activity, it is impossible to recognize in him a delegate of the "Society for Jewish Civilization and Science" and a harbinger of the First International. It is true that in 1844 he met Karl Marx and even collaborated with him for a few months. But if he met him then, he did not follow him; he hardly resembles him and, if something united them, it was certainly not Judaism – the Judaism of the rabbis or the "neo-messiahs," of the "rabbi of Bacharach" or of Leopold Zunz.

What, in fact, does Karl Marx's Judaism boil down to? The fact that his father, who was indeed from a family of rabbis, converted to Protestantism in 1824—well, the year the Society for the Civilization and Science of the Jews disappeared! his son was exactly six years old, not even ten, as Sallust asserts. That's enough: Marx and Marxism belong in the Synagogue. I don't know what Christians think of this "racist" theory and why their churches are then looking for Jews to convert.

But, as an Israelite, I reply: Judaism wants to be judged by its faithful, not by its renegades. Do we hold Christianity and Christendom – faith and Christian society – for the responsibility of Voltaire or Sebastien Faure (I apologize for bringing together the names of these two enemies of the Church)? Or, if we do not want to be fair, let us at least be complete. Why only Henry Heine and Karl Marx?

Why not Disradli, who strengthened the English Conservative Party and British imperialism? Why not Stahl, who established the doctrine of the "Christian" party?

Machine Translated by Google

Westphalia did not yet have a Jewish community in the first part from the 19th century!

1. On the ancestors of Karl Marx, one will find a genealogical study of

B. Wachstein in the Simonsen Melanges (Copenhagen, 1922).

622 THE PARIS REVIEW

socialism, the conservatives' strongest bulwark against socialism? |

But Sallust knows that Karl Marx's father had made "a considerable fortune in commerce" (like every Jew, right?) and that, "in order to obtain responsibility for certain supplies to the Prussian state, which were not granted to the Jews, he had officially converted to Protestantism without ceasing to practice the Jewish religion in the family home." The truth is that Karl Marx's father was a lawyer and, although he had managed, through his work, to create a comfortable situation for himself, he never knew how to "make money."

He converted with all his people, because he wanted to improve his social situation by getting rid of Judaism and because he belonged to those "Enlightened" Jews whose beliefs had been ruined by Voltairean ideas. He "assimilated" to the point of considering himself a good Prussian and commanding his son an ode on the fall of Napoleon and the victory of Prussia. "Karl did not follow his father's advice; but from that time until his death he retained an anti-Semitic prejudice; he considered almost all Jews as beggars or merchants."

It was in this family so completely de-Judalised that "the childhood of the young Karl Marx was rocked by the traditional stories of his race... from which the young Israelite was to retain above all the idea of an immense expropriation, coinciding with the triumph of his race." These traditional "stories" are, in truth, vague texts without authority on the wonders of the messianic era, texts that rabbis of the Talmud imagined to console their listeners from the sadness of the present and that modern Jews know only from anti-Semitic manuals. No rabbi, no Jew has ever

1. Frederic-Jules, Stahl (1802-1861), son of a Bayarois Jew, converted to Lutheranism, became professor of law at the University of Berlin, author of the Philosophy of Law and of the C

2. See Max Beer, Karl Marx, his life, his work, translated BE Pallemmand by Marcel Ollivier

1926). This study, despite its apologetic tone and popular form, is based on the best sources. I have benefited from consulting it, rather than using the lectures of Professor D. Riazanov's edition of Engels (Paris, Editions sociales internationales), which constitute a work Holshevik propaganda. Otto's very recent work at Karl Marx, Leben und Werk, is inaccessible to me.

JUDAISM AND SOCIALISM. 75 5623

thought of confusing these hyperboles with reality and

Machine Translated by Google

take for rules. Saint Thomas Aquinas was able to justify the expropriation of the Jews by Christian lords; no 13th-century rabbi authorized his followers to "expropriate" a Christian by violence or trickery. No one will accuse the angelic doctor of having legitimized attacks on property; no one, either, has the right to impute to the rabbis, to the religious authorities of Judaism, subversive doctrines which would have horrified them!

Karl Marx, baptized at the age of six, was not educated by rabbis, but by the regents of the Trier gymnasium, and later by professors at the Universities of Bonn and Berlin. Neither there nor there were Jews allowed to teach. Although a convert and the son of a convert, Marx abandoned all hope of an academic career. He threw himself into journalism and politics, and began to study political economy and socialism. In 1842, a congress of French and German scholars met in Strasbourg to discuss socialist theories.

The following year, Karl Marx arrived in Paris, brought not by the "Jewish Society for Civilization and Science" –

The hypothesis is not admissible – but driven by the desire to propagate in a favorable environment the socialist and communist ideas that he was then developing.

This doctrine has nothing, absolutely nothing in common with some kind of "neo-messianism" which would have transformed the old rabbinic texts" (these are some verses from Isaiah and the Psalms!) into a theory on the "superiority" of the "chosen race", destined to "conquer the world and bend it under its yoke". I affirm that there is no authentic text of this kind in all of 19th-century Jewish literature.

Sallust cites only one letter, quite impressive for novices, from the "neo-messianist" Baruch Levy to Karl Marx. Who is this Baruch Levy? Where is this text from? Mystery. Until proven otherwise, I am referring to this letter as

1. The text of Thomas Aquinas is in his consultation to the Duchess of Brabant on the status of Jews (Opera, XVI, 292). The rabbinical texts on respect for property are collected by D. H. Schulchan-Aruch und die Rabbinen über das Verhältniss der Juden zu Andersglaubigen (3rd Edition, 1894).

624 | THE PARIS REVIEW

a fake. Let the reader not be alarmed. There exists, in anti-Semitic literature, a whole series of fake letters of the same tone, fabricated in more or less clandestine offices, not to mention the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion," that forgery of tsarist policemen whose origin has been finally unmasked.

So it was not a message from Zunz that Karl Marx was bringing to Paris! He was to meet there with Heinrich Heine, his political co-religionist, who was also then engaged in the revolutionary movement. Both collaborated on the short-lived "Franco-German Annals" (Deutsch-Französische Jahrbücher), founded by Arnold Ruge in 1844 as a follow-up to his Deutsche Jahrbücher, banned in Prussia the previous year. Marx published two articles in this journal. One of them is precisely devoted to the Jewish question; it deserves our attention.

The German theologian Bruno Bauer had argued that

Machine Translated by Google

Jews could not obtain citizenship rights in a Christian state. Marx responded by transferring the question from the religious domain to the economic domain.

Let us consider, he says, the true secular Jew, not the Sabbath Jew, as Bauer does, but the everyday Jew. Let us not seek the secret of the Jew in his religion, but the secret of religion in the true Jew. What is the secular foundation of Judaism? Practical need, interest. What is the secular worship of Judaism?

Trafficking.

What is his secular god? Money. Well, to emancipate oneself from trafficking and money, let's say: from practical and real Judaism, that would be the self-emancipation of our time. An organization of society that would eliminate the premises of trafficking and therefore the possibility of trafficking would have made the Jew impossible.

Through the Jew and without him, money has become the power of the world and the practical spirit of the Jew, "the practical spirit of Christian peoples. The Jews became emancipated in the sense that Christians became Jews... The God of the Jews became the god of the world; the bill of exchange is the true God of the Jew...

The chimerical nationality of the Jew is the nationality of the merchant-

1. See Lucien Wolf, The Jewish Bogey (London, 1920), the journal Pair et Droit, September 1921, and the journal La Terre wallonne, November 15, 1921 (article by RP Pierre Charles, of the Society of Jesus).

2. It was reproduced in the publication Aus dem literarischen Nachlass von Karl Marx (Stuttgart, 1902), I, 405 et seq.

JUDAISM AND SOCIALISM 625

cant, of the man of money... To socially emancipate the Jew is to emancipate society from Judaism.

Let us not dwell on the dialectic of the piece, nor even on the superior and contemptuous tone that Marx takes towards his (chosen race). It will be agreed that this elimination of Judaism has nothing in common with messianism or "neo-messianism". It is not without reason that we have spoken of the fundamental anti-Semitism of Karl Marx. If it was Zunz (still alive) and his society (already dead) who "addressed" Marx to Heine and provided subsidies to the founder of the International, we will admit that they did not get their money's worth.

Marx only dealt with Judaism this one time, provoked in some way by Bauer and by the desire to apply to the Jewish "case" his theories on the role of money-capital in the evolution of economic society. He understood nothing of the spirit of Judaism. Bernard Lazare did not yet know this spirit when, in his book on Anti-Semitism (1894), he honored the Talmudists and rabbis from whom Marx descended with the logic and lucidity (2) of the author of Capital. This great work – which should not be underestimated – owes nothing to the Talmud either in terms of form – the dialectic of the Talmud is quite different – or in terms of doctrine. One only needs to consider the role of commerce among the Jews and the character of property in Judaism.

The paragraph on the evolution of the Jewish religion (in the first volume) shows an ignorance which would be excusable from the part of a sociologist of the time if it were not marked by presumption. The entire history of Judaism is, moreover, a protest, if not a refutation of historical materialism and the predominance of "economic factors" over spiritual factors. Finally, the famous Communist Manifesto of Marx and Engels is as foreign as possible to Judaism, "neo-messianic" or not; Mr. Charles Andler has demonstrated

Machine Translated by Google

1. SM Dubnow. Die neueste Geschichte des Jüdischen Volkes (Berlin, 1920), II, 508, refers in Tusse, which are inaccessible to me: Masaryk, The Philosophical and Sociological Bases (Moscow, 1900), and Bulgakow Mara as a Religious Type (Saint Petersburg, 1907). 6

626 | THE PARIS REVIEW

how much its authors are imbued, whatever they may have, with the ideas of French socialism.

If he did not owe his Goctrines to Judaism, would Karl Marx have taken his staff? We find Jews in his entourage, not "neo-messianists", but "emancipated" Jews like himself, that is to say, Judaized.

Yet we should not exaggerate. Sallust draws up a report on this "Israelite general staff":

Lassalle and Singer, in Germany;

Neumayer, Victor Adler and Libermann, in Austria;
Fribourg, Leon Franckel and. Haltmayer, in year
James Cohen, in Denmark;

Dobrojanu Gherea, in Romania;

Kahn and Leon, in the United States.

The list seems impressive. It would be less so if it were completed by the list of socialist leaders of Christian origin. It would be more so if... it were completely accurate. Thus, Neumayer in Austria and Haltmayer in France are unknown (the first name was borne by an anti-Semitic mayor of Vienna). – James Cohen appeared at the Congress of the First International in London (1871) as a delegate from Denmark; but the Danish Socialist Party was founded and organized by the Christians Frederik Drejer, Harald Brix, Paul GeleU and Louis Pio. – Ghééréa (real name Katz) is a socialist writer as well as the greatest literary critic of Romania, a doctrinaire who did not take an active part in politics; anti-Bolshevik since 1917, he died a few years later. He could not have known Karl Marx, because he was still very young when he died.

The true organizer of socialism and trade unionism in Romania was the Christian Ioan Nadejde. – Anyone who knows the slightest bit about the history of the Socialist Party in France knows that Fribourg and Franckel (the latter coming from Hungary) played only a minor role in it. – Kahn and Léon, in the United States

1. For example, we have the nominal list of the members of the 40th Congress of the Intern (Basel, 1869): out of 75 delegates we find 1 Jew, the German Hess (to whom we should perhaps the Austrian Neumayer).

Machine Translated by Google

2. In another passage of his article, Sallust speaks of the relations of Cre-

JUDAISM AND SOCIALISM. No. 627

United, are names e ee The American Socialist Party was created and organized by Germans and Irish; Marxism was propagated there by Sorge;

the four delegates from America to the Congress of the International in The Hague (1872) were all Christians!. There remain Germany and Austria. The main Marxists there were Christians; should we recall Engels, Bebel, Liebknecht? The place taken by a few Jews is sufficiently explained by the anti-Semitism of the conservative parties in these countries. A State which oppresses the * pushes the Du -ardents into the extreme parties.

It is not deniable that a fairly high number of Jews –

no figure, no proportion is possible – have been attracted to socialism and communism in countries where the ruling classes are anti-Semitic as well as in those where a "proletariat" has formed within the Jewish masses.

But Judaism, far from having favored the movement, fought it and partly stopped it. In any case, there is no trace of Jewish contributions – neither intellectual nor financial – in the founding of the International and, even if it were not established that Karl Marx knew poverty if not misery and that the First International never had abundant resources, there is no doubt that no Jewish organization, neither the Berlin Society (extinguished in 1824, let us repeat), nor any other inspired or subsidized the International Association of.

Workers and its leader Karl Marx.

. CONCLUSION

There is no relationship between the "Society for the Civilization and Science of the Jews" of Berlin (1819–1824) and socialism or communism. The "neo-messianic" _

sect "ma

better with Marx. A republican lawyer, Crémieux defended the pursued collaborators of the Vorwaerts in 1844; but this profoundly liberal and bourgeois statesman never had any deal

Marx, nor with any other communist.

i. All justifications will be found in the collection of documents and memories of the Zulsse socialist (anti-Maraeist) Jam 25 Galllaum 2, L'Inky ernationale, t. Jet Il (Paris, m; never exists. The Jewish scholar L. Zunz is not a "neo-messianist", nor a socialist or a communist.

| met Heine in 1823, but then lost sight of him.

Heine had dealings with Karl Marx, but was afraid of the

Machine Translated by Google

Communism. Heine and Marx (especially the latter) did not like Jews and Judaism; they do not owe their political and social ideas to it. These are the conclusions that emerge from a serious examination of the facts and documents.

Sallust opposes the action of occult forces to the results achieved by history: My God, history is, as Renan said, a "poor little conjectural science"; but it strives to find the truth by the most scrupulous method and its conclusions can only be overturned by other facts, other documents, studied in the same scientific spirit. Scholars have been able to establish that official history was erroneous, that it was necessary to make allowance, in the revolutions of history, for hidden forces or those that remained in the shadows.

But these occult forces, they revealed their existence and action through documents, which they brought to light and whose authenticity and veracity they proved. Thus and only thus can history be rewritten. |

Mr. LIBER

AROUND A CONTROVERSY u
MARXISM AND JUDAISM

The study that Sallust has just devoted, in the Revue de Paris, to the "Secret Origins of Bolshevism", has provoked the same passionate polemics which marked, last year, his revelations on "Lenin, agent of the Okhrana".

Approvals and refutations have crossed in a tumult that has not subsided. Sallust does not conceive any vanity in the sensation produced: it is quite natural that, by revealing the underside of the vital question of the present times, the Marxist conspiracy against the Civilization born of Christianity, he has aroused the attention of a wide public. His aim, therefore, in this article, is not to enumerate the main quotations and commentaries that have been made of his work, but to clarify its conclusions and to defend him against certain unjustified criticisms.

We will quickly pass over the favorable echoes of the French and foreign press. Among these, it is nevertheless impossible not to mention an excellent analysis published by Le Temps, which managed to fit the essence of our thesis into less than one column. Likewise, a study, perfect in tone, by our colleague Félicien Pascal, in L'Ami du Peuple, and a page of solid historical criticism by a Belgian writer, Mr. Charles d'Ydewalle. Finally, two articles by Mr. Leon Daudet,

1. Issues of June 1, 15, July 1 and 15, 1928.

ALS

796 d THE PARIS REVIEW

Machine Translated by Google

one vibrant and incisive, in Action Frangaise, the other powerfully structured, in the Belgian Nation.

The entry on the scene of the vigorous polemicist determined that, in the opposing camp, of Mr. Emile Vandervelde, Belgian Minister of State and most apparent leader of the Second International, since the death of Jaurés. However sharp the tone of his reply, published in Le Peuple, Brussels, it cannot bother us much, because it does not target the essence of our thesis, as the following two main passages testify:

It is absurd, of course, to see only a Jew and a Prussian in Karl Marx, the most internationalist of men, who wrote in 1848 that "Prussia was above the level of History," baptized at the age of six, published at the age of thirty an indictment à la Drumont against Jewish capitalism, represented as the most harmful form of world capitalism.

It is absurd to see only Marxism in an international movement like Socialism, where, all the same, Saint-Simon, Fourier, Robert Owen, and Anglo-Saxon socialism (to which Marx owes a lot, but which does not owe much to Marx) do not count for nothing...

.. But, on the other hand, it is true to say that the Jews, these persecuted people, have played and play a great role in the workers' movement; that, of all the socialists of the century, Marx is the one who most powerfully expressed the aspirations of all workers,

Jews and non-Jews, English, French, German, Italian or Russian; that, of all socialisms, there is none which has, as much as Marxism, left its mark on the programs of workers' action.

And that's all! Mr. Emile Vandervelde, well qualified to do so, however, if he judged it appropriate, does not dispute the account we have given of the origins and the underside of the Third International, of which he is one of the direct heirs: nor the period of incubation in the shadows of the Jewish-German secret societies; nor the rigging of the apparent foundation, in 1864, at Saint Martin's Hall; nor the comedy played to surprise the good faith and ensure the protection of the Emperor Napoleon III; nor the preparation of the horrors of the Commune by Karl Marx; nor the betrayal which then delivered the unruly members of the First International to the magistracy of Mr. Thiers and to the Spanish police; nor the persistence, behind the Second International, organized like the first

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 797

By Marx, of a secret hebrew-messianist organization, proof of which exists in the letters we have cited. Mr. Vandervelde even seems to confirm this last point by recognizing "that the Jews, those persecuted, have played and play a 'great role in the workers' movement'".

Machine Translated by Google

We can only take note of these concessions, tacit or express, from one of the undisputed successors of Karl Marx, at the head of the workers' movement, from the one who was perhaps the most qualified to challenge, in the name of international Socialism, our history, if it had not rested on irrefutable foundations.

As for the assertion that we have "seen only Marxism in Socialism", how can we admit it, when we have devoted five pages of the Revue de Paris to studying the milieu social in which Marxism was to take root, and especially the work of Buchez, disciple of Saint-Simon?

We have not seen anything more than a Jew and a Prussian in Karl Marx, limiting ourselves to pointing out the anti-French intrigues of the latter during the war of 1870, intrigues which had the aim of using our defeat to the best advantage of the interests of the Revolution.

There remains the question of the "requisition a la Drumont" that Karl Marx is said to have "published against Jewish Capitalism, representing as the most harmful form of global capitalism v.

Mr. Vandervelde, who enjoys some authority, for various reasons, in Jewish circles, would almost accuse his master Karl Marx of the crime of anti-Semitism... This would be quite unjust, as we propose to show in the rest of this article; the response of Mr. Rabbi Liber, which our readers found in the last issue of the Revue de Paris, will oblige us, in fact, to speak of the fifty pages of high neo-messianist significance, which Karl Marx devoted to "the Jewish question."

With Mr. Prague, director of the Archives Israelites, the French organ of liberal Judaism, the tone changes abruptly,

1. Issue of June 15, 1928, p. 191 & 196.
2. Issue of July 1st, pp. 163 to 165.

798 THE PARIS REVIEW

And, first of all, our opponent claims to know from what source we drew our documentation on the secret revolutionary committees in which Heinrich Heine and Karl Marx conspired all their lives. Let us quote:

The author seems to have been inspired by the famous Prolocoles of the Elders of Zion, a work of high fantasy, fabricated to propagate an idea dear to anti-Semitic writers, and to which a mysterious Kahal, who existed only in their imagination, would hold Annual congresses where the conspiracy of Israel against the Christian world is said to be plotted.

And here are the readers of the Israeli Archives well informed about our documentation!

It is not necessary to say, for those who have read our articles, that we have not once alluded to the text by which Mr. Prague claims that we were "inspired."

At no time, moreover, have we intervened in the controversies raised around the Protocols.

And if we ever do so, it will only be by using methods of documentary criticism that are free from any bias.

After assigning our revelations a source from which we have never drawn, Mr. Prague agrees to speak of the Union of Jews for the Fan ei la ann and thus continues to distort our thesis.

Yes, the Society for Jewish Civilization and Science would have pursued no other goal than to detach Christians from the Church, by sowing among them doubt about its existence and its divine character. It's hilarious!

Mr. Prague would be very kind to indicate to us where in our study we said that the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science had no other aim than to make Christians doubt the divine character of their Church?

We haven't even touched on this question! While we have devoted entire chapters to the evolution of a part of modern Israelites towards a new messianism that is fundamentally agnostic, because purely political and social, neo-messianism which is and can only be the rabid enemy of the Civilization born of Christianity. We have

showed this neo-messianism preparing and inspiring the horrors

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 799 of the Paris Commune and the Bolshevik Revolution. Of all this, which is the substance of our work, Mr. Prague does not say a word, while he attributes to us opinions that one would seek in vain in our text. Is this a fair discussion? In closing, Mr.

Prague nevertheless agrees to speak of Socialism (not Bolshevism). This is to praise Moses, who

"organized the socialist regime, by the introduction, for example, of the Sabbatical year, the Jubilee, the remission

"debts, all means of nipping in the bud the creation of a capitalist society." If Sallust wants to "demonstrate the Jewish paternity of the socialist system," he must therefore attack "Moses himself, who would be the great culprit, with his "radiant torch whose generous flame was to enlighten "Israel and procure for it the benefits of social peace.

Mr. Prague simply forgets to point out that Moses, by regulating the right to private property, made it the basis of Hebrew society and placed it under the protection of God himself. The neo-Messianists, on the contrary, have declared the war on property rights and do not exactly dream of social peace...

Machine Translated by Google

Let us pity the readers of the Archives who will believe in good faith, after having read Mr. Prague: 1° That our documentation is taken from the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion v'; |

20 That our only grievance against the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science is that it has questioned the divine character of the Christian Church; 30 That we have attacked Moses and the social code of the Pentateuch.

All that is missing from this exposition of our imaginary crimes is a good little accusation of "incitement to pogroms," and our account would be good.

We are eager to respond to Rabbi Liber, whose lec- -

The editors of the Revue de Paris, thanks to the high impartiality of its Director, have found here the refutation of the thesis that we have supported.

Refutation, to tell the truth, quite incomplete, because Mr. Rabbi

800 THE PARIS REVIEW

Liber, no more than Mr. Emile Vandervelde, attacks the body of our work. The conspiratorial existence of Karl Marx, at a time when all his biographers represented him as exclusively preoccupied with social research, the tortuous maneuvers to which his henchmen resorted to ensure the protection of Napoleon

Ill, the preparation and apology for the crimes of the Commune, the secret intrigues which permitted the organization of the First and then the Second International Conferences, all this, which constitutes three-quarters of our study, does not provoke any protest from Mr. Rabbi Liber. Noted.

In fact, it is especially our first one, the one where we studied the role of Heinrich Heine in the origins of Communism, that Rabbi Liber attacks, and perhaps he would not have even thought of becoming the poet of Alta Troll if we had not been led incidentally to question the Union has been considerable, and its leader Leopold Zunz, who for almost a century was a pro-Israel figure.

Jews for Civilization and Science, whose influence on contemporary Judaism

We will not hide from our opponent that his entry into the fray seems regrettable to us. Rabbi Liber occupies, in fact, an official position in the Jewish Church: he leads worship, he explains the Torah and the Talmud. Therefore, it is only courtesy towards him to suppose that he believes in the doctrine he expounds. Now, this doctrine announces the coming of a Messiah, son of David and sent by Jehovah, who will reestablish Jewish temporal power. It is, strictly speaking, Messianism, which is as old as Israel, and against which

Machine Translated by Google

Our study of Heinrich Heine and Karl Marx did not lead to any attack.

On the contrary, we have exposed the misdeeds of a heretic sect, which we have called neo-messianist to better distinguish it from Jewish orthodoxy, a sect which renounces belief in the traditional and personal Messiah, and which claims that the messianic era will have come when the Jewish race (and not the religion of the Jews) will be everywhere dominant from a political and social point of view. We have shown the neo-messianists at the origin of the principal troubles social developments of the 19th and 20th centuries. In doing so, we were convinced that we would meet with the approval not only of Christians, but also of Orthodox Jews, of believing Jews.

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 801

Did not old Braunstein, a pillar of the synagogue, strike his own son, the neo-messianist Trotsky, with Herem (major excommunication), not only as a communist, but as a heretic and an atheist? We are greatly surprised to see a representative of the Orthodox Israelite Church, by a contrary attitude, rush to the aid of the founders of the doctrine to which Trotsky claims to belong... Could Rabbi Liber be a neo-messianist, at least without knowing it?

Starting from such a blatant antinomy, it was inevitable that Rabbi Liber's refutation would be painful, confused and embarrassed by contradictions.

The twenty pages that compose it are full of quibbles over details – which we are careful not to disdain, for we note them one by one below; but the whole has something inorganic, something inferior, which attests to the difficulty our refuter found himself in tackling our thesis head on and grasping it. Rabbi Liber himself felt so well what was missing from his presentation to bring about conviction that he finally narrowed it down to a conclusion –

very valuable for us, because it allows us to extract from our opponent's text precise proposals, on which our efforts will focus.

Let us see what these propositions are. We will cite them, numbering them for clarity.

1. There is no relationship between the Society for Civilization and Science of Berlin (1819–1824) and Socialism or Communism.

= The “neo-messianic” sect never existed.

The Jewish scholar L. Zunz is not a neo-messianist, nor a socialist or a communist. He met Heine in 1823, but then lost sight of him.

4. Heine was in contact with Karl Marx, but was afraid of nr b communism.

5. Heine and Marx (especially the latter) did not like Jews and Judaism; they do not owe their political and social ideas to them,

The desire to project perfect clarity onto the debate obliges us to deal first with proposition no. 2, which has obviously the priority over proposition no. 1, since the Union of Jews for Cognition and Science (we stick to our translation, and we will say why) was obviously only one chapter in the history of the neo-messianist sect, which is more than a century and a half old, as we will see.

Machine Translated by Google

When Rabbi Liber Alin states peremptorily that "the neo-Messianic sect has never existed," he obviously means that this denomination is new to him and that he has not found it in the catalog of sects of Judaism. The reason is the one we set out above: it is we who coined the word "neo-Messianism" to designate a Jewish sect which has the double characteristic: 1° of renouncing the belief in the coming of a personal Messiah sent by God; 2° of embodying in the entire Jewish community the promises of victory and temporal domination over all peoples made to the only son of David by the Hebrew books.

In creating a new name to designate a new sect, we have acted exactly like the botanist, whose first concern, when he has determined the genus and species of a recently discovered plant, is to give it a name expressing as clearly as possible its principal characteristics. If tomorrow a sect were to form within Christianity which denied the belief in redemption by Jesus Christ and substituted for it the idea of redemption through the merits of all its followers collectively, we would be forced to call this sect not "Christian," but "neo-Christian," since it would be a new Christianity entirely different from the old.

This point settled, Rabbi Liber is certainly too learned in Judaic sciences not to immediately recall the Hebrew term which gives, not the translation, but the objective equivalence of our word "neo-messianist". This is the Hascalah movement, which dates back to the second part of the 17th century and whose founder was the German Jew

MARXISM AND JUDAISM | | 803 mand

Moses Mendelssohn. This character is, without a doubt, well known to Rabbi Liber, as to all literate Israelites. He is necessarily much less so to our readers, to whom we will briefly present him.

Moses ben Mendel, who Germanized his name to 'Moses Mendelssohn,' was born in Dessau, in the states of the Duke of Anhalt, in 1728 or 1729. He was the son of one of those poor Hebrew teachers whom Rabbi Liber seems to hold in low esteem. As a child, young Moses showed such a passion for the study of the Talmud that he contracted a nervous illness that was to last his whole life. Add to this a small, stooped figure, an enormous hump, and an intelligent, but grimacing, face, and we will have an exact idea of the physical appearance of the founder of this Hascala movement.

Machine Translated by Google

who identifies with "neo-messianism." The intellectual aspect of the character was even more interesting.

In Berlin, where he settled in 1742, the young Moses Mendelssohn first became a copyist for Rabbi Frankel; but he used every moment of his free time to increase his knowledge.

He learned mathematics with a Galician schoolmaster, Israel Moses; Latin with a young Jewish doctor from Prague, Risch; the philosophy of Locke with Rabbi

Frankel himself; finally, at the age of nineteen, the doctor Samuel Gumpertz familiarized him with modern languages and the philosophy of Leibnitz. Later, by chance during a game of chess, he met Lessing, who taught him Greek. But already, beneath all this classical science, the political and social tendencies of the young Jew were beginning to assert themselves, and he would indicate them with the first work to come from his pen: a German translation of Jean-Jacques Rousseau's Discourse on the Origin of Inequality Among Men, a formal declaration of war on the idea of private property and a veritable manual of social warfare, of which Villemain was able to say: "This dark and vehement discourse, full of specious reasoning and passionate exaggerations... contained axioms which, repeated from mouth to mouth, would one day resound in our

1. See Revue de Paris of August 1, pp. 615 and 617, About Henri Heine's master, Rintelsohn national assemblies to inspire, or justify in their own eyes, the boldest levelers.

304 THE PARIS REVIEW

A young Jewish scholar, steeped in Christian science and philosophy, but who instinctively goes, in the intellectual movement of the West, to the most subversive ideas, to those which preach the devastation of the City, this is what the young Moses Mendelssohn was, who was to found the Hascala movement.

To have the leisure to realize his dream, he lacked only material independence. One of these coreligionists, the great manufacturer Bernhard, who had first taken him as tutor to his children, provided it by making him his partner.

His fortune, which must have been considerable, was further increased by his marriage to the daughter of the wealthy Jew Hugenheim, who dreamed of meeting the young and already famous scholar.

When she finally saw him, she could not hide the painful impression his monstrosity caused her; but Mendelssohn did not flinch. "Do you think," she said to him, "that marriages are written in heaven?" "Without a doubt," he replied. "You know that, according to the tradition of the Talmud, when a soul is sent down from the heights of Heaven, the name of the one who is to be united to it on earth is proclaimed at the same time. It was thus at my birth; but I was made aware at the same time that my wife would be disfigured by a formidable hump. Great

God!

I would then ask myself, "Leave my wife her height and her beauty and give me the hump that would take away her charms." The young girl checked with a glance, in the neighboring mirror, the graceful slenderness of her bust and looked at Mendelssohn with gratitude. The marriage was concluded. . There is much suppleness and much mysticism in a disciple of Jean-Jacques Rousseau."

Machine Translated by Google

Mendelssohn's life is so full that it is out of the question to summarize it in this article. Let us content ourselves with highlighting its three characteristics:

10 Moses Mendelssohn is intensely Jewish. But he is so out of a sense of ethnic solidarity with his race and not at all out of attachment to the Mosaic religion. Without doubt, he will reject Lavater's offers, when the latter, finding him very detached from the traditional beliefs of Judaism, advises him to become a Christian; but this is because an abjuration, which would make him accepted in the world around him, would only resolve his personal case, and in no way that of his blood brothers, for whom he dreams of civil and political equality first, and something better afterwards. To act on the latter, to convince them to adopt his method of penetrating Christian society, it is still necessary that he himself maintains communication with the orthodox Jews, that is to say, professes at least in appearance the Jewish religion.

1. The descendants of Moss Mendelssohn and the beautiful Hugenheim now run the large bank house Mendelssohn Brothers in Berlin.

This is why Mendelssohn, although an agnostic, goes to the synagogue; this is why he will publish The Ritual Laws of the Jews (1778), a translation of the Bible into German with commentaries and Jewish usage, and finally his Jerusalem, or Religious Power and Judaism (1783). But all this is only a means of maintaining his authority over his brothers. His goal is the new Promised Land that he shows them: the marvelous edifice of Christian Society, slowly built over the course of eight centuries, and which it is now a question of conquering from new Canaanites. |

And so much for Mendelssohn's relationship with traditional Judaism.

20 To achieve his political and social objective, Mendelssohn made himself a school leader: he founded the Hascala movement, which aimed to bring Jews to study Western sciences and to adopt the outward forms of Christian life, so as to be able to more easily mingle with the latter and be accepted by them. But this is in no way an adherence to the Civilization born of Christianity: the Reform Jews, the Maskilim (Rabbi Liber will understand), must keep intact the memory of their ethnic origin, their Hebrew culture, which ensures their unity through the

1. In 16th-century Germany, it was unwelcome to proclaim oneself an atheist; so Mendelssohn intended to profess a vague deism. But he confesses his fundamental positivism in his Matt where he lays down the following axioms, which leave no room for Revelation or mystical ph

10 What is true must be able to be conceived as such by a positive intelligence.

20 That whose existence cannot be established by any positive intelligence does not really illusion or an error.

806. THE PARIS REVIEW

Machine Translated by Google

world, and the hope of a collective rise by means of a Revolution that will make room for them by overturning the old Christian world. Mr. Baruch Hagani (Political Zionism and its Founder Theodore Herzl, p. 20) agrees with the fact when he says "that a work of adaptation, a precursor to the Revolution, had been done. Mendelssohn had proclaimed the agreement between high Jewish antiquity and modern thought, and the Reformed Jews had resolutely removed from Judaism everything that seemed to them incompatible with the necessities of the surrounding life."

With the help of wealthy Israelites such as Friedlander and Daniel Itzik, Moses Mendelssohn founded schools where young Jews, chosen for their intelligence, received instruction that prepared them for the political role they would play among Christians. As the Jewish Encyclopedia (Hascala article) puts it, "Moses Mendelssohn's extraordinary success opened the door to a world of previously unknown possibilities in which educated Jews could exert their influence."

30 These possibilities were above all of a political and revolutionary nature. Freemasonry, a new creation on the Continent, enjoyed an extraordinary vogue in Germany as in France, as much because of the mystery with which it claimed to surround itself as because of the pleasures it provided for the majority of its adherents.

To penetrate into this association, to accentuate its still hardly revolutionary orientation, to use its power to the best of the interests of Judaism, such was the goal that Mendelssohn set himself. He achieved it thanks to his correspondent, the Jew Cerfbeer, who had amassed a colossal fortune in his supplies to the French

State and who enjoyed the confidence of Louis XVI; thanks to his friend Dohn, archivist to the King of Prussia, who launched in 1782, at the time of the famous Masonic Convent of Wilhelmsbad, the program of political emancipation of the Jews; thanks above all to Gotthold Ephraim Lessing, his former professor of Greek and his close collaborator, who opened to the reformed Jews the Masonic organization in which they soon conquered a dominant place.

F.: Findel, one of the classic historians of Freemasonry, expressly notes the role of Lessing, who succeeded

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 807

first to bring the Jews into the Order of Asiatic Brothers, or Order of Abraham.

And the Order of the Asian Brothers was not an obedience of little importance.

It included members such as Prince Charles of Hesse (designated as an ally, under the name of Ben Our ben Mizram), or Duke Ferdinand of Brunswick (called Isch Zadik). Later, Ferdinand of Brunswick would be president of the Convent of Universal Masonry at Wilhelmsbad, where the French Revolution would be decided; later still, he would command the Prussian army at Valmy, that comedy of battle, where his incomprehensible retreat saved both Dumouriez's army and the September massacrers in Paris. Yes, "the work of adaptation preceding the Revolution," of which Mr. Ann Hagani speaks, had

Machine Translated by Google

summer done and done well...

Should we also recall how this legal introduction of Jews into the Christian

Society, which was the goal, the raison d'être of the Hascalà movement, took place? Doctor Professor H. Gradtz!, whose Rabbi Liber recommends we read, explains it to us by speaking of the salon of the beautiful Jewish woman

Henriette Lemos, wife of Doctor Herz, at whose house Mendelssohn's daughters and also ladies of the best Prussian society frequented. "During his secret mission to Berlin (1786), Mirabeau was one of the regulars at this salon. It was there that Mirabeau entered into relations with Dohn, the author of a book on the emancipation of the Jews. Jewish interests entered his heart in the salon of Henriette Herz: listening to the reading of Mendelssohn's works, he was only waiting for the opportunity to express his devotion to Judaism.

He expressed it the following year in his book on Moses Mendelssohn and the political reform of the Jews (London, 1787), which opened the movement in favor of granting citizenship rights to the Jews. He expressed it even more during the two-year struggle in the National Assembly, where his zeal in favor of the Jewish cause was equaled only by that of Robespierre, the sad Abbé Grégoire, and Br. Adrien Duport.

1. History of the Jews from the 11th century to the present day. Leipzig, 1863-1876, XI, p. 158.

808 THE PARIS REVIEW.

the same one who remained famous for having established the rational plan of the Terror.

Moses Mendelssohn, who died in 1786, on the threshold of the Promised Land, was no longer there to witness this first life of the movement he had created. But the thought of the one who has been called the third Moses was to preside over the work of his successors. Does not Rabbi Liber himself recognize that Lazarus ben David, one of the most learned theoreticians of the Union of Jews for Humanization and Science, had been a student of Mendelssohn?

2%

We would like to have sufficiently demonstrated that "the neo-messianist sect existed," contrary to proposition no. 2 of Rabbi Liber. This sect even exercised, through High Masonry, a considerable influence on the French Revolution, which was to give citizenship rights to the Jews. Let us now address proposition no. 1 of our opponent: There is no relationship between the Society for Civilization and Science of the Jews of Berlin (1819-1824) and socialism or communism.

We are very surprised to see a man as knowledgeable on the subject as Rabbi Liber appears to be, formulating this bold denial... It is not only in the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science that Socialism and Communism appear (which mean one and the same thing, namely the abolition of private property).

It was at the very beginning of the Hascala movement that we saw Moses Mendelssohn act as translator and propagandist.

Machine Translated by Google

author of Jean-Jacques Rousseau's odious Discourse Against the Right to Property, a Discourse from which all modern socialists and communists have drawn their inspiration. If the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science is the continuation of Mendelssohn's work, it has therefore undoubtedly found Socialism and Communism in its cradle,

Now, Leopold Zunz and his friends in the Union were the conti-

1. The second being Moses Maimonides, famous rabbi of the 13th century.

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 809

Mendelssohn's N numerators: Rabbi Liber expressly recognizes this.

He even gives us, pleasantly enough, all the desirable details in this regard. He explains to us that after 1815 the cause of the Jews had appeared to be so closely identified with the French Revolution that the Holy Alliance had adopted a suspicious attitude towards them: their rights as citizens were being traded off or refused almost everywhere. The Society born of Christianity closed itself off to those who had received from the translator of Rousseau, from the inspirer of Lessing and Mirabeau, the mission of invading it. It was then, to triumph over this resistance, that a second wave of assault was organized, still in Berlin: this was the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science.

Rabbi Liber opportunely reminds us that the statutes of the association, founded on November 7, 1819, assigned it the goal of "reforming Judaism to bring the Jews into harmony with the times and the States in which they live." This is indeed the thought and even the language of Mendelssohn... And this is also his formula for abandoning the traditional beliefs of Judaism and rallying to political neo-messianism. Rabbi Liber quotes us, in fact, Lazarus ben David, "disciple of Mendelssohn" and close collaborator of Leopold Zunz, who set out the program of the sect as follows, in its review: "Let no one hold it against the Jew if he finds his... Messiah in that good princes put him on the same footing as other citizens and gave him the hope of obtaining all the rights of citizens by fulfilling all their duties?

Rabbi Liber no longer denies here that the word "neism" is necessary, but he finds "this neo-messianism flat and really not very subversive." Let us say rather that the formula was clever and prudent. The Prussian censorship, in 1823, would not have tolerated anything more precise. |

To know what this neo-messianism really corresponded to, we must remember that, at the same time, the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science entrusted to Henri

1. Obviously, Mendelssohn and the Hascala movement are to blame.
2. Paris Review of August 1, p. 613.

Machine Translated by Google

810 THE PARIS REVIEW

| Heine his history lessons, to Heinrich Heine so ardently, so mystically revolutionary that he made the pilgrimage to Minster to honor the relics of John Bockenraw, known as John of Leiden, the leader of the Communists of the 16th century.

"I have respectfully kissed," he declared, "the relics of the tailor John of Leyden, the chains he wore, the pincers with which he was tortured." We have already quoted this text, which proves, among many others, to what extent Henry Heine was fundamentally a communist. Rabbi Liber passed it over in silence in his refutation. This is very regrettable.

In fact, the courses of the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science must not have been very different from those of a Leninist School today. In Leninist Schools too, they talk about history, sociology, new legislation to be established and the Emancipation of the Jews, and this ends in civil war...

Rabbi Liber, it is true, shows us Heinrich Heine, in his lectures, "exciting his young listeners by celebrating the exploits of the Germans of old and with tears in their eyes when telling them about the struggles of Arminius against the Romans." The picture is sentimental, but unlikely. One of two things, in fact:

either the Union's lectures, as Rabbi Liber claims, were addressed only to Israelites – and then their emotion must have been nil when listening to the story of a war dating back two thousand years between two peoples who were completely alien to them by blood. How much a story of the siege of Jerusalem by Titus would have moved them, how good! Or were those who were so passionately interested in "the struggles of Arminius against the Romans" young Germans – and then what becomes of Rabbi Liber's assertion that the Union was not at all directed at Christians?

The truth is that the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science exercised on international Judaism, in the 19th century,

1. Our school textbooks, rather foolishly placed in the hands of young Annamites who receive teaching, oblige them to recite: "Our ancestors the Gauls had a fair complexion, blond hair and blue eyes."

Well! It is necessary to obtain the diploma. But do we see these sons of Asia having the eyes full of tears at the story of the taking of Alesia and the sacrifice of Vereingé-tor: other heroes of their race & to cry!

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 811

same action Siam 1 Mendelssohn and the first –Maskilim in the 18th century; it launched an assault on this Christian Society, which hesitated before the admission of a race considered then as inassimilable; it assigned to its conquering mood precise and immediate political goals; it finally provided Israeli leaders for the demagogic and socialist agitation which was to lead to the Revolution of 1848 – this Revolution of 1848 "which gave air to the German Jews", admits Mr. Rabbi

Liber. Like the Revolution of 1789–93

Machine Translated by Google

had given some to the French Jews...

In fact, the Union was the beacon of Israel, a part of which has since followed the paths of neo-messianism. This should not surprise us if it is true that "in all times there has been a center of union among the Jews, even among those who have been dispersed to the ends of the terrestrial globe. No matter where they were, the Jews maintained relations with this spiritual center.

Never has any nation felt in such an acute manner as the Jews the impulse emanating from such a center. Among them, every suggestion spreads with incredible speed from the center to the extreme peripheries of the national organism.

Our opponent will exclaim that he caught us in the act and that we are taking this from the Protocols of the Elders of Zion...

Not at all! We quote one of the intellectual sons of the Union of the Jews. for Civilization and Science, the famous Moses Hess, friend of Heinrich Heine and Karl Marx, whom Arnold Rüge, according to the Jewish Encyclopedia, called "the communist rabbi." Mr. Seignobos (Political History of Contemporary Europe, p. 688) shows him organizing the first communist groups in the Rhineland. A quarter of a century later, he would be a member of the First International and representative of Germany at the Congresses of Brussels (1868) and Basel (1869). The above text is taken from his book Rome and Palestine, which was, says his translator, Dr. Waxman, "the herald and trumpet of Zionism." Rabbi Liber will find it on page 261 of the American edition.

After all that has been said, we are forced to note that

Our opponent is mistaken when he asserts, in his first

maire ae that there is no relationship between the Company

812 ILA PARIS REVIEW

for the Civilization and Science of the Jews and Socialism or Communism." The opposite is true.

Let us see if our opponent is more successful when he objects to us the brief existence of the Union, which would not have allowed it to have the decisive influence on the beginnings of Communism that we attribute to it. Founded in November 1819, the association would have been dissolved in 1824, due to lack of funds, explains Rabbi Liber. The objection seems significant... Unfortunately, we do not agree, either on the cause of this disappearance, or on the date at which it should be placed.

We do not agree on the cause, because the Union had, precisely in 1824, an excellent reason to announce its dissolution, without its financial situation having anything to do with it: it was on the verge of being prosecuted. The attention of the Prussian police had ended up being aroused by its propaganda; people were suspicious of its teaching intended to "civilize the Jews"; people foresaw the dangers of the "reform of Judaism" – which proves that the Prussian police lacked neither foresight nor information. In short, in 1824, Prussia decided to monitor the movement very closely, and, according to the testimony of the encyclopedist

S. Cahen (known

Machine Translated by Google

as translator of the Bible), "in the Rhineland provinces, Jews were even forbidden to reform their religion. A bad omen for neo-messianism! This first severity foreshadowed others, which the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science resolved not to wait for. It announced with great fanfare that it was entering into liquidation...

Did it really disappear? The question does not even arise for anyone who has studied the history of secret societies. The first thing an association of conspirators does when it feels discovered is to proclaim that it no longer exists. Thus in France, Barbes and Blanqui, whose lives were nothing but a long conspiracy, constantly kept the same general staff and the same troops in hand, limiting themselves, each time they were unmasked, to declaring their association dissolved. They reformed it three months later under another name, and thus we had, successively, the Society of the Rights of Man, the Society of Families, the Society of the Seasons,

etc.

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 813.

who used the same personnel for identical purposes.

In order to believe that the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science really dissolved in 1824, it would therefore be necessary to prove: 1 that its leaders ceased to be in contact with each other; 2 that they individually modified the direction of their activity. | |

However, if we examine the facts, the complete opposite appears. Rabbi

Liber himself pays homage to the unity of life of Leopold Zunz, who stubbornly defended the same ideas throughout a life of almost a hundred years. All his colleagues, without exception, showed the same perseverance. In vain would anyone object to the conversions to Protestantism of Edward Ganz and Heinrich Heine:

we have shown in our study, by quoting letters of unprecedented cynicism, what the latter's conversion was worth...

(We even regret that Rabbi Liber did not, while reading us, notice these texts, any more than he noticed the one relating to the communist pilgrimage of Heinrich Heine. In any case, one fact is certain: after the apparent and forced dissolution of the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science, in 1824, its leaders did not modify anything, individually, in their political activity.

And they did not cease to be in close contact, to collaborate with each other. We even wonder how Rabbi Liber can be tempted to deny it!

How can he write, for example (proposition no. 3) that "Zunz knew Heinrich Heine in 1823, but then lost sight of him?" Let us refer our opponent to the Jewish Encyclopedia, which will remind him: 1° that "the friendship between Zunz and Heine lasted all the life" of the latter; 2° that "Moses Moser had the main influence on Heine's life"... Friendship that lasts all a life, main influence on the direction of all the activity of a life, is this what Rabbi Liber calls "losing sight of people"? And it is he who gives us the advice to know the questions we are talking about...

We would not like to leave the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science without responding to the little quarrel... in German that Rabbi Liber has picked with us about the title of the association that is dear to him. This title is stated, in the language of Lessing: Association for the Culture and Science of the Jews. And our opponent absolutely wants this to mean: Society for the Civilization and Science of the Jews. Nen draws this conclusion that the association's aim was "not to propagate among Christians some kind of Jewish civilization or science, but to propagate modern culture among the Jews." "It is so little the same thing that it is rather the opposite," concludes triumphantly Rabbi Liber, who maliciously fires at us—but, alas, crippling it—the verses of Boileau: "From a word put in its place, learn power."

Machine Translated by Google

Let us therefore follow, since he demands it, Rabbi Liber on this linguistic ground and note immediately that Verein, in German, is translated as Union, and not at all as Soecidie.

The word Gesellschaft corresponds to Society. Our opponent therefore begins his version with a mistake...

We see, moreover, that he does not commit it without necessity.

The word Verein, literally meaning the union of several units (ein), requires a complement that designates these units. Now, in the sentence under consideration there cannot be any question of units other than those expressed by the words der Juden (of the Jews).

This complement is, in truth, rejected at the end of the sentence; but this construction, although flawed, is not without example in German. That is why, all things considered, we have translated: Union of the Jews, etc. Rabbi Liber, on the contrary, determined to impose on us his meaning of an association reserved for the Jews and concerned only with them, wanted to consider der Juden as the complement of für Kultur und Wissenschaft (for Civilization and Science).

But then he came up against the word Verein (Union), which no longer had a complement; and, as this word became troublesome, he removed it altogether and replaced it with Gesellschaft (Society).

This is what he calls, &evidently, (putting a word in its place» 5 |

Let us note, moreover, that Rabbi Liber does not agree with the director of the Archives Israelites regarding this translation. He protests, in fact, against our version especially because it would suggest that it was a question of propagating "I don't know what Jewish civilization or science." Now, precisely,

MARXISM AND JUDAISM | 815

Mr. Prague, translating the incriminated title on his part, renders it as follows: Society for Jewish Civilization and Science!

In all fairness, it is not us, but his co-religionist from the Archives Israelites, that Rabbi Liber should be taking it out on. | |

All these linguistic quibbles have very little significance, and we only mention them out of deference to our opponent, who seems to attach importance to them. Since he believes that the name given to an association allows one to judge its purpose exactly, let us refer him again to the Jewish Encyclopedia. There he will find that Henry Heine, lecturer at the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science, called it Young Palestine... The meaning of this nickname is very clear,

Machine Translated by Google

because all the revolutionary committees that then covered Europe were called Young Italy, Young Germany, Young Switzerland, etc. Closer to us, we had Young Portugal and the Young Turks. It is impossible to say more clearly, among insiders, that the famous Union was a revolutionary organization. | |

And Henry Heine knew more about the association of which he was one of the leaders than Rabbi Liber knows today. u | | 1

We find ourselves having answered in advance the second part of the third proposition of our opponent, which reads as follows: "The Jewish savani L. Zunz is not a neo-messianist, any more than he is a socialist or a communist.

He met Heinrich Heine in 1823, but then lost sight of him." The first part of this proposition seems to us to refute itself. Since the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science inspired the first followers of Communism, since it deserved to be called by Heinrich Heine Young Palestine, it is clear that one cannot consider as a man of order the one who was its founder and leader. All the praise, moreover deserved, awarded

1. See the quote from the Archives Israelites at the head of this article.

816 LX PARIS REVIEW

& his talent as a writer and his science, can change nothing about this brutal fact. |

Rabbi Liber presents us, it is true, with a potpourri of declarations made, between 1848 and 1865, by Leopold Zunz in popular societies or in electoral meetings v.

(Well! So he was going to speak out in Christian political circles, this man who, according to our opponent, was exclusively concerned with the education of his coreligionists?) We assume this summary to be accurate on every point and in no way tendentious. What does it mean? That Leopold Zunz based the order on "voluntary obedience"; that he demanded absolute equality for all citizens; that he declared war on "privileged bodies" such as the Church and the Army; that he believed that, "progress being thwarted by established situations," revolutions could not be made "without conflict" and that struggle is a law of evolution; that he proclaimed that the Revolution would only be successful when a State based on democratic law was established throughout "Europe; etc.

A:

Well! He was not doing badly, the gentle scholar whom Rabbi Liber describes to us as solely concerned with synagogue poetry and the history of his race... How understandable that the Prussian police opened up to Peil about his activity and that of his colleagues! z -

But these ideas "are at the same time different from those of Karl Marx," says Rabbi Liber. We would like to refer him to the manifesto of the First International (London, 1864) written under the supervision and with the collaboration of Karl Marx: | |

Machine Translated by Google

Considering that the emancipation of the workers must be the work of the workers themselves; that the efforts of the workers to conquer their emancipation must not aim at constituting new privileges, but at establishing for all equal rights and duties and antagonizing the domination of any class, the undersigned, etc., declare that the International Workingmen's Association, as well as all Societies or individuals, will recognize as the basis of their conduct towards all men Truth, Justice, Morality, without distinction of color, belief or nationality. They consider

1. See the Revue de Paris of August 1, pp. 610-611.

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 817

as a duty to demand for all human and citizen rights. No duties without rights, etc.

It is enough to compare these two texts to see that at approximately the same date, Leopold Zunz showed a far greater bite and aggressiveness than the leader of the First International. And yet Karl Marx had already been plotting the ruin of all civilization for a quarter of a century.

Rabbi Liber's enthusiasm for Leopold Zunz is so great that he sometimes accuses us of insulting his spiritual master with remarks that are only the literal translation of letters written by the latter. We quote: "He was twice led to renounce the functions of rabbi, in Berlin (1822), then in Prague (1835), it was not because of some particular ideas, as Sallust insinuates."

Ste

Now, a few lines further down, our opponent quotes Zunz's own version of this incident: "My opinions and principles do not accord well with the political and religious state of the people here. It is better for me to leave. I cannot submit to the rabbis and administrators of the community. I can use my time more usefully than to play a comedy."

"Opinions" and "principles" that are so at odds with the political and religious state of the leaders and members of a community that one is forced to leave it, are therefore not "particular ideas"? Should it have been said that they were "common ideas"? I

Let's move on to proposition no. 4: "Heine had dealings with Karl Marx, but was afraid of Communism."

Our study has accumulated evidence of the revolutionary role played by Heinrich Heine and the help he gave to Karl Marx. It could have established an identical indictment if we had dealt with Heine's relations with Ferdinand Lassal, known as Lassalle, the great German Jewish agitator. We are

Machine Translated by Google

1. See the Revue de Paris of June 15, 1928, p. 922.
August 15, 1928. ö f 4

818 | THE KINGDOM OF PARIS

will excuse not returning to facts demonstrated ten times.
Let us simply respond to the objections raised by Rabbi Liber.

Rabbi Liber makes us say—and he has a lot of fun about it—that Heinrich Heine was the agent of "payments" between Karl Marx and his occult inspirers.

Good!

On which page did we say this? Our learned opponent would be very kind to point it out to us... We said that Heine "provided encouragement and useful recommendations," that he introduced Karl Marx to Arnold Rüge, etc., all duly proven facts. We never called Heinrich Heine "a payment agent," made to Karl

Marx, or to anyone else. So? | Let us note that Rabbi Liber considers, most naturally—ment of the world, that if Heine (had received, for the Iranians, funds from a Jewish society, something would have come to him from it."

A fine moral rating! We would not have allowed ourselves to rate the honesty of the great Jewish poet so low.

Let us pass over the poverty of Heinrich Heine, which has nothing to do with his political leanings. It is, moreover, clearly disproved by critics. Heinrich Heine had some personal resources; he received a pension of 4,800 francs per year from his uncle in Hamburg; he also received a pension of 4,800 francs from the French government; finally, his royalties brought him in about ten thousand francs annually.

In total, more than 20,000 francs per year of known resources. A considerable sum under the July regime!

A character of Eugène Sue, who has a hotel, stables, carriages and servants, says, to impress his audience, that he spends 20,000 francs a year – and they look at him with envy. This is because one must consider that one gold franc of 1840 was worth three of 1914 and would therefore be worth 15 of our paper francs.

Would a man of letters who earned 300,000 francs a year these days really be considered indigent? We ask the opinion of Mr. Poincaré's tax collectors.

Rabbi Liber's favorite method appears again when he observes that Heine could not have been "a prophet and apostle of the First International," since the latter was founded eight years after his death! It seems that "with his spirit biting, Heine would have made a parody of it? Come on, come on!

MARXISUE AND JUDAISM 819

Our work has been described to demonstrate that the International had "origins" twenty years prior to its "official foundation": 1844, instead of 1864. We have provided voluminous documentation to prove that the study of these "origins" reveals

Heine's collaboration at every step.

Machine Translated by Google

The latter, having died in 1856, therefore had twelve years (since 1844) to promote Marx's preparatory work. This is the fact we have asserted. Rabbi Liber pretends not to have judged the numerous pages we have devoted to the "origins" of the International, the only ones where we speak of Heinrich Heine. He supposes that we admit the date of "foundation" of 1864 – against which all our work was written. And then he triumphs: in 1864, Heine had been dead for eight years, so he could not have participated in the "foundation" v. |

It is true that Rabbi Liber believes, elsewhere, to score a point on us. He is at least convinced of it... Have we not said that Engels' thought, in proposing

May 1st as the feast of the world proletariat, was to commemorate the safe and sound arrival in Paris of Heinrich Heine, on May 1st, 18312 (Our opponent read "the crossing of the Rhine"). His Socialist Manual in hand, Rabbi Liber conveys to us throughout the classic explanation of the revolutionary feast:

in 1886, in Chicago, a fight took place on May 3rd between strikers and the police; on May 4th, a bomb killed seven policemen and wounded sixty; as a result, on a date which is not May 1st, seven of the guilty parties were condemned to death. And that is why May 1st is the great socialist and communist holiday... But, says the classic reeit, the strike which gave rise to these tragic incidents had begun on May 1st! Poor explanation! One would have understood that the proletariat was commemorating the anniversary of the homicidal bomb, or that of the condemnation to death of the guilty parties; but the anniversary of the first day of a strike, in a country which has seen so many! Besides, it is false that this strike began on May 1st; the newspapers of the time testify that the state of strike existed before this date. So?

1. Rabbi Liber obviously wanted to write "a satire" 5.

820 THE PARIS REVIEW

So, it is precisely because this explanation does not hold water that we have looked for another one. Can we imagine the French National Day fixed on July 10, under the pretext that the Festival of the Federation, in 1790, took place on July 14?

On the contrary, the respect with which Marx and Engels showed the memory of Heinrich Heine, their protector, Marx's saviour in 1848, gives every likelihood to our interpretation.

And, if we had to go back further, let us recall that Adam Weisshaupt, the founder of the Communist Order of the "Illuminati" of Germany, was one of them on May 1st. Why?

Because May 1st was an old pagan festival, celebrated by ceremonies and customs of which many vestiges can be found in the Middle Ages. Let us recall the May, which the peasants of the French countryside planted on this day, still in the 18th century, and which lived again, in the revolutionary era, in the "tree of liberty"? And also the "princes of May" of the 15th and 16th centuries? Or even the "queens of May" in England?

Machine Translated by Google

It is the fifth and final proposition that reveals to us the secret thought of Rabbi Liber, the one that inspired his refutation: "Heine and Marx, the latter especially, did not like the Jews and Judaism; they do not owe their political and social ideas to it. Our learned opponent accuses in advance of "racism" those who would claim that a Jewish birth is indelible, just like a black or yellow birth, and independently of beliefs or abjurations. "As an Israelite," says our opponent, "I reply: Judaism wants to be judged by its faithful, not by its renegades."

Since it is being "racist" to hold Judaism responsible for the misdeeds of Heinrich Heine and Karl Marx, let us be careful not to have a personal opinion on this question, and let Rabbi Liber discuss it with a few men of his own race. They are not renegades, far from it! but, on the contrary, true glories of Israel, whose name is spoken with respect in all the synagogues of the world.

"MARXISM AND JUDAISM 821

One, Doctor Professor H. Graetz, is a giant of Jewish history, whom Rabbi Liber, in his reply, cites with deference. The other, Bernard Lazare, has been honored with a statue by his blood brothers. We apologize to Rabbi Liber; but, from the Israelite point of view, his authority is small in comparison with that of the two famous Jews with whom we ask him to enter into discussion. And, behind these, we will present him with a few others.

Let us see what Professor Graetz says in his History of the Jews from Antiquity to the Present Day (Leipzig, 1870, vol. XI, p. 368): |

Do Becerne and Heine belong to Jewish history? Entirely!

Not only did Jewish blood flow in their veins, but also Jewish essence in their nerves.

The lightning they unleashed over Germany was charged with Talmudic Jewish electricity. Doubtless both of them externally detached themselves from Judaism, but only as two champions who adopted the armament and the enemy's flag to strike it more effectively and annihilate it more completely.

Is Rabbi Liber happy with this definition?

Or does he prefer that of Bernard Lazare, who, in his book Antisemitism, its History and its Causes (Paris, Leon Chailley, 1894), devotes around thirty pages to "The revolutionary spirit in Judaism"?

With high moral probity, the great Israelite that was Bernard Lazare recognizes that, even at the time of their independence in Palestine, the Jews were "always misunderstood"

"tents... perpetually worried, waiting for a better "that they never found realized; .. from there this constant agitation of the Jews which manifested itself not only in "prophecy, in Messianism and in Christianity, "which was its supreme outcome, but also in the

Machine Translated by Google

"dispersion and then in an individual way."

The causes that gave rise to this agitation are internal causes that are rooted in the very essence of the Hebrew spirit. Life according to the Hebrew must give the being all the joys and it is only from it that he must expect them... Having no hope of compensation

. 00.

8832 ns 14 VuR DE. vanis

In the future, the Jew did not have to resign himself to the dangers of life. To the scourges that befell him, he responded neither with the fatalism of the Muslim, nor with the resignation of the Christian; he responded with revolt. As he was in possession of a concrete ideal, he wanted to realize it, and anything that delayed its achievement provoked his anger.

It was the idea of contract that dominated all the theology of Israel. When the Israelite fulfilled his commitments to Yahweh, he demanded reciprocity. If he believed himself wronged, if he judged that his rights were not respected, he had no good reason to temporize, because the minute of happiness that he lost was a minute that was stolen from him and that could never be given back to him.

On the return from Babylon... the psalms are, for the most part, diatribes:

against the rich; they symbolize the hatred of the Ebionim against the powerful. When the psalmists speak to the possessors, to the well-fed, they willingly say with Amos: Listen to me, you devourers of the poor, devourers of the weak of the Country... The rich man is the wicked, he is a man of violence and blood; he is deceitful, perfidious, proud; 3 11 He does evil without motive; he is contemptible, for he exploits, oppresses, persecutes and devours the people... Excited by the words of their poets, the Ebionim... dreamed of the day that would avenge them for iniquities and reproaches, of the day when the... would be brought down and the righteous exalted: of the day of the Messiah.

Therefore, the conception that the Jews have of life and death provides the first element of their revolutionary spirit. Their conception of divinity... led them to conceive of the equality of men, it even led them to anarchy. Any government, whatever it may be, is bad, since it tends to replace the government of God; it must be fought, since Yahweh is the only head of the Jewish republic, the only one to whom the Israelite owes obedience. When the Pro-Bethites insulted the kings, they represented the feeling of Israel...

They were driven to revolt against human authority; they could not accept it and, in times of uprising, Zadok and Judah the Galilean were seen to draw the zealots with them, shouting: "Do you call no one your master?" No man could rise above others; the harsh celestial master called earthly equality and already primitive Mosaicism carried within itself this social equality. It is God himself who commands this equality and it is the powerful who are the obstacle to its realization. As for the rich, it is thanks to their iniquities that equality subsists.

The Israelite's hatred of the perpetrator of injustice was complicated by a hatred of the rich, the denier of egalitarian prescriptions.

The Hebrew preached that all fortune came from evil, from sin; he said that all good was ill-gotten.

The love of freedom also contributed to the formation of the mind
Revolutionary of the Julfs, and, speaking of freedom, | do not mean

And we would hear Leopold Zunz, heard: by Mr. Rabbi Liber...

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 823

not political freedom. The concept of individual freedom always existed among the Israelites for it was an inevitable corollary of their dogma on divinity. All power belonged to God and a Jew could only be directed by Yahweh. He was accountable for his actions only to Adonai who governs the heavens and the earth; none of his fellow men had the right to restrict his action or impose his will on him; vis-a-vis creatures of flesh, he was free, be free.

This conviction made the Hebrew incapable of discipline and subordination. The Judean princes never reigned except over a people of rebels, incapable of submitting to any yoke and any constraint.

And Bernard Lazare shows how this spirit of revolt of his race came to manifest itself with regard to God himself.

The story of the dispute between Rabbi Eliezer and his fellow rabbis gives us a fairly typical example and it deserves to be recorded.

During a doctrinal discussion the divine voice was heard, and, intervening in the debate, it ruled in favor of Rabbi Eliezer. The colleagues of the favored one did not accept the heavenly decision. One of them, Rabbi Joshua, stood up and declared: "These are not mysterious voices, it is the majority of the wise who must henceforth decide questions of doctrine. Reason is no longer hidden in heaven, it is no longer in the heavens that the Law has been given to the earth, and it is up to human reason to understand and explain it."

If divine words were thus received, when they allowed themselves to violate individuals and to want to impose on human reason a will foreign to its own will, how were human words accepted! Mr. Renan was right when he said of the Semites: "Nothing therefore holds these souls against the untamed feeling of the self," and this is especially true of the Jews.

Now, the individualist, imbued with idealism, is and will always be a rebel everywhere.

We have identified all the elements from which the revolutionary spirit in Judaism was formed: these are the ideas of Justice, Equality, and Liberty. If, among nations, Israel was first to advocate these ideas, other peoples, at various times in history, supported them, they were not, for that reason, peoples of revolt like the Jewish people. Why? Because, if these peoples were convinced of the excellence of Justice, Equality, and Liberty, they did consider their total realization as possible, at least in this world, and consequently the did not work solely for their advent.

On the contrary, the Jews not only believed that Justice, Liberty and Equality could be the sovereigns of the world, but they felt specially commissioned to work for this reign.

1. Talmud, treatise Baba Mezia, 59 a.

824 To 2AREvURm OF PARIS.

Machine Translated by Google

the desires, 1 the 1 that these three goddesses had ended up crystallizing around a central race: that of the messianic times, of the coming of the Messiah. 8825 =

" To none of those who presented themselves as the Messiah, Israel has

He wanted to believe. He rejected all those who said they were sent by God:

He refused to listen to Jesus, Barkokeba, Theudas, Alroy, Serenus, Molise of Crete,

Sabbatai Levi. This is because Israel never saw its ideal become real. None of the prophets came to him brought in the folds of his robe divine Justice, nor triumphant Equality, nor indestructible Liberty; the Jews did not see, at the voice of these anointed ones, the chains fall, the prison walls crumble, the rod of authority rot, the ill-gotten treasures of the plunderers dissipate like smoke.

The narrow practices of the Jews stifled their instincts of revolt. The Talmud did not lower yet not all the Jews; among those who rejected it, there were some who persisted in the belief that Justice, Liberty and Equality were to come into the world; there were many who believed that the people of Yahweh were responsible for working for this coming. This is what makes it clear the Jews were involved in all the revolutionary movements, for they took an active part in revolutions, as we will see when studying their role in the times of trouble.

change of the el. 5

Thus the anti-Semites' grievance appears well-founded: the Jew has a revolutionary spirit; consciously or not, he is an agent of revolution...

It was these rationalists and these Philosophers (Guides) who, from the 10th to the 2nd century, until the Renaissance, were the auxiliaries of what one could call the general Revolution of Humanity. They helped, to a certain extent, man to free himself from religious bonds....

At a time when Catholicism and the Christian faith were the foundation of states, fighting them or providing weapons to those who attacked them was revolutionary.

The Jews did not limit themselves to 1A. They supported the Arab materialism which so strongly shook the Christian faith and spread incredulity

... this point, that we allege the existence of a secret society having sworn the destruction of Christianity: Mr. Darmesteter was right to write:

"The Jew was the doctor of Pinereville, all the rebels of the spirit came to him, in the shadows or in the open air. He was at work in the immense workshop of blasphemy of the Strand" in Frederick and the princes of Swabia and Aragon 5.

The historian limits himself to studying the part that the Jew, given his spirit, its character, the nature of its philosophy and its religion, could take from the revolutionary process and movements. By revolutionary process I mean the ideological march of the Revolution, which can be represented on the one hand by the slow destruction of the Christian and religious state, on the other hand by an economic evolution... 3 -

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 825

Machine Translated by Google

(Your Jewish scholars) translated the blasphemous libels, the lives of Jesus, like the Toledot Jeschu, and the 18th century repeated the fables and the disrespectful legends of Pharisees of the 2nd century, which we find both in Voltaire and in Parny, and whose rationalist irony, dire and positive, lives again in Heine, in Boerne and in Disraeli, as power of reasoning of the doctors lives again in Karl Marx, and the libertarian ardor of the Hebrew revolutionaries in the enthusiastic Ferdinand Lassalle. N

. It cannot be denied that Illuminism and Martinism were powerful preparers of revolutions. . What were the relations between the Jews and these secret societies? This is what is not easy to elucidate, because serious documents are lacking.... It is certain, however, that there were Jews at the very cradle of Freemasonry, Kabbalist Jews, as proven by certain preserved rites; very probably, during the years preceding the French Revolution, they entered in even greater numbers into the councils of this society and founded secret societies themselves. There were Jews around Weisshaupt; and Martinez de Pasqualis, a Jew of Portuguese origin, organized numerous Illuminist groups in France...

During the revolutionary period, the Jews did not remain inactive. Given their small number in Paris, we see them occupy a considerable place.

We have seen how, grouped around Saint-Simonism, they completed the economic revolution of which 1789 had been a phase. During the second revolutionary period, that which began in 1830, they showed even more ardor than during the first. They were, moreover, directly interested because, in most of the States of Europe, they did not yet enjoy the fullness of their rights. Those among them who were not revolutionaries by reasoning and temperament were so by interest. In working for the glory of liberalism, they worked for themselves. There is no doubt that with their gold, by their energy, by their talent, they supported and seconded the European Revolution. During these years, their bankers, their industrialists, their poets, their writers, driven by interests that were otherwise very different, all worked towards the same goal... But whatever the ends pursued, whether self-interested or ideal, the Jews were among the most active, the most influential, the most propagandists of that era. They were found involved in the Young Germany movement; they were numerous in the secret societies that formed the revolutionary fighting army, in the Masonic lodges, in the groups of the Charbonnerie, in the Haute Vente Romaine, everywhere, in France, in Germany, in Switzerland, in Austria, in Italy.

As for their action and their influence in contemporary Socialism, it is and was, as we know, great. It was Marx who gave the impulse to the International, by the manifesto of 1847, with Engels.

1. How we pity Rabbi Liber! Here is his illustrious coreli-

826 in the year DE Paris

The Jews were numerous there, and in the one finds, General Council only,

Karl Marx, secretary for Germany and Russia, and James Gohén, secretary for Denmark.

Besides Marx and Cohen, one can mention Netimayer, secretary of the Correspondence Bureau Austria; Fribourg, who was one of the directors of the Parisian Federation of the International which also included Loeb, Halmayer, Lazare and Armand Levi; Leon Frankel, who directed the German section in Paris; Cohen, who was a delegate of the London Cigar Association to the Congress of the International in Brussels in 1868; Ph. Genen, who

Machine Translated by Google

Ful, at the same Congress, delegate of the Antwerp section of the International, etc. Many Jews affiliated with the International later played a role in the Commune, where they found other coreligionists. | :

As for the organization of the Delete party, the Jews contributed powerfully to it. Marx and Lassalle in Germany, Aaron Libermann and Adler in Austria, Dobrojanu Gherea in Romania, Gompers, Kahn and de Lion in the United States of America in North America are still its directors or initiators.

Mr. Liber has | accused our list of Jewish socialist leaders of inaccuracies and malevolence. He almost accused us of having taken it from Russian anti-Semites, which is, as everyone knows, the height of horror. However, the list given by his famous co-religionist Bernard Lazare contains all the names that appear in the BR plus a few other interesting ones to note...

. | therefore very briefly outline the revolutionary history of the

7 wit, or at least | have tried to indicate how one could undertake it; | have shown how they proceeded ideologically and actively, how they were among those who prepare the Revolution in thought, and among those who translate it into action. It will be objected to me that in becoming revolutionary, the

Jew most often becomes atheist and that: thus he ceases to be Jewish. This is only in a certain way, in the sense especially that the children of the revolutionary Jew blend into the population which surrounds them, and that, consequently, the revolutionary Jews assimilate more easily; but in general the Jews, even revolutionaries, have kept the Jewish spirit, and if they have abandoned all religion and false faith, they have nonetheless undergone, atavistically and educationally, the national e This is especially true for the

Bernard Lazare, like Sallust, is of the opinion that the International dates back about twenty years before 1864... Did Henri, Heine, "with his biting wit", also have "a Be" = Bernard's assertion

Lazarus? 6

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 827

Israeli revolutionaries who lived in the first half of this century, and of whom Henri Heine and Karl Marx offer us two good models.

Heine, who was considered a German in France and who was reproached in Germany for being French, was above all a Jew. It was because he was Jewish that he celebrated Napoleon and that he had for Caesar the enthusiasm of the German Israelites, liberated by the imperial will.

– The same is true of Marx. This descendant of a line of rabbis and doctors inherited all the logical force of his ancestors; he was a lucid and clear Talmudist, who was not embarrassed by the silly minutiae of practice, a Talmudist who made sociology, and applied his native qualities as an exegete to the critique of political economy. He was animated by that old Hebrew materialism which perpetually dreamed of a paradise realized on earth and always rejected the distant and problematic

matic hope of an Eden after death; but he was not only a logician, he was also a revolutionary agitator, a fierce polemicist, and he took his gift of sarcasm and invective, Id od Hes

pris: from the Julian sources.

We could also demonstrate what Boerne, what Lassalle, what Moses Hess and Robert Blum took from their Hebrew origins, as did Disraeli, and thus we would have proof of the persistence among thinkers, of the Jewish spirit, this Jewish spirit that we have already noted in Mor and Spinoza.

The texts that we publish above respond, we believe, with sufficient clarity to the fifth proposition of Rabbi Liber, who claimed that Heine and Marx "do not owe their political and social ideas to Judaism."

We could cite many others, all equally conclusive, and all coming from qualified Israelite writers. But space is limited for us and this demonstration cannot continue indefinitely.

However, since Mr. Emile Vandervelde, in Le Peuple, of Brussels, and Mr.

Rabbi Liber, in his refutation, have spoken of the anti-Semitism of Karl Marx, we must study the latter's pamphlet which is described as a "Drumont-style indictment." The document is interesting because of its date, which coincides with the beginnings of Marx's communist activity in France (1844); it is even more so because of its neo-messianist significance.

82 1 u | 27% REVIEW| OF PARIS,

The Israelites in Seen 3 lands in . by the Union of Jews for Civilization and Science, were fighting for the full and complete acquisition of citizenship rights. Everything indicated that they would soon obtain them, as indeed happened a few years later, thanks to the Revolution of 1848.

But two tendencies were manifest among them: the radical, which considered the struggle for political equality only as a means of social and revolutionary agitation (a tendency represented by the neo-messianist leaders that we have presented to our readers); the moderate, which considered that the conquest of political rights had its price in itself, and that, joined to the control that Israel exercised over State Finances, Banking and Commerce, it could form a reasonable goal for the ambitions of the race.

Among these moderates: there were many capital straws—

Jewish talists, who had been worried by Marx's social excesses in the Rhenish

Gazette, and who refused, or only half-heartedly granted, their subsidies to revolutionary propaganda.

lutionary. It was for them that Karl Marx wrote his pamphlet on the Jewish question, to which he very skillfully gave the indirect form of an article critical of a book by Bruno Bauer. It is them that he takes to task, whose capitalist egoism he denounces, and whom he reminds, in barely veiled terms, of their ethnic duty.

With his usual brutality, Marx first reminds them that the goal pursued by the race is not equality with Christians, but the total ruin of Christian society, whose existence is considered intolerable. The piece is worth reading: 8 | Ä E

Machine Translated by Google

IN J uits e To be put on 9 degauts with the Christian subjects?

If they recognize the Christian State as founded in law, they recognize the regime of general enslavement. Why is their special yoke detrimental to them since the general Yoke is Platf

The Jew possesses in his own right the privilege of being Jewish. He has, as a Jew, rights that Christians do not have. Why does he demand rights that he does not have and that Christians enjoy?

In demanding his emancipation from the Christian state, he is asking that the Christian state renounce its religious prejudice. And he, the Jew, renounce his religious prejudice? Does he then have the right to ask a

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 829

another to abdicate his religion? As long as the State remains Christian and as long as the Jew remains Jewish, both are equally incapable, one of giving emancipation, the other of receiving it.

A statement of implacable logic, which the event has taken it upon itself to demonstrate. For a State to truly break down its barriers, not for Israelites as an exception, but for the entire Jewish people, it is necessary for this State to renounce being Christian: it will be momentarily described as "neutral", "indigenous", etc.; but in reality, and the course of events will quickly prove it, it will have passed over to anti-Christianity. There is a law of History there.

Karl Marx immediately came up with another one.

The Jew can only have, with regard to the State, the attitude of a Jew, that is to say, of a foreigner: to true nationality, he opposes his chimerical nationality and to true law illusory law. He believes he has the right to separate himself from the rest of humanity. matter of principle, he takes no part in the historical movement and expects a future that nothing in common with the general future of man. He considers himself a member of the Jewish people and the Jewish people as the Chosen People. On what grounds, Jews, do you then demand emancipation?

After having thus rudely reminded his fellow men of their duty to wage racial war, Karl Marx shows them the goal: the ruin of the Christian State by the establishment of general atheism:

The most rigid form of opposition between Jew and Christian is religious opposition. How is an opposition resolved? By making it impossible. And how do you make religious opposition impossible? By suppressing religion.

And Marx wants this atheism to reign among the Jew as among the Christian,

so that both see in their respective religions "nothing but snake skins shed by the serpent that is man." Are we right to say that neo-messianism is a heretical and materialistic sect compared to the old Jehovist and supernatural Judaism?

Machine Translated by Google

Marx then attacks, always with the same brutal logic, those inconsistent Israelites who want to stop at democracy without going as far as socialism.

that the 10 of the number exists, exposes b. it works for the dispossession of the possessors, who are not the number.

As soon as they decide that the electorate and eligibility are no longer linked to the property tax, as has been done in many North American states, the state abolishes private property, a man politically defies the abolition of private property. Hamilton interprets this fact very accurately from a political point of view: "the great mass has won the victory over the owners and financial wealth." Is not private property abolished, theoretically, when the one who owns nothing has become the legislator of the one who owns?

– The State abolishes the distinctions established by birth, social rank, education, particular occupation, from the moment it decrees that birth, social rank, education, particular occupation do not create political differences, from the moment when, without taking these distinctions into account, it proclaims each member of the people, co-holders, on an equal basis, of Popular sovereignty.

| Sovereignty, moreover, which Marx does not value very highly:

In the (democratic) State, man... is the imaginary member of an imaginary sovereignty, stripped of his real, individual life and filled with an unreal generality. | |

After having let himself be carried away, for a few pages, by his hatred of the Christian State, after having noted, with joy, that the destruction of the old corporations has already ruined the vital bases of this State, Marx returns to his objective: the disappearance of the Christian Society:

If they want to become Jews, they must not convert to Christianity pure and simple, but to dissolved Christianity, to dissolved religion, that is to say, to Philosophy, to E and to its result: free Humanity.

We recognize in Judaism a general and current antisocial element which, by the historical development in which the Jews have, in this bad respect, actively collaborated, has been pushed to its culminating point in the present time.

So that this antisocial element Kasse 'sa n Marx does not consider it useful for him to have political rights.

Is the Christian Society not in the process of dissolution? Doesn't she lose something of her character every day to organize & A Jewish one? |

Machine Translated by Google

*

The Jew has already emancipated himself, but in the Jewish way. The Jew, by who is tolerated in Vienna, determined by his only financial power the fate of any Empire. The Jew, who, in the smallest German states, may be without rights, decides the fate of Europe.

ARKISM AND JUDAISM 831

The Jew emancipated himself not only by mastering the financial market, but also because, thanks to him and through him, money became a world power, and the practical Jewish spirit became the practical spirit of the Christian peoples. The Jews emancipated themselves to the extent that Christians became Jews.

– In theory, the Jew is deprived of political rights, while in practice he has enormous power and exercises his diminished political influence in detail in Sros.

Marx therefore believes that political rights are, for the Jew, nothing but hollow meat and that he is misusing his efforts in focusing on this point. He thunders against the Jews of business, these hoarders of fortune, of whom "money is the jealous god, before whom no other god can stand" (v.

He even denounces "Jewish Jesuitism, the same practical Jesuitism whose existence Bauer proves in the Talmud..."

In short, a vehement attack by the neo-messianist Karl Marx against liberal Jews, concerned above all with political rights useful to their private prestige and material profits, this is what is in the work in which Mr. Emile Vandervelde saw an "indictment à la Drumont".

Karl Marx, the born revolutionary, the heir to the social agitators whose actions Bernard Lazare shows us throughout

The history of Israel attacks the rich, the "well-fed" of its race, those who betray the common cause by trying to establish itself in Christian society instead of working to destroy it.

What could be more logical from him than this role of prophet vomiting invective and calling for destruction on the City?

We would not like to conclude this study without pointing out all that is Hebrew mystic in the soul of contemporary Communists, heirs to the neo-messianism of Heinrich Heine and Karl Marx. But we lack space...

Let us just quote the communist writer Henri Barbusse, the only valuable writer that Communism has

832 297 eo. A PARIS REVIEW –

in France, dent – ns 4 family ea well known.

The following passages, whose deliberately biblical form will be appreciated, are taken from his book: Jesus. They corroborate everything that Graetz, Darmesteter, Bernard Lazare and Karl Marx himself have been able to say about the Jewish inspiration of the social Revolution. It is non-messianism itself which, this time, takes the floor and announces to the Civilization born of Christianity that it is going to die: 2

Machine Translated by Google

" u CHAPTER 12

18. – And now we are also at a serious hour of our common drama. N

19. – From all sides today, the great news resounds:

20. – The days are near. The old world is going to die.

21. – And they say that it is the end of time and the hour of the Revolution, and that the rainbow of justice will burst forth in the eruptions of the earth.

22. – And, raising their heads, they see the consolation of Bradl.

23. – For the Lord will roar from Zion, and the God of righteousness will send to overturn the kingdoms of the earth whose glory is of the Devil, and will make a great diminution on the earth. This was announced to us in precepts of angels.

25. – The heavenly Messiah will have a N and the . will be harvested.

He will pursue the guilty: If he drowns in the sea, says the Lord, I will send the monster to fish him out; if he mixes with men, I will send Pepe for his throat; if he goes up to the sky, I will bring him down; if he goes down to the tomb, I will pull him out.

26. – Kingdoms will crumble. Those who rule over nations will make them howl. The heavens will pass away. And all the islands will flee, and the mountains will no longer be found.

will be a day of exasperation and anguish, when the sun will blacken, when horsemen and ghosts will clash in the sky and the high clouds. For on that day, the earth will give up its repository of the dead and the underworld will give up what it owes.

9 And the ee of the Revolution. will put an era North of Israel will be lifted up above the eagles. And the stars will shine seven times more on the right and the Lord will make a treaty of good with us.

28. – Such is the dream that our people make (for the images that a people make are like dreams that a man makes with pieces of himself).

29. – We, whose hopes were shattered one after another, are the people of Eve, the human people.

30. – Misfortune has made us what we are, without end.

N 31. – And here is this guy; there is one more for us.

MARXISM AND JUDAISM 833

32. – In the streets where I pass on my way home, the setting sun is setting long. People thinking about the Revolution.

33. – And one said: Do you think this Revolution is coming? And the other said: I hear it's for tomorrow.

34. – And all look at the bottom of the sky at the sun, the world's courthouse.

42. – I have in mind an uprising which resembles the Revolution.

Machine Translated by Google

43. – The great abyss of my fathers cries out within me.

44. – We are made to do something right.

45. – We are made to undo what is unjust.

46. – It is written: I will lay justice to a rule, and righteousness to a plummet.

47. – And in a torrent!

CHAPTER X

32. – The rich, the well-off, the contented, with clean clothes and fat lips, those who have the hands of others at the end of their arms, and who reap the work, who surround me and say in a caressing voice: we are just...

77. – The work that must be done is that which is feasible.

78. – And the Revolution will not go from heaven to earth, but it will go from earth to he

CHAPTER XXVII

31. – The crowd is cowardly, and all its memories flee. But we, the Saints, we bring forth the earth the courage of Israel.

32. – And his faith.

33. – For Israel is the chosen people. The universe was given to the Jews by God who spoke to them from the peak of Sinai with a loudspeaker. The race of David is no less chosen to command them, to reign over Judea and the non-marine part of the world by fulfil the covenant given to Moses, the tablets of the Testimony engraved by God with his own fir (not once but twice), and to bring victory to the vanquished.

34. – We, Zealots, Kanaites, Nazarenes, heirs of the Promise.

35. – We will bring for the last thousand years of the world, which are just about to begi
the success of the Jews against the usurper of Rome, the seven-headed monster, against Caesar, Pontius Pilate, and Antipas the red dragon, who has the face and red hair of Esau Edomite, and who has the ten horns of the Decapolis.

36. – And we will rule the nations with a rod of iron.

47. – Now justice is the restoration of the dynasty of David; pity is that of the conditio
the Julfs; faith is that of their revenge.

3344. GA REVIEW OF years

48– What do you have to say to that? Shut up! Because you have nothing to say.

49. – | tell you that we are the ones who are the RN achievers.

of the Law, of the final struggle for the kingdom of God and for eternal life, which is the immortal glory of the Jew.

55. – Please, be the Messianic plague. |

56. – Change water into blood, and know how to make plates and earth into fields. |

57. – Even if you had to kill * riales potr Ventichir and carry the torch to the Temple. |

58. – Even if you had to make bread more expensive and the choice of wheat was a penny and that would cause famine. |

59. – Because that is a good condition. Voluntary Ks.

60. – May the Word of the e roll over the cities through you like a scroll.

61. – Bring not your palx, but Tepee, through the belly of the Herods and Romans who want us to pay taxes, and Docile Temples who only want shameful tranquility.

These Dociles of the Temple, whom Henri Barbusse devotes to extermination by the sword, are the Jews who have not rallied to neo-messianism, whom Barbusse hates no less than Karl Marx hated them. Is this cry of fanatical hatred to our ears not the justification of our historical thesis?

SALLUSTE

This is a production of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Google Books

<https://books.google.com>

Google

About this book

Dies ist ein digitales Exemplar eines Buches, das seit Generationen in den Regalen der Guten Bücher dieser Welt online verfügbar gemacht werden sollen, sorgfältig gescannt wurde.

Das Buch hat das Urheberrecht überdauert und kann nun öffentlich zugänglich gemacht werden.

Ob ein Buch öffentlich zugänglich ist, kann von Land zu Land unterschieden werden.

Machine Translated by Google

and scientific wealth that is often difficult to discover.

Traces of use, annotations and other marginal notes contained in the original volume can also be seen in this copy.

A reminder of the long journey the book has taken from the publisher to a library and on to you.

Terms of Use

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize publicly available materials and make them accessible.

Publicly accessible books belong to the public, and we are merely the custodians. We have taken steps to prevent misuse by commercial parties. This includes technical restrictions on automated queries.

We ask you to adhere to the following guidelines:

- + Use of the files for non-commercial purposes We designed Google Book Search for end users to make it accessible.

- + No automated queries. Do not submit automated queries of any kind to the Google system, or to any of our other areas.

where access to text in bulk is useful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public

+ Retaining Google brand elements The Google "watermark" that you will find in every file

this project and helps users find additional material through Google Book Search. Please c

+ Stay within the law Regardless of your intended use, you must be aware of your responsib
the public domain for users in the United States, it is also in the public domain for users in advise

on whether a particular use of a particular book is legal.

Do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means that it is available in any fo world. Copyright infringement can have serious consequences.

About Google Book Search

Google's goal is to organize the world's information and make it universally usable and ac
Google

Book Search helps readers discover the world's books and helps authors and publishers reac

You can search the entire book text online at|'<http://books.google.com>l.

Darwin, Germany and the Indies

Machine Translated by Google

The Juda-like

Thirty-three theses and a postscript

above

A forgotten factor in the economy.

His Serene Highness Prince Bismarck dedicated in reverence

from
O. Beta.
* Motto:

And write confidently: In Ania ns the Tba was

Should | rush to the room with you

Poodle, 60 stop crying.
Goethe.

Second edition..

Published by the author himself.

Berlin

Unter den Linden 0

His Serene Highness,

the

la:
Prince Bismarck

Most Serene Lord!

Her wish to promote understanding between two hostile peoples and Races for each other and thus the world's so indispensable

To strengthen peace, to help clarify the social confusion through a perhaps one-sided, but therefore unjustified, view, gives me the courage to lay this little book at the feet of a

Machine Translated by Google

to lay down, whose insight can easily separate the wheat from the chaff, under whose benevolence even the meager grain can grow and bear fruit.

It did not seem harmful to me that guiding principles should be expressed for once, which the large, outwardly passive part of the German people, who find no representation in the daily press or in the quarreling parties, and who allow themselves to be patronized more or less against their will by ambitious leaders, could subject to the course of our policy. And that the point around which the operations of the social race war revolve should be brought to general awareness. For it is necessary to free our beloved fatherland from the shackles of debt slavery and to give us back the firm foundation on earth.

to conquer, on which we Germans are unavoidable and – need no protective tariff. It seemed necessary to me to show the forest, which many people, who are extremely clever in details, not see and therefore become confused about Your Highness's policy.

Br8

But even apart from that, it was a need for me to work on the protective house of science in which humanity dwells, whose foundation is creation and whose plan is laid in hearts, as everyone does in their own way who represents fine knowledge and convictions in the spirit of truth, regardless of whether the cross threatens them or a crown beckons them, for how else could solid ground ever emerge from the chaotic sea of error and how could His will be done!

In this spirit, I beg Your Highness to accept my dedication. I would not have dared to dedicate a mere partisan piece of writing to Your Highness.

Human wisdom is weak, but the love of God's creation is a shield without whose protection even the strong will fail.

must be afraid. The love for the faithful and hopeful

The support of the peaceful and hard-working people to which | belong gives me the courage not to fear that these pages, which will not remain unchallenged and should not remain so, may not nevertheless enjoy the tolerance of Your Highness in the sense in which they are written.

Your Serene Highness's

most reverent servant

0. Beta.

pred. Jul. Cap. 7. 9.29. –Cap. 9/5/2 – Yep. 7. V. 6.

| have found a man among a thousand, but | have not found a woman among them all.

But look at this, | have found that God has made man upright, but you seek many arts. –

Find so many words that one hears the fool. –

It is better to hear the rebuke of the wise than to hear the song of fools. –

Machine Translated by Google

Achemin 1, 6.

We have become wicked because we have not kept the commandments, the statutes, and the ordinances which you commanded your servant Moses.

Julius v. Liebig: In the peculiar nature of the German, his knowledge of the language, his fine understanding of foreign peoples

thum, its cultural-historical standpoint is to be fair to other peoples, even to the point of injustice towards itself. –

Ecclesiastes 7:17.

Be not too just and not too wise, lest you perish. –

Soethe.

To stand firm in defiance of all powers, that calls for the help of the gods!

Carli le.

The future of Germany is the future of the world.

BE en

Kirchard Wagner.

You are not what you think you are!

The wisdom of ancient mothers is coming to an end.
Your knowledge blows away before my waves.
Quickly show me the way.

Then go your way!
| consider you useless for nothing else.

Kladderadatsch, 1848.
The Jew is useful but

Use with caution.
Burmwort,

These theses deal with general, not individual concepts, with Judaism, not with the Jews, with Germany, not with the Germans. Since the essence of the individual in contrast to the community, it is easily possible—

It is obvious that the German condemns these theses from an individual standpoint and accuses their author of ignorance of humanity. For the German, in particular, likes to distinguish himself from his background, and his life is more individual, his personality more concise, and his concept of race therefore darker and more obscure than that of the Semite. The Germanic race distinguishes itself from the uniform Semitic race through many varieties, and the German as a person through many peculiarities from his environment. One can find among the Jews a thousand individuals with Bleichröder's characteristics, and Mr. von Bleichröder, transported back to a milly dam surroundings, would easily find himself in it. But it would be difficult for the great men of the German nation to find a substitute, and it is more likely that a drastic reduction of his circumstances will drive the German, who has grown into a great sphere, to suicide, madness, or protest, rather than accommodating himself. Despite which leaves a large remnant of special Germanic racesy characteristics common to all Germans, the straightforwardness of form and, above all, of meaning. But also the gift of sympathy, which enables us to understand Judaism,

Machine Translated by Google

and 10, 2

to understand and reconcile ourselves with him, and in contrast to him, to finally come to ourselves.

A witty Frenchman says that all reforms repeat themselves in history: the first time they are carried out in blood and tears—

The second time, it was done amid laughter. Therefore, one should not take this matter tragically, for it is to be hoped that the man had spoken the truth and not a bon mot.

Nevertheless, the matter is serious, and this book is intended to encourage the friends of a milder form of world reorganization.

ytstiitzen, yhould be a kind of vaccination against the reaction.

For another witty Frenchman says: To understand is to forgive. If one understands the nature of racial antagonisms, one can also forgive one's opponents in the struggle for existence and make a humane Christian peace with them.

World development is understandably so rapid today that the valid maxims of the age are becoming outdated far faster than their bearers, and the young world has difficulty converting the old, so that we already have different needs today than we did twenty or forty years ago. It is not to be expected of the old gentlemen that they abandon youthful ideals, which they once enthusiastically achieved victory over; but the great Chancellor of our Empire has given them an example of how one can develop without revoking one's position. The measures are regulate the impending "reaction" by a step forward. First, the right of hospitality was granted, now, after sufficient experience, it will

ments about the nature of the guest must be reinforced by incorporating the guest into the house rules of Germanic peoples.

The different racial characteristics between the Semites and Germans seem to be little striking, because they are in fact in the spiritual creature that man is made of chosen, more spiritual, emotional, moral nature. But also in physical terms they make themselves noticeable enough, only the eye and heart are lacking to feel them more vividly. In this chaos of figures, which our great Jewry and

Factory towns under conditions that are very suitable to deter us—confused and thoughtless, the dull eye and dull consciousness of our population, loses at least the conscious gift of general differentiation in the—same measure as individual feelings extend to the social centre—fugal storm. But for the somewhat artistically educated eye and historically educated consciousness, these differences are radical and unmistakable, and the natural scientist knows that they are irreconcilable. For no matter how many varieties the settled

Germanic race exhibits in its Slavic, Teutonic, and Anglo—

Saxon and Romanic branches, in none of them does the

Machine Translated by Google

uniform Semitic races are also only close to each other. Indeed, the Semitic race, which is a nomadic one, is characterized by the curvature of all limbs and bones, including those of the skull, the eyes, nose, and parietal bones, which house the organs of cunning, greed, numerical sense, cruelty, fanaticism, etc., in greater abundance than they are present in the Germanic peoples, in whom the perceptibility, knowledge of nature, and piety towards God's works are greater. In this various

In this sense, it is understandable that the Germanic language only recently emerges from the darkness of medieval antipathy to the natural substantial understanding of racial antagonisms will be achieved, since science is now applying to man those laws to which all things are subject in their development, and according to which he has it in his power to shape his social legislation. Therefore, do not appeal to the racial feeling that here, in any case, disappears under the party passion, but deep knowledge which knows no passion, especially since this also about Jesuitism.

According to 8, one could write a book about each of them,

yet even Copenhagen, Bruno Bauer and a hundred other writings and whole volumes of statistical and biographical data could point to a thousand twists and turns of recent politics,

Speeches by Lasker and Windthorst, Rohlings

=49

Taimudjuden, K. Haug's "Der von Schiloh" and Paul Lindau's "Critik" about it from the "present", evoke the spirits of Philo and Josephus and reveal the secret relations of the center and national-liberal Judaism from the process

Arnim proves, but the blind cannot be made sighted by such ointment, nor can the man with open eyes become wiser. Nature is explained in a few words.

The torch of imagination casts a divinatorial light—beam into her quiet workshop and one look is enough for us yielding miracles to solve.

And furthermore, it is a purely scientific discussion and mathematical juxtaposition of these collective terms.

Just as the chemist combines and separates fine elements without understanding how chemical affinities arise and how, through this secret force, seemingly lifeless substances receive will, life, inclinations and aversions, so we find in these theses from the fact of existing connections between Jesuitism and Judaism in the Inquisition, in the infallibility—

ability, in Napoleonism, under the Concordat, in Lasker's, Dunker's, and Windhorst's liberalism, which underlies our church law—

contradicted the statement, an authentic, the presence of an inner elective affinity, the existence of which, viewed scientifically, suffices for all the conclusions | draw from it a jury would judge in the same way, demanding documents, is quite irrelevant.

Chemical bonds occur without documentary evidence. That even cardinals combine

Jewish blood with Jesuit confession is a fact; how this bond came about is irrelevant.

Almost simultaneously, the Napoleonic war and the papal infallibility crimes, the Arnim–Segeest conspiracy and the assassination attempt on Bismarck occurred; also at the same time: the

Awakening of tremendous credit needs in Germany and suddenly

Machine Translated by Google

ical withdrawal of the basis – of trust, by the Laskery shed fiery speeches, the Bamberg currency exchange, the Mi

quel'ychen applications for the alienation of state domains, the Reichs

Bank as a branch of the Discontobank. Alongside this, there is so much fraud, canalization and import of shares from America, as if the whole world had nothing else to do but the German People's and State to help bury us and give us a Polish end.

But the Most High gave us men whose energy this—bulging. I now seek a law—a law of nature in this world of intersecting phenomena that seem to form a network.

I do not deny that a great deal of animosity has been caused by the—Publication of this writing, which has been joyfully welcomed by many thinking men, must be awakened from quarters where it pains me.

But no truth has yet come into the world without labor pains. I draw inspiration from great examples. Goethe has the race—contrast in Faust and Mephisto was faithfully drawn; in any case, he at least knew how to appreciate its significance. Asked about such views, he simply replied sternly: "Yes, children, if only you weren't too stupid"—so Holtei recounts. Lewes praises Goethe for having manfully—

written. But what would one say if someone, because Copernicus had also manfully written about the motion of the Earth—

remained silent, about whose discovery he sent a treatise to the Pope, and therefore wanted to accuse Galileo of brash boyishness, since he sacrificed himself to his conviction and did not make a secret doctrine of his science by not advocating the movement of the Earth, but by opposing the Jesuit principle of the Church that humanity is a flock of sheep, too stupid for knowledge. Copernicus's manly silence was of no use, even the Aethio—

We now gaze with different eyes at the starry sky, which visibly brings infinity closer to us. We breathe a sigh of relief at the sight of the sky, which once only reminded us of hell and purgatory and weighed on humanity like a nightmare.

It was science that freed us from superstition and closer to the divine image, and if the Churchy

If one wanted to know that God is still active in his creation today, all science would not harm its reputation. No

Man is made worse by science, but by a church which endeavors to poison this science, so it alone wants the privilege of ruling over men's consciences as well as their purses, and therefore must make itself indispensable to another, worldly clique.

And which clique is that?

These theses provide the answer. And the science they contain should also help free us from a nightmare—

usury, the worldly form of superstition, which makes man no less unhappy and wicked and deprives him of responsibility for his actions. For the breach out of necessity is not right, it is rather the world order.

At least the world order based on usury is today—

Machine Translated by Google

Today traffic conditions are no longer appropriate, and if they were ever excusable or useful they now belong in the rumble chamber. It has become an instrument of torture because it is unhealthy, destroyed, and nonsensical, since it undermines prosperity.

It's important to call a spade a spade, otherwise you're fighting windmills. |

recall Guizot, who fought his entire life against Jesuitism and Judaism and their entanglement in Napoleonism, but because he was afraid to openly identify the object, he earned nothing but the name of an ideologist and doctrinaire.

History writing and legislation, like theology, are still fraught with miracles that await resolution.

But he who watches the wind will not sow.

Therefore, one should not seek any speculation about the moment in this writing. It arose—of its own accord, or as the tourist might say: veni, vidi, scripsi.

The Thirty-Three Theses.

1. Judaism is a hierarchically organized people who, by their very nature, since they do not practice agriculture, are dependent on living among other peoples. They act in relation to them as a force of nature that threatens all and against which they must all defend themselves together.

2. For it is itself as dispensable to the economy of the settled peoples as the gypsies are; it must therefore make itself necessary, if possible, to rise to power or at least to shape the laws of the peoples to its own advantage, and at the same time, as far as possible, to deny itself.

The latter does so under the auspices of Christianity, liberalism, and in the comedy of the Civil War.

3. Hierarchical Judaism, on the other hand, is disturbing, since it has no understanding of the artistic organization of a state of settled people, but originates from a nomadic race, knows only capital and two estates, while the state based on agriculture has three estates and one

The concept of uncapturable immobile state and common property, inaccessible to the nomad, had to be developed within itself. Judaism instinctively seeks to extirpate these classes and this concept.

4. As a great financial power and hierarchical organism, Judaism is able to influence not only public opinion, the press, and legislative bodies, but also the Church. It has succeeded in doing so, particularly with the most powerful hierarchy besides the Jewish one, the Catholic one, through the Jesuit Order.

Jesuitism existed under the name of the Elohim as early as the

zer Se

Antiquity. It is a metamorphosis of Judaism and seeks to exert the cattle-breeding instincts of the race on humans, hence the crosier and the ecclesiastical expression: sheep. Even the infallible rabbis teach that all

Goim, without rights, cattle, and all property belong to the select people. – Jews and Jesuits are closely bound together by common interests. They are like the wings of a great invasion army, whose joint operations are conceived in the minds of a few leaders.

The majority of even the high-ranking ouizieres in these two

The separated army corps knows nothing of this cooperation. For even David was merely a creature of Samuel.

It is also the primary principle of Jewish-Jesuitism to keep the people in the dark and deceive them about this interaction and cooperation between their spiritual and secular usurious troops. In fact, there are twelve such social troops (see the prophecy of Jacob I, Moses, Chapter 49), not including the hired helots.

5. Jesuitism and Judaism at least have a common origin and a common goal: world domination. Where they have achieved dominance, they merge into one another; they conclude a "concordat," as in France and Austria. Where they do not get that far, but, previously discovered, must shed hairs, like Samson, they tear down the pillar on which the roof rests. This is the case before us: social democracy and church conflict. They are like negative and positive electricity, which, seemingly opposed to one another, nevertheless attract one another, and, like these, dissolve the structures of nature and chemical affinities, and in turn, dissolve peoples, classes, and even families. Their condition of existence is social chaos and the fury and helplessness of nominal rulers like Napoleon III.

6. The Jesuit Order specifically has the task of diverting the attention of the peoples through conflicts,

age

To blind and blind peoples, to deceive them about the true meaning of the Bible and to Semitize religious beliefs so that Judaism can pass through the peoples unharmed and flourish among them, to incite them to war so that Judaism can flourish; Fichte says: "Judaism is founded on the hatred of the whole world."

7. Popular historiography and bohe politics are based on fiction and editorials and history teaching is useless and harmful without a scientific basis and national-economic background, otherwise one would know that racial antagonism is the root of all corruption in church and state, all tyranny, and all violation of infallibility. Like many priests, etc., even today, most of the Grand Inquisitors, many Roman emperors, popes, and ministers were of Semitic origin and subject to the Jewish hierarchy, as they had no sense of kinship with the Germanic and settled peoples. Among such people was Napoleon I, whose wars everywhere resulted in the emancipation of Judaism, and in whose country Judaism was a poisonous weapon, which he reorganized (convening the Sanhedrin). Otherwise, one would also know that the papacy has always counted the Jews among its favored protégés and that the persecutions of the Jews arose from the offended feelings of the settled peoples, to which the Church, as it does now, sometimes gave in out of prudence, which is part of the tactic of the fighters for world domination.

Machine Translated by Google

8. But even without this, one should have come to the realization that, as in ancient times the so-called Jewish patriarchs and the "Elohim", Joseph and the Egyptian priests, so too today the great money Jews and the great church Jews work hand in hand and are under common leadership, that the Alliance Israelite, the Jesuit Order and the Napoleonids are acting according to a common plan, and that the English Manchester party, both Gladstone and Disraeli, must be accused of complicity.

9. Since all this will be denied, it must be added that the mere possibility, how much more the probability, of a hand in handicrafts of the two the world-ruling, inter- and anti-national powers is capable of awakening the full attention and suspicion of peaceful and hardworking peoples and making them think of precautionary measures so that the Jewish

Spirit be kept out of their priesthood, press and legislation,

10. A first means is the study and the commen-

The interpretation of the Bible in the Jewish sophistic sense, from the national-economic and political, Jewish-hierarchical standpoint, whereas, despite the Reformation, this book has so far only reached the consciousness of the German people in theologically prepared excerpts and in the child's understanding. The words of the Bible are written hieroglyphs, symbols and metaphors, and are incomprehensible to the blind faith of the charcoal burner. For example, in the parable of the Fall of Man, substitute lightning for the serpent, fire for the pomegranate, and conflagration for the angel with the fiery sword (since the hieroglyphic symbols of the Egyptians were retained in words by Moses), and you get an easily understandable cultural history instead of a Jesuit creation. (On the figure of Christ and its dual relationship to the widespread order of the Stoics, which under the emperors prepared the ground for the future state religion, and to the Jesuit centralization efforts of the Jewish apostles: Bruno Bauer's writings.)

au 11

11. Another means is the enlightenment of the people about the secret teachings of the synagogue and the Talmud, but above all about the nature of the Jewish people and the Mosaic social legislation brought from Egypt but never observed, and about the non-denominational nature of Judaism, which makes it possible for its members to adopt other faiths without thereby leaving the Jewish community. For in fact, Judaism is bound by blood, not by the word, since it is even exempt from any confession.

12. The Jews belong to the Semitic race, and

Machine Translated by Google

are inmiscible with the Indo-European, since the races of mankind are related to one another like the sexes of animals, which is why all attempts to absorb and amalgamate the Jews have failed and why this people has had to survive for thousands of years in the Indo-European world, despite their own will to deny themselves.

13. Nor can we hope for a gradual rapprochement of the races, since the formation of species, through physical and psychic contrast, always leads to further divergence—otherwise there would be no species, races, or sexes at all.

4. The sexes resulting from mixed marriages also pass again into one race and then into the other, if they are capable of reproduction at all.

5. Every race requires a law appropriate to its nature. It is impossible for two races to live together under a common law without one gaining dominance and the other sinking into corruption.

This discord has proved to be disastrous for culture and state in the ancient world, in Babylon and Persia, in Rome and Greece, but especially in Egypt and now in Spain, France, Poland and elsewhere.

16) Germany, its people and its empire, are also threatened by this danger. "Germany's future, however, is the future of the world." Every German should take these words of the English historian

9%

– 20 –

Carlyle to heart, for world domination belongs either to Indo-European socialism, a sense of justice and truth, that is, to true Christianity, or to Semitic Judaism and Jesus, a falsified Christianity. This struggle rages on German soil. The victory of the latter would be a scourge for humanity, for it would impose slavery on the world.

17. The destruction of the German people, the corruption of the Germanic race, is instinctively the constant, conscious or unconscious, goal of united Jesuitism and Judaism, organized Judaism. This explains the turmoil and tribulations of the German Empire, which the money and religious exchanges have brought upon us, and which have already led us economically to the point of world-ism, and ecclesiastically to the outright mockery of God's infallibility. Infallibility is a Jewish dogma, for every rabbi is infallible, like the Pope. All good Catholics must turn away from a priesthood subservient to Jewish superstition; all Germans must turn away from a party doctrine that serves Jewish money, which is hypocritically and falsely concealed in national liberalism and is just as anti-national and tyrannical as the infallible papacy is anti-Christian and anti-German. We want to remain faithful to the common cause of our people and fatherland, and to humanity and the religion of truth.

18. This struggle is a world-historical process, unthinkable without the far-reaching intrigue. The thesis,

Machine Translated by Google

Arsis does not surprise in human affairs; humanity is a struggle with the forces of nature through art, law, economy, and organization. Confidence will not prevail, but caution is necessary, and

Power and violence must be placed in the balance where reason struggles in vain with stupidity and sophistry.

19. In the political-social struggle for power, as in the personal struggle for existence, the more confident type is usually defeated by the more cautious, the nobler by the more deceitful, the more defiant by the subtle, the more perfect by the more accommodating, the more talented by the more economical, the debtor by the creditor, the individual by the pack, the man who relies on his own strength by the venal henchmen.

20. The Semitic race originates from a poor, rain-poor desert and swampy pastureland and has developed accordingly, having fewer needs, a greater capacity for deprivation, and a greater agility of the speculative spirit, but also less calm of mind and a complete lack of naiveté. The Semitic peoples lived and live as shepherds, deprived of the fruits of agriculture and forced to gather them and transport them around. They were also nomadic cattle traders and cattle fatteners, and cattle (pecus) was originally money (pecunia).

All this naturally explains a development that later continued and intensified in Judaism on a social basis. It explains the Jews' aversion to agriculture and labor, to scientific research and the fine arts, and therefore to true perception. It explains their exclusive preoccupation with trade, pawnbroking, and stock-farming, their subtle sense for writing and arithmetic and their subtleties, their popular oratory, quackery, lust for power, the desire for miracles, theological inventiveness, the love of lying and boasting, the love of intrigue. It explains their aversion to the state powers and customs of settled humanity, their exploitation of them, and their hatred of them. It explains, since they had polygamy, their hatred of our family institutions—all characteristics.

of the Jews, who always have 8 and whose origins are described very subtly in the first book of Moses.

21. A further physically important point is that, since those regions of origin are poor in ozone and filled with miasma, the Semitic race has developed less susceptible to physical ailments, diseases, and epidemics, and less sensitive to unpleasant odors, than the Indo-Europeans who developed in ozone-rich agricultural regions. Psychologically, this difference recurs.

22. In addition to the nomadic spirit of insubordination, there are physical characteristics of the nomadic race that exempt the Jews from many duties. Thus, the settled German in the German Empire sacrifices a large part of his life, gladly and willingly, to the state as a soldier, precisely at the time when it is convenient for him to establish his home and business, while the Jew, for the most part, conquers his social position undisturbed, since he is not fit to be a capable soldier. Thus, he is guaranteed a significant advantage, a privilege, by the state. Now that the Jews are rich and our nobility poor,

Machine Translated by Google

On the other hand, many ouiciers and military doctors emerged, and what this means, see Jacob's prophecy.
(Genesis 49:19).

23. Another advantage enjoyed by nomadic Jews over settled Germans lies in the relative non-taxability of mobile capital and trade, since the taxation of these is shifted onto consumers and debtors, a preference which becomes particularly serious in Germany due to the high taxes generally borne by agriculture and labor, so that these, crushed by foreign competition and inflated prices at home, are heading for total indebtedness.

24. The land, the dwellings and fields, have become the main vehicle of Jewish usury, since

They are saleable and therefore collateralizable, and as collateral they repeatedly fall into the hands of moneylenders. For every crisis inevitably brings down the nominal owners, because agriculture and most industries cannot bear the interest on the imaginary capital supposedly embedded in the land, which has been increased above its natural value through collateralization. But land is not capital; its possession is a mere attribute, an indivisible title, and its administration an "office."

25. From an economic perspective, land is merely a tool for food production, an industrial asset, whose mortgages and taxation lead to a general increase in prices and a paralysis of production, which renders us unable to compete with other nations and drives us back to the infancy of protectionism, that is, paternalism. The German people would not submit to such an outrage, and Prussia's star would be extinguished.

26. Land is at the same time the foundation of the state; therefore, the state, the nation, and the people have a natural, albeit general, right to it, which, however, cannot be revoked by private rights. Land is therefore eo ipso not unconditional property. The desire for unlimited arbitrariness and the egoism of individuals must give way to the natural instinct for self-preservation of the people and the state. The limits must be defined by legislation in the near future. That land is not used as collateral will be one of the ultimate goals of this legislation, but this seems unattainable without the reinstatement of the three estates through the establishment of a third house for the workers.

27. Through the pledging, the land comes into the power of another, non-sedentary and non-taxable nomadic people, who live in all countries, as it were pi

would play the role of the landlord on earth; however, it is not fitting for settled peoples to lead an existence that is always in question as his tenants, because land ownership is serfdom.

Machine Translated by Google

property under such circumstances, or rather a more myb-tilere and dangerous metamorphosis of the same.

28. For all these reasons, land should once again become inalienable, and therefore virtually inalienable, national and state-granted family property, as in England, where there is no allodial ownership, and be inherited according to old Germanic law, not according to Judeo-Roman law. It should also be more easily accessible, as in England, to the willing poor man, in exchange for cheap rent for housing and agricultural purposes. This would enable thousands who currently cannot acquire land due to insufficient capital and are condemned to idleness, speculation, and corrupt activity, to become tenants and useful and independent citizens. Instead, Mr. Miquel, the former director of the Discontobark, still its administrative director, proposes the sale and parceling of state domains, despite the oft-repeated experience that such landowners cannot survive the first crisis, especially if they have to take over their plots as mortgage debtors.

29. The principle of indebtability underlies English entail, primogeniture, hereditary leasehold, English tenant cooperatives, Russian agrarian communes, and Hungarian avicacy, institutions which are constantly and everywhere attacked by the Jewry under the slogan of "free trade" in land, although this free trade excludes all other forms, as France demonstrates, where the indebtedness has assumed such terrible dimensions since the introduction of the Code Japoleon that the government dares not publish these figures and has returned to protective tariffs, which, with state aid, are used for the mortgages.

The same applies to the creditor. Land is a gift from God, the home of the nation, and therefore to be kept sacred. We need a protector for it, the state; a few owners, a enfeoffed landed aristocracy leasing at reasonable rates, and many users, tenant cooperatives like those England rescued from feudalism. The German nobility perished when it became self-righteous owners and debtors.

30. Of course, the German government will also have to resort to state aid to prevent worse catastrophes, since Judaism could not avoid making the path of constitutional reform impassable. Nor has any reform ever been possible without restricting private law.

Found. Since we have about ten times as many inhabitants as landowners, the protective tariff involves a significantly more general restriction of private law, namely the right to prefer cheap foreign goods to those of usurious domestic producers, than any standardization of land title. This reform would be achieved if the state acted as the sole mortgagee and used the interest to reduce taxes. But then a compulsory reduction of the interest rate would be necessary. The enormous interests at play here are clear from the fact that Berlin alone pays interest on 300,000,000 thalers of mortgage debt, which acts as a burden on production. The land laws of Germany are centrifugal and drive the Germanic people out to the country, so ynan is already thinking about replacing the Germanic workers with Cooli contract slaves from China,

Machine Translated by Google

31. The constitutional way to remedy these evils seems impracticable because Judaism has partly ensnared all party leaders in both state and church with its golden nets, and partly has pushed them out with its own people, so that the appeal to a ruling party is no longer possible, but only to the common sense of honest people in all parties. One sees almost all party leaders deny their principles as soon as they contradict Jewish and Jesuit interests (Dunker, Lasker, etc.), and even sees Social Democracy indulging in the idolization of the chosen people for the sake of its Jewish agitators, without considering that their agitation was nothing but an attempt to politically weaken Germany and plunge it into one of the many pits already dug for us on the road to socialism. Eventually, the Lassale Code would suffer the same fate as the Code of Moses in Canaan, namely, to be shelved. Consider further that the Jewish-Jesuit hierarchy is capable of inciting not only the Turks, but also the Mongols of Russia against us with murderous weapons. The Jew reckons with Bankruptcy, the Jews with the crash, Judaism as well as Jesuitism with the revolution. "There is a time to scatter stones and a time to gather stones."

– 28 –

(Ecclesiastes)

And they are right to do so, but we also have to count.

"It is the glory of God to conceal a thing, but the glory of kings to search out a matter." (Prov. Sal.)

32. A man is adorned by his love for his wife and child, but also by his love for his people. Anyone who dares not have such a feeling belongs to that class of modest people whom Goethe simply calls "scoundrels."

Unfortunately, there are many of them. But for those who know this feeling, it becomes an uncontrollable impulse in the face of our times. They cannot shake off the fear that, with the rapid developments now taking place in the social sphere, too little thought will be given to the duty of blood and the common cause of humanity, because everyone has too much to contend with their own needs. For the seven lean years are back, when Joseph enslaved the people of Egypt. Yet

and,

It is better to believe in the people to which one belongs than Faust, who was seduced by Mephisto and who brought about the sacrificio d'ell intelletto, although "reason and science are the highest power of mankind", and who, in the face of the penetrating truth, said:

"The few who recognized it,

Who foolishly did not guard their full heart,

Revealing their feelings and their views to the mob,

Machine Translated by Google

They have always been crucified and burned."

Many a truth has already leaped from the stake into life and penetrated the consciousness of the people; may those expressed here, if they are true insights, also compel the hearts of the hearers.

33. But they must be expressed and disseminated as widely as possible, not out of hatred against Judaism, which, although a parasite and a force of nature, can be very useful through the opposition it arouses, but out of love for the human race, which must protect itself against this force of nature, conscious of its power, through laws. Reforms must be striven for that protect the settled peoples from general entanglement, the social and economic chaos that Judaism, which wants to remain the sole organized power, is striving for. Intrigues must be prevented, which, once exposed, are impossible. The fight is not against the Jews, not against the Hebrew language, not against the secret, publicly denied teachings of the synagogues and Jesuit schools, but against our blindness and our illusions, our neglect. Just as the fortune-telling of the gypsies, once powerful, is no longer heard, so too

we hope to see the Jewish-Jesuit sophisms, those jubilee trumpet sounds, before whose treachery the walls of Jericho once fell, powerlessly repulsed by the shield of Achilles, the healthy sentiment of peaceable peoples.

Postscript.

When Shylock, on his pretense, first demanded Antonio's life, or at least a pound of flesh from his heart, and the almighty Doge knew no way out, because a refusal

tion, which Shylock called "liberty and justicey

ity" of the citizenry, the woman Portia stepped into the barriers with her mild law of forbearance and grace, the only Christian law that is higher than personal rights and property, the law of humanity without phrases, the law of equity without

Roman advocatesy

clause, the right of found reason and human nature.

Antonio, in his excessive trustfulness and not believing in evil, had set his heart as a pledge and had lost it by swindling

According to the letter of the law, the contract was actually forfeited upon expiration, b feminine feelings, that contract was a crime on the part of the one who forced it and entered into it, and was void from the outset. But Antonio was a Stoic. He wanted to die. Portia, the brave one, saved Antonio—almost—against his will.

These days, we're like Antonio. We want to experience all the hardships, we want to, like two years ago, a "significantly yame Zuychrift" to the North German General Newspaper – the people are reaping the fruits of the destructive poison in our current societyy ing the surrender, quite regardless of whether the savouring of this poison might not cost us our lives, since there is no longer any upswing from the Commune into which we are staggering, at least not in the Germanic sense, but rather Jesuit Indaism will ther win the victory.

– 29 –

Machine Translated by Google

The strange policy of many men of our time, who want the best, is not to oppose decay, but to accelerate its progress. Therefore, our politics today is a destructive one.

Whether it is the right one, however, is very doubtful. One fears that the momentum of the great wheel cannot be stopped. But might it not perhaps be necessary to take some precautions to prevent the fall? and perhaps save yourself from being shattered?

The presumption of infallibility of the Jewish descendants in Rome is only an ultramontane firework, which the eyes of the manic peoples from the much more threatening capitalistic infallibility of their fellow to in worldly garb, who meanwhile tie the silk cravat around us in order to strangle us after the men of Shechem. The sinful usury with the word of the Bible is bad, that with the word the Pandects is worse. Here in Roman law is the true to fight Jacob.

The silk cravat, which is worn for the sake of waitingy and which is directed against those who are supposed to protect the people from exploitation and corruption is dangerous.

Such silk cravats are put on, but few have the courage and strength to tear them off again.

Every policy has its Achilles heel – including the dilatory one, | believe.

Waiting and defending are not always compatible.
Sometimes, in order to defend, one is forced to attack.

We await the time when a return to Germanism is possible. Nature culminates in Indo-European.

She gives us the Semites to protect us from nature
to warn.

Nevertheless, we learn from the ever c decay

the customs and disruption of the states of the Indo-European world through the destructive influence of the Semitic Be, nothing but wait.

– 20

It is necessary to defend oneself against the forces of nature: against the wind with woolen clothes, against rain and cold with protective walls, against darkness with artificial light, against the cynicism that destroys customs and institutions, states and cultures, through law, attitude and education.

Rousseau taught a return to the state of nature. No blessing arose for the world from this blinding of healthy man.

understood by an act of cynicism, which differed from that prevailing at that time only in that it surpassed it.

The situation is now reversed. We need a return to the state of nature. Nature is senseless.

For our natural science itself pushes us under the Animals, it teaches us to know our blood relatives in the AUen,

Machine Translated by Google

and it is truly a close call, yhe taught us also attitudesy comyen deryeben yein, what the people who participated in the different trees of stock market, social formalismy

mus, the lectern and pulpit sophistication climbs around with the tail of hypocrisy and plucks its unchaste apples, partly already found—the same in blue as the meadows in green, on a more spiritual level, what the gorilla in the jungle—

This humanity, however, is not the material for building lasting states, just as the forest has no states. The cement of conviction, that is, respect for the dignity of truth, to the state; humanity does not belong to animality. A return to Germanism can therefore only be seen as a retreat to Nature, when it goes hand in hand with a knowledge of human nature, and this reveals itself in the art of many

Jewish language, man's state and church are artificial creations. Judaism and its Talmudic are artificial creations. Germanic culture will also seek its limits; Germanic culture is an artificial creation, a limited entity.

grü; what is artificial requires closed space; we must perish or limit ourselves, that is exclude foreign elements.

The true Idealist is a realist, he grasps, masters and uses materialism, which provides him with the material for fine art. Otherwise, idealism is what popular conservatism is: a caput mortuum. A mens sana is only possible in corpore sano, sound ideas only on the basis of sound concepts.

= 19, Ze

There are slogans like overripe pods—the grains are no longer in them. A person who seeks the truth is never a materialist; this designation only applies to the person of phraseology, deceit, and lies. It is time for us to give our concepts a thorough wash once again. We need it, for as our concepts fade, so do our characters and virtues.

But one should not pour new wine into old wineskins, for both are lost. If one wants to force new concepts into old party phrases, to weave new webs of faith from antediluvian dogmas that cannot withstand contact with the rod of research without crumbling into tinder, then one will no longer capture people, but will also lose old ones. Old Germanic culture, like old Christian culture, built thum yich on yosocial basis, that must also be the new.

What is good for the savages of Africa, and much for the missionaries
What was supposed to have been good for the ancient Germanic tribes is therefore not suitable for taming the Social Democrats.

Not all fashions return. There was a time when everyone carried a crossbow or a sword and wore leather jackets. It's gone forever.

The idea of a "vigorous reaction" –

This pendulum idea—one must first break the habit. There has never been a reaction. Every so-called reaction was the strengthening of the nerves for a new advance, the rest before the new day's work.

When I speak of Germanism, I do not mean the Middle Ages, and when I speak of Christianity, it is not the old one of Mr. Knaake and the Kreuzzeitung, but but the new pantheistic religion, the religion of truth. I say this to those who cry horror at the all-realism of the thesis.

Machine Translated by Google

Anyone who wants to operate cannot do without the knife.

Our legislation is based on the old foundations handed down to us by the ancient world of the slave industry and the international

Roman regime; it all comes from a time that still faced the secrets of nature with superstitious fear and bowed before the unknown. It is doubtless that with the disappearance of this unknown—until

to that limit where knowledge ends altogether, – the Gey

Legislation must change its spirit. The commandments of nature are welcomed and now serve to regenerate the law. But no knowledge will have such a significant effect in this respect as the establishment of the laws of nature that regulate the "struggle for existence"; they will also have to be regarded as the basis for state laws, which separate this "struggle for existence" from the sphere of purely natural fermentation and overgrowth process and intrigue, into that of humanity, of Christy

thums, raise and give conytance to human creations

The individual observes these commandments of nature,

to maintain himself as an individual. He has his own

Health regulations. Thus, the preservation of society will also require health legislation and it will require a state authority for this purpose that corresponds to the findings of medicine. Even more so, however, the findings revealed by Darwin's theory will have to be taken into account, and one will inevitably reach the conclusion that the state must precisely formulate its laws in order to maintain harmony between the inalienable races between which the struggle for existence takes place within its territory, so that one does not become a parasite on the other. Jeue yubtlen Geheimnisniye, through which a yeyt, yitll mutually upon yuche of unscrupulous strangers over a whole couy

tinent of Natioren can achieve the economic victory and direct all the possessions of these nations to themselves, if they act impartially and without awareness of the impending dangery yt, must be recognized and used legislatively, if we do not want to stagger into the abyss with our eyes open. For that small number united is a thousand times stronger than an entire people, each of whose members stands alone—and this is the case as long as the state leaves it unprotected.

And that small number, distributed among all nations, becomes a threatening monster if it succeeds, according to the old principle of divide and conquer, in creating and strife and in striking the peoples with blindness.

A government, even if it means well, can certainly never work without setbacks; it must never achieve its goal by violent, overly drastic means.

But it is far worse when statesmen are abandoned by their people and ultimately fall into cynicism. This cynicism leads to praetorianism – and that is the worst plague that can afflict a people, if only

Machine Translated by Google

The symptoms of decay are cured by force, but the disease is driven inward, paralyzing and numbing the noblest members of the nation. In this respect, Germany is exposed to the most dangerous of all crises. The one-sided exceptional legislation against the ecclesiastical parasites is driving truly German elements into the position of irreconcilable opposition, into the camp of the Ultramontanes and the Cynics of Mammon, and both the other changeling, the helotry. All three are intery national and anti-national, and their goal is overthrow. Through the Norwegian hordes and bloody violence, the usurers will then rise up beyond measure in France and

Austria, with the words of counterfeit religion and counterfeit laws, which, apparently standing enviously against each other, will then openly shake hands with each other at the grave of the fatherland, and will establish the volt.

– 34 –

We resist pessimism as much as possible, because that would actually mean seeing things in a negative light, a military and police

The state prophesies revolution, and especially to us Germans, who, despite all our sobering experiences, are still walking on the blue haze created for us by the chattering highwaymen of high politics. There must be means to forestall this.

We recall Stuart Mill's warning that the government no democracy should look at what it does when it needs to ye knowledge, but that it advances on the path of sound reason and justice—should go in order to have the people behind him. And I believe the rotten fruits of corruption are ripe for the taking here as well.

Hoeder, the devil of strife, of ancient German mythology, killed Baldur, the god of light, masculine beauty, uprightness, knowledge, and justice. He shot him with a mistletoe arrow.

This misery is a parasite, and it is the parasites who create strife and confuse knowledge.

Eradicating the parasites, or at least preventing their proliferation, means disarming Hoeder and preserving Baldur. But this can only

This can be achieved by cultivating the light, by continually raising knowledge, and by casting before it the protective shield of free promise. Then the dull darkness in which the parasite thrives and in which the Germanic national spirit withers will be banished.

We do not want to pervert the quarrels between parties and races sharpen, but by pointing out the natural causes of it, transform it into a healthy competition.

We

want through objective representation of the laws of nature and their effects to erase the subjective hatred.

The press, the people's representatives, trade, industry, land ownership, and the Church of Germany have fallen under the domination of Judaism and have thereby become de-German. An enlightenment about the true nature of Judaism, even if it appears in completely pharisaical

But

Machine Translated by Google

in a hypocritical disguise, and an appeal to the German national sentiment is subject to the danger of going unheard, and one feels almost ridiculous to attempt such a thing.

But consider that we are heading towards a Polish end as it is, since the mistletoe on the overgrown oak tree is finally drying up, feeding on its life-sap.

The crusade that the Germanic tribes led into the heart of the Semitic sands a thousand years ago has now been answered by the Semites—but how? Not openly, in shining armor on a warhorse, like our Emperor Redbeard—no, so subtly and cunningly that our Emperor Whitebeard doesn't even notice it, and his own people cheers for the strangers.

For as the Frankfurt Goth hunts:
"The people never feel the devil,

And if he had them by the collar." Of course—of course, in the end it still happens, and not always too late! Disraeli himself cannot help but prophesy a bad day for Judaism.

Levelling will not go any further unless one can also level the races — and does one want to attempt this — the impossible — by force?

Judaism is a child among the nations, admittedly a rather naughty and domineering one. It has never brought true blessings anywhere, but nevertheless, one cannot be particularly angry with it. Yet it is undeniable that one must sometimes wag and tap its mouth and fingers a little so that it does not tamper too much with everything that glitters. Despite all this, one does not educate it through love; rather, the stick must be properly passed around its skirt, regardless of whether what is useful is sweet to it. Every nation has the Jews who tame it.

serves, one can pull them. The Pole ennobled his people with the last act of the Reichstag, the German Michel ennobled Miquel, the German National Liberal Lasker, the German Cony

The conservative Stahl, the German Democrat Jacoby and Layale, the Catholic Antonelli, the English Tory Disraeli, and he is still the most tolerable, for he at least delivers his without any side jumps. Almost all of them are humbug-makers, for they are children rooted in the childhood of the human race.

But unfortunately it is world-historical humbug – the world-historical intrigue.

Since ecclesiastical and capitalist, hierarchical and economic concepts are closely intertwined among the Jews, their sympathy for Jesuitism is not surprising, especially since they

if by freedom of the synagogue you understand nothing but usury– freedom. If one wanted to be exorbitant, then none of them would be Jewish. Element excluding, organized usury, with credit, grain, cattle, and land in the least illuminated– tend to offend, they would immediately complain about intolerance.

If among ninety ayyeyyors even one Jew fails the exam,

Machine Translated by Google

It is immediately said that the examination commission is dominated by a spirit of dark intolerance. No wonder that even church laws are being attacked under the motto of religious freedom, although no one has ever been restricted in their faith because the patriarchy is confined within its boundaries. Recently, a crier and usurer was thrown out of a tavern in Hungary. The man happened to be a German Jew. Immediately, the entire "liberal" press resounded with complaints about violence against a German citizen and intolerance against the Jewish religion. What does the German citizen have to do with the Jew?

to do what the usurer and fraudster did with the Talmud beliefy
There is such an artificial and extreme confusion of concepts in this area that it is very necessary to light a lantern on this night of so-called "enlightenment."

The Jews claim that they are therefore not agricultural workers, not

Kettlesmiths, no painters, sculptors, no carpenters, carpentersy people, soap makers, because in the Middle Ages it was made more difficult for them to engage in usury. And the Germans believe that. What

ur Me

Don't you still believe? You believe in the infallibility of Pio from the Jewish house of Ferretti and add fuel to a "Cultural War" that is undermining Judaism on both sides.

which served to exploit these Germans in the worst possible way.

Should we lie to the people?

I think no!

But if you want to deceive it,

So don't make it look nice!

That's what Göthe from Frankfurt am Main says.

For the time being, it can be assumed that humbug and everything from that downwards will remain victorious in the press, which serves its money-making owners, because that is paid for. Honest opinion, that is, conviction, that is, everything that is true.

190 smells, ýts in yomye ymell, if not cirycumstances that

Make Wahrbelt exceptionally profitable. As a result, the press—the advertising press, | me

—has become a vampire.

How much, he knows best who is in re—

had to do with the actions and had to see that the advertising part with its interests predominated. She accepted Layalle's suggestion that the state alone, as in all areas of trade, also administer the advertising system. For my part, |

| want to show that the truth retains its value even when unpaid, and | am not afraid of the prejudice that opposes all men who are strange enough not to consider their own advantage.

Of how Judaism knows how to defuse the situation through international agitation and to direct the periodically boiling over popular anger against the willfully obedient priests the "Church," in whose council Judaism has the most valid influence, | take the time of Louis the Pious as an example.

Then, as now, Judaism had become numerous and powerful through the wars that tore apart the Frankish and Saxon peoples under Charlemagne. As today and as before the emperors and before and at all times the Jews had the money lending system in their hands — as well as the factories and the Trade in manufactured goods. As in Brno today, for example, by the threety

Machine Translated by Google

Forty-three of the factories affected by the strike there belong to the Jews (the others certainly also partly through bonds) and the people's army keeps the emaciated weavers in check, just as today the largest emigration shipowners in Hamburg and Bremen are

Jews and the schoolmaster unwillingly

Recently, he worked for them as an agent. At that time, they had large stables where they raised stolen, scrounged, or cheaply purchased "children of the country" to a state of working age and then mostly exported them to the Orient. This trade was vigorously pursued in France, particularly for the benefit of the state treasury, but the majority and best goods were imported from Germany. Popular anger grew, especially since Louis debonnaire (the "pious" in German) married a certain Judith, as did that of her stepsons. The German bishops demanded that no more Christian children should be sold.

Rome – although there was a Jew there, as today, Isidor, the chief maker or Vatican Jew – gave in; but Judith decreed that no

A slave could be baptized without his master's permission. Franky

The empire's commercial interests and the Jewish people, with their stepmother Judith at their head, stood against the German spirit; it was necessary to use these powers. Isidore invented the first edition of "infallibility," the supreme judicial power the Pope, against which the Saxons rebelled and for which the Franks advocated–out of political interest. In Saxony, the priests who obediently represented the decrees were (what did it matter–they were, after all, children of the land!). In France, the most beautiful concordat was concluded between the Jews and the papal church.

In the Battle of Fontenville alone 45,000, others say 100,000 “children of the country” fell but no peasants and Jews.

The collapse of Charlemagne's empire and the increased all–makes the peasants and Jews, who then as now here and

ut Sr

over there were the chief councillors and the only moneylenders – but no soldiers – was the end of the story.

“It’s all been there before,” says Ben Akiba.

Several times already. The bad thing is that the ears of the great are barricaded, that they will never hear the truth until it becomes law that princes' sons may not incur debt. Read the Talmud diligently, young man!

The Denifche thinks long-term. He wants to establish things that will last. The Jew thinks about momentary success, about appearances; he establishes to earn money, “for I see that every living thing under the sun goes to another child, who will rise in his place,” and “it is better to use the present wealth.” Only Judaism must remain constant!

Every German has the same right to respect his family tree as the Jew and to keep himself of pure blood, what the Jew does even despite Christian baptism; Moses Mendelssohn says:

Our blood ennobles us above all other peoples. On the other hand, we would like to be deprived of any thought of legitimacy and tribe

Machine Translated by Google

tree. But what we have to do with dogs and horses and Those who attach great importance to what the Jew holds most sacred, blood, will have to regain its proper social value, especially in relation to Judaism. In a socially conservative state, this aspect is essential to protect it from disintegration. For it is people, but

The institutions guarantee the existence and well-being of the journey—the legitimate crown on the Germanic head and the national church and the inexcusable land of the fatherland, which now serves to shift the personal debts of the owners onto the people!

Since this is not a party document, it is not about people, but about natural rights. What do parties have to do with nature? It is as much as a magician.

discovered devil's knot with the laws of mathematics. It is an artificially confused knot of interests, which one graciously treats like a ail.

Doctor has to cut through to save the patient from suffocating. Human rights do not exist per se—only human rights

Human rights versus human duties. The Talmud, however, abolishes such duties on the part of the Indians toward the Germanic peoples. And rightly so. For human rights exist only within the family, the community, the state, and generally in areas that are human, that is, that provide a form, a foundation, an artificial and closed structure. All other rights are those that also belong to animals, namely the natural rights of self-

Preservation in the struggle for existence, and these, like nature and Judaism in general, are expressed in the Talmud. We recognize these "animal rights," but we also demand our own—our "natural rights." Every people has the Jews it deserves. Any nation incapable of keeping Judaism within its bounds will perish like the people of Canaan.

The Jew has two kinds of right: one to show off, the Mosaic right, to deceive the nations, and one to keep (for himself), Aaron's right of the golden calf, in order to rule them when the walls are broken down.

The men of Jericho were foolish enough to give thanks to the Sirens

The Jubilee trumpets sounded, and as a reward, they were killed. Of all the Jerichoites, only the whore Rajah and her Louis survived. Our Social Democrats may take this as a blessing. The Jews have two kinds of law. One was preached by Lassalle, the Joshua of these days, with the trumpets of Jubilee, namely, the universal forgiveness of debts and the resurrection of demonized human rights. Once the goal has been achieved, once the walls have fallen, the natural law of the Jews will once again take effect. You are given into their hands, and they will not forgive you any of your debts. For, as Solomon sings: "Do not listen to everything, lest you hear your slave cursing you!" And the valley—

God teaches: Whoever forgives a non-Jew his debt, or even helps him to get his or even saves his life, strengthens the power of the godless and is cursed for it: except

His action would have benefited the Jews. This is grandiosely natural, but not human. Man must protect himself from the corruption that is natural where two races mix. Regarding the articles in "Germania," however, I add that a glance at Europe proves that everywhere

Wherever peoples have embraced ultramontaniam, they have perished in indenture. Nowhere are there more Jews than in Poland, although the Poles were the most Catholic of all Catholic peoples and, despite the Jews, still are.

So in Spain and France, where liberal Judaism has pulled the Jesuitical blinkers firmly around the ears of the non-Jewish people and has corrupted the whole country to the same extent—yuldet is, like Poland. Superstition is the precursor to Judaization. But one must distinguish between superstition and Puritanism, that is, strict discipline and morals tied to formulas of faith. This, at best, can be accepted.

We have our freedoms for the most part—what use are they to us given the supremacy of capital? For the German nobility, whose skin was pulled over their ears by the introduction of the Roman inheritance law and whose title was protected by the inheritance law

jection of all children became a pure farce, we now have a Jewish nobility that, with all the hatred and all the injustice, arrogance and selfishness of its race, with the Talmud before its eyes and in its heart, armored in its insolence

ity and with forged shields, on the warhorse of usury, with the dagger of hypocrisy, with liberal fanfares, as before Jericho, over the walls that we ourselves tore down, with a recklessness that can only be matched by the recklessness of the Poles. For to give first place at home to a foreign, particularistic, unabsorbable, rigidly organized people, spread all over the world from Jerusalem to California, is recklessness or at least a false speculation of the liberal doctrinaires. Or do we not know that the symbol of the Alliance of Israel is two hands (which touch each other)

only 45.

wash?), that Mr. Cremieux in Paris and the Rue Berzère have all the threads of politics in their hands, from Constantinople and Petersburg to London, New York and Calcutta, as Disraeli emphasized, and that for a long time young Talmudists from Algiers as well as young Jesuits from Rome have been sent to the new Canaan —

America — sends.

It is the feeling of our ideal deadness, the value

looseness of the current world order, which has so many content-related People in this time fall silent – listless at the Leden like Antonio. Like the poet and thinker, the Legislators must take root in the warm blood of the people and speak to the living people.

– Is it their fault if the people

Corpse horrifies him, leads him to cynicism? They try to reform the stage and offer prizes for poetry, while

a reform of our social and political, our economy

ical conditions must first and foremost take precedence before anything prosperous can be achieved on any other soil!

For the spirit of the people is the soil of all prosperity and all art, and this soil has now become a Bedouin desert.

Germania is a sphinx with the face of a woman but the body of an animal. She presents us with a riddle–

and whoever solves it will save humanity from the terrible toll of misery.

To let little things be little things, to avoid strife, to live in peace with everything that bears a human face, to live with oneself and one's family and to increase one's prosperity, is the endeavor of every wise man.

Machine Translated by Google

But even the wisest man is disturbed from his peace when the captivating magic that might make him long for peace escapes from his contemplation. Who can contemplate and enjoy when life is empty, and even the noble art has become a proselyte to the senseless, sybaritic mammon, and science a filthy whore?

Richard Wagner yays with true and therefore crayen

Words, as harsh expressions on this ground are unavoidably
lich, by pointing to the death of Germanness:

"Only when the inner death of a body is apparent,

If the external elements gain the power to take hold of it, but only to decompose it, then the flesh of this body dissolves into a teeming multitude of worms, but who, at the sight of them, would consider the body itself to be alive?

The same circumstances that lead to us being overgrown by Judaism in our own country, like the Canaanites, also find that in foreign lands we are de-Germanized and turned into "fertilizer" "on the field of foreign culture," and that even force our ships sail under foreign flags.

Both effects must be sought and combated in the same cause: our dependence on the Golden International, and the indebtedness of our German land. The national spirit requires a material basis.

The quarrelling on the ground that destroys all healthy feelings

The social question would cease as soon as it was generally recognized that the contradictions that prevent the penetration of rational economics are of a completely different nature than those between rich and poor, which Disraeli finds it so advantageous to emphasize. It is racial contradictions that paralyze our strength, and it is these that the state must strive to counteract. But it can do this in no better way than by giving German power its wings, removing its shackles, opening up to it the realms of healthy global enterprise, and placing free ground beneath its feet again. Then the Aryan spirit will emerge victorious from this struggle with Semitism.

proceed and the social question sinks back to the ground like blowing dust.

John Stuart Mill, asked whether the mass immigration of Chinese would be to the advantage or disadvantage of America will, says very generally, the confusion of two people—

when races of different cultural standpoints and diverging worldviews must ultimately lead to Sela—

verei of the one and lead to the aytocracyierization of the other, vaye

also not in a state of self-government.

When would our German people imagine a Jewish usury?

Aytocracy, which can naturally only maintain itself by force, that is, by a hired helotry, France, and has a vild of the state into which we are ywiped more quickly than one would believey

Machine Translated by Google

drive, a condition against which a remedy is necessary, which seems radical but is conyerservative, and liberal, ie liberating, likey must be done, because the sick person is preserved by freeing him from his vulnerability, even if this has to be done through a radical cure.

This is a game with words, but unfortunately words have become slogans, so powerful that the deluded people allow themselves to be led as if by a leash, and that one is almost forced to consider these and such words more than their meaning.

As the names suggest, the basic concepts of liberalism and conservatism are distorted in favor of the Juy denthums, otherwise they would be forgiven for day and night, for striving and rest,

and one could acknowledge that in lifey ralism, the conscious life of the nation finds its embodiment. But because the soul wears down the body, it is neither continuously-threats can still remain unrestricted, but is kept in check by conservatism, which cares f that is, for the security of the institutions of the people. It is no wonder that we

Germans are only now coming to the realization that both principles are meaningless without the body and that, thirdly, there are great common principles on whose ground these opponents meet and work together and which, through the voice of the radical party, the workers, are always in Memory must be preserved. The Pintering in the

A situation in which one party swallows up the other and all three are fooled by Judaism would have to transform into a coexistence, if constitutionalism is ever to become anything other than the dividing water that separates and dissolves the estates through various forms of bribery, to which all parties are equally accessible, and which finally, in a bloodbath, also destroys the identity, because spiritual and secular Judaism, that is, the Bourse and the Jesuit Order, would wrestle among themselves for the upper hand like Moses and Aaron. We Germans are not Canaanites and it is to be hoped that we will survive these crises and development processes, despite the Lasalle-like trumpets of hope.

In my opinion, the title "Emancipation of the Fourth Estate," under which Dr.

Rudolph Meyer wrote a faithful book, is very significant when capitalist Jewry is presented as the third, already emancipated, class. Otherwise, however, the title is absurd according to the Germanic view, there are only three estates, corresponding to the concepts of landed property, capital, and labor. Respect the holy three on which the state stands securely, four classes are no more than two classes and are Semitic products: Shepherds and sheep, or as with the Monbuttus, according to Schweinfurth the forefathers of the Semites, the cannibalistic nomadic class and the field ý building a foraged stand. Let us Germans now try to manipulate ourselves from the Jews.

Our people are bravely resisting the slavery of usury thumbs. It has hoped and still hopes to achieve through self-help what can only be achieved by revitalizing the Germanic consciousness and its expression in legislation, Germany perhaps only with the help of the state, to which every German sacrifices his best years. In no country in the world does the people have as much right to count on the highest level of care from the state as in Germany, for in no country in the world

Machine Translated by Google

we.

A people called to freedom, bearing a culture, makes many sacrifices for the state to protect their fatherland, their king, and their existence from foreign enemies, and it is right to grant this people what one grants to the financial power, the stock market, and the nomadic Jew—namely, state aid in the broadest sense. The parties that claim the state and its alms of privilege only for themselves must remain silent out of shame, when any glance at the country would prove them wrong. The misery of the masses, the decay of agriculture and productive industries, the usury of the most basic necessities of life and the mere space occupied by the body, the corruption of the minds of the Church, the press and parliament cry out to heaven.

Where in the world is the fatherland of the Germanic peoples than here, which is the mother nation, if not the Germans?

If this ends in shame, humanity is deprived of its diadem robs – we think we must say this without arrogance, looking at our banner of humanity.

Political power cannot make a people happy, cannot replace moral power, and is also unsustainable without it. But who would have moral power if they were sunk in debt? And that is us as a people. People will worship the man who now directs Germany's destiny and erect hundreds of monuments to him, but the people would not crown him if he spurned the love of this people; but if he saves Germany, and from corruption, monuments to his men will grow up all over the world, and not a day will pass without the people's hand surrounding them with signs of veneration and love.

Addendum to the foreword.

This short work makes no claim to perfection. It stems from a sudden impulse to cast the tormenting thoughts of years onto the broad shoulders of public consciousness.

The unpleasant topic has been dismissed almost overnight, and considerations for present form, moderation, and ease of understanding have had to give way to those for completeness and brevity. Nevertheless, the whole offers only one of the many phases the social question. Men of the Liberal Party have for the Very Uentlihung dieser zufer only as Manucript printed writing plaidirt'

The author himself, however, embarks with extreme reluctance on the high road of social-political controversy, into the rainy weather of the pressy

He would have preferred to remain unnoticed by the literary gendarmerie, in order to educate individual reader in private about the course of contemporary liberalism. The Miss-

But the press's instructions forced him to publish. Since he saw a herd of sheep rush into cellar window following their leader, yaw, he no longer believes in the wisdom of well-trained majorities.

His skepticism also forbids him from emphasizing reform proposals, since every reform so far impoverished honest people and enriched the parasites. He is in favor of gradual development; reversion seems unproductive to him. He sounds a cry of alarm. God knows what it's good for.

But he rejects the witty claim that he has written a satire. Laughing at a person in agony

People is a sign of the incomprehensible insensitivity of those with the same elements that do not have a sympathetic rapport, which the author places in their

Machine Translated by Google

He wishes to see his limits removed. Otherwise, no matter what you accuse him of, he won't make a fuss about it.

The many hurtful letters, which the author
on sides of those who feel offended by this writing must be able to believe finely, he only sets the one of the too early

4 including 4

the departed Dr. Rodberius, Excellency, a

of a whole army of "economic objects" wrote to the author shortly before his death: |

Jagetzon

Most Reverend Sir! | will probably be delighted by your good highly interesting brochure: "Darwin, Germany | | express my most sincere thanks for the many points of agreement | have. You will find this confirmed in a document that will be published.

N With particular respect, | have the honor .

Printed by Dits Dreyer, Unter den Linde

Digitized by Google

This is a reproduction of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing eUort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Google Books

<https://books.google.com>

Google

About this book

This is a digital copy of a book that sat on library shelves for generations before being

The book has outlived its copyright and can now be made available to the public. A book in expired.

Whether a book is available to the public can be determined

Machine Translated by Google

vary from country to country. Publicly accessible books are our gateway to the past and re cultural and

scientific wealth that is often difficult to discover.

Traces of use, annotations and other marginal notes contained in the original volume can a a reminder of the book's long journey from the publisher to a library and on to you.

Terms of Use

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize publicly available materials and mak accessible. Publicly accessible books belong to the public, and we are only their custodians steps to prevent misuse by commercial parties. This includes technical restrictions on automated queries.

We ask you to adhere to the following guidelines:

+ Use of files for non-commercial purposes We designed Google Book Search for end users and You this

Use files only for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ No automated queries Do not send automated queries of any kind to the Google system. If on machine translation, optical character recognition, or other areas where access to text material

for these purposes and can

may help.

+ Retain Google branding elements. The Google watermark, which you'll find in every file, Google Book Search. Please do not remove the watermark.

+ Stay within the law Regardless of your intended use, you must be aware of your responsibility for users in the United States is publicly accessible, is also publicly accessible to users in other countries. Whether a use of a particular book is legally

is permissible. Don't assume that a book's appearance on Google Book Search means it can be used without consequences.

About Google Book Search

Google's goal is to organize the world's information and make it universally usable and accessible. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books and helps authors and publishers reach their intended audience.

You can search the entire book text online at <http://books.google.com>.

Machine Translated by Google

Dad PICTURE 35 "

HARVARD COLLEGE LIBRARY

67e6

20|

THE DEINARD COLLECTION

GIVEN BY

LUCIUS NATHAN LITTAUER

(Class of 1878)

NATHAN LITTAUER

January 23, 1930

|| IN MEMORY OF HIS FATHER | | |

The Jews

under |

Frederick the Great.

The Jews

St. Richard the Great.

According to documentary sources

from

Hans Jungfer.

Hebrew Union College
Library.

Duplicate.

OLD.

Ceipzig.

Machine Translated by Google

Friedrich Wilhelm Grunow.

1880.

HE

HARVARD COLLEGE LIBRARY GIFT OF
LUCIUS NATHAN LITTAUER 1930

Printed by C. HoUmann'sche Buckdruckerei in Stuttgart.

Unusual and almost superhuman appeared to be

The life's work of Frederick the Great, the philosopher on the throne, as Plato once wished him to be for the peoples, was remembered by his contemporaries.

"A unique man, never to be sung out!" thus sang the contemporary Swabian poet Schubart, and thus all those who lived with him, insofar as they were receptive to the unusual and the sublime. For Frederick's peryony ity resembled the sun, which, where it illuminates, also warms and enlivens even the darkest, most hidden valleys with a few rays. Not only the greatest pride of his Prussians

He was, not only in Austrian regiments marching against him, soldiers' songs of Frederick "the Great" resounded: even distant peoples rejoiced in the faint reflection of his character that reached them. "We had to tell of Frederick the Second, and the party

The inhabitants' participation in this great king was so lively

"It was our duty to conceal his death so as not to make our hosts hateful by such unfortunate news." Goethe wrote this in CaltaniVetta, Sicily, on April 28, 1787.

All the more our generation should cherish the memory of Friedrich gratefully honor; for what is great and capable about the Prussian state, whose traces lead back to him.

ee

But if we want to summarize in a few words what the unique magic of his being is based on, and what the high venerability of his figure, to which we can only look up with reverence, is, we say: That absolute kingship was for the last time, but at the same time in a particularly magnificent and moving way through its humanity

The form embodied in Frederick the Great. Th. Carlyle beautifully said: "I declare him to be the last of kings, so far; when the next will come is a very long question!" No prince has been more deeply convinced that the state has moral duties and moral obligations toward the people, above all the duty to patronize its subjects when they prove helpless against internal dangers, to protect them from such dangers as must arise without state intervention, or to prevent them.

Therefore, Frederick's wise principle was that everyone, in order to

Machine Translated by Google

not to offend others, to respect the limits of one's position, but to thrive and feel comfortable in one's position. – These principles, which Frederick with great pursued with amiable consistency and a passionate sense of justice, teach us to properly appreciate his reign in general and in particular as it relates to his Jewish subjects.

However, many were less pleased:

"As a white man thought before us," as:

"how we have finally made such a wonderful progress"; and whoever was inclined to place genius in the Procrustean bed of a pseudo-liberal scheme has already

Frederick's powerful personality with his own little ual dimensions. But it is peculiar to our time, that the conditions of the Jews under Frederick the Great are often used to criticize his government. Although the monarch's decisive "liberality"

The person who wrote: "Sectateur de Geneve ou sectateur de Rome, Soyez bon citoyen et mon coeur vous cherit!"

– the Jesuits expelled from arch-Catholic countries

in Prussia and appointed Cardinal von SinzendorU as

Knight of the Black Eagle Order; – however, the Kony

yequence of such liberality is yelusive in relation to the Jewsy yomyerlich missed by cerytain quarters. Only as an expression of this view, we quote the following from StreckfuB's book: "500 Years of Berlin History and Legend":

Position: "In blatant contradiction to the King's efforts to bring enlightenment and tolerance to power in Prussiay

The great antipathy he displayed toward the Jews on every occasion was a clear indication of his efforts to bring peace. Even under the reign of Frederick the Great, the Jews remained pariahs, excluded from most civil rights and burdened with heavy, unjustified taxes. Peacey

Rich, in his dislike of the Jews, was entirely on the standpoint of the common people."

So much is true that, like many of our great poets and thinkers, the poet and philosopher on the Prussian throne also had a personal dislike for the Juy denomination; moreover, that assessment of his reign reveals partly a false perception and partly a lack of knowledge of historical facts. What an abuse of the term "tolerance"—as if Frederick's confessional tolerance had not been to the benefit of the Jews! What an anachronismy

mus, the social emancipation of the Jews as something

BE <

previous century, something self-evident or natural

Above all, what a serious psychological aberration and sin against the genius of the great Frederick, to see in the lack of sympathy for the Jews a contradiction with his great spirit and character traits!

Anyone who can follow this free and sharp spirit can only conclude that the king's relationship

Machine Translated by Google

to the Jews arose from serious ruling principles and that it corresponded to the welfare of his state. – In order to explain these principles of Frederick the Great, the circulars, rescripts, cabinet orders, his handwritten marginal resolutions, in general those documents which govern the conditions of the Jews under his government faithful, be compiled. To our knowledge, this has not happened yet. May this writing therefore be a

which contribute to the proper appreciation of our greatest king! – First, something about the conditions of the Jews under Frederick's ancestors. |

The 17th century marked the recent existence of the Jews

in Prussia, since the Hohenzollern princes of that time surpassed the princes of all neighboring states in their leniency towards the Jews, and no persecution of them occurred in their lands. – The last general expulsion from the Mark, "which caused general joy throughout the country

*) The documents are taken from the Novum Corpus Constitutionum Prussico-Brandenburgensium and other volumes 4–8, kk) According to Preuß: Frederick the Great, Berlin 1833. Part 2, Documenty denbuch.

"The persecution that arose" had befallen the Jews on the orders of Elector John George, after they themselves had contributed to the execution of their fellow believer, the powerful John Lippold, in 1573. But just a few years later, they had gathered again and soon received the right to visit the annual fairs in return for a tribute of 1,000 thalers annually. The great Elector first granted a protective privilege in 1661, namely to Elias Gomperz "under the condition that he would not knowingly purchase any church or stolen goods, and that he would not take more than 3 hellers per thaler per week from the money he lent against pledges," etc.

w. Gradually, the same Elector allowed the Jews to resettle in the Marches, not without repeated complaints from the Brandenburg Estates; he also decided the Jews expelled from Austria in 1680 in exchange for protection money of 8 Rthlr. annually for each family.

"It was not easy for the Brandenburg princes to deal with the intrusiveness of the Hebrew foreigners, as well as with the not unfounded complaints of their subjects, in such a way that humanity on both sides did not suffer."

Even King Frederick the First could rightly emphasize in one of his edicts:

"The Indians, who are under our protection and enjoy much good in our lands, should therefore rightly refrain from deliberately harming our interests."

For in 1708, the persecution of the Jews was probably prevented by the humanity and clemency of the first Prussian king. The Jews in Friedeberg in the Neumark had established a high school without any permission. In response to the rumor that abhorrent things against the Christian religion and its

Machine Translated by Google

10

Founder, the government had the school closed, all books removed from it and their contents examine closely. The result of the investigation consisted, among other things, in an extensive collection of fanatical insults against Christians and the Christian religion. Passing over these, we only quote the following passage: "We regret all vows and oaths; our vows shall not be vows, our obligations shall not be obligations.

yoaths shall not be oaths!" Probably the blame for this fanaticism lay less with the Jews in general than with their rabbis; in any case, the king protected the Jews from an outbreak of the people's anger by not allowing those documents to be published; later they were printed in the "Annals of the Jews in the Prussian Provincial States, Berlin 1790." pp. 188–217. – As early as 1704, the Jews in Vienna had achieved the complete suppression of "The Discovered Jerusalem"

by Eisenmenger, Professor of Oriental Languages in Heidelberg. The author, with difficulty, saved a copy, which he guarded like a treasure, and finally found help in Berlin, to the credit of Prussia.

In 1711, the king was visited by the court preacher Achenbach who decided to have the book reprinted in secret.

The Jews were again filled with great fear; however, despite the rapid sales of the book and the eagerness with which it was read, no violence was committed. – In general, the Polish Frederick the First greatly favored his Jewish subjects. –

King Frederick, who was not always appreciated for his merits

William the First, the worthy father of his great son, was a faithful and thrifty father of the country, but not

Friend of the Jews, who, as a result of the clemency of his father and

Sea

Grandfather's estate constantly increased. "The Liebmannin, her father's court Jewess, who had engaged in many illicit dealings, emy first pledge the change." Not only usury laws

The new king not only allowed this, but also preceded Frederick the Great in his efforts to limit the number of Jews in Prussia. Among other things, he once ordered through Cay binetsordre, all foreign Jews who settled in Berlin sneaked away from there. Frederick William, however, valued and rewarded righteous Jews who proved themselves useful. The protected Jew, Moses Levi Gomperz, who, like his father, was involved in deliveries for the court and the army particularly well behaved, the king appointed him to the High Court and war factor and ordered by cabinet order of April 2, 1717, that he should carry a sword like other servants of His Majesty! – The year 1721 was disastrous for the Indians. A Jewish silver supplier to the mint died while while he owed them a very high sum; at the same time, his entire fortune suddenly disappeared. Whether this

In this case, the king became very unkind and considered the entire Berlin

Jewry complicit; on August 12, at 7 a.m., they had to assemble in the synagogue and were here, in the presence of the chief court preacher, subjected to a great ban. "From this time on, the king had

Machine Translated by Google

Jews no favorable opinion"; he was given them a strict protector who prevents every new theft and fraud punished mercilessly. A Jew who stood over a thief

When one of them, caught stealing, stubbornly denied it, the king ordered him to be hanged, explaining that he "wanted to take this villain on his conscience." Two others, who had stolen from a Russian prince in Berlin, met the same punishment on his orders. The no less jovial

Be.)

As a strict lord, he carried out a harmless oppression of his Jewish subjects by forcing them to buy from him a portion of the wild boars killed during his hunts, which obligation he converted in 1730 into a regular tax, the so-called called "Sauyteuer" (swine tax). – On 29 September off

same year, on the orders of Friedrich Wilhelm,

Prussia the first "General Jewish Privilege"; under this
The Jews also had a constitution during the first year

tenth of the government of his successor.

The reign of Frederick the Second, says a historian criminal of the 18th century, is very remarkable with regard to the Jews. Indeed, it is even unique in this as in every other respect! Frederick's activity is incomparable, how he intended to treat his Christian subjects

moderate Jewish increase and enrichment and at the same time promoted the Jews by persistently forcing them to prove themselves useful to the country to which they owed it through activity and utilization of their wealth; how he very decisively stood up for the other classes of the population when the Jews threatened to be harmful to them, and thereby guaranteed them not only unconditional religious freedom and – in contrast to previous arbitrariness – not only did they grant full justice, but also leniency and kindness, as far as it could be done without harming the non-

Jews. –

For around the year 1740, the Germans still generally regarded the Jews as a foreign part of the population, not less because of their ancestry than because of their religion; each of them had to be

Letter of protection from the monarch right of residence and

re

Protection of the laws which acquire, and the quite humane

Author of the "Annals of the Jews" in 1790 is the name nation: "Jewish nation" is quite common. Frederick the Great was very little concerned with the diversity of religious denominations; but he did not consider the Jews as Germans: in 1766, he ordered their expulsion from Prussia.

threatens.

The first warlike years up to 1745 left the king little time to remember his Jewish subjects; thus, the general privilege of 1730 remained in place. The Jewish community in Berlin recommended itself to the benevolence of its monarch, "iny which they illuminated at the celebration of the Peace Festival in 1745

tion of the synagogue and its most distinguished houses, and tried to express their joy and a German from one of

Machine Translated by Google

had a poem written by them printed." In the followingy

During the years of peace, Frederick drew up the regulations and agreements beyyerung of the Jewish constitution; on 15 June 1747, an edict concerning the Silesian Jews appeared

Above all, the king ordered that his father's regulations be carefully revised. The following incidents show how he wished this: In 1747, the king was granted a concession for the son of a protected Jew to be fully

Frederick sent it back with the remark that "he had signed this concession this time, but it would be going too far to send two children to a letter of protection."

to be set, because thereby the purpose of the Jews—

families was completely wrong; therefore, he wanted to establish once and for all that in future no more than one child should be placed on the letter of protection, which was already enough." – As difficult as a just settlement of the Jewish question was in detail, this one thing stood for peacey

Be

From the outset, King Richard the Great established that the Jews were not allowed to increase their numbers. Following the same principle, the King soon afterward (December 25, 1747) decreed that a bankrupt protected Jew, who was accused of deliberate or fraudulent bankruptcy,

If a family was suspected of being a gang, it would lose its protection, and its letter of protection would expire, so that it could not even be reoccupied by another family.

Frederick supplemented this edict on January 23, 1749: "If special circumstances arise in such cases,

Those who might deserve some mitigation should then be reported to Us and Our most gracious resolution should be obtained thereon."

At the King's insistence, the book he had carefully reviewed finally appeared on 17 April 1750.

"Revised General Privilege and Regulations for the Jews in Prussia, the Electorate and Mark of Brandenburg, etc.," which remained generally valid until 1812. The Jews asked the King not to publish the privilege in print, but to have it only sent to the authorities in copy.

At that time, Frederick granted this request; but it was printed later on the basis of the following documents:

"Your Royal Majesty has granted us the most gracious privilege of printing the collections of edicts, etc.; for this we still lack the Jewish regulations of 1750, which have not yet been printed. The General Fiscal, Uhden, considers it good that the aforementioned regulations be printed with the collections... The General Directory will also not be averse to communicating them to us if it receives orders to do so. Your Majesty

We therefore leave it to the Royal Majesty to decide whether these ... orders wish to issue a decree that this Jewish regulation ... may be printed. Berlin, July 18, 1756.

To the Academy of Sciences

Machine Translated by Google

President and Directors. N

The decision can be found in the Cabinet Order of 18.

July 1756: "Since His Royal Majesty has most graciously resolved, upon the representation of the Academy of Sciences, that the above-mentioned Jewish Regulations of the year 1750 should be communicated to them in order to have them printed along with the other edicts" ... etc. –

The introduction to this important document reads: "We, Frederick ..., announce and hereby add to know: After We in Our Kingdom, especially

In the local residencies, various deficiencies and abuses were noted among the Jews who were housed and tolerated there, but in particular

have observed that their excessive increase has caused immense damage and oppression not only to the public, but especially to the Christian merchants and inhabitants, but also to the Jewry itself, through this and through the infiltration of uny

more disoriented, foreign and almost nowhere at home

hearing Jews, many complaints and disadvantages arise y

yen, but we, from the most gracious Fatherland Prince y

yure that all and every loyal subject under Our protection, both Christians and Jews, want to be seen and maintained as much as possible in a constant good character and flourishing of their livelihood and trade, We have found it necessary to make such provisions that this achieves Our most gracious intention, between the Christians and the Jews, food

"and trade proportion geytiUtet and inbeyony which should not be harmed by unduly expanded Jewish trade and commerce."

There follow 33 articles, of which the following are worth highlighting:

Art. 2: The number of ordinary and extraordinary

lichen Schutzjuden is fixed (follow the lists), uny

gleitente (non-protection) will not be tolerated.

Art. 5: Ordinary guardians may pass on their protection to a child if the child has 1000 Rthr. in cash; more than one child may only be granted protection by special grace.

received a privilege from the king. Jewish non-purchasey

With the exception of community servants (rabbis, cantors, etc.), Jewish servants are considered to be extraordinary protected persons and cannot inherit their protection. – Jewish servants may don't get married.

Art. 8: The protection money is to be paid quarterly, and the entire

Jewish community of the respective provinces is liable for its payment in solidum.

Article 10: "In case one or other of these protected Jews should commit a deliberate and malicious banquerout, he shall..." (Compare edicts of December 25, 1747 and January 23, 1749).

Art. 11: "So that these Jews under our protection ... may be supported and preserved"

which may, all these and other duties incumbent upon them to earn a living, to earn an honest living and not to be a burden to the community, even less

those Christian merchants and traders, manufacturers

turiers, manufacturers and craftsmen alike, untilly hero partly quite irresponsible conceyyion uch want to presume, yuch large entry and demolition in

BE

their livelihood and trade and thereby bring them down..., so we hereby further and seriously stipulate and order: That no Jew shall be a citizen engage in any craft, except for the Petychiery ytapping, grinding, opticaly glasses), diamondy and Stone grinding, gold and silver embroidery, no privileged.., of which guilds can be found, presume to ypecially no brewing of beer or distilling of brandy

yolle. Registered engravers must, however, swear an oath to every local authority that they will not use any false excise, customs, or other royal seals, and even less so coin stamps, whether they be from our or other authorities.

tentative character, with the road of the cart and total loss of protection /till or sell.

Those Jews who were called by Us to establish "Which kinds of fabrives .. may receive special concessions, shall be protected most vigorously."

Art. 14: Trade in domestic wool and yarn is forbidden to Jews.

Art. 16: Their trade in hides and leather is bey
yrestricted. 2

Art. 18: Detailed list of all items whose trade is free.

Art. 19: Jews shall neither peddle nor advertise their wares.

Art. 21: They shall only be allowed in Berlin to attend the Halle and Prenzlauer Thore, in no major city without a passport.

Article 24: Beggar Jews will not be tolerated in the country.

Art. 25, 26: On pledges etc.

The Jews under Frederick the Great 2

egg

Art. 27: The highest permitted interest rate is 120%.

Art. 28: The number of Jewish houses in Berlin – then 40 – shall not be increased, but

Jews were given permission to cultivate deserted areas

ten. “But nowhere shall these same free houses, in no public inns or breweries look peculiar.”

“Rural goods, on the other hand, are given to those Juy–

Machine Translated by Google

which is not permitted to be bought or possessed anywhere.”

Articles 29–31: Religious Affairs.

Art. 32: “In matters Yuch as in the Jewish Rite ay

yt, is according to the disposition of the Mosaic Gey yet be recognized.” Art. 33: No

Jew may live in the countryside, the number of the determinate for each towny ten letters of protection may not be issued without special permission be exceeded. The legal affairs of the Juy They belong before the magistrates and courts, their protectiony matters before the General Directory and the War and Domain Chambers of each province under it.

At the beginning of each year, tables are to be sent to the latter authority, according to prescribed categories, of the Jews and Jewish houses in each place. send.

The conclusion: "We have authenticated this revised GenerallyJewsyprivilege and regulations most peculiary hand-signed and sealed with Our Royal Seal strengthened. So done and given, Berlin, April 17, 1750. f Friederich."

The king soon noticed, with great displeasure, that the Jews were becoming more numerous against his will, and therefore made it difficult to obtain a letter of protection by inscribing: "To they

We most graciously resolve and want that the current number of Jewish families in our country should always remain the same and that no Jews should receive any privileges, unless they establish new factories. Be etc. Give Bery lin, 13 January 1751." In the same sense, two years later, the King forbade the transfer of letters of protection that had been revoked by death or as a result of crime to other persons.

to let go, namely by rescript to all War and Domain Chambers of 25 March 1753:
"Those of you

The general list of Jewish families submitted is for our convenience come, and the rectification of the same will be prepared for you as soon as possible. You must, however, use all possible means to ensure that the number of Jewish heads does not increase, and especially through the departure of the protected Jewish families, whether through death or

If Sch.fJ.yletters are cassied due to crimes of the holders, take the utmost care so that you can reliably report on them in your annual table

net, how much the number of Jewish families and heads has diminished. How then, in accordance with this, the Commissarios locorum should be well instructed and, in the event of avoidance of serious punishment, that no new Jewish families are established beyond the set number ynear, nor more than should be tolerated, and that if any of the Sch.yJ.VF. come out or whose privileges are cancelled, such yshould be reported immediately and yt

Machine Translated by Google

no new pain must be suffered in return for the one that has passed away."

2*

– 20 –

Naturally, violations of various articles of the general privilege were inevitable, which is why the king was careful to constantly reinforce them. As early as May 1751, the authorities were reminded not to tolerate Jews in the countryside; on January

10, 1752, the order was repeated: "Jews shall refrain from leasing wool spinning mills and purchasing domestic wool and wool yarn in cities and in the countryside, so that manufacturers and producers can obtain wool directly from the manufacturer." "The trade in foreign wool for the benefit of the Frankfurt fairs remains open to them as before." – Hardly a year passed during Frederick's reign without an edict being issued against Jewish peddlers in the countryside and foreign beggars, especially those coming from Poland.

menden, was issued. On June 29, 1752, the following appeared reycrypt to the Neumark and Pomeranian Chamber:

"Since it has been most humbly reported to Our Highest Person that for some time now a quite extraordinaryy

A large number of all kinds of foreign beggars and Jews roaming the country in the suburbs and villages of the country, of which nothing but

Theft and other mischief can be suspected:

We hereby graciously command you to Consideration should be given to which form in the

the province located on the Polish borders

to be faithful, so that those from Poland often come mende BeggaryJews did not pass completely freely and without fear into Our Land, yony

but rather must be rejected again from the borders, after which you then have the

to make the necessary arrangements. You must, however, also be careful on this occasion.

that the Jewish merchants traveling to the Frankfurt Fair, and also Jews otherwise trading in a truly lawful manner, are not included in this, nor that through the Frankfurter Commercio praejudiciret,

mayyen this syfyyuyt only mainly the beggarsy

Jews and similar suspicious rabble.” In 1753, the king ordered “that the poor and lowly Jews in the small towns, especially those located in the middle of the country, where such Jews are completely unnecessary and even harmful, be removed from them at every opportunity and to the extent possible.” – By edict of January 13, 1755, the ban on usury

tightened and the interest rate reduced: for borrowed

Machine Translated by Google

Money may only be taken at 7 B, against a deposit only at 6 '%. – On 2 December of this year, Article 10 of the

Gen.yPriv. reminds us that fraudulent bankruptcy must be punished ruthlessly.

Even during the Seven Years' War, numerous government decrees concerning the Jews were not lacking. On July 22, 1758, the Pomeranian War and Domain

Chamber of Stettin the following proclamation: i “Since it has been learned that just at the time when the Russian light troops had carried out various invasions in Hinterpommern and the Neumarky taken, many foreign Jews are seen in the country, who allow themselves to be used as spies and leaders of their enemies and other robbers: Thus, all and every judicial authorities in cities as well as in the countryside are thereby commanded to look after the foreign

Jews to have good supervision and all unknown

To stop Jews and not allow them into the country.

ten Yich aber drgl. .. enter the country, Yollen

they are picked up, taken to the nearest fort and there they are forced to work on the fort, and this is

Proclama in the jars in the villages, in the cities but in public places and in the gates to strike." –

By circulars of February 23 and September 11, 1761, Jews were forbidden to trade in flax and wood, "since they had not been given permission to do so by the General Privy Council." In 1762, an edict was issued that foreign Jews could not stay in a Prussian city for more than eight days.

should be punished with 1 ducat per day, which is paid to the Potsy to pay for the orphanage.

After the Peace of Hubertsburg, the government intensified tion first Art. 28 of the Gen.yPriv., which is against Very increase in Jewish houses. Circular of July 4, 1763: The Jews are abusing the private property rights in relation to the purchase of houses. "They can present themselves to other people as entrepreneurs." dealers and brokers to use in house purchases", but in Berlin they are not allowed to buy a house themselves, subject to a fine of 50 ducats

buy before one of the 40 Jewish houses has become empty, and in particular "no other house than of a medium type and among which neither freemen nor brewers

nor inns are welcome." In the province, the purchase of a house without special permission is forbidden to Jews and punishable by a fine of 50 thalers. –

On October 13, 1763,

the king to the neglected as a result of the wary mung to send in the Jewish tables at the beginning of each year.

– On November 17th of this year, a sharp

Edict against peddlers, "because among those in the flat country various burglaries and thefts that have occurred since then yeels have been perceived that such are mostly

Machine Translated by Google

"This edict shall be published on the town hall doors in the cities and read out in the churches in the countryside twice a year, on the first Sunday in May and November.

Frederick firmly kept Jews away from agriculture. By Cabinet Order of November 12, 1764, they were forbidden to lease cows. "We want these leases of agricultural property to be

Jews cease and are no longer permitted to do so. Ally

"The Jews are granted protection primarily to enable them to engage in trade, commerce, manufactures, factories, etc., but agricultural matters are not left to anyone other than Christians to work on, and therefore everyone must remain in their own field."

– In order to promote the royal porcelain manufacture, the king decreed on May 9, 1769, that the Indians should sell 300 thalers of porcelain abroad for each privilege, which was waived in 1778 for a one-time payment of 4,000 thalers.

The Jewish body toll, which was collected at the customs offices of "uny tax to be paid to "displaced" (non-protected) Jews,

Frederick the Great allowed it to exist. According to the "Excise Tariff for the Province of Prussia" of 10 April 1769, chapter V, title 19, in the rural towns and when passing through to Danzig

a Jewish merchant 3 Rthlr. 15 Gr., 1
" Servant.2 "15"

15 m boy.. 1

"The Jews, for raw materials to serve the factoryy

canten to the rural towns and not exceed 24 hours
who are therein do not pay any escort."

In the "Postal Regulations for all Royal Provinces" of November 26, 1782, Section XII, § 16 states:

As far as Jews traveling by post are concerned, the post offices

have taken it upon themselves to prevent any possible personallydutiesy Defraudation should be duly addressed; for which purpose, in places where the post office is connected with the customs office, the postmasters have the Jews

show their passports and patents, and the incomparable

teten must demand the body toll. In the places hiny

Where both cities are separated and special customs collectors are appointed, some notes or receipts should be provided to the postmasters for the collection of such Jewish personal tax, so that, especially with regard to Jewish passengers traveling through at night, customs clearance can be carried out at the post office without delay.

Likewise, the right of various cities to be free of Jews continued. In the circular quoted in more detail below

v. 11 Nov. 1763 it says: "But those cities are excluded from expresse, namely Stettin, Magdey

Burg etc.; where, according to the old customs and constitutions, no Jews or Jewish families are allowed to establish themselves and settle, and we do not want to prejudice the rights of those cities." Buyching recounts in his "Journey from Berlin to Kyritz 1780": "Jews are not present at all in Neuruppin, indeed

Machine Translated by Google

the city has had the right not to that a Jew might spend the night there."

– 25 –

Since the king was very keen for his Jewish subjects to increase their wealth by establishing factories
By circular dated 11 November 1763 he granted the ordinary protected Jews

the right to extend their protection to a second child in return for the establishment of new factory.

to inherit.

"After the superiors and other elders of the Protected Jews Community in Berlin have most humbly represented to us that, since according to the current constitution, the second children of the Protected Jews are not permitted to settle in the royal lands, perhaps they would no longer be obliged to go outside the country ... and thereby because of the inheritance that falls to them sections considerable sums of money went out of the country, whereas, if We would deign, .. that the second children should also be under Our protection from now on

have benefited, not only when they marry

through inheritances that came to them from foreign countries

fell, a lot of money would have been drawn into this country, but they would also apply themselves to making the commerce of our country more flourishing and establishing factories, ... We have graciously resolved on this, etc. As for the houses, which the aforementioned second children of the protected Jews want to take possession of, it is not our intention at all that this would increase the number of Christian citizens—

Houses should be reduced, but we want to let it happen that three second children should build new houses, namely in Berlin on sites that have not yet been built in various parts of the city.

built on, but in other cities on deserted sites.

But if the elders of the Protected Jews Community have presented on this occasion that in the meantime, about 30 houses have already been purchased by the privileged Jews in Berlin under hidden approval, then we want to do this before this time.

nor agree, however, that this should not go further than the intended number of houses; but the one of them who wants to own a house in the future must either do so on a less ous place or a desolate place, or any other dilapidated house, if he is instructed to do so, to rebuild and rebuild. ... But in order that We may

Our intention is not betrayed, and no concessions may be obtained from Us, so declare

We hereby and want that no new Jewy

Families should be granted protection before the chiefs and other elders of the Berlin Jews

ychschatt will have attested in writing and dutifully each time that such a family is not only properly bey means, but also be useful to the public, and that the purpose we intended with regard to the factories to be established will thereby be promoted.”

These restrictions imposed on the Jews in Prussia

Machine Translated by Google

and benefits must be perceived by them as very mild

because, as the above document shows, they had become more numerous and wealthier since 1750, against the king's will. (1750: 40 Jewish houses in Berlin, 1763: 70.)

Therefore, he caused the Jewish community in Berlin to pay the provost of St. Nicolai the tuition fees, 165 thalers annually to the Berlin Gymnasium, and a number of other things.

-27-

N From the next decade to the first Polish
The following documents are also important for division:

5 "To the General Directorate for publication. According to

His Royal Majesty the Presiding Judge, our most gracious Lord, is most displeased to note that the Jews are so accustomed to the contraband trade, which has so far become so prevalent, that they are not even willing to engage in it even under the present strictest

ytationen to continnir Yich erdarSten: Alyo, His Royal Highness

Maj. reVolved that those Jews who were on contrabandy

Trade, even in the smallest detail, should not only be punished according to the laws of the country and, moreover, their protective privileges should be revoked, but also, if this trade should not cease, His Royal Majesty should ban all to let them reYolviren them from Dero Landen to hunt them down.

Potsdam, November 22, 1766.
Frederick."

As is well known, after the Seven Years' War, in order to fill the completely exhausted state coffers, the King had the monoy

Polish customs duties were extended to coffee and tobacco, and customs duties were generally increased. As a result, a significant smuggling business arose, in which the Jews were particularly involved. The edicts against Jewish contraband trade are therefore in the not uncommon in the last two decades of Frederick's reign.

On 7 November 1767, a "Banker's Edict" was issued, which in Article 2 repealed the previous edicts against bankrupts.

Jews repeatedly. From the "Excise Tariff for the Duchy of Magdeburg and the County of Mansfeld" of December 3, 1769, it is worth emphasizing that Jews were not allowed to buy hides and leather in the countryside; furthermore, that excise duties were not specifically charged on the gold, silver, and jewels they traded in.

– 28 –

was levied because they paid a certain annual fee for it. – On July 3, 1770, the government issued a "Royal

Fire Ordinance for the Capital City of Königsberg in Prussia"; Section 37 reads: "The Jews shall, instead of providing assistance with bells or buckets, or other means of assistance, annually contribute 50 Reichsthalers to the treasury before paying the premiums, and that against being spared all the work of the fire."

In 1772, Frederick acquired West Prussia, a wilderness of

Machine Translated by Google

600 OM. with only 500,000 inhabitants, among them many Jews. What the king did for this province alone, which owed him practically everything, is enough to make him immortal. The Jews played a significant role in the endless anxiety that West Prussia caused him; in this

In a cultureless country, their restriction seemed particularly important to the king. This was necessary. First, he allowed 4,000 begging Jews to cross the border; then the West Prussian Jews received roughly the same privileges that applied in other provinces. In order to draw Polish trade away from Danzig (which had remained part of Poland), Frederick established 50 regular and 136 extraordinary protection units in the three suburbs assigned to him: Hoppenbruch, Langfuhr, and Stolzenberg.

Jews and gave them their own general privilege on 9 August 1773, which was based on the text of the general privilege of.

17 April 1750 follows literally, as far as this applies to the weyty Prussian conditions, but in some places the expression also reveals a slight revision; for example, the relevant passage in the introduction reads: ... "that between the Christians and the Jews, food and trade are equitable and, in particular, by inadmissible

– 29 –

terten Jewish trade and commerce not too close

may be entered." – Also new here is the Specialiy yation of regular taxes, which may serve as an example of the services of a Jewish community under Frederick the Great.

Pay (1 Rthlr. = 24 Gr.)

"1. Protection money:

Sch.yJ.yFamilien N

50 ordinary à 12 tubes. – Gr. 600 Rthlr. – Gr.

136 extraordinary. 4 ("– "816 "–" 1416 Rthlr. – Gr.

2. To recruitsyFunds: 50 ordin.

a 1 round r. 20 gr. 91 Rthlr. 16 gr.

136 extraordinary 4a – "22 124 "16"
216 Rthir. 8 Gr.

3. For wedding and child money: 50 ordinary a – Rthlr. 2 Gr. 4 Rthlr. 4 Gr.
136 extraordinary 4a – "e5 "16"

9 Rthir. 20 Gr.

4. To CalendaryFunds: 50 ordin.
ad – Rthlr. 4 gr. 8 rhlr. 8 gr. 136 extraordinary. 4–
"2IE,–y8 "

19 Rthir. 16 Gr.

Summa 1661 thalers. 20 gr."
So the regular protected Jewish family paid approximately 14 Rthr. annually in regular taxes, which are extraordinaryy

only half. – The protection money was quarterly

Machine Translated by Google

with 354 thalers to the General Fiscal, the "Calendar funds" to the treasury of the Academy of Wiyenychafts, the rest to the Potsdam orphanage treasury.

– Sl)

In order to keep the peddlers away from the West Prussian peasants, Frederick repeated and sharply emphasized the decree excluding Jews from the countryside, especially for West Prussia. Cabinet order of May 2, 1773: "What the Settlement of wealthy Jews in the cities

triUt, it must be treated everywhere as in East Prussia and it must be adopted as a principle that, since sely

bige in the flat countryside are not to be tolerated, the old country constitution there deserves no respect for their establishment in the acci- ferable cities."
Here we learn that during the Polish misrule the Jews were excluded from the cities, a facty

A matter which sheds a peculiar light on the conditions of the local peasantry. – The Polish begging Jews were already specifically mentioned in 1773: "Begging foreign and local Jews must not be tolerated, but must be reported immediately upon their arrival to the magistrate or the elders and, after they have been given alms according to their means, must be removed by the elders within 24 hours, subject to a fine of 5 Reichsthaler for each day of prolonged stay." The wool trade was banned by cabinet order of February 16.

1774 initially granted to the Jews under reservation: "S. Kgl.

Maj. ... have most graciously resolved to establish in the small towns of the province the wool publishing house of their factoryyy

edges until Christians are found or His Royal Highness

Maj. Himself can instruct a fund to give in and order the necessary arrangements to be made in such a way that the manufacturers actually receive the benefit they expect from it.

and from which Jews are in no way

may be given advantage."

In the other provinces, however, trade remained with domestic wool is still strictly forbidden to Jews. See "Royal revised cloth and cloth regulations"

ment for the Electorate of Brandenburg", 1772 and 1780, 8. 2: "The Jews are to be completely excluded from the wool markets of the Mark, so that the wool manufacturers can buy there first-hand." – In contrast, §. 4: "Jews may import wool from Poland to the Frankfurt Fair."

In the last years of Frederick the intrusionny

The Jewish peddlers and Polish beggars were found to have exceeded all bounds; for one edict against them followed another; the king threatened them with ever harsher punishments in order to protect his country from them. On December 22, 1780, a "renewed and sharpened edict appeared because of the increasing number of foreign beggars," which was very § 11 reads: "Beggar Jews without a passport shall be punished the first time with a fourteen-day prison sentence with bread and water and then with the warning that they shall be sent the second time to the penitentiary for six months with the

Machine Translated by Google

so-called welcomes and farewells, but the third time they are to be put in a cart for life, and are to be expelled from the country." – This is specifically referred to in a general edict against beggars dated 30 June 1781, p. 2. – According to the rescript dated 3 February

In 1784, no farmer was allowed to give night to Polish Jews roaming the streets. camp so that they do not have to be on the land.

Secretly create depots. Every owner of a property is responsible for this; Jews who violate the rules are to be brought to the fortress. – As early as March 31, 1785, yeemed, referring to the edict of 1780, a new "sharpened ban against the peddling of untouched Jews": "His Majesty has heard that for some time

Time ago ... a quite extraordinary number of all kinds of foreign beggars, or roaming the country on foot with a small amount of stuff on their backs, or being seen in the towns and villages with other Jews hired for hire on carts or sleighs, of whom nothing anything other than secret trading in prohibited goods, theft and other mischief is to be suspected." If possibly ly, they should be turned back at the border without being charged personal toll; otherwise, every authority

entitled to take military action against peddlers and begging Jews to requisition Turkish aid. Travelling merchants are not affected by this. – Again, a stricter Punishment threatened by the Cabinet Order of January 18, 1786: "Since peddling, especially by Jews, is increasing greatly both in the cities and in the countryside, it is ordered that any Jew found peddling... shall be immediately taken to the fortress for three months and, depending on the circumstances, expelled from the country."

The numerous documents we have consulted show how Frederick the Great expressed his views on the relationship between Jews and non-Jews; in this

In a sense, this question gave rise to contemporary literature occasion for theoretical considerations. Hartmann's volume "Hieroglyphs" was widely read at that time, as was the work published in 1782 by War Councilor Cranz and Field Chaplain Mérychel.

published: "Striving for Light and Justice." Against the latter, Moses Mendelssohn wrote in 1783: "Jerusalem, or on Religious Power and Judaism." It caused a great stir in 1781

– 33 –

the book of the archivist von Dohm: "About the citizenship

The Jewish Reformation" aroused a whole series of retorts. A very humane contemporary commented: "Although this book flowed from a pen as learned as it was humane, and found the greatest acclaim, especially among the Jewish nation, for whose benefit it was written, it is nevertheless clear from the many objections interpretations and illuminations that appeared publicly about the fact that the author either did not recognize his subject properly and accurately, or at least did not consider it thoroughly enough

Machine Translated by Google

the true nature of the Jews." The impartial judgment on Leying's "Nathan" (1779) must be similar: The error that religious tolerance (which is always practiced in Prussia) necessitates civil equality nimble follow, has been reinforced by this drama.

Frederick the Great allowed everyone to be saved according to their own fancy, but in civil life he did not recognize everyone as equal to the native Christian subjects.

He restricted the rights of the Jews in order to protect those of the non-Jews.

The increase of the Jews considered

The king did not consider it a precedent for certain reasons part for all other classes of the population; he kept them away from those branches of trade whose development he considered more prosperous without Jewish competition, and Frederick the Great in particular believed that the contact of the Jews with the rural population was not beneficial to the latter: hence the Very regulations that Jews should not own land, should not be tolerated in the countryside at all, etc.

Frederick the Great had to try to stop the growth of their number all the more, the more he gradually saw it as impossible lich recognized, to prevent it altogether. Immediately > his The Jews under Frederick the Great Ban.

Upon taking office, the king issued an edict that "all useful and skilled people who settled in Berlin from foreign lands should, in addition to the existing beneficiaries also enjoy freedom from excise duties and service for two years." However, following a petition from the merchants Itzig and Ephraim in Breslau in 1778 to protect their rights, the king found himself obliged to write the following handwritten and orthographically accurate marginal note:

reYolution causes:

"They keep what is due to their trade. But that they want to bring entire communities of Jews to Breslau and make a whole Jerusalem out of it, that cannot be."

Frederick did indeed express that he also wanted to see his Jewish subjects "in constant good character and flourishing of their food and trade," but above all, his sense of justice demanded "to establish a fair proportion between Christians and Jews." The latter, the citizenry

To give the non-Jews the basic rights of the Jews was the aim of that time, Apart from a few ideologists, they were far away. But peace gave themy

Rich by rescript of 12 October 1775 the right to be admitted as witnesses in cases between two Christians, "because the Jews enjoy public protection and are part of the jurium communium." Furthermore, on 13

In December 1768, it was decreed that, according to Jewish law, Jews should be considered adults upon reaching the age of twenty. In general, the king granted them every request he considered just. In 1776, the Jews asked that they be allowed to enter the Jewish community without special permission from the General Directorate of their trade abroad because ofy

This was granted to them by circular v.

Machine Translated by Google

4 September of this year ... "Our highest interest does not suffer, but rather gains, when one or another protected Jew travels abroad for the sake of his business" and, without evading his contribution to the established taxes, immediately brings the assets acquired abroad here." However, the absence should be reported and noted in the annual tables. In the same year, Frederick granted the Jews the following privilege by circular of October 8: If a Jewish community itself has applied to the authorities for the removal of a Jew, and the latter commits a theft, it no longer needs to pay compensation, which it was previously obliged to do under all circumstances.

was obliged. According to another circular dated November 10, 1777, compensation is not payable even if the thief does not belong to the community. In 1776, the Jews were further confirmed that those houses which they acquired through a lawful concession did not require a new concession if they were inherited; however, the inheritance should be submitted to the authorities.

be shown; as well as the acquisition of any other concession, on pain of a fine of 10 thalers. – Finally, the following documentary evidence of Frederick's gracious recognition of the slightest attention and also of his well-known love of fruit may find a place here:

"His Royal Majesty of Prussia, our most gracious King, wishes to thank Daniel Itzig, entrepreneur of the Potsdam leather factory in Berlin, for the Spanish grapes delivered yesterday and has graciously accepted them as a token of his faithful devotion. Potsdam, October 19, 1785."

With regard to religion, Frederick's attitude proved sense of justice in consistent tolerance. The Jews enjoyed unlimited religious freedom, and their rabbis were entitled to arbitrate in marriage, inheritance, and guardianship matters. By a special circular of 22 May 1775 the king sought the rabbis and Jewish elders more respect and prestige in the communities

3°

BR. Rn

– He has changed the Jewish oath in a humane sense

The old traditional form of the same was first precisely established by a rescript of April 25, 1757. The oath should be taken before a judicial officer, but not in a regular court, but in the synagogue.

be taken on a Monday or Thursday. 10 other Jews must be present, including a rabbi who must warn against perjury. The swearer washes his hands, takes the scroll of the law, after he kissed, in the left arm, puts it up to the ankle, bared right arm on the words 2. Book of Moses 20, 7 and says:

"|... swear to God Almighty, the Heavenly earth and me and my family who are here, to the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, that, and I call upon You, Adonai

Machine Translated by Google

Elohim, you one and eternal God, that you...

But if | do not speak rightly and truthfully in this matter... or if | have false thoughts in my heart regarding this oath, then | will have no forgiveness or reconciliation from God on the Day of Atonement, neither in this world nor in the next, and no conversion will help me. Instead, God will send upon me all the curses written in the Torah, all the curses of Balaam, and all the ten plagues of Egypt. My house and property, wife and children, will be punished.

ATu

the one with sulfur and pitch, like Sodom and Gomorrah

been punished. | must destroy Orur and Cheremy banished and cursed, and my soul and body must have no part in all Your promises, which

You have done for your people..... Amen! Amen!

Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God is one God" ... (in which all Jews present agree). At the end, the swearing man kisses the scroll of the law again.

This form of oath was first revised by a rescript of May 29, 1760, which also included a longer warning formula in Hebrew and German to be read out by the Rabbi.

On 20 September 1783, however, the King informed the Chambers
a new one was designed with the assistance of Moyes Mendelssohn

The formula was published by rescript of May 1, 1786. The new oath was much shorter and free of all those ceremonies that might appear humiliating to the Jews.

Characteristic of Frederick's tolerance and people friendliness is the following incident, the detailed narrative of which tion in the Berliner Monatsschrift of 1786. In 1785, Joseph Steblitzki, formerly former councilman, formally converted from the Catholic Church to the Mosayic faith, according to the precepts of a Jew

He performed the circumcision on himself, visited the synagogue and secretly ate the food his wife prepared, or took his

The apostasy from Christianity was

The Josephine Order of 1709, which was still in force in Silesia, provided for the death penalty. Frederick the Great stopped the authorities' extensive investigations into whether the Jews had encouraged the apostates to abandon Christianity.

38 tempted, forbade any punishment of the otherwise blameless Steblitzki and ordered him to be regarded as a protected Jew! – Little was so extremely tolerant of the confessional

kings were concerned that the Jews would convert to Christianity, which the brave Frederick William I would have liked to see, "because then they would have to stop taking such strong Jewish usury." Frederick, on the other hand, saw behind it "unlawful ends." On July 20, 1774, he ordered all governments and

Machine Translated by Google

spiritual college: "Since experience has shown in many ways that the Jews who converted to the Christian religion did so not out of true desire and pure intentions but rather

no longer acted for illicit purposes, no Jews should be accepted for instruction in the Christian religion until their blameless conduct has assured certainty judge, and credible written certificates have been submitted. You will respect yourselves accordingly and receive this printed decree

nung Exemplaria, in order to have such ex Officio sent to the authority under your signature. Are etc."

How much the humane government of this great monarch also benefited his Jewish subjects is demonstrated by the fact that they steadily grew richer and, much against his will, more numerous. Year after year, the Jews thronged more into his country, especially to Berlin. Not only did the Jewish merchants gladly move there, but people, but also numerous scholars; for there they found

Opportunity to acquire wealth and, if they excel outstanding achievements, even received attention and support from the philosophical king. Salomon Maimon went to Berlin in 1780 "to destroy the remnants of the superstition that still clung to him." It is to Dr. Marcus Eliezer Bloch that next, a Jewish physician and learned fish expert. For a long time, the erroneous or malicious view prevailed that the king had accepted Bloch's request to promote his fish studies to recommend it to the district offices, with coarse words they were rejected. Prof. Peters has in the proceedings of the Math. Phys. Class of the Berlin Academy of Sciences written in 1863, "that this claim is one of the many reasons for Frederick the Second's dismay at the vilification of his character is the mystifications, and that the King,

as he himself acknowledges, has greatly promoted Bloch's studies."

Moses Mendelssohn, the most frequently mentioned Jew of that time, also immigrated to Berlin in 1745, penniless, and became a wealthy man there. The Jews praised him as their philosopher, and in the collected letters of Mendelssohn, the editor Heinemann included not only a portrait of the author, as was natural, but also that of Socrates. () Mendelssohn's measure

The book "Jerusalem and the like" is not a philosophical work; it is a Jewish tendentious work full of obscurity and conceit, which glorifies Judaism, denigrates Christianity, and in important points is not only Socratic, but also which is devoid of any logic. Thus, M. writes in Part 2, 30 U. that he recognizes no other eternal truths than those which are not only comprehensible to human reason, but can be demonstrated and proven by human powers.

Therefore, he need not deviate from the Mosaic religion; for Judaism knows of no revealed religion in the sense in which this is accepted by Christians.

men; the Israelites had divine legislation, and this was given to the Jewish people by Moses at their request

– 40 –

revealed in a strange and supernatural way–

Machine Translated by Google

the." Ibid. p. 114: "The truths of Jewish history are revealed to the "consecrated nation" through miracles– substantiated." Of Christianity, this "philosopher" only knows to say that it "is built on Judaism, so that if Judaism falls, it must necessarily collapse with it," and that "he at least has nothing new to bring forward against the faith of the Christians." But – the Mosaic legislation! "The closer to it urges, the purer, more innocent, loving and longing the look with which you look at her, the more

Unfold them from their divine beauty, which they veil with a light veil, so as not to be desecrated by common, unholy eyes." () One believes the Orthodox yt Rabbi, not a "philosopher".

Why the lengthy remarks about the necessity of religious tolerance from the beginning to the end of the book, since the author himself admits that it is generally valid in Prussia?

Mendelssohn presents himself in a similarly repulsively Jewish manner in his letters. In 1773, he wrote in response to a query about which religion region the greatest virtue is possible: "In that which is most tolerant, least exclusive and the reason allows the most decent freedom." We now think: so in the Christian one; but no! – – "But I cannot give you a name. Time and circumstances change it with each century. (1) ... A ray of reason appears now here, now there, which also occasionally disappears again. For about 50 years, a small part of your fellow believers have begun to remove prejudices, and mine will surely follow. The one party will perhaps become more important, while others will have to give up several prejudices." In other words: The religion of Moses and the religion of Christ still lead in the eighteenth century a completely undecided

A struggle for world domination! – and the fact that we owe our modern culture to Christianity is non-existent for Mendelssohn. But he closed a letter because the Sabbath was approaching and left his visitors to perform his Sabbath prayers in the next room, while "the amiable glances of the visitors were met with indescribably hot ly feelings the philosopher in his prayer room glided." That Mendelssohn was horrified when he learned that Leysing was an admirer of Spinoza, that great of the Jews the persecuted philoyophers, is well known.

»Moyes Mendelssohn heard only good things from Frederick the Great. A denunciation that he had inappropriately reviewed various works of poetry remained without effect, and in the circular on the Jewish oath of September 20, 1783, Mendelssohn is even called "a Jewish figure most acclaimed for his knowledge and righteous way of thinking."

"taught".

On the other hand, in 1771 the King removed Mendelssohn from the list of newly elected members of the Academy, "because he did not like the name."

Frederick the Great was averse to the Jews, although he was a Reygent conyquent justice against them. A ury

A ycient testimony to his attitude is the Cabinet Order of 17 April 1774: "His Royal Majesty of Prussia is

Machine Translated by Google

In the suburbs near Danzig, Jews established trade in foreign wool, silk, half-silk and cotton

Were ... meant to grant so less, since Allery

40

on the one hand, they are not at all suitable for the Jews, but on the other hand, they find their trade too detrimental to the country to allow them to benefit from opportunities for the smuggling of contraband and smuggling." The previously cited documents of November 22nd are hereby incorporated.

1766, 3 Feb. 1784, 31 March 1785.

How much Frederick opposed the emancipation of the Jewsy

He also showed this in minor circumstances. The rich Abraham Posener wanted to be shaved while while according to an edict of 1737 that has not been repealed, all married Jews had to wear beards, and therefore turned to the king with a petition, who refused themy

yubjectively, and according to tradition with the words: "The Jew of Poyen shall yeat me and his beard uny geyaren lassen." Incidentally, Posener was because of this Emany cipationsgelliytes from his co-religionists at the Oberlandesy rabbis were sued; for Moses also prescribed that Jews wear beards. – In

1765, the protected Jew Meyer Beny

jamin in Magdeburg (designated a Jew-free city in 1763!) for the granting of the rights of Christian merchants there.

The royal marginal resolution in his own hand is orthographically faithful:

"The Jew shall leave Magdeburg Paquen, or the Commandant will throw him out."

However, in suitable, of course isolated cases,

Frederick, by special grace, raised Jewish merchants above this extreme barrier and also in their civic ual rights to the Christian subjects, partly to reward them for their unusual business acumen

-13

and to reward justice exceptionally, partly in order to encourage them to perform special services for the state in return for this grace. For example, such an extraordinary personal privilege communicated by the following Reycription to the Chamber Court:

"By the grace of God, Frederick of Prussia, our gracious greetings. Worthy, well-born, valiant, and highly learned councilors, dear faithful ones! Enclosed, you receive a copy of the most high concession of the rights of Christian merchants, executed sub-dated December 24th, for the local Jewish banker Salomon Moses Levi's heirs, for your information and consideration.

We are graciously disposed towards you. Given Berlin, February 16th, 1786.

By His Royal Majesty's Most Gracious Special Order.

Machine Translated by Google

v. Carmer."

Now follows the wording of the privilege, which states, among other things, that the aforementioned Jewish bankers and their yhely capable descendants are granted the rights of Christian merchants in their trade and dealings in and outside the courtsy

because "especially according to the testimonies of the bank, the maritime trade, the mint, and the post office, they conduct their commerce with such order, accuracy, and honesty as only good Christian merchants can."

For this privilege, the Jewish bank had to pay 100 dukasy ten to the charge cheque, export porcelain for 500 Rthr. and deliver 25,000 Marks of silver within one year at the coin price.

The same rare royal grace had also been granted to the court jeweller Veitel Ephraim in 1761; he had an exceptional position under Frederick the Greaty

taken, which the latter in its principles Yheiny appears quite inconsistent; which is why Ephraim's personality deserves special mention here. During the Seven Years' War, he exercised extraordinary power as tenant and owner of the Berlin Mint.

which seemed incompatible with Frederick's views and therefore gave rise to entirely inaccurate assessments of the king. In truth, in this case, Frederick subordinated and sacrificed his personal views to iron necessity; however, it cost him great effort: the conditions under which the lease was made were never precisely known.

In the Seven Years' War, Frederick wrestled with superhuman strength against most of Europe; for seven years, it was a matter of life and death for Prussia and himself. To fight this gigantic battle with the natural resources of Prussia, which at that time was only half of its current size and only 1.5 of its current size, population, that was Frederick's genius and possible; to save Prussia and the population

To protect the Jews as much as possible, the king had to resort to the most extreme means and the most artificial coin operations. Here he was able to make great use of the special talents of Jewish money men, true to his principle, use each one in his own appropriate way for the good of the whole. –

As early as 1755, the king, anticipating war, concluded a coin contract with the court jeweler Ephraim, whom he valued "for the knowledge and skill he had acquired in his art." The following year, the contract was annulled, but after the occupation of Saxony, the mint there was transferred to Ephraim. Slander and suspicion

from other Jews who envied him drew him

hey

He was sentenced to investigation and imprisonment; but after being released in return for a payment of 30,000 thalers, he was given the Berlin Mint as a lease until the end of the war. He minted the money at ever-decreasing values, so that the people

Machine Translated by Google

called some particularly meaningless pieces "Ephraimites" and rhymed:

"Beautiful on the outside, bad on the inside, Friedrich on the outside, Ephraim on the inside!"

His comrades had to give up all the silver they could get their hands on could, to the mint and especially to search for the old money. "Young people of their nation crossed the flat land and exchanged the old money for the new

The farmer and the small-town dweller at that time had little knowledge and appreciation of the coin types and their intrinsic value and happily retrieved the old thalers that had been hidden in the box for a long time.

because they received several shiny pieces in return." The light Prussian and Saxon money was also accepted "by grace" in the royal treasuries, but the foreign money was not, because other states minted coins with even less substance than Prussia. – Through these financial operations, Frederick the Great

Great made the seemingly impossible possible, the seven Years' War without debt; "thus the entire population of Prussia gained through the wealth it had earned ten victims (22% for the worst coin) share in the world-historical honor of the arms fame." Immediately after the Peace of Hubertsburg, the king restored the old coinage with the greatest prudence and justice.

"At the same time, he also cast an eye on the rich Jewish community." Veitel Ephraim was allowed to buy beautiful houses and gardens in Berlin, but his

– 46 –

Please, a beautiful country estate between Berlin and.

He was not granted the right to acquire Spandau. Instead, he had to sell the gold and silver factory.

Faktur and the edge-knotting to Berlin and Potsdam take, his comrade Daniel Itzig set up a tin factory and an oil mill near Berlin, and several other young

The families jointly exploited their wealth to establish silk factories. And when in 1766 one of the Jewish silks

When the factory owner withdrew from the company and dismissed 22 workers, the king ordered that they be immediately placed in other factories, but that the Jews be informed that anyone who allowed his factory to go under would lose his protective privilege.

Finally, let us once again look at Friedrich's

Regency activity with regard to his Jewish subjects. It is a testimony to two great character traits of the noble monarch: his humanity and his justice; the latter demanded above all the principle: "to establish a fair proportion between Christians and Jews."

Incidentally, German and French writers of the eighteenth century agree that the Jews were owe the Great thanks and respect, since his government made them freer,

more educated, more righteous, "especially which is why they laid the foundation for their later great fortune in it."

"Frédéric procura' aux juifs une considération, dont ils n'avoient jamais joui depuis leur dispersion": writes Abbot Denina in the Essai sur la vie et le règne de Frédéric II," Berlin 1788.

Machine Translated by Google

In contrast, in 1873 in his Prussian history Prof. Ebert:

"Until 1812, the Jews were treated almost like foreign vagabonds by Prussian legislation." Another testimony to this peculiarly modern historiography

The following summary is given in the introduction: "In his dislike of the Jews, Frederick took the standpoint of the common people."

But we conclude by noting that "the gey common people" is often not without real feeling.

r ENI VIRIDI-PRATO-

" CONSEDIT-PROEBVS-APOLLO- ,>
He n Dec

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

late

HN SEHE f

Publishing house of the "KyUhäuser." 0

119218-A

Foreword.

The social position which the Jews occupied during the Middle Ages in the Holy Roman Empire of the German Nation as chamberlains of the Empire was such that they considered the idea of ennobling people of Jewish origin as something completely unthinkable.

bares excluded. Only in modern times was it reserved to break with the principle that only Christians could be ennobled. –

Two years ago, an attempt was made to provide a compilation, albeit incomplete, of ennobled families of Jewish origin, without distinction as to whether the nobility still professed the Mosaic religion, or whether they themselves or their ancestors had become outwardly Christians through baptism. Since then, the author has been provided with important Austrian, Russian ych and Reich-German experts yoyyen Voy so many additions delivered that he decided to publish the out-of-print work in an increased edition.

This work makes no claim to completeness.

The author also notes that the families listed in the first edition but missing in the second are those whose non-Jewish origins subsequently emerged. For clarity, the families are arranged alphabetically.

The author.

For further information:

During the printing of the third edition, further research that the families: Abrahamowicz (No. 1), Aiwayowski (No. 12), Beck (No. 36), David (No. 80), L6wenthalyLinau (No. 290) and

SchaeUeryVoit

(No. 397), are of non-Jewish origin and were erroneously included in this work.

In rectifying this, we ask all readers of this book to send us further additions and all to provide any certified corrections that are due,

Machine Translated by Google

so that we can provide the most complete and accurate list possible in the already planned 4th edition.

The Perlag of the "KyU hauer."

"Facts speak."

1. Abra bi amomwicz. The Austrian, born in 1843y

Reichiyche Reichstag deputy Knight David von Abray
5 a 2 owicz is a landowner in Galicia.

Abramomwicz Abraham from Kijow, tax: ee of Smolensk, the son of the Brzescier Jew Czof received the nobility on 1 July 1507 from the regiey

reigning King Sigismund | of Poland, Grand Duke of Lithuania. He died in 1501 and is the ancestor of the now first the senatorial family Abramowicz. His Brother Michael, a tax collector in Brzesc, received the nobility from King Sigismund of Poland on April 20, 1525. (M. v.

Janecki in the "Herold", year 1890, pages 98, 99). The male and female members of this sex are closed

Connections with the noblest families of Lithuania and Poland, such as the llin ic z, Kotowic z, Tyszy kiewicz, Wollwicz, Zborowski.

3. Abramomicz In Lithuania, several baptized Jews of this name were granted nobility in 1764. (M. v. Janeckien in der een des Herold, Berlin 1887.

Page 405.)

4. Abramovsky.

5. Adelson. The Russian Collegiate Councillor Jacob Adelson

(son of Isaac) was ennobled as a Russian State Councillor on March 30, 1852 and died on May 17, 1861.

as Ruyian Consul General in Königsberg. Nicolai von Adelyon was Ruyian Major General a la suite of the Kaiser in 1886. He was married to the sister of the merchant Wily helm von Adelyon in Berlin married Mr. Cohn received permission to adopt the name in 1889 Adelson.

6. von Adler. Siegfried Adler, born on 3 April 1830 in Horic in Bohemia, banker and president yident of the Austro-Hungarian Chamber of Commerce in Cony ytantinople received the Austrian Knight on 11 June 1882y He has been married to Mathilde Kohn since 1862 and has three children.

7. von Adlersthal. Jonas WolU Ey bey yschitzer (also Eybeğschütz, son of 1690 in Krakow

Chief Rabbi Jonathan Eybeschitzer, born and died in 1764 in Altona, grandson of Chief Rabbi Nathan in Eybeschitz, received, on the basis of the false statement that he had received a royal Danish baronial diploma, from Emperor Joseph II, dated Vienna, July 17, 1776, the title of Reichspanner and Baron with the title "von Adlersthal." When it was learned that he was ye, he had to return the diploma. (Heyer von Royen's field in the Herald 1890, page 124).

Jewish

8. Agnado. Of Jewish descent is Alexander, Joseph Maria

Leo Peter Paul Raimund Ludwig von Gonzaga Agnado, Marquis de la Marismas del Guadalquivir, Vicomte de Monterno, born

June 29, 1784 in Seville, Spanish court banker, died April 14, 1842.

His son OneYippus Gonyalo Johann Alexander Olymp married Emilie Claire Mac Donnell in April 1863, who bore him a daughter, Carmen Ida Melanie, from her first marriage to Alexander Johann Maria Agnado, Marquis de la Marismus del Guadalquivir.

married 4 June 1866 Nicolaus Raoul Adalbert,

Count of TalleyrandyPérigord, a descendant of the sovereign Counts of Périgord. The nobility of the Agnado originates from King Ferdinand VII of Spain. Alexander received it.

9. Agnilar. Diego de Agnilar (as Jew Moya Lope Pereyra), born around 1700, received in Vienna on March 27, 1726, from Emperor Charles VI a diploma as a yranian baron in the male primogeniture.

He died in Rome in 1765.

10. Ahsbahs of the Lance. Friedrich Ah sy bahs, born 23 September 1810 in Prague as the son of the local citizen

Georgs A., kk Generalmojar a. D. had in Vienna 9 June 1842 the Austrian Knighty yt was preserved with the predicate "non der Lanze" and died on 5

January 1879 in Steyer. Since his only son from his marriage to the widowed Countess Mathilde

Alma, née Ebenberger, died before him on August 31, 1873. He adopted Leo, the son of his brother Ludwig, who had been promoted to Imperial and Royal Major on December 2, 1859, from his marriage to Giovannina Bartoletti. Born on August 9, 1841, his adopted son was knighted in Budapest on January 5, 1874, and confirmed in Vienna on July 31, 1875. He married Gabriele Scultety von Szopor on August 10, 1867. (Briinner Taschenbuch der adeligen Hauyer 1884, pages 3–4.)

11. Ahsbahs von Revenna. Mayor and postmaster Ludwig

Ahsbahs, born on June 25, 1823, in Brandeis on the Elbe, was granted Austrian nobility with the title "von Revenna" on December 31, 1874. He died on January 3, 1878, in Leipzig.

12. Aivayowski. The marine painter Johann Aivayowski (son of Constantin), born on 7 July 1817 in Feodosia, received on 6 February 1870 as the actual lich State Councillor the nobility.

13. Almeda. Emanuel Almeda, banker

Machine Translated by Google

London received the title of Portuguese Baron for his person on April 22, 1875 (diploma April 30, 1875).

14. von Anker. Karl Ludwig Ferdinand Anker, born on December 8, 1800, son of the Jewish merchant Raphael Anker in Filehne, who died on March 3, 1841, royal Prussian agent to the Finance Ministry rium, was baptized on October 16, 1825, and died on March 11, 1877.

His son, Karl Elwin Anker, born on December 19, 1835, a retired Royal Prussian Colonel, received Prussian nobility in Berlin on May 5, 1866, and married Countess Anna von Hacke on August 14, 1844. (Briinner Taschenbuch 1889, pages 581–582).

15. von Anspach. The reader of the Duchess of SaxeyGotha

Dorothee Gabriele, born 1785 in Geneva

As the daughter of Iyaak Salomon Anspach (de Vuarier) and his wife Aimée Papet de Vuarier, she received the Württemberg nobility on 19 June 1814.

: 16. Arnould. The Arnould family in the
According to genealogist Barcillon, Provence is of Jewish origin. She bears the title "Barone de Vitroles."

17. Arnystein. Carl Arnystein, Dean and full professorly licher Profeyyor of the Univerity of Krakow received 8 January
In 1882, as a Russian State Councillor, he was raised to nobility. N

18. Arnsteiner. Joyeph Michael Arnsteiner, banker in Vienna, received the hereditary Austrian knighthood with "Edler von" on 20 May 1783 in Vienna.

became Baron in Munich on April 19, 1792.

Imperial Vicariate and Vienna, June 18, 1793 Imperialy

Baron Nathan Adam Arnsteiner, born in 1748, Imperial and Royal

Privileged Wholesaler, Swedish Consul General in Vienna, received Saloy along with his trading partners

mon Herz and Bernard Eskeles 5 November 1797

the hereditary Austrian nobility, and on April 14, 1798, the hereditary Austrian baronship as "von Arnstein." He died on September 6, 1838, in Vienna. His wife was Franziska, daughter of the Berlin court banker Itzig, born in 1758 to June 1818. The Barons von Pereira–Arnstein descend from his daughter.

Baroness Barbara von Arnstein, born in 1792 and died on April 29, 1814, married the Royal Danish Captain and Legation Secretary Ernest von Hennings, while Caroline von Arnstein, born in 1777, died on January 10,

1806, her comrade, the noble Leoy
pold von Herz (born 19 January 1828) married.!)

19. von Aycher. Adolf Aycher, head of the poy litiyical expeditions in the Imperial and Royal Ministry of Foreign Affairs, received the Austrian knighthood on August 20, 1875, and later became Imperial Court Councillor.

20. Ayyer, (in Holland).

21. Avigdor. On December 20, 1871, Serge Avigdor, Duke of Aqua, born in 1821, died:

Machine Translated by Google

1) The also Jewish Senator of the Kingdom of Italy Cavaliere lyacco Arto miiyt not noble.

viva, papal chamberlain and envoy of the Republic of San Marino and the Prince of Monaco, who came from a Jewish family in southern France and was ennobled by San Marino.

N 22. Baiersdorf de Erdés. Adolf Baiers:

do rf received ddo. Vienna, 30 September 1884, the Hungariany ical nobility and the predicate "von Erd 6s".

23. von Bamberger. Dr. Heinrich Bamberger, born

December 27, 1822, on the Zwonarka near Prague, Court Councillor, Professor of Medicine at the University of Vienna, formerly from 1854 to 1872 at the University of Wurzburg, received the Bavarian personal nobility in 1864. He died November 9th.

vember 1888 in Vienna, married to Auguste von Recheny

mountain.

24. Bardach von Chlumberg. Wolf Bardach, born in 1838 in Dobrowlany in Galicia, Imperial Cavalry Captain, First Class in the 9th Hussar Regiment, received the Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von Chlumberg" in Vienna on September 21, 1890. He still adheres to the Mosaic faith today.

25. von Baron. Benedict Baron, house owner, received Hungarian nobility on June 3, 1870, and permission to change his name to Barony on October 4, 1870.

26. Baronyi of Zala Eduard Baronyi, banker, was awarded the Hungarian nobility on 1 February 1882 and the title "Zala" on 16 April 1882.

27. Barreme. Johann de Barréme, a ge:

baptized Jew, lived in Tarrascon in 1512. His descendants come the Counts de Barréme in the rehearsal.

28. Bartoszewicz z. Bonaventura VBartosy Zewicz, a baptized Jew, was granted nobility in Lithuania in 1764. (M. v. Janekki, in the Herald's quarterly, citato loco.)

29. von Baruch. Samuel Baruch, factory owner, received Hungarian nobility on April 11, 1878.

30. von Bartich. Adolf Barich, factory owner, received Hungarian nobility on September 22, 1875.

31. von Baych. Samuel Bach, former Leibphysician to Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, kk excepty

10

Full Professor of Medicine at the University of Vienna, received the Austrian Knighthood on 3 July 1869 yland.

32. Bayyeni von Threwenberg. Jacob Bayyeni, received the Vienna 18 January 1622 as "bey

Freiter HoUude" from Emperor Ferdinand II a coat of arms with the crown and the name "von Threweny berg" and ddo. Vienna 29. Auguyt 1622 Improvement of the noble coat of arms in the form of an open, noble, gey crowned tournament helmet. However, despite the title, coat of arms, and crowned, noble tournament helmet, he did not receive the nobility. (Heyer von Royepfeld in Herold 1890, pages 123, 124)

33. von Bauer. Sigmund Bauer, born in 1842 in

Trebitsch in Moravia, the son of Ascher Löw Bauer, Director of the Franco-Austrian Bank in Vienna, who died on October 26, 1886, at the age of 78, received the Austrian knighthood on August 15, 1873. He became a stock exchange councillor and married Sophie May.

34. von Bauer. The Imperial and Royal Consul in Brussels, Raphael Bauer, became Austrian on 11 October 1879. Knight.

35. Beaconsfield. Benjamin Disraeli, born 21 December 1804, son of the man born in Enfield in May 1766 and died 19 January

1848

Writer Iyaak Disraeli and the one in spring

1847 7 Maria, sister of George Bayyevi, grandson of the Venetian merchant Benjamin Disraeli, became Earl of Beaconsfield and Viscount Hughenden in the Peerage of the United Kingdom in 1876. He died on 15 April

1881 without inheritance from his 1839 marriage to Marianne Evans

(since November 1868 Viscountess

Beaconsfield and died in December 1872) to leave behind children. His heir was his nee Benjamin, son of his brother, married to Katharina Trevor in 179

Ralph. A

He was HoUactor Wallenfteins and with a Serdele Schmieles married and died at the age of + years.

= = á

—ay—ea—R— sb 6—ç: * 48wB—B—BBsrB—ty ad y—vorjy sV'yyo$—yy36*—[—LFr3yy3yVyoy—0Kk qd.....r

t.. y —8—5—85—i—j, —

11

36. von Beck. Anton Beck, born on January 6, 1812, in Butsch in Moravia, of Jewish descent, Doctor of Law, Imperial Court Councillor and Director of the Court and State Printing Office in Vienna, received the Austrian knighthood in Vienna on September 12, 1877.

37. von BeckyPecce 0 ;. The Peccoz family, who came from a Jewish family in Aosta in the Kingdom of Sardinia

menden brothers Karl Beck, factory owner and Landwehry

Machine Translated by Google

Major, owner of the Hofmark Pasing near Munich (born March 6, 1812 – October 29, 1867 in Augsburg), and Joseph Anton Beck, factory owner, were granted the Bavarian baronship on October 17, 1840. Count Franz von Gatterburg married into this family in 1862, and Baron Johann von Hertling in 1874.

38. Beer. January 4, 1797, son of Bany
quiers Jakob Hertz Beer, born in Berlin, Wilhelm Beer, secret

Commerzienrath, was yince 1844 Tuscany nobleman and died on March 27, 1850. His brother is the composer Meyerbeer.

39. Behrens. Jacob Behrens was born in 1852

Knight.

40. Beilstein. Theodor Beilstein, Professor of Chemistry at the Technological Institute in St. Petersburg. Ennobled as a full State Councilor on May 15, 1883.

. de Belmonte. Emanuel de Belmonte

(as Isaac Nunez), agent of the Royal Spanish Embassy to the States
General of the United Netherlands in Amyterdam, received from Emperor
Leopold II. in Vienna on May 26, 1873 the small palatinate for fine

When it was discovered that he was Jewish, the Emperor ordered the diploma not to be issued. However, on June 11, 1873, he received the title of Baron from King Charles II of Spain, which he could transfer to any estate of his choosing. (Heyer von Rosenfeld in the Herold 1890, page 124.)

42. Benedict. The composer Julius Benedict, born on November 27, 1804 in Stuttgart, was the son of the banker Moses Benedict (born on February 17, 1772 – 1852) and Flora van Geldern (born in 1776 – June 30, 1828). He received the Württemberg

12

Personal nobility and became a Knight in 1871. He died on 5 June 1885.

His daughter Adeline married Baron Heinrich

von Hgel. The name Benedict is a Latinization of Baruch.

43. Benedict of Mantenau. The 1809

born Dr. Joyeph Benediet, lawyer in Vienna, he: held the Austrian nobility in Vienna on October 10, 1873 with Edler von Mantenau. He died on February 17, 1880.

44. by Benvenuti. Johann Baptist Beny

venuti, Director of the privileged Austrian Na:

tionalbank, received the Austrian in Vienna on April 25, 1852

Imperial knighthood. He married Johanna Wirth, the widow of Leopold Gutmannsthal. The nobility was transferred to his stepson. (See Gutmannsthal.) Knight Johann Vaptist von Benvenuti was born on November 10, 1783, and died on February 15, 1858.

45. Bergin. In Lithuania, the baptized Jew Bergin was granted nobility in 1764. (M. von Janecki, citato loco.)

Machine Translated by Google

46. Bernard. (In Provence.)

47. von Bernstein, Dr. Sigmund Bernstein, born in 1813, kk pensioner General Staff Physician, became Austrian Knight on 4 March 1879 and died

16 September 1886 in Vienna, leaving behind three daughters.

48. von Berres. Dr. med. Joyeph Berres, kk Profeyyor of Anatomy at the Univeryity of Vienna, ery

On September 14, 1842, he was granted Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von." He was unable to prove his alleged descent from an ancient Spanish noble family, and the requested title "Perez" was not granted.

Countess Jacqueline von Wallis, Baroness Wilhelmine von Bibra, Baron Guytav Krieg von Hochfelden, Johanna von Hanslab and Camilla von Piyyaciec married into these families.

49. Biedermann von Turony. The wealth of this family is of older date. The merchant Biedermann, who died in January 1816, lived in Pressburg behindy

left 16 million guilders. Simon Biedermann, born 1805, royal privileged wholesaler, director of the 13

Imperial and Royal Württemberg Consul in Vienna, he became an Austrian Knight with the title "von Turony" on March 25, 1860, and died on April 24, 1864.

His wife, Henriette Amalie, born April 13, 1812, married January 26, 1885, a member of the wealthy Stuttgart court Jewish Kaulla family.
His son Robert married Baroness Adolfine Popper von Podhragy.

50. Biedermann by Ueszégh and Mosgo.

Guytav Biedermann, born in 1819, landowner in Vienna, received the Hungarian nobility with von Ueszégh and Mosgo on September 29, 1867. He was married to Eliyabeth Gumpel and died on June 14, 1880.

His sons-in-law were Count Henri de PuyYeux, Baron Felir von Bruyelle Schaubeck, Baron Geza Fejervary de Komlos Keresztes, and Baron

Eugene Thavenot von Tavon.

51. Bielski. In Lithuania, Thaddeus received in 1764

Bielski the nobility (M. v. Janecki, eit. loco).

52. BifhoUsheim!) in England.

53. von Bleichréder. Gerson Bleichréder, Privy

Counselor in Berlin, son of the banker S. Bleichréder (born 1778, died December 1885) and Johanna, née Meyer (born 1792, died October 1882), was raised to the Prussian nobility on March 8, 1872. He married Emma Guttenberg, born 1830, and died November 30, 1881, in Berlin. They had three sons and one daughter.

54. von Bloch. Johann Bloch, a banker in Warsaw, born in 1836, was granted Russian nobility in 1869. He married Emilie von Kronenberg in 1862.

His sons-in-law are Joyeph von Koscielski on

Machine Translated by Google

Szarley Karczyn and Count Xaver Holynski. The State Councillor Johann Bloch received the Russian

Confirmation of nobility.

55. von Bogner. Franz Bogner, stock exchange and exchange broker, received the Austrian nobility on June 6, 1819

1) The Ritter family, ennobled in Prussia on March 5, 1880, has a lot of Jewish blood, but the male line is said not to be of Jewish descent.

14

with "Edler von." He was born in 1773 and died on October 14, 1854.

56. Bogner von Steinburg. Joyeph Bogner, Imperial Bohemian, Austrian and Galician court agent, received the hereditary Austrian Knighthood, after he had already received the knighthood in the Rhenish Imperial Vicariate on June 8, 1792.

57. Bolza. Joyeph Bolza, born 31 July 1719, Electoral Saxon

Privy Councillor without seat and

Stimme, who became an Imperial Count on August 3, 1761, and on August 15, 1782, came from a family expelled from Portugal because of Jewish confiscation. He married Johanna Nepomucena von Martinitz. His mother-in-law

His sons were Count Georg von Stolberg-Stolberg, Count Auguyt Gondrecourt, and Heinrich Joseph von Gablenz, and his daughter-in-law Countess Maria Antoinette von Hohenfeld. Granddaughters (his sons)

married a Count Batthyany, Vincenz Zahradnik

von Guytana, Baron Franz Myrbach von Rheiny field, Friedrich Jager Edler von Jaxthal. His sons married Baroness Katharina Tacco von Fdlsenstein and Victoria von Kendler.

Are also the other counts, barons and knights of Bolza of Jewish descent?

58. von Bonn. Daniel Bonn, Imperial and Royal Major General and Head of the Imperial Ministry, born in Frankfurt am Main on April 5, 1836, was knighted in Vienna on April 4, 1881.

59. von Born. The banker Julius Born received the Austrian baronship on November 27, 1880.

60. von Boychan. Wilhelm Boychan, born in 1810 and died on April

6, 1890, President of the Excomptegesellschaft, received the Austrian knighthood in Vienna on June 8, 1867, as did Alexander Boychan, born in 1810, Vice-President of the Imperial and Royal Higher

Regional Court, + February 23, 1878 in Vienna, and Friedrich Boychan, born in 1816, Imperial Councillor, wholesaler, died December 6, 1871 in Vienna.

Machine Translated by Google

15

61. von Boebner. Johann Jacob Boebner, born in 1741 in Kolmar, was a Commerzienrath and banker in Brody. He became a Galician Baron in Vienna on April 1, 1784 and died in Vienna on September 10, 1823. Camilla Victoria Elisabeth Franziska Baroness du Montet, born 1772, died 25 March 1850 in Nancy.

62. von Braibach. The Imperial and Royal Major of the 49th Iny fanterieregiment Johann Wilhelm Braibach received the Austrian knighthood on December 20, 1850.

63. von Breidenbach. Born on January 11, 1809, Dr.

Eduard Julius Breidenbach, the son of the Electorate of Hesse, Court and Chamberlain of Hesse, Wolf Breidenbach (born 1751 in the village of Breidenbach, died February 28, 1829 in Casel), was baptized and acquired the nobility of the Grand Duchy of Hesse on November 1, 1837. He died on November 25, 1882, as a former Grand Duchy of Hesse ambassador in Stuttgart. His second marriage was to Baroness Bertha von Giinderode, and his third and fourth marriages were to his sisters Julie and Emilie von Eisendecker. His son from his first marriage, Karl, born 9

March 1837, kk

Captain, received on 19 December 1870 the Grand Ducal

Heyyan baronship, but ended by suicide on March 28, 1871. His stepbrother (from his father's third marriage), Friedrich, born on April 1, 1860, also received the grand ducal Heyyan baronship on June 23, 1871.

Breyelau of Breyensdorf. Michael Breslauer of Hildesheim, director of the mint at Minster in Westphalia, courtier of the Electorate of Trier, had a son, Loeb Michael, who took the name Johann Leopold Michael Breyyelau at his baptism. He was initially a protected Jew in Charlottenburg near Berlin, later briefly

Palatinate-Bavarian Commercial Councillor and Palatinate-Neuburg Landy yayye, lord of the Hofmark at Karlskron and Karlsruhe, owner of the manors Schwartow and Mayyow in Pomerania. He received the imperial nobility with "von Breyyensdorf" in Vienna, November 25, 1800, and died in Munich in 1805. His son from his second marriage married Auguste von Bary, whose first son married Baroness Marie von

16

Bibra, his second son, Stephanie von Hofstetten, his daughter, Baron Werner von Schleinitz.

65. von Brill. Maximilian Brühl, Largey trader and Dutch general conful in Vudapeyt, became Austrian knight on 24 August 1871.

66. von Brill. Ignaz Brill, wholesaler in Trieste, member of the Trieste Trade and Industry Association—chamber, became an Austrian knight on April 28, 1879.

67. Roar of Domon y. The kk Rath,

Machine Translated by Google

Landowner and Imperial and Royal Dutch Consul General in Budapeyt, Max Brill, was granted Hungarian nobility with the surname "von Domony" on January 8, 1882. He died in Budapeyt on June 12, 1890.

68. Brunstein von Brunicki. Ignaz Brunstein and his nee and son-in-law Ignaz Brunstein received the Bavarian nobility with the title "von Brunicki" in Munich on January 12, 1815.

The latter received the order in Vienna on 12 February 1818.

consent in the Austrian Kaiserytstaat of the Royaly

Bavarian baronial title as a foreign one serve, as well as his sons. Vienna, June 2, 1829.

Into this family married Count Ladislaus Wrychowetz, Countess Marie Fredro, Countess Marie Wallis, Noble Hedwig of

Zagorska, Johanne von Matzynski, Count Ladislaus Drohojowski, Countess Marie Drohojowska Roman Kniaz (Prince)

Puzyna and Helene von Korwin Szymanowska. :

69. Burchardt. Hermann Hirsch Burchardt, merchant in Berlin, has been a Portuguese baron since 1878.

(M. von Janecki, Herald, 1889. No. 6.)

70. Caan. Hendrik Johann Caan received October 6th 1821 the Dutch nobility.

71. Cahen d' Anvers. Mr. Cahen d' Anvers, mayor of Nainville, born in 1804 and died on 12 September 1881 in Nainville, became Italian

Count. His son Raphael, Knight of the Legion of Honor, married Baroness Irene Morpurgo. Count Raphael's sons-in-law were Etienne Gourgangd, Comte de Taillis, and Prince Ferdinand of Faneigny.

Lueinge. The latter is through his grandmother Charlotte,

17

Countess D'Yifoudun, a great-grandchild of King Charles X of France.")

72. Camond o. Count Abraham Camondo, Financey man in Paris, "the Turkish Rothschild," died on December 14th cember 1889 in Paris.

73. von Chaudoir. Johann Joseph Chaudoir, originally from Berdyczow in Russia and currently living in Vienna, received the Bavarian baronship on April 5, 1814, and on November 17 (29), 1819, Imperial Russian recognition of the same, as well as on February 10 (22), 1820, its transfer to his adopted son Stanislaus. The latter, along with his son Maximilian, was permanently in Poland.

triculated. (M. von Janecki, Herald 1889, No. 6.)

74. von Chwolyon. Daniel Chwolyon, son of Abraham, entered the Russian Army on June 11, 1851.

Machine Translated by Google

Civil service and received on 26 December 1877 as actual State Councillor of the nobility. He is a regular Pro:

feyyor at the University Petersburg, also at the orieny TallychKatholy Academy, corresponding member of the Academy of Sciences in St. Petersburg. He married Fanny Cohn in 1850, whom he lost on May 29 (June 8), 1883. N

75. by Ciechanowski. Johann Ciech ay

Brzezinski (son of Jacob), Lord of Grodzies (Olkusz), actual State Councillor, Director of the Treasury Commission of the Kingdom of Poland, received hereditary nobility in 1842 and died on January 26, 1884, in Warsaw. His daughter Sophie married Anton Brzezinski (from a family ennobled on August 19 (31), 1847, whose Jewish ancestry is doubtful).

liability).")

1) Sigismund "von" Cahlmann, k. wirtt., who was born in 1804 and died on 9 February 1874, was not of noble birth.

Consul in London. The Order of the Crown, Second Class, of which he was a Knight, does not confer ennoblement.

2) The statement that the baptized Jew Christlieb Chlausberg, born December 27, 1689, Danish Elatsrath, died June 6, 1751, received the nobility, is unfounded.

18

76. von Cnobloch. Sigismund Cnobloch, born on 8

February 1871 in Freiburg an der Unstrut, a pensioner, formerly a wholesaler in Dresden

On March 30, 1838, he received the rank of Baron of the Duke of Saxony and on August 8, 1838, he received Royal Saxon confirmation of the same. He died on January 5, 1865. Countess Sara von Degenfel married into this family.

Schonburg, Countess Anna zu Lodron-Laterano, Baron Sigmund Conrad von Eybesfeld, Baroness Olga, Conrad von Eybesfeld, Baroness Minna von Henikystein, Marcus Prennyschiitz

von Schitzenauy-yTrenck, Auguyte von Henne: berg.

77. von Cohn. Moritz Cohn, son of Ge-

Home Commerzienrath Cohn and his wife Marianne, Ducal Anhalt Privy Finance Councillor, Royal Prussian Court Banker in Deyyau, received the Ducal Saxonycoburgy on 21 February 1869

Gotha's baronial status and, on March 15, 1869, the ducal Anhaltian recognition of the same. He was also awarded the title of "Excellence" by the Duke of Saxony-Meiningen in March 1881.)

78. Cyillag. Judge Benjamin Cyillag was granted Hungarian nobility with the name "von Ettrekark" on June 20, 1874.

79. by Daninos. Alexander Daninos,

Machine Translated by Google

born 10 March 1810 in Livorno, French citizen, General Director of the Imperial and Royal Privileged Insurance Company

geyell Riunione adriatica in Trieft received the Austrian knighthood on 16 February 1880 and died on 4 December 1883 in Trieft, married since 2 November 1839 to Henriette Salem. His son Alfred is secretary of the Riunione in

Mailaud and husband of Gemma, daughter of Eomthur

) Dr. Cohen, mediaeval councilor in Poyen, who received the royal Prussian permission to adopt the nickname "von Baren" on August 20, 1841, is not of noble birth, as is the imperial court jeweler Cohen de Silva, born in 1770 and June 12, 1831 in Vienna.

19

Arnoldo Pavia and the Benevenuta Gentilomo.
Alfred's sister Elise married Knight Heinrich von

Neumann, Secretary General of the privileged Reunion Adriatica di Sicurta in Trieft.

80. by David. Jakob David, kk Hofrath of the Supreme Court was on 1 June 1855 in the Austrian nobility: and on January 3, 1859, he was elevated to the rank of Imperial Knight and died on January 18, 1859, as Imperial Court Councillor, leaving behind issue.

81. von Delmar. Ferdinand Moritz, son of Moses Salomon

Levy, born in 1782, became Prussian Baron von Delmar on April 13,

1810, and died blind in Paris on November 27, 1858. He was a banker and married Emily Rumbold, stepdaughter of the English Admiral Sir Sidney Smith, born in 1798, + January 16, 1861, in Paris, in 1832. He died without legitimate issue. A natural son named himself, without

to be recognized, Baron von Delmar. A Miss Antonie von Delmar lived in Vienna from 1886 to 1876. The widow of Baron Ferdinand Moritz von Delmar adopted Emilie Victoria Elisabeth Rumbold, who received permission in Babelsberg on June 26, 1869, to add the name "Freiin von Delmar" to her maiden name. (See M. von Janecki in the Herold 1889, No. 6).

82. von Deyyauer. The royal Bavarian court councillor and lawyer

Georg Deyyauer received the Bavarian nobility on 31 March 1837, but was excommunicated on 17 January 1859 for forgery of documents of the court councillor—and title of nobility was declared void and sentenced to six years of third-degree fortress imprisonment. The loss of nobility has no effect on children born before the conviction.

N 83. Deyya w. In Lithuania, the baptized Jew Theodor Deyyaw was granted nobility in 1764. (M. von Janecki, eit. loco.)

Machine Translated by Google

84. German from Hatvan. The Bern Brothers:

hard and Joyeph Deutysch, large landowners, received the Hungarian nobility with "von Hatvan" on January 15, 1879.

The former married his fellow tribesman Laura Weiss.

2

20

85. Dobrowolski. In Lithuania, in 1764, the baptized Jew

Dominik Dobrowolski received the nobility of the same Johann Dobrowolski.

86. Dobrzynski. In Lithuania in 1764 the baptized Jews Franz, Mathias and Anton Dobr—zydski den Adek. (M. von Janecki, citato loco.

87. by Doc zy. The Court: and Miniyterialrat Ludy wig Dozey, received the Hungarian nobility on June 8, 1878.

It is the well-known writer who still today is the moy belonged to a faithful faith.

88. von Dormitzer. Maximilian (Maye) Dory

Mitzer, born in 1819, became an Austrian knight and died on February 15, 1881, in Vienna as the son-in-law of Baron von Parente. His brother

Jacob, born in 1812 in Prague, received the Austrian nobility title "Edler von" on March 29, 1875 (diploma dated September 2, 1875). His wife was Pauline Edle von Salemfels.

89. von DreyfuB. Theodor DreyfuB, born 9 May 1839 in Stuttgart, son of Dr. Samuel DreyfuB (born 1804, 7 2 March 1853

in Stutty

gart) and Henriette, born Benedict (born 1809, 7 January 18, 1882), Imperial Royal and Grand Ducal Saxon Consul a. D., landowner in Kreuth in Ober-

Bavaria, received the ducal Saxon title on 4 August 1872

Coburg-Gothayian baronship and, on September 23, 1872, the royal Württemberg recognition of the same. He is non-denominational; his daughter Clariyye, who married the painter Eugen von Blaas in 1883, is Catholic.

90. von Eckystein. Baron Eckystein, born in Copenhagen in September 1790, French publicist zyist, geyt died November 1861, yt came from a Jewish family.

91. von Eichthal. The Royal Bavarian Court-

Banker Aaron Eliyas Seligmanu, born in 1747, + 11 January 1824, received the Bavarian baronship as "von Eichthal" with the coat of arms of the extinct Thalmann family in Augsburg on 22 September 1814.

His son David, court agent of the Grand Duchy of Baden (d. 1850 in Karlsruhe), received on 23 January 1813 the grand ducal

Machine Translated by Google

Baden permission to use the title of Baron. Three descendants of the nobleman married into the ennobled Jewish families of Kerstorf, Weling, and Lamel, while Countess Marie von Armansperg, Count Kaspor von Berchem, and Count Ludwig Boyyi married into the baronial family of Eichthal.

Federigotti, Countess Marie von Bronno-Bronska, Countess

lyabella Khuen von Belayi, Countess Louise Otting and Funfytetten (a great-niece of the first King of Bavaria), Baron

Bernhard von Godin, Baron Ferdinand von Moreau, Baron Friedrich von Podewils, Baron Alfons von Rummel and Lord von Hößlin.

92. Eisenmann. Raphael Eisenmann, fuel manufacturer and commission business owner in Berlin. kénigy

Portuguese Consul General, Portuguese since 1881, Portuguese Baron since 1884. . v. Janecki, Herold 1889, No. 6.)

93. Eisenstadter von Buß ias. Simon Ei-

. born in 1797, private citizen in Vienna, received

. May 1812 the Hungarian nobility with the title

7 Buziàs" and died on December 6, 1875, leaving behind seven sons and three daughters.

94. Eisner von Eisenhof. The Trieste wholesalers Julius and Jacob Eisner were granted Austrian nobility on October 20, 1874, with the title "Edler von Eisenhof."

95. von Elkan auf Elkansberg. Leopold Anton Elkan, a wholesaler in Vienna, received Bavarian nobility with "auf Elkansberg" on December 25, 1825.

96. Elkan von Hirschberg. Hirschl Elkan, Remony tirungslieferant, received in Vienna on March 3, 1798 the hereditary Austrian nobility with "von Hirschberg".

97. Angel of Janoyi. Adolf Engel, Largey

trader (wood induytrial and timber merchant) in Funfkirchen, large landowner in the Geypannschaft, patron of the Catholic churches on his property, received on

22

March 29, 1886, he married "de Janoyi" into the Hungarian nobility. He has five sons and four daughters.

68. Angel of Mainfelden. Franz Anton

Engel, merchant and stock exchange councillor, general councillor who often:

Reichiychyungariychen Bank, born in 1805, received 6 May

Machine Translated by Google

In 1875 he left the Austrian knighthood with "von Mainfelden" and died on June 3, 1887 in Grinzing. |

99. Engliych. Alfred Engliych received 23 Sepy tember 1881 transferred the Hungarian nobility of Karl von Popparic to himself.

100. Enoch. Julius Kasimir Mamertus Enoch, gey

Born in 1796 in Waryaw as the son of Jacob Enoch, Imperial Ruyyian

Privy Councillor of State, he received the Polish hereditary nobility in 1851 and died on 11 October 1880 in Paris.

101. von Ephrussi. Ignaz Ephrussi, banker in Vienna, received the Austrian knighthood on September 12, 1871.

102. von Epstein. The banker in Warsaw, Hermann Epstein, son of the Polish ouziier Jakob Epstein, received the Russian nobility in 1863 and died in 1867, leaving behind three sons from his marriage to the bookseller's daughter Eleonore Glicksberg. A granddaughter of the aristocrat, Alicia, married the Italian captain in 1876.

Count Sigismund Ryszewski, another Gabriele,

1883 Mr. de Linol.

103. von Epstein. Gustav Epstein, born in 1828, a wholesaler and bank director in Vienna, became an Austrian knight on November 6, 1866, and died in Vienna on September 23, 1879, leaving behind a son and two daughters.

104. Epstein von Ankerberg. Born in 1857

On 4 June 1789, the Imperial Court Secretary Wenzel Epstein had conferred on the hereditary Austrian nobility the title of "Edler von Anker" berg" and died on June 27, 1824 in Vienna.

105. von Erlanger. The merchant and royal Portuguese general, born in Wetzlar on June 17, 1805y

consul in Frankfurt am Main was 19 November 1859

Portuguese Baron, received the ducal yaxonymeingiychen nobility, became yterr. on 25 August 1871.

Baron, recognized as such in Prussia on May 22, 1872, and died on January 31, 1878. His son Viktor, Royal Spanish Consul in Vienna, who was placed under guardianship in September 1884 for wastefulness, is his father-in-law.

father of Counts Alfred and Otto von Salm-Hooghytraeten.

106. von Eskeles. lyayhar Beruych Eskeles, son and grandson of Polish rabbis, died in Vienna in 1759 as a wealthy rabbi. His descendant, the Grand:

Machine Translated by Google

Bernhard Eskeles, a merchant in Vienna, received the Austrian nobility with "Edler von" on November 6, 1797, and the Austrian knighthood on March 12, 1810 (diploma issued April 8, 1811), and became an Austrian baron on November 29, 1822. He was born in 1754 and died August 7, 1839, in Vienna. He married Cäcilie, daughter of the court banker Itzig in Berlin. His father-in-

law

His son was Count Franz von Wimpuen, a son of Princess Victorie

of Anhalt-Bernburg Schaumburg,

his daughter-in-law Baroness Emilie von Brentano: Cimaroli. His son's sons-in-law were the Imperial and Royal General Baron Ludwig von Gablenz, Marquis Joseph de Gabriac, Baron Theodor von Raule, Knight James

von Bartling, and Marche Giovanni Caniy

Giani de Cerchi, Count Wilhelm Saracini of Belfort. His grandchildren have been called "von Gablenz-Eskeles" since April 30, 1873.

107. von Eybenberg. Prince Heinrich XIV of ReussyGreiz, who died on 12 April 1799, married Marianne Meyer on 8 June 1797, the baptized daughter of a Jewish merchant in Berlin, who bore the name of "Frau von Eybenberg" without a special nobility diploma and died in 1814.

N

108. von Falk. Carl Ludwig Falk, born on 17 November 1817 in Breslau, was General Director of the Véslsruer Kammgarnfabrik Aktiengesellschaft and member of the member of the Lower Austrian Chamber of Commerce and Industry, became an Austrian Knight on August 25, 1878, and died childless on May 21, 1883 in Vienna, after his

24

His wife Marie Henfling, who had married him on March 1, 1848, had died on June 1, 1881 in Véslau.

109. von Falk. Sigmund Falk, director of the Pest printing company, became an Austrian knight on August 5, 1879.

110. von Fennheim. The baptized Jew Eduard UUnheimer, received the Austrian knighthood with "non Fennheim" on August 4, 1868, and on March 31, 1875, he received imperial permission to abandon his family name and use only the title. On May 27, 1882, he became an Austrian Baron. He was born in Vienna in 1820.

boren and married Alexandrine Raics von Dragoy miresfce. His daughter Iphigenia married Baron Ernst von Stenglin.

111. Fiycher. Philipp Fiycher, who married Lyonette Finalin de Peryigny (born October 13, 1853, died March 15, 1880 in Cannes)

on November 15, 1876 in Paris, became Count of Rome "de Cheviere" in November 1876.

112. (Fischer) of Farkashaz. The Porcelain

Machine Translated by Google

manufacturer Moritz Fycher, born in 1799, received the Hungarian nobility on 22 April 1866 and the name on 4 May 1870 change to Farkashaz. He died on February 25, 1880.

113. Fyhl. The baptized Jew Stefan Fyhl, he held together with sons Johann and Stanislaus d. Krakow

April 15, 1507 the Polish nobility.

114. Fyhl. von Dirszt. Gutmann von Fyhl, received the Hungarian title "von Dirszt" on June 27, 1885. Ladislaus and Viktor

Adolf Fyhl, received the Hungarian nobility as "von Dirszt" on April 19, 1889.

The divorced wife of Ladislaus, who was a banker, Etelka Steinfeld, married Count Ernst Zichy on 28 June 1891 in Budapest.

115. Fleisch! von Marxow. The Merchant and Béryenrath Karl Fleihschl, received the ytterreichy nobility with "von Marxow" on June 23, 1875. Ernst von Fleihschl is a university professor in Vienna.

116. Fleich von Bévés. The manor, born in 1815y

Alois Fleych, born on April 17, 1873, received the Hungarian nobility with the name "von Bévés." He died in Vienna on December 6, 1880.

117. Fleych von Brunningen. lyidor Vincenz Fleych, born

19 March 1819, industrialist, merchant

Chamber Councillor, Censor of the Austro-Hungarian Bank, President of the Rohrbach Sugar Company, Board Member of various other industrial companies nehmungen, head of the wholesale company "lyidor Vincenz Fleych" received the Austrian nobility with "Edler von Brunningen" on May 20, 1879 and died on June 13, 1884. His daughter married into the Ripka Edle von Rechthofen family.

118. Flesh of Festan. Dr. Ludwig Flesch, Hofy

A court lawyer in Vienna, he received the Austrian knighthood "von Feytan" on July 22, 1872.

119. von Flies. Eduard Flies, grandson of Schutzzy

Heymann Flies, Royal Prussian Lieutenant General (ret.) (d. 11 December 1886 in Wiesbaden at the age of 85) married Therese von Schönfeld (13 May 1882 in Wiesbaden) and received the Prussian nobility on 18 June 1864

(M. von Janecki, Herald, 1889, No. 6). His daughter Therese married the retired Lieutenant Colonel Otto von

Wichmann. 5

120. von Félych. Johann Baruch (Bernhard) Félych, born 1756, Imperial Court Councillor, Director of Studies, Professor, received in Vienna on June 22, 1802, the hereditary title

Austrian nobility with "Edler von" and died 13 Sepy

Machine Translated by Google

tember 1820 in Vienna, leaving descendants.

121. Franchetti. Baron Raymondo Franchetti in Turin married Baroness Louise von Rothschild. Abraham Franchetti, banker in Vienna

dig and Treviso received the nobility and baronial status by decree of 17 October 1858 from King Victor Emmanuel of Sardinia. Of his sons, Albert married Margherita, the daughter of the banker Marco Levi in Reggio, in 1888, and Georg married Baroness Chary in 1891.

Lotte von Hornstein, the composer's daughter.

122. von Frank. Demeter Frank, born 12 July 1829 in Horitz in Bohemia, General Director of the Romanian

26

Bank in Bucharest became an Austrian Knight on August 11, 1880. He has two sons and a daughter by his wife Leonie, daughter of Angelo de Tedesco and Angelica Regina.

123. von Fraenkel. Anton Eduard Fraenkel, son of Samuel, banker and railway entrepreneur in Warsaw, later in St. Petersburg, received the Polish nobility on January 2 (14), 1839, for his services in the Army

Loan of 1837. (M. von Janecki in the Herald quarterly 1888, page 173). He received the Russian baronage on March 9, 1857 (diploma of October 27, 1861) and married Alexandrine von Esen. His son-in-law was Baron

Karl von Kaskel, who died in 1874 and married Victoria, the daughter of Baron von Fraenkel from his first marriage to Bertha Morawska. (M. v. Janecki, Herald 1889, no. 6).

124. von Frankfurter. The railway entrepreneur Wilherm Frankfurter became an Austrian knight on October 18, 1874. His only son, Samuel, born in 1859, committed suicide in Vienna on September 13, 1888.

125. Frankl von Hochwart. Dr. Ludwig August Frankl, born on

3 February 1818 in Chrayt in Bohemia, was secretary and archivist of the Israelite

Cultusgemeinde in Vienna, received on 10 December 1876 the Austrian knighthood with "von Hochwart."

126. by Franklin. The 27th of January 1831 in

Berlin-born Christian Fürchtegott Otto Franklin, Proy

Professor at the Faculty of Law at the University of Tübingen, in 1878 he received the Württemberg personal nobility as a Knight of the Order of the Württemberg Crown, First Class.

127. von Frenckel. Friedrich Wilhelm Frenckel, Commerzienrath and factory owner, received in 1868 with "von

Machine Translated by Google

Frenckel" the nobility of the Grand Duchy of Finland. (Firn: lands Adelskalender 1883, p. 160, 161, 1890, p. 143, 144.)

128. von Freund. The railway director Karl Freund received Hungarian nobility on April 17, 1873.

129. von Freyberg. Markus Freyberg, son of Isaac, governor of Warsaw, became a Russian nobleman on November 22, 1838.

PPTP Aneen

27

130. Freyadtler of KovesyGyur. Anton Freyadtler, born on October 15, 1814 in Neuyatz, owner of the estates TétýVaaBonyi and Köves Gyir in the VeBprimer Geypanyhaft, received the Austrian knighthood with KövesýGyür on October 24, 1880.

131. von Friedberg. Dr. Emil Friedberg, born on December 22, 1837 in Konitz in West Prussia, Royal Saxon Court Councillor, Professor at the University of Leipzig, received the Württemberg Personal Order in 1874

nobility, but did not use it.

132. von Friedberg. Dr. Heinrich Friedberg, born on January 27, 1813, in Mark Friedland in West Prussia, was a former Minister of Justice and was raised to the Prussian nobility on March 11, 1888.

133. von Friedland. Ferdinand Friedland, born in 1810, Imperial

Truchsess and Director of the Austrian Museum of Art and Industry, was born on December 20, 1865

Austrian knight and died on October 28, 1868.

134. FriedlandyFreeman. Baron Friedland-Freey
He married Maria Eugenie Caroline Victoria Fialin de Peryigny in November 1877. He came from Prague.

135. Friedlander von Malheim. Friedrich Friedlander, born on January 10, 1825, in Kohl, Anowitz, Bohemia, and a genre painter in Vienna, received the Austrian knighthood "von Malheim" on August 29, 1889.

136. Frohlich von Feldau. Moriz Fröhlich,

Real estate owner, received the Austrian on 19 November 1877 imperial nobility with "Edler von Feldau."

137. von Fromm. Oskar Guytav Albert Georg Fromm, First

Lieutenant in the East Frisian Infantry Regimenty

ment No. 78, received the ducal

yachsenmeynigenyhil bburghauenychen nobility and on 21 April 1873 the royal Prussian approval to lead the same.

Machine Translated by Google

138. Fuchs von Ban vet. January 31, 1831
Maximilian Fuchs, born in Senftenberg in Bohemia, Director of the Hungarian Western Railway and owner of 28

Kenyermeré and Banvet, received the Austrian knighthood with "on Banvét' on March 31, 1883 and died on February 21, 1887 in Vienna, leaving behind five sons and two daughters.

139. von Firth. Joseph Firth, born on 30 December 1822 in Strakonitz in Bohemia, the youngest son of the factory owner Wolf Furth, born on 3 July 1850, member of the Reichsrat, member of the Landtag of the Kingdom of Bohemia, member of the Trade and Commerce

Chamber in Pilyen, honorary citizen of the city of Wallern, received the e Mittertyand on 1 September 1880 and has three sons.

140. Gans von Lud aft i. The journalist Mor'z Gans, born in 1819 in Komorn, received the Hungarian nobility with the predicate "von Ludayi" on 12 July 1867 and died on 29 August 1885 in Reichenau.

141. Gedali a. The banker Gottlieb Abrahamyon Gedalia in Copenhagen, received the nobility of San Marino in 1871. He was appointed on December 27, 1880, by the Supreme court in Copenhagen for using cashiered stamps

marken sentenced to 14 days in prison.

142. von GeiringeryWinterystein. Dr.

Friedrich GeiringeryWinterystein, on June 20, 1870, received the Austrian knighthood of his adoptive father, Knight Simon von Winterystein. He, too, was of Jewish descent. He married into the von Soelfon family.

143. Geitler von Armingen. This family's real name is Jeitteles. Sigmund Christian Geitler, born in 1789, a merchant in Prague, was granted Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von Armingen" on November 27, 1854, and died on March 6, 1866. His wife, born in 1796 and married on July 24, 1870, was née Goldschmidt. His grandson, the Imperial Court and Court Advocate in Vienna, Sigmund G. Edler von Armingen, committed suicide on November 3, 1882.

144. von Geryon. Max Geryon, sugar factory owner in GroBySurany, representative of the factory in Vienna, received the Austrian knighthood on May 4, 1872.

29

145. Geryonn von Gers burg. The merchantly Lord and Ducal Saxonycoburggygothai Consul Jakob Gersonn in Frankfurt am Main, received the Ducal Saxonycoburggygothai Barony on 17 September 1878

Machine Translated by Google

yt, but was not recognized as a baron in Prussiay
His son Paul married on 29 September 1881 Baroness von Minster from a family of the Franconian bike.

146. Gideon. Sampyon Gideon, son of a Westy

Indian merchant, born around 1700, acquired great wealth as a banker in London and died on October 17, 1762.

His son Sampyon, born in 1751, was born in October 1789

Baron Eardly of Spalding in the Peerage of lrey

land) and died on December 25, 1824. Old Gideon had left 1,000 pounds sterling to a synagogue, the same amount to the London Hospital, and twice the sum to the Corporation of the Sons of the Clergy.

He had determined, in the event of the extinction of his wife's male issue, all his property should fall to the Duke of Devonshire, "without insisting on the duke's taking his name or being circumcised."

147. von Glayer. Wilhelm Glayer, born Bureau: head of the Creditanstalt, received the Austrian nobility with "Edler von" on June 15, 1870 (diploma January 30, 1875). Royalie Edle von Glayer married Count Heinrich in 1888.

Folliot de Crenneville-Poutet, whose great

Mother Baroness Viktor'a von Poutet, a stepdaughter of the last Prince Karl Eugen of Lothringen, who died in 1825

was.

148. Luck of Marosy-Varadja. The Great

Landowner Moriz Glück received the Hungarian nobility with "Marosy Varadja" on January 4, 1879.

149. Goldberger von Buda. Mrs. Elisabeth Goldberger, born in 1783, died July 29, 1869, and her sons received Hungarian nobility with the surname "von Buda" on November 1, 1867. The Goldberger brothers von Buda had their name changed to Bethlenfalvi by the King of Hungary on March 27, 1868. Emanuel Goldy berger von Buda, wholesaler and royal Portuguese general consul in Vienna, became Austrian on 5 October 1879.

308

Knights. The family was related by marriage to Baron Popper von Podhragy.

150. Goldreich von Bronnek. Philipp Goldreich received the Austrian nobility title "Edler von Bronnek" on July 25, 1873. His son Ludwig, Dr. jur., lawyer in Vienna, married his kinswoman Roya Bachrach.

151. von Goldschmidt. Moriz Goldschmidt, Royal Prussian Consul and Chief Procurator of the House of Roth child, born June 9, 1803 in Frankfurt am Main as son of Jakob David Goldschmidt (April 28, 1847) and Adelheid (Edel), née Roth (February 8, 1834) child, a daughter of Meyer Anselm Roth: child, received the Austrian

Machine Translated by Google

Knighthood and died on 5 April 1888. His brother Leopold Jakob Goldschmidt, born in 1811, Royal Württemberg

Bergisch Consul in Frankfurt am Main, received the Württemberg personal nobility in 1869 and died on August 25, 1885.

152. von Goldschmidt. Leopold Goldschmidt, Vice-President of the Trieste Chamber of Commerce, received the Austrian nobility title "Edler von" on April 25, 1879.

153. Goldschmidt von Libanka. Ludwig Goldschmidt, tenant of the Hungarian opal mines, received the Austrian knighthood "von Libanka" on March 17, 1874.

154. Goldymid. Lyon Goldymid was born on

7 August 1841 English Baronet and in 1846 in Portugal Baron de Palmeira. This native of Kayel

Family settled in the early 18th century in Engy country over.

155. Goldymid. Frederic John Goldymid, born 1818, English major general, son of F Lionel Goldymid became an English knight in 1855.

156. von Goldtman. Anton, Joseph, and Marianne, children of Karl Goldtman, received Polish nobility on March 13, 1845, for the merits of their paternal brother, Joseph Joachim Goldtman, Bishop of Sendomir (M. v. Janecki in the quarterly Herald, 1888).

Page 173).

31

157. from Gomperz. Max Gomperz, sheep wooly

Factory owner in Brno, received the Austrian knighthood on December 21, 1877, as did his brother, the factory owner Julius Gomperz in Brno, on May 24, 1879.

158. von Gorriyyen. The Grand Ducal Hessian General Consul Georg Friedrich Gorriyyen received the Grand Ducal Hessian nobility on 14 October 1869.

159. von Gottes mann. Adolf Gottesmann, he: held 23 April 1868 the Hungarian nobility and Eugen

God's man on May 26, 1884 the name and ungay

rish nobility of Anton von Jaszay. 1160. von Griinebaum. Guftan Griinebaum, Chief Inspector of the General Inspectorate of the Austrian Railways, received the Austrian knighthood on 31 January 1876. His mother was the 16 March 1884

The late Therese Landauer, a sister of Nanette von Goldschmidt; he was therefore a distant relative of the House of Rothschild.

161. von Grunenthal. Friedrich Sigismund Siebmann, born November 12, 1780 (of Jewish parents; his birthplace was concealed), Royal Prussian Chief Tax Councillor, was succeeded by the Royal Prussian Chamber Director Otto Ernst von Grunenthal, who died in 1838—thal and received the Prussian nobility as "von Grunenthal" on April 14, 1812. He died as a secret

Chief Finance Councillor on 2 June 1855. His son-in-law was Eduard von Gerschow.

162. von Gugler. Dr. Bernhard Gugler, Rector, Head of the Mathematical Department at the Polytechnical University-School (March 1880), received the Württemberg

Bergisch personal nobility. He was of Jewish descent.

163. von Günzburg. The Grand Ducal Hessian Consul General

Horatius Günzburg in St. Petersburg, he held the title of Baron of the Grand Duchy of Hesse on 9 November 10, as did his father, the Imperial Russian Summer Courtier Joseph Günzburg, and all his descendants on 2 August 1874.

164. Gurski. In Lithuania, in 1764, the gey
Jews Ignaz and Joseph Gurski baptized the nobility. (M. von Janecki, citato loco.)

165, by Gutmann. The Industrialist Wily helm Lyaak Wolf Gutmann became Austrian on January 4, 1878y imperial knight. His son-in-law is Earl Robert Fitzjames, a direct descendant of Marshal Duke of Berwick, the King's natural son.

James II of England, Scotland and Ireland.

66. von Gutmann. The industrialist and coal mine owner David Guttmann in Vienna became an Austrian knight on December 6, 1878. The family was related by marriage to the Barons von Königswarter. 167. Guttmann von Gelsenkirchen. The landowner

Heinrich Guttmann, resident of Groß-Kanisza, received the Hungarian nobility with "von Gelyei" on December 26, 1869. His son lřidor married Friederike Pollak Edle von Rudin.

168. von Gutmansthaly Benvenuti. Dr. Ludy

Wig Gutmansthal, born October 4, 1810 in Kierling, the son of Leopold Gutmansthal and Johanna Wirth, honorary citizen of the municipality of

Ratschach in Lower Carniola, received the nobility on December 25, 1859 (diploma November 29, 1859) from his stepfather, Knight Johann Baptist von Benvenuti and died on October 8, 1890 in Graz, married to Maria von Sonnenthal. His father-in-lawy yon is Prince Eugene of Wrede, Yhis daughter-in-law is Baroness Emma of Conrad-Eybesfeld.

169. von Haber. Salomon Haber, born February 10, 1768, banker in Karlsruhe, died January 13, 1839, received the Baden nobility on June 2, 1829. His son Ludwig Joseph, born July 15, 1804, factory owner, received it on October 24.

1869 (Diploma 28 Nov. 1869) the Austrian Freey

Baroness "von Linsberg." He is a life member of the House of Lords, the Imperial Council. His brother, the banker, Samuel von Haber, born in 1813, received the Austrian baronship on April 26, 1873, and died in Paris on September 27, 1883. Married into this family was Princess Troubetzkoy, whose direct ancestor was Grand Duke Gedimin of Lithuania, as well as Count Octave de Behague, Countess Laura Brunetti, Count Christian Claes

Horn von Aminne, and Baron Max Scharschmidt von Adlertreu, Viscount

Machine Translated by Google

33

Ernest de Grouchy, Hannibal Grimmer von Adelsbach, Richard Herwarth von Bittenfeld, Ludwig von Klock, Auguste Legrand de Villers, Knight Louis von Marx and James Mont: jaret de Kerjé gu. N

170. von Hahn. The Imperial and Royal Government Councillor and Director of the Landerbank, Samuel Hahn, son of F. J. Hahn, born in 1803 and died on February 28, 1891 in Hungarian Ostrava, became an Austrian Knight on August 31, 1881.

His daughter Hermine married Baron Armin

Popper of Podhragy.

171. Halpert. Ludwig Halpert at Soroki near Warsaw, son of the Baquier Salomon Halpert in Warsawyhow, received the Ruyyiyian nobility in 1864 and died in 1880.

His daughter-in-law is Giie Caytriota-Scany

derbeg, his son-in-law Arthur of Rheinbaben.

172. von Hamburger. The Imperial Rusyian Collegiate Ayesyor Eugen von Hamburger died on July 8, 1865.

Andreas von Hamburger became imperial ryyiyischer geh.
Council and since 26 Nov. 1879 Imperial Ruyyiyic except:

Ordinary Envoy and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Swiss Confederation.

173. von Hanseemann. A Pastor Hanseemann in Aachen adopted a Jewish boy named David, born on 12 July 1790 in Finkenwerder, who was born on 4 August 1864 in Schlangenbad as a Royal Prussian Finance Minister.

Minyter a. D. died. His son, Adolf Hanseemann, Commerzienrath in Berlin, received the Prussian nobility on March 8, 1872.

174. Hantover. The Imperial Rusyiyic Titular Councillor Heinrich

Hantover received the Rusyiyiyic hereditary nobility on 7 Auguyt 1873.

175. Hartleben von Sarkhazi. Franz Adolf Hartleben, publisher and bookseller in Peft, received the Hungarian nobility with "von Sarky" in Vienna on April 17, 1880. there."

176. Hartmann von Wartenschild. The

kk Captain Wilhelm Hartmann (baptized Jew), hey

34

held the Austrian knighthood with "von Wartenschild" in Vienna on May 12, 1887.

177. von Haurowitz. Harald or Harry (in Russia Ivan)

Haurowitz, son of Samuel, born 18 December 1799 in Schleswig, General Staff: Doctor of the Baltic Fleet, General Inspector of Medicine of the Russian Naval Department, received as a real State Councillor on 26 February 1847 the Russian nobility and

Machine Translated by Google

Died on July 6, 1882 in Gmunden. His son-in-law was Knight Franz von Arneth.

178. von Hauser. The Imperial and Royal Lieutenant Colonel Georg

Hauser, born in Frankfurt am Main as the son of a Jewish merchant and a woman born in Mettenheim, was baptized and received the Austrian Order of Merit on July 20, 1884.

imperial nobility.

179. Head. Francis Bond Head was born on May 22

1837 English Varonet. He is a descendant of Moses Mendes, son-in-law of a former Sir Francis Head, who passed on his maternal family name to his children.

180. on Heimann. A. von Heimann was 1888

President of the Riga Commercial College, Wasily Alexany drowitsch von Heimann, Imperial Ruyyiyian Lieutenant General, conquered Ardahan in 1877.

181. von Heimann. The physician Adolf Heimann received 5 September 1875 as Imperial Ruyyiyer Wirky lich State Councillor the nobility.

82. von Heine. Maximilian Heine, born 6 November 1805 as the son of the merchant Samyon Heine in Hamy

Burg and his wife Betty von (vecte van) Geldern; Imperial Rusyiy State Councillor, received the Rusyiy nobility and died childless on November 5, 1879. His brother Guytan, born June 18, 1810 in Hamburg, owner of the "Wiener Fremdenblatt", received the Austrian knighthood on March 30, 1867, and on September 24, 1870 the Austrian Reichish baronship and 20 October 1870 (diploma 30 October 1870) the authorization to run the free-glorious name "von Heine-Geldern." He died on November 14, 1886 in Vienna. His wife was Emilie Kaan

35

von Albeyt, his daughter-in-law Baroness Marie von Seidler, his sons-in-law Count Heinrich Sizz o von Noris and Alfons Edler von Kodolitych.

183. von Hellmann. Ernst Julius Heimann, son of a banker in Breslau and a Friedlander, owner of entails in Dalkau, was granted Prussian nobility on June 12, 1883, under the name "von Hellmann." His daughter-in-law is Louise von Bonin from the Lupow family (M. v.

Janecki, Herold 1889, No. 6).

184. by Henle. The Bavarian Court Councillor and Legal Officery conyulent Dr. Sigmund Henle, received the Bavarian personal nobility in 1882.

185. Herychel. John Frederik William Herychel, born 7 March

1792, 7 1871, became an English Baronet in 1838. He was the son of 15 November 1738y

born and died on 25 August 1822, the astronomist Friedrich Wilhelm

Herychel, who was the son of a muVician Jakob Herychel in Hanover, grandson of lyaak Herychel

Machine Translated by Google

and great-grandson of Abraham Herychel.

186. Herychell. The Lord Chancellor Fraerer Herychell, born 184 –, son of a baptized Jew who immigrated to England, grandson and great-grandson of the Jews Juda and Hillel Herÿchell living in Strelno in Poland,

was

February 1886 English Baron.

187. von Herz. Salomon Herz, born in 1743, a wholesale merchant, received the hereditary Austrian nobility with "Edler von" in Vienna on November 6, 1797 and died in Vienna on May 3, 1825. His daughters-in-law were

Susanna von Nattermann and Caroline von

Arnystein. Two daughters of his son married knights

Karl Emanuel von Liebenberg de Zyittin and Count Cajetan

Alcaini. The brother of these two ladies: Carl Adolf Edler von

Herz, born in 1804, Director of the Banque de Roumanie, became an Austrian Knight on February 10, 1870, and died August 18, 1881. His wives were Anna Maria Auguytina, Baroness von Brentano; Cimaroli and Marie von Moreau, his mother-in-law.

daughter of Princess Marie Ghika. In 1890, Count Anton Triangi married Noble Leopoldine von Herz.

a 3x

36

188. Herz von Hertenried. Julius Herz, born in Bayreuth in 1825 and a member of the advisory council of the Creditanstalt für Handel und Gewerbe (Credit Institute for Trade and Industry), became Austrian on May 24, 1887. Knight with "von Hertenried." N

189. Herz von Rodena and the General Secretary of the Galician Karl Ludwig Railway Dr. Johann Michael Herz became Catholic and received the Austrian knighthood with "von Rodenau", He committed suicide in December 1873, as did his wife in 1888.

190. Herzel von Hertberg. The estate owner Leopold

Herzel, head of the company Herzel and Caruta, he-

On April 3, 1881, he received the Austrian knighthood and on April 22, 1883, he received imperial permission to drop his family name and to only write Ritter "von Hertberg".

191. von Herzenstein. David von Herzenstein, a wholesale merchant in Odessa, lost his wife Lea, born in 1781, in Vienna on June 6, 1830.

192. von Herzfeld. Viktor Herzfeld, kk Cory

Vettencapitan, son of the 7 married on 16 February 1883

former stock exchange sensual Karl Herzfeld, received the Austrian knighthood on April 2, 1867, as did his brother, the Imperial and Royal Consul General R. Stephan Herzfeld, on December 12, 1871.

193. von Herzfeld. Josef Herzfeld, Generaly

Secretary, later director of Fonciere, Pest Insurance

anyt in Vienna, received the öğterr. on December 20, 1874.
Knighthood.

194. von Heyer. Dr. Heyer, secret senior directory

Machine Translated by Google

Councillor and Leading Councillor in the Ministry of the In-neren and the manor owner Heyer on Goychin, received Prussian nobility on May 4, 1888. The family was formerly called Meyer.

195. Heymer. Wilhelm Johann Heymer, son of Georg, district tax collector in Mariampol, received 12.

(24) January 1843, the Polish nobility. (M. v. Janecki in the quarterly journal of the Herald, 1888, page 175.)

196. Hiersch from Hiregh. Karl Hiersch, Ministey rialrath in the Hungarian Miniyterium at the Imperial Court, received the Hungarian nobility with "von Hiregh" on July 11, 1876.

37

Tor. von Hirsch. Maximilian Hirsch, Imperial and Royal Major in the Engineering Corps, was granted Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von" in Vienna on September 16, 1843. He died on April 19, 1846, as an Imperial and Royal Lieutenant Colonel. His wife was Baroness Therese Zawisch von Ossenitz.

198. von Hirsch. Theodor Hirsch received 25 October

1881 the Hungarian Then nobility.

199. von Hirsch auf Gereuth. January

Jakob Hirsch, born in 1764, royal Bavarian court: banker and wholesaler in Würzburg, received the Bavarian nobility with "auf Gereuth" on 13 August 1818 and died on 22 December 1840. His son-in-law was Joseph von Kaulla, while his second son Jakob v. Hirsch auf Gereuth, born 2 July 1805, royal Bavarian. Court banker, Royal Württemberg Consul, Lord of Planegg and Harlaching, became a Bavarian Baron on 2 August 1859 and died on 9 December 1885. A son

The latter married Zenaide of Poliacous. The family still adheres to the Mosaic faith.

LucianyJacquesyMaurice, born 11 July 1856, y 6 April 1887, was incorporated into the Belgian nobility with the title of Baron 26 September 1880.

200. von Hirschfeld. Ludwig Hirschfeld, son of Dr. Hermann Hirschfeld, born in 1796 and died on January 10, 1883, director of the Telegraphy correspondence bureaus in Vienna, became 12 June 1877 dytery Imperial Knight. He also received the title of Imperial Knight government council.

201. von Hirychel. Leo Hirychel received 20 Sept.

1857 (Diploma 19 November 1857) the Austrian Knight

yt was transferred to his father-in-law, Knight Kaliman von Minerbi as "von Hirychel-Minerbi", and was ducal yachony on 5 March 1877 as "von Hiryshl"y

Baron of Meiningen and later Count of Italy.

202. Hirschler of Aly6-Domboru. Max and Leopold Johann Hirschler, received on 20 May 1887 the Hungarian nobility with "von Aly6-Domboru", le zterer am

Machine Translated by Google

38

November 24, 1888 permission to change the name to "e Zalan".

203. von Hitzig. Daniel Itzig, court banker in Berlin, died on May 21, 1799, at the age of 77. He had a son, Julius Eduard, born on March 26, 1780. He was baptized, took the name 9173, and died.

November 26, 1849 as Royal Prussian Criminal Councillor.

The son of the same Friedrich Hitzig, born in 1811, Prey

yident of the Academy of Fine Arts in Berlin, who died on October 11,

1881, had a daughter Clara Susanna Maria Magdalena, born on July 22, 1846, who received the Prussian nobility on May 13, 1866, and on May

19, 1866, married Baron Adolf von SteUens-Frauy

Weiler married, but on October 30, 1878, he—was separated.

204. von Hock. The Imperial and Royal Miniyterial Councillor of the Hany

Carl Hock (of Jewish descent), received the Austrian knighthood on June 19, 1852, and became an Austrian Baron on December 2, 1859. He was born in Prague on March 13, 1808, and died on January 2, 1869, as a member of the House of Lords and Privy Councillor. His wife was Sophie von Appeltauer.

205. HoUmann von Hofmannsthal. The

June 10, 1759 born lyaak Löw HoUmann, GroBy

dealer in Vienna and head of the Israelite Cultusy municipality, received the hereditary Austrian title on 13 August 1835 Reichish nobility with "Edler von Hofmansthal" and died December 2, 1849").

Some of his descendants converted to the Catholic faith.

206. HoUmann von Lérincz. Jakob HoUmann received the Hungarian nobility with "von Lérincz" on 17 August 1884.

207. Hénig von Honigsberg. Israel Hönig, born on October 30,

1724, was a Lower Austrian government official and bank and tobacco director. He received the Austrian nobility title "Edler von Hénigsberg" on September

2, 1789, and died on January 19, 1808.

*) His daughter-in-law was Noble Petronilla von Rhd.

39

His descendants remained faithful to the Mosayic faith until modern times. In 1864, Edler Soliman died von Hönigsberg as Secretary of the Prague Israeli Ge-community. In this family, which also included the (1877) emperory liche Rath and spa doctor in Wildbad, Noble Dr. Benedict von Honigsberg, married Knight Ferdinand vou Arlt, the son of the famous physician.

208. Hénig von Honigshof. Lazar Honig,

Machine Translated by Google

Born in 1769, kk ensign, who on 24 August 1826, as a former kk captain, received in Vienna on 16 August 1791, with his siblings Enoch, Hermann, Lazar, and Ernst, the hereditary Austrian nobility with Edler von Hénigshof.

209. Hénig von Honigstein. The kk privy

The married wholesaler Adam Albert Honig, born in 1740, + 20 December 1811, received the hereditary title on 19 January 1784y rural-Austrian nobility with "Edler von Hénigstein" and 10 May 1807 the Austrian knighthood as

"Knight of Henikstein." His three sons, Joseph (born 1768, died April 29, 1838), Karl (born 1773, died July 9, 1828), and Johann (born 1775, died July 16, 1855), received the Bohemian knighthood on December 16, 1812.

Joseph and his wife Elisabeth, née von Sonnenstein (born 1770, died June 17, 1823), sons Friedrich, retired Imperial Colonel, Wilhelm,

Royal Dutch Senereal in Vienna, and Alfred, Imperial Major General, received the title of Baron on May 3, 1859 (diploma May 25, 1859). A sister of the three brothers, Caroline, married the orientalist Baron Joseph Hammer von Purgstall. Countess Franziska de Paula Ledéchowska, Baron

Wilhelm von der Decken, called von QUen, Baron Sigmund von Cnobloch, and Santana von Scholl married into this family.

The Hönig von Honigshof and Honig families

von Hénigstein ysembly, by the way, from brothers of lyrael Hénig Edler von Honigsberg.

isch. Born in 1803, the kk Obery

Johann Honiysch, retired medical officer, became an Austrian knight on October 31, 1878 and died on August 29, 1887 in Graz, leaving behind a son and a daughter.

211. von Hornthal. On April 23, 1815, Franz Ludwig Hornthal, police director in Bamberg (born May 5, 1765), received the Bavarian nobility and the coat of arms of the extinct von Roggenbach family on June 27, 1833.

At his father's baptism, his two godparents, the Lords of Horneck and Erthal, gave him the name Hornthal. The ennobled man's granddaughter, Anna, married Baron Marschalk von Ostheim.

212. Horschitz. Sally Horschitz, a merchant in Hamburg, received the baronship from Italy (San Marino?) See M. von Janecki. Herold 1889, No. 6.

213. von Jacobi. Jacob Jacobi, General Secretary of the Kaiser Ferdinand Northern Railway, became an Austrian Knight on December 16, 1868, and later Imperial Court Councilor. His daughter Wanda married Joseph Lord, lord of Zsigmondhaza, on September 10, 1882.

214. Jakubowski. In Lithuania, 24. Noy

In August 1964, Michael Kasimir Felix Jakubowski, a baptized Jew, was granted the nobility. (M. von Janecki, citato loco). They were the sons of Franz Jakubowski.

Adalbert Jakubowski from Emperor Charles VII ddo. Franky

Machine Translated by Google

On 5 May 1744 the Imperial and Bavarian knighthood with "Edler von". Vincenz Jakubowski was

ddo. Vienna 26 December 1808 (Diploma 1810) Austrian Imperial Baron and his nee Ladislaus Jakubowski received the transfer of the Baron status to his person in Vienna on October 10, 1832. In this family

In addition to many Polish noblemen, he married Baron Guytav von Gemmingen-Hornberg and Anaytayia, a member of the baronial Kottulinsky family.

(M. von Janecki. Herold 1889, No. 6).

215. Jankowski. In Lithuania, Felician Jankowski, a baptized Jew, was granted the nobility in 1764. (M. von Janecki, citato loco).

216. Jarmund In Lithuania in 1764 the gey Jew Stanislaus Jayrmond baptized the nobility. (ibid.)

2217. Jelenski. In Lithuania, in 1764, the baptized Jews Jacob, Matthew and Stanislaus Jelenski received the nobility. (ibid.) From this family came the actress Irma von Jelenska, who married Ed. Levi in 1882.

41

218. Jellinek von Harcaszti. Heinrich Jellinek (in German Hirschel), General Director of the Budapest Tramway Company, received the Hungarian nobility with "von Har—" in Vienna on January 6, 1890.

caszti".

219. Jerusalem of Salemfels. Leopold Jeruy

Salem, Kattundruckfabrikam (October 2, 1842), was granted Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von Salemfels" on September 15, 1841. His son Theodor, a retired captain, was granted Austrian knighthood on March 19, 1864.

220. Jeruyalem of Salenyegg (not Salems—eggs). The kk lieutenant colonel Ferdinand Jerusalem he—held in Vienna on March 24, 1889 the Austrian nobility

with "Edler von Salenyegg."

221. Jeyyel. Georg Jeyyel, son of the merchant ZA Jeyyel, judge of the supreme court, born in 1824, became an English knight in 1872.

222. Jeyyel. Sir Charles Jeyyel de Lodham was

May 25, 1883, English Baronet. He married the daughter of Lord Goldymid in 1890.

223. von Inyelt. Samuel Inyelt, landowner, hey held the Hungarian nobility on March 8, 1881, and the title "of Hell" on October 4, 1881.

224. Joel of Jodlson. Karl Noel, b. 1762, court and court advocate and public notary, became Austrian knight on 1 September 1817 with

Machine Translated by Google

"von Joélson" and died on November 7, 1827, in Vienna. His son Joseph, born in 1794, a banker and court agent, received permission to use the title of Jodlson on September 6, 1862, and a coat of arms amendment on July 12, 1865, and color change on March 26, 1869.

His sons-in-law were Baron Joseph Philippovich von Philippsberg and Baron Hermann Dahlen von Orlaburg. His two sons

42

Moritz Karl Ludwig, retired Imperial and Royal Major, and Alfred Franz

Philipp, Imperial and Royal Major General, were granted knighthood on October 10, 1862. The latter became an Austrian Baron on November 23, 1881. His wife

The latter is Baron Hermine Dahlen von Drla=: burg, the son-in-law of the Austrian knight Dr. Friedrich von GeiringeryWinterytein.

225. Isaac. Sir Henry Aaron Isaac, of the Mosaic faith, Lord Major of England, was knighted in 1888, i.e., became an English knight. 8

226. Isaac of Newfort. The Imperial Field Marshal

Lieutenant Heinrich Isaac, born on April 10, 1813 in Werlington in the County of Suolk, was...

Vienna 16 April 1878 Austrian Baron.

227. von Itzstein. Anton Itzstein, primatic councilor and Supreme Court President, Grand Ducal Franky

Furtish Privy Councillor, Chief Police Director and Head of the Jewish Community in Frankfurt am Main, received 8 May

In 1810 he was raised to nobility by the Prince Primate. His mother-in-law His daughter was Katharina von Deindl. The family lived in Bavaria in a modest position (court clerk).

Wallpaper printers, packers).

228. Kaan. The Imperial Colonel in the 49th Infantry

gimente Wilhelm Kaan, received the Austrian nobility with "Edler von" on May 18, 1872. He died in Graz in 1887, leaving behind a son.

229. Kaan von Albeyt. Heinrich Samuel Kaan, a wholesale merchant and quaeystor in Peyt, was born in Hungary and received the Hungarian nobility title "Edler von Albeyt" in Vienna on November 3, 1826, and died in Vienna on February 22, 1844.

Into this family, which continues to flourish in Austria and Bavaria, married Count Theodor Cyaky, Baron Alfred Menyi von Klarbach, Baron Guytav von Heine, Geldern and Maria Mayer von Mayerfels.

230. Kadich von Pferd. The Imperial and Royal Lieutenant Colonel of the stud farm, Heinrich Kadich (originally Kadisch, meaning "Temple servant" in Hebrew), was awarded the Austrian nobility title "Edler von Pferd" on March 14, 1871.

43

231. von Kallir. Born in Brody in 1794

Machine Translated by Google

Mayer Kallir, banker in Brody, received Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von" in Vienna on October 4, 1869, and Austrian knighthood on August 8, 1874, and died on June 1, 1875. His son Nathan, born in Brody on November 11, 1821, and president of the Chamber of Commerce in Brody, died on February 4, 1886.

232. von Kanitz. The wholesaler and exporter Eduard Kanitz in Vienna became Austrian on 4 August 1886.

imperial knight.

233. von Kaskel. Michael Ernst Karl, born October 6, 1798

in Dresden, son of the Royal Saxon Commercial Councillor Michael Kaskel and Sara Schleyinger, son-in-law of Baron Frankel, Royal Saxon Privy Chamberlain,

President of the Saxon Bank in Dresden, Royal Swedish-Norwegian General: Consul in Dresden, Head of the Bank Michael Kaskel, received the Austrian nobility in Paris on October 28, 1857, and the Austrian baronship in Vienna on February 9, 1869 (diploma in Vienna on May 19), and the royal Saxon recognition of the baronship in Pillnitz on June 4, 1869.

nobleman's estate. He died on July 31, 1874. His son Felix married Baroness Emma von Oppenheim and is his wife-grandfather of Karl von Leipziger.

234. Kaufmann–Ayyer. The banker Jakob Kaufmann

Ayyer in Cologne, husband of Henriette Ayyer, born in 1817 and 6 July 1885 in Cologne, became an Austrian knight on 15 April 1870. He ended his life in 1878 by suicide murder. His son Ludwig, a banker in Berlin, married Baroness Bianka von Landau.

235. von Kaulla. The banker in Munich, Joseph Wolf

Kaulla, born in 1805 as the son of Wolf Kaulla, 7th kk councilor and court banker on 10 January 1841, received on 29 November 1841 from the Prince of Hohenzollern

Hechingen, and on May 20, 1843, he received royal Württemberg recognition. He died on March 3, 1876. His son, the Imperial and Royal Captain (ret.) Theodor von Kaulla, was forced to sell the Illereichen estate inherited from his father. Rudolf Kaulla, born August 10, 1814, married.

44

Hofrath, court banker, received the Württemberg personal nobility in 1852 and died on June 15, 1872. Leopold Kaulla, secret Hofrath and court banker in Stuttgart, received the Württemberg personal nobility in 1878.

233. Kazimirski. In Lithuania, in 1764, the Felician Kazimirski, baptized Jew, was granted nobility. (M. v. Janecki, cit. loco.)

237. by Kerstorff. April 12, 1769

The born wholesaler Heinrich and Pappenheimer, son-in-law of Baron Aaron Elias von Eichthal, received the Bavarian nobility on May 5, 1817, with the award of the name and coat of arms of the extinct von Kerstorff.

He died on 2 July 1832. His sons-in-law were Baron Karl von Aretin and Alexander from K6nitz.

238. von Kochmeyter. The director of the Pester Lloyd-Dampfschiffahrtsgesellschaft, Friedrich Kochmeyter, received the Austrian Free Trade Association in Vienna, June 6, 1876.

herrnstand. He is born on November 16, 1816 in Oedenburg.

239. von Kohen. Ignaz Kohen, Imperial and Royal Consul in Malta, frigate captain, became Austrian on September 24, 1877. Knight. His son Arthur succeeded him in office.

240. Kohen of Tengervar. The kk General Consul in Liverpool, Heinrich Kohen, became an Austrian knight with the title "von Tengervar" in Vienna on 12 October 1881.

241. Kohl von Kohlenegg. Imperial and Royal Captain Lorenz

Kohl was granted Austrian nobility with the rank "von Kohlenegg" in Vienna on December 2, 1829. He was born in Vienna in 1783 and died as an Imperial and Royal Lieutenant Colonel on January 22, 1851. His son Leopold, born on December 13, 1851, 1814, + May 1, 1875, wrote under the name "Poly Henrion." His brother Edgar, a retired major, married Baroness von Neuwall, sister of Countess von Auersperg.

242. von Kolisch. Ignaz Kolisch, born on April 8, 1837 in Bratislava, owner of real estate on the Kablikova near Vienna, banker and publisher of the Vienna "Allgemeine Zeitung", received on April 14

45

1881 the ducal Saxon-Meiningen baronship.

The same, who was a Hungarian subject, was ennobled and baronized by the Duke without prior permission of the Emperor, for which reason he was denied permission to accept this title in the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy. He then left the Hungarian state on July 19, 1884, in Budapest, and became Duke of Saxony and Meiningen on July 26, 1884.

As a foreign subject he could now

AustriayHungary. He died on April 30, 1889, in Vienna.

243. von König. Kolomann Konig, Consul General of the Republic of San Marino in Vienna, received a noble title in 1880.

Patriciate and Baronate of the Republic of San Marino. He was born in Raab, Hungary. (M. von Janecki. Herold 1889, No. 6.)

244. von K6nigswarter. The founder of this family's wealth was the private wholesaler Moritz K6nigswarter, born in 1780 and died in Vienna on June 12, 1829.

His son, Maximilian Kénigswarter, born in 1817, a former deputy of the Seine Department in the French Commonwealth, became a Portuguese Baron. His petition for confirmation of this foreign title was not granted due to the fall of Napoleon III. He died in Paris on October 12, 1878. His daughter, Antoinette

She married her relative Jules de Kénigswarter, then Baron Eugen Jakob von Kantstein, on June 15, 1875. The sister of Baron Maximilian,

Machine Translated by Google

Josephine, born April 13, 1811, died May 14, 1861, married her cousin, Jonas K6nigswarter, a banker's son from Frankfurt am Main, born August 10, 1807, in Frankfurt am Main, in 1829. He was the head of the bank.

Moritz K6nigswarter's house in Vienna, became an Austrian Knight on May 25, 1860 and an Austrian Freeman on October 23, 1870

Lord and died on December 23, 1871. His son Moritz married Charlotte Edle von Wertheimstein. Their daughters-in-law are Edle Irma von Gutmann and Melanie Blaskovich von Ebeck, the latter of whom converted to the Mosaic faith. Another K6nigswarter, named Heinrich, Duke of Saxony-Eoburg-Othain,

46

tionsrat (as chargé d'affaires 28 Dec. 1858, as ministry Reyident 27 March 1864, authenticated in Paris) became count Romano and was confirmed as such in France in 1870, with the particle "de." His son

Jules was the son-in-law of Baron Maximilian von Kénigsy wait.

245. von Kraft. The Son of Jewish Tradey man Michael Kohn in MarktyErlbach took part in

He was baptized Roman Catholic and named "Martin Karl Kraft." He acquired the Stain estate and, as a Baron and Consul of the Duke of Saxony-Meiningen in Munich, attained Bavarian nobility on January 17, 1832. He died on March 23, 1842. His son-in-law was the well-known Bavarian

General Baron Jakob von Hartmann, another the Royal Württemberg

Chief Finance Councillor Ludwig

wig Friedrich von Herzog.

246. von Kraus. The baptized Jews Dr. Alfred Heinrich Kraus,

Captain of the Imperial and Royal Gendarmeriey corps and Joyef Kraus, postmaster in Pardubitz, received, the former 8 December 1858 the Austrian knighthood, the latter 10 March 1875 the Austrian nobility with

"Edler von", both, received the Austriany on 2 August 1881

Reichisch Barons. Alfred was Imperial Field Marshal

lieutenant and governor of Bohemia, Joyeph Burgery master of Pardubitz.

247. Krausz von Megyer. Meyer Krausz, factory owner, received Hungarian nobility with the name "von Megyer" on September 3, 1882. His son Isidor, a doctor of law, married his comrade Rense Wahrmann in Budapest in 1883.

248. Krenner von Balla. Samuel Krenner received Hungarian nobility on December 21, 1885, and the title "von Balla" on September 29, 1886.

249. von Kriegshaber. Abraham Kriegshaber, wholesaler in Lemberg, received the nobility with "Edler von" in Vienna, 17 June 1794. His son Anton, a Galician wholesaler, was granted the nobility in Vienna, 14 December 1808 (diploma ddo. Vienna, 14 Dec. 1818) the knighthood. The family still exists.

Machine Translated by Google

47

250. von Kronenberg. Leopold Kronenberg, son of Stanislaus, a builder in Warsaw, received Russian nobility in 1869. He was president of the administrative council of the Vistula Railway in Warsaw.

His son-in-law was Count Karl Zamoyski, and his daughter-in-law was Elisabeth Péltorocka, daughter of a noble marshal.

Leopold's brother, Heinrich (Andreas) Kronenberg, Dr. med., born in 1813, received the nobility and died September 11, 1887. His son-in-law was Johann von Bloch, banker and actual State Councillor in War-

yow. The daughter of his daughter Marie, married to Leon Lowenstein, Marie married the Count de Corberon on July 31, 1889 in Paris.

251. Krzyzanowski. In 1764, the baptized Jew Franz Krzyzanowski was granted nobility in Lithuania. (M. von Janedi, citato loco.)

252. von Kubinzky. Born on 9 December 1814 in Prague as the son of the merchant Iyaak Kubinzky and the 1784 born and 26 March 1866 in Praguey

Benen Eyther, née Epytein née Friedrich Kubinzky, wholesaler, imperial councillor, commercial court assessor, censor of the Austro-Hungarian Bank, Vice-President of the Administrative Council of the Bohemian Escomptebank, became an Austrian Knight in 1884 and died on October 15, 1888 in Prague.

His daughter-in-law is Bertha Fröhlich v. Feldau.

His son Emil is Vice-Consul of the United States and father-in-law of Baron Dr. Julius von Waldberg.

253. von KuUner. The brewery owner and town councilor in Ottakring, Ignaz KuUner, born in 1822, + 23 March 1882, received the Austrian nobility with "Edler von" on 6 May 1878.

254. von Kuh. The General Secretary of the Bohemian Western Railway, Dr. Angelo Kuh, a brother of the poet Emil Kuh and sister-son of the Knight von Sichrowsky, became an Austrian Knight on September 20, 1874, later

48

Imperial and Royal Government Councillor. His son Felix committed suicide on December 3, 1883.

255. von Kuhner. The large landowner David Kuhner received the Austrian knighthood on October 17, 1881. The family is related by marriage to the noble von Zeiss! family.

256. Kwiecinski. In Lithuania, the baptized Jew Josef Kwiecinski was granted nobility in 1764. (M. v. Janecki, citato loco.)

Machine Translated by Google

257. Lachmann von Falkenau. December 2nd.

Karl Richard Lachmann, born in 1814, Lord of the Lordyschaft Falkenau, in the district of Grottkau, and the Ritzergut Wingendorf in the district of Lauban, received in Coburg, 6 July 1863 the ducal yaxe-Coburg-Gothaych Barony yland and ddo. Berlin, 23 Nov. 1864 Royal Prussian permission to bear the baronial title. He died 11 February 1882. His sons-in-law are Baron Ferdinand von Zedlitz und Neukirch and Count Bernhard

by Schweinitz.)

258. von Lamel. The Israelite merchant in Prague, Simon Lamel, born on August 28, 1766, received hereditary Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von" in Vienna on January 7, 1812 (by the highest decree on December 5, 1811) and died in Vienna on April 18, 1845. His daughter married Jerusalem von Salemsfels.

Through another daughter Thereyia he is grandfather of Ritter's Wiener von Welten. His son Leopold, born in 1790, was a wholesaler, banker, and branch director-

EscompteyAnjyt It der privilegirten österreichische Nationaly bank, head of the Prague trading class, was ddo.

) According to the Neuburg Collective Journal, Volume 30, pp. 105-112, it comes from a baptized Jew from Swabia, who was born in Vienna on March 20, 1676 in the Imperial Court.

Ernst Friedrich von Lemble (not Lamble von Reinertshofen), raised to the baronial rank, Palatinate and Neuburg.

Rath, Landvoigt, which is disputed by others, since the diploma states: "descended from an old noble, knightly lineage."

49

Vienna, April 17, 1856, Austrian knight, and died August 19, 1867, in Prague, married to Baroness Julie von Eichthal. He left behind only three daughters.

259. von Landau., The Rothschild agent in Florence, Horace

Landau, became Austrian on January 15, 1867
imperial knight.

260. von Landau. On 22 November 1822

Royal Prussian Commercial Councillor Jakob Landau, born in Breslau, received the title of Baron of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha on August 13, 1881, and died on August 9, 1882. He was the head and founder of the Bank-haus "Jakob Landau" in Berlin. His sons-in-law were Knight Ludwig von Kaufmann-yAyyer, Baron Jules von Machiels-Clinbourg, and Knight Heinrich von Poychinger.

261. von Lapenna. Descended from Spanish Jews, born on

26 February 1825 in Sign in Dalmatia

née Luigi Lapenna, Dr. juris, kk Hofrath, Senatey

President of the Supreme Court of Justice and Cassation, he became an Austrian Baron on September 2, 1880, and died in April 1891 in Villa Waldhof near Persenbeug. His son Marino married a fellow tribesman, Philippine Friedlander, and his daughter married Count Rudolf Pace.

Machine Translated by Google

262. Las ki. The banker in Warsaw, Alexander Laski, son of Charles, received Polish nobility in 1837.

His son Alexander married the daughter of Chevalier Joyé Marques Lisboa, his other son Ladislaus, director of the International Commercial Bank

in St. Petersburg

burg with an annual income of 160,000 rubles, member of the Council of the Great Russian Railways, married Countess Stephanie Linska, the daughter of the latter Marie, Count Sigismund Wielopolski.

(M. von Janetzki, Herald 1889, No. 6.)

263. von Leard. Joseph Leard, chief city engineer in Fiume, received Hungarian nobility on September 20, 1877. 2864. von Lederer. The Imperial Captain Selig mann Lederer, became an Austrian knight on December 17, 1880.

265. Lehne von Lehnshausen. The Imperial and Royal Colonel

Lieutenant Gustav Lehne, a son of the 1876 + Baron

50

Denil Eskeles and Miss Keile, received ddo. Vienna, 1 March; 1879 the Austrian nobility with "Edler von N later became k Oberst and married a Baroness T Thinn von male

266. von Lenz. July 3, 1836 in Warsaw

born Leon Ladislaus Bielecki, received ddo.

Gotha, 17 May 1831 under the name "von Lenz"

the ducal Saxe-Coburg-Gotha barony.

He is the son-in-law of Mr. von Kronenberg.

(See there.) His brother Severin Heinrich Lowenstein, received according to the decree of the Duke of Saxony's State Ministry riums ddo. Coburg, 12 May 1883 Name change to "Lenz" and became ddo. Gotha, 7 February 1884

Duke of Saxecoburgygothaiych Baron.

267. von Leon. The Imperial Council, Tradey

Court assessor, commercial councillor, Reichsratsabgeor daneter, head of the wholesale company "Jacques Leon Söhne in Vienna", Gustav Leon, received the Austriany on 5 June 1876 in Vienna.

Imperial knighthood. A Miss von Lützow married into this family.

268. Léon of Wernburg. Julius Lehn, Bey

Owner of the Imperial and Royal Privileged Mechanical Wood and Sheep Wool Factory in Wernstadt, Member of the Pery

manenzeommiysion im kk Handelsminiuterium, Gemzindey and district representative committee, received the Austrian knighthood with "von Wernburg" on April 28th, married Hermine Pollak von Rudin and is 9th No.

Born in Vienna in 1842.

269. by Le yyer. The 11th of November 1817 in Warsaw

Léwenystein, née Stanislaus Leyyer, banker in Wafry yhow, Royal Bavarian Consul General, Grand Ducal Saxon Consul, Consul of the Republic of Peru, Trade

Machine Translated by Google

judge, stock exchange elder, received on 13 February (grant of arms: 27

March) 1876 the ducal yaxenymeiningiychen

Barons and 29 July 1876 Imperial Russian An- d recognition of the same. He died on March 23, 1890 in Warsaw. His eldest son Leon, Dr. med., received in Ems, 27 June 1877 Royal

Prussian approval for 51

Carrying the title of Baron, his second son Kasimir, he: held 13 February 1877
Royal Saxon recognition of the Baron status, his fourth son Johann was ddo.

Brussels, 20 September 1877, received the Belgian baronship. Stanislaus's brother, Sigismund Karl Noël Leyyer, born in Warsaw on 21 August 1818, received the papal title of count on 28 November 1871 in Rome, which was confirmed in Spain on 18 February 1884 in Madrid and recognized in the Duchy of Saxe-Meiningen on 18 June 1887 in Meiningen. He married Laura, widowed Countess of Dunin-Borkowska, née Countess Krayicka of Siecin.

270. Levay von Kiytelek. Heinrich Levay, insurance director and representative of the Israelite community in Peyt, received the Hungarian nobility "von Kiytelek" on August 25, 1868.

271. Levi. Baron Dr. Giorgio Enrico von Levi in Florence

married Baroness Nina von Worms in 1880.

The brothers GiacomoyGiorgio and Angelo-Adolfo Levi in Venice received from King Victor Emmanuel of Sta: lien 10 April 1864 the baronage in the primogeniture of both lines.

272. von Levitay Rechts. Born in Mainz in 1826

As the son of the Hessian Court Councillor Johann Heinrich Levita and Elisabeth Jacquer, Friedrich Heinrich Karl Levita, Dr. juris, Grand Ducal Hessian Privy Councillor, received the Grand Ducal Hessian nobility with "rights" on 4 February 1869. He was later assigned to the German Embassy in Paris and died on 13 September 1884 in Lucerne, leaving no children from his marriage to Baroness Karoline von Weile.

273. Lewi. The Doctor of Medicine DM Lewi, received the nobility on 31 December 1831 as a Russian State Councillor.

274. von Lieb. The retired Imperial and Royal Major, Jakob
Lieb, received the Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von" on February 23, 1890.

*) The royal French lieutenant in the Royal Bavarian Regiment Louis Levi became a Baron of the Palatinate in June 1778, but is probably not a Jew.

4*

Do.
180

Machine Translated by Google

275. von Lieben. The "Zérfenrath of the Vienna Stock

Exchange Chamber, and Director of the Austrian-Leopold Lieben, born in 1835, was granted Austrian nobility on 13 May 1877 (diploma on 5 February 1891). His daughter Ida married the Viennese private lecturer Franz Brentano (died Tremezzo).

276. Liebermann von Wahlenndorf. The pensioner and homeowner in Berlin, Adolf Liebermann, became an Austrian knight with the title "von Wahlenndorf" on March 14, 1873, and received Prussian permission to bear the nobility on September 10, 1873.

277. von Liebenberg de Zyittin. Ignaz (before baptism lyrael) Liebmann, born 1772, priv.

Wholesaler in Vienna, received on 9 August (diploma 11 October) 1817 the Austrian nobility with "von Liebenberg" and on 21 September 1817 Hungarian endowment, together with

Awarded the title "de Zyittin", he became an Austrian knight on May 28, 1829, and died June 10, 1844 in Vienna. His second son,

Leopold Franz, born in 1800 in Vienna, Director of the Imperial and Royal Privileged National Bank, received the Austrian title "von Zýittin" on March 16, 1840. Count

Wallafried Vetter von Lilienberg, Baron Joh. von Bruck, Katharina von Amberg, Noble Karl von Anthoine, the former minister Knight Johann von Chlumecky, Noble Pauline von Herz, Knight Gustav Plentzner von Scharneck, and Marie von Ziolecka. A member of the family, Alfred, fell in a duel in Paris on October 24, 1879.

278. von Lindheim. The grandchildren of the merchant

Abraham Levi in Breslau, the brothers Alfred and Ernst Lindheim in Vienna, partners of the large

Iron and Commission firm Lindheim and Company, received on November 9, 1860 (with the highest resolution on September 18, 1860) the Austrian nobility because of the merits of their father (Hermann Dietrich Lindheim, born in 1790 in Breslau, Royal Prussian Privy Commerzienrath, died March 11, 1860 in Vienna), which on July 29

53

1861 was recognized by the King of Prussia, who—

She raised her brother Wilhelm Hermann to the nobility on the same day. Alfred von Lindheim became an Austrian knight on November 30, 1877. Louise von Angeli, the noble Clarisa, and Mathilde von Vivenot married into this family.

279. von Lippmann. The factory owner Leopold Lippmann in Vienna became an Austrian knight on May 6, 1872.

280. Lippmann von Liyyingen. The wholesaler Joseph Lippmann in Vienna became an Austrian knight with the title "von Liyyingen" on December 15, 1868. Eugenie Lippy mann, Edle von LiyVingen, married the knight Alfred von Wurzbach on May 21, 1874.

Machine Translated by Google

281. von Livio. The banker in St. Petersburg, Franz Stephan

Livio, became a Bavarian knight on June 2, 1814, and died without sons on April 24, 1819. His wife was Baroness Clementine von Bode; his daughter married Baron Ernst von Kramer in Bavaria.

282. von Lébenstein. Alexander Robert Lébeny

ytein, grandson of a Jewish banker in Lübben, Lord of Lohya, received the Prussian nobility on July 15, 1839.

His son married Countess Marie von Einsiedel.

Il. Marie von Tumpling, his other son Elisay

Beth von Rathenow. Louise von Muschwitz (presumably the wife of the nobleman) also married into the family.

(See M. von Janecki, Herold 1889, No. 6.

283. Loebenstein von Aigenhorst. The 1798-born Imperial and Royal Medical Officer Dr. Jakob Loebenstein became an Austrian Knight with the title "von Aigenhorst" on August 25, 1869, and died on July 16, 1875, with his remains in his grave.

layyung of sons.

284. Lopes. Mayay Lopes, Esquire of Jamaica, Member of Parliament, became an English Baronet on 5 October 1805. His sister's son, Ralph Franco, who succeeded him as Baronet, adopted the name "Lopes" instead of the previous name "Franco" by royal permission. His second son, Heinrich, born in 1827, rich Karl Lopes, became an English knight.

285. von Löw. The Imperial and Royal Major Johann Low received the Austrian nobility title "Edler von" in Vienna on March 12, 1885.

286. von Léwenberg. The Imperial Section Councillor Otto Lowenberg became an Austrian Knight on July 18, 1881.

287. von Léwenthal. Jakob Johann Léwenthal, wholesaler and director of the National Bank in Vienna, he: held the Austrian nobility with "Edler von" in Vienna, May 2, 1823, and became an Austrian knight in Vienna, August 16, 1830. Knight Johann von Löwenthal, (born February 13, 1891 in Paris), retired field marshal, held the Austrian baronship in Vienna, November 24, 1865 (diploma in Vienna, April 2, 1871).

was preserved. His wife was Aloyse von Wylezynska, and his two sons were Duke Louis Decazes and of Glücksburg, Count Marie-François-Négus Théodoric-Antoine Gouy d'Arcy, and Ludovic Charles Maro-Hippolyte Héabert, Marquis de Beauvoir. Duke Decazes is, through his mother, a great-grandson of Princess Wilhelmine of Nassau-Saarbrücken.

288. Löwenthal. Guytav Lowenthal, Doctor of Medicine, son of Joseph, was ennobled on April 29, 1848, as a Russian State Councillor.

Machine Translated by Google

289. von Löwenthal. The Imperial Ministerial Councillor Maximilian Lowenthal became an Austrian Knight in Vienna on July 31, 1863, and an Austrian Baron on February 11, 1867, in Vienna. His daughter-in-law is Baroness Anna Maroicic von Madonna del Monte.

290. Löwenthal von Linau. The wholesaler and director of the Creditanstalt in Vienna, Joseph Michael Löwenthal, born in 1796 in AychaUenburg, was made an Austrian knight with

"von Linau." He died on July 17, 1872. Count Oskar Griy Maud d'Oryay married Betty Lowenthal von Lin au, née Juraneck, on 5 February 1877.

291. Lonyada y Lonyada, (recognized in England as a Baron). Isaac Baron Baruh Duke of Lonyada ny Lonyada, married to Lydia Baruh y Lonyada, had a son Emanuel Baruh, Duke of Lonyada y Lonyada, who married Honorine Scholaytique Lezenne on 8 June 1862 in Payyy.

292. Lutynski. In Lithuania, Theodor Lutynski was ennobled in 1764. (M. von Janecki, cit. loco.)

293. Lyzynski. In Lithuania, Franz and Ludwig Yyzinsfi were ennobled in 1764 (ibid.).

294. by Machiels–Clinbourg. Jules Machiels, a banker in Paris, born on September 30, 1847 in Amsterdam, received the Saxony degree on August 8, 1884.

CoburgyGothayic baronial estate as “von Machiels–Cliny bourg.” He is the son-in-law of Baron Jakob von Landau.

295. Magayiner. The Imperial Ruyyiyic State Councilor Dr.

Marcus Magayiner received the Ruyiyiyic hereditary nobility on December 17, 1837.

296. von Magnus. The banker in Berlin, Friedrich Martin

Magnus, a baptized Jew, born November 7, 1798, and February 17, 1859, received Prussian nobility on March 2, 1853, and Prussian baronship on December 18, 1868. His first wife was Fanny Frankel, his second Henriette von Prittwitz und Gauron.

His son-in-law is Anton von L'EYytocg, his daughters-in-law are Baroness Helene von Brunnow, Marie von Witzleben and Caroline von Zeyschau.

The daughter of the latter and his son married Karl von Prittwitz and Gauron. The brother of the nobleman Friedrich Martin von Magnus, Heinrich Gustav Magnus, born on May 2, 1802 in Berlin, was a professor at the University of Berlin. He received the Württemberg nobility in 1842 and died on April 5, 1870.

297. Magnus. Wolf Magnus became an English baronet.

298. Majowski. In Lithuania, Anton Majowski was ennobled in 1764. (M. von Janecki, citato loco.)

299. von Malchus. Karl August Malchus, born on 26

September 1770 in Zweibrücken, received the title of Baron from King Jerome of Westphalia on 15 August 1810 (diploma 30 November, sealed 14 December 1811).

Machine Translated by Google

56

and as "Count of Marienrode" on June 9, 1813, the rank of count, which, however, was not recognized in Württemberg after Napoleon's fall. As Royal Württemberg Finance President, he received the title of Baron from the Württemberg government on February 26, 1818.

He was confirmed as a prince and died on October 23, 1840. Mocking songs about him can be found in Molitor, "History of a German Princely Town", Zweibrücken 1885, pages 573 and 574. His daughters-in-law were all middle-class. However, Heinrich Arand von Ackerfeld, Bertha Ganzstuck von Hammersberg, A. v. Anger, Anna Arand von Ackerfeld, Carl Fischer

von Weikersthal, Mariana Kellner von Kdllenstein, Baron Ludwig von Pechmann, and Baron Alfred von Ellrichhausen married into this family.

300. Mallner von Maryegg. The Imperial and Royal Major

General Hermann Mallner, born in 1828, received the Austrian nobility with the name "von Maryegg" on August 6, 1882, and died on December 9, 1887, in Vienna.

301. von Markowski. In Lithuania, the Markowski family the nobility in 1764. (M. v. Janecki, cit. loco.) N

302. by MannlichyLehmann. The Cityy

Karl Lehmann, retired court judge in Berlin (born 1889), was granted Prussian nobility on November 23, 1864, as "von MannlichyLehmann." His wife was Adelaide von Mannlich, her son-in-law Count Gustav von Wartsleben. (M. v. Janecki, Herold 1889, No. 6.)

303. von Marx. Ludwig (Louis) Heinrich Friedrich Marx, administrative director of the Austrian Land Credit Institute in Frankfurt am Main, became an Austrian Knight on March 15, 1867. His wife is Baroness Mathilde

Haber von Linsberg.

304. by Marx. Dr. Karl Marx, Professor at Polytechnic in Stuttgart, received the Wirttemberg in 1877

Bergisch personal nobility.

305. von Mauthner. Guytav Mauthner, Direky torialyDeputy of the Austrian Creditanyt for Trade and commerce, became an Austrian knight in Vienna on January 22, 1884.

57

306. von Mauthner. Dr. Philipp Mauthner, born in 1835, became an Austrian knight on September 14, 1887, and died on November 28, 1887.

in Vienna, leaving behind 3 sons and 1 daughter.

307. Mauthner von Mautstein. The kk

Regimental doctor in the 39th Infantry Regiment, Dr. med. Ludwig Mauthner, was baptized and was born on 10 January 1850

Austrian knight with "von Mautstein" (not Mauthy

Machine Translated by Google

ytein). His son-in-law is Knight Franz von Littrow.

308. Mauthner von Zyorzynski. The peny. kk District

Captain Matthaus Mauthner, received on 28 August 1886 (Diploma, ddo. Vienna, 4 November 1886) the Austrian imperial nobility with "Edler von Zyorzynski."

309. Mautner von Markhof. The Great Indu-yttrielle Adolf Ignaz Mautner (of Jewish descent), husband of Julie Kadiych, the sister of the ennobled Kadich, received the Austrian knighthood on 14 May 1872 with

"von Markhof". He was born on October 26, 1801, in Smiritz in Bohemia.

Baron

Ernst von Haynau, a great-grandson of Elector Wily

Helm | of HeyyenyKayyel, Baron Edith Sunytenau of Schitzenthal, Barons Otto and Rudolf of Wachter, Elye of Buol, Elye Fýcher of Ankern, Noble Peter of Reininghaus, Géza of Szilvinyi.

310. von Mayer. The Commerzienrath A. Mayer in Coblenz and his brother A. Mayer in Frankfurt am Main received the Coburg Free Order at the end of 1879

herrnytstand. g

311. Mayer von Alyé6-Ruszbach. Ignaz Johann

Mayer, a citizen of Eisenstadt, received the Hungarian nobility with "von Alyé6-Ruszbach" in Vienna on September 23, 1825. His sons-in-law were the Lords von Haanen and von Löhner.

312. Mayer von Csenger. The landowner Salomon Mayer received the Hungarian nobility with "von Csenger" on June 21, 1876. N

313. by Menasce. The banker in Alexandria, Jacob Levy Menasce, was often:

58

Imperial Knight and Austrian Baron on January 31, 1875.

314. von Mendelssohn. The Royal Prussian Commercial Councillor, Franz MendelssohnyBartholdy in Berlin, received the Prussian nobility on May 4, 1888.

315. Michaelis. Hieronym Michaelis, son of Friedrich, Collegiate Councillor and first professor at the Military Hospital, received Polish nobility on August 19 (31), 1847. (M. von Janecki, Quarterly of the Herald 1888, page 176.)

316. Michalowski. In Lithuania, Johann Michalowski was ennobled

in 1764. (M. von Janecki, eit. loco.)

317. Milkuychitz von Milewsky. Stanislaus MilkuYchitz, a baptized Jew and wholesale merchant in Krakow, was granted the nobility "Edler von Milewsky" in Vienna on October 12, 1803. His descendants write themselves simply "von Miliesti." The family is related by marriage to the Barons

"von Haugwitz."

318. von Minerbi. Born in 1782, the Grand Dukey

Machine Translated by Google

dealer in Triezt Kaliman Minerbi, was born 24 June 1850
Austrian knight and died March 20, 1878 as Vicey

President of the Trieste Chamber of Commerce. His husbandy yon is Count Leo von Hiryschl.

319. The Israelite religious community born in 1799y

Mayer Rachmiel Miyes, who headed the family, received the Austrian nobility with "Edler von" on July 13, 1881 and died on February 28, 1891. His son Johann, born in 1820, + April 22, 1887 in Lemberg, had descendants.

320. Montefiore. Montefiore, an Italian Jew married to a Jewess from Livorno, came to London in 1752. His son Joseph, a straw hat merchant, married Rachel, daughter of Abraham Mocatta. Their son Moses, born on October 14, 1784, became an English baronet in 1846 and died on July 28, 1885, at the age of 100, leaving no children from his marriage to

Judith, daughter of Levy Barent Cohen (born 1862). The grandson of his brother, who was married to a Rothschild, Abraham Franeis Montefiore, also became a baronet on New Year's Day 1886.

321. from Morpurgo. On August 10, 1853, the director of the Austrian Lloyd's Company in

59

Triest Elio Morpurgo, born 17 January 1804, + 17 August 1876 the Austrian knighthood and 12 January 1867

the Austrian baronial class. His sons-in-law were Count Cahen d'Anvers and the Imperial Knight master, general agent of Lloyd and Brazilian consul in Trieste, Georg von Hauszer.

322. von Morpurgo. The banker and wholesaler in Trieste, Josef Morpurgo, became an Austrian Baron on March 19, 1869. He was born on February 4, 1816, in Trieste.

323. Morpurgo von Nilma. Born in 1829 in Gorizia, the son of Moyes Samuel Morpurgo, who died in 1853, and Rachele, née Carl Marcus Morpurgo, a banker in Trieste, he became an Austrian knight with the surname "von Nilma" on February 14, 1869. Alix Eleonore von Morpurgo, wife of Count Karl Strayoldo since 1876, probably belongs to this family.

324. from Mosenthal. On January 14, 1821

in Kaýýel as the son of 1850 + Herz Moyenthal, born librarian of the kk Cultusministerium and poet, Dr. Salomon Hermann Moyenthal, became 10 March 1871 Austrian knight and died 17 February 1877 in Vienna, childless. His wife was Noble Caroline von Weil. His stepbrother, Julius Moyenthal, a wholesale merchant and Imperial Consul in Cape Town, became an Austrian Knight on August 1, 1874, and died on September 24, 1880.

if childless.

325. von Nayyau. The editor-in-chief and publisher—Adolf Nayyau, editor of the press in Vienna, was made an Austrian knight on 22 August 1881 in Vienna.

326. von Neuwall. Marcus Leidesdorfer, born in 1754, imperial privileged wholesaler and fieldy

Hospital contractor, Zalantha received the Austrian nobility on September 4, 1817 (diploma from Vienna, October 30) with the title "Edler von Neuwall" and permission to call himself by the title alone. He died on January 26.

1838 in Vienna. His sons Samuel August (born 1782, + 29 December 1851) and Ignaz (born 1784, 75 May 1856 in Vienna), were born. Vienna, 28 February

60

In 1834 (by the highest resolution of Vienna, January 17, 1834), he was admitted to the rank of knighthood of the Kingdom of Bohemia. Marcus's grandson, Knight Albert von Neuwall, Imperial Ministerial Councillor and head of the Finance Ministry, born in 1808, was also admitted.

Vienna, 19 November 1868 the Austrian Baron-

He died on May 13, 1870. His mother-in-law sons are Count Gottfried von Auersperg and Knight Edgar Kohl von Kohlenegg.

327. Niewiarowski. In Lithuania, Andreas Manin

Niewiarowski was ennobled in 1764. (M. von Jannecki, -citato loco.) N f

328. Nizielski. In Lithuania, the Nizielski family was granted nobility in 1764.

329. von Normann. Born on 21 May 1802 in Siegfried Normann, a banker born in Danzig and later a pensioner in Berlin, was baptized on May 9, 1861 and received Prussian nobility in Berlin on December 28, 1863. He died on April 20, 1874. From his marriage with Karoline Wulff Levin, called Halle, had a daughter, Marie Philippine, whose husband Erik von Witzleben, as a royal Prussian captain, died on June 27, 1866 at Trautenau. The sons of this marriage were Erik and

Kurt von Witzleben, on August 2, 1876, received royal Prussian permission to establish the Witzleben Norman name and coat of arms association. (Brunner Taschenbuch, 1889, page 248.)

330. Nowakowski. In Lithuania, in 1764, Johann

Nowakowski the nobility. (M. von Jannecki, cit. loco.)

331. von Obermayer. Karl Obermayer, a retired colonel of the Bavarian Landwehr, was born in 1812 and received the Württemberg personal nobility in 1869 and died on January 13, 1889, in Vienna. His sons-in-law were the Imperial and Royal Consul in Constantinople, Stephan von Kwasai, and Count Hirschl-Minerbi in Rome. He was President of the association "Niederwald."

332. Ofenheim von Pontauxin. Victor Ofenheim, born in Vienna in 1820 as the son of a wholesaler who died in 1851, was General

Director of the Lemberg

60

Chernivtsi Railway, received the Austrian

Machine Translated by Google

and knighted with "von Pontauxin" and died on October 11, 1886 in Vienna. His wife was Sophie Pfuyterichmid von Hardtenstein, and his son-in-law was Knight Karl von Boleslawski, Imperial Consul General in Galatz.

333. von Oppenfeld. The brothers Georg Moritz and Karl Daniel

Oppenseld (originally Oppenheim) received the Prussian nobility on May 21, 1859, and the latter on October 18, 1861. The former died in Nice on May 25, 1861. Kurt von Leyyer, Leopold von Buggenhagen, and, in 1876, First Lieutenant von Hagen in the 3rd Dragoon Regiment married into this family.

334. von Oppenheim. Friedrich Wilhelm Oppenheim, son of Salomon Oppenheim and Henriette Bondi, Imperial Russian Collegiate Aesthetics, was born in Hamburg on October 5, 1799. He received Russian nobility and died on March 16, 1852, in Achern in the Grand Duchy of Baden.

His wife was Maria Elisabeth Oppenheim. Dr. med.

Alexander Oppenheim, Imperial Rusyan State Councilor, Excellency, Senior Physician at the St. Petersburg Arsenal, received Rusyan nobility confirmation on 13 Auguyt 1879.

335. von Oppenheim. The banker Simon Oppeny home in Cologne, Royal Prussian Secret Commercial Councilor, born May 21, 1803 in Cologne, 7 December 24, 1880, received March 18, 1867 (diploma April 20, 1868) the Austriany

Reichish Barons and 14 February 1868 the Royal Prussian permission to lead the Baron-

yt des and yhis brother Abraham, Commerzienrath in Cologne, received the Prussian Baron on the same dayy

yt. Count Gisbert von Brey married into this family

dow, Baron Georg de Plancy, Alexander von Frankeny berg and Ludwigsdorf, Baron Felix von Kaskel (according to M. v.

Janecki in the Herold 1889 No. 6, also a member of the de Landes

family).

336. Baron Armand (or Hermann) Oppeny

heim, married to Antoniette Chabert, had 3 daughters, of whom Marie married Baron Joyeph de Baye in 1877, Helene Marie Erneytine married Henri Alfons Louis Marquis in 1883, Bernhard de St. Jean Lentilhac and Marie Aline

62

Genovefa married Count Ghislain Valentin D'Eftourmel in 1888. | don't know where the baron title comes from.

It must have been awarded between 1883 and 1888, in the latter year Baron Armand was dead.

337. von Oppenheimer. The landowner and Imperial Council member Ludwig Oppenheimer in Bohemia received the Austrian knighthood on July 25, 1868, and the Austrian baronship on January 18, 1879.

338. In Lithuania, in 1764, the Orłowski family received the nobility. (M. v. Jancccki, cit. loco.)

339. Ornystein von Hértystein. The Imperial and Royal

Colonel of the 34th Infantry Regiment, Aurel Ornystein, received this. Vienna, 7 November 1872 the Austrian nobility with "Edler von Hértstein".

Machine Translated by Google

340. Oscheyko. The baptized Jew Stanislaus Oscheyko received the nobility on May 6, 1499, from King John Albert of Poland at the request of Grand Duke Alexander of Lithuania. (M. von Janecki, Herold 1890, p. 98.)

341. In 1764, Michael Oswiey received litanies

. imsf i the nobility. (M. v. Jancki, cit. loco.)

342. Oettinger-Wallenstein. The Russian State Councillor and Gey, born on 17 September 1790 in GroByGlogau
ycruiser of Rio de Janeiro, Joyeph Jul ius Oettingery

Wallenystein, received the Ruyyiyiye nobility, but ended his life by suicide on June 24, 1843.

343. von Parente. The wholesaler in Trieste, Aron lyaak

Parente, born on May 21, 1775, received the Austrian nobility with

"Edler von" on December 6, 1847 and died on May 12, 1853. His and his wife

Regina Morpurgo's son, Noble Salomon von Parente, born 13 August

1808, Chamber of Commerce President, Dukey

lich Braunschweig General Consul and wholesaler in Trieÿt, received the Austrian Freey on 27 October 1873

his sons-in-law were Knight Maye of Dormitzer and Knight CeYare of Perugia.

344. von Parente. The private citizen Emil Parente received the Austrian nobility with "Edler von" on June 2, 1880.

345. Pawlowic z. In Lithuania, Peter received in 1764

Pawlowicz the nobility. (M. v. Janecki, citato loco.) 63

346. Pawlowski. In Lithuania, Kasimir Pawlowski was ennobled in 1734 (ibid.).

347. by PereirayArnystein. The one from a

Heinrich Pereira, born on 22 July 1773 and from a Portuguese, baptized Jewish family, married on 19 September 1802 Henriette, daughter of Nathan

Adam Freiherr v. Arny

ftein, was founded on February 16, 1812 under the name:
"Pereira-Arnystein" in the Austrian Frey

He was raised to the lordship and died on 23 September 1835 in Baden near Vienna. Countess Seraphine Amadé de Varkony and Count Felix Arz von Arzio married into this family.

Wayegg, Count Franz von CoroniniyCronberg, Count Moritz

and Countess Victoria von Fries, Countess Henriette von Lariysch-

Moenich, Countess Dorothea Széchenyi, Baroness Katharina von

Diller, Baron Peter Pirquet von Cesenatico, Baron Felix

Skrbensky von Hriyatie, Baroness Anna Vranynecy

zanyyDobrinovic. In Saxony lives a noble family of Pereira.

Whether the same one into which the freey

It could not be determined whether Maria Thereye and Clara von Kochtizky, who married, belonged to a line with a previous family.

348. Peretz. Yegor Peretz, son of Abraham Peretz, emperor of a Spanish Jewish family.

Machine Translated by Google

Russian Privy Councillor, Member of the Reichy Councillor in the Department of Laws, received the Russian hereditary nobility on January 24, 1873. He has a son and a daughter.

349. of Perugia. Knight Ceyare of Perugia, bank director in Pisa, is son-in-law of Baron Salomon von Parente.

350. Pfeifer von Hochwalden. Born in 1829 born timber merchant Joyeph Pfeifer, became an Austrian knight with "von Hochwalden" on December 11, 1874 and died on May 12, 1885 in Vienna.

f 351. von PfeiUer. Born on 23 May 1822 in Stuttgart as the son of the 1842 deceased royal Wirttemberg Bergisch HoUactor, Banker and Court Councillor Marx PfeiUer and grandson of the 1766 born and 14 February

64

Ezechiell PfeiUer, royal Württemberg and royal Prussian court agent who died in Weikersheim in 1827, born Joyeph M. PfeiUer, received the Austrian knighthood on November 4, 1872, and the Württemberg personal nobility in 1873.

352. PfeiUer von Weiyyenegg. The GroBgrundy

Owner Karl PfeiUer received 1 April 1887 (diploma 25.
April 1887) the Austrian nobility with "Edler von Weiyyeny egg". N

353. PfeiUer von Wellheim. Heinrich PfeiUer, traffic director of the private Southern Railway, became an Austrian knight with the surname

"von Wellheim" on July 21, 1884.

354. von der Pfordten. Born on 11 September 1811 as the son of the Royal Bavarian District Judge Heinrich Ludwig von der Pfordten and Crescentia, née Eder, née Dr. Ludwig Carl Heinrich von der Pfordten, Royal Bavarian State Minister a. D., he achieved the Bavarian Baron status on 11 August 1854.

and died on August 18, 1880. At the same time, he also received renewal of the supposedly old nobility of the family. He claimed to be descended from the old Saxon family of the Porte, whose coat of arms was also awarded to him.

In truth, he came from the Jewish von der Porten family, which still exists in Hamburg.

355. von Philippsborn. The brothers Karl Alexander

Wilhelm Max, Director of the Foreign Office in Berlin (born October 4, 1815, died December 24, 1885 in Wiesbaden), Karl Friedrich Eugen, retired Royal Prussian Captain, owner of the manor in Michelsdorf (born 1817, + 7 April 1880) and Karl Ludwig Bernhard Richard

Philippsborn, Royal Prussian General

Post Director (retired) (born 1818, 7 July 1884 in Berlin), sons of the secret legation councilor and editor-in-chief of the Prussian State Newspaper, Johann Karl Heinrich Philippsy, born in Stettin in 1784 to Jewish parents born, received the Prussian nobility on 31 July 1865. Are also the on 23 July 1843 by Prince Heinrich LXXII.

Machine Translated by Google

von ReuByEbersdorfyLobenystein in the baronial rank hey

hobenen of Jewish descent?

65

356. Phillips. Benjamin Samuel Phillips, son of Samuel Phillips, born in 1811, was Lord Mayor of London in 1865/66 and became a Knight of England in 1866.

357. von Picciotto. The Imperial and Royal Consul General in Syria, Raphael Picciotto, was created an Austrian Knight in Vienna, 18 November 1806. The Imperial and Royal Consul General von Picciotto died in Aleppo on October 27, 1858. His son was Consul General of the Grand Duchy of Tuscany there.

Knight Moiyé by Picciotto it 1890 kk General: |

in Aleppo.

358. Pick von NemesyD6mdlk. Sigismund Pick, estatey man and large landowner in KiByZell in Hungary, received Hungarian nobility with "von NemesyD6mélk" in Vienna on May 8, 1888. He has two sons and two daughters.

359. by Poliakou. Born in April 1888 in St.

Samuel Poliakou, son of Salomon, Imperial Russian State Councillor in 1875, who died in Petersburg, and his brother Lazarus, Imperial Russian State

Councillor in 1883, received the Russian nobility. The former's daughter, Zenaide, married Baron James von Hirsch

on Gereuth.

360. Pollak von Borkenau. The wholesaler and municipal councilor Moritz Pollak in Vienna became an Austrian knight with the surname
"von Borkenau" on January 21, 1874. He is director of the Lower Austrian Escomptegesellschaft; his daughter Risa, the wife of Eduard Chmelarz, is custodian of the Court Library.

361. Pollak von Klarwill. The real estate owner and writer lyidor

Pollak in Vienna became an Austrian knight with the surname "von Klarwill"
on August 14, 1881.

362, Pollak von Klumberg. The retired Imperial and Royal Field Marshal Lieutenant Alexander Pollak became an Austrian Knight

with the surname "von Klumberg" on March 22, 1867.

He was born in 1821 and died on 27 February 1889, behindy left a son.

363. Pollak von Rudin. Aron (Adolf M.) Pollak, born in 1817, royal privileged sealing wax, soap and 66

Zundwaarenfabrikant became Austrian on 1 February 1869)
Reichish knight with "von Rudin" and died on June 1, 1884.

His sons-in-law are Julius Leon von Werny

burg and lyidor Guttmann Edler von Gelyei.

Machine Translated by Google

364. Ponte Reno von Ponnrode. Abraham Ponyen (alias

V Bunzel), a Jew from Mainz or Cologne, papal banquier, received the nobility on May 31, 1796, by resolution of the congregation and on December 6, 1800, by motu proprio of the Pope. His son Ludwig Joseph, born September 30, 1798, ducat-

Saxonycoburggygothaiych secret legation councilor, died 14 June 1869, received 30 June 1847 as "Ponte Reno de Ponnrode" the Roman nobility and the grand duca

Tuscan Barons 17 February 1848 and 10 Noy

vember 1856 the ducal Saxe-Coburg-Gothayian Freey herrnitand. His wife was Emilie von Zdekauer, his son-in-law Baron Friedrich von Vil lecz.

The "Ponte Reno" refers to the Rhine bridge near Cologne or Mainz.

365. The wholesaler and primator of the Bohemian
Trade Jews Joachim Popper received ddo. Vienna 1 April

In 1790 he was given the hereditary Austrian nobility title "Edler von" and died on March 10, 1795 in Vienna.

366. Popper von Podhrady. The Großgrundbesitzer
Owner Leopold Popper (D 2 March 1886) received 23 Sepy

tember 1869 the Hungarian nobility with "von Podhrady" and 16 December 1882 the Austrian baronship.

His sons-in-law are Heinrich Goldberger of Buda and Knight Robert of Biedermann-

Turony, his daughters-in-law Bianca Marcheya Marcheyi de Castrone and Hermine von Hahn.

367. Porges of Portheim. The Gey

Brothers Moyes Porges, factory owner, member of the municipal council in Smichow and Israelite cult-

Municipal representative in Prague, director of the Josefstadt Nursery, member of the board of the Prague Cotton Printing Company (born 1781 7 May 21, 1870 in Prague/Schmichow) and Juda (Leopold) Porges, house and real estate owner, city councilor of the royal 67

Capital Prague, 110 of the Israelitic Cultusreprezentanten

tanz (born 1784, 7 10 January 1869 in Prague) received 5 June 1841
The Austrian nobility with "Edler von Portheim" Eduard Porges Edler von Portheim, the son of Juda, Vice-President of the Prague Chamber of Commerce was baptized and became 5 July 1879 Austrian Knight.

368. von Posner. Karl Ludwig (Louis) Posner, stationery and drawing props dealer, 195 representative of the Islamic community in Pest, became an Austrian knight on January 22, 1874.

369. In Lithuania, Thomas and Anton Poziomkowski received the nobility in 1764, as did

370. Joyef Boynansti and

371. Andreas Przewlocki. (M. von Janecki,

Machine Translated by Google

citato loco.)

372. Rachel von Lowmansegk. The brothers Johann

Christoph, Johann Thomas, Banguier in Dresden, Paul Moritz and Georg Mathias Rachel, whose mother belonged to the Hanseemann von Léwmansegh family—

heard, received the knightly Imperialy on 30 June 1744 nobility and 28 December 1747, Electoral Saxon recognition of the same. John Thomas's sons-in-law were Count John Roman of Kaysersmark and Osolinsky, a grandson of August the Strong, King of Poland, and a Lord of Sellentin.

373. von RaUalovich. On 21 August 1877, David von RaUalovich, born in 1824, died in Odessa.

374. Rapoport von Porod a. Born on 15 July

1840 in Tarnow, Doctor of Law, Court and Court Advocate in Vienna, Member of the Imperial Council—

On July 13, 1890, Minister Arnold Rapoport received the Austrian nobility with “von Poroda” (diploma dated ddo.

Vienna, 6 September 1890).

375. von Ra yt. The Jew Ferdinand Martin Liebmann, whose mother was born Salomon from Berlin, born 28 January 1781, received as owner of the Lordship of Unter-Faal in Styria on

6 March 1830 the Bavarian Indigenate and on 12 March

5*

68

In 1830, he received the Bavarian nobility with "Edler von." He received the Bavarian baronship under the name "Rayt, Herr zu Faal" on May 15, 1831, and died on December 14, 1863, in Coburg. His wives were Noble Johanna von Sonnenfeld, Thereyia Louise von Konenberg, and Thereyia Lesczynska von Skarbek; his daughters-in-law Noble Maria Sophia von Inzenfels and

Noble Johanna von Gindershofen, and his son-in-law Gottfried ven ForyteryPhilippsberg. The daughter of his eldest son married Koloman von Mixitych.

Ernst

376. de Ratis bonne Hirych Beer, the grandfather of the converts Marie Théodore and Alphonye Marie de Ratis bonne, a rich Jew from Medelsy home in Alsace was ennobled by King Louis XVI.

den. (M. von Janecki, Herold 1889, No. 6.)

377. von Reinach. Adolf Reinach, head of the firm A.

Reinach and Company, banker in Frankfurt am Main (d. 12 September 1879), received the Italian baronship on 29 March 1866 and, on 12 August 1867, royal Prussian permission to use it according to the law of primogeniture. His daughter-in-law is Alice Lacuése de Ceyyac.

378. by Reuter. July 21, 1821 in Cassel.

born Paul Julius Reuter, telegraph office owner in

Machine Translated by Google

London, received the yachsen-coburgy on 7 September 1871

narrow baronial class.

379. Nipka von Rechthofen. September 29)

Imperial Councillor Adolf Ripka, born on 18 December 1812, received the Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von Rechthofen" on 7 April 1879 and died on 17 February 1884.

380. von Royenberg. The Dutch Consul General in Vienna, Friedrich Royenberg, became an Austrian Knight on August 16, 1871.

381. Royenfeld. On August 24 (September 5), 1839,

Nicolaus RoYenfeld received the Russian nobility from his uncle Markus Freyberg. (M. v. Janecki, Herold, 1889, No. 6.)

382. by Royenthal Otto Bernhard Karl

Royenthal, Land Elder and Manor Owner at Brynny

69

eck, Hannuyek and Polom received the Prussians on 3 May 1869

yhian nobility. (M. von Janecki, Herold 1889, No. 6.) He was born on May 3, 1823, in Brynneck and died on December 17.

He has been there since 1889. His sons-in-law are Karl von Mitschkey Collande and Eugen von Koppy.

According to the Gothaische Freiherrlichen Taschenbuch 1891,

Page 668 married Floy, born on December 11, 1834

Rentine, daughter of the Land Elder von Royenthal auf Brynneck, Baron Aloys von Pilot-Brynneck. This cannot be a daughter, but only a sister of the Land Elder, and in this case is not of noble birth, assuming that the data given in the 1889, 1890 volume of the Brünner Taschenbuch are correct.*)

383. von Rothermann. The sugar factory owner Daniel Rothermann, born in 1805, received the Austrian knighthood on October 10, 1878 and died January 26, 1890 in Hirm near Wiener-Neujtadt.

384. von Rothmund. December 28, 1801

born Dr. Franz Christoph Rothmund, k. bavarian secret

rath, Obermedieinalrath, received the Bavarian per: yonaladel in 1857, as did his son, the university professor of medicine, Dr. Edmund Rothmund, born on 1 August 1820 in Munich in 1876.

385. von Rothychil d. On 25 September 1816, the bankers in Frankfurt am Main, Any

Selm Mayer and Salomon Mayer Rothschild, as well as on 21 October (diploma 21 May 1817) Carl Mayer and Jakob Rothschild the Austrian nobility. These 4 brothers")

*) Currently Portuguese Consul General in Amytery dam Baron G. Royenthal. The title of Baron comes probably from Portugal.

*) They were sons of the Heyyeney Kayyelyh court agent Mayer Anyseim Rothschild and Gudula, née

Machine Translated by Google

Schnapper, grandson of the merchant Anychel Moyes Rothschild in Frankfurt am Main and a née Lehnich. Female relatives of the Rothschilds are the Beyfuß, Goldschmidt, Monte Fiore, Sichel, and Schnapper families.

70

and a fifth Nathan were added. Vienna, September 29

September 1822 Austrian Baron. A son of Nathan, Baron Antony von Rotyschild, became English in 1846

Jewish Baronet. He was succeeded in 1876 by his new wife, Sir Nathaniel Meyer de Rothschild, as Baronet. Into this richest Jewish family married Alexander Berthier, Prince of Wagram, a cousin of Duchess Marie in Bavaria, and Duke Anton Agenor of mont, the Earl of Roseberry, Elliot York.

Gram-

The fourth son of the Earl of Har dwise. Varon

Raymondo Franchetti, Baron Etienne Guytav Frieys

derich van Zuylen van Nyevelt.

386. Rozen. The Advocat at the Court of Appeal-

Court of the Kingdom of Poland, Adam Rozen received the Polish nobility on July 30 (August 11), 1829. (M. v. Janecki, Vierteljahrsschrift des Herold, 1888, page 177.)

387. Ruby stone. On November 30, 1829 in Vkhvatnets on the border of the governorate

Podolsk and Beyyarabien as the son of Gregor Romya-nowitych Rubinsteyn from Berdichnev and Kalerija Chrytoferewna Léwenysteyn from PrussiansSchlesyen, born Anton Rubinstein, Director of the Conservatorium in St.

Petersburg received as a real State Councilor) the Russian nobility.

388. RuU of Nyilhegy. Jacob RuU ery held 17. December 1887 the Hungarian nobility with "von Nyilhegy.

389. Ruß von RuBthal. lvidor Nuss, kk Rittmeyter and Auditor a. D. received ddo. Vienna, 7th February bruar 1873 the yterreichiy ch knighthood with "von RuBthal."

390. von Salinger. On January 6, 1880, the Imperial Russian Collegiate Councilor Dr. Ludwig von Salinger died in Berlin at the age of 74.

391. Salomon. The Russian medical officer Joseph Salomon, son of Salomon, was ennobled as a Russian State Councillor on 31 August 1849.

392. Salomons. David Salomons (F 1873) the first Jew to become SheriU or Lord Major of Lony

71 don was, Member of Parliament for Greenwich, was born in 1869

Machine Translated by Google

English Baronet. He was succeeded by the son of his deceased brother Philip Salomon, David Lionel, born 28.
June 1851.

393. Salvador. Moses Salvador, who lived in the Hague, received the Dutch nobility on November 23, 1821 (February 20, 1822).

394. Samuelyon. Sir Bernd Samuelyon was 1884 English Baronet.

395. Saporta. The noble family descends from the Spanish

Jewish Saporta family. Their ancestor is Louis de Saporta, a native of Barcelona and physician to King Charles VIII of France. His descendants are related with the Amalric family, de Forbin la Barben, de Gassaud, de Gabrielli de Gubio, de Boyer de Fonscolombe.

The Electoral Palatinate Chamberlain and Captain Anton Auguy

ytin von Saporta received recognition of the rank of count by the Electorate of the Palatinate on 9 September 1768. He was married 1. to Baroness Karoline von Ambotten (a sister: daughter of the second wife of Count

Palatine Gustav Say

muel of Zweibrücken. 2. with Baroness Henrtette von Ga iy

Spitzheim. His son Friedrich (from his second marriage) married |.

Clara von Stetten, 2. Baroness Johanna von Fechenbach, whose only daughter Caroline married Baron Franz von Nolshausen. The brother of

Anton, who married Sophie Nicole de Moreau

Marquis Josef Anton (of Saporta) of Monty

Salier continued the line. In fine descent

married Countess Irene Boyer de Fons Coy

lombe, Countess Roya Marie Amalie von Gayyaud,

Countess Valentine Forbin de Varben, Marie de Cadolle,

Emilie Clotilde Gabrielli de Gubio, Beatrix de Gin eston s,

Amanien de Noailhan, Charlocte Adrienne Jeanne Dompierre

d' Hornoy.

* Born in 1748 in England as the son of Jacob S. and Esther Portella.

72

3%. Sayyoon. The opium dealer Albert Ab-dallah David Sayyoon, son of David Sayyoon, born 1817, who was a member of the legislature from 1868 to 1872 giving council of Bombay, became an English knight in 1872. His son married a Baroness von Rot hy shield.

397. by SchaeUeryVoit. Friedrich Heinrich

Ludwig SchaeUer, born 16 October 1819 in Halbery

ytadt, Lord of Blankenfelde near Treptow, k. prussian Geh. Commerzienrath and publisher, received ddo.

Berlin, 6 May 1865 when "von SchaeUeryVoit" the Prussian shed nobility. Cr yt died on October 20, 1887 in Berlin; his wife was Margarethe Voit, his son-in-law Count Friedrich von Eulenburg.

398. ShaUirov. The Jew Shafir was baptized as Paul in Russia in 1654. His son Paul

Machine Translated by Google

was a translator in the Russian Legation Chancellery. His grandson, Peter, born around 1670, a real Privy Councillor, Imperial Vice-Chancellor, and General Postmaster, became a Russian Baron on May 30, 1710, and died on March 1, 1739. His sons-in-law were Prince Sergei Dolgoroukov, Prince Alexei Gagarin, Prince Vasily Khnovansky, and Count Alexander Golovin.

His son's son married Princess Anna Krapotkin, whose sisters were Princes Nicolai Romodano-Usky-La duiychénsky and Michael Volkénsky.

399. SchauB von Kempfenhausen. Born in 1799, the royal councilor, lawyer in Munich, Dr.

Anton SchauB received the Bavarian nobility with "von Kempfenhausen" on March 6, 1856 and died on September 25, 1867.

The President of the Royal Bavarian Court married into this family.

rian Higher Regional Court, Ferdinand von Hauben

ychmie d, Knight Alfons von MaUei and Laura von Seybold.

400. von Schenk. Adolf Schenk, head of the company "A. Schenk" in Vienna, Director of the Vienna Bank Association,

Exporter, became Austrian in Vienna on August 2, 1872

ycher knight. He married Baroness Johanna von Heil iV genytad t. His daughter Margarethe married 27 May 73

1891 the hereditary count Wilhelm Wurmbrand-Stupy

ach.

401. Schey of Korom la. On 20 September

December 1798 born wholesaler in Güns in Hungary received on 3 March 1859 (diploma 13 May 1859) the Austrian

Imperial nobility with "Edler von Koromla." He died on June 26, 1881, in Baden. Through this diploma, the nobility was extended to his nephew, Friedrich, born March 5, 1815, in Giins. Two special diplomas were issued on May 13, 1859. Uncle and nephew received the Austrian nobility on December 2 and 4, 1863.

Reichisch Ritteryt, Friedrich 25 December 1869 the Austrian Freiherrnyt, which his uncle on 20 Dey December 1871. Baron Friedrich Schey von Korom bla was Grand

Ducal Heyyan Privy Councillor and died on 15 July 1881. Another of the Baron's

Philipp, Karl Schey, industrialist, received on 24 April 1866 (diploma 11 March 1867) the degree awarded to his uncle borrowed knighthood transferred to himself.

402. SchiU. Mayer SchiU, a merchant in Hamburg, received the title of baron from Italy (San Marino?) M. v. Janecki, Herold 1889, No. 6.

403. von Schleyinger. Dr. phil. Guytav Schleyinger received the Austrian knighthood on October 15, 1869.

404. Schleyinger von Benfel d. The kk catering commissioner Robert Schle, born in 1809

yinger became an Austrian knight with "von Benfeld" on August 14, 1867, and died as Imperial High War Commissioner in June 1874, leaving behind sons.

Machine Translated by Google

405. Schmoczner von Meczenzé f. Adolf Schméczer received on 12 May 1886 the Hungarian nobility with "von Meczenzef.

406. Schmulewitsch. Doctor Schmulewitsch was ennobled in 1889 as an Imperial Russian State Councillor. N

407. von SchneideryGlen the Merchant Theodor Schneider in Berlin received 21 February 1882

the Grand Ducal Saxeycoburggygothai Barons and 18 July 1887 name change as "von Schneithe: G ken d."

408. von Schnapper. Mayer Arthur Schnapper, born in 1822 in Frankfurt am Main as the son of the banker Schnapper and Henriette

Worms, who died on 30 July 1879 in Vienna, became an Austrian knight on 30 September 1865 and died on 26 June 1886 as a banker.

quier in Vienna. His younger brother Moritz, born in 1824 in Frankfurt am Main, became head of the M. Schnapper bank, a member of the administrative board of the Austrian Land Administration, the Northwest Railway, and the Bohemian Western Railway. 30 September

tember 1865 Austrian Knight and 10 January 1879 Austrian Baron with "von Wimsbach". He was also Brazilian Consul in Vienna and died

August 29, 1890, in Wimsbach near Ljubljana. Born in Vienna in 1823, the son of the banker Anton Schnapper, who died on November 24, 1870, and the noble Marie von Wertheimstein, born on May 2, 1883, Mari:
milian Schnapper, banker and vice-president of the Lower

Austrian Relief Society, became an Austrian knight on October 29, 1880.

409. von Schönfeld. The sons of Salomon Dobruska, Jewish merchant and principal tenant of the Imperial Tobacco Farm, Karl,

Second Lieutenant, Franz Thomas, co-director of the Garell Library, Josef, Ensign, Maximilian, Leopold, Emanuel, and the Schönfeld brothers (actually Dobruska) received hereditary Austrian nobility in Vienna on July 25,

1778. (M. v. Janecki, Herold, 1889, No. 6.)

410. Schorer. David Ilyaac Schorer was ennobled into the Dutch nobility on June 12, 1819.

411. Schosberger de Tornya. The ee in Budapest,

born in 1796, Simon Wilhelm Stiefy

Berger received the Hungarian nobility with "de Tornya" on January 10, 1863, and died on March 25, 1874. His son Sigmund, Imperial Councillor, became a Hungarian Baron in Budapest on March 12, 1890. The daughter of Heinrich SchoBy berger de Tornya, wholesaler in Peyt, Ottilie married Baron Paul BornemiBa de Nagy Kaßon on 3 July 1882.

75

Machine Translated by Google

Her sister Ilona married 1. according to Jewish rite the lawyer in Budapeyt, Dr. Julius Royenberg, 2. (after annulment of this marriage) 15

October 1883 Count Stephan Batthyany, whom her first husband married 22 October tober 1883 in a duel), 3. 17 April 1886 Knight Viktor von Quermann.

412. by Schuhmann. On 27 January

Born in 1815 in Grünberg as the son of the merchant David

Schuhmann and Serafine Fraenkel, k. Prussian real eminent councillor

Leopold Schuhmann received the Prussian nobility in 1880 and died on October 18, 1886 in Berlin.

413. Schoolyard of Dom bo var. Dr. Geza

Schulhof, a member of the Israelite community in Pest, received Hungarian nobility with the surname "von Dombovar" in Vienna on December 10, 1885. He had two sons and six daughters by his wife, Klementine Pick.

414. von Schwabacher. The Cairo banker Heinrich Schwabacher received the Austrian nobility on October 5, 1869.

415. von Schwabacher. Born in 1817 in Obery

Dr. phil. Simon Leon Schwabacher, born in Württemberg as the son of Urias Schwabacher, Chief Rabbi in Odessa, received the nobility, resigned his office in April 1888 and died on December 11, 1888 in Odessa.

416. Schwartz von Szalka. Jacob Schwartz received the Hungarian nobility with "von Szalka" on April 4, 1887.

417. Schwarz von Zimony. Armin Schwarz received the Hungarian nobility with "von Zimony" on January 29, 1887.

418. von Seelig. Born in 1819, Dr. phil. Ernst Seelig, kk Statthaltereirath a. D., + May 1874, became an Austrian knight on November 11, 1861.

419. von Seidler. On 15 February 1830

Director of the Anglo-German Cross, born in Hungary-Austria Bank Adolf Seidler became an Austrian Knight in Vienna on March 2, 1871 and an Austrian Baron on August 12, 1882 (diploma in Vienna on September 4).

76

His wife is the noble Mathilde von Braumiller, his sons-in-law are Baron Maximilian von Heiney Geldern and Bruno Schén from Mutzenbecher.

420. von Seligmann. The Imperial and Royal Surgeon

General Dr. Leopold Seligmann was appointed Austrian on November 16, 1874. imperial knight.

421. von Sensburg. Ernst Philipp Sensburg, born on 1 July 1752 in Lommerstadt near Bamberg of Jewish parents, was baptized (Catholic), became

Machine Translated by Google

Grand Ducal Baden Ministry Director, Secret State and Cabinet Councillor, received the Grand Duke on 4 August 1815 lichybadischen Freiherrntand and died 3 July 1831 in Karlsruhe. (By Wechmar and Hahn, Handbook for Baden and its Servants.

Heidelberg 1846, page 28.) Baroness Erneytine Juliane von Adelsy married into this family.

heim, Margarethe von Hefner-Altenneck and Dr.

Maximilian Joseph von Chelius, the well-known pro fessor of medicine in Heidelberg.

422. von Siber. Born in 1751, the Lower Austrian

Reich Government Councillor, Chief Police Chancellery Director Siber received the Austrian nobility in Vienna on May 2, 1795 with "Edler von" and became a Baron in Vienna on August 6, 1816. He died on December 30, 1836. His wife daughter was Caroline von Appel.

423. von Sichrovsky. The director of the Imperial and Royal Privileged Northern Railway, Heinrich Sichrovsky, became an Austrian Knight on July 9, 1866. His wife was Betty Kohn.

424. Simon. The English Member of Parliament Serjeant Simon became an English knight in 1886.

425. by Simon. On 10 November 1810

as the son of Zacharias Jakob Simon and a born real secret councillor and Reichsgerichtspräsident Dr.

Eduard Simon received the Prussian nobility on March 18, 1888. His granddaughter married Walter von Oppeln: Bronikowski.

426. von Singer. Born on September 2, 1828 in Raab, the owner of the "Extrablatt" in Vienna became an Austrian knight on April 24, 1879, and died on March 6, 1886, leaving behind two sons.

77

427. Sochor of Friedrichsthal. JU Dr.

Eduard Sochor, Imperial Court Councillor, General Director of the Karl

Ludwig Railway, Member of the Reichsrat, became an Austrian Knight with the rank of "von Friedrichsthal" on November 10, 1874, and an Austrian Baron on November 28, 1886 (diploma December 31, 1886).

428. von Sonnenfels. Alois Winner, the gey baptized Jew, son of Chief Rabbi Liebmann in Berlin, Master of Oriental Languages, received in Vienna on September 20, 1746, the hereditary

Austrian nobility with "von Sonnenfels". His son Franz Anton, kk

Hofrath, Truchsess, Director of the Finance Court, became Imperial Baron in Vienna on January 28, 1797. His second son Franz Joyeph, born 1732 F 25. April 1817 is the well-known writer.

429. von Sonnenthal. On 31 December Adolf Sonnenthal, born in Pest in 1834, court actor and director at the Burgtheater in Vienna, was born in 19th Dey zember 1881 oysterreichischer Ritter.

Machine Translated by Google

430. a. In Lithuania, in 1764, Joyef Sz pa czy kiewicz the nobility. (M. v. Janecki).

431. Spiegl von Thurnsee. Edgar Spiegl, editor of the Wiener Extrablatt, received the Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von Thurnsee" in Vienna on February 11, 1887. He was born in the Egerland region, attended the lower grammar school in Eger, later worked in Prague and Pest, and converted to the Catholic faith before marrying a Christian.

432. Spitz von Szorkola. Julius Spitz received the Hungarian nobility with "von Szor: ko la" on February 1, 1884. *)

*) The Chevalier Sigmund Spitzer, former ambassador of Turkiye to the court of Naples, is not of noble birth but only a Knight of Franz Joseph since 1857y

Order. His wife is Herminia Kohn, his husband-in-lawy son of Count Leopold Fernand Balny d'Aorcourt.

78

433. von Springer. Maximilian Springer, a banker and wholesaler in Vienna, was born on November 10, 1807, in Ansbach. He became an Austrian knight on July 30, 1869, an Austrian baron on July 27, 1872, and died on April 13, 1885, in Vienna, leaving behind sons.

434. von Stein. Born on 23 March 1831 in

QUnbach am Main, son of Louis Stein and Sarah Baß, was born Adolf Louis Stein, General: Consul of the Republics of Liberia and Domingo, and was granted nobility on June 8, 1874 by the Prince of Reuss of the younger line, and baronship on May 24, 1876.

He received recognition of the Baron on March 10, 1875y
yt des in the Grand Duchy of Heyyen.

435. Stone of Zombor. The House Owner
Nathan Stein received the nobility "von Zombor" on January 3, 1871.

436. von Steingraber. Sigmund Steingraber, born on 17

May 1837 in Troppau, Imperial Court Councillor, General Directorate Councillor at the General Directorate of the often:

Reich State Railways became Austrian on May 21, 1885

Imperial Knight and died July 20, 1886 in Britzendorf

in Austria, leaving behind two sons and two daughters.

437. von Steinmann. The Royal Prussian Privy Councillor and High President of the Province of Schleswig-Holstein, Georg Franz

Maximilian Steinmann, born on October 7, 1830, the son of the Royal Justice Councillor Karl Friedrich Ludwig Steinmann, who died on April 20, 1884, and Elenore, née Gotheimer, received the title of "Excellency" and Prussian nobility in Charlottenburg on May 5, 1888. His wife is Baroness Klara

Machine Translated by Google

von Werthern. He has a son and three daughters.

438. Stern. David Stern, a banker born in London in 1807, became a Portuguese baron in 1864 and died on January 20, 1877. His brother became a viscount.

David was born in Frankfurt am Main and head of the Stern Brothers firm.

439. von Stern. Born in 1818, the Ducal Brunswick Consul and

General Councillor of the Austrian

a0

Hungarian Bank in Vienna Leopold Stern became an Austrian Knight on January 21, 1879 and died on November 12

vember 1886 in Vienna, leaving behind a son.

440. von Stieglitz. Born in 1777 in Arolsen as the son of Bernhard Stieglitz, the imperial court-

Banker Ludwig Stieglitz became a Russian Baron on August 22, 1826, and died on March 18, 1842. His son Alexander died on November 5, 1884, as a Russian Privy Councillor. Ludwig's brothers were Johann (that he was ennobled in Hanover is probably a misconception-

(a relationship with the senior medical councilor and personal physician, Doctor Stieglitz, who became Commander of the Royal Hanoverian Guelph Order in 1839), Nikolai and Boris. Johann's son, Nikolaus, born in 1809, died in March 1878 as a Russian privy councilor. His wife was Julie, daughter of Admiral Alexei Greig.

The son of Boris, Tedor received the Russian personal nobility, his son Boris, on December 19, 1883, the Russian hereditary nobility. The daughter of Baron Alexander married the State

Councilor of Pol owz oU.

441. Suayyo. The Jew lyaak (Antonio) Lopez: Suayyo was elevated to Baron Avarés le Gras on January 3, 1676, by King Charles II of Spain (1665-1700) as Duke of Barabant. (H. Graetz, History of the Jews X., page 327.) *

442. In Lithuania, in 1764, the Swi ay family received the nobility. (M. von Janecki.)

*) The fact that Süsskind was a widespread Jewish surname in the Middle Ages has given rise to the Protestant Süsskind family in Württemberg being considered descendants of a baptized Jew. However, this lacks any other evidence.

The ancestor of the family is Michael SUGkind, pastor in Buttenhausen, born around 1565 in Pforzheim.

His descendant, the banker and chamberlain Johann Gottlieb e, became a Bavarian baron on 18 February 1821, the Obertribunalrath

Herrmann Süßkind in 1860 the Württemberg personal nobility, as well as in 1820 the

Machine Translated by Google

State Councillor Christian SUBkind.

80

443. In Lithuania, in 1764, Woyciech (Adalbert) received Szymanski the nobility. (M. v. Jannecki.)

444. von Tauyyig. The director of the privilegedy ten Allgemeinen dyterreichiyischen Bodencreditant became 6yterreichiycher Ritter on December 22, 1879.

445. Tauyyig of Bodonia. The Chambery

physician to Grand Duke Leopold II of Tuscany, Dr. med.

Gabriel Tauyyig, became an Austrian knight with "von Bodonia" on May 8, 1855.

446. Teixeira. Isaac Teixeira in Amsterdam received the Dutch nobility on September 27, 1817.)

447. Texeira. The Texeira family originally the predicate "Sampayo and Dor" and

It was a Portuguese noble title. King Philip IV of Spain decreed that the Sampayo coat of arms be included in the coats of arms of Spain on March 3, 1643. This privilege was granted to the king.

Jewish resident in Flanders, Don Diego (as Jew Abraham) Texeira (Teixeyra). This Diego came from a baptized Jewish family, but became a confessor of the Mosaic faith between 1643 and 1660. His son Manuel (as Jew Isaac), born around 1630, + around 1695, was a banker in Hamburg and resident

Dent of Queen Christine of Sweden. His daughter Sarah married Abraham Suayo. His wife's name was Esther.

His sons were Diego, gentleman of the Queen of Sweden, and Benjamin. Both emigrated to Holland. (H. Graetz, History of the Jews, X, pages 21, 227, 228, 263, 264, 457, 459.)

448. von Todes co. Eduard Todesco, born in 1815, son of Hermann, a privileged wholesaler in Vienna, was appointed Austrian

*) Joyeph Heinrich Teixeira de Mattos, Dutch

Consul General in Venice, received 27.

November 1888 the Dutch nobility. Abraham, son of the first marriage of Abraham Teixeira and Ribeca de Mattos added his mother's name to his name

His stepbrother David's son added the name of his grandmother d' Andrade.

Knight and ddo. 30. October 1869 Austrian Baron and died on January 17, 1887. His sons-in-law are Henry Worms and Baron Ludwig von Oppenheimer.

Machine Translated by Google

449. Treves of Bonfil i. The banker and vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce in Venice, Joseph Treveg, received from Napoleon J. as Regent of Italy the Iron Crown of the Second Class and the Barony for his Perjon, which was confirmed in Austria on November 27, 1816. His sons Isaac (born 1790, 1791 F Oetober 1855) and Jakob (born 1790 + 7. Auguyt 1885) received ddo. Schönbrunn 7. Auguyt 1835 (diploma ddo.

Vienna 24 September 1835) the Austrian nobility with

"Nobleman of Bonfili." The former was born in Vienna in 29th century. nuar 1839 (diploma ddo. Vienna March 15, 1839) Austriay

Chiykh knight, the latter also from Venice, October 17, 1838 (diploma from Vienna, February 4, 1839). Both were bankers in Venice. Her brother, Raphael Vita Trey ves, lyraelityc merchant in Venice received ddo.

Vienna, April 18, 1836 (diploma from Vienna, June 7, 1836), the Austrian nobility with "Edler von Bonfil" (without an i), and Schönbrunn, July 9, 1839 (diploma from Vienna, November 1, 1839), the Austrian knighthood.

Baron Camill married Julie d'Almbert in 1876.

450. Trojanowski. In Lithuania, Anton Trojanowski received nobility in 1764.

451. Turnau von Dobcezye. The baptized Jew Jacob

Turnau, owner of the Dobzyel estate in Galicia, received the Austrian Order of Merit in Vienna on December 12, 1857.

Reichish nobility with "Edler von Dobezye" and died in 1863.

His son Joyeph, kk Feldmaryhallieutenant i. R., born on 14 December 1828 in Buda Rozanicka in Galicia, was made Austrian Knight in Vienna on 11 January 1881 and died on March 4, 1889 in Vienna.

452. Turteltaub von Thurnau. The Gey

Brothers Joyeph Leopold Turteltaub, Religious Commisyary in Carinthia, District Judge of the Ortenburg Lordship and Anton Turteltaub, Vienna Mint Office Treasurer, received

17 November 1763 the hereditary Austrian nobility with "von Thurnau".

453, Tyfiel. Benediet Tykiel, son of Franz, State

Referendary to the State Council of the Kingdom of Poland, received the Polish nobility on February 24 (March 8), 1842.

(M. von Janecki, Viertel, Herald's journal 1888, page 177.) N

454. von Uckro. Wilhelm Ludwig Schleyinger, born in 1792, district administrator and manor owner of Uckro (Luckau district), was called Uckro by the Highest Cabinet Order on July 16, 1855, and was granted Prussian nobility on January 7, 1865. He died in Dresden on July 12, 1874.

His son married Selma von Beeren and his Daughter of Baron Karl von Langermann and Erlencamp.

455. Ullmann von Erényi. The wholesaler Karl Ullmann received the Austrian Knighthood on July 19, 1880. He is the director of the DonaudampfschUahrts-

society for Hungary, his sons Emmerich and Ludy wig were members of the Peyter lyraeliyischen Gemeinde in 1886.

456. von Unger. The retired kk Oberstabsy Doctor Anton Unger, born in 1805, became an Austrian knight on April 21, 1868 and died on August 15, 1881.

457. di Vier (Devier, Devières). Anton, the son of the Jewish smuggler Manuel Devier, General Police Master of St.
Petersburg, received 24 Ocy

tober 1726 the Ru
but was restored on 14 February 1743. His wife was Anna, sister of the prince ian countship, was declared forfeit on 22 May 1727,

Menshikov. His grandson Count Boris Petrowych Dey

four, born around 1754, was declared forfeit of his count's title and nobility by Senatsukas on April 30, 1798, and banished to Nerchinsk for perpetual forced labor.

458. von Vierordt. Karl Vierordt, profesy ...

459. Bogel. Julius Vogel, born in 1835 as son of Albert Leopold Vogel, General Agent for New Zealand in London, became English Minister
in 1875.

460. von Wahl. June 30, 1832, in Muhly
Albert Wahl, born in Alsace, Director of the 83

AlféldyFiuman Railway, received the Austrian knighthood on 6 September 1880.

461. von Waldberg. Moses Waldberg, banker in Bucharest, was born in Vienna on June 12, 1875 in Austria.

Austrian Knight and ddo. 16 April 1884 Austrian Baron. His son Dr. Julius married Stella von Kubinzky.

462. von Wassermann. On 15 July 1811

Moses Wassermann, born in Laupheim as the son of Rabbi, Royal Württemberg Church Councillor, Rabbi in Stuttgart, received the Württemberg Per jonaladel. g

463. von Weil. Born in 1806 in Leockenheim near

Dr. Karl Weil, Imperial Court and Ministerial Councillor, was born in Frankfurt am Main and received the Austrian knighthood on October 8, 1864, and died in Währing on January 5, 1878. His son-in-law was the poet, Knight Salomon Hermann von Moyenthal.

464. Weil von Weilen. The one on December 28th

Joseph Weil, born in Tetin in 1830, was the scribe of the Imperial Court Library and received the Austrian-ych knighthood with "von Weilen", later the Hofraths-and professorship. He has two sons. N

465. von Weily Weiß. The banker in Verona, Ignaz Weil-Weiß, received the Austrian nobility in Vienna on April 3, 1855. i

466. Weiner. Peter Weiner, Russian Titular Councillor, received the Russian hereditary nobility on November 28, 1883. He has

Machine Translated by Google

2 sons and 2 daughters.

467. Weiyenfeld von Weiya ch. The banker Julius Weiyenfeld in Vienna was crowned Reichsischer Ritter with the name "von Weiyach" on 17 January 1871.

468. Weiß von Weißenhall. Karl Weiß, imperial privileged wholesaler, director of the Austrian Creditanstalt für Handel und Gewerbe, received the Austrian knighthood "von Weißenhall" on June 2, 1872. His son-in-law is Knight Guftan von Mauthner. His brother, Cavaliere Moritz, was awarded the title of Knight on January 31, 1882.

aé*

54

White in Milan, whose daughter-in-law is Countess Katharina Lucernavi, was not of noble birth.

469. Weiß von Wellenstein. The banker and money changer in Vienna, Maximilian Weiß, became 1. February 1873 Austrian knight with "von Wellenystein".

470. von Weisweiler. The Royal Bavarian Count

hereditary knight in Madrid Daniel Weisweiler received the Bavarian personal nobility in 1869 and the Bavarian hereditary knighthood on June 12, 1870.

471. von Weißweiler. The Spanish confederation in Frankfurt a. M.G.C. Weißweiler received the Royal Personal Nobility in 1969.

472. Weisz von Baroytyanko. Theodor Weisz received the Hungarian nobility with "von Baroytyanko" on 5 May 1881.

473. Weisz von Tolna. Jakob Weisz was granted

Hungarian nobility in Vienna on October 27, 1872, and the title "von Tolna" in Vienna on January 19, 1874.

474. von Weling. Eduard Seligmann in Bamberg,

New York, and son-in-law of Baron Aaron Elias von Eichthal, received the Bavarian nobility as "Edler von Weling" on December 17, 1816. His mother-in-law-

yons are the Barons Joyeph and Andreas von GroBychedel and Count Karl von Leyden.

The widow of his son Friedrich, who died in 1849, Auguste Glony, married Count Maximilian von Leublfig, who adopted his stepson Karl Andreas Edlen von Weling.

On July 20, 1872, King Ludwig II of Bavaria granted him and his descendants permission to bear the name and coat of arms of the Counts of Leublfig. He married Baroness Gabriele von Thiingen.

475. von Wertheim. Franz Wertheim, born 13 April 1814 in Krems as son of the kk financial watchman Franz, who died 2 May 1854 in Matzleinsdorf

Machine Translated by Google

Wertheim became an Austrian knight on March 21, 1863 and 85

August 17, 1871, Austrian Baron. He was a Cajien manufacturer and vice-president of the Lower Austrian Chamber of Commerce and Industry and died April 4, 1883. His only legitimate son, Karl, born in 1848, died March 1, 1866, in Vienna. His natural son, Franz Gunst, born in Bratislava on May 9, 1865, became his father's universal heir according to a testament of March 14, 1883. He took the name "Wertheim" with the highest permission of October 13, 1886, and was raised to the Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von" on November 13, 1886.

raised.

476. von Wertheimer. Joseph Wertheimer, born in 1800, was a merchant and chairman of the Israelitist Cultus Yemeinde in Vienna was founded on 11 July 1868

Austrian knight and died on March 16, 1887 in Vienna.

He was president of the Israelite Alliance.

477. Wertheimer of Wertheimstein.

On August 7, 1694, the banker Samson Wertheimer received an imperial chain of grace and an honorary penny from Emperor Leopold | for his many services in the rapid advancement of military operations. His great-grandson, the court chamber agent of the Electorate of the Palatinate and the Duchy of Zweibrücken, born in 1742, was created Imperial Nobility "Edler von Wertheimstein" on December 19, 1791. He died on January 18, 1811. He received this title from his brothers.

In Vienna on April 13, 1792, Hermann Lazar Wertheimer, and in Vienna on October 14, 1796, the Electoral Palatinate and Ducal Zweibrücken Court Chamberlain Lazar Samuel Wertheimer, granted hereditary Austrian nobility with the same distinction. The widow of a descendant of Joseph Emanuel, Emilie, née Mendelsohn, was baptized in 1865, as was her son Wilhelm in Rome in 1864, and her son Felix in 1865. By imperial decree of April 27, 1866 (diploma August 14, 1866), they received permission to drop the name

Wertheimer and to use the name "Wartenegg" while retaining the old predicate.

kats. The Royal Bavarian Privy Fiscal Councillor and Consul in Vienna, Leopold

Werty
heimer Edler von Wertheimstein received

86

On August 12, 1862, he entered the Austrian knighthood and died on January 7, 1883. Baron Moritz von K6nigswarter married into this family.

Samson Wertheim(b)er, mentioned at the beginning, was the son of Joseph Joseph.

Wertheimer in Worms, where he was also born. His son Emanuel Wolf married Lea, daughter of the chief factor Emanuel Oppenheimer, on September 25, 1726. He was the father of the Electorate of Bavaria's court actor Samuel and Grandfather of the three ennobled brothers.

478. Weyelowsky. The Brothers Abraham, ruyiy

Machine Translated by Google

ycher resident in Vienna (born 1685 7 1782), lyaac, russiy Privy Councillor (7 September 1754) and Theodor, Imperial and Royal Russian Privy Councillor, Curator of the University of Mosy

kau, sons of the Jew Paul Weyelowsky received the Ruyiyian nobility.

479. Wetzlar von Plankenyttern. The 1715

born Karl Abraham (after baptism Albrecht) Wetzlar, head of the natural delivery of the Imperial Army in the war against Prussia, received in Vienna on November 23, 1777 the banner and Imperial Baron status for himself and his

Judaism to the Catholic faith converting bodyy

He inherited and was given the title of "born." He died in Vienna in 1799 and left behind 5 million guilders in manors, houses, and cash. He had 4 sons and 5 daughters married to counts and barons.

Family married Count Karl von Clary and Aldriny

Baron Joseph von Baillon, Baron Franz Maria Nell von Nellenburg, and Noble Karoline von Zepharovich. The mother of the well-known composer Thalberg also came from this family.

480. von Wiener. Dr. Friedrich Wiener, born in Prague on November 20, 1817, President of the Bohemian—

The Austrian Bar Association was established on 5 April 1873 Chiŷch knight and ftard 9 March 1887 in Vienna with

Left behind are 5 daughters.

481. von Wiener. Wilhelm Wiener, born on September 7, 1828 in Prague, was an Imperial and Royal Government Councillor and owner of the “Neues Fremdenblatt” in Vienna. He became an Austrian Knight on April 22, 1876, and died on June 18, 1890, in Vienna, leaving behind two sons.

87

482. Wiener von Welten. The banker and wholesaler in Vienna, Eduard Wiener, born in Prague in 1822, became an Austrian knight on June 30, 1867 with

“of worlds.” He was president of the Creditanyt and DonaudampfschiUahrtsyGeyschaft and died on October 15, 1886 in Vienna. He had two sons, of whom Alfred was 14.

June 1886, and two daughters. The latter married Counts Goswin Johann Seldern and Camillo Razumowsky, the latter being the son of a brother of the husband of Empress Elisabeth of Russia.

483. von Wilmersdorfer. The Commerce—

Council and Royal Saxon Consul General in Munich, Maxi

milian Wilmersd6érUer received the Bavarian, personal knighthood.

484. Winternitz of Pradaburg. The kk Oberst Adolf Winternitz received the Order of Merit in Vienna on July 15, 1883.

the Austrian nobility with "von Pradaburg".

485. von Winterftein. The Chamber of Commerce

prapident in Vienna Simon Winterystein, born 16 December 1819, became 16 May 1869 Austrian Knight and

12 August 1874, Austrian Baron. He died 11 June 1883. (See "von Geiringer-Winterstein")

Machine Translated by Google

486. Wodians of Capriora. Samuel Wodiy

He received the Hungarian nobility with "von Kapriora" on July 2, 1844. He was born in Szeged on December 3, 1810—

borne Director of the Privileged National Bank and Grossy

A merchant in Vienna, Joseph Franz Moritz Wodianer von Kapriora became an Austrian knight on November 26, 1858, an Austrian baron on July 4, 1863, and died on July 8, 1885, in Baden near Vienna. His daughter-in—law was Fraulein von Aczél; his sons-in-law were Count Leopold Ferri, Count Vincenz Nemes von Hidvég, and the noble Geza von Wachtler.

487. Wodianer of Maglod. The wholesaler Albert (Béla) Wodianer received the Hungarian title on June 23, 1867. rish nobility with "von Maglod".

488, von Wolf. The former Consul General of Saxony-Meiningen, August Wolf, in Meiningen, became Baron of Saxony-Meiningen on February 5, 1872.

88

489, by Wolf. Eduard Emil Wolf, Director of the Central Bureau of the European Danube Commission in Galatz, became an Austrian Knight on October 19, 1875.

490. Wolf von Wolfenau. Anton Wolf, known that Ayyocié of the Schuleryches Wechyelhaus received ddo. Vienna 21 July 1784 the nobility with "von Wolfenau".

491. Wolf von Wolfsthal. Franz Anton Wolf, merchant in Galicia, received this. Vienna, June 26th

1783 the Galician knighthood with "von Wolfsthal".

492. WolU. The doctor WolU in Poyen was ony supposedly Baron de l' Empire by Napoleon J. He married a niece of Count Stanislawski. His granddaughter married Count Marcelli Tyszkiewicz.

493. von WolU. The Director of the Creditanyt Hermann WolU became an Austrian knight on June 2, 1872. He was born in 1835 and died on May 4, 1878.

494. WolU. Born on 12 October 1830 as son of the baptized Jew Dr. Joyeph WolU, Vicar of Isle Brewers and Lady Georgiana Mary Walpole, daughter of the Earl of Orford, née Sir Henry Drummond WolU became an English knight in 1862.

495. WolU by WolUenberg. The 1800 Borne kk Oberst in Pension Jacob Abdon WolU received the Austrian nobility with "von WolUenberg" on November 18, 1852 and died on August 13, 1884 in Laiy bach. He married Katharina von Freygang and had a son and two daughters. (Related by marriage to Neumann von Ettenreich. f

496. Wolfy von WolUytern. The banker Vincenz Stern received the Austrian-

Chiñh nobility with "von WolUytern".

497. Wollheim da Fonseca. The Portuguese Oulcier Dr. phil.
Anton Eduard Franz Joyeph Wollheim,

Machine Translated by Google

born 12 February 1810 in Hamburg as the son of Hirsch Jacob Wollheim and Henriette Goldschmidt A 24 October 1884, was called since 1850

"Chevalier da Fon:
ecea.

498. Wolomsti. Franz Lukas Wolowski (as Jude Salomo Schor), son of Elya Schor, Rabbi

89 von Rohatyn, born in 1710, received the Polish nobility in 1790, but lost it in 1793 and died around 1809. He had ye yet in 1759 with his brother Nathan Schor (Michael Woy lowski) were baptized. Two grandchildren of Franz Lukas, Johann, Undersecretary in the State Secretariat and Theodor, poly

Retired Polish captains received Polish nobility on January 2 (14), 1839, and March 13 (25), 1845. (M. von Janecki, Vierteljahrsschrift des Herold 1888, p. 329.)

499. Worms. Salomon Benedict Worms, born in 1801 in Frankfurt am Main, was a banker in London and became an Austrian Baron in Vienna on March 27, 1871 (diploma in Vienna on April 23, 1871) and died in October-

ber 1882. His daughters-in-law were Baroness Emmy Schey von Corom la, Baroness Fanny von To: desco and the daughter of Baronet Sir Benjamin Phillips.

500. Worms de Romilly. This family, into which Karl Marie Thiebald, Marquis de Broc—
Baron Henry de Montesquiou-Fezensac, who married Juan Cambo de Cambre, is said to have given himself the predicate "de Romilly" and would therefore not have been of noble birth. |

501.3acdherth. Wilhelm Zachert, cloth manufacturer, born in 1798, was born on 4 July 1870 (diploma 6 December ber 1873) Ruyyiyian Baron and died in November 1885 in Berlin. His factory was located in Suprayye in Lithuania.

502. Zbitniewski. In Lithuania, Adam, Paul, Peter, Ignaz, and Johann Zbitniewski were ennobled in 1764. (M. v. Janecki.)

503. Zdekauer von Treukron. Friedrich Auguyt

Zdekauer, born in 1810 in Prague as the son of the wholesale dealer Moritz Zdekauer and his

Mrs. Charlotte, née Frankl, Imperial Councillor, banker in Prague, received the Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von Treukron" on May 12, 1855, became an Austrian Knight on July 11, 1865, and an Austrian Baron on January 31, 1873. He was a savings bank director and died on May 4, 1873. His wife was Antonia Edle von Muth. His son-in-law was Baron Joseph Wolu von Wachtentreu.

His sister Emilie Zdekauer received 17 Feb.

In 1858 he was raised to the personal nobility, married Baron Ludwig Ponte Reno von Ponnrade and died on June 14, 1869. His brother,

JU Dr. Carl Zdekauer, born
1819, wholesaler became 3 February 1868

Machine Translated by Google

Austrian knight and died December 6, 1873 in Prague. His daughter-in-law is Baroness Alexandrine von Geusau. 5

504. von Zdekauer. The physician Dr. Zdekauer

He came to St. Petersburg from Bohemia in the first decades of the 19th century. His son, Nikolaus Franz Zdekauer, born on March 17, 1815, in Scacabourg, Imperial Privy Councilor, full professor of pathology, and consulting personal physician, received Russian nobility.

505. von geißl. Dr. Hery, born in 1816

mann ZeiBl, brother of Moyes Zeißl, was kk excepty

Full professor and government councilor. He received the Austrian nobility title "Edler von" in Vienna on August 21, 1883 (diploma in Vienna on October 12, 1883) and died on September 23, 1884. His daughter-in-law was Louise von Kuhner.

506. Zelienski. Joyef Zelienski, son of Ignaz, profeyyor at the Lyceum, received the Polish nobility in 1847.
(M. v. Janecki. Quarterly of the Herald 1888, page 330.)

507. von Zwicklitz. Felix Zwicklitz, born in Breslau and a public partner of the firm "Lindheim und Compagnie" in Vienna, was granted Austrian nobility with the title "Edler von" on February 27, 1886 (diploma from Vienna on March 26, 1886).

Addendums.

508. Abrahamson. The Ruyyiy State Council and doctor Abrahamyon received the Ruyyiyian nobility in 1872.

509. Barota of Tresztenicz a. Simon

Baro a received the ungay in Vienna on 8 January 1882

91

rian nobility of Moyes of Barota and the predicate "of Tresztenicza".

510. von Bauer. The sugar saber Moritz Bauer, born on 12

October 1812 in Royitz in Moravia, received in Vienna on 25 November 1870
the Austrian

Nobility. His daughter-in-law is Noble Marietta von Chlumecky.

511. Bocearoy Rosales. Emanuel Boccaro, born 1592 in Liyabon, Doctor of Medicine, from—practicing physician in Hamburg, received ddo. Regensburg 17.

June 1641, after he had received baptism, the small palatinate was granted to him and he died in 1667 or in 1668 in Livorno. (Herold 1890, p. 124.) He did not become aristocratic through this diploma.

512. Benecke von Gréditzberg. In an official document, Christian is described as a Jewish banker

Machine Translated by Google

Wilhelm Benecke, banker in Berlin, owner of Gro-

Ditzberg, born on December 12, 1778, in Frankfurt an der Oder, the son of Michael Christian Benecke and Helene Christiane Nickisch, a preacher's daughter. He received the Prussian nobility with "von Gréditzberg" in Berlin on April 4, 1829, and died on June 4, 1860, in Berlin. His sons-in-law were the Royal Prussian Chamberlain and Legation Councillor von Schack and the Royal Prussian General, Major von Schlegell. His son Richard married Hedwig von Rosen, who later married the Ceremonienmeyter von Frankenberg rerlobte, but died as a bride.

513. Blumenstock von Salben. Dr. Heinrich Blumenstock, son of Salomon Blumenstock, a citizen of Krakow, received the Austrian knighthood "von Halban" in Vienna on November 18, 1890 (diploma January 9, 1891).

514. from Hartogensis. The Jew Hartogenyis Buel was ennobled by the Duke of SaxeyCoburgyGotha: ennobled.

515. Kuhn von Kuhnenfeld. Franz Kuhn, born in 1772 in Rothwasser in Moravia as the son of a baptized Jew, was a captain in the 1st Infantry.

92

Regiment received the Austrian Order of Merit in Vienna on 20 February 1823. Reichish nobility with "von Kuhnenfeld" and died in 1842.

His son, Franz, Imperial Field Marshal of the Dispensary, born on July 15, 1817, in ProBnitz, received the Austrian baronship on December

28, 1852, as did his brother, Alexander, Imperial Major General, born in 1826 in Ungarisch Hradisch, on June 17, 1868 (diploma on September 8, 1868).

Count Caesar Strasoldo, Baron Rudolf von Seckendor-Gudent, Knight Victor von Tschusi zu Schmidhofen, and Noble Roza von Thoren married into this family.

516. by Meyerbeer. The Royal Prussian Music

Director Giacomo Meyerbeer, born on September 5, 1791 in Berlin, brother of the ennobled Beer, received the Württemberg personal nobility in 1854 and died on May 2, 1864 in Paris. His sons-in-law are Baron Ferdinand von AndrianyWerberg and Baron Emanuel von KerU.

517. von Miller. The board of the Israelite

Cultusgemeinde in Munich is a Mr. von Miller.
(Further details unknown.)

518. Nathan. The British Counsellor General in Vienna, Gustavus
Nathan, became an English knight on July 30, 1891.

519. von NeumannyEttenberg. The kk

First lieutenant of the 2nd GenieyRegiment Robert Neumann

Machine Translated by Google

He received the Austrian knighthood as von "NeumannyEttenreich" in Vienna on September 27, 1854, and died on July 6, 1880 as a royal colonel. His wife was Barbara Edle von Ettenreich.

520. von NeumannySpallart. Born on 22 February 1797 in Tychowitz in Moravia and court advocate JU Dr. Joyeph Neumann received the Austrian knighthood on 22 January 1875 as "Neumann von Spallart" and died on 2 November 1880

in Vienna as an imperial councilor. His wife was Elisabeth Edle von Spallart, and his sons-in-law were Karl Ritter Schwabe von Waiyenfreund and Edler Moritz von Statzer.

93

521. von Steinitzer. The district administrator of Wolfsberg in Carinthia, Johann Steinitzer, received hereditary Austrian nobility in Vienna on August 25, 1803.

522. von Stengel. Maximilian Stengel, banker in Berlin, received the Austrian knighthood on December 10, 1879.

523. Stern Edler von Rechfelden, last President of the Imperial and Royal Regional Court in Salzburg, is of Jewish descent.

Died 1884.

524. Weizmann von Zawidowski. Eduard

Weizmann, born on April 27, 1828 in Lemberg, owner of the Zawidowice estate and member of the Galician Diet, received the Austrian title of Baron in Vienna on May 6, 1881.

imperial knighthood with the title "von Zawidowski".

His wife is Karola von Kriegshaber.

Additions.

1. To Ayer. The purchaser of the nobility was Tobias

Michael Carel Ayer, born in Amsterdam on 28 April 1838, Ministerial Councillor in the Foreign Office.

2. To Hansemann. The wife of the nobleman is Ottilie von Kuserow, the son-in-law is Richard von Hindersin.

3. To Haurowitz. Dr. Haurowitz, kaiy. ruyy. wirkkl.

State Councillor and personal physician received the Württemberg personal nobility in 1846.

4. On Hellmann. The Nobility's Daughter-in-Law
The purchaser was Louise von Bonin.

Since the family name is different for several familiesy

ne was, jo should not undesirable the following lifts.

Abudiente, see Gideon.
Devier, yese di Vier.

Machine Translated by Google

Disraeli, see Beaconsfield.
Eeardly, see Gideon.
Henikystein, see Hénigystein.

94

'ohn, see Kraut.

LeidesdorUer, see Neuwall.
Leublfing, see Weling.

Levi, see Lindheim.
Liebmann, see Liebenberg and Rayt.

Marienrode, see Malchus.
Pappenheimer, see KerytorU.

Ponsen, see Ponte Reno.

Seeligmann, see Eichthal and Weling.

Siebmann, see Grunenthal.

Winner, see Sonnenfels.

WolU, see Adlersthal.

Notes.

1. Since the above work is not intended for narrower subject-circles and the author wanted to make it as short as possible, he has omitted the information on the enrollment of families in Bavaria-

Those interested can find what they need in Gritzner's rank surveys. Likewise, when the diploma states "raised to the nobility and baronial rank," the author only wrote "raised to the baronial rank," since the former would seem unnecessary to lay circles.

2. The printing house does not have the typefaces for the forms of L peculiar to the Polish language. 3. ©

The reader will therefore excuse the lack of Polish names. For German readers, this is

Book was only written to those who had these Polish letters forms are incomprehensible to the Theik.

3. For reasons of space, the author has refrained from quoting as much as possible, as in the first edition.

Final work.

Half a thousand ennobled Jewish families are listed as such. This number can certainly be increased. According to M.

According to Dr. v. Janecki, to whose work the author owes many data, over 100 families were ennobled in Lithuania on the basis of the Reichstag Constitution of 1768. In addition, there are many families ennobled in Russia, whose Jewish ancestry is not certified with certainty, but in part highly probably Auerbach, Arnheim, Bade: rach, Bermann, Deutch,

Machine Translated by Google

Elkan, Frankeny

ytein, Goldychmidt, Goldberg, Goldytaub, Goldmann,

Heynemann, Haymann, Hirych, Jacobyon, Leon, Leyyar,

Lew, Levin, Lew: berg, Strauß, Wiener, Wertheim, Worms.

In addition, there are certainly many noble families in the Romanic countries, especially Spain and Portugal.

In the former country, at the time of the Moorsy

The title of "Nagid" or "Nayyi" (prince) was conferred on Jews by Almanyur, guardian of the "Chalif Hisham" around 985 by Jacob Ibn' Gan, who was later deposed, restored around 987, and died around 900; further by King Habus of Granada in 1027 to Samuel Halevi Ibn Nagrela, born in 993 in Cordova (1055), who was succeeded by his son Joseph, born in 1031, but died on December 30, 1066. Around 1038, King

Jahja of Saragossa made Jekntiel Ibn Hayyan or Alhayyan Prince of Princes, but he was murdered in 1039. The Jewish physician Abu-Aje ySalomony Iben Alm: nalllem bore the title of "Prince and Mevyir" under the Caliph

Ali (1106–1143), as did the physician Abdul:

96

hasan Alraham ben Meir Ibn Kamnial from Sara goyya. The

"Prince" Salomo Ibn, who was murdered on May 2, 1108, served under a Christian prince in Spain.

Fernhyal. The astronomer Abraham ben Chija Albary

geloni, born in 1065, died in 1136, served another Muslim prince and bore the title "Prince" Abu ManBner Samuel ben Chan anja received the title "Nagid" (Prince) from the Caliph of Egypt in 1134/1153.

King Alfonso VII Ramires of Castile (1126–1157) appointed Jehnda

Ibn Esra, son of Joseph Ibn Isra, as Nasi (prince) in 1146. In 1155,

Isaac ben Jehnda was named "prince" of the Jews in Beziers. King Alphonso VIII of Castile (1166–1214) appointed Joseph ben Solomon Ibn Shoshan (born around 1135, 7 1204/5) and Abay

Ham Ibn Alfachar (born around 1160, 7 after 1223) as "princes."

The list of these Nayir, Nagid, or princes can certainly be increased. Let us only mention the successor of the above-mentioned Samuel ben Chananja, namely Nathanael. In Egypt, Nagyd was also mentioned in 1187, born

March 30, 1135 in Cordova, as the son of Maimun ben

Joseph, born Moses ben Maimuni, who on November 27, 1198, had his son Abelmani Abraham Maimun, born in 1185, died in 1254; this was followed by his son David, born in 1233, died in 1300, the latter by his son

Abraham. Also in other

In the Middle Ages, Jews achieved such freedom in many countries. drawings. In 490, King Airvi of Cranaganor on the Malabar coast granted Joseph Rabban special rights and princely honors, which were passed on to his descendants

yt were hereditary. | recall here the dignity of the Exilarchs. If one wanted to go further back into antiquity

To go, we should mention the "Alabarchs" in Egypt, the Roman knight Tiberius Julius Alexander in 63 AD, a Jew who had apostatized from the Mosaic faith, and Joseph of Tiberias, a baptized Jew who was elevated to the rank of Cony by Emperor Constantine | (307–337 AD). But let us return to modern times. Above all, we should mention Joao Miques, a baptized

Jew who had converted from Christianity.

Machine Translated by Google

adopted the name Joyeph Nassi, whom the Turkish Sultan appointed as a nobleman of the bodyguard, in 1566 as 97

Duke of Naxos, as which he died on August 2, 1579.

f you count all these Navyi that are in the romay

f the number of families ennobled in the Niytian countries and in RussiayPolandy Lithuania is added to those listed by the author, the total number would probably reach, perhaps exceed, 1000, a number which is expected to increase rom decade to decade.

Certainly not without interest in cultural history –
Whatever point of view one takes – is the topic discussed above. As Hey

The various AryanySemitic crosses listed in the Salzburg

published in the magazine "KyUhauyer" censuses") of marriages between middle-class Jews and Jewish women with members of the non-Jewish nobility, to which the author refers here.

The author requests that additions to this work for a possible further edition be sent to the editors of the "KyUhauser" in Salzburg.

*) Year 1890, Issue 5, Issue 10, Year 1891 Issue 9.

Printing error correction.

Page 5, line 6 from the top read Ezof instead of Czof.

On pages 6, 21, 23, 29 and 33 read Aguado

instead of Agnado. 6, 36 read Aguilar instead of Agnilar.

"10, Note, read Hendele instead of Herdele.

happy religious schism of the West that the sages of Israel, the rabbis, strive-seven. the dispute among the Nazarenes. as e

fire began to intensify; for,
he says, when the dogs bite each other,
Leave the little lamb alone. The second...

The Christians are the ones. The lamb is Israel.

Israelites, —

that.

CN.

puella.

denxieme.

superior), through.

the victim.

He will.

one deals with Barmlier—
neatness and with sprinkles.
with mercy —
Zen Israel etc.

Second

Rohling, August
The polemic and the Human sacrifices of rabbinism

Dr. theol. Carl Mommert
Knight of the Holy Sepulchre and Pastor of Schweinitz
c -Silesia)

"Printed and published by E. Höberland, Leipzig: R.
1905.

rr

Mommert

Human sacrifice among the ancient Hebrews.

Published by E. Haberland, Leipzig-R.
furthermore, from Pastor Dr. theol. Carl Mommert of Schweinitz:

The Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem in its original state Conditions. 1898. (VIII and 256 p. 80.) M. 5.50.

The Dormition Abbey and the German property on traditional Zion.
1899. (VIII and 132 p.) M. 2, 50.

Golgotha and the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. 1900.
(VIII and 280 pp.) M. 5.50.

Topography of ancient Jerusalem.

Part I: Zion and Akra, the hills of the Old City. 1900. (X and 393, p. 80.) M. 8.

Part II: The Solomonic Temple and Palace Quarter on Moriah. 1903.

(VIII and 306 p. 80.) M. 7.

Part III: Solomon's wall construction, the water supply of Jerusalem, the Building the wall of Manasseh. 1905. (VIII and 182 p. 8%.) M. 4.50.)

Aenon and Bethania, The Baptismal Places of the Baptist. 1903. (VIII and 8888)
97 pp.) M. 2, 50.

Pilate's Praetorium, or the site of Jesus' condemnation. 1903.
(VIII and 184 pp. 8%) M. 4.50.

From the life of a village priest. 1904. (490 pp. 80.) Mark 4.50.

HUMAN SACRIFICE
AMONG THE ANCIENT HEBREWS

FROM

DR. THEOL. CARL MOMMERT

—

Knight of the Holy Sepulchre and Parish Priest of Schweinitz (Prussian Silesia).

THE NEW YORK
| PUBLIC LIBRARY
386510

A8 TOR, LENOX AND TILDEN: FOUNDATIONS,
1906

Open letter to Jews and Christians.

Judaism and Christianity differ in their beliefs.
spring in such close relationships to each other that the sentence-
The following has been stated: “Novum Testamentum in Vetere latet, Vetus Testamentum in Novo patet” — ie: “The New

The Testament is hidden within the Old Testament; the Old Testament will be revealed to
the Understandings unlocked through the new. — But if one wanted to

To illustrate these relationships, use an image, for example.
one could say: “Judaism is the vine,
from which the vine of Christianity sprang,” — or:
"Judaism is the foundation on which Christianity..."
as a temple for the worship of the Jew and the Christian
"built upon the common God." — Jesus, the founder of Christianity
The first bishop of the Catholic Church was a Jew. The apostles of Jesus, the first bishops
The Christian church included Jews. The first Christian communities consisted predominantly of Jews, and, if the World Apostle, Saint Paul, on his travels in the lands he had described newly founded Christian communities collected alms, so it happened to the “brothers who lived in Judea” (Apostles-(History XI, 29-30), — and he distributed the produce in Jerusalem (aa O. XII, 25).

If, in later times, there were a conflict between Jews and Christians a seemingly insurmountable gap opened up, and at various Christians encompassing broad segments of the population Aversion to Jews under given circumstances, sometimes more, sometimes less less justified occasions in not always entirely parliamentary Given that it gave vent to taric forms, it is hardly surprising.
when a thinking mind asked the question and to consider sought answers as to what the reason for this strange occurrence was.
appearance.

I asked this question because I love the light, as a counterpoint.
I have undertaken a thorough study and am handing over the

The fruits of the same are now being presented to the public. In the present case In my writings I discuss the "human sacrifices of the ancients". Hebrews." A series of similar booklets is to follow. is associated with the "ritual murder and blood superstition" at the later Jews," as well as with the "testimonies of pious Jews and Christians against the blood libel of the Jews" are concerned with this. — I give myself over to the super-generation suggests that, once the point of contention has been sufficiently illuminated is all well-meaning people, both Christians and Jews and Muslims, to eliminate evils recognized as abhorrent- stand unite, and then, after the stumbling block has been removed Once eliminated, the hands fraternally join together in a compatible manner. Living side by side will be enough. In this sense, under- I am writing what the Jew Cremieux, former Frenchman Minister and Chairman of the »Alliance-Israélite e, in $ 11 his work printed in the "Journal des Debats" on April 7, 1840 The public letter states: "Si la religion juive commande ainsi le meurtre et l'effusion du sang humain, levons-nous en masse, Juifs-Philosophes, Chretiens, Musulmans; abolissons, m&me dans les hommes qui le pratiquent, ce culte barbare et sacrilege, qui place l'"homicide et l'assassinat au rang des prescriptions divines" — di: "If the Jewish religion condones murder in this way and commands the shedding of human blood, then let us: Jewish philosophers, Christians, Muslims en masse rise up against us, and this barbaric and god-robbing cult, which elevates murder and manslaughter to the status of divine commandments, including eliminate the people who practice it."

Schweinitz (Prussian Silesia), April 7, 1905.

Dr. theol. Carl Mommert
Roman Catholic priest.

Table of contents.

Open letter to Jews and Christians

I. The names of God in the holy scriptures of the Old Testament.

II. The Old Testament Theophanies . :

III. The original religion and the cult of the patriarchs

- IV. The federal sacrifice of circumcision.
- V. The Redemption of the Firstborn
- VI. Mosaic Human Sacrifice in Theory and Practice.
- VII. Dying before John the Baptist
- VIII. The Prisoner in the Temple in Jerusalem.
- IX. The Paschal Lamb of the New Covenant.
- X. Jewish Ritual Murders in the First Centuries of Christianity

Concluding remarks

Page

V—VI

1-13

14— 25

26— 36

37 40

41-45

46-58

59-64

65-67

68-79

80-86

87-88

Digitized by Google

Chapter One.

The names of God in the Old Testament.

An invaluable tool for understanding

Jewish worship of God in general and of people-

The study of the victims among the Jews in particular offers us insights into their plight.

Physiology of the Jewish national god Yohweh!) Eloah & Haibriim (emarz Tr 7772), di Johveh, der Gott der Hebreränen, also Moleoch Johveh (7? 7872 2. Mos. III, 2 uaa O0), di the "Angel of John the Baptist" or, more accurately, Moloch

"Johveh", but usually "Johveh" without further specification named.

The original revelation to which the Jewish consciousness of God is attributed His connection refers to God, the almighty creator of the heaven and earth, with the word "Elohim" (ON, one Plural form, which corresponds very well to the New Testament openness- The revelation of one god can be united in three persons. In the second chapter of Genesis, the Mosaic creator connects Report containing the word "Elohim" and the name "Yohveh" and leaves the work of creation, which "Elohim" began, through »Johveh Elohim« CHs 77%) the Jewish national god,

Because the Jews were not allowed to pronounce the name "Yohveh" (#77%), So the punctuation marks, to indicate that "Adonai" should be read, were placed The vowels belonging to this word are subtracted. Therefore, it is often, especially after the Luther's actions were mistakenly read as "Jehovah" instead of "Johveh". The interpretation "Jehovah" must therefore disappear.

It is also interesting that the highest god among the ancient Romans had a name. has a name reminiscent of "Johveh". Indeed, the nominative case already indicates this. "Jupiter"e = "Jove-Pater" referring to "Johveh", this is even more common among the other case: Jovis, Jovi, Jovem, Jove the case. The term »Elohe« However, formed from "El", it is likely identical to the Arabic word "allah" (God). his, which is formed from the article al and the word ilah.

Mommert, Ritual Murder. I

FENG 2 —

to reach a conclusion. In the first chapter of Genesis (Genesis 1:26) Elohim says: "Let us make mankind "In our image and likeness" — and in the same Chapter (I, 27) states: "And Elohim created man in in his image: in the image of Elohim he created him, man "And woman he created them." — In the second chapter of Genesis In contrast, Moses presents a new creation account (Genesis II, 4—9) the "Yohveh Elohim", the God of the Jews, as world-sculptors appear and create Adam by (Genesis II, 7) writes: "Yoh Elohim formed Adam from earth and

He breathed into his face the breath of life, and so it was

“Adam, a living being.” — Yom Havvić Elohim, the Jewish God, Is he then the one who plants the pleasure garden, and Adam, who he had formed from earth, placed it there so that he might cultivate it.
and keep. It is the Lord God who came to Adam (Genesis 2:16).
says: "You may eat from every tree in the garden, etc." —
It is John the Elohim who (Genesis 2:22) gave Adam the Eve gives herself as a helper. It is John the Lord who makes it rain.
brings forth all kinds of trees from the ground, and the animals of the
The field and the birds of the sky are formed from earth (cf.
(Genesis 2:5, 9, 19). It is John the Lord who (Genesis 3:10, 19)
9 and 13) after the Fall of Man, Adam and Eve were held accountable.
The scape draws, the judgment is passed ([. Mos. III, 14-19), and Adam and expels Eve from Paradise (Lith. III, 23-24).

Only in the fourth chapter of Genesis does "John" appear without Attachment.

Through John the Baptist, the God of the Jews, Eve's mother believes to have become (Genesis 4:1). Cain and [the other] sacrificed to the Lord.
Abel. John the Baptist holds Cain accountable for his murder.
The name of John the Baptist is given by Enos, the son of the Lord.
Seth, whom Eve called "Elohim" as a replacement for the slain one Abel has given, called.

The descendants of Seth appear when the people arrive-
They began to multiply on Earth as "children of Elohim" (Children of God) now in contrast to the descendants of the Cain, whom Eve had received through "John the Baptist", and which as “children of men” (Genesis VI, 2).

John the Baptist sees (Genesis 6:5) that the wickedness of men Having grown up on earth, he regrets that he has not known Adam.
does, and he (John) says (Genesis 6:7): “I will do this

— 3 —

Destroy from the earth the earthly being (Adam) that I created,
from humans to livestock, from vermin to birds
of heaven: for I regret that I made them.”

Noah finds favor before the Lord: for he walked with Elohim (Genesis 6:8-9). Elohim grants Noah the power to...

 He decided to build an ark, and the Lord commanded him, when the time of the flood came, to enter into it, and let it then it will rain for 40 days and 40 nights, whereupon Elohim of the Noah remembers, and a wind blows across the earth. After-Elohim, whom the waters of the flood are diverted, is called the one to whom the waters of the flood are diverted.
 Noah came out of the ark, and he then built for the Lord
 He built an altar and offered sacrifices to him from all the clean animals. John the Lord
 He smelled the lovely scent and said, "Nevermore will I to curse the earth for the sake of mankind, for the meaning and
 The thoughts of the human heart are inclined to evil.
 From my youth onward. That is why I no longer want anything living.
 strike, as I have done. — Every day, as long as the earth
 It stands, sowing and harvest, cold and heat, summer and “Winter, night and day will not cease.” (Genesis 8:21-23).
 – But Elohim blesses Noah and his sons (Genesis 9:1), and concludes (IX, 9-17) a covenant with them for people and Animals, by virtue of which “nevermore all flesh will be replaced by water-who will be killed by the flood, or even if a flood should ever come again, to devastate the earth.”

So much so here in the story of the flood Elohim and John the Baptist walks hand in hand, yet they are still being led by Noah.
 strictly distinguished by referring to John the Baptist as the God of Shem, but presents Elohim as the god of Japheth, and (I. Mos. IX, 26-27) says: “26. Blessed be Johveh, who God (Elohe) of Shem. May Chanaan be his servant. — 27. Elohim Japheth spread out, and he dwelt in the huts of Shem.
 Chanaan shall be his servant.” —

Accordingly, we see how, in the following episode, John the Semites Abraham and his nephew Lot from Haran in Meso-
 Potsdam leads out, as Abraham did to the Lord, who gave him Shechem had appeared and promised to re-to give him the land, build an altar, and when he came from there continued until we reached the mountain which, east of Bethel, located between Bethel and Hai, here in turn one
 He erected an altar and invoked the name of John the Baptist. We see

Furthermore, like John the Baptist, like Abraham, through a famine in The land of Chanaan prompted him to move to Egypt, the King Pharaoh and his house because of Sarah, the wife of Abraham, strikes, although someone might say that Abraham He should actually have been beaten because he was with Sara, instead of her beauty concealed from view by wearing a veil to deprive the Egyptians of the sight of a young girl unveiled let them go, and moreover, instead of telling the truth, confess that she is his wife, in order to gain the favor of the To win over the Egyptians, falsely claiming they were his sister-had been given.

After his return from Egypt, Abraham initially camped. back at its former campsite between Bethel and Hai But after separating from Lot, he moves on orders of the Lord to Hebron (Genesis 13:14-18), and dwells in the Tale Mamre, where he also built an altar to the Lord.

After the victorious campaign which Abraham led to The rescue of his nephew Lot was undertaken, and the well-known Abraham's encounter with Melchizedek, the King of Salem instead, who is a priest of the El eleohn« G ON), di of the “highest God's” was. On this occasion, Abraham explains his God “Johveh” with “El eleohn”, the highest God, the Owners of heaven and earth (Genesis 14:22) for identical, and pays homage to him by giving a tithe to Melchizedek paid from the spoils of war.

The fact that the Jewish God

“Johveh” also the name “Moleoch Johveh”e (IM ee, di the »Angel of John,« or more accurately »Moloch of John,« leads, as did other Semites, e.g. the Ammonites, their national-call God "Molech" and the Jews themselves "Moloch" sacrifice many times. This is how we occasionally read in the narrative of the flight of the Agar (Genesis 16:7-II); “7. And Moleoch

“Jehovah” found her (the agar) at a spring in the Desert...8. and spoke to her: Agar, Sarai's maidservant, where do you come from? You here, and where are you going? — And she answered: I am fleeing before Sarai, my mistress. — 9. And “Moleoch Johveh” spoke To her: Return to your mistress, and humble yourself under her hand. — 10. And again he spoke: I will your

He multiplied the seeds so much that they were beyond counting. — 11. And further he said: Behold, you have conceived and will

— 5 —

You shall bear a son, and you shall name him Ishmael (I hear) “Name it, because John has heard your affliction.” —

Under the same name »Moleoch Johvehe« the God of Abraham reveals himself to us in the story of the sacrifice of the Isaac towards. | |

Elohim commands Abraham to give him his son Isaac as to offer burnt sacrifices. Abraham obeys and goes with to his son at the place designated by Elohim (Genesis 21:21).
1-0). But when he stretches out his hand, and the sword seizes to slaughter his son ("2 "ns dre"), calls

“Moleoch Johveh” spoke to him from heaven.
(I. Mos. XXII, 12—16): “12. Do not stretch out your hand over the boy and do nothing to him: for now I know that you
You fear Elohim and have not spared even your only son.
have for my sake... 14. And he (Abraham) called the
The name of this place is "Johveh sees." That's why it's also said Today: On the mountain, “Johveh” will appear. — 15. And “Moleoch Yohweh” Abraham called from heaven for the second time and said: — 16. I have sworn by myself, he said

“John,” because you have done this, and of your only Son
You have not spared me for my sake, — 17. so I will punish you bless and multiply your seed like the stars of heaven, and like the sand that is on the seashore. Your seed shall possess the gates of his enemies — 18. and in your seed
May all peoples of the earth be blessed, because you are mine.
"You obeyed my voice." —

The same name, "Moleoch," as a designation for the
The patriarch Jacob used the God of his fathers when he appointed Joseph.
His sons Ephraim and Manasseh were born before his death.
accepted and blessed. The biblical text relating to this...
(I. Mos. XLVIII, 15-16) reads: “15. And Jacob blessed the sons of Joseph, and said: the “Elohim”, before whose face my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked, the “Elohim”, who

It has nourished me from my youth until this day: —
16. May the "Moleoch," who redeemed me from all evil, bless me.
these boys etc." —

“Moleoch Johveh” appears to Moses in the burning Thorn bushes on the mountain of Elohim in the desert, and when Moses
As he approached, he called out "John" from the burning bush and said he be the “Eloh&ö” of his father, the “Elohö” of Abraham.

a

the “Elohe” of Isaac, the “Elohe” of Jacob. But Moses,
So we read on, he did not dare to look up to "Elohim" (II Mos. II, 2).

When Moses then asks for the name of God, he receives (II. Mos. III, 15) from “Elohim” the message: This you shall to the sons of Israel: “Yohveh, the Elohi of your fathers, the “Eloh&ö” of Abraham, the “Elohö” of Isaac, the “Eloh of Jacob has sent me to you; this is mine.”
Name forever, and so shall I be called by lineage
"Regarding gender." —

It would be going too far to list the numerous passages of the old Testament, where the God of the Jews is referred to as Each episode of "Moleoch" will be discussed individually. However, the fact that... the name »Moleoch« (Who), which is the Jewish God »Yohveh«
in olden times it was so often settled with the "Molech"
(Joi) or "Moloch", which the Ammonites, who also Semites were, worshipped, and associated with the "Moloch" (72%), which the Jews in the Valley of Gehinnom near Jerusalem with a rearward setting of the Mosaic cult of John the Baptist even in the days of the kings so diligently they served, is identical, should be, if not linguistically, so they can objectively be considered safe.

* N
*

However often the names El appear in the Old Testament, Elohé, Elohim, Joveh and other names of God are synonymous and be used by the same one and true God,

It sometimes seems as if the term which the Hebrews with these names associated themselves with our Christian faith.
Our concept of God does not always fully correspond to our own.
would like to. While we Christians in the almighty, eternal Creator of heaven and earth also the geto see a righteous judge who not only rewards good deeds, but Even though evil is punished, it still occurs with the God of the Christians.
the paternal relationship of God to us humans more in the Foreground, and in the physiognomy of the Christian God reigns the merciful leniency before, during which not with bloodless
Not only sacrifices, but blood, even human beings—
The sacrifice-seeking "Yohveh" inspires more terror than love, and his entire rule based on fear and terror-seems to have built.

VALUES: 7 —

G. Fr. Daumer (The Fire and Moloch Service of the Ancients) Hebrews etc., Braunschweig, 1842.) wants in the Jewish God the Recognize the evil principle and not just treat it with various,
not even Indian and American bogeymen.
also identify with the Egyptian Typhon, and writes (aa OS 10 ff.): "As a . . . dreadful, terrifying and He (John) becomes a terrible being throughout the entire ancient world.
throughout the will, which is full of descriptions and Descriptions of his harsh, uncanny, threatening, destructive shattering, destructive violence and mindset. At His appearance on Sinai warns the people that it does not approach and is crushed by John the Baptist (Exodus 18:21-25). David is afraid to put the Ark of the Covenant in to bring his city, the menacing, shattering
Because of the fear of the God whose presence is associated with her-
is bound, and who intends no crime whatsoever
He kills Usa on the spot simply because he sees this holy place touched to protect it from falling (2 Sam. (King.) 6, 6— 10), — yes, the Bethsemites who rejoice, who are hereto see the coming drawer, whether the sight of it with a a deadly plague that has killed over fifty thousand people snatches away (1 Samuel (Kings) 6:12 ff.). And so this is his name.
God, too, the terrible, dreadful, fearful one.
Pw, non (Ps. 89:8), the terrible, dreadful Shem

(V, Mos. 28, 58), yes, the terror x, m» itself (Ps. 76, 12)).
Thus, too, will that terrible Sivas of the Indians, the god of the Fire and destruction, Rudra and Ugras, the fearsomeliche, called, and the ancient Mexicans called their protector-and war god Huitzilopochtli or Mexitli not only Tetzauhte-otl, the terrible god, but also Tetzahuitl, the Terror itself (Clavigero, History of Mexico, Leipzig, 1789; J. Part p. 358).*

"As a destroyer, an annihilator, like the Indian Sivas,
The Old Testament God appears in several of his names.
nungen. Thus he is called Shaddai, the destroyer, from d, ver-coarse, and Jehovah, Jehovah, where in comparison with m, ho wa,

1) Cf. Isaiah VIII, 12f., where N and Pn are connected, as in Psalm 89:8 P parallel to & Me stands. Genesis 31:42: PIX" Id of terror, god of terror Isaac's.

he

hawwa, ruin, destruction, the same meaning close lies. In Iroquois, death is called ne jawoheje, jawoheje.
die (Loskiel, Missionsgeschichte, Barby 1789, p. 29 f.), and Jawahu, Jowahu, is a name already mentioned above for the evil spirit among the Indians in Guiana. The devil, who They call them Jawahi, wrote Quandt, the Indians in Suriname all diseases and all evil encountered by them.
(Quandt, News of Suriname and its inhabitants, Görlitz)
1807, p. 258), and in the work of a Dutchman on Guiana
The following note can be found: "A certain council from our
The colony of Essequibo, called Pypersberg, was founded in 1746.
up to the Masseronny and saw on the seventh day of his journey in a plain situated between high mountains, a very high Pyramid of hewn stones, which appear to be fully-
It was square and ended in a point. It was be-eager to examine them more closely, but none of his
The Native Americans wanted to go with him, claiming it was a House of Jawahu, as they call the devil, which is why he
Out of fear of being abandoned by them, the investigation gave up (JJ Hartsink, Description of Guiana from the Hol-(Landes von Fabri, Berlin 1784, Part I, p. 265). It was this probably an old American, like the Sinai, unapproachable Jehovah-

 It was a sanctuary, in that the name Jawahu was nothing other than which appears to be Jehovah of the Bible, spoken with metathesis, because it also comes in a different and still unchanged form
 This name originated in America. From North American Indians-
 C. Colton reports the following regarding the tribes: "While on the
 The fire blazes on the altars of burnt offerings; they dance and sing around it.
 They walk around and shout in a loud voice, "JU-Je-Wah!" — Whoever sees
 Not soon in these tones the holy name of Jehovah? —
 They also use the Hebrew word Elohim for the great spirit, as well as not infrequently in their sacred songs and just as clearly as in Christian choirs, the word: Hallelujah is heard" (Basel Missionary Magazine 1834,
 p. 561, according to Colton's "Journey to the North American Lakes"
 and among the Indians in the northwestern area in 1830", London 1833). According to Latifau, Escarbot, Charlevoix, Adair and Noah, these Native Americans sing Hallelujah, they have a sacred, unimaginable Shrouded Ark (Ark of the Covenant), worship the Yo-He-Wah and during sacred dances and songs, this name is used in ge-separately with the addition of Meshiha and Shilu as follows-masses heard: Yo-Meschiha, He-Meschiha, Wah-Meschiha — or: Shilu-Yo, Shilu-He, Shilu-Wahh, what with the Shem Hamphorash of the Jews, as a tripled Jehovah's name, comparable.!) In the word Meshichah

— 9 —

 One can recognize the Hebrew mon = maschiach, prince, king, — and Shilu reminds us of the nations promised in Jacob's blessing-ruler, whom the obscure name Shiloh refers to (Genesis 49:10).
 The Pluto luvie of the Umbrians was also: Akeruniamen, the called "destroyer" (Creuzer, Symbolism, 2nd ed. II p. 964), and these Umbrians had, remarkably, suffered the victim of a red heifer, like the Hebrews (Creuzer aa O. and IV Mos. 19:2).
 Bulls and humans were given to the evil Typhon of the Egyptians.
 sacrificed of red color (Diodor. I, 88. Plutarch. de Isid. et Osir. 3 1), and we will soon see again how this develops.
 Egyptian god, the Hebrew Jehovah touched. Also Shem.
 (ow), the Shem (ur), is called this, so that in one place |
 The Pentateuch accumulates the expressions as follows: "that you
 You fear Shem, this great and terrible one, the Jehovah, your God (Genesis 28:58), where the meaning is:

The name given to the word (Shem), very dull and ge-appears forced, and a proxy expression for Jehovah This is completely unnecessary, since the name itself is not missing, but is added immediately. Compare rather the forms uw, bus, zus, mw, whose basic sound is ow, and which in turn refers to the Meaning: Destroyer, destroyer, as opposed to the original, lead to those with the meaning: name, Jehovah's name only has been confused and confused. One form was m» with dem) paragogicum, like v = >, na = nn; like that in the name Samuel, Nww, Shemuel, Shmuel, di Schmu (Shem) is God, like Joel: Jo (Jehovah) is God. Now, the Egyptian was called tic Typhon »Smy<« Plutarch. de Isid. et Osir. 62), which probably The same as smear, so that Shem-Jehovah presents himself as the evil one.

1) See Latifau, Moeurs des sauvages Americains, Paris 1723, of which a translation in Baumgarten's general history of countries and peoples by America, Part I p. 426 and Part II p. 670. — Also Escarbot, Histoire de la

nouvelle France, I, 3, 6. — Charlevoix, Histoire d'un voyage dans l'Amerique septentrionale, Paris 1744, T. 6 p. 72.—Adair, History of the American Indians, London 1775. — Noah, proof that the American Indians are the descendants of the lost tribes of Israel. Altona 1838.

Typhon the Egyptian, whose worshippers were the Hebrews were. Therefore, a half-Hebrew, the son of an Egyptian, blasphemes against them. Shem, and is stoned for it. It was the evil Typhon. whom he had cursed (III Mos. 24:10).”

“Typhon was also called Seth (Plutarch. de Isid et Osir. cap. 1). 41, 49, 62), and it is now most striking that the Hebrews from a Shem (Sem) and a Sheth (Seth) deduce that these names, from one of which the name Semites is educated, the highest founding points of their genealogical-form a special feature, and Schem also expresses- who is the father of all the boar's children (Genesis 10:2). Cf. Plutarch. de Isid. et Osir. 31, where Typhon depicts Hierosolymus and (who produced Judea.). How could anyone doubt that the Hebrews from the earliest times have been against this evil spirit, lineage dedicated to this corrupting Typhon-Moloch-Saturn

"Been?" — So said Daumer.

Let us view this as equal to erudition as acumen.
As we examine the evidence more closely, we note,
that our author repeatedly misses the target with his arrows.

Firstly, it is to be criticized that Daumer, the process
Following Luther's example, the divine name =, instead of John the Baptist, which translates to Jehovah. What now is the explanation of this word?
As far as names are concerned, the same is through the authentic interpretation.
the same is so decisively established in the second book of Moses (III, 14), that the derivation from howa, hawwa (mn), ruin, corruption
The idea that Daumer wants is completely ruled out. "Also the fact that "jawoheje" means "to die" in Iroquois,
This cannot be changed because it is scientifically inadmissible.
is, Hebrew words after similar-sounding ones from the language to interpret the Iroquois. Namely, when God told Moses on the mountain Sinai appeared, and sent him with the message to his brothers in Egypt entrusted Moses (Genesis III, 13) spoke to Elohim:
"Look, I am to go to the sons of Israel and say to them:
The God (Eloh) of your fathers has sent me to you.
They will now say to me: What is his name? What should
"I'll tell them?" — 14. Then God (Elohim) spoke to Moses:
I am who I am. And he said: Thus you shall say
To the sons of Israel: "He who is has sent me."

Likewise, it is completely wrong to call the Jewish God John the Baptist.
to identify with the devil, the evil principle;

with Daumer's attempt to justify this list,
that the Indians in Guiana call the devil "Jawahu", that the Indians in Suriname the devil, who gave them the name
"Jawahi" leads to all diseases and everything they encounter.
To attribute evil to North American Indian tribes, while
The fire blazes on the altar of burnt offering, singing around the-dance around the same people and shout JU-Je-Wah in a loud voice, and worship a god Yo-He-Wah, must be considered complete can be described as unsuccessful. "Daumer seems unaware." to have that it was forbidden for Jews to use the name m =
To pronounce Johveh (not "Jehova" as Daumer mistakenly believes),
and that they always, like the punctuation marks,
Words with subordinate vowels guided them to read "Adonai".
Native Americans, who bore the unpronounceable name of "Johveh"-

Those who knew him and had spoken him out could never have been among the have belonged to the lost ten tribes of Israel. The Native American The devil Javahu therefore has the same relationship with the Jewish god Johveh-little to accomplish, like JU-Je-Wah, Yo-Meschiha, He-Meschiha, Wah-Meschiha, Schilu-Yo, Schilu-He and Schilu-Wah. |

Daumer's identification of Johveh is equally unsuccessful. with the Egyptian Typhon. The path on which Daumer The effort to reach this result is witty. and it looks learned, but it isn't. It's about the rendering of the word "Shem" (ov) in two Mosaic Text passages.

The first of the two points raised by Daumer (Leviticus 24:10-16) reads: "But behold, the son of a Israelite woman, whom she married an Egyptian among the had given birth to sons of Israel, went out and quarreled with an Israelite man in the camp. — 11. And since he the He blasphemed the "name" (of God) and cursed him; he was led to Moses. — 12. And they put him in prison until they realized, which "Yohveh" would command. — 13. This man spoke to Moses, — 14. and said: Bring the blasphemer out of the camp, and All who own it should lay their hands on its head, and All the people shall stone him. — 15. And tell the sons Israel's: A person who curses his God (-d) shall have his Bear iniquity. — 16. And whoever bears the name of John" (MI "u, If someone blasphemes (Shem Johveh), he shall be put to death: he shall be stoned.

the entire community, whether he is a native or a stranger. Whoever blasphemes the name of the Lord shall be put to death."

The second passage (Deuteronomy 28:58-59) contains the following word-loudly: "58. And if you do not keep and do all the words of this laws written in this book, and not fear-test the glorious and terrible name, rd) This is to the Lord your God (JN 1): — 59. so it will "Jeve, increase your plagues, etc." —

Daumer wants to use the word Schem in these two passages (su), which is to be rendered with names, not in this take its first and original 'meaning', but as a proper name, and thus he arrives at it by using the name

Schem identified with "Smy", to his above-explained Results. However, three things stand in the way. 1. Scheme and Smy are neither linguistically nor in terms of content-set. — 2. Shem appears nowhere as a divine name for "Yohveh" in the holy scriptures. — 3. The interpretation of the word Shem as a proper name is in the present text passages by nothing is offered; rather, the connection between the two requires the reproduction of the same with its inherent basic meaning "Name". This also renders Daumer's equally meaningful-as a loveless conclusion that the Hebrews were among the oldest Times ago, a time before the evil spirit, the corrupting one Typhon-Moloch-Saturn, a sacred lineage.

Chapter Two.

The Old Testament theophanies.

The holy scriptures of the Old Testament report that in the years of ancient times between God and man there was heavy traffic, and God gave man back-It appeared perceptible to the senses. In what form God gave the first man in paradise, later his brother-murderer Cain, and later Enoch and Noah themselves what was depicted is not reported to us, nor is it reported in the case of the re-brought into the conversation that the patriarchs had with God In most cases, nothing of the form in which God appears He revealed himself to them, he said. But when John spoke to Abraham in the valley of Mamre, according to Genesis 18:1-2, in human form appeared, and God, according to Genesis 31:24-25, in the form a man wrestled with Jacob, and Genesis 1:27 also reports this. that Elohim created Adam in his own image- If we have created something, then we may consider ourselves entitled to approach assume that God is everywhere, unless explicitly stated otherwise. The form of appearance is called human form. People with whom he associated, with whom he showed himself. Thus The fact that the angels in the Old Testament were also- if they appear in human form, they are in harmony, just as also the other fact that Jesus Christ, the Son of God, when he came into this world, became human, and as a human being lived on earth, suffered and died as a human being, rose again, and in returned to heaven in human form.

If God, in the Old Testament, now appears in human form-
The way in which he was revealed also explains why he was told in Scripture physical senses: eyes and ears, mouth and nose, hands and feet are laid down. It may seem peculiar to us now.

to seem when "Johveh" is used on various occasions, brand-offering sacrifices to the sweet scent," and when it is Genesis 8:21 (on the occasion of the burnt offering, which Noah (who offers himself to God after the flood) means: "And the Lord smelled the lovely scent etc." — the ancient Hebrews seem to have found that completely in order, and nowhere in the
In ancient covenants, such expressions are considered sacred.
Writer complains.

* *
*

A second, for us humans even more terrible event-manifestation of the Jewish national god Yom Vehe is the Fire that on some occasions only shines without actually burning burning, but on other occasions it also burns, which is-
The sacrifices offered are consumed, the wicked are punished, and those against God are punished.
Prophets send out henchmen who devour them.

An interesting example of the first kind is the burning
A thorn bush in the desert, about which the scripture (Exodus III:1-6) which spread with the following words: "But Moses was guarding the sheep of Jethro, his father-in-law, the priest in Madian:
And as he drove the herd deeper into the desert, he came to Mountains of Elohim, Horeb. — 2. And Moleoch Johveh appeared to him in a flame of fire from the middle of a thorn bush, and he saw that the thorn bush was burning, and not be consumed. — 3. Then Moses said: I will go, and look at this great apparition, why the thorn bush not burns. — 4. But when the Lord saw that he was going to see,
He called to him from the burning bush, and said: Moses! Moses!
And he answered; Here I am! — 5. But John said:
Do not come near: take off your shoes; for the
The place where you are standing is holy ground. — 6. And he spoke

I am the God (Elohé) of your father, the God (Elohé) Abrahams, the God (Elohé) of Isaac, the God (Elohe) of Jacob. There Moses covered his face, for he dared not look up. against God (Elohim)." —

The form under which John the Lord appeared was truly wonderful. or as it says in Exodus 14:19, "Mole och Johveh" of all Eyes occasionally of the exodus of the children of Israel from Egypt and throughout the entire forty years of this people's migration in the desert, by spending the day in a

— 15 —

A pillar of cloud, but at night the camp in a pillar of fire. accompanied. Whether John the Baptist only accompanied the Lord through this manifestation whether he wanted to express his omnipotence, or whether he was given a

It is difficult to say what other intention may have been behind it.

The appearance through the eternal flame on the portable altars of burnt offerings, which the Jews used in the desert,

Trying to explain it is not feasible, because this altar was only built in produced in the desert, the appearance of John the Baptist in the aforementioned cloud and fire pillar, however, already during the out-the train from Egypt entered, as the scripture (II Mos. XIII, 20-22) it explicitly reports with the words: "20. And they

They set out from Socoth and encamped at Etham on the outermost edge of the desert. — 2. But John went before them to guide them, of the day in a column of cloud, and at night in a pillar of fire: so that he might be their leader be on the journey at all times. — 22. The clouds never parted.

"A pillar by day, and a pillar of fire by night from the people." —

But that we really will find it in this pillar of clouds and fire to have to do with a manifestation of John the Baptist, that proves the intervention of the pillar, when the sons of Israel were through it

The pursuing army of the Pharaoh is in danger, about which we

(Rev. 14:19-25) read: "19. And the

"Moleoch Elohim" Ces 7872), which was in front of the camp of Israel and went behind her: and with him went the clouds-pillar from the front, and now stood from behind — 20th between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel: and the cloud was dark, and illuminated the night, so that they could not enter-

Others could come all night. — 21. Now Moses
When he stretched out his hand over the sea, John took it away through a strong, burning wind that carried the whole Night blew, and made it dry, and it parted.
Water. — 22. Then the Israelites went through the middle of the dry sea: for the water stood like a wall to it Right and left. — 23. And the Egyptians pursued, and They went in behind them, and all of Pharaoh's horsemen and his chariots went in.
and his riders into the middle of the sea. — 24. And then came the Morning watch, and behold, the Lord looked out of the fire and
A pillar of cloud fell upon the Egyptian camp, and struck down their army.”

In no less magnificent, fear and terror er-
In a moving way, John revealed himself to the children of Israel.

— 16 —

occasionally the legislation on Sinai, its armament and
The scripture (II. Mos. XIX, 7 ff.) describes the course of events with the following words:
describes: “7. Then Moses came and called the elders of the people, and recited to them all the words that John had commanded —
8. And all the people answered at once: Everything that John said
What we have spoken of, we will do. And when Moses heard the words of the people... brought back to John the Lord — 9. John the Lord said to him: Now Will I come to you in a dark cloud, so that this People, hear me speak to you, and believe in you forever. And Moses reported the words of the people to the Lord, — 10. spoke

He said to him: Go to the people and sanctify them today and tomorrow, and let them wash their clothes. — 11. And they

They should be ready for the third day: for on the third day
The Lord will descend to Mount Sinai with all the people.
— 12. And you shall set limits for the people all around, and say to them: Beware of climbing the mountain, and to touch its limits: Everyone who touches the mountain should to die. — 13. No hand should touch him, but He should be stoned or shot with arrows: whether animal or man, he shall not live. When the trumpet sounds—
When the sound begins to echo, then they should come to the mountain.

14. And Moses came down from the mountain to the people, and he-
 It lay there. And when she had washed her clothes, — 15. he spoke.
 To them: Be prepared for the third day, and do not approach your wives. — 16. Now when the third day came, and the Morning dawned: behold, there was a sound as it began to thunder and lightning, and an extremely thick cloud covered the mountain, and the sound of trumpets resounded.
 The violence grew increasingly violent, and the people who were in the camp were afraid.
 — 17. And Moses led them out of the earth to meet God.
 Camp, and they positioned themselves at the foot of the mountain. — 18. And
 The whole of Mount Sinai was smoking because "Yohveh" was in it Fire descended upon it, and smoke rose from it.
 up, as if from an oven: and the whole mountain was terrifyinglich. — 19. And the sound of the trumpet grew ever louder, and
 It spread further and further: Moses spoke, and God responded.
 He spoke to him. — 20. And the Lord came down upon Mount Sinai, to the top of the mountain, and called Moses to the top.
 When he had come up, — 21. he said to him: Climb down, and warn the people that they should not desire to

– 17 u „5

to overcome barriers in order to see the Lord, so that not a very large number of them perish. — 22. Also The priests who approach John the Lord shall be sanctified.
 so that he would not strike her. — 23. And Moses said to the Lord:
 The people will not be able to reach Mount Sinai, because You testified to it and commanded it, saying: Set Set up barriers around the mountain and sanctify it. — 24. And John the Lord said to him: Go down and then come up,
 You and Aaron with you. But the priests and the people shall Do not cross the barriers and do not climb up to them.
 “Yohveh,” so that he would not kill her. — 25. And Moses ascended.
 down to the people, and told them everything.”

After these preparations, John spoke from the mountain.
 out to the people gathered at his foot and proclaimed to him those known under the name of the holy Ten Commandments Fundamental laws of the Mosaic religion, as recounted in the holy report (II. Mos. XX, 18) continues with the words: “18. And the whole
 The people saw the thunder and the lightning, and the sound of the trumpets.
 and the smoking mountain: and since they were afraid and from

Struck by terror, they stepped into the distance — 19th and They said to Moses: Speak to us and we will listen!
But Elohim, do not speak to us, or we will die.
20. And Moses said to the people: Do not be afraid, for Elohim has come to test you, and with that his Let the fear be within you that you will not sin. — 21. And the people stood at a distance. But Moses approached the darkness, in which Elohim was." —

* *

*

The conclusion of the legislation on Sinai and the seal of the covenant, which God as the lawgiver and the children Israel, as the recipients of the law, now concluded with one another, formed a settlement at the foot of Sinai, founded by the children of Israel-brought federal sacrifices and then on the height of the mountain in the presence of the Lord, by Moses, Aaron, and seventy elders sacrificial meal taken. The Mosaic account of this
(I. Mos. XXIV, 4-18) reads: "4. And Moses wrote all the words of the Lord and arose in the morning, and built below
On the mountain, an altar with twelve pillars, representing the twelve tribes.
Israel. — 5. And he sent young men from among the sons of Israel.

Mommert, Ritual Murder. 2

– 18 ==

And they brought burnt offerings and sacrificed calves to the Lord.
as a peace offering. — 6. And Moses took half of the blood, and He poured it into bowls, but he poured the remaining half onto the altar.

7. And he took the Book of the Covenant and read it to the people, which listened, and they said: Everything that John said,
We want to do this and be obedient. — 8. But he took the blood, and sprinkled it on the people, and said: This is the Blood of the covenant that "John" made with you has over all these laws. — 9. Then Moses ascended, Aaron, Nadab and Abiu, and seventy of the elders of Israel up. — 10. And they saw the God (Elohé) of Israel: and It was beneath his feet like the work of sapphire, and like the Heaven, when it is clear. — 11. And he laid his hand to those of the sons of Israel who had come a long way, And they saw God (Elohim) and ate and drank. 12. But the Lord said to Moses, "Come up to me on the hillside." Mountain, and stay there. I will give you tablets of stone, and the law and the commandments that I wrote, that you you teach them. — 13. Then Moses arose, and Joshua, his Servant: and Moses ascended the mountain of Elohim, — 14th and He said to the elders: Wait here until we return. to you. You have Aaron and Hur with you: if there is a dispute If something happens among you, bring it to them. — 15. And when Moses As I climbed the mountain, a cloud covered it, — 1. and The glory of the Lord dwelt on Sinai, and covered He was with a cloud for six days; but on the seventh day he called he brought him out of the darkness. — 17. And the appearance of the The glory of John the Baptist was like burning fire upon the top of the mountain, before the face of the sons Israel's. — 18. And Moses stepped into the midst of the mist, and ascended up the mountain, and he was there forty days and forty Nights." —

★★

The fire is lit on various other occasions, in which "Yohveh" reveals itself, not only, but it burns also, and consumes the offerings presented to the grotto. This Art was the fire in which "Josep"x gave Abraham only the covenant sacrifice appears, of which we (Genesis 15, (7-18) read: "7. And he (»John the Lord«) said to Abraham: I

I am "Yohveh," who led you out of Ur in the Chaldeans to give you this to give land (Chanaan) as possession. — 8. But he (Abraham) said: Lord "John," how can I know that I have it I will possess. — 9. And "John" answered and said: Take from me (as a victim. DV) a three-year-old cow, a three-year-old goat, and a three-year-old ram, also a turtledove a dove and a young dove." — 10. And he (Abraham) took He divided all of them in the middle and placed both pieces next to each other. opposite. But he did not cut up the birds." . . . "12. And As the sun set, Abraham fell into a deep sleep, and Great terror and darkness came over him. — 13. And it

He was told: Know beforehand that your seed is foreign will be in a land that is not his, and they will to serve and torment for four hundred years. — 14. But I will judge the people they serve, and after that They will leave with great possessions. — 15. And you will be in Go to your fathers in peace, and be buried in good old age will be. — 16. But in the fourth generation they shall again come here: for the destruction of the Amorrhites until this time. — 17. And when the sun
Once it had sunk, a dense darkness arose.
and a smoking oven appeared, and a fire-
The flame passed between those pieces.”

“On that day” — so begins the Mosaic account
(I. Mos. XV:18) continued, — “Jehovah made a covenant with Abrahham and said: To your seed I will give this land, from the river of Egypt to the great river Euphrates etc.” —

There can be no doubt that we are in the "smoking oven" and in the "flame of fire", which is between the one demanded by John the Baptist and prescribed by Abraham moderately presented bloody federal offerings through-Driving is a manifestation of the covenant-making Johveh.
to see, and there is no doubt that John the Baptist consumed the sacrifice he had slaughtered with pleasure.
has, although something like that is directed at us, who associate such bloody things with such things
Victims who are not used to it make a peculiar impression.

Incidentally, the Jewish God John the Baptist repeatedly re-honors descending from heaven in the form of fire to...
to feast on the burnt offering presented to him, and not only, as in the previously recounted case, at night, and in opposition to

2*

waited from only one or a few witnesses, but also before a large crowd gathered, and during the day.

This is what happened, as we read in Book II of Chronicles.
(II. Paralip. VO, 1—3) read, at the dedication of the Solomon-the Temple of John the Baptist in Jerusalem. But we hear of the

The holy writer's own words. Our author writes (aa O. VII, 1): "And when Solomon had finished praying, it fell Fire from the sky devoured the burnt offerings and other Sacrifice: and the glory of the Lord filled the house. —
2. And the priests could not enter the house of the Lord.
go: for the glory of John filled the house of the John the Lord. — 3. All the sons of Israel also saw the fire and the glory of the Lord descends upon the house etc." —

Another example of how the Jewish God Yoveh in fire-figure descends from the sky to devour its victim, depicts the famous sacrifice of Elijah on Mount Carmel. After Ahab had been forced to rely on the Prophet Elijah's teachings after a three-year drought.
The reason the people are gathered here so that through a divine blessing they may be blessed

The verdict will reveal whether Baal or John the Baptist is the true God.
be. The true God should reveal himself through fire from heaven-Bares. So the four hundred and fifty prophets built first.
Baal built an altar for their god. Baal was summoned, however
In vain. "When midday had already passed, he spoke Elijah," — as we read in the third (first) Book of Kings 18:30 —

"To all the people: Come to me!" And when the people came to him,
He repaired the altar of John the Lord, which had been destroyed.
31. And he took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the Sons of Jacob, to whom the word of the Lord came, and He said: Israel shall be your name! — 32. And he built from an altar to the stones in the name of John the Baptist (77? 23), and He made a channel, about two furrows wide, around the altar around, — 33. and stacked the wood, and cut the bull into pieces, and laid it on the wood, — 34. and said: Fill four jars of water, and pour it on the burnt offering and on the wood. And again he said: Do it once more!
And when she had done it a second time, he said: Do it a third time
Times! And they did it a third time, — 35. and the water
He ran around the altar, and the basin of the water passage filled up.
36. And when it was time to make the sacrifice, then

Elijah the prophet came forward and said: "Yohe," God (Elohe) Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob! Show today that you are the
You are God (Elohim) of Israel, and I am your servant, and that I
I did all this according to your command. — 37. Ask me,
"Yoh, hear me, that this people may know that you

"Yohveh Elohim" you are, and her heart was turned around again. You have. — 38. Then Fire-John (77?) fell down, and— consumed the burnt offering, and the wood and the stones, and the dust, and licked the water that was in the There was a waterway. — 39. When all the people saw this, they noticed his face, and said: John the Lord is Elohim, John the Lord is Elohim." —

A particularly interesting manifestation of this is...

"John the Great" from the time of the Judges, of which we read in the Book of the Judges (VI, 6-24) read: "6. And Israel was greatly humiliated before Madian. — 7. Then it cried out to "Yahweh" and pleaded for Help against the Medinans. — 8. And he sent a man, a prophet to them, who said: Thus says "John, The God (Elohe) of Israel: I have brought you up from Egypt, and brought you out of the house of slavery-scape, — 9. and rescued from the hand of the Egyptians and all Enemies who oppressed you: and I cast them out before you, and gave you their land. — 10. And I said: I am "John, Your God (Elohein), do not fear the God (Elohein) of Cupid. knights, in whose land you live. But you wanted me Do not obey the voice. — 11. But then came the "Moleoch".

"Jehovah" and sat down under the oak tree that was in Ephra, and which belonged to Joas, the father of Ezri's family. And there Gredeon, his son, beat out the grain in the winepress trough and cleaned to escape the Madianites, — 12. then appeared to him "Moleoch Johveh" and said: Johveh is with you, you Mighty hero! — 13. And Gedeon spoke to him: My lord (Adoni)! I beg you, if "Yohveh" is with us, why did all This about us? Where are his miracles that our fathers performed? counted by saying: From Egypt "Yohveh" brought us led out? — Yes, now "John the Lord" has abandoned us, and in the hand of the Medinans was given. — 14. And "John" saw He looked at him and said: Go in this strength of yours, and you will Save Israel from the hand of Madian: for know that I have saved you sent. — 15. And he answered and said: My lord (Adoni),

I beg you, how can I save Israel? Behold, my family is the least in Manasseh, and I am the least in the house my father. — 16. And “John” said to him, “I will be with you, and you will beat Madian like a single person. Man. — 17. And he answered him: Do I have favor in your eyes? If I find you, give me a sign that it is you who is with me. talks. — 18. Do not leave until I return to you- Come and take the grain offering and bring it to you. And he ant- He said: I will wait until you come back. — 19. Then he went Gedeon went in, and cooked a young goat, and unleavened Breads from a Modius flour, and placed the meat in a basket, and poured the meat broth into a pot, and carried everything under the oak tree, and presented it to him. — 20. And “Moleoch “Jehovah said to him; Take the meat and the unleavened bread.” Bread, and place it on this rock, and pour in the broth. about it. And since he had done so, — 2. then “Moleoch” stretched out “Jehovah” the tip of the staff he held in his hand, and touched the meat and the unleavened bread, and fire emerged from the rock and devoured the flesh and the unleavened breads. “Moleoch Johveh,” however, vanished before his eyes. — 22. And Gedeon saw that it “Moleoch Johveh” was there, and said: Woe is me, Lord “Johveh”! I have seen the “Moleoch Johveh” face to face. Face. — 23. And “John” said to him: Peace be with you. to you! Do not be afraid, you will not die. — 24. So he built Gedeon there built an altar to "John the Lord" and named it: "The peace of the Lord to this day."

* *
*

A very strange event, which testifies to us, that the "Fire-Johveh", when the opportunity arises, also living people, and in large numbers all at once, to The fourth (second) book of the Kings. King Ochozias fell from the Having fallen from the height of his upper room, he is seriously injured and sends an embassy to send Beelzebub, the god (Elohé) of Akkaron, to be questioned regarding his recovery. On behalf of The prophet Elijah represents the “Moleoch Johveh” in this context.

The envoy set out on the way, and said to her: “Is there no God in Israel, that you go to Beelzebub, the God (Elohé) of

.

To question Akkaron? Therefore, “Yohveh” speaks: From the bed, You shall not descend from that which you have climbed, but from which you have ascended.

to die (II. IV.) Kings I, 2-4). — When this Ochozias was informed, he sent fifty men from his Bodyguard, under the command of a colonel, surrounding the Prophet, to demonstrate the one who sat on a mountaintop. So he set out, and when he found the prophet, he spoke to him (2nd (4th) Kings 1, 9-15): “9. Man of God (Ish Elohim)! The King has commanded, that you descend.” — 10. And Elijah answered, and spoke To the chief over fifty: Am I a man of God? (Ish Elohim), so let fire fall from heaven and consume you and your fifty. — Then fire fell from heaven and devoured him and the fifty who were with him. — 11. And he (Ochozias) sent yet another colonel over fifty, and the fifty with him. And he said to him: Man of God (Ish Elohim), thus speaks the King: Come down quickly! — 12. And Elijah answered, and said: If I am a man of God, May fire fall from the sky and consume you and your fifty. Then fire fell from the sky and consumed him and his fifty. — 13. And he again sent a colonel over fifty, the third, and the fifty who were with him. There When he arrived, he bent his knees before Elijah and pleaded with him, and said: Man of God! Do not despise my soul, nor The souls of your servants who are with me. — 14. Behold! It is Fire fell from the sky, and killed the two colonels above Fifty were eaten, the first ones along with the fifty others, so with them were: but now I beg you, have mercy on my soul. — 15. And “Moleoch Johveh” spoke to Elijah, and said: Go Down with him, and do not be afraid! — So he stood up, and went down with him to the king.”

* *

=

*

It would go too far to discuss the numerous theophanies of Old Covenant, of which we have in the above the main types. We will not pursue the matter further. upon it, upon the eternal lamp in the tabernacle (II. Mos. XXVII., 20—21) and the Eternal Fire on the burnt offering altar (III. Mos. VI, 9—12) to go into here, and limit ourselves to the discussion of a text on the fire appearances of "John". Regarding the quote from G. Fr. Daumer: "The Fire and Molochservice of the ancient Hebrews etc. (Braunschweig 1842, p. 19), where This author writes: "Jehovah (Johveh. DV), the God of Israel, is a consuming fire (V. Mos. IV, 24), and goes as such before his people, to destroy the nations (Genesis 9:3). The prestige of the glory of Jehovah (of Johveh. DV) is like consuming fire on the summit of Sinai (I. Mos. XXIV, 17); he appears on this in fire and lightning, and the mountain smokes like a furnace (II. Mos. XIX, 16, 18; XX, 18; V. Mos. IV, 11); he speaks from the fire (V. Mos. IV, 12). Smoke rises from his nose, and fire eats from his mouth, Coals burn from within it, and from the radiance before it. Clouds, hail, and burning coals travel (2 Sam. (King.) 22, 9 and 13; Ps. XVII (XVII), 9 and 13) Fire comes out of him, and eats the sacrifice of the altar (III. Mos. IX, 24). Ezekiel looks at a fire appearance described in detail- Lord's (of Johveh. DV) glory (Ezek. I, 4 ff., 26 ff.), and according to the Talmudic tradition, Dinur or Regjon a river of fire which flows from the holy, blessed God poured forth from beneath the throne of his glory." (Iron-Menger, Discovered Judaism, II, 346 and 371 ff.). — So Daumer.

Let us immerse ourselves in the contemplation of the gruesome features, with which the holy writers of the Old Testament Physiology of the Jewish national god Yohweh drawn. However, we will have to admit that the colors sometimes applied very garishly; but if Daumer that Result of his studies on this subject (aa OS 18, below) in he puts it into words: "that one is blinded to the highest degree must be, in order not to become a deity (in John the Baptist) gazes that of a fire genius, like the Indian

Sivas or the Sippharenian fire king Adramelech,
"basically, it's not at all different" — that's how it is But then again, it's also too much. So we'll do everything, probablyweighing, they had to hold fast to the fact that the ancient Hebrews in their National god John the pillar of good, not evil.
have worshipped. The fact that John the Baptist offered bloody sacrifices, yes even accepting human sacrifices so that he may have the horns

1) Cf. Isaiah 33:14: "The sinners in Zion tremble, they quake!"
seize the wicked: Who among us may dwell by the devouring fire, and
"Who among us lives among the eternal gluten?"

to smear his altar with blood or the side walls of the Sprinkle the altar with blood, and place the remaining sacrificial blood next to it.
he pours out raw meat on his altar,
yes, even raw human flesh, enjoyed — and to this end
The husks appear as a devouring fire, making us aware of our through Christianity, however, refined a feeling that had a peculiar-
A pleasant impression; but as times change, so do customs. The old ones
The Hebrews found nothing offensive in it at all; indeed, they seem like the tenacious adherence to the patriarchal Moloch services up to the time of exile, and perhaps even further,
in contrast to the somewhat more refined Mosaic Re-
The religion shows that they even loved such human sacrifices. How gruesome, the holy writers of the Old Testament, the Phythe sionomy of the Lord may also be drawn, and how very the bloody victims, and especially those among the old Human sacrifice, which the Hebrews favored, may also be unsympathetic to us.
We may, but we remain convinced that in the Jewish-God, John the lord, worships the good principle, and not the evil one.
has been.

Chapter Three.

The original religion and the cult of the patriarchs.

There is probably no doubt that the "Johvehe,
which Moses received in the burning bush at Horeb-seemed, and the one with the sons of Israel, after he had them under led to great miracles from Egypt, in the desert a solemn covenant, through Moses a great number new ritual regulations were introduced, and thus the Mosaic religion founded, the same God who gave the fathers in ancient times revealed himself, founded the religion of the patriarchs, and the sacrificial cult practiced in patriarchal times, and has ordered. But why did God, over time, order the patriarchal worship of God, the Mosaic one, and the patriarchal contrasting archaic cults with the Mosaic one is difficult to say. The fact that the struggle for existence, in the irrational nature as well as in human life, which It strengthens its powers and protects it from stagnation, making it acceptable. It seems that God is also waging a battle in the religious sphere. I wanted to set it so that heat would be generated through friction, and The heat would keep the flame of faith alive. The fact that the changed temporal conditions and with the advancing geic- The development of humans has led to the same for new religious developments. These insights enabled us to use them for the Mosaic Time is taken into account through the Mosaic religion should, until the fullness of time came, and with it a new cult- The Christian form, in fact. What is noteworthy here is the... The fact that the Mosaic cult is just as similar to the Christian one is hostile to the patriarchal; although All three cults serve the same god.

The distinguishing moments between the Mosaic Religion and that of the patriarchs are limited to the- probably only the following three: the name of God, the Victim cult and cult personnel.

The one who is among the patriarchs, or rather among the tribes fathers of the Israelite people, a common name for God in ancient times, It seems to have been a "Moloch". The fact that "Moloch" was the god of Shem and his father Noah. This is evidenced by the fact that in ancient times all successors were... The coming of Shem was the common national god. For that The fact that "Moloch" was worshipped by Abraham suggests that to behave as if "Moloch" (Chamos) were the god of the Ammonites and Moabites (the descendants of Lot), the Edomites (the Descendants of Esau) and the Medinanites, as well as the rest Descendants of Cetura, a concubine of Abraham, were is, and the sacrifice of Isaac was demanded of him.

The fact that even the patriarchs Isaac and Jacob the
The fact that they worshipped "Moloch" is easily discernible from the surrounding context.
It was established that this cult existed not only in the time of Moses, but was still practiced later by the children of Israel, and Moses and the prophets repeatedly had to zeal against him.

If Moses does not know the divine name "Moloch", and he considers the same to be a god different from "Yahweh", That's perfectly understandable. Moses introduced the religion and the
He probably never truly knew the God of his fathers. As an adoptive parent
The son of the Pharaoh's daughter, he was at the royal court in raised in the religion and wisdom of the Egyptians, and only at the age of forty (Acts VII:24-25) did he think he remembered to check on his brothers. But he had barely arrived
They came, so he had to, because he had killed an Egyptian.
had quickly left them again and gone into the desert
flee, where he is with the Madianite priest Raguel (Jethro)
as a shepherd. Therefore, when God was in the burning A thornbush on Horeb appeared to him, revealing himself to him as the god Abraintroduced hams, Isaac and Jacob, and led him out
When asked to send his brothers from Egypt, he replied naively:
“Look, I am to go to the Israelites, and to them say: The God of your fathers has sent me to you. If They will now speak to me: What is his name? What Shall I tell them (Exodus 3:13)?” —

— 28 —

This explains why Moses, after God gave him (II. Mos.
III, 14) communicated: “This is what you are to say to the Israelites:
He who is (nd), has sent me” — the cult of Moloch, which he found among his brothers, mistaking it for a hideous idol-
He views it as a service and strictly forbids it. Thus he burns not only the one made by the children of Israel in the desert
"Golden calf, one that appears to be only heavily gilded"
wooden Astarte or Moloch figure, but commands in the name of the Lord to the people (Leviticus 18:21): “You shall Idol Moloch not from your seed (di from your Children. (DV) to sacrifice, and you shall give the name not (through such idolatry. DV) disregard your God uncleanse.” — And in another place (III. Mos. XX, 2-5) John the Lord spoke to Moses, and said: “2. You shall

to the sons of Israel: Whoever among the sons of Israel, or among the newcomers who live in Israel,
He gives his seed to the idol Moloch, who shall
He shall die: the people of the land shall stone him. —
3. And I will set my face against him, and I will put him out-rot from the midst of his people, because he of his seed Given to Moloch, and my sanctuary desecrated, and has defiled my holy name. — 4. And when the people the country would be negligent, and, as it were, disrespectful to my Commandment, releasing the man who had sent the Moloch from his
I gave him seeds, and didn't want to kill him: — 5. so I will to set my face against this man, and against his gender, and wants to eradicate him, him and all who aid him-agreed to whore with the Moloch, from the middle of his People's." —

Since the prohibition of something always implies its existence-if its existence is a prerequisite, then the circumstance provides that Moses forbids the sons of Israel: their children to the to sacrifice Moloch — to give us the most irrefutable proof that,
that the Israelites knew Moloch at that time and to have served him. But since Moloch was the god of Ammonite, which is the descendant of Lot, who already Having separated from the Israelites in Abraham's time, they may
We assume that he was also the God of Abraham.

And finally, the fact that demonstrably not only one branch of the Semites, but all Semitic peoples the Moloch

— 29 —

The fact that he has worshipped him guarantees us that he is also the god of Noah and the antediluvian patriarchs.

What is strange is the fact that the shape of the fire-sacrificial altar, which was built by order of God by the children of Israel
It was made in the desert, attached to the bull's head of Moloch remember. God commanded that each of the four corners this altar would be equipped with a horn, and so it was the Mosaic altar of burnt offering with its bronze hearth and the horns at its four corners are actually nothing else

as a stylized Moloch figure.

So, in any case, Johveh and Moloch are just different. Names for the same divine being. God revealed himself to the Israelites through Moses under a new name, and gave them New forms of cults probably arose for no other purpose than to... by preventing their participation in the religious aberrations to protect fellow tribesmen, and thereby also from the moral aberrations, which usually go hand in hand with those go. But had God given himself the name "John the Lord"- If we understand that Moses laid this out, then we will find it understandable that Moses did this. The name of God was also invoked during the patriarchal period. took, and everywhere the name of God is mentioned, "John the Great" instead of "Moloch". |

K

The worship of God was already known in patriarchal times Time of bloody and bloodless sacrifices. Cain, a plowman was, offering gifts "from the fruits of the earth" (Genesis 4, 2-3), but Abel, who was a shepherd, "of the firstborn his herd, and of their fat" The fact that "Yohveh" also refers to the firstfruits in Mosaic law. The fact that it claims this for itself suggests that it God himself was the one who offered the sacrifices which Cain and Abel offered him, determined. But the cause which God caused him to participate only in the sacrifice of Abel, not but who also found pleasure in Cain's, probably cannot to be sought in the fact that bloody sacrifices are more pleasing to him than They were bloodless, but rather the search will have to go elsewhere. be. Nevertheless, the bloody victims appear to be more distinguished, as Noah also gave such a thing to the Lord, after the waters of the flood had receded, and he was out of the ark has increased, offering from all pure animals.

It is difficult to determine the age of the human victims. When it says of Enoch (Genesis 5:24): "And he walked with God (Elohim), and he was not seen again: for “God (Elohim) took him away” — this could be a way of thinking about a sacrifice. Death is remembered. The deaths of Aaron and Moses are also remembered. to indicate something like that. The fact that in the biblical accounts of the sacrifice of Isaac, the animal sacrifice only constitutes a substitute for human sacrifice, and also in the Mosaic law »Yohveh« his right to all male- still maintains the first birth, and only a period of rest permitted if a ransom is paid (II. Mos. XIII, 2 and 12; WV, 19; III. Mos. XXVII, 26; IV. Mos. VIII, 16), leaves it. It seems likely that human sacrifice was the original liche, and the animal sacrifice has always only been a substitute for it.

Public prayers were held from early times, and We should think of something like this when we read Genesis 4:26. From Enos, he read: “This man began to proclaim the name of the Lord.” (John) to call upon.” Abraham, too, was familiar with this form of worship, and practiced them on various occasions (cf. I. Mos. XII, 8; XII 4; XXI 33).

The ritual seems to have been quite common in patriarchal times. to have been simpler, which was already evident from the circumstances. This shows that there were no priests by profession at that time and There was no priestly caste: the head of the household sacrificed for himself and his family. Family, the tribal chief for the tribe, the prince for the people.

As for the cult site, Noah already knew about it. altar, and that was the end of it, until later Moses began to build a house (tent) for the Lord, so that he dwelling there among his people.

Grevöbnlich was built in patriarchal times Altars on high places. So we read (Genesis 12:5-7) of Abraham, that he had such an altar at Shechem (probably on Mount Ebal). DV) built: “5. And they went out to enter the land of Canaan go. And when they came in, — 6. Abraham passed through the Land as far as the town of Shechem, as far as the grove of Moreh. There were But at that time the Canaanites were in the land. — 7. Then the Lord to Abraham, and said to him: To your offspring I will

He gave this land. And he built an altar there. to the Lord who had appeared to him.” —

Not too far from there, on a mountain between Hai and Bethel, where Abraham camped after leaving Shechem, He erected a second altar, about which we read in Genesis 12:8. read: “And he went from there to the mountain which was to the east was from Bethel, and pitched his tent there, Bethel towards Evening and shark towards morning, — also built an altar there to the Lord, and called on his name.”

When Abraham then had to leave this place for a time due to a famine Having camped in Egypt for a long time, he returned here, which the Scripture (J. Mos. XIII, 3-4) reports with the words: “3. And he He retraced his steps from midday until... Bethel, to the place where he had previously pitched his tent had, between Bethel and Hai, — 4. to the place of the altar, which he had made earlier, and there called the In the name of the Lord.” —

However, altars were also erected at wells and in groves. builds. After the separation from Lot, Abraham set out, and lived in the valley of Mamre, which is near Hebron, and built there an altar to the Lord (I. Mos. XIII, 18), and later, When he had moved even further south, Abraham worshipped his God at the well he built between Cades and Sur-dig, and which he had named Bersabee. The relevant scripture passage (Genesis 21:33) reads: “And Abraham planted a grove in Bersabee, and called the In the name of the Lord, the eternal God (El olam).“ —

The same as what Scripture says regarding the worship of God In addition to reporting on Abraham, she also reports on Isaac, his son. He camped when a famine broke out in the land of Canaan- was broken, for a time near Gerara in the Philistine lands. There However, Isaac's servants, together with Abimelech's servants, of the King of Gerara, because of the wells that Abraham dug, When they got into a fight, he moved on and came to Bersabee. Here the Lord appeared to him and spoke to him (C. Mos. XXVI, 24): “I am the God of Abraham, your father. Be afraid.” No, because I am with you, and I want to bless you and your “To increase seed for the sake of Abraham my servant.”

“But Isaac built around it,” — so the scripture tells (ibid. 25) further, — there an altar, and called the

He called upon the name of the Lord, pitched a tent, and commanded his servants to dig a well.”

We read something similar about Isaac's son Jacob. He built, after he fled from Mesopotamia, where he had fled from the wrath of his Brother Esau, whom he had cheated out of the blessing of the firstborn, had fled, had returned, near Salem, one of the Szechimites' territory, a field for settlement had bought an altar there (I. Mos. 32, 20), and called there the name of the exceedingly mighty God of Israel

“From here Jacob continued on to Bethel, where he once again erected an altar. The account relating to this is found in Genesis. XXXV, 1-7 reads: “1. During this time God (Elohim) spoke”

To Jacob: Arise, go to Bethel, and dwell there- yourself, and build an altar to the God (Eh) who appeared to you, there You fled from Esau, your brother. — 2. And Jacob gathered- He melted his whole house and said: Take away the strangers Gods, who are among you, and purify yourselves, and change your Clothes. — 3. Arise, and let us go to Bethel move, and build an altar there to the God (El) who is in my My affliction heard me and guided me on my journey. — 4. Then they gave him all the foreign gods (the Teraphim, the they stole them from Laban (DV), which they had, and the rings, which were in her ears. But he buried them under the terebinthe, who stands by Shechem. — 5. And as they set out, it fell The terror of God (Elohim) upon all the surrounding cities, and they

They did not dare to pursue them when they moved away. — 6. So it came Jacob gen Luza, which lies in the land of Canaan, and the companion- Bethel has a name, he and all the people with him. — 7. And he

He built an altar there and named it after the The place Beth-El (House of God), because God appeared to him there. was, since he was fleeing from his brother.” —

This cult, inherited from the fathers, about whose sacrificial customs we know very little about, most of it even only by inferences from the news about the so-called Hill and grove cult from the time of the Jewish kings — The children of Israel, who left after the exodus from Israel, have to travel. Egypt in the desert of the God-founded Mosaic religion Despite, and regardless of the harsh punishments that the Mosaic law placed on it, and the repeated bloody annihilation-battles which the Mosaic priests and prophets fought against the followers of this cult staged, up until the time of exile held with true Jewish tenacity, and whether the same was abandoned by them during their exile, or today Whether it still exists is hard to say. In any case, it's a mistake. when »Winer's Biblical Real Dictionary« (Leipzig, 1838) to Solomon as the founder of the Moloch cult among the Jews wants to do, and (ibid., Vol. II, p. 118) writes: "Solomon had, led astray by the women of the harem into the cult of Moloch also founded in Judea, and the Jews seem — although that Mosaic law imposed the death penalty on it — from then on uninterrupted in the Valley of Hinom, this terrible service to have paid homage until Josiah visited the sites sacred to Moloch destroyed." —

The hard ones who were placed on the cult of Moloch by Moses Punishments (III. Mos. XVIII, 21; XX, 2-5 etc.), of which we as discussed earlier in this chapter prove that this The cult was prevalent in the time of Moses, and that it was the cult The fact that the patriarch has already been there should also be more than enough evidence. It has been proven. But how tenacious the Jews were, even in later times. Numerous bib- prove that many still adhere to this cult. lic reports.

Thus we read in 1 (III) Kings XI, 5-8: "5. Solomon worshiped the »Astarte«, the god (Elohé) of the Sidonians, and the »Molochg, the idols of the Ammonites. — 6. And Solomon did what was displeasing. was before the Lord (John 16:17), and was not perfect in the Following the Lord (John the Baptist), like David, his father. — 7. Da- Solomon once built a temple to the "Chamos," the idol the Moabites, on the mountain opposite Jerusalem, and the "Moloch, the Ammonite." — 8. And so he did to all his foreign wives, who smoked incense to their gods and "They made sacrifices." — Cf. ibid., p. 33.

And of Achaz (Ahas) it is said in II (IV) Kings 16:2-4:

"2. He did not do what was pleasing in the sight of the Lord.

(John), his God, like David, his father; — 3. but walked in the footsteps of the kings of Israel. Moreover He sacrificed his son and bid him through the fire. go, following the idols of the nations, which the Lord (John) He scattered them before the Israelites. — 4. He also sacrificed Sacrificial offerings and lighting incense on the heights and on the hills, and under every green tree.”

Mommert, Ritual Murder. 3

,

The U. Book of Chronicles (Paralip.) XXVIII, 3-4, however, bejudges of the same king: “3. He is the one who uses incense lit it in the valley of the sons of Hinnom and dedicated it to his sons the fire according to the use of the peoples whom the Lord drove them out at the arrival of the sons of Israel. — 4. He He also made sacrifices and lit incense on the heights, and on the hills, and under every green tree.” —

Similarly, (II. IV.) Kings XXI, 2-7 of Manasseh states:

“2. And he did evil in the sight of the Lord according to the idols of the nations whom the Lord destroyed before the eyes of the sons Israel's. — 3. And he turned around and built the high places which Ezekiah (Hiskia), his father, had devastated, and built altars to Baal, and made groves, like Ahab, the king of Israel did this, and worshiped the whole host of heaven, and He served him. — 4. ... — 5. And he built altars to all the people. Hosts of heaven in both courts of the Lord's temple. — 6. And he made his son pass through the fire, and gave to fortune-telling, etc. — 7. He also set the idol of the grove he made in the temple of the Lord. And 2 Chronicles (Paralipsia) 33:6: “And he (Manasseh) let His sons will walk through fire in the valley of Benhinnom, etc.”

Likewise, we read in II (IV) Kings XXIII, 32 by Joachim:

“He did evil in the sight of the Lord according to all that his fathers had done-tan.“ — And in p. 37 the same is reported by Joakim:

“He did evil in the sight of the Lord according to all that his fathers had done-

tan.“ — From the time of the last kings before the exile, Joachim and Zedekiah, the prophets Isaiah and Ezekiel yield-a horrific image, by speaking in the name of John the Baptist to Israel (Isaiah LVII, 4-6): “4. Are you not wicked-Liar children, a brood of liars? — 5. You who delight in each other at the idols under every green tree, who slew-

“He cared for the children in the valleys under high cliffs.” — And (Ezekiel XX, 24-31): “24. Because they did not do according to my Righteousness, despising my commandments, profaning my Sabbaths, and have their eyes fixed on the idols of their fathers. —
25. That is why I also gave them commandments that were not good, and Rights, by which they did not live. — 26. I left them unclean.
are through their offerings, by giving all first-birth sacrificed for their sins (to Moloch. DV), and It filled them with horror that they realized I

The Lord (Yohveh) is. — 27. Therefore, speak to the house of Israel.
and tell them: This is what the Lord John says: Even with this we have Your fathers blasphemed me, despising and denouncing me.
reviled. — 28. I brought them to the land over which I I lifted my hand to give it to them: but they looked after every high hill and every leafy tree, to offer their sacrifices there: they brought
They placed their gifts there to tempt me, they burned incense there-even their sweet scents, and poured out their libations.

28 30. Therefore speak to the house of Israel: Thus says the Lord John: Truly, you defile yourselves on the way your fathers and commit fornication according to their abominations: — 31. their-

Unclean yourselves by offering your sacrifices-give, if you make your children go through fire, through all your idols to this day, — and I Should you answer, O House of Israel? — As sure as I live, says
“The Lord John, I will not answer you.”

That the prophets abandoned the old patriarchal cult and
To abhor the religion of our fathers as idolatry is not permissible for us.
Don't be surprised. By adopting the Mosaic religion of Those who represented patriarchal views could not do otherwise.

than to fully adopt the standpoint of this religion.
The fact that David and Samuel were still being sacrificed on high ground have, and Solomon, when he came to Gabaa, at the most distinguished height of that time, according to I. (III.) Kings III, 4-5 thousand fire-sacrifice offered, honored by a revelation in a dream
Ward would have had a purifying effect on later Orthodoxy.
He could, and the fact that he did not is apparently regrettable.
because the bitter struggle between the old patriarchal religion and the new one, mediated to the people through Moses,
the Jewish state repeatedly eroded to its very foundations-shudders and more than once teeters on the brink of ruin has brought about the fact that the Mosaic religion, after the exile, without noticeable competition from the patriarchal cult in Jerusalem until the definitive downfall of the Jewish state-
The fact that nature prevailed probably has its reason in this,
that only the zealots returned to the Mosaic religion,
The opposing side, however, exists scattered among the peoples.
remained.

Incidentally, the human sacrifices of the patriarchs, as well as those of all ancient peoples, but especially the sacrifice of the male-

3*

Our firstborn appears in a different, more favorable light.
represent, if we consider that the same God who made the sacrifice demanded the firstborn from the elders, and spoke to Abraham:
"Take your only son, Isaac, whom you love, and go to the land of Moreh, and sacrifice him there as a burnt offering, etc." — who, for his part, did not hesitate to confront Jesus, his own to give up his only begotten son for us as a sacrificial lamb. A God
But he who made such a sacrifice for us certainly had a well-founded right, that which he himself was prepared to do, to demand this of people as well. This explains why.
Sacrifice of the firstborn to the patriarch and to the Moloch Offered child sacrifices.

Chapter Four.

The federal sacrifice of circumcision.

Indicative of the bloody paths along which the cult the Jewish national god “Yohveh” walks alongside, is that Federal victims of circumcision. Ninety-nine years ago
Abraham had grown old and had multiple proofs of the un-
He had relinquished his obedience to John the Lord. Then it appeared to him.
John the Lord and spoke to him (Genesis 17:1-27): “1. I am “El Shadai (the almighty God. Others say: the destroyer-Bringing God. DV). Walk before me and be perfect.
— 2. And I will establish my covenant between me and you, and I will greatly increase you. — 3. Then Abraham fell down.
on his face. — 4. And he (John the Lord) said to him: I I am he, and I have my covenant with you. And you shall, Father many nations will be. — 5. And your name shall no longer be borne out.
You shall be called Abram, but Abraham, for I have
I have made you the father of many nations. — 6. And I will you make you very fruitful, and make you into nations, and Kings shall come from you. — 7. And I will establish my covenant.
place between me and you, and between your seed after to you throughout his generations, an everlasting covenant, that I may be yours To God (Elohim) be, and to your descendants after you. — 8. And I
I will give you and your seed the land of your wanderings, the whole land of Canaan as an everlasting possession, and their God wills (Elohim) be. — 9. And God (Elohim) spoke again to Abraham: So keep my covenant, you and yours
Seeds after you in his generations. — 10. That is My covenant, which you shall keep between me and you, and your offspring after you, that all among you should be male-

I will be circumcised. — 11. And you shall eat the flesh circumcise your foreskin so that it becomes a sign of the Let there be a covenant between me and you. — 12. A child of Circumcision should take place within eight days of your birth, each one Males among your genders, both the
A servant who was born in the house when he was bought shall
They will be circumcised, even those not of your tribe.
is. — 13. And my covenant shall be in your flesh be an eternal bond. — 14. A male who is born on The flesh of his foreskin is not circumcised, the same Seele is to be exterminated from her people because
She has broken my covenant. — 15. And God

(Elohim) said to Abraham: Sarai, your wife, you shall not Call her Sarai no longer, but Sara. — 16. And I will bless her, and give you a son by her, whom I will bless. And He shall become nations, and kings of nations shall emerge from them.
 come to him. — 17. Then Abraham fell on his face and He laughed and said in his heart: Do you think that one
 A son is born to a centenarian, and that Sara, who ninety years old, still giving birth? — 18. And he spoke to God (Elohim): Would that Ishmael would live before you! — 19. And Elohim said to Abraham: Sarah, your wife shall bear you a son bear him, and you shall name him Isaac, and I will to establish a covenant with him, an everlasting covenant, and with his Seeds after him. — 20. And I have also desired you for Ishmael.
 Listen. Behold, I will bless him and make him fruitful, and increase them greatly. He will father twelve princes, and I wants to make him into a great nation. — 21. But my covenant
 I want to conclude with Isaac, whom Sarah is to bear for you, to do this Time in the next year. — 22. And when the speech was finished, Elohim ascended before Abraham, the one who spoke to him.
 23. Then Abraham took Ishmael his son, and all his homeborn, and all whom he has bought, and everything, who was male out of all the people in his house, and
 She circumcised the flesh of her foreskin immediately on the same day.
 Days as God had commanded him — 24. Abraham was ninety-nine years old, as he had the flesh of his foreskincut. — 25. And Ishmael, his son, was thirteen years old at the time.
 Time of his circumcision. — 26. On the same day Abraham and Ishmael, his son, were circumcised. — 27. And all the men of his house, both those born in his house and those bought and Strangers were also circumcised.”

The severity with which the Jewish God, John the Baptist, treated the Observation of the circumcision sealing the covenant with him held, shows us an incident in the family of Moses.

Eliezer, Moses' second and youngest son, whom Sephora had given him, had given birth to the daughter of Jethro, the priest in Madian, was during the time when Moses set out at God's command to go to
 to return to Egypt, still uncircumcised. “Since he is now on

“When the journey was over, John the Lord came,” — as the Scripture says (Exodus 4:24-26)

reported — “to meet him at the inn, and wanted to see him kill. — 25. Then Sephora immediately took a very sharp stone, and circumcised her son's foreskin, and touched his (of Johveh) feet, and said: A bridegroom of blood you are to me! — 26. And he (John the Lord) left him (Eliezer) alone; after they had said: “A blood bridegroom, for the sake of circumcision.”

The fact that Sephora, the mother, and not Moses, Eliezer's father, who performs the circumcision, could be- This fact will seem strange to us, however. It is clear when we remember that Moses, who was born in Egypt He had been raised at the royal court as an Egyptian, the religious his fathers didn't even know the needs of their fathers at that time, and probably only learned the essentials later through Aaron, while Sephora as a Madianitine, by Cetura, the concubine being descended from Abraham, he was more familiar with it.

Since "Yohveh" now uses human blood as the seal of the covenant, the he made a pact with Abraham, desired, and agreed to the payment. this bloody tribute, the inclusion in the blessing of Abraham If he has made a connection, then we will find it understandable that he also moreover, bloody, and even human sacrifices, in recorded Mosaic cults.

The sacrificial meal is peculiar, in which the one in the Be-cutting with "Yohveh" the covenant of the Jew his Conclusion takes place, and at which point the circumcised person regains his own He gets to drink blood. Dr. Rudolf Kleinpaul (human sacrifice) and ritual murders, Leipzig), which witnessed these memorable events It was a ceremony, he writes, after observing the process of Circumcision reported in detail (aa OS 13): “The blood flows Plenty. The mohel (the circumciser, DV) sucks it in twice. or opens his mouth three times, and throws it into a with a glass filled with wine; . . . and covers the patient to. Now he takes the glass with the blood-stained Wine, bless him, and moisten his lips with it.

of the little boy, the words of the Lord from the Prophet

Ezekiel (XVI, 6) repeating: “But I went before you—” over, and saw you lying in your blood, and spoke "To you, since you lay so full of your blood: You shall live."

Chapter Five.

The redemption of the firstborn.

Whether the Mosaic religion also embraces the harshness of the customs of the may have softened the ancient Hebrews in some respects, so Human sacrifice remained not only in principle, but also in practice among the children of Israel. The ritual-murder on one side by the fact that the ransom of the Firstborn, although "John" claimed his right to the sacrifice of the same in principle did not surrender (II Mos. XIII, 2), admitted and was organized (U. Mos. XXXIV, 20), a restriction, — so In return, he received a new food source on the other side. through the »cherem« (n) or »the ban«, through which not only locals, but also foreigners, individuals and entire cities, people, livestock, and other possessions as sacrifices for "Yohveh" destined for destruction, slaughtered and devoured were burned, for what purpose the Jews were subsequently taken to- because they even carried out attacks on peaceful neighbors (IV. Mos. XXXI; V. Mos. II, 34; XIII, 15-18; Joshua VI, 17 and 21 and aa O.). Had the ancient Hebrews, in exercising their patriarchal cult, primarily their own children to God sacrifices were made, just as God himself made his only begotten son. Son, Jesus Christ, as a sacrifice for the sins of the world who offered and surrendered, so permitted and commanded the Mosaic religion the redemption of one's own children (from which the priesthood revenues flowed in), and found the "John" with the Slaughter of foreign people, whereby this (John the Lord) in turn by occasionally using human blood, which performed well. the more abundantly it flowed. Human sacrifices thus formed the The focal point of both cults, the patriarchal Moloch cult, as of the Mosaic "Yohveh cult", except that in the former, their own Children, — but in the Mosaic law, predominantly strangers were slaughtered.

Regarding the use of the first birth right by the scripture tells of the "Yohveh", and of the redemption of the same. in the Second Book of Moses (13, 1 and 11-15): "1. And 'Yohveh' spoke to Moses and said: — 2. Sanctify to me all the first-born, which opens the womb, among the sons of Israel-els, both from humans and from cattle: for everything is mine.” — And a few verses further down, John continues:

“II. And when ‘Yohveh’ introduced you to the land of Canaanites, as he swore to you and your fathers, and he has given you: — 12. so you shall do everything that opens the womb, to which “Yohveh” is excreted, as well as the firstborn among your cattle. What you male If you have a child of the same sex, you shall dedicate it to the “Yahweh” (di sacrifice. DV). — 13. You shall sacrifice the firstborn of the donkey with to mistake it for a sheep (because donkeys are not slaughtered as sacrificial victims) were allowed to be. DV), but if you don't want to trigger them, You shall kill them. And all the firstborn of man. You shall redeem debts owed to your sons with money. — 15. For when Pharaoh was hardened, and would not draw us away When he wanted to, “Yohveh” killed all the firstborn in the land. Egypt, from the firstborn of man to the first-Birth of cattle: therefore I sacrifice to "Yohveh" Everything that comes from the male sex and enters the womb "Open, and redeem all the firstborn of my sons."

And Exodus 22:29-30: “29. Your firstfruits shall You give without hesitation, and the firstborn of your Dedicate your sons to me. — So you shall do with your Oxen and sheep: they should stay with their mothers for seven days. “On the eighth day you shall give them to me (sacrifice them. DV).“ —

And again, Exodus 34:19-20: 19. “Everything that who opens the womb and is male, shall be mine: of all animals, be it cattle or sheep, it shall be mine be. — 20. You shall redeem the donkey's firstborn with a Sheep: where they are not, and you do not pay a ransom for them, they shall be- They will be killed. You shall kill the firstborn of your sons. solve: and you shall not be empty-handed before my presence. appear." -

Ezekiel XLIV, 30, however, writes: “And the firstfruits

of all firstborn, and all libations of everything that The offerings are to belong to the priests, and the You shall give the firstfruits of your food to the priest, so that he may bless your house.” — |

These provisions undoubtedly lead to the conclusion that It is emphasized that "John," although he asserted his right to the
 The victims of all firstborn children in Israel are emphasized, nevertheless foregoes the sacrifice of human first birth, and-orders that a lottery ticket purchase should replace it. Also the Circumcision, which is to take place on the eighth day, is a reminder to the ransom of the victim. It is therefore beyond doubt, that the sons of Israel their children, if they did not have God voluntarily consecrated as "Chereme," not to sacrifice to "Yohveh." needed, as this was dictated by the patriarchal religion, and as-"John the Lord" had still demanded of Abraham when he (Genesis 22:2) said to him: "Take your only Son whom you love, Isaac, and go to the Land Morehae, and sacrifice him there as a burnt offering.
 on a mountain that I will show you." — It is remarkable how skillfully Moses, who great Jewish reformer, or rather the brothers Moses and Aaron, who are in a certain way associated with Luther and Melanchthon, the reformers of the sixteenth century-hundred, could compare, in drafting the new re-religious legislation, their own benefit, or to take advantage of their clan, the tribe of Levi
 They stood. This tribe was mentioned in the will of the Patriarchs Jacob and Simeon fared rather poorly.
 They should not be allowed to live because of their unbridled bloodlust.
 not to obtain a coherent, rounded possession, but so that their power would be broken, and thus their eternal wickedness ready hand would be rendered harmless, over the area of the other tribes are scattered, and it sounds more like a
 A curse as well as a blessing when the patriarch on his deathbed he remembers her and (I. Mos. XIX, 5-7) says: "5. Simeon Levi and Levi are brothers (who are equally evil. DV), warlike works-witness to the crime. — 6. Do not enter their council, my Soul, in its assembly my praise does not dwell: for in
 In their anger they murdered the man, and in their malicious intent
 They unnerved the bull. — 7. Cursed be their anger, because so stubborn, and their wrath, because so hard. In Jacob I will them

 "I will divide and scatter them in Israel."

| The sacrilege which the aged Jacob committed in these words in
 The bloody deed, which Simeon and Levi committed according to Genesis, is what the eye has.

XXXIV, 25-29 committed at Shechem, and to whom they perhaps in

Over time, they may have added more, whose
The scripture does not mention it. These bloodthirsty, fanatical Outrageousness, coupled with bravery against the defenseless, are noted
We encountered this tribe on many occasions. So it seems that also Moses the Egyptian, for whose murder he his Time had to flee from Egypt, not in honest combat,
Not killed eye to eye, but treacherously murdered. In the-
In the same way, Moses leaves among the defenseless people, which through the cult of the golden calf in the desert, to sin had dictated that Levi's sons would perpetrate a massacre, which he himself (II. Mos. XXXII, 25-29) reports with the words:
"25. When Moses saw that the people were naked (unarmed. DV)" was, for Aaron had deprived it through the shame of the filth, and placed naked among his enemies, — 26. so stepped he entered the gate of the camp and said: Is one of the "Yohveh",
"Let him join me!" Then they all gathered around him.
Sons of Levi. — 27. And he said to them: This is what he says
"Yohveh," the God (Elohé) of Israel: Let everyone put away their swords to the hip, and goes back and forth, from gate to gate through the middle of the camp, and each one kills his brother, and his Friend, and his neighbor. — 28. And the sons of Levi
They did according to the word of Moses, and on that day it fell at three thousand men. — 29. And Moses said: You have today you have consecrated your hands to the Lord, each one of you in his Son and to his brother, that you may be blessed." —
To what extent was it due to "Johveh" that this every
A wicked, bloodthirsty gang of Levi's sons with the Priestly and Levite offices at the Holy Tent and at the Temple of God services of the Mosaic religion have been entrusted, or how-insofar as Moses here illegitimately introduced the "Yohveh"
That will be difficult to determine. The fact is that "Johveh" (IV Mos. I, 49-51) to whom Moses commands: "49. The tribe Levi you shall not count, nor their number.
take with the sons of Israel: — 50. but order
they to the tent of testimony, and to all its equipment, and everything that pertains to sacred service. They shall carry the tent, and all its equipment: and they

They should be at duty, and all around the tent to store. — 51. When one sets out, the Levites should to take down the tent and put it up when you are camps: anyone who approaches another shall be killed."

In this way, the most wicked of all tribes-men of Israel into the most honorable and lucrative position in people, by giving them the whole remaining multitude of the twelve tribes now, in a certain sense, it became subject to interest. Already the first one in the Desert raised by the children of Israel, redemption of the firstborn brought the Levites the not inconsiderable sum of 1365 Seckel. The biblical account of this reads (IV Mos. III, 49–51): “49. So Moses took the money... — 50. for the firstborn of the sons of Israel, 1300-Sixty-five saddlers, according to the weight of the Holy-tums. — 51. and gave it to Aaron and his sons according to the word, as the Lord commanded him.”

As has been observed several times now, not only physical, but also mental characteristics in some Families passed down through many generations from father to son to be inherited, so it seems that the wild trait also passed down among the sons of Levi. Fanaticism and the bloody cruelty of the ancestor continued to have inherited, and even today the ritual slaughterer is said to be and butchery was the most popular trade in the tribe of Levi.

Chapter Six.

Mosaic human sacrifice in theory and practice.

From the fact that “Yohveh” in the Mosaic Religion on the sacrifice of the firstborn among the children of Israel and has waived its freedom and ordered its redemption, have many who are only superficially familiar with this religion, It was believed that the Mosaic cult was supposed to decrease, that it was even possible to lose weight. does not demand or permit human sacrifice. Anyone who calls for such things- Anyone who wanted to take that would be very mistaken. The Mosaic Religion not only permits human sacrifice in theory, but also- dern also explicitly demands such in practice, and today nor can a conscientious observer of the Mosaic religious tradition gion finds itself in a position to offer human sacrifices to "Yahweh" to have to bring it. Moses decreed that if If someone dedicates something to "Yohveh" as a "Cherem", then... This cannot be bought out, but must be destroyed.

Regarding this “cherem” (77), Moses writes (III. Mos. XXVII., 28-29): “28. Everything that is called ‘Cherem’ by the ‘Johvehe’ is consecrated, be it a person, an animal, or a field, that It should not be able to be sold or dissolved. What Once consecrated, it shall be most holy to “John the Lord”. (which it is to be destroyed. DV). — 29. And everything that A person who offers themselves as a “Cherem” should not be redeemed. will not be, but will die.”

To understand what is meant by “Cherem” will, says Winer in his “Bibl. Realwörterbuch”, IS 156: Bann, Cherem (IM) is a vow by virtue of which persons or things to Jehovah (Yohveh) as irrevocable- They were consecrated as property of inalienable and irrevocable worth. Banned people had to die.”

ae

Michaelis (Mosaic Law, III, § 145, p. 8 ff. and V. § 246, (p. 84) admits that a “banished city, whose inhabitants are subject to the Sword, just as she herself was consecrated to fire, as it were a It was a sacrifice offered to John the Baptist. The matter required no further confirmation whatsoever, since one of the deities' own consecrated person who is killed as such, in Ge- The mindset and conception of the slayers of this deity are indisputable. falls victim. — Vatke, however, (religion of the Old Testament, Berlin 1835, IS 278) says of the »Cherem«: “This crude pro- Zeß, as the name suggests, always had religious significance. However, in earlier times it was probably applied more to people than to Things carried out (cf. Daumer, the fire and Moloch service of the (Old Hebrews, Braunschweig 1842, p. 24). —

I would like to distinguish between two types of “cherem”:

- a) the »cherem«, which was ordered by the express command of “Yohveh” is to be performed by the Jews, and
- b) the »cherem« that someone voluntarily praises to God.

There is ample evidence for both types of “cherem”. not to elaborate further, in the writings of the Old Testament recorded.

a) By order of the “Yovh”, the “ban” (Cherem) was imposed—fall, and the children of Israel are obligated to give to the "Yohveh".
The victims are: false prophets, dream interpreters, renegades and those which lead others to abandon Joveh, or Let them give themselves to apostasy; furthermore, those who blaspheme against John and his will.
Religion, as well as hostile cities, which are against the children of Israel resist. In such cases, Israel has the "Cherem" without further ado. Quotes from the Holy Scriptures.
I like this when I can't express myself clearly and sharply enough.
would have made it easier to understand.

Regarding false prophets and the temptation to abstain—
Regarding the case of the Mosaic religion, we read in Deuteronomy 13:1-2. and 5—17: “1. If a prophet arises among you, or one of them pretends to have had a dream and says a sign or a miracle occurs, — 2. and what he said happens, and
He says to you: Let us go and worship foreign gods
Follow those you do not know and serve them: —..

5. The same prophet or dream poet should be kill: for he has spoken to turn you away: from
“To the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land”

Egypt, and has redeemed you from the house of slavery:
so that he may lead you away from the way that “John your God,” commanded you: And you shall (therefore) purge evil from your midst do. — 6. If your brother, the son of your mother, or your Son, or your daughter, or the woman in your arms, or the friend you love like your soul, secretly to you persuaded: Let us go and serve foreign gods, whom you neither you nor your fathers know, — 7. (the gods) of all peoples, those that are near or far all around, from beginning to end of the earth: — 8. so do not consent, do not obey him, and your eye shall not spare him, that you may be—

You pity him and hide him, — 9. but kill him as-soon. Let your hand be against him first, and then the Hand of all the people 12. If you are in a of your cities, which “John the Lord,” your God, will give you, in them to live, you hear that it is said: — 13. They are the sons of Belial.

originating from a center, and the inhabitants of their Turning away from the city, he said: Let us go, and Serving foreign gods you do not know: — 14. so ask carefully and diligently, and investigate the truth of the matter,
And do you find true what they say, and the horror in the works?
completed, — 15. so you shall soon the inhabitants of this
The city will be struck down with the edge of the sword, and they devour them, and everything they have, including the livestock.
16. And whatever household appliances are, collect them in the middle of their market, and burn it with the city, so that you
You burn everything to "Yohveh," your God: And it
It shall be a heap of stones forever, and never rebuilt.
will be. — 17. And of the "excommunicated one" (Cherem) shall Nothing will remain in your hand: so that "John the Lord" may cease from his fierce anger, and have mercy on you, and you
"More, as he swore to your fathers."

The danger of temptation was probably also the reason why
"Yohveh" commanded that the children of Israel should destroy all the cities of the promised land.
The countries in whose possession they came are treated as "Cherem"-
ten. The relevant Scripture passages (Deuteronomy 21:16-18)
The text reads: "But of the cities which were given to you..."
You shall let nothing live: — 17. sonfor you shall make them "Cherem" with the sharpness of the Sword: namely the Hittites, and Amorrites, and Chana-

Niter, and Perezites, and Jebusites, like "Yohveh," your God, to you
He commanded: — 18. so that they will not teach you all the abominations do what they did to their gods, and you sin against "John,
your God." —

By virtue of this divine command, Phinees murdered the son of Eleazar, son of Aaron, the Zamri, the son of Salu, a prince of the tribe of Simeon, and was from "Yohveh" was awarded the hereditary high priesthood for this.
describes how Moses (IV. Mos. XXV, 1- 14) describes it with the following words
The deed was reported in praise: "1. And Israel was then in Sittim, and the people harloted with the daughters of Moab, — 2. the They invited the people to their sacrifices. And they ate and prayed their gods. — 3. And Israel dedicated itself to Beelphegor (a Idols of lust. DV). And it enraged “John,” —

4. and said to Moses: Take all the leaders of the people and Hang them against the sun on the gallows, so that my wrath may from Israel. — 5. And Moses spoke to the judges Israel's: Each one must kill his own people who have dedicated themselves to it Beelphegor. — 6. And behold, a man from the sons of Israel. went inside and brought to his brothers a Madian woman, a prostitute, so that Moses saw it and the whole congregation of the Sons of Israel weeping before the door of the (holy) tent. 7. When Phinees, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, of the high priest, he saw, he stood up from the middle of the congregation, and took a spear, — 8. and went to the Israelite man into the whore's chamber, and pierced them both at once, namely the man and the woman, at the reproductive organs. And it stopped the plague among the Israelites: — 9. And Twenty-four thousand men were killed. — 10. And the The Lord spoke to Moses: 11. Phinees, the son of Eleazar, the The son of Aaron the high priest has turned away from my Wrath from the sons of Israel: for it arose from my zeal moved against them, that I myself should not persecute the sons of Israel-erased in my zeal. — 12. Therefore say to him: Behold, I Give him the peace of my covenant: — 13. and he and his Same shall have the covenant of the eternal priesthood because he He zealously served his God and made amends for the sin of the Sons of Israel. — 14. And the name of the Israelite man, The one who was killed with the Madianite woman was Zamri, son of the Salu, a prince of the lineage and tribe of Simeon.” —

Mommert, Ritual Murder, 4

By virtue of the above-mentioned express divine command- In Joshua's day, the inhabitants of the cities of the holy land to Jericho, Hai, Maceda, Lebna, Lachis, Gazer, Eglon, Hebron, Sabir and elsewhere from the conquering Israelites sacrificed to "Yohveh" as Cherem and without mercy except for the infant in its mother's arms, and the incomplete execution of such a "cherem" was the reason why Achan, the son of Charmi, with his The entire family was stoned in the Valley of Achor (Joshua VII, 24-26), and Saul was rejected by "Yohveh", about which the first book of Kings (Samuel) XV, 1—3 and 7—33 with the following Words spread: “1. And Samuel said to Saul: I have “Yohveh” sent to anoint you king over his people

Israel. Now hear the voice of “Yohveh”! — 2. Thus speaks “Johveh of hosts”: I have considered what Amalek did to Israel, how it stood in his way, as Israel came out of Egypt-drew up. — 3. Therefore go and strike Amalek, and Devour everything that is his, and spare not his, and Do not covet his possessions, but kill Man and woman, child and infant, ox and sheep,

Camel and donkey” — Ecclesiastes 57. And Saul struck the Ama-Lekiter from Hevila until you reach Sur, which is before Egypt lies. — 8. And he captured Agag, the king of the Amalekites, alive, but he killed the entire people with the sharpness of the Sword. — 9. And Saul and the people spared Agag.

and the best flocks of sheep and cattle, and the fattening-cattle, and the ram, and everything that was beautiful, and they
We didn't want to spoil it. But what was bad and spoiled-
They destroyed it. — 10. Then the word of the Lord came.
to Samuel and said: — 11. I regret that I sent Saul to King appointed: for he has forsaken me, and my words
It was not fulfilled in action. And Samuel became sad, and cried out.
to “John the Lord” all night. — 12. And when Samuel was at night Samuel set out early to go to Saul, and was told to-that Saul came to Carmel and claimed victory
I raised the bow, and returned again, over here-
He had gone and descended to Galgala. So Samuel came to Saul, and Saul offered to the Lord a burnt offering from the First fruits of the plunder he took from the Amalekites. —
13. When Samuel came to Saul, Saul said to him: Blessed

Are you from “Yohveh”? I have fulfilled the word of “Yohveh”.
– And Samuel said: What is that bleating of Herds, that sounds in my ears, and of cattle, that I Listen? — 15. And Saul said: They got them from the Amalekiter was a traditional practice, because the people spared the best sheep.
and cattle, to sacrifice them to “Yohveh”, your grotto.
But we killed the rest. — 16. And Samuel spoke To Saul: Let me tell you what “Yahweh” said to me this night spoke. And he said to him: Speak! — 17. And Samuel said: Is it not so, when you were little in your Eyes, you have become the head over the tribes of Israel,

And “Yohveh” has anointed you king over Israel? —
18. And “Yahweh” sent you on your way, and said:
Go and kill the sinners, the Amalekites, and Fight against them until their destruction. — 19. Why Did you not obey the voice of "Yohveh," but You committed robbery and acted badly in the eyes of the public.
of “Yohveh”? — 20. And Saul said to Samuel: I have I obeyed the voice of "Yohveh" and walked the path,
sent me to the “Yohveh”, and brought Agag here,
the king of the Amalekites, and I killed the Amalekites.
21. But the people have sheep and cattle, the firstborn of those who have been born.
were killed, taken from the robbery to give them to "Yohvehg, to sacrifice to their god in Galgala. — 22. And Samuel said:
Does "Yovh" want burnt offerings and sacrifices, and not Rather, that one should obey the voice of "Yohveh"? For 'Obedience is better than sacrifice, and attentiveness more than that.'
Sacrifice the fat of the rams: — 23. for being rebellious is like the sin of fortune-telling, and not wanting to obey, as
The vice of idolatry. Therefore, because you have the word
If you have rejected "Yohveh", then "Yohveh" has rejected you.
thrown down, that you should not be king. — 24. And Saul spoke To Samuel: I have sinned because I spoke of the “Yahweh” and transgress Your words: I feared the people, and—listened to her voice. — 25. But now I beg you, take away my sin, and return with me, that I may know the “Yohveh” worship. — 26. And Samuel said to Saul: I will not with Return to you! Because you rejected the word of "Yahweh"
So “John” has also rejected you, that you should not be king.
about Israel. — 27. And Samuel turned to go, but he

4*

— 52 —

He grasped the hem of his coat, and it tore. — 28. Then he spoke Samuel said to him: “The ‘Yohveh’ has today destroyed the kingdom of Israel from
He tore it from you and gave it to your neighbor, who is better.

than you. — 29. And the victor in Israel will not spare, and

He will not regret it: for he is not a man, that he repent. — 30. But he said: I have sinned; but honor

I now appear before the elders of my people and before Israel, and Return with me, that I may worship "Yohveh," your God.

31. So Samuel turned back and followed Saul. And Saul prayed the "Yohveh". — And Samuel said: Bring me here to me.

Agag, the king of the Amalekites. Then they brought him the Agag, who was extremely fat, was trembling. Then Agag came-comforted him, and said: Truly, the bitterness has departed-ness of death. — 33. But Samuel said: Just as

Your sword has made women childless, so

May your mother also be childless among the women!

And Samuel cut him into pieces before "John the Baptist" in Galgala." —

Gramberg (Religious Ideas, I, pp. 115, 343, 360. II, p. 80

notes in this regard: "Agag is at the sanctuary of Gilgal "before

"Jehovah," i.e., "cut down as a sacrifice." — Leo (Ge-History of the Jewish State, Berlin 1828) but writes to

I Sam. (King.) XV, 9—35: "We will on this occasion taught that the Jews practiced human sacrifice, just like the Phoenicians and Carthaginians, their linguistic relatives." — Agag

In any case, it was not the first human sacrifice that Samuel had made.

"Johveh" slaughtered, otherwise he would not have been so calm and with such cold blood, such a gruesome business

rather than subjecting it themselves, but prefer to leave it to someone else have.

Samuel's behavior towards Saul was very similar.

is the one in the Books of Kings (I [III] Kings 20, 13; 22;

28 and 42) reported the history of Ahab's war with Benadad, the king of Syria, where a man in the name of "Yohveh" knew-

the prophet who says that Ahab is encouragingly at his side, so

But how this noble-

had treated him bravely and released him, thus having opposed him-zealous: "This is what the Lord says: because you are the man I

"banished" (Cherem) released from your hand, so shall Give your soul for his soul, and your people for his

"People." — Cf. Daumer, The Fire and Moloch Service of the Ancients Hebrews, p. 20.

b) Another type of “cherem” is that which someone of his own, completely free will, he vowed to "Yohveh" in order to obtain any favor from him. Such a "cherem" Judge Jephthah once vowed and slaughtered him. The following The relevant biblical account (Judges 11:29-40) reads: “29. Since The spirit of “Yahweh” came upon Jephthe, and he wandered about through Galaad and Manasseh (to gather troops. DV), also through Maspha in Galatian, and from there came to the sons

Ammons, — 30. and he vowed to the “Yohveh” a Ge-vowed, and said: If you will see the sons of Ammon in If you give me your hand, — 31. so I will, whoever comes first goes out of the door of my house, and I un-I will be met when I return in peace from the to the sons of Ammon, to "Yohveh" as a burnt offering. — 32. So Jephthe went over to the sons of Ammon, against to fight them; and “John” gave them into his hands. — 33. And He struck them down from Aroer until you come to Mennith, twenty Cities, and as far as Abel, which is surrounded by vineyards, with a very great defeat; and the sons of Ammon were humiliated by the sons of Israel. — 34. When Jephthah returned After Maspha, he came to his house and met his only Daughter with drums and dancing: for he had no others Children. — 35. And when he saw them, he tore his clothes and said: Oh, my daughter, you have deceived me and become I deceived myself: for I opened my mouth to “Yovh,” and there is nothing else to be done. — 36. And she answered him: My father, have you opened your mouth Having opened myself to the Lord, do to me what you have promised, according to Vengeance and victory have been granted to you over your enemies. — 37. And again she spoke: Only do this to me, for what I Please: Let me wander around for two months. on the mountains, and I mourn my virginity with my Playmates. — 38. And he answered her: Go. And he released her for two months, and she went there with her Ge-playmates and companions, and wept for her virginity on the mountains. — 39. And when two months had passed, he returned. She returned to her father, and he did to her, which meant nothing The man knew how he had vowed. Therefore, it became the custom and permanent custom in Israel, — 40. that every year the daughters Israel's people gather to mourn the daughter of Jephthah, of Galatians, four days." —

To the result of the sacrifice of Jephthah's daughter Proof that the servants of "Yohveh" belonged to their god Men-
To weaken the sacrificial offerings, one has to part of it. claims that Jephthah did not intend such a sacrifice at all, but He only thought of an animal sacrifice when he took his vow, and believed
I have that a sheep or a cow would be the first thing
during his triumphant entry into his homeland would accommodate him at his house. On the other hand, he They resorted to the excuse that Jephthah, as a former
A robber chieftain, a bad theologian, and in the law of Moses was poorly trained. So writes Winer.
(Biblical Real Dictionary, I, p. 636): "That human sacrifice to the Contrary to Mosaic law, it stands out through the Be-Note that in the turbulent age of judges, as it turns out from some other relations, the Mosaic law results in was far from being widely known or closely observed
how the entire wording of the vow could be considered with a measured approach
"The consideration of the law could not possibly exist." — Daumer
(The Fire and Moloch Service etc., p. 44) mocks: "The praising Jephthah may well have considered an animal sacrifice. That could to him an unclean animal, unsuitable as a sacrifice, a dog or a
"Come meet a donkey." — Michaelmas (Mosaic Law, III, § 145, p. 12) but seeks through a denigration of Jephthah to overcome the difficulty by saying:
"This man, a dishonest and heirless child, became a robber, and from the leader of a robber band in the land of Tob to a brave barbarian who became a military commander, — who rose early from his displaced from their homeland and trapped under a band of robbers in the land of Tob Jephthah, who had been trained as a man, did not like the law of Moses.
know a lot, and be just as bad a theologian as a legal scholar.
"Be more learned." —

The fact that the sacrifice of Jephthah is described in the Book of Judges have been appointed, as Flavius Josephus already noted.
around the year 80 AD, after the destruction of Jerusalem-
Lems, writing in Rome, was extremely uncomfortable and embarrassing.
Rome was despised, even though the city was still pagan.
was the view that human sacrifice was a cult reserved only for barbarians ziehme, and the Jews joined the ranks of these barbarians in in the eyes of the Romans, as soon as they learned that the same “Yove” slaughtered human sacrifices. Josephus therefore states in his »Jewish Antiquities« (V, VII, lo) the sacrifice of Jephtheh as an unlawful and displeasing thing to God, “because he did not considered what the consequence of that would be, and what the People who heard about it later would say something like that.

 Regarding the words of the aforementioned Jewish historian...
 Schreiber's (Antiquit. Jud. lib. V, Kap. VII, § 10) read: “(Jephthe) BVO v nalda bAoxadzwoev, ore vt ON (ed xExagio-uevny dvolav Enurelöv, and d taßaoao `ō , death ovvēỹ,ñ TO YyErnoöuevor, olov 6 npaydtv tedious tols änodoaci.” — D. i.: “After (Jephthe)
 After he had slaughtered his daughter as a sacrifice, he burned her.
 as a burnt offering. However, the offering he made was neither lawful and pleasing to God, because he is not governed by calculation-nung has examined exactly what the consequences of this might be, and what kind a judgment would be passed on his deed by those who heard of it.”

However, all these excuses are incapable of overcoming the problems caused by
 The holy scripture testifies to the fact that the Jews belonged to the "John-
 To refute claims that "veh" has offered human sacrifices:
 For what Jephthe did, many others before and after him had done.
 done without being in Jephthe's predicament, and without having been robber chieftains or even just robber chieftains in their previous lives
 They were warriors. Let us only look at God's chosen one—
 Samuel, like him, without having been a robber or soldier, Agag, after Saul, the rough warrior, had spared him, with slaughtered in cold blood with his own hand, and we will say to ourselves must be that the same action of Jephthe is solely and exclusively due to the bill for his pious zeal for "Yohveh", but not on those of the crude warrior and the bad Theologians are to be asked.

But not only individuals, but also entire communities
 The pious Jew could offer cities and peoples to "Yohveh" as Cherem is to be consecrated. And that this was done in ancient times, when the Jews nor the use of force for such undertakings
 The Holy Scriptures provide evidence that this actually happened.
 The Old Testament provides us with the most irrefutable evidence. Read it.
 we in the third book of Moses 21, 1-3: “1. When Arad, the king
 The Canaanite, who lived near the south, heard that Israel was on
 He argued against Israel, claiming that he had come from the path of Atharim.

and was victorious, and led away the booty. — 2. Then he joined Israel made a vow to the “Yohveh”, and said:
If you will give this people into my hand, then I will
I will put their cities under the "excommunication" (Cherem). — 3. And “Yohveh” heard the plea of Israel and gave the Canaanites into his hand, and he (Israel) put it under a "ban" along with its cities (i.e., Israel burned the conquered cities and killed its inhabitants in honor of "Johveh" (DV).

Daumer (The Fire and Moloch Service etc. 1842) may Therefore, he is probably not entirely wrong when he (aa OS 25) writes: “Sacrificing enemies was part of the practice of the ancient Hebrews in the degree to their sacrificial cult that they, like the ancient Mexicans Canaries waged wars solely for this purpose.
to give the nation's terrible god a truly colossal
to make sacrifices, to give him entire cities and peoples as Cherem consecrate (to banish), and waged "sacrificial wars," whereby everything, whose capture was strangled as a sacrifice to "John the Lord", was burned or dedicated to the sanctuary. There you will find we then often with pleasure, detail and subsequent
It was emphasized with emphatic repetition that "everything was devoured".
It had been, what breath and life had been, that one "man"
and women, young and old, oxen, sheep and donkeys were strangled.
(cf. Joshua VI, 17 and 21; X, 28, 30, 32, 35, 37, 39, 40.)".

"Even several passages in the prophetic books of the Old Testament Testaments are to be moved here. So Jer. 46, 10, where it means: “For this is a day of the Lord, “Yohveh Zebaothg,” a day of revenge, to take revenge on his enemies: it devours the sword and is satisfied, and it becomes drunk with its Blood; for a sacrifice of the Lord “John the Lord”
baoth" is in the land around midnight on the river Euphrat." — And Isaiah 34:2-6: "2. "The Lord is angry with All the heathens, he is enraged against all their host: he makes She, “Cherem” OD. i., delivers them to destruction. D. V), and She gives them up for slaughter. — 3. Their slain lie thrown down, and a stench rises from their corpses:
The mountains melt with their blood; — 4. all the host of heaven-
Mels melts, and the skies roll like a book: all Their army falls like a leaf from a vine and a fig tree. — 5. For my sword is drunken-
It has been in heaven; behold, it is coming down on Edom, on the People of my slaughter, to the judgment seat. — 6. The sword

The “John” is full of blood, fattened with fat, with the blood of the Lambs and goats, from the kidney fat of rams (i.e., from the Blood of the people and the nobility. DV): for a battle-ten holds “Yohveh” in Bosra, a great massacre in the land Edom.” —

Human sacrifice is therefore not only practiced by Jews in the...
not only during the patriarchal era, but also later in the period, and by the followers of the Mosaic rite as well as by those of the patriarchal Moloch service as a "Yohveh"
A particularly pleasing and vigorous sacrifice was offered. Very What is unpleasant for non-Jews is the fact that the Mosaic religion instead of, as the followers of the patriarchal-religious practice, sacrificing their own children to the Mohvehe, has progressed to the slaughter of foreigners, and that it only requires a vow from a Jew,
to make a human sacrifice for Yohvehe necessary,
from which there is no buyout and no rescue.

That such religious regulations are not only for the Peoples who possess the material for such Jewish human sacrifices to pose, but also very oppressive for the Jews themselves may be, especially since they have been in the exercise of their powers since they began their political careers.
have lost their independence, are often disabled,
– and they, without complying with the laws of the states in which they
to live, to get into conflict, human sacrifice no longer public-discovered, and even in secret only with great concern.
I probably don't need to say that we will be able to celebrate.
In my humble opinion, therefore, all Jews must welcome it with joy when "Yohveh" is mentioned by would have a prophet say to them: “Dear Jews! I thank you Thank you for the much blood that you and your fathers gave me.
Honors were bestowed, and for the numerous "Cheremg" who You slaughtered me. But now it may be enough.
with the bloodshed, and I don't want any more "cherem".
Accept from your hand. For behold, not only Shem,
Your father, but also Japheth and Ham are mine
Children, and not only the descendants of Abraham, son-of all peoples and nations of the whole world
They are to share in the inheritance of the chosen ones.
My name is great in all countries, and everywhere it is sacrificed in my name, and I also want you to sacrifice for me.

henceforth only a pure food offering (mincham) is to be presented.
will be needed. But whoever promised me another "Cherem", and whoever slaughters a human being, let all curses be heaped upon him.
meet, which I through my servant Moses (III. Mos. XXVI, 14-40 and V. Mos. XXVII, 15-68) concerning those who

"I have not disregarded my law, I have pronounced." — One

"Yohveh" truly sent such a prophet.

More than two thousand years ago, he spoke through the mouth of the Prophet Malachias called to the Jews (Malach. I, 10-11):

"10. I take no pleasure in you," says oh-

"Veh Zebaoth," and accept no sacrifice from your people.

Hands. — 11. For from the rising of the sun until the

My name will grow great among the dead.

Peoples (Goim), and in all places my name will be sacrifices were made and a pure food offering (mincha) was presented.

become." -

If there are nevertheless Jews who are descended from their fathers

The ritual should not be discontinued, even though John has forbidden it.

Furthermore, to honor him with sacrifices that are an abomination to him, one will

This is not a cult, but a despicable one.

must call it nonsense, and the one who calls the goddess

Justice, which watches with its eyes closed,

would want to induce the removal of the blindfold

to render great service to the fatherland.

Chapter Seven.

The "dying before John the Baptist".

Executions of wicked people and criminals against

"Yohveh", insofar as they represent the meaning of a "Yohveh"

Those who had made sacrifices were described by the expression of "dying".

before Johveh« (m 25), to which Daumer (The Fire-and Moloch service of the ancient Hebrews, p. 26) notes: "That the

The expression "kill or die before John the Baptist" refers to the killing of a People cannot understand the meaning of human sacrifice.

be denied. Compare, for example, Solomon and the

“The people will bring sacrifices before the Lord” (J. (III.) Kings VIII, 62; II Chron. (Paralip). VII, 4).“ — This expression also shows us, as Daumer (aa OS 27) says, what the death of the Aaron's sons, Nadab and Abihu, who brought "foreign fire" before Johveh brought it, for a reason: “But they died Nadab and Abihu “before Jehovah, when they offered up foreign fire-brought before John the Lord in the Sinai Desert (Genesis 3:4), and if it was portrayed that way in a previous narrative that “fire came out of John the Baptist and consumed them, and they therefore died “before John the Lord” (Leviticus 10:2), — so it is to compare, as just before, fire also came from John the Baptist-goes, and the burnt offering and the pieces of fat on the altar devours (III. Mos. 9, 24), so that here too the meaning of the er-counted facts as one of the sacrifices offered to "Yohveh" in the eyes leap. The written text that testifies to this reads in the Context (Leviticus 1-2): “I. And Nadab and Abihu, who Aaron's sons took their censers and put fire in them, and placed incense upon it, and brought foreign fire before it “Yove,” which was not commanded to them. — 2. Then fire went out from "Johvehge," and devoured them. And they died "before" Johveh«.★ — ö

— 60 —

A similar fate befell those men who were sent out had been used to scout out Canaan, and which after Their return threw the community into a frenzy against Moses. had set by speaking to Moses and telling his story (IV Mos. XIII, 28—34): “We came to the land to which you sent us. It truly flows with milk and honey, as you can see.

from these fruits: — 29. but it has very strong inhabitants, and large walled cities. We saw the Enak clan. there. . . 31. Meanwhile, Caleb calmed the murmuring.

of the people who rose up against Moses, and said: let us move up and take the land, for we can—cope. — 32. Others, however, who had gone with him,

They said: We cannot possibly go up to this people,
For it is stronger than we are. — 33. And they denounced it

The land they had explored was among the sons of Israel, and spoke: The land we traveled through to see it,
It devours its inhabitants. The people we saw are from great length. — 34. There we saw some monsters of the Sons of Enak of the giant race: and we were against them

“They look like locusts.” — XIV. 1. Then the people rose up his voice and wept all night, — 2. and
All the sons of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron,
4. And they said one to another: let us raise an army-appoint leaders and return to Egypt. — 5. When Moses And when Aaron heard this, they fell to the ground upon their faces. in front of the entire multitude of the sons of Israel..... 10. And When the whole crowd screamed and wanted to stone her, then she appeared the glory of "John the Lord" above the roof of the covenant (of the Holy Tent. DV) to all the sons of Israel. — 11. And “John the Lord” spoke to Moses: How long will this people blaspheme me? . . . 12..Therefore “I will strike them with the plague and destroy them, etc.” — Moses Now pray for the people, and “Yohveh” is content to grant them, who had grumbled, to be beaten, and leaves the people to be-announce (IV Mos. XIV, 29-37): “29. In this wilderness your Bodies remain where they lie. All of you who are counted out of twenty.
Years and beyond, and have murmured against me, — 30. you
You should not come into the land over which I have laid my hand-
They lifted up the right to let you live there, except for Caleb the son.

3

of Jephon, and Joshua, the son of Nun. — 31. But your Children, . . . I want to bring them in so that they may see the land, that displeased you. — 32. Your bodies shall be laid to rest in the
They will remain in the desert. — 33. And your sons will be restless.
in the desert forty years, and they shall bear the consequences of your fornication until the bodies of the fathers are scattered in the desert, —
34. according to the number of the forty days you explored the land:
One year is to be counted as one day. Forty years
Your misdeeds will be repaid, and you will learn, what it is if I resign. — 35. Because the way I spoke,

So I want to do this whole very evil people, who have-
 They rose up against me. In this desert it shall perish, and die. — 36. So the men who had sent Moses died.
 had sent to inspect the country, and they returned,
 The whole community murmured against him, and that
 The land was denounced as evil — 37. and they were beaten “before John the Baptist.” — 38. But Joshua, the son of the Well, and Caleb, the son of Jephon, remained alive of all.
 who had set out to explore the country.”

Those seven men also died a sacrificial death.
 the house of Saul, which was intended to avert a famine-not on the mountain at Gabaa were crucified, as the scripture
 (I. Sam. Kön. XXI, 1—14) tells us by writing:

“1. There was also a famine in the days of David, three Years after year: and David asked the mouth of "Yohveh".
 And “Yahweh” said: For the sake of Saul and his bloody house will, because he killed the Gabaonites. — 2. Then the King the Gabaonites, and spoke to them. But the Gabaonites were not from the sons of Israel, but remnants of the Amorrhites, and the sons of Israel had sworn to them (they to let them live among themselves in peace. DV), but Saul wanted
 They strike in his zeal for the children of Israel and Judah.
 3. David then spoke to the Gabaonites: What shall I do for you?
 do, and what will be your atonement, that you may inherit the Lord’s possession?
 bless again? — 4. Then the Gabaonites said to him: It is We are not concerned with silver and gold, but we have against Saul and his house, and we do not want anyone to (otherwise) be killed from Israel. And the king spoke to to them: What do you want me to do for you? — 5. And they They spoke to the king: The man who is ruining us and bringing us to nothing

— 52 —

has done (we demand): for we have been destroyed, that Our stay was not within all the borders of Israel. — 6. Man Give us seven men from among his sons, so that we may raise them up.
 hang “before Johveh” to Gabaa Saul’s, who once the Out-chose the one who was "Yohveh". And the king said: I will them give “ou. .s2% 8. And David took the two sons of the Respha, the daughter of Aja, whom she bore to Saul, Armoni and Miphiboseth, and the five sons of Michol, the daughter

Saul's, which she bore to Hadriel, the son of Berzellai, who was a Molathite, — 9. and gave them into the hands of the Gabaonites, whom they crucified on the mountain “before the Lord” zigten. So these seven fell all at once and were swallowed up by the Killed in the first days of the harvest, as the barley harvest began.

10. But Respah, the daughter of Aiah, took a sack of hair, and spread it out beneath him on a rock, from the beginning the harvest, until water from the sky trickled down upon them, and did not allow the birds to tear them apart by day, or the wild animals at night. — 11. And it was reported to David, what Respah, the daughter of Aiah, Saul's concubine, did.

12. And David went and took Saul's bones, and the Bones of Jonathan, his son, from the men at Jabes in Galaad, which they had stolen from the alley to Bethsean, where the Philistines hanged them after they had led Saul to had killed Gelboe: — 13. and he brought from there the The bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan, his son, and they They also collected the bones of those who had been crucified, —

14. and they buried them with the bones of Saul and Jonathan, his son, in the land of Benjamin at Zela in the tomb of Cis, his father: and they did everything the king had commanded, And after that, “Elohim” was once again gracious to the land. Gramberg (Critical History of the Religious Ideas of the (old Testament, I, p. 115) remarks on this: “The most decisive- The expressions used here leave no doubt that humans- Even in David's time, sacrifices were not considered unworthy. not believed, but rather considered powerful expiatory sacrifices were to avert the wrath of “Yohveh.”

But not only in the time of David, but also Many hundreds of years later, human sacrifice flourished among the Jews. We read of the pious King Josiah that he in his religious zeal, after idolatry was declared in Judah eliminated, did the same in the kingdom of Israel, and the priests of the Baal, whom he had captured, slaughtered his god.

(See the sacred account relating to this (II. CV.) Kings 23:19-20)

It reads: “19. And also all the high temples located in the cities Samarias were those whom the kings of Israel built, the “Yohveh”

Josiah removed what he had done to provoke them: and he did to them according to all that he had done.

he did at Bethel. — 20. And he killed all the priests of the Heights that were there, on the altars, and ver- He burned human bones on it and returned to Jerusalem.

back.* -

It is not explicitly stated here that Josias
the priests of the heights whom he slaughtered on the altars, who has sacrificed to the "Johveh", this results
but so clear and distinct from the context that a Further proof is unnecessary.

The slaughter of the Baal priests at the Kison stream, by Elijah (I. (III.) Kings XVIII, 40) is so well known that I must mention this deed-
I only need to mention that one thing. I just wanted to point out that circumstance.
I would like to point out that some translators, the one from this
"Battles" is a verb used in the Hebrew text.
"Shachat" (slaughter) erroneously equated with "kill" - give, while it indicates with certainty that it is ritual slaughter, or "slaughtering as a sacrifice"

—

*

What Daumer says about Moses and Aaron is interesting.
teaches about the inevitable end of life by (fire and Moloch-(Service of the Ancient Hebrews, pp. 28-29) writes: "But there are not merely strangers, enemies of the Lord and his nation, enbreakers, and what is related to them, what the falls victim to the terrible god of the ancient Hebrews: the-
He is always, so to speak, on the verge of something, too.
to spoil and devour them. They are therefore in constant danger.
during negotiations with him to relieve his anger, his
to deflect enmity from himself, in order to actually also... ruined existence through the sacrifice of an expensive and costly to buy part of it with cash. Then the people give his princes, military leaders and high priests to their deaths."

"Regarding the sacrifice of the leaders of the people and high priests

==. 02

As far as this is concerned, the Bible tells us about two such facts.
which still sufficiently defined tradition is preserved. It is the

The deaths of Moses and Aaron are meant. The oracle of "Yohveh" It is announced that they are to die. They climb a mountain, and die, i.e., they are sacrificed (IV Mos. XX, 23 and V Mos. XXII, 49ff.). The deaths of both are explicitly compared. and equated: "Die," — says John to Moses, — "on the mountain you climb, and be gathered to your people, just as Aaron, your brother, died. on Mount Hor, and gathered to his people ward (V. Mos. XXXI, 50). And so Moses also dies "after Johveh's command" (V. Mos. XXXIV, 5)." — So Daumer. Father (Commentary on the Pentateuch, Halle 1805, III, (p. 100) notes in this regard: "This type of dying is striking." Aaron's, just as it is subsequently Moses'." — Incidentally, the scripture in Deuteronomy 34:5, which which deals with the death of Moses, also another German-tung zu. The Hebrew text: »Al-pi Johveh« (mm wor), which is usually translated as: "by order of the Lord, It can also be translated as: "at the mouth of the Lord, or "through the mouth of John the Lord," and the death of Moses would therefore not be on command, but by the The mouth of the Lord takes place, which one can then imagine as something like this: would be as if John the Baptist had taken the soul out of Moses. kissed, and Moses would have died from a kiss of the Lord. According to the rabbis, this is how, apart from Moses and Aaron and Miriam, the sister of Moses, also died. A curious tradition, from which it can be inferred that Miriam also fell victim to the Lord (cf. Prophetæ veteres pseudepigraphi. Ed. Gfrörer, Stuttgart 1840, p. 333 and 361. Also Eisenmenger, Discovered Judaism, I, p. 865, and Daumer, The Fire and Moloch Service etc., p. 30). —

Chapter Eight.

The prisoner in the Temple in Jerusalem.

After we saw that the ancient Hebrews gave their (grotto, regardless of whether they call him Moloch, Baal, or Johveh revered, slaughtered human sacrifices, and that between The only difference between the various ancient Jewish cults was probably the... The fact was that the followers of the patriarchal religion Moloch, or Baal, exclusively their own children sacrificed, while the followers of Mosaic Law the abhorred the slaughter of their own children, and their "Yohveh"

 We want to settle things with the blood of strangers.
 To take a look at the cult sites where these human sacrifices took place who used to be celebrated by the old Jews. Now, one has... while it was always by the servants of the Baal and Moloch cult
 It was known that these were the same ones that had been mentioned by the patriarchs Abraham,
 Isaac and Jacob established places of worship, whether on high ground, be
 It was often mistakenly believed that fountains were preferred, and that... the followers of Mosaic Law, since the founding of the Temple on Moriah, where worship and sacrifice were only permitted in Jerusalem.
 But the example of the prophet Elijah, who according to the report in
 I. (III.) Book of Kings (XVIII, 20–40) his burnt offering on offered to Carmel, and the four hundred and fifty Pro-
 The prophets of Baal then sacrificed at the Kison stream, as well as the
 The fact that the pious King Josiah, of whom the scripture
 (I. CV.) Kings 23, 20) recounts that he told the priests of the high places, which he could get his hands on, "on the altars" of their god slaughtered, teaches us that even after the founding of the Temple Offerings were made to "Yohveh" in Jerusalem on several occasions and elsewhere have been. The children of Israel will therefore be, by virtue of their

Mommert, Ritual Murder. 3

9

The fact that the temple is destroyed does not prevent the "Yohveh" from being destroyed.
 To honor the offering of human sacrifices.

An example of how the Jews were already in the second year-hundreds of years before Christ, at the time of King Antiochus Epi-Phanes of Syria (169 BC) had a reputation for being strangers who which fell into their hands, to use as sacrifices for their cult,
 The Jewish historian Flavius Josephus tells us in his "Liber II contra Apionem" 8 8, where he, the fact denies, and writes: "Alteram vero fabulam, derogatione nostra plenam, de Graecis (Apion) apposuit et dixit: "Antiochum in templo invenisse lectum et hominem in eo jacentem, et appositam ei mensulam maritimis terrenisque volatilium dapibus plenam, et quod obstipuisset his homo. Ilum vero mox adorasse regis ingressum, tanquam maximam sibi opem praebituri ac procidentem ad ejus genoa, extensa dextera poposcisse libertatem; et jubente rege, ut consideret et diceret, quis esset, vel cur ibidem habitaret, vel quae esset causa ciborum ejus, tunc hominem cum gemitu et lacrymis lamentabiliter suam narrasse necessitatem. Ait, inquit, esse se Graecum: et dum peragraret provinciam parandi victus causa, correptum se subito ab alienigenis hominibus, atque deductum ad templum, et in cclusum illic, et a nullo conspici, sed cuncta dapium apparatione saginari. Et primum quidem haec sibi inopinabilia beneficia visa attulisse laetitiam; deinde suspicionem, postea stuporem: postremum consulentem a ministris ad se accedentibus audisse legem ineffabilem Judaeorum, per qua nutritura. Et hoc illos facere singulis annis quodam tempore constituto. Et comprehendere quidem Graecum peregrinum, eumque annuo tempore saginare, et deductum ad quandam silvam occidere quidem eum hominem, ejusque corpus sacrificare secundum suas solennitates, et gustare ex ejus visceribus, et jusjurandum facere in immolatione Graeci, ut inimicitias contra Graecos haberent: et tunc in quandam foveam reliqua hominis pereuntis abjicere.” Deinde refert eum dixisse, paucos jam dies debitos sibimet superesse; atque rogasse, ut reveritus Graecorum deos, et superans in suo sanguine insidias Judaeorum, de malis eum circumstantibus deliberaret.“ — Di: “A second fable that is shameful for us”

He (Apion) taught the Greeks... by

He said that Antiochus (after conquering Jerusalem) in the temple a bed and a person lying on it, with a rich

a small table in front, covered with fish and poultry, was found have, and that this person was first seen upon the king's entry- was frightened, but soon, expecting that he would come to his aid would grant, before him he had thrown himself down, his knees encompassed, and with raised right hand demanding his release I had asked. But then, when the king ordered him to sit down, and say who he was, why he was there, and what the reason for his abundant diet might be, I have The man, sighing and tears, recounts his plight: He "I am Greek," he said. "I have my business in the country." because of the fact that it was crisscrossed, it was suddenly surrounded by strangers. seized, were taken to the temple, and imprisoned there, and I will now, hidden from everyone's eyes, be seated at a richly laden table fattened up. At first, he saw this as an unexpected blessing. appeared, and it gave him pleasure. Then it

He was filled with suspicion, later with terror. Most recently, he had been told by the servants who were supposed to be waiting for him, in response to his questioning, the

The ineffable law of the Jews, for whose purpose he would be fattened up, learn, — and they would do such a thing to be- At the same time every year, they attacked a Greek hiker. They raised him, fattened him up for a year, and led him to a small wood. They killed the man, sacrificed his body according to their During the festive ritual, they consumed certain parts of his entrails, and- They swore an oath to the sacrifice of the Greek, to maintain hostility towards the Greeks. Then - They threw the remains of the dead man into a pit.” Thereupon, Apion reports that he said he only had a few left. I had days to live, and I asked that he (the king) be from Reverence for the gods of the Greeks, and by dealing with his blood overcomes the persecution of the Jews, him from "Free him from the evils surrounding him." — So says Josephus.

Everyone may think what they want of this story, One may give credence to the report of Apion, or to the I agree with Josephus, who declared this story to be a fable: One thing we can and must conclude from this is... the fact that the Jews were already in the second Centuries before Christ, they had a bad reputation, foreign people, people not belonging to their own people-access, and in honor of their god "Yohveh". slaughter.

95 *

Chapter Nine.

The Easter Lamb of the New Covenant.

The core and focal point of Jewish human sacrifice The sacrificial death of Jesus Christ forms the cross. The fact that that Christ told the Roman governor Pontius Pilate of The fact that the Jews were handed over to be killed is historically firmly, and since no one has yet disputed it If this has been done, then further evidence for this should not be required.

unnecessary. Only the fact that Jesus' crucifixion
The character and effects of a victim should Therefore, it will be demonstrated here. For this purpose, we will show that the Jews excommunicated Jesus as a blasphemertan, and the execution of the "Cheremg" pronounced over him, after they had repeatedly failed, to Pilate have transferred, and we will demonstrate that Christ, as it foreshadowed by prophecies and examples of the Old Testament was announced as the Paschal Lamb of the New Covenant, and at the same time slaughtered as a federal sacrifice for us, and that he, in his own blood, as eternal high priest into the has entered the heavenly sanctuary to be with his
our heavenly Father, constant and most effective
To be a mediator.

Regarding the persecutions that Jesus faced from the Jews had been repeatedly prepared, so they had their
The reason lies partly in the envy and resentment of writingscholars and Pharisees, who were annoyed that the people were left to follow Jesus, but on the other hand in hatred and in their vindictiveness, because of the harsh rebukes and of the harsh rebuke which Jesus gave on various occasionshad expressed their feelings towards them. Therefore, they sought

u Be to use pretexts to render the inconvenient prophet harmless: to do, and found such by using various of his words which he interpreted as blasphemies, whereupon the Law of Moses (Revelation 24:16) the death penalty was imposed. This is reported by the Gospel of Saint John (V, 18): "Therefore they sought the Jews even more so, to kill him (Jesus), because he not only broke the Sabbath, but also God his Father

"He called himself, and made himself equal to God." — And in the same Gospel of Saint John (VIII, 59): "Then they lifted up (the Jews) picked up stones to throw at him. But Jesus hid them.
"He himself, and went out of the temple." — And John 10:22–40:
"22. It was the Feast of the Dedication of the Temple in Jerusalem and Winter. — 23. And Jesus walked in the temple in the hall Solomon's. — 24. Then the Jews surrounded him and spoke to him.
to him: How long will you keep us waiting? If you are Christ, then Tell us frankly. — 25. Jesus answered them: I have

I told you, and you do not believe. The works which I
I act in the name of my Father; these bear witness about me: —
26. But you do not believe, because you are not of my Sheep. — 27. My sheep hear my voice: I know
They, and they follow me. — 28. And I give them this eternal lives, and they will never be lost:
And no one will snatch them from my hand. — 29. What I What my father gave is greater than anything, and no one can to wrest it from my father's hand. — My father and I are
one. — 31. Then the Jews picked up stones again to... stoning. — 32. But Jesus replied to them: I have told you many good works by my father were shown, to which of these Are you stoned for my works? — 33. The Jews answered to him: We are not stoning you for a good deed, but-because of blasphemy, because you called yourself God
You do this because you are a human being. — 34. Jesus answered them:
Is it not written in your law (Psalm 81:6): You are Gods! — 35. If it now named those gods to whom God's word has been spoken, and Scripture has not been abolished.
can become, — 36. how do you say to the one whom the father sanctified and sent into the world: You blaspheme God! because I said: I am the Son of God. — 37. Do I do the
If you do not believe me if you do not believe the works of my Father: —
38. But if I do them, believe the works, if you do not believe me.

You want to believe, so that you may know that the Father is in me, and I in the Father. — 39. Then they sought to find him again-
"They tried to seize him, but he escaped their grasp." —

* *
*

After Jesus then raised Lazarus from the dead
The Jews held council on how to take Jesus into their custody.
would come and kill, as the Gospel of Saint John tells us (XI, 47—56) tells us in the following words: “47. There the-
The high priests and Pharisees gathered a council, and They said: What do we do? This man performs many miracles. —
48. If we leave him as he is, everyone will believe in him, and The Romans will come, and take away our land and people.

take. — 49. But one of them, named Caiaphas, who
The high priest who was high priest this year spoke to them: You know nothing, — 50. and don't consider that it's better for us,

When a person dies for the people, it's as if the whole
The nation is perishing. — 31. But he did not say this of his own accord.
himself, but because he was high priest that year, he knew-
He said that Jesus would die for the people: — 52nd and not only for the people, but so that he too can would bring together God's scattered children into one. — 53. So they decided to kill him from that day forward.
a 55. But the Jewish Passover was near, and Many from the countryside went to Jerusalem before the Easter festival.
went upstairs to cleanse themselves. — 56. These now sought Jesus, and they spoke to one another as they stood in the temple:
What do you think? Isn't he coming to the party? There had been namely the chief priests and Pharisees gave a command that,
If someone knew where he was, he should report it so that they could seize him.” —

When the time had come in which, according to God,
By merciful decree, Jesus gave his blood and his life
They were to give themselves up for the salvation of the whole world, they intervened.
Jews, in order to deliver Jesus to death, the fore-
He was prone to blasphemy.

This is how the holy apostle and evangelist Matthew tells it in his Gospel (XVI, 59-66): “59. The high priests now and the whole council sought to give false testimony against Jesus, so that they could deliver him up to death: — 60. and they found

None, even though many false witnesses had appeared. Finally

Two false witnesses came, — 61. and said: This one has said: I can demolish the temple of God, and after three Rebuild it in days. — 62. There stood the high priest and said to him: “Do you not answer what these Will you testify against me? — 63. But Jesus remained silent. And the

The high priest said to him: I adjure you by the Living God, that you tell us if you are Christ, the Son of God's. — 64. But Jesus said to him, You have said so! But I tell you, from now on you will be the Son of Man to sit at the right hand of the power of God, and on the clouds of the Seeing heaven come. — 65. Then the high priest tore his clothes, and said: He has blasphemed God! What have we done? Still need witnesses? Look, now you have the blasphemy heard. — 66. What do you think? But they answered and They said: "He is guilty of death!"

The report about this incident reads almost the same in the holy Evangelists Mark (14, 61-65) and Luke (21, 66—71), while the holy Apostle and Evangelist John this scene from the Passion of Jesus leaves untouched, a Others, however, who gathered before Pilate's execution house-plays, teaches and (XIX, 6-7) tells how the Jews, when Pilate scourged Jesus into the flesh after he had finished scourging them with thorns. when he displays the crown on his head, shout: "Crucify him, crucify him!" Pilate refused this, saying: "Take him, and "Crucify him, for I find no guilt in him." The Jews but those who refuse to acknowledge this innocence, ant-words to him (John 19:7): "We have a law, and according to He must die by law. For he has himself made into the Son of God." —

All these accounts indicate that Jesus was the Jew under the pretext that he was committing blasphemy had committed a crime and was sentenced to death. and that therefore ritual reasons and regulations of the Mosaic It was the law that gave rise to the action." wise words of the Jews at the crucifixion of Jesus. Pilate, therefore, carried out the "excommunication" by crucifying Jesus. (Cherem), which the High Council of Jews pronounced concerning Jesus-spoken, and the death of Jesus accordingly had the character a victim.

But not only from the Jewish side, but also from Jesus himself will be the death he suffered for us on the cross. It was viewed and portrayed as a sacrificial death. This is how we read it. in the Gospel of Saint Matthew (XN, 17 — 19 and 27 — 28):

"17. And when Jesus went up to Jerusalem, he took the twelve A disciple stood beside him on the road and said to them: — 18. See

We are going up to Jerusalem, and the man
The son will be given to the high priests and scribes be handed over, and they will put him to death.
judge. — 19. They will hand him over to the Gentiles, that they mock him, scourge him and crucify him, and on
"On the third day he will rise again.".....

“27. And whoever wants to be first among you, let him be your servant; — 28. just as the Son of Man did not has come not to be waited on, but to serve, and give his life as ransom for many.”

And in the Gospel of Saint Mark (X, 32-34 and 44-45): “32. They were now on their way, and moved towards
Up to Jerusalem. Jesus went in front of them, but they followed.
fearful and amazed. And he once again increased the twelve.
He turned around and began to tell them what would happen to him.
33. Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the people-son will be given to the high priests, scribes, and elders
He will be handed over. They will condemn him to death, and handed over to the Gentiles: — 34. and they will mock him, and spit on him, and scourge and kill him: and on the third day will he rise again... "44. and who

Whoever wants to be first among you must be the servant of all: — 45. For even the Son of Man did not come, not to be served, but that he should serve, and his
"Give up your life for the salvation of many." —

By offering himself as the sacrificial lamb for the sins of the world, Jesus gave himself up to a shameful and painful death on the cross, he-what the prophet Isaiah had already said (LIII, 2— 12) was filled upon him.
as Christo had predicted, writing: “2. He shoots
It will rise up like a shoot before him (the Lord), and like a root from barren land. It has no form or beauty. We see him, but there is no form there, and we do not desire his, —
3. of the despised, the least of men, of man
the pain that is characterized by diseases (suffering):

who veils his face in shame, which is why we cannot see him Pay attention. — 4. Truly, He bears our diseases, and

He takes our pain upon himself! We consider him to be a leper whom God had beaten and humiliated has; — 5. but he is wounded for our sins
 for our sake, crushed for our sins: ours
 For the sake of peace, chastisement is upon him, and through His wounds will be healed. — 6. We all went Like sheep, they wandered astray, each one turned aside to his own way,
 But the Lord laid on him the iniquities of us all.
 7. He is sacrificed because he himself wanted to be. Because he was tortured
 And while being tortured, he does not open his mouth. Like a
 He is led to the slaughterhouse like a sheep, and falls silent like a sheep.
 a lamb before him who shears it, and he did not open his mouth.
 up. — 8. He is brought to justice by a frightening judicial ruling.
 quickly passed on to his death: (whoever of his contemporaries was-(Does he think so?) because he is cut off from the land of Living. Because of the sin of my people, I struck
 I him! — 9. He is given his grave by the godless, but by
 He is a rich man after his death: because he did not do any injustice
 He did this, and deceit was not in his mouth. — 10. The Lord will crush him in his weakness, but if he is for the
 He gave his life to sin, he beholds eternal seed,
 And the Lord's will is accomplished in his hand.
 11. For the labor of his soul he will see and be satisfied become: through his knowledge he himself, my Servant, the righteous one, to justify many, and their They bear the burden of wrongdoing. — 12. Therefore, I give him his share.
 among the powerful; he will share plunder with the strong:
 For he gave his life unto death, and is
 He was considered one of the perpetrators. He has the
 The sins of many were borne, and for the transgressors,
 pray." — |

That other prophetic word addressed to Christ was no less significant.
 in fulfillment where Isaiah (XLIII, 7) says: "He was sacrificed
 "Been because he himself wanted it." — So we will, without
 to present further witnesses based on the above-provided Written texts may consider us fully entitled to believe that to attribute the character of a sacrificial death to the crucifixion of Jesus, just as the whole old Church did, and the holy

The Apostle Paul in his first letter to the Corinthians (v. 7-8) says it is very aptly puts it in the words: "Sweep out the old leaven, therewith her you are a new dough, just as you are unleavened:

for our Passover lamb Christ has been sacrificed (kai yap To ndoya / ünto i., Eridn Kuiords).” —

What are the merciful effects of Jesus' sacrificial death?

As far as we are concerned, according to the testimony of all the ancients, they are Church, which is a sacrifice of reconciliation and of a covenant.

As an atoning sacrifice, the holy Apostle Paul presents the bloody sacrifice of Jesus on the cross in his letter to the Romans, by writing in the same (V, fo): “When we Even though we were still enemies, we were reconciled to God through the death of his son.” — The holy apostle writes similarly and the Evangelist John in his Apocalypse (I, 5) of Christ: “He loved us and us... from our Sins with his blood.”

But the holy Apostle Paul writes to the Hebrews (IX, 28): “So Christ was sacrificed once for the sake of many “To take away people's sins.” And O. X, lo: “We are sanctified through the sacrifice of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.”

* = *.

But not only as a sacrifice of reconciliation, but also as The crucifixion of Jesus is to be considered as a covenant sacrifice. In place of the covenant which God the Lord once made with the The treaty that Moses had concluded with the sons of Israel was to be concluded in the God determined the fullness of time for a new covenant to enter into, the covenant namely, which “Yahweh” was through the prophet Jeremiah (XXI, 31-34) announced with the words: “31. Behold, they are coming “Days,” says John, “when I was with the house of Israel and with the House of Judah to make a new covenant: — 32. not a covenant like the one I made with their fathers, on the day I took her hand to lead her out of the country to lead Egypt, which covenant they broke, which is why I told them made my power feel, says John: — 33. but this will be the covenant that I make with the house of Israel “Close after those days,” says the Lord. “I will my To place the law within her, and to shout it into her heart-

ben: and I will be their God (Elohim), and they shall be my God
"Be a people." —

This New Covenant that God wanted to make with Israel, According to Christian church doctrine, this is the one who, through the Blood of Jesus, which he, as the Paschal Lamb of the New Covenant, on the cross
It was shed for us, sealed. While until then the blood of the circumcision, through which the Sons of Israel were included in the covenant with Yom Eve, and while the law of the Old Covenant was thus, in a sense, in
The flesh of the Israelites had been buried, so it should be in The New Covenant does not refer to the circumcision of the flesh, but to the
to give value to the heart and mind before God, and grant admission into the blessings of the New Covenant, in which the prophecies and examples of the ancients their Fulfillment and the bloody sacrifices of the Old Covenant in the Jesus' sacrifice on the cross and its constant, bloodless renewal their replacement has found its place, as the holy Apostle Paul said in the Letter to the Hebrews (chapters V-X) very beautifully and comprehensively-expresses itself in a generative way.

Therefore, in order not to express my personal opinion on this matter,
but rather the view of the entire Christian Church Admittedly, I'll let Saint Paul speak.

The words of the Apostle regarding our subject are as follows:
(Hebrews V, 1-6): "r. Every high priest, from among the people taken, is ordered for the people in their area.
Opportunities with God, so that he may offer gifts and sacrifices for sins: — 2. and be able to have compassion for the un-both the knowing and the erring, since he himself also has weaknesses is surrounded, — 3. which is why, as for the people, so too for must offer sacrifices to himself for his sins. — 4. Also

No one takes away their own dignity, but rather that which God has bestowed upon them.
is called, like Aaron. — 5. So Christ also did not glorified himself by becoming a high priest, son-
the one who spoke to him: "You are my son, today
"I begot you." — 6. As he also in another
The passage says: "You are a priest forever in the manner of..."

of Melchizedek." —

And aa O Chapter VII, 1-3 and 13-28: "1. For this Melchizedek, King of Salem, Priest of the Most High God, who told Abraham, when he heard of the defeat of the kings had returned, came to meet him, and blessed him, — 2. the Abraham also gave a tenth of everything that was needed for the first time. The translation reads: King of Justice, but also:

King of Salem, that is: King of Peace, — 3. the one without Father, without mother, without genealogy, neither beginning of Days, even the end of life, was likened to the Son of God- He was made a priest, and remains a priest for eternity." —

13. For the one of whom this is said is from another tribe, from which no one ever came to the altar- has served. — 14. For it is known that our Lord of Judah descends from which tribe Moses, with regard to the priesthood- tumes has not guaranteed anything. — 15. And it clarifies even more, by following the likeness of Melchizedek, another than priest rises, — 16. who does not do it according to the precept of a flesh- lichen determination, but according to the force of an indissoluble has become life; — 17. for the Scripture testifies: You You are a priest forever, in the manner of Melchizedek.

18. The preceding (Old Testament) law is named- abolished due to its weakness and uselessness- ability; — 9. for the law has nothing to perfection brought, but the introduction of a better hope is what it is, through which we come to God. — 20. And in what respect it is not without an oath, (those, for they are without an oath) He became a priest, — 21. but he undertook an oath by which he said to him: The Lord has sworn, and it will fulfill him Do not regret. You are a priest for eternity, in the manner of... of Melchizedek), — 22. in that respect Jesus is of a better stature became guarantor of the will. — 23. Also, of those Several became priests because they were saved by death. were prevented from remaining: — 24. but this one, because he forever remains, an eternal priesthood: 25. for whatever reason he He can save those who draw near to God through him, since He lives always to pray for her. — 26. It also suited that we would have such a high priest, who would be holy, innocent, undefiled, separated from sinners, and higher than the heavens, — 27. who does not every The day needs, like the high priests, first for his own

To offer sacrifices for sins, then for the sins of the people: for He did this once, when he sacrificed himself.
28. For the law appoints people as high priests up, those who have weaknesses: But the word of the oath, that came according to the law, the Son (of God), to the perfect one for eternity.” —

And aa O. Chapter IX, 1 and 9-28: “It had indeed also the First (Covenant) regulations of worship and the earthly sanctuary.” e) „9. This is a Symbol of the present time, according to which gifts and sacrifices are offered that are not in the conscience can completely make the one who only returns view of food and drinks — 10. by means of some- lei washings and carnal justification- customs imposed until the time of improvement were, serving God. — fl. In contrast, Christ, according to- to whom he was appointed High Priest of the Good Things of the future- come, through a higher and more perfect tent, that was not made by human hands, namely not of this world, — 12. not even by blood of goats and bulls, but with his own blood entered the sanctuary once and for all, and has an eternal salvation invented. — 13. For if that Blood of goats and bulls and the sprinkling with the Cow ash sanctifies the defiled, so that they are bodily Becoming pure (Lithuanian Exodus 16:14): — 14. How much more will the blood of Christ, who in the eternal spirit gave himself as an immaculate sacrifice offered to God, our God- to purify knowledge from dead works, so that we may be free from the knowledge of God. Serving the living. — 15. And that is why he is of the new. Federal mediator, so that through death, which leads to the re- resolution of the transgressions under the first covenant Those who are called to the promised [thing] were fulfilled. received an eternal inheritance. — 16. For where a will (diadY«n) is, there must be the death of the one who makes the will, there- intervene. — 17. For a will is made valid by the Death is a valid argument: otherwise it has no force if he who is still alive has no power. it did. — 18. Therefore, the first one was not done without Blood erected. — 19. For when Moses recited all the commandments of the law After reading to the people, he took the blood of bulls and Bucks with water and crimson wool and Isop, and be-

He shattered the book itself and all the people, — 20th, and spoke:
This is the blood of the covenant God made with you.

closed. — 2. Also the tent and all the vessels for
He also sprinkled the servants with blood. — 22. And According to the law, almost everything is cleaned with blood.
And without bloodshed, there is no forgiveness.
23. Thus, the models of heavenly things must have been to be purified by such things: only the heaven-
The self requires more excellent sacrifices than those —
24. For not into that made by human hands Sanctuary, which was a model of the true one, is Jesus entered, but into heaven itself, to now to appear for us before the face of God: —
25. and not to sacrifice himself more often, like the High-
The priest enters the sanctuary every year with a stranger Blood, — 26. for then he would often have had to suffer from the on-beginning of the world, — but once, now, at the end of time,
He is to take away sin through his sacrifice appeared. — 27. And as is destined for man, to die once, whereupon judgment follows: — 28. so it was Christ also sacrificed himself once to save many people to take away sins. For the second time he will be without the Sin (which he took away. DV) appear for the salvation of those, who are waiting for him.” —

And aa O. Chapter X, 1-14: “1. For since the law the
It casts a shadow on future goods, but not the
The image of things themselves can thus be understood through the same annual
The sacrifices one makes ceaselessly will never be fulfilled.
to bring the sacrificers to perfection. — 2. Otherwise, they would they have ceased to be offered because the sacrificers would no longer have any awareness of sin if they had entered a
They were once cleaned. — 3. They are for the annual reminder to sins; — 4. for it is impossible that through the
The blood of bulls and goats will wash away sins.
5. That is why he speaks upon entering the world: Battle-
You do not ask for sacrifices or gifts, but you have a body.
prepared for me. — 6. In burnt offerings (and) sin offerings you have You have no pleasure. — 7. Then I said: Behold, I am coming (in (The beginning of the book is written by me), to accomplish, God, your will. — 8. First he says: Sacrifice,
You do not require gifts, burnt offerings, or sin offerings.

and you have no pleasure in what is according to the law

as presented: — 9. then: I said: Behold,
I have come to do your will, O God.
He therefore sets aside the first thing so that he may establish the other.
10. In this will we are sanctified through sacrifice.
of the Body of Jesus Christ once and for all. — 11. Every priest namely, he is there every day to perform the sacred service, and the same sacrifices that cannot take away sins, to offer often: — 12. But he, after he had made a sacrifice
He who has offered for his sins sits forever at Right hand of God, — 13. and waits henceforth until his enemies to be placed on the footstool of his feet: — 14. for with

He has eternally dedicated the saints to one sacrifice for fullness.
"brought about the end." — So said the holy Apostle Paul.

★

The so-called [illegible] serves as a model for the crucifixion of Jesus.
to be considered a bronze serpent, of which Jesus in the be-knew the conversation with Nicodemus in the Gospel of Saint John (III, 14-15) says: "14. Just as Moses
The serpent in the desert has raised up, so the Son of Man be lifted up: — 15. so that all who are in Believe in him, do not be lost, but embrace the eternal.
"To have life" — to which the Savior in O. (III, 16) said the words adds: "For God so loved the world that he gave up his only begotten Son so that all who believe in him,
not perish, but have eternal life."

The crucifixion of Jesus undoubtedly has a sacrificial character, and forms the end of the long chain of those perpetrated by the Jews in
The man slaughtered by "Yove" in pre-Christian times victim.

Chapter Ten.

Jewish ritual murders in the early Christian centuries.

Although the victims of the Old Covenant were in sacrificial death
Jesus' cross was supposed to be the end of their journey, but they encountered
However, there were also later events in history, which the continued practice of bloody religious orgies among the Jews testify. Even in early Christian times,
Christians were killed by Jews for religious reasons.
Jesus had foretold this to his followers when he said after the Gospel of Saint John (XV, 20-27) to them spoke: "20. Remember my words that I spoke to you I have: The servant is not greater than his master. As they (the Jews) persecuted me, so they will persecute you also:
Just as some kept my word, so too will some Receive your word. — 21. But all this they will do to you do this for my name's sake; for they do not know him who who sent me. — 22. If I had not come, and If he had spoken to them, they would have no sin; but now
They have no excuse for their sin. — 23. Whoever says to me Whoever hates him, hates my father too. — 24. If I don't the works done among them that no one else had done, so
If they had no sin: but now they have seen it, and yet they hate me and my father. — 25. But it had to be the word that is written in their law will be fulfilled:
"They hate me for no reason."

And aa O. Chapter XVI, 1-4: "1. This I have to you

They talked to you so you wouldn't get upset. — 2. They will tell you from to push the synagogues: yes, the hour is coming when everyone who
If you kill yourself, you will believe you are doing a service to God. — 3. And

They will do this to you because they have neither the Father nor me know. — 4. But I told you this so that if The hour will come when you remember that I told you

I said." —

The first Jewish ritual after the death of Jesus
The Christian who fell victim to murder is the holy archmartyr Stephen. The Acts of the Apostles (VI, 8–15 and VII, 31–59) reports this event with the words: “VI, 8. Stephen
But full of grace and power, he performed wonders and great signs.
among the people. — 9. Against this, some of the Synagogue, which is called the synagogue of the Libertines, the Cyrenians, the Alexandrians and those from Cilicia and Asia, and argued with Stephen. — 10. But they could hear wisdom and the Spirit,
He who was speaking should not be resisted. — II. Then they appointed men to which they should say they had uttered blasphemous words against Moses and heard speaking against God. — 12. These now incited the
The people arose, and the elders and scribes: and they ran
They gathered him together, dragged him away, and brought him before the high council.
13. And they set up false witnesses who said: This Man does not cease to violate the holy place and the law
To speak blasphemous words: — 14. for we heard him say:
Jesus of Nazareth will destroy this place, and the statutes change which Moses handed down to us. — 15. And all who Those sitting in the high council fixed their gaze on him, and looked
His face was like the face of an angel.” —

And aa O. Chapter VII, 1: But the high priest said:
Is that so? — 2. But he (Stephen) said: N
"51. You stiff-necked and uncircumcised ones, by heart and ears!"
You always resist the Holy Spirit, just as your fathers did.
You too! — 52. Which of the prophets did your fathers not know?
persecuted? They killed those who had previously proclaimed of the arrival of the righteous one, whose betrayer and murderer their now you have become. — 53. You who have learned the law through the service-
You received the angels' power, but did not observe it. —
54. But when they heard this, they were incensed in their hearts, and gnashed their teeth at him. — 55. But he was full of the Holy Spirit, looked up to heaven, and saw the glorious-
The Lord God and Jesus stand at the right hand of God, and said:
Look, I see heaven opened and the Son of Man!
stand at the right hand of God. — 56. But they cried out with a loud Voice, they covered their ears, and rushed at him unanimously.

22 By, Je

57. They threw him out of the city, stoned him, and
The witnesses laid their garments at the feet of a young man.
†, whose name was Saul. — 58. And they stoned Stephen, who prayed and said: Lord Jesus, receive my spirit. —
59. And lying on his knees, he screamed in a loud voice, and said: Lord, do not hold this against their sin! and when he Having said this, he fell asleep in the Lord.”

The fact that we in the death of Saint Stephen
A Jewish ban - victims before us are not subject to any...
Doubts. Stephen had chosen a follower of the [unclear] by the Jews excommunicated the Nazarene, and was thus excommunicated.
He had become derogatory towards the Mosaic rite. He had also, after the
The synagogue considers itself guilty of blasphemy.
made, and in contrast, every pious Jew had not not only the right, but even the duty to call him "Cherem" to dedicate him to the "Yahweh" and to kill. The motives that led the Jews to do this Those who instigated the bloody deed against Stephen were therefore not purely human-literary, but religious, and the act accordingly not common.
Murder, but a murder motivated by religious reasons, a Ritual murder.

Another victim of Jewish hatred of Christians was the
The Apostle James the Elder, about whose martyrdom the apostles-history (XII, 1-3) tells us: “1. At the same time, however (when Paul and Barnabas of Antioch brought alms for the (Brothers returned) King Herod (Agrippa) laid hand to torment some of the church. — 2. He sent James, to kill John's brother with the sword. — 3. And Seeing that it pleased the Jews, he went on to also proselytize Peter.
to seize.” —

The Apostle Paul also repeatedly considered offering a sacrifice to the
to become a ritual murder. This is reported in Acts 14.
16: “I. Now it happened at Iconium that they (Paul and Barnabas) together they went into the Jewish synagogue and talked, so that a great number of Jews and Gentiles came to believe. — 2. But the Jews, who were unbelievers, provoked and brought the minds of the heathens against the brothers. — 3. But ver- They stayed there for a considerable time and acted confidently in Lord, who bore witness to the word of his grace by Signs and wonders were performed through her hands —

8

4. But then a division arose among the people of the city: Some sided with the Jews, while others opposed them. to the apostles. — 5. But when the Gentiles and Jews divided themselves raised up to mistreat and stone them, — 6. They became aware of it and fled to the cities of Lycaonia, Lystra and Derbe and the whole surrounding area, and They proclaimed the gospel there.”

And when Paul later returned to Jerusalem, they read we (Acts 21:30-34): “30. Then the whole The city was in motion, and a confluence of The people: they seized Paul and dragged him out of the Temple, and immediately the doors were closed. — 31. Then They wanted to kill him, so the commander of the troop was told (of the Roman garrison of the castle. DV) displayed, as quite Jerusalem was in motion. — 32. He immediately took soldiers and captains to him, and hastened down to them. Since they When they saw the colonel and the soldiers, they stopped trying to reach Paul. beat. — 33. But the colonel stepped forward, seized him, and ordered him to be bound with two chains, and asked who he was. would have been, and what he would have done? — 34. Then one of the people cried out This one, that one. Because of the noise. Since he could find out nothing certain, he had him brought to the castle.”

And aa O. XIII, 11— 25: “11. On the following night Then the Lord stood beside him and said: Be of good cheer! For As you were begotten of me in Jerusalem, so you must also be begotten in Rome witnesses. — 12. But when it became day, some banded together The Jews gathered together, conspiring under curses, and declared that they would neither eat nor drink until they met Paul. would have killed them. — 13. But there were more than forty. Men who had made this conspiracy. — 14. These

They went to the high priests and elders and said: We
We conspired under curses, it cost nothing to want to, until we have killed Paul. — 15. So let now inform the Supreme Council, together with the High Council, that he would present him to you, as if you wanted to know more details about him in
They bring experience, but we are ready before he arrives.

to kill him. — 16. But when Paul's nephew came from Hearing of the persecutions, he went to the castle, arrived, and-announced it to Paul. — 17. Then Paul called one of the chief ministers.

He gathered the people to him and said: Take this young man to the commander, 6*

for he had something to tell him. — 18. He took him now with him, led him to the colonel, and said: The
The prisoner Paul asked me to bring this young man to you.

to lead, since he has something to say to you. — 19. Then he took him
The colonel, who was by his side, went aside with him and asked him: What is it that you have to report to me? — 20. But he said: The Jews have agreed to ask you to tomorrow you will bring Paul before the Sanhedrin, as if they wanted interrogate him more closely: — 21. But don't trust them, because more than forty men are expelling him

to them, who conspired together under curses
have neither food nor drink until they have recovered it.
They have murdered: And they are already ready, and await yours Promise. — 22. Then the colonel dismissed the young man and commanded to tell him, and not to tell anyone that he had reported him.
23. And he called two captains and said: Hold two hundred Soldiers ready to march to Caesarea, including seventy horsemen.
and two hundred lancers at the third hour of the night. —
24. Also have pack animals ready, so that Paul can be led on them.
set him down, and bring him, well guarded, to the governor Felix. —
25. (For he feared the Jews would kill him by force) take away and kill, but he himself wants to afterwards the to endure slander, as if he had accepted money

want)." -

While the Jews, just as they rejected Jesus, also After rejecting his gospel, Christianity found a new home among the pagans.
peoples increasingly enthusiastic applause, and while the church of The Old Testament fell into increasing disrepair, and with its demise of the Jewish state and the destruction of the Temple
Even when public sacrifices in Jerusalem ceased, the Christianity, the Church of the New Covenant, increasingly attracts one-influence and prestige. Instead of this, however, benefiting the Jews—thinking and would have led to the conviction that the of Jesus, rejected by them, truly the He promised by God-
The fact that it was a solution only seems to have made them even more bitter.
and in ever more irreconcilable contrast to the Christian to have practiced religion. And so we see how in Over time, Jewish ritual murders reached their peak.
turn more sharply against the crucified Nazarene, and how they already in the year 419 AD, a Christian boy

They are killed painfully on the cross, while they otherwise celebrate the "cherem" without...

so often added such items. Socrates Scholasticus reports in his Historia ecclesiastica (Henricus Valesius, Amsterdam 1695, lib. VII, cap. XVI) this incident to us with the following words: „Ev 'lvusorap, oöürTw zalovusvw TON@, ö xEltaí nerakd A os % 'Ayuoyias ts Ev Zvoig, lovdaioi ovvndws Eavrois zalyyia Enerelovv^o vv , vv noAla &v tod nalleim Akoya nowövres, Üno uedns E£aodevres, xgioudvovs TE al adrov Tov AÄpgioröv Ev ro nraiylvlois Öikavgov' yelövres re TV oravpöv, x ro EnnAníndras Eni
TO Eoravowusrp, l Towdröv ru Enevönoav. Hatòiov yoiaravov o-Jaßdusvoi, ora noooönoariss, Anerp&uaoav. Kai noürov around xaraysiAövres nal yAevdalovres ö lere ouvv. Mer od tod N al Wr posviv Exorävres, xd naudiov Hrioavro, Gore x Aveleiv. Ert ro yalerin i ovuninyas uerakd adrov re xal yoigravv Eyivero. lywoiuov
o rodtro Tolis xgarodci xaraordav, Eneordin roi xara nv Enapyiav äoyovomw, Avalnijoai robe aitiouv xal uuwonoaodai. Kai oürws oi Erei lovò alot öl Ebdooar, oy nalbovres Exaxodeynoav.” — D.i.:
"To Inmestar, a place that bears this name, and between
The Jews celebrated their feast day in Chalcis and Antioch in Syria.
According to custom (ovvidos), a (certain) festival of joy (probably Purim-fixed. DV), and by doing many things for their amusement, What defies description, they mocked in their Festival, intoxicated by wine, the Christians and Christ themselves. By now ridiculing the cross and those made those who placed their hope in the crucified one,

They also committed the following shameful act. They bound a Christian boy whom she had taken into custody and crucified,
They hung him from it and first mocked him.
and their mischief with him. After this one time
They had done it for a long time, and had become senseless in their fury, they abused
They killed the boy. This caused a huge riot.
between them and the Christians. The matter was brought before the Emperors (Honorius and Theodosius the Younger) brought, and
The governors of the province were tasked with organizing the schools.
to take up the offenses and bring them to justice. On this
The Jews there received their punishment for what they had done.
had done bad things at their festival.”

These incidents also show us how little
It is precisely the Jews who, in ritual murders, deal with the state authorities.
sit and take. When Jesus was taken to the Roman governor

— 86 —

When Pontius Pilate handed him over to be crucified, the Jews declared:
“It is not lawful for us to kill anyone (John 18:31).”
They thought they were certain that they had found a [something] in Pilate.
found a compliant tool. But where they have such a tool.
Since they cannot dispose of their authority in their official capacity, they carry out their Ritual murders committed on their own initiative, without regard for the laws of the state, to take care of them in the place where they live. Pleasant for us.
Apparently, something like that cannot be Christian.

Concluding remarks.

The result of my human sacrifices among the ancients
Regarding research concerning Hebrews, I would like to discuss the following:
Form sentences:

I. The names Moloch, Baal, Johveh and Jupiter be-do not depict several different divine beings,
but they are just different names and of the same true and highest God, who is with the lostwas worshipped by different peoples under different names.

II. The various forms under which

The way God presented himself to the fathers was related to the ultimate purpose for which God revealed himself to them.

III. The bloody sacrifices of ancient times, especially the sacrifice the male firstborn, were ordained by God as Models of Jesus' sacrificial death, in which the true and God, the highest, his own, only begotten Son for the salvation of the has sacrificed the entire world.

IV. The bloodless sacrifices of the Old Covenant, in particular
The sacrifice of Melchizedek were models for the New Testament.
mental, bloodless sacrifice that the Catholic Church made in the celebrates Holy Mass.

V. Jephthe had vowed to God at the "Cherem", not an animal sacrifice, but a human sacrifice in the sense that he who wanted to slaughter the Lord if he returned victorious.

VI. The Slaughter of Agag by Samuel and those of the four hundred and fifty priests of Baal by Elijah Human sacrifices offered to the Lord.

VII. The story of Antiochus in the temple at The captured Greeks found in Jerusalem may now be on Whether it is based on truth or was invented by Apion is a proof

88 for the fact that the Jews were already in that time under the reputation of cannibals a-have confessed to Islam.

VIII. The death of Jesus on the cross does not constitute a common Murder, another political murder, another judicial murder, son-a Jewish human sacrifice, or rather a This constitutes ritual murder. The Jews handed Jesus over to be killed.
not out of common hatred, nor for political reasons,
but for religious reasons, and Pilate pronounced the death sentence and had Jesus crucified, not because of any error of law on his part

Fire~~ß~~ and Moloch service
the ancient Hebrews

as paternal, legal, orthodox cult

the nation

historically and critically proven through

G. Fr. Daumer.

.

Braunschweig,
Printed and published by Fr. Otto.
1842.

Preface.

—oä ũZ— —éũ —

The main content of this book is based on the Title: Announced Treatise on Fire~~ß~~ and Moloch service of the ancient Hebrews, in which this cult,
the conventional view of his strange, toad~~ß~~
contrary to nature, as ancient, genuine, orthodox Jehovahism of Israel partly in and of itself, partly in Relationship to two others who are fighting with him~~ß~~
the cults are considered; namely, to a

in an extremely opposite way, originally ours
mitischen, the ancient Hebrew donkey and water service, then to one, that ancient Molochism of the nation
indeed, having a basis and starting point,
but mitigating, transforming, even with modified elements of the donkey and water service mixing, founded by prophets, priests and kings
Reformation-era Jehovahism of the post-Solomonian period.
The discussion of some within the scope of this investigation
The proper use of special objects seemed most appropriate.
isolated instances and referred to an appendix on language to be brought. These are the essays about the so the aforementioned Ark of the Covenant as a Molochic sanctuary, about the Trojan War, as a battle of Hellenic horses

IV

1

and water religion against Semitic fire and Moloch
service, and about ancestry and immigration
the Egyptians and Semites from America, from where,
In my opinion, even that Semitic Moloch must have come into our hemisphere. I ask hereby to distinguish what has been irrefutably proven historical truth demands its unconditional recognition, and what, even if through connection and ge Important individual reasons were supported, but only as a whole.
The elevated view emerges with a high probability and to be examined by researchers and experts recommends. Should my presentation, also regarding the latter...
Part of the sentences I have put forward concerns, here and since the tone of decisiveness and certainty
If they have taken it, let this be seen as something merely formal.
considered and benefiting from the resulting more lively presentation be held. I believe the fully proven original identity of ancient Hebrew Jehovahism
and Molochism and the great role it plays,
In the Hebrew Jehovah's Witness service, human sacrifices were reenacted, so that the Jews' pretense that the old order still stands, recently through the infamous incidents in Damascus rekindled belief in the continuation of Jewish people sacrificial practices in irreconcilable contradiction with their Old Testament folk and religious history, in the future

to return to a ridiculously obvious untruth
To know is. This proof is the most important thing first.
and most consequential, which this writing contains, and would
into the sinking of others' own claims not be swept up in it at all. From the specified

V

I am concerned about Israel's relationship with America and Australia.
I am indeed vividly convinced and already believe the matter here, with only fragmentary communication at first, not to have laid contemptible foundations; however, in order to to avoid overwhelming the reader with too much at once, I I the initially opposing treatises on Moloch service and Ark of the Covenant are therefore completely separate from that solved when I was here, where it serves to explain my
The object seemed useful and necessary, only the pre-existing one found striking and instructive analogies between Semitic, American, and Australian things were there, without illuminating the nature of it, at least.
to explain the context of international history, so that, even if it is to be determined in another way
It should be that the facts taught have their full impact.
maintain interest and weight. However, in order to also in this to present my view on the relationship and also to those to suffice, which for such far-reaching Investigations have meaning and inclination, was Finally, an essay was added which discussed the well-known,
In many cases, as by Gilb, Genebrand, Malvenda, Garcia,
Thomas Thorowgood, Adair, Colton, Rabbi Menase
Ben Israel and Noah, expressed opinion of the Ab Tribe of American peoples of Israel around returns and establishes the view that Egypt, in which once Israel was accustomed to and from which it the un understandable multi-year journey to Palestine undertaken,
It was not an African country, but an American one.

In the present text, one will certainly only historical information, investigations and evidence

Guided tours can be found by not focusing solely on history.
actual facts regarding criticism and polemics intentionally kept far away; therefore of an age that has Considered as an educated person, it is to be expected that it
The book contains no other weapons than the honorable ones.
natural and proper of the spirit, of science
and oppose scholarship.

Contents.

The fire and Moloch service of the ancient Hebrews as ur-

III.

paternal, legal, orthodox cult of the nation

Apollo, Paris, and the Trojan War
Egypt in America. Fragment of a general
Study of Old Testament People and the history of peoples in relation to Australia
. ¼Qm—ꝛq—qA—ꝛ—³BYA⁸A

Page

1 — 197
201 — 211
212 — 224
225 — 320

How old is the Moloch service in Israel? The traditional one
According to opinion and information, he does not go beyond Solomon.
Niche eras back. "Solomon had, from the wives of the Harems tempts the cult of Molech to also be in Judea founded, and the Jews seem — although the Mosaic law imposed the death penalty on it — from then on continuously. In the valley of Hinnom, this terrible divine service was worshipped.

to have until Josiah destroyed the places holy to Molech 1). «

1) Winers biblisches Realwörterbuch, Leipzig 1838, Vol. 2, pp. 118f. Compare 1 Kings 11:5 and 7. 1 Kings 11:33. Of the kings of Ahaz and Manasseh is explicitly reported to have sacrificed their sons. 2 con. 16, 3. c. 21, 6. 2 Chron. 28, 3. c. 33.6: "Ahas burned incense in the valley of the sons of Hinnom and burned his sons in the fire" u. s. w. Also that immediately again Josiah's son and successor Joah^s has "was evil in Jehovah's eyes, quite like his father done." 2 Con. 23:32; of Jehoiakim, Jo^s, the successors of Jehoahaz. The same thing is said to Jachin and Zedekiah, the last kings of Judah. and Ezekiel, prophesying in exile, speaks: "On the way of your - You defile yourselves with your fathers and fornicate after their abominations, and in^s to whom you bring your gifts by walking your children through the. By sacrificing to fire, you defile yourselves through all your idols until on this day." Ezek. 20:30-31. Cf. Pseudojes. 57:5 and 9. Bohlen, Genesis Introduction, p. CX, and Michaelis Mosaic Law, Biehl 1777, V. S. 247, p. 86 ff., where it says: "Against no other Moses' laws are stricter against this type of idolatry than against these (the Canaanite human sacrifice) — and yet she is among the Sfraelites remained so until very late times, so that even the last writers, which survived the state and was at the beginning of the Babylonian misery— Jeremiah and Ezekiel wrote about it, mentioning it, but they did not as an outdated one, but rather one that was still quite recent or even up to their own "Describe the usual horrors of the time." The punishment, Michaelis believes, would have been

Daumer, Feuer^s and Moloch service. N

2

The wise King Solomon, the Jehovah's Witness son of the Jehovah's devout David, one of the eighth, pure, all Foreign nationalities that are so strictly discriminated against and condemned^s religion of the Hebrews, an educated and cultured man who

according to the biblical accounts, so excellent, again¹
 Holter revelations of the true God and such intimate entrustment
 I had the pleasure of enjoying intimacy with him, to whom this God, as One reads, given such a wise and insightful heart, that There was no equal of him before him, nor will there be one after him.
 waiting stood, whose face all lands sought, for which he
 to hear wisdom given to his heart by his God, and which he, moreover, so emphatically and threateningly presented (Warned against all idolatry!) — such a man will not be dissuaded by fanatical, child-murdering² enticing funny harem women, the to introduce the most hideous of all idol cults into his kingdom! And this so outrageous to human feeling strange horrors take root so deeply in the spot
 through the previous efforts of Samuel and David and Solomon's cleansed of all idolatry, to purify Israel, accustomed to Jehovah's Witness, may appear to him perhaps with to a people who had once gone mad, immediately so charming, glorious and indispensable, that he, despite zealous opposition to it Prophets, priests, and kings, and despite a deportation against him³ scared and threatening with death penalty, local, old Legislation until the fall of the Kingdom of Judah and the—Furthermore, into exile, ineradicably prevalent.

went 2).

should be even sharper, in order to express the untamed, seductive charm steam, which it had for Israel, the Canaanites in burning the to imitate their own children.

1) 1 Kon. 3, 5 ff. c. 9, 2 ff. c. 10, 23 f. 2 Chron. ER c. 7.
 12 ff.

2) Cf. Gramberg, critical history of the religious ideas of the ancient world Testaments, Berlin 1829, Part 1, pp. 502 f.: “The allegedly by Je⁴ hova, the admonition given to Solomon after the construction of the Temple⁵

A truly most wonderful and astonishing
A phenomenon, entirely without a sufficient reason for its origin and Developmental process that one can make any claim to conceivability and must relinquish comprehension in order to find peace.
can. However, there are a number of other biblical sources.
direct, representations, traces and connections that. with that statement and the historical view based on it in decisive contradictions exist and lead to the establishment of the
the following proposition, which is to be proven in this document:
tigen:

The Moloch- and child sacrifice service of the al—
The Hebrews were by no means something foreign, Aus—rural, historically prohibited by law and What was excreted in Israel was not apostasy from the patriarchal, traditional, from Moses firirten, legal Jehovah— Cultus; he was from An—beginning sacred and national, the cult of a Abraham, Moses, Samuel, and David, who came from—distinguished personalities of ancient Hebrew Folk and religious history was essential nung, he and his people should beware of any other gods, except to worship Jehovah, so that they would not be taken into exile and the temple who wishes to be destroyed, is certainly supported by the pious Solomon.

not followed. For according to the testimony of that same writer, Sa—Lomo as the true instigator of idolatry among the Israelites to see that Samuel and David were kept in check and almost entirely had destroyed them. Solomon lets himself be seduced by his wives, with to all their gods, to sacrifice to the neighboring peoples, and to the same in and to build sanctuaries near Jerusalem, and under Rehoboam it was after 1 Kings 14:22-23: already all of Judah devoted to and worshipped idolatry the gods on all the high hills and under all the green trees"
etc. "Had Solomon," chases Vatke, religion of the ancient Testamen—tes, Berl. 1835, 1. Thi. p. 309, "a so purified and inwardly possessed a fully developed understanding of the truth, as legend tells him—lays, especially in the prayer at the dedication of the temple, so it would be
It would have been utterly impossible for him to later dedicate himself to idolatry.
sunken" etc.

4

and without any difference or contrast between one and the same with that old, eighth, native Jehovah=Cultus selbst)).

To establish the truth of this statement, let us assume first the old, fundamental one, changed by later culture and Humanitarian elements still unmitigated, unadulterated ideas= The life of Jehovah, the national god of Israel, brought to light. Here we will most likely discuss the following highly peculiar, 'A substantial and richly interrelated presentation of the story' to base on nesis.

"And just as the sun was about to set, a tide fell."
After sleep, Abraham and behold, a terror, a "Great darkness fell upon him." — "Now that the sun
'Completely submerged, there was darkness, and Look, there was a smoking oven and a fire—torch, which passed between the pieces of meat (the one that Jehovah slaughtered sacrificial animals). On that day he made Jehovah made a covenant with Abraham, etc. 2).

What is the old, patriarchal God presenting himself as here?
to recognize the Hebrews? As a god of darkness and of the night's horror, of terror and of the Fire, the consuming, annihilating element—
tes, — all alone as such he makes himself his servant

1) Already in a publication I issued in 1835
The saying states: "The Jehovah of the Hebrews was originally not Other than the Phoenician and Canaanite Kronos, Moloch and Baal, in the biblical accounts only in a mitigated form and in Transitions to a new period understood; the most horrible children= Sacrifice was practiced among the Hebrews even into exile, and these were not a fall from the old national to the foreign and not an innovation, but on the contrary, a continuation of the old nationalism, a lingering on the same, in contrast to reformed Jehovah's Witness, which also the Hebrew legends in the biblical accounts in his
"It illuminated and made the new appear as something ancient."

2) Genesis 15:12 ff.

,

5

and Prophet Iba, since he made that solemn covenant with closes to him. ze

As a god of darkness and night,
horror firstly, which is in hostile contrast to suns,
Light and days stand. Thus he who wrestles with Jacob shuns
God sees the day and seeks as a night spirit even before dawning
To escape Morgenroth: "Then he said: Release me, for the dawn breaks « 1) — not otherwise than nn in Goethe's Faust urges departure:

"My horses are shivering;

"The morning dawns" —
and in Indian mythology the malevolent Rakshasas or Rakshas, the enemies of the gods, are terrible before daybreak:

"Before the east changes color and before dawn breaks,

Then at the terrible hour, mighty they are, the Rakshas" 2).
Diodorus speaks of Ethiopians who watched the rising sun revile 3) and Jehovah's Most Holy Place is the region of the Facing the rising sun, turned west, how then also elsewhere in biblical depictions, this God is portrayed as a in Darkness and clouds appear shrouded, and as a god
of the darkness and gloom of Solomon at inauguration of the temple is referred to as: "And Moses approached the Darkness, in which God was«) — »He descended, Dun-Kel under his feet — he made darkness all around him here, to the tent water collection, dense cloud «5) — »Je-Hova has decided to live in darkness « 6) — so that Jehovah, the God of Israel, with Kronos=Saturn of the Greek= Chinese and Semitic antiquity, which the Arabs in a depicted in a black image and in which he, like the Hebrews

* Jehovah, own and holy days, Saturday,

Genesis 32:27

2) Hidimb. 4, 46. Bohlen, das alte Indien J, 225, cf. 263.

3) Diodorus 3, 9. 4) Exodus. 20, 21, cf. c. 19, 16 and Deuteronomy. 4, 11.

5) 2 Sat. 22, 10. 12. Psalm 18, 10. 12.

6) 1 Kon. 8:12. 2 Chronicles 6:1.

6

in a black temple and dressed in black robes revered), with the Chamos, Kemofch of the Moabites and Amorites, who according to a Jewish tradition are depicted under the image was worshipped as a black star and associated with Tartary the Avvæer, whose name means deep darkness or hero of the Darkness means 2), in apparent kinship occurs. In the unanalogies with Semitic things for example In America, the worship of the evil spirit Maſ has taken root.
boya, as a spirit of night and darkness, a Beſ
Wirkers of thunder, storm and lunar eclipse and Urheſ
The worst of all evils has been found, and it is of the kind in which among the old inhabitants of the Caribbean islands of this Maſ boya beſchwören ward, the following description is available.
A hut was prepared, and the sacrificial tables were filled with offerings.
and gathered when it was completely night-worn
the. After turning off all the light in the hut and around them, the conjurer went into the
He entered the darkened hut and summoned the evil spirit that appeared with a terrible noise and asked the questions of the envoys rers answered 3). This is how the Piaches or Wizards begin.
in Dutch Guiana, their prayer to Vowahu and their Two-way conversation with him towards evening and end it around ier * At 3 of the windows of many

>

1) Winer, biblical 23 II, 455. Gefenius, Commentary on

Isaiah, Part 2, p. 344. Görres, Myth History, Vol. 1, pp. 290 f.
 Jehovah explicitly declares the Sabbath or Saturn day to be for Jeremiah.
 feinen, Exodus 31:45: "The seventh day is a day of rest, to which the Jew is enjoined."
 ho va heilig," cf. Bohlen, Genesis is, p. 231 and Vatke, Religion of the Old Testament, Berlin 1835, Part 1, p. 10, 199.

2) Winer loc. II. P. 703. —

3) Baumgarten, general history of Volker and changes of Amerika, Halle 1753, 2nd Th. pp. 567, 846, 849. f. Majer's mythologi fches Lexikon, Weimar 1803, 1st vol. p. 345 f. * histoire na- tuelle et morale des Antilles, I. II. ch. 24.

4) Orbigny's Picturesque Journey in America, trans. by Diegmann, Leipzig, 1839, p. 26.

7

Thousands of night birds inhabited the rock caves of Guacharo neh= men, according to Humboldt, the Indian sorcerers and poisoners, the Piaches and Imorons, their nightly juggling acts
 before, to be the chief of the evil spirits Jvorokiamo= swear 1). To swear to a god of death and the underworld
 The opponents of the prophet Isaiah portray him as the one who on whom they place their trust: "We have a A pact made with death and with the un= terwelt made a treaty; the flooding gei—
 "She, if she drives there, will not meet us;" whereupon
 The prophet replies: "Your covenant with the [unclear] will be void."
 Death and your contract with the underworld does not exist; the Flooding hostage, when it goes forth, it will bring you trampled 2). And Pseudo-Jesaias accuses the fine people:
 "You go to the king (Molech, Moloch) with oil and
 You take much of your ointment (to anoint Moloch, see below),
 You send your messengers far and wide, deep into the Un= terwelt« 3) — where Moloch service and traffic with the under-
 It appears to be connected to the world. Silius Italicus leads among the Carthaginian gods, Erebus, whose altar in the Temple—pel, who is said to have confessed to Dido), and Philostratus says from the Gaditans, that they sang to death. 5) With that Tartak together as an idol of the Avvæer becomes Nibchas named and this is in the Sabian religious writings of the Lord of Darkness, whose throne reaches to the upper world, but whose foot rested on the outermost parts of the abyss resting). The god of death and the underworld as »Köø»

1) A. v. Humboldt, Journey in the Equinoctial Regions of the New Continents, Vol. 2, p. 113. Compare the charge of overnight stays in Caves as an idolatry, Isaiah 65:4.

2). Yes. 28, 15 and 18. 3) Jef. 57, 9.

4) Sil. Italian l.v, 92; ordine centum stant arae coelique deis Ereboque potenti.

5) Vita Apollo. IV c. 4: 709 G ατππτνοσε novor WrFOWNOV uave--". 6) 2 Kings 17, 31. Winer op. cit., II. P. 178. Gramberg aa OIS 517.

8

“The terror” confronts us in the Book of Job 1) —
Likewise, Jehovah himself was portrayed as a terrible being, as a god of terror, more on that below.
This evil one dwelling in night, darkness, and abyss
The ancient Hebrew had named Daemon his god and Lord, to his Melech, Molech, Moloch or King chooses, and that was the original, eighth Jehovah and National god of Israel. The truest, most central seat of this Dæmons is depth and subterranean night, but that denies
The principle of nende is also described as a ubiquitous principle, present in all Effectively conceived of things and worlds; it rises from its deep up, to become the Lord and King of the earth and to make their genders, yes, there is no shortage of heaven, where it is among the stars of the weekdays the enemy
furthest and most opposite to the sun, the Sab bath=Star Saturn, seizes possession, and from it fine also sends harmful effects from the height 2), so that it appears as the ruler of a triple region, as in

1) Job 18:14.

2) Cf. Taeit. histor. V. 4. On Saturn as malevolent Constellation, cf. Bohlen, India II, p. 248 and Gesenius, Commentary See Isaiah II, p. 343. The planets of the weekdays appear at arranged for the Indians in our way:

Surgas Day, or Sun Day,
— — Chandras — of the moon,
— — Mangalass — of Mars,
— — Buddhas — of Mercury,
— — Vrihaspatis — of Jupiter,
— — Sukras — of Venus,
— — Sanis — of Saturn,

and Sanistag, Sanstag has become our Saturday;
Cf. Kanne, System of Indian Myth, p. 334. Venus and Mercury Find lucky stars, Saturn is ominous, therefore the raven is his companion. consecrated, which everywhere is seen as a sign of misfortune, of separation, appears during the rainy season. In Western classical literature, Saturn is called Saturn. stella nocens, sidus triste, sidus grave in omne caput, Prop. 4, 1, 84. Juven, 6, 569. Lucan. 1, 650: Summo si frigida coelo stella nocens the form of that terrible Sivas of the Indians, whose three Eyes and trident upon this three worlds, upon the underworld, earth and aiming for heaven), or in the Greek Hecate, who not only the terrible, subterranean ruler and night^s not only a lyrical, ghostly sorceress, but also earth, sea and heaven ruled and as three-bodied or three-headed — ED, TEImpOCWwmoG, 1p, TE1000%EDeAog, Ariformis, triceps, trigemina — described and referred to. The The body of that Geryon on Erytheia, whom Heracles killed, consisted of three male bodies located in the area of the building—ches had grown together, but from there separated again—ten, therefore he the three-formed one, tricorpor, triformis, tergeminus, reownarog Boryp Eg eu, the three-bodied shepherd Ery^s theia's means; fine herds were guarded by a two-headed dog.

9

Orthros, or Cerberus, the three-headed hound of hell; he is indeed nothing other than that three-formed and three-powerful

Death god of antiquity. Also the one defeated by Bellerophon.

The fire-breathing Chimaera is said to be a three-faced monster, three-corporeal and three-headed, $\Upsilon \pi \nu \nu$ gewesen fein, and the head of Cacus, defeated by Heracles, is given three heads and three fire-breathing mouths. They were, like un-nigros Saturni accenderet ignes. It is something that inhibits procreation, un-Fertile star: Sterilitatem liberorum tam Saturno, quam

Lunae tribuunt, hanc enim sicut Saturnum orbandi potestatem habere.
Servius ad Aen, 3, 141. The ancient Arabs called him "the great Misfortune." Ephraim the Syrian, Vol. II, p. 458 B, mocks the Star worshippers of his time in this way: "From another star
They say that he is a murderer; this (the Chaldean) knows Sons to be teachers, that he should draw the sword without distinction, he
But he himself is like Kewan, the fine child-eating man." This Kewan, Hebrew Kijjun, di Saturn, were worshipped by the Hebrews according to Amos.
who spent forty years in the desert, which we will come back to below.
will be. Cf. Muentzer, Religion of the Babylonians, Copenhagen 1827.
P. 15, Movers, the Phœnicians, 1st Th. P. 289 ff. Gœres, Mythenges schichte, Vol. 1, p. 289.
1) Bohlen, The Old India, IS 207.

10

ten closer will be shown, nothing other than feminine Fire and Moloch idols, against which Hellenic humanity and humanity fought. Even among the ancient Hebrews.
There is no shortage of traces of such a triad. In three men(a figure appears to Abraham, God!) and already at
In another place I discussed how the three men and brothers who accompany Abraham into war and for their share of the spoils of war (the war sacrifices) (prisoners) he envies, actually nothing other than the threesimple deity of the patriarch had been 2).

Jehovah appears in that as a god of terror.
 Faces of Abraham. As such, as a terrible one,
 He becomes a terrifying and horrible being through the throughout the entire Old Testament, which is full of Be-Writings and descriptions of his harsh, uncanny, threatening, shattering, destructive violence and sin-Nesart is. Upon his appearance on Sinai, the
 The people were warned not to approach Jehovah and be destroyed:
 (will be shattered 2), David is afraid to put the Ark of the Covenant in
 to bring his city, the menacing, shattering
 Because of the fear of the God whose presence is with her is connected, and who intends no crime whatsoever
 Usa is killed on the spot simply because he considers this holy thing-(thum touched, to protect it from the fall), yes, the one that Bethsemites, who rejoice to see the coming ark...
 hen, at the sight of the same with a murderous plague punishment that kills over fifty thousand people. 5) And so Is this God also called the Terrible One, Fear—bare, Terrible “wi, n), the terrible, “terrible specter”, yes, the horror, well

1) Genesis 18:1ff.

2) S. Athenäum, Octob. 1839, p. 16 and below in Appendix III.

3) 2 Moses. 18, 21 - 25. 42 Sat. 6, 6-10.

5) 1 Sat. 6, 13 f. 19 ff. 6) Pf. 89, 8. 7) Deut. 28, 58.

11 selbst 1). Thus, that terrible Sivas of the In- will also be Dier, the god of fire and destruction, Rudras and Ugras, the Terrible, as he is called, and the ancient Mexicans-

 They called their patron and war god Huitzilopochtli or Mexitli not only Tetzauteotl, the terrible god,
 but also Tetzahuitl, the terror itself 2).

As destroyers, annihilators, like the Indian Sivas,
 The Old Testament God also appears in several of his...

Names; so he is called Shaddai, the destroyer, of , perish, and Jehovah, Jehovah, where in comparison with dn, howa, hawwa, ruin, destruction, the same
The meaning is obvious. In Iroquois, ne jawoheje means, death, jawoheje, to die 3), and Jawahou, Jowahu,
is a name for the evil spirit, as already mentioned above.
among the Indians in Guiana. To the devil, whom they called Yes= wahi, wrote, according to Quandt, the Indians in Su= rinam all diseases and all evil encountered by them), and in the work of a Dutchman about Guiana one finds
The following note: "A certain council of our colony Ef:
fequebo, named Pypersberg, went up there in the year 1746= up at Masserouny and saw on the seventh day of his journey in a plain situated between high mountains, a very
A tall pyramid made of hewn stones, which, judging by appearances,
It was perfectly square and ended in a point.
was eager to get a closer look, but no=
One of his Indians wanted to go with him, by claiming=
They said it was a house of Jawahu, like the devil.

1) Pf. 76, 125 cf. Jes. 8, 12 f., where N and 70 are connected= as Pf. 89, 8 72 parallel to NY. 1 Mos. 31 42:
pns» img the terror, terror god Isaac's.

2) Clavigero, History of Mexico, Leipzig 1789, Vol. 1, p. 358.

3) Loskiel, Missionary History, Barby 1789, pp. 29 f.

4) Quandt, News of Suriname and its fine inhabitants, Gör-Litz 1807, p. 258. The good being is Kururuman, it is the creator.
the man; the woman's is Kulimina, that. p. 256.

12

name; which is why he, out of fear of being abandoned by them, the one who abandoned the investigation « 1). This was probably a ancient American, like the Sinai, unapproachable Jehovah=Hei= light had been, in that the name Jawahu meant nothing else,
as the Jehovah of the Bible spoken with Metathesis
It seems. Because even in a different and still unchanged way

This name appears in this form in America. From North America
C. Colton reports the following about the Kanish Indian tribes:

“While the fire blazes on the altar of burnt offering, dance”
They circled him singing and shouted in a loud voice
J=U=Je=Wah. Who doesn't immediately see in these tones
the holy name Jehovah? Also the Hebrew word Elo—
They use him for the great spirit, as well as in their sacred songs not rarely and just as clearly as In Christian choirs, the word: Hallelujah was heard.
will be « 2). After Latifau, Escarbot, Charlevoix, Adair and These Indians sing Hallelujah to Noah, they have a sacred, un-Revealable Ark (Ark of the Covenant), worship the Vo-He-Wah and let this name be sung in sacred dances and songs.
in separate ways with the addition of Meshiha and Shilu folgender measures to be heard: Vo-Mefchihah, He-Mefchi-hah, Wah-Meshihah or Shilu-Yo, Shilu-He,
9), which is related to the Schem hamphorafch of the

1) JJ Hartsink, Description of Guiana from the Peuünbisch von Fabri, Berl. 1784, 1st part, p. 265.

2) Basel Mission Magazine 1834, p. 561, according to Colton's "Maturity to the North American lakes and down to the Indians in the northwest-
"Lithuanian territories in 1830," London 1833.

3) Compare, Latisau; mœurs des sauvages Américains, Paris 1723, of which a translation in Baumgarten's general history of the country-
the and peoples of America, f. that. 1st part, p. 426 and 2nd part, p. 670, where the Indian prisoner: Tameja alleluya, tameja douvem Hau Hau
He He, with the musical notes. Furthermore Escarbot, histoire de la nouvelle France, I. 3, ch. 6. Charlevoix, histoire d'un voyage dans Y'AmeÉrique septentrionale, Paris 1744, T. 6. p. 72. J. Adair, history of the American Indians, London 1775, mm Noah, proof that the 13

Jews, as a tripled Jehovah= name, comparable is).
The word Meshihah reveals the Hebrew mw» maschiach, Fürst, König, and Shilu recalls the one in Jacob's blessing, the promised ruler of the peoples, whom the dark

The name Schilo refers to the 25th. The Pluto Ju vie of the Umbrians. was also called Akeruniamen, the destroyer), and These Umbrians had, in a striking way, fallen victim to a red Cow, like the Hebrews 2). The evil Typhon of the Egyptians Bulls and red-skinned people were sacrificed. and we will soon see again how this will play out. Egyptian God, the Hebrew Jehovah, is touched upon. Also mw, dem, der Schem, heißt dieser, fo dass § in einer Stelle The Pentateuch contains the following expressions: »that You fear the Shem, this great one, and fear— baren, den Jehovah, deine Gott" h), where the meaning: tung: Name given to the word, very dull and ge— appears forced and is a representative expression for Jehovah It is completely superfluous, since this name itself is not missing, son= which is added immediately. Compare rather the forms. dw, ud, deo, w, whose basic sound is dw and the again, referring to the meaning: devastation, ruiner, as to the original, lead, which with the meaning Name, Jehovah's name only confused and confused has been. One form was ww with the v paragoricum, like wu = v, in» = nn; fso in the name Samuel, bepnw, Shemuel, Shmuel, i.e. Shmu (Schem) is God, like Joel: Jo (Jehovah) is God. Now, the ancient Egyptian was called... tische Typhon Smy '), which is probably the same scam, American Indians, the descendants of the lost tribes of Israel are, Altona 1838.

- 1) Eisenmenger, discovered Judaism, IS 155.
- 2) Genesis 49:10. 3) Creuzer, Symbolism, 2nd ed. II, p. 964.
- 4). Ibid. and Numbers 19:2
- 5) Diodorus. I. 1. c. 88. Ba de Isid. et Osir. 31.
- 6) Deut. 28, 58. 7) Plutarch. de Isid. et Osir. c. 62.

14

so that Shem-Jehovah presents himself as the evil Typhon of Egypt= The animal was determined, and the Hebrews were its worshippers. Therefore, læ= A half-Hebrew, the son of an Egyptian, killed Shem, and is stoned for it; it was the evil Typhon to whom he (had cursed 1). Typhon was also called Seth), and there it is.

It is now most striking that the Hebrews distinguish themselves from a Shem. (Sem) and Sheth (Seth) derive that these names, from one of whom the name Semites was formed, the highest founded the peaks of their genealogical distinctiveness and Shem is also explicitly the father of all children. Ebers is called 3). How could there still be any doubt that the Hebrew from the oldest times a this evil spirit, This corrupting Typhon-Moloch-Saturn dedicated to God Was it bad?

According to the idea of such a terrible being, it, the same under the form of horrific, grim, tearing the animals, such as the crocodile, the hyacinth, the To worship the snake, the lion, the tiger and the bear, Ty Phon was worshipped as a crocodile, three Egyptian provinces, the nomos of Coptos, of Arsinoe and of Ombos were devoted to this cult, and we hear that Egyptian Mothers rejoiced when crocodiles ate their children. The people of Ombos dug small ponds for these animals and fed them. terte fie). The same cult is found on the East Indian islands. Instead. Many keep a crocodile in their houses, at times Family feasts are held for the crocodiles in rivers; one travels in boats with music out into the rivers, carrying food, Betel and other such things are carried along. Yes, they have here the sen symbols of the evil principle are fraternized in the following way.

1) Moq. 24, 10 fl “and the son of the Israelite blasphemed The woman was sham and cursed.”

2) Plutarch. de Isid. et Osir. c. 41, 49, 62.

3) 1 Moses. 10, 21. Compare Plutarch de Isid. et Osir. 31, where Typhon which produced Hierosolymus and Judas.

4) Prichard, Egyptian Mythology by Haymann, Benn 1837, & “p. 296f.

a crocodile is born at the same time as its twin brother, that he must worship. That is where the ancient American Depiction of a kneeling human figure in front of a crocodile¹ is related 1). Upon the accession of a prince, On those islands by the seashore, a virgin was tied up and exposed to the crocodile; this is considered a crime. meal with the sea creatures 2), where one thinks of the lake monstrously exposed virgins Hesione and Andromeda I think. Another form of the divinely worshipped monster. It is the hayfish. On the Sandwich island of Wahu, where in the Kotzebue found that the so-called pearl rivers Haye are, that one in a structure built on the shore, bordered with coral stones The pond held a large hay and sometimes grew adult fish. People, mostly children, were sacrificed 3), so that this Here, the animal completely plays the role of that child-eating creature in Egyptian mythology. The crocodile kept in the pond plays and both animal forms in the light of Phoenician and Hebrew Molochism he⁴ appear, whose god is the child-eating Kronos, see below. Furthermore, the snake is the symbol of negation. Power. Charlevoix tells of an Indian village in Paraguay, in the center of which stands a pyramid-like tower found the dwelling and temple of one of the inhabitants— monstrous creatures worshipped and fed with human flesh⁴ The snake was there. The Indians claimed that they this gruesome beast oracle bestows 2). From the Tachus in the province of Culiacan, 200 hours west of Mexico, will An old travelogue reports the following: “She he— They attract large snakes, for which they receive much veneration—

1) Braunschweig, on the ancient American monuments, Berlin 1840, pp. 104 ff. | |

2) Basel Mission Magazine, 6th year 1821, p. 13.

3) Otto von Kotzebue, Discovery Journey, Weimar 1821, Vol. 2, p. 33.

4) History of Paraguay, from the French of P. Fr. Xaver de Charlevoix, Nuremberg. 1768, 1st vol. p. 131 f.

gen «). The ancient Peruvians before the time of the Incas large snakes and also especially various four-footed, gruesome predators 2). According to the Karai, on the island of Dominique... ben, in a deep valley between high mountains an unbroken to stop a monstrous snake with a crown on its head, shining like a carbuncle, dazzling the eyes and from unbroken of estimated value 3). This corresponds to the North American Canadian myth of the so-called Valley of the Shining Alten. On the northern arm of the Cherokee River between A series of deep mountains stretches between two high and fearsome mountains. Thale hin, where it is supposed to be so hot and fine that nothing should exist here — ren vermöge, als certain euthanasian rattlesnakes, die who have lived here since the beginning of the world, the kings of the snakes — gen s²eien, and the shining old ones or the good old ones They were called kings — a euphemistic expression, because they are Very terrible beings. Instant death occurs as soon as One approaches their territory, and it is destructive to unleash their wrath. to excite — just as with Jehovah's appearance on the Sinai: "And surround the people all around and say: Guard to climb the mountain and touch its summit; for Whoever touches the mountain shall be killed « etc.).

1) America, by . translated by von Alvensleben, Mayben 1839, Vol. 2, p. 109.

2) Baumgarten, General History of the Countries and Peoples of America, Vol. 2, pp. 215 ff. Cf. pp. 274, 330 and 335. Tigers and Lions (Caguars, Jaguars, Pumas) were used to sacrifice human blood and Hearts venerated. On the worship of an upright bear's head in New France, see that page, p. 542.

3) Baumgarten op. cit. 2nd Th. p. 833.

4) 2 Moses. 19, 12 ff 21 — 24. Philipp Salvator Gilii, who is 18 Having spent years among the Indians on the Orinoco, reports [of] inaccessible, sacred places of the evil spirit. Mavari, specifically from one of them, not far from Encamarada. A disaster that claimed many lives. had a contagious disease, according to the Piakis or sorcerers, Mavari was sent only because that sanctuary had been accidentally violated.

The dazzling light that appears in the myth of Dominique the
 The crown, now bursting forth, emerges from the single eye, that the snake kings have right in the middle of their foreheads. Like an Egyptian Agathoda, in contrast to this terrorlichen serpent daemons, “the girl in green” appears, a small snake, which, more powerful than the others, stood before them able to protect and, as a purely benevolent genius, causes no harm adds 1). The Bosnians in Africa are a type of water-sacred serpents that exist in the springs of the land and of which they believe the spring will dry up as soon as an animal of the species living in it is killed 2), and The Swedish people attribute the power of the healing springs to a a white snake lying in the water, also speaks of a water nymph with the snake, as a benevolent Genius of the waters, which is very much like that American one “Girl in Green” reminds us that, in contrast to the stands serpent demon living in fire. Thousands of streams-ten in the year 1809 to the miraculous Helsjö, a small-a lake not far from Rampegarten; it was said that people herding cattle Children have often had a young, beautiful woman this year.
 to see someone sitting on the shore, holding a snake in her hand;
 This woman is said to meet the snake only once every hundred years—(appear). On the other hand, the appearance of the negating principle in the form of a snake, falls further Fol-genders. A wooden snake, called Expaniitl, was the Ancient Mexicans' attribute of their war god Huitzilopochtli and was carried in procession; the colossal image of God-
 The self was entwined with a golden snake and had been, news from the country of Guiana from the Italian of the, Gili von Sprengel, Hamburg 1785, p. 438.

1) James Athearn Jones, Traditions of the North American Indians, London. 1830. “The Valley of the Shining Old Woman” in the “Legends of the North American Indians.” Altenburg 1837.

2) Basel Mission Magazine, 1829, p. 299.

3) Grimm, German Mythology, p. 701.

Daumer, Feuer~~z~~ and Moloch service. o 2

18

From the four Edens, fine seats, came just now. So much more terrifying-(e.g., snakes). Now, let's finally think about... the poisonous snake erected by Moses, which still belonged to His~~z~~ kia's time was an object of worship in Israel) and A trace of their cult can also be found in the Book of Judges.
shows. Because one of the scourges named here... or so-called judge is called Thola, lives with Samir and is buried there. Thola, however, means worm, and Samir, Shamir, is the name of a worm in Jewish mythology.
A fabled world that splits mountains and stones, and whose Sa~~z~~ lomo served fine temple construction?), so that judges and City of the divinely worshipped worm (= snake) be~~z~~ named to be, to seem, a kind of namedness that gives us which will be encountered more frequently in the following. The name of Moses raised venomous snake Saraph — from saraph, to burn, to congeal~~z~~
nen — leads us to those mythical serpent demons Ame~~z~~ Rika's return, who live in the scorching heat. Here, connections are made.
with the image of the snake the idea of what it can do pre-emptive evil power, as that which is corrupting, consume Typhon Jehovah, appearing in embers and flames, to which he
We will now move on to a closer examination.

For it is as such that Jehovah, who God of Israel, not only in that vision of the Hebrew ancestor~~z~~ not only appears to the Lord, but also so often and explicitly in the Old Testament accounts, even those of the re~~z~~ Formatorial, anti-Molochist prophets, are referred to as that one must be utterly deluded in order not to,
to glimpse a deity, who was created by a fire genius, like the Indian Sivas or the Sippharenian fire king Adram~~z~~ melech), is basically not at all different. Jehovah,

1) Clavigero, History of Mexico, 1. 2%. p. 358 f. p.

2) Numbers 21:6 ff.

3) Castelli, lexicon heptaglotton, col. n Eifenmenger, age, tes Judaism, 1st Th. p. 351 ff.

4) Winer, biblical Real vocabulary IS29.

19

The god of Israel is a consuming fire 1) and goes as a fol-
(He went before his people to destroy the peoples?); that Gazing upon the glory of Jehovah is like consuming fire.
the summit of Sinai); he appears there in fire and Lightning flashes and the mountain smokes like an oven; he speaks his mind.
the fire); smoke rises from fine nostrils and fire consumes From his mouth, coals burn from him and from the Clouds, hail, and fire travel before him, their radiances aloft.
coals); as fire and cloud column he draws fine wan=
(The people of the world lead the way 7); an eternal fire must be set on their land altar burning 8); fire comes out of it and consumes the Sacrifice of the altar); at the sacrifice of Elijah, fire falls Jeho= va's down, eats burnt offerings, wood, stones and earth and licks the water poured around (on 10); Ezekiel looks out in a dangerously described fire manifestation Jehovah's glory 1);
and according to the Talmudic tradition, Dinur or Regjon, a river of fire, which flowed from the holy, given= deiten Gott unter dem un feinen Herrig heroor er= pours 12).

Just as good as in the phenomenon of the consuming
This god could also unleash fiery blazes and blazing flames.
in which coldness and warmthless rigidity are perceived;
for the latter also forms a hostile counterpart to Life creation, life maintenance "well-being and organic Nature, and everything that denies it, is a phenomenon.
this destructive principle. Therefore, the Chaldeans, according to

1) Deuteronomy 4:24; cf. Isaiah 33:14: "There is an earthquake in Zion, the Sinners, trembling seizes the godless: Who among us may dwell with the ravenous one and who among us live among the eternal bald ones e 70

- 2) Deut. 9, 3. 3) Exodus. 24, 17. |
- 4) 2 Moses. 19, 16, 18, c. 20, 18. Deut. 4, 11.
- 5) Deut. 4, 12. 6) 2 Sam. 22, 9. 13. Pf. 18, 9. 13.
- 7) 2 Moses. 13, 21 f. 8) Leviticus. 6, 12 f. 9) Leviticus. 9, 24.
- 10) 1 Kon. 18, 38. 11) Ezech. 1, 4 ff. v. u ff. ö
- 12). Eisenmenger, II, 346. 371 ff.

2°

20

Lydus de mens., the planet Saturn at once hot and cold, and in the walled fortress of God in the Book of Enoch It is hot as fire, and cold as ice, and no (There is air and no life). According to the idea of the For Arabs and New Persians, Saturn resides in the seventh heaven. in a tall, well-guarded castle, a protector of all Rogues and robbers, and a proverb says: "He was so cleverly, that he had undermined Saturn's stronghold 2). Since the Feuerburg, in which according to Jewish tradition... The position of the throne of God stands, in feverish heaven, this Sphere of Saturn, is), so everything wraps itself up into one= other, that the underlying identity of the Hebrew Jehovah with the destructive, hot-cold Saturn on the un most repulsive thing jumps into your eyes. Within those hot= cold God's fortress of the Book of Enoch, furthermore a second one shall stand, which is described as follows: "And behold, there was another one= spacious apartment, to which every entrance was open before me It stood, erected in a trembling flame. Its floor was on fire, above were flashes of lightning and moving stars, while its roof displayed a blazing fire. Attentive * I saw and saw, no He a — * ent=

* 4%

1) Cf. Görres, Mythengeschichte, 1. PR ©. 291. Movers, the Phdnizier, Bonn 1841, Vol. 1, p. 259. Hessmann, the book still Jena 1833, 1st Abthl. S. 17% % mar i

2) Treasure Troves of the Orient, Vol. 1, p. 9. Movers, g. er
p. 258. Rosendl or Legends and Tales of the Orient, Stuttgart Gart and Tübingen 1813, 1. BS 5, after the paintings of Abschaib:
"Saturn, the old, wicked, incorrigible rogue and scoundrel, stands standing upright alone with feet far apart, while the others
Celestial bodies (Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter)
Figs. Kept in the castle and behind impregnable walls.
He his treasures. No one has yet become too clever for him, and on thawing
In this way he knows how to create counsel and gold. With seven arms
He reaches out, gathers up what he can, and escapes.
"Fine robbery and greed for gold!" 71

3) Movers, a. a OS 229. Hoffmann, a ad OS 180.

21

held, which was similar in appearance to the rim, while fine
Its circumference resembled the circle of the shining sun. Below from Streams of blazing fire flowed from this mighty river;
It was impossible to look at him. A great man in splendor!
keit sat upon it, whose dress shone brighter than the sun, and whiter than snow. No angel could pass through it.
to press on, to behold the face of the same, the glorious one and radiant. Nor could any mortal look upon him.
A fire blazed all around him. A fire also of great
It rose from him in a wide range, so that no one of those who surrounded him, was able to to approach him 1). The god is indeed portrayed here as a bright, more radiant, certainly, but it is what is associated with it.
Light is merely an external decoration and not connected to its essence.
one; rather, he is also the dark, sinister one; for he
It cannot be seen; even angels cannot penetrate it.
The surrounding, magnificent darkness was not. On another.
Places in the Book of Enoch refer to God as the head or the Lord of the days, whose head is as white as Wool is 2). Compare this to Daniel's description:
The Ancient of Days sits on a throne; his robe is white as snow, his hair like wool, his throne
Flames of fire, the wheels blazing fire and a

A torrent of fire pours from him. This old man
 The days are already compared to the one thought of as an old man.
 ten Saturn, whom the Carthaginians called the Old One, and to whose temple, according to Augustinus de consensu evangeliorum, in Roman Carthage led a gaffe known as vicious Saturni, but more often referred to as vicus senis 9).
 In addition, there is the snow-white color, which the Danielian god has in common with the destructive fire god of India; for the

- 1) Hoffmann, aa p. 179 ff. 2) Daf. ©. 344, cf. ©. 352.
- 3) Dan. 7, 9f.
- 4) Münder, Religion der-Karthager, p. 9. Movers, aa OS 260 f.

22

The color of Sivas in artworks is snow-white, fine symmetry.
 bol at the same time a triangle with the point facing upwards, the flame significant 1). He is on the one hand a snow god, a god of freezing cold, and on the other hand the dissolving, destructive Gluth; the Egyptian Typhon was the destructive summer=
 gluth, therefore people were sacrificed to it during the dog days);
 But it was just as true for winter and the win= terrific hemisphere 3), and according to Theopomp in Plutarch it was called for those who live towards evening, the summer Venus, the Win= ter Saturn).

That the God of Abraham and his Hebrew followers
 Basically, no one else is alive except this one= and Nature-hostile genius of negation, this Sivas, Typhon,
 Saturn, etc., also testifies to the fact that up to Abraham
 The reintroduced custom of circumcision in Israel. This is the same,
 As others have already recognized and stated, a representative tendent mitigation of castration 5); among the Hottentots
 A type of circumcision has been found that is half Castration existed, and was performed by a priest at each male children were treated 8). The planet Sa= Turn was considered by the ancients to be a celestial body that inhibited procreation, see above;
 In Greek myth, Kronos castrates the procreating father.
 Uranus, and his attribute is the harp, which » to the Castrations and the beheadings of those destined to be victims

People in the Saturn service belonged to and with which one could the Enemies slashed the backs of the knees 7). The Jews confess through their so diligently maintained circumcision, even up to

1) Bohlen, Das alte Indien, 1st part, p. 207.

2) Plutarch, de Is. et Os. 73. 3) Movers, aa OS 526.

4) Plutarch, loc. cit. 69. 5) Bohlen, loc. cit. OS 292.

6) M. Peter Kolben's description of the promontory of the good Hoffnung, Frankfurt and Leipzig, 1745, p. 150. Compare Diodorus Siculus 3:32.
says of the circumcised and mutilated troglodytes, and my Sabbath, Moloch and Taboo, Nuremberg 1839, p. 25.

7) Movers, aa OS 272, 422. 362.

23

this day to the Saturn service, which according to Amos the drifted in the desert for forty years, just like the same in Consideration of the Saturn day, which remains so sacred to them, the Sabbaths are observed. This too must be acknowledged and accepted.
They began to speak about the fact that the so-called Ark of the Covenant had nothing to do with it.

deres, as one of those in ancient Typhon's and Moloch's customary services. Golden shop, such as the of Papremis, a form of the Egyptian Typhon.
The image of the same was preserved in a covering of gold.
a small wooden temple that can be mounted on a four-wheeled vehicle
The car drove 1). That also in the Hebrew federal The idol that was located will be shown in Appendix I. Its lid formed its throne when it did not rest within.

Let us now turn to the discussion of what belongs here.
Old Testament sacrificial cult. That a God, as according to all the aforementioned testimonies, facts and combinations
The Hebrew Jehovah was, in the times of his unmixed, through later humanitarian and educational developments

Steps not yet mitigated characters do not interact with animal-sacrifices are not enough, but far more precious sacrifices are desired.
I will have, is easy to consider, and that it really is the
This has been the case, and is still reflected in many biblical sayings and Representations completely undisguised during the day; even in the law-
In the collection of the Pentateuch, passages have been preserved which To condone, sanctify, and command human sacrifice. That's the kind of thing.
concerning gifts and sacrifices, which one calls din, cherem, i.e.
an unconditional and irrevocable gift to Jehovah
and called sacrifices consecrated items (»banished« in Luther's case).
Even a person consecrated to such a cherem — so it says with emphatic repetition at one of the noticeable-most worthy passages of the Pentateuch — one should not live-not let him, but he should be killed. » All that is banished,

1) Herodotus, 2, 63. Movers, supra OS 355. Prichard, supra.
Pages 106 and 310.

2⁴

what someone dedicates to Jehovah of all that is his, of People and cattle and from the field of his property, which It shall not be sold or eaten; everything banished is a most holy thing of Jehovah. Not an exile, who banished by people, it should be solved, he is to be killed«). So it was dedicated to the Jehovah sacrifices people who, of their own, express
According to the law of this God, under no condition not to remain alive, but truly sacrificed, made a victim-had to be killed. That is undeniably established.

But the ancient Hebrews sacrificed to their enemy, Jehovah, Criminals and innocents, people of their own volition, as well as from foreign tribe.

1) 3 Moof. 27, 28 f. according to the bet.] Cf. Winer, bibl. Realwör- terbuch, IS 156. "Bann, dim, ein Gelöbde, vermöge dessen Persons or things to Jehovah as irrevocable and were consecrated as inalienable property. Exiles

"Perfones had to die." Michaelis, Mosaic Law, III.

§ . 145. p. 8 ff. and V. §. 246, p. 84, where it is admitted that a exiled city, whose people went to the sword, just as they themselves went to the
The fire was holy, as if it were a sacrifice offered to Jehovah.
The matter required no further confirmation, since it was a deity
A person consecrated to one's own property, who is killed as such, in
The mindset and conception of the dying person of this deity indisputably leads to A sacrifice is made; but to make matters worse, the passage in 5 Mof. 13:17 is relevant.
hands, according to which a banished city and all taken from it
The spoils are to be burned as a burnt offering to Jehovah. "The

"The crude process," says Vatke, "had, as the name already shows, in the
It had a more religious meaning, but in ancient times it was probably more associated with religion.

People, as if accomplished in things." Religion of the Old Testament, Berlin 1835, Vol. 1, p. 278. Compare also Gildemeister, Blindwerke des vulgar rationalism, Bremen 1841, p. 5: "If Hengstenberg, Christol. III, 456 asserts that it is not from a not voluntary vows, but a forced consecration,
This contradicts the clear words of the text: "Alles cherem, which a man makes cherem to Jehovah, of all that
"Fein ist" — which cannot be turned into its opposite, fo that it meant: "Even if he doesn't make it his own cherem, but Jehovah takes away what was refused to him."

25

Sacrificing enemies was part of the ancient Hebrews' custom in the Especially regarding their sacrificial act, that they, like the ancient Mexicans ...won wars solely for this purpose. It was customary,
to give the nation's terrible god a truly colossal
to make sacrifices, to force entire cities and populations to Cherem to be consecrated (to be banished, according to Luther) and led to... sacrificial wars, in which everything that could be seized was given to the strangled, burned, or sacrificed to Jehovah was agreed upon. There we often find with goodwill fall, thoroughness and emphatic repetition emphasized that everything that the enemy had been destroyed.
and had life, that one man and woman, young and strangled old men, oxen, sheep, and donkeys." In
It is in this sense and spirit that Samuel called Saul to He wages war against Amalek and commands him to turn this people into

to make sacrifices of annihilation, and to feed man and Woman, child and infant, ox, sheep, camel and donkey, and since Saul did not fully carry out this command stretches, King Agag and part of the cattle are spares, and from cattle and sheep only »everything that is — ächtlich und ungüchtig « stört, fo ift this ein Safel und Robbery of Jehovah's rights and property, a religious crime

1) See, for example, Jos. 6:17, 21; c. 10:28, 30, 32, 35, 37, 39, 40. Self Several passages in the prophetic books of the Old Testament are to move here. Jeremiah 46:10: "But that day is for the Lord Jehovah of hosts, a day to take revenge on his enemies, and it devours the sword and is sated and becomes drunk of their blood, for the Lord Jehovah has made a sacrifice to the "Armies, in the land of the North by the river Euphrates" — and Isaiah 34:6ff.: "The sword of the Lord is full of blood, fattened with blood." Fat, from the blood of lambs and Bode, from the kidney fat of rams. For Jehovah holds a sacrifice in Bozra, a great slaughter. in the land of Edom. And wild buffaloes and bulls fell with them. her oxen are brought down, and her land is drunk with blood and fertilized with it. "Fat floor. For Jehovah holds a day of vengeance, a year of retribution, to avenge Zion."

26

Breaking something that cannot be forgiven. The Agag, the Saul had let Samuel live, then slaughtered him afterwards. He was faithful to his God by destroying him in Gilgal before Jehovah. stußt, und scheidet sich sfort auf immer von dem ruchlofen Kings 1), Very similar is the one in the Books of Kings told the story of Ahab's war with Ben-Hadad, the Kings of Syria, where one prophesies in the name of Jehovah the Prophet stands by Ahab, encouraging him, just as but this Ben Hadad Edelmuezh, pleading for his life had treated him badly and let him go free, thus fighting against him fert: "This is what Jehovah says: while you are the man I..." banished, set free, out of your hand, so shall your life be. "They are liable for their lives, and your people for their people." Those Incidentally, the first story is not unaltered by Zutha ten and turns of phrase have remained in the sense of a later time.

Saul tries to excuse himself by saying that one part of the enemies' cattle consecrated to Cherem only for that reason I let its life be sacrificed to Jehovah, to which Samuel replies: "Does Jehovah take pleasure in burnt offerings?" and sacrificial offerings, just as in obedience to Jehovah? Behold, obedience is better than sacrifice, attentiveness better than The fat of rams. For like the sin of fortune-telling is defiance and like idolatry and idolatry ei= gensinn «). How little that in the mind and togetherness=

1) 1 Samuel 15:3, verses 9-35. Leo, History of the Jewish State, Berlin 1828: "We are informed on this occasion that the Jews knew human sacrifice, just like the Phoenicians and Carthaginians= giniensern, their linguistic relatives." Gramberg, Ideas of Religion, I. p. 115, 343 f. 360. II, p. 80: "Agag is at the sanctuary of Gil= "Halved before Jehovah, i.e., as a sacrifice." That this expression dan= h the killing of a person the meaning of a person= What is offered as a sacrifice cannot be contradicted; compare, for example, how Solomon and the people "offer sacrifices before Jehovah." 1 Con. 8:62. 2 Chronicles 7:4.

1) 1 Kon. 20, 13 ff 22 and 28. v. 42. 2) 1 Sat. 15, 21 ff.

27

The overall picture fits, as described above. shine. The killing of enemies and their livestock as Che= Rem, was itself a sacrifice offered to Jehovah, and when Samuel later tells Agag to Gilgal before Je— By sacrificing to Jehovah, he himself acts in a manner that breaks apart, i.e., sacrifices to him. in this sense. It would therefore have required a more complete and more comprehensive revision and redesign of the old, in written by the spirits of the eighth, original Jehovah's Witness History is needed to avoid further complicating the truth with doubt. to reveal loosest certainty.

The tendency of this to persist even into later times The type of sacrificial cult can be recognized from the following rabbinical Sayings: "Whoever sheds the blood of the wicked does the same as if he were offering a sacrifice «1) Among the God= loosened dyn aber werden die Christen versetzt understood 2).

Religious criminals and their relatives were also...

who offered a sacrifice to Jehovah. "Whoever worships other gods sacrifices, as to Jehovah alone, he shall be banished" — himself sacrificed relentlessly to Jehovah — "will be" 3).

A city whose inhabitants have fallen away from the legal cult, It shall be banished along with everything in it, the inhabitants besides their cattle were destroyed with the sword, the city itself with all the loot accumulated on the market as

(Burnt offerings of Jehovah are burned with fire). Hin= directions of heretics and criminals against Jehovah, provided they understand the meaning of a sacrifice offered to Jehovah had, were expressed through the act of dying before— hova, d "sub" denotes; cf. the above this expression As mentioned above. Thus, he shows us what it's all about. Deaths of Aaron's sons, Nadab and Abihu, who were "foreign"

1) Jalkut Shimoni, about the 5 books Mofis, fol. 245. col. 3. Bam midbar rabba fol. 229. col. 3. Eisenmenger, entdecktes Judentum, II. P. 203. 2) Eifenmenger, IS 689. 735. 756 - 761. 770.

3) 2 Moses. 22, 19. 4) Deut. 13, 13 ff.

28

Fire brought before Jehovah, for a reason:

"But Nadab and Abihu died before Jehovah when they offered foreign fire before Jehovah in the Sinai desert « 1), and if it was presented so in a previous narrative= It is stated that "fire went out from Jehovah and set them on-devoured and thus died before Jehovah « 2) — that is to compare, just like before, fire from Jehovah= goes and the burnt offering and the pieces of fat on the altar eats), so that here too the meaning of the narrated fact= tums, as a sacrifice offered to Jehovah, into the eyes jumps. Even those men who were sent out, the to explore the land and the community against Moses in Aufre= gung displaced, die before Jehovah, i.e. they are presented to him as (criminals sacrificed). An apparently later hand adds

n5302 — through a plague, pestilence — only the remaining one
 The phrase "before Jehovah" leaves no doubt as to how things stand with the
 that was actually meant in the story. Furthermore, those seven men from the house of Saul to avert hanged before Jehovah during a famine 5), where because of
 of the completely open presentation and the completely immediate clarity
 This makes the matter all the less open to doubt and objection.
 can be exposed ©). Yes, even Sofia sacrifices herself in fine Reformation all the high priests of Samaria 7); of similar Art is when Elijah slaughters the prophets of Baal 8).

But they are not merely strangers, enemies of Jehovah and his ner Nation, criminals and what is related to them

7 J) 4 Mos. 3, 4.

“x 2) Leviticus 10, 2. 3) Leviticus 9, 24. 4) Numbers 14, 36 f.

5) 2 Sam. 21:9 cf. v. 6.

6) Cf. Gramberg's critical history of the religious ideas of al-ten testaments, 1st book, p. 115. "The most definite expressions allow
 There is no doubt here that human sacrifice was still practiced in David's time.
 not at all for being forbidden, but rather for powerful atonement offerings.
 were to hold out to avert Jehovah's wrath."

7) 2 Kon. 23, 20. 8) 1 Con. 18, 40.

29

ft stands, which is to the terrible god of the ancient Hebrews for op-fer falls; the same is, as a general enemy of life and Existence, in essence, is not even of his people and his Friends, friend, he's always, so to speak, on the verge of something.
 to spoil and devour them too; therefore they stand in ongoing negotiations with him to alleviate his anger,
 his hostility, turning away from him, and their actually also ruined existence through the sacrifice of a dear and to buy the valuable part of it. Then there is the
 The entire people, their princes, military leaders and high priests in death, and parents must protect their children, and among these especially those considered the noblest and best, their firstborn to dedicate, indeed only, themselves to death by battle and fire.

Regarding the sacrifice of the people's leaders and high priests As far as the Bible is concerned, it tells us about two such things. things that still preserve a sufficiently established tradition. It This refers to the deaths of Moses and Aaron. The oracle of Jehovah He announced that they were to die, they climbed a mountain and die, i.e. they are sacrificed 1). The death of both will explicitly compared and equated: "Die," he says. Jehovah, » on the mountain., wherever you climb and become Gather for your people, just as Aaron your brother did— died on Mount Hor and gathered to his people. ward « 2). And so Moses also dies » according to Jehovah's Command «). Those priest-kings died in no other way.

1) Numbers 20, 23 ff. Deut. 32, 49 ff. c. 34. 2) 5 Mos. 32, 50.

3) Deuteronomy 34:5. "This manner of Aaron's death is remarkable, fo. as it is in the consequence that of the Mofe! Father, Commentary on the Pentateuch, Halle 1805, 3rd part, p. 100. In Gramberg, Religions ideas, II. p. 137 address "the solemn arrangements. Aaron's death, who could not have foreseen Moses, against the: historical view of the Myth — what delusion against the all-too-historical fact a death that Moses could foresee just as well as one could foresee the The end, one. Foreseeable for the criminal who ascends the scaffold! — The words dine d by have been translated as: "at the mouth of Jehovah, through Jehovah's mouth" and understood as if Jehovah had told the Meroe. A divine oracle pronounced the death sentence, and The king obeyed God's command and died 1). — a usage, which is probably related to that Hebrew one hangs and had the same meaning. The old Prussians had a priest-prince Criwe or Criwe Criweito, who maintained an eternal fire, in thunder with the gods He said he received a third of all the spoils of war, and so It was considered a stroke of great luck to have seen him once. to get faces. The same man used to do in his fine old age.

30

(to burn himself as a sacrifice for the salvation of the people).
 Yes, what is even more striking is the idolized tribal heroes
 these Prussians, Waidewut, their first king, and Prutes, their first Criwe, who both lived to be over a hundred years old,
 According to tradition, both sacrificed themselves to the gods.
 burned 3), which wonderfully combines Moses' and Aaron's sacrifice=
 Death is correct. Dido, the founder of Carthage, also sacrificed.
 She herself. It is said that when she wanted to kill herself, build a pyre and slaughter many sacrificial animals
 let it be, as if she wanted to cast the shadow of her deceased husband to reconcile and offer him a death sacrifice, or they have specified to sacrifice to Stygian Zeus; also, in the pal= Last a temple of Sichau had stood, from which who seemed to call her, and Aeneas, in Virgil's work, sees her. united with this one in the underworld 1). This Sichau, however is nothing other than the god of death, Hades himself, to whom they

Moses' soul was kissed, as if Moses had been kissed by Jehovah.
 died. According to the rabbis, this is how, except for Moses and Aaron also died Moses' sister, Miriam, a strange woman.
 a tradition from which it can be inferred that Miriam also belonged to the Je=
 hova fell victim; cf. Prophetæ veteres pseudepigraphi ed.
 Gfrörer, Stuttgart 1840, p- 333 and 361, and ane © 2
 1) Diodorus, III, 6.

2) Mone, History of the wowichen bewentHEME , IS 83. 2.

3) That. S. 95. went.

4) Justin. XVIII, 6. Virgil. Km, IV, 457 ff and 638. VI, 472 f.

34

According to ancient symbolism, she married him by turning herself to him.
 Victim killed). Sichau or Sychaau, namely is Phoenician= Zish name of Hades, Hebrew now, shicha, or anw, schucha, pit, abyss, cf. nnw, grave, nw, down=
 sink, specifically, nin'bu, into the realm of the dead. Another,
 The name given to Sichau by Justin is Acerbas.
 (pronounced: Akerbas), Hebrew then, the destruction, the death, of to devour. The meaning of a sacrifice probably had including the crucifixion of Cartago, as recounted by Justin, who, in adorned in priestly vestments, besieged by his Carthaginians (the father was crucified?) — a case on which we will discuss in more detail below. Also The strange news to be drawn here is that one can go to During the time of the Christian persecutions, the men who were called the accused wild animals of wearing the clothing of Saturn's priests (attracted). Looking across to America, we find There are many similar things here as well. From the Mexican Kings Chimalpopoca are told that he decided to to die as a sacrifice to the god Huitzilopochtli, and to... Besides several others who consecrated themselves to death with him, the Priest He gave up his star as a sacrifice, as others had done before him. Men considered heroes (deeds). The Mexicans marched, when one of their masters died, a slave whose clothes and wearing a mask, they showed him the honors due to the Ver- deceased born, and then sacrificed to him, where thus instead the original real sacrifice of the national princes 5) [The text abruptly shifts to a seemingly unrelated topic:] With the old Tol-

1) This method of representing antiquity will be discussed further below. The speech was fine more often and in greater detail. Here, only the reference to... that East Indian marriage of an abandoned virgin to the crocodile- dill and on the marriage kiss of Jehovah, through which Moses, Aaron and Miriam died. 2) Justin. XVIII, 7.

3) Passio S. Perpetuae et Felicitatis ed. Possini, Paris 1664, p. 30.

4) Clavigero, History of Mexico, Leipzig 1789, Vol. 1, pp. 222 ff.

5) That. p. 447.

32

In ancient times, the law stipulated that a king could only reign for 52 years. was allowed to crave; had a king been on the throne for so long? (seated, so he resigned the government!); in earlier times He probably had to face death, and that never- The government's actions were a mitigation of this barbarity. One might recall the legendary island of Jambulus. in Diodorus, where the chieftains of the individual tribes, when fie, having reached the age of 150 years, had to die 2).

 The Patagonians have priests of both sexes who go to like priests, prophets, and soothsayers; the men must remain unmarried and put on women's clothes, that Priests
 They are like the star of Cybele. They will be like this their whole lives.
 accompanied by two from the troop of evil spirits, who
 They themselves increase their numbers after their death, and their rulers
 The evil genius Gualichu or Huocuvu is. They reveal their profession is affected by convulsions and epilepsy; one can see she with fiery eyes, stiff hair and foaming Munde, with drum and other equipment, their incantations accomplish endeavors, or even in enthusiasm, in a certain way-Sitting on a tripod, to the assembled people: Victory or failure!
 announce the circumstances. These priests of the evil principle look However, one can also use it on various occasions, particularly when major, general accidents, to fall as a sacrifice).
 How close and intimate all this is with the Jewish, into which Christianity and fine dogmatics have passed over the concept of connected to a suffering and dying messiah, jumps into the eyes. Even the expected highest and greatest ruler and the high priest of his people must undergo the holy sacrificial death Moses and Aaron die, and still the following applies to the Jews, which at least one of the two of them... waited: Savior, the so-called son of Joseph, concerns,
 The assertion: "He will offer himself up," captures the soul.

- 1) Elavigero, p. 136. 2 Diodorus, 2, 58.
 3) Orbigny, aa OS 167.

33

to throw into death and with his blood the people to reconcile God 1), which is to be compared with that » servant
 God's "Isaiah suffers for his people, as Jehovah himself did for him" wounds and makes sick and "his soul the guilt—" (sacrifice slain). How the spirit of this ancient man...
 The practice of schenopferwesens auch anders noch in Israel weiterdauern erhalt
 The following examples illustrate this. In the Ge History of Rabbi Joseph Ben Joshua, born in 1496 Meir des Sphardi, i.e., the Spaniard's 3), is told how

Solomon Moloch, the son of a Jewish renegade, to
 He returned to the faith of his fathers and, by order of the Emperor, Charles V, whom he tried to convert, was burned at the stake.
 be, whereby the Jewish historian made the following statement:
 press served: »And the Lord tasted the sweet Smell, etc. And even in very recent times, in a ju
 A letter from Jerusalem reports on the earthquake in
 Jan. 1837 Complaint brought and said, which through the same un
 The extinct Jewish communities are to be offered as an atoning sacrifice.
 (become for all Israel). In theology and culture
 The essence of Christianity is the concept of such a man
 the sacrifice and its necessity, the well-known dogmatic Central idea of the same, and even more essential and characterful more profoundly pronounced than in Judaism, which appearance already in the writings of the new Testament occurs. Here, for example, a statement by the High Priest is made.
 Caiaphas interpreted entirely in this sense 5); it indicates the words of Christ at the Last Supper 6), and after a

- 1) Eifenmenger, Discovered Judaism, II, 723.
 - 2) Isaiah 53:1 ff., especially verse 10.
 - 3) Translated into English by Bialloblotzky; Chronicles of Rabbi Joseph the Sphardi, 2 parts, 1836. Cf. Carové, Neorama, Leipzig 1838, 3rd part, p. 96 ff.
 - 4) Univerfal = church newspaper, 1837, No. 40. Carové, op. cit. p. 103 f.
 - 5) John 11:49 ff.
 - 6) Matt. 26, 26 ff. Marc. 14, 22 ff. Luc. 22, 17 ff.
- Daumer, Feuer and Moloch serve. 3 offered to sweet scents 1). The animal sacrifices of the ancient Testaments are considered here to be still insufficient, powerless. Shadows and role models of the great human sacrifice of Christ considered; so in the Epistle to the Hebrews, where the blood of Christ is considered Blood of bulls and goats and ashes of cows set and the declaration is given that there is one being needing a sacrifice than the animal 2); just as in the apocryphal letter of the Apostle Barnabas).

34

What finally needs to be considered?

As far as ancient Hebrew child sacrifice is concerned, it is already the original...

paternal time of Abraham, which we find in the famous Un-undertaking of this celebrated patriarch, the only one, geto sacrifice their beloved son to Jehovah, a Bei-

The game offers. The impetus for action comes from the god.

from yourself: "Take your son, your only son, whom you love, and offer him as a burnt offering (and) — and

although this, according to the present account, is not

What is truly sacrificed is always the principle behind it.

of the child sacrifice ministry, the claim that Jehovah has on the young life of mankind makes, and the highest

A compliment was expressed, with which he had such a Darbrin-considered. If one were not used to these things

Stockblind too fine, this would have been done long ago — albeit not fully-brought — child sacrifices of the patriarch to clarify the dark and contradictory history of the Hebrew Cul-

tus served. "Human sacrifice," says Winer, "abhorred."

the pious Israelites as pagan to the core, although

The holy legend story, an example of intended son sacrifices.

rung told, and in the harsh times of the judges a daughter

fell beneath the sacrificial knife of her superstitious father

1) Ephesus. 5, 2. 2) Heb. 9, 12 ff. 19 ff. 23c. 10, 1 ff.

3) Cap. 7 and 8, cf. Cap. 2, p. 66 ff. p. 50 f. of the Ueberfegung von Hafele, Tübingen, Wien und Prag 1840. 4) 1 Mof. 22,2.

35

was« 1). But how could the human sacrifice be abhorrent, who consider it an anti-Jehovahistic-pagan abomination

Israel's willingness of the patriarch to create such a to commit atrocities for something so glorious, to his Jehovah

How could one believe Jehovah to hold such a pleasing view?

I myself have ordered such a thing and thus subjected myself to the like.

Sacrificial to the Canaanite Moloch idols, from which he who wants to know that they are so sharply and strictly separated, completely

1) Are they on equal footing? 2) That will be difficult to answer. And

We are setting this in motion by order of the national god already from

The patriarch intended to make him appear so in the eyes of his people.

High-ranking child sacrifices not only with that of Jephthah² not only accomplished, but also in connection with those who according to the testimony of the prophets until the end of the Jewish state and beyond were in vogue and something in Israel were quite ordinary — except for the hay² the day the accusation clinging to the Jews, secret To make child sacrifices, not to mention now — what is more obvious than if we were to have a tour through the entire Ge² history of Israel from Abraham to exile² desecrating, deeply rooted in the religious orientation of this people Do we have a reasoned move ahead of us? But that's not all, what we have to ask. That the Genesis the Tra² The edition of Abraham's child sacrifice cult does not fully provide, This can be seen from a message from the Sanchuniathon, at Eu² sebius praeparat. evangel. 1. I, where the following can be found: "Once upon a time a plague and great dying swept across the land When Kronos came, he sacrificed his only, eighth son to his

1) Winer, bibl. Realwörterbuch, II, p. 211. 2) "Had the Vor² The practice of human sacrifice is entirely outside the sphere of Jehovah. Since it was a service, legend believed such a demand could be made of Jehovah. not even under the guise of temptation, and Abraham would have acted correctly if he had interpreted the command as God. tes unworthily dismissed.' Vatke, Religion of the Old Testaments, 1st Book, p. 276.

ga

36

Father Uranus performed the circumcision on himself, and forced His companions to do the same. Not long afterward, he consecrated He had another son, whom Rhea bore him, Muth with Names to the gods. The name is the Phoenician for the Death or the Pluto of the Hellenes." That this Kronos with to Abraham of Genesis, who gave his only, eighth son to sacrifice, cuts himself down, and to Ishmael and all to perform the same operation on his male housemate² tet), in One thing falls apart, is too clear to doubt it² to be able to fel; the name Muth, as a designation of the To² desweihe = and yes, son of death, composed 2), agrees with the name Isaac, insofar as it is an expression of the Molochdienst was the determination to death on the glüß denoting the arms of the metal statue, about which below the nearer. If one asks how Abraham came to be with to be confused with the Phoenician Kronos, so I would like The following might serve as an answer. Abraham's actual The name Abram, Ab-ram, means high father, great father, and seems to have been a title he used as Tribal chief and chieftain led 2); as such he liked

1) Genesis 17:23 ff.

2) Compare Ps. 79, 11. Pf. 102, 21 Don EF morti destinati.

3) Compare Genesis, chapter 14, where Abraham is described as a respected warrior. A chieftain appears, Sirach 44:19, where he, "the great father of many" "Le Volker" is the name given to him, and Genesis 23:6, where the Hittites call him a They call themselves princes of God. The title "great father" is used by... a great head to the Native Americans of America; the Osage called, after Hunter, the King of England "the great father beyond" the weapon", JD Hunter's Memorable Memories of His Stay= halts among the savages in North America (the prisoner among the wild men) den, von Lindau, Dresden 1824, 1. BS 60); the President of the ver= United States was called by the Indians as their "great father" referred to in the Basel Mission Magazine 1828, p. 628, and 1834, p. 569 ff. 573, 576, 578, 581; the first warrior of the Nadowessians was named, according to Carver, "The great father of the serpent," Carver, travels through the interior parts of North America, London 1778, p. 380, and in Pa= The natives occupied raguay, according to the report of the Jesuit Anton.

37

also those, el, Prince, are called, and under this name the Known to Phoenicians; but this is also the name of the Phoenician Kronos, laos at Sanchuniathon. Or, there It was a custom in antiquity to identify oneself with the names to name the deities one worshipped, approximately, like we adorn ourselves with the name of our calendar saints, Abraham was able to bear that name also because Nes was the name of his God; compare the biblical persons.

 nennamen Jehu wen“, which probably means something like to, Jeho, and ane, Jahu, = dan“, Jehovah, in compositions, Mal-cam, as the Moloch god was also called, Melech, another Form of the name Molech, Moloch, Hammelech, di Melech with the article, Baal and Adrammelech, as to—like the “Fire King” of the Sip, who was worshipped with child sacrifices.
 (Pharener was called). In any case, it is the greatest attention=

Sepp (he is the translator of Charlevoix's history of Paraguay, Nuremberg 1768, appended) with the name “great father” the Provincial Father. Perhaps the Peruvian word "ab" is related to the Hebrew "ab," meaning father.

nische apu, chief, together; hatum apu, great chief, was a Title of Peruvian ruler. Also found in the meaning of father.
 that which has multiple echoes in the languages of America; cf. Villela op, Toneves at Gumilla aba, around Peru to Gregor. Garcia Abba, Cora yaoppa, Runfienes appan, father; J. Mithridates von Adelung and father, and the latter's investigations into America. Father is antiquity = lord; the family patriarch of the Arab Bedouin
 He is both lord and commander of his horde and has in it the Right over life and death; he is the high priest and performs the duties of the priest.
 Victim; he is the one who wages war and alliances with other families.
 concludes, cf. Bohlen, Genesis Introduction, p. LXLII. Rachel calls her Father their master, Genesis 31:35, and yet the Jew says: “My lord, the owner of this house” for “my father,” Pesach Haggadah Hebrew.
 and German, Leipzig 1840, p. 21. In North Western, according to Carver's Index of words in the cited work ota king and father, cf.
 Greek crra, Latin atta, Swiss Atti, father.

1) 1 Chron. 8, 9. c. 8, 35. c. 9, 41. Jer. 36, 26. c. 38, 6. 1 Chron.
 5, 5. c. 9, 30. Isaiah 37, 38. 2 Kings 19, 37. 2 Kings 17, 31. Others Examples see below and at Movers aa OS 341, cf. p. 290, also in J. Fr. Meyer on Egyptology, Frankfurt am Main 1840, p. 8 ff.

38

worthy of unity, that Abraham and Moloch = Saturn of legend that it all comes together, and that Abraham also in Phoenician Tradition as a unique, native form of the pre-world:

It seems. Abraham and Saturn also melted among the Arabs. in one; Abraham was to them the one who was old and presented with seven arrows or lots in hand. Saturn placed an idol in the Kaaba, which Muhammad had with the words destroyed: "They present to our old man (sheikh) than with magic using arrows! What did Abraham have to do with the arrows? to create? « 1). All of this taken together is to make it clear enough that Abraham's cult is not an whose Phoenician Moloch service involved child sacrifices), and that the mild depiction of genesis, which leads to no allows real victims to come, the epitome of a relationship moderately very late, towards the abolition of the old atrocities of the present age. However, the circumstance that Isaac the sex reproduces, the view of the real victim rung dessßssel an unavoidable difficulty in the

* It is also not possible to completely reconcile the biblical account

A malevolent spirit of the Indians in Brazil is called Taguaiba, and a ge The cacique on Mount Ipyapaba called himself Taguaibunucu, great Ber, black devil; Murr, travels of some missionaries of the Ge selfschhaft Jefu, Nürnberg. 1785, p. 585 f.

1) Pococke, specimen hist. arab. p. 980. Movers, the Phoenicians, 1. BS 86.

2) Cf. Bohlen, Genesis, p. 230 ff. Böttiger, Ideas on Art Mythology, Dresden and Leipzig, 1826, p. 220. Ammon, Continuing Education of Christianity as a world religion, Leipzig 1833, 1st half, p. 114 and 127: "It is more than likely that Abraham through the Example of the Canaanites, who dedicated their children to Saturn or Tyrian gods Hercules sacrificed, for a similar undertaking with his only "His son Isaac was provoked." Thus, here, out of old, total blindness, struggles This reveals half-baked ideas in these matters. Simply stick to the facts. to say that Abraham was a child sacrificer and Molochist, like fine relatives, the Canaanites and Phoenicians, is this Theo Lying was not possible; he must have come from the Phoenician tribes of Canaan. to have been provoked, seduced by this cult.

to drop it and yet handle the matter in accordance with
of national history and the general course of events to set, to follow with regard to what was preserved in Eusebius
To state the sentence: Abraham spared the last one, who was in his Born of old age and yet dedicated to the sacrifice of the deity tenth son, after he had the earlier children of his marriage truly sacrificed 1). He was what we continue to be closer to will be found to be a Moloch-servant fanatic who he
of the kind, which is therefore also in memory of the Moloch-servant
Semites appear so highly regarded; in contrast, the reformatory
She Pseudo-Jesusaias — probably in possession of a more complete Tradition about Abraham — which he blames on his people, that already "his first ancestor sinned" 2) — which unforced only on the one, although in the eyes of his people so spotless, to refer to Abraham. For he they praised the Jews themselves as their ancestor 3), and rebukes, like Gesenius's on the passage: "To Abraham at the ken, which would be closest to the expression, allows the No connection; for it is inconceivable that the Prophet would have highlighted this one as a sinner, to
Since the story involves no act displeasing to God,
The points mentioned to him are easily resolved from our point of view.
A similar situation arises here as when we go to our
A place found by Amos, much to everyone's surprise, which in a very reproachful and hostile way of the otherwise with Davidic strings surrounded by such a nimbus of holiness (games remembered), or as when Jeremiah remembered all the kings, chiefs

1) Compare 2 Chronicles 28:3, where King Ahaz's fine sons — so Not just one! — burned as a sacrifice. 2) Isaiah 43:27.

2) Compare John 8:39 and Romans 4:1.

3) "Those who lie on ivory beds and stretch out on their resting places and eat lambs from the flock and calves from the stable, who babble to the sound of the harp, playing stringed instruments devise, like David." Amos, 6:4-5, along with what precedes and follows.
W |

St., Preachers, Prophets and inhabitants of Jerusalem, Judah and Israel, as those who only do evil and harm Jehovah's due deeds "from their youth on" and "from the day on, since Jerusalem was built « without exception reproved 1), and the one who himself referred to the most revered ancestor Beschuldigt. The prophet throwing the gong probably sees the child sacrifice service of the to look at themselves with no other eyes than those of his time the ongoing child slaughter of his nation, which with to that certainly the most weighty, substantiated and justified. A relationship was established. If Abraham is now still only remaining representation because of infertility when his wife appeared as a childless old man, the older, more recent relation, it certainly does not mean that he is only the one for that reason. He was childless because he had given the children of his marriage to his God. sacrificed, and when he against this the bitter Aeußerung that: "Lord Jehovah, what will you give me?" I go there childless, and the owner of my house's s2es will be the Damascene supplier« 2) — for had this in the the underlying older relationship probably has this meaning: »You Can you not give me any thanks for my children who were sacrificed to you? Grant fat. «

Let us move on to a second gatum of this kind, to the The sacrifice of Jephthah's daughter continues! No Theo appears here! phanie dazwischen und nicht die leichtste Meißbilligung ver- It reads, since Jephthah — again to Jehovah, the God Israel's, and no foreign idol — fine daughter, fine one leads the hundredth child to sacrifice and — as the Destined One- unity of the biblical relation in accordance with the ju- German tradition beyond all doubt — truly sacrifice 3). The vow that preceded this sacrifice

1) Jer. 32, 30- 35. 2) 1 Moses. 15, 2

3) "He made fine vows 192 D 7b Jq¹⁰ Judg. 11, 39.

These words can only be understood as meaning something other than... true sacrifice of the daughter, as is also the Jewish tradition dition for fasste, Joseph. Antt. 5, 7. 10. Gu nv nude wAoxavrwoey'!

evidence for the former custom of human sacrifice in Sfrael and for the prevailing belief that such sacrifices are highly be effective in gaining Jehovah's favor and support. recruit; for Jephthah vows and says: "If you Whoever gives the sons of Ammon into my hand, so shall he who comes forth Go out of the door of my house to meet me, the Jeho- hova consecrated fine and I will sacrifice him as a burnt offering « ?) – where Jephthah apparently already performed a human sacrifice in the sense of has and in any case relies on the cooperation of a human being Essence of a family member, even one's own, only child- one had to be prepared for the danger that powerful nature posed. of the vow, which is also only insignificant and matt gewas fien fien 2). That it was an ancient It was customary to make this kind of vow in times of danger, can be recognized from the very same, already otherwise compared of Idomeneus, who sacrificed the first thing during a storm promised what would await him upon his return home. The first thing he encountered was his son. Such a The intended meaning was a precious sacrifice; they only wanted it. not exactly determine it themselves, and the deity or the Chance leaves a path of relief and sparing,

u. s. w. Winer, bibl. Realwörterb. IS 635 f. The ones dem Buchften and the context of the perfectly clear and unambiguous relation The mocking assumption that Jephthah did not sacrifice his daughter, but only to the service of Jehovah at the sanctuary and an eternal Consecrated to virginity, already wittily crushed Michaelis, see his Mosaic Law III. § 145. p. 21. Note, cf. p. 13 ff. and because of des Sprachlichen Winer aa OS 637.

1) Judges 11, 30 f.

2) Michaelis already says: "It may well be that Jephthah not just an animal, but also a slave who would be with him perhaps would first meet him halfway, and sacrifice him in a pagan manner. promised." Mosaic Law III. §. 145. p. 13. Certain Vatke aa OS 275: "The very form of the vow shows that Jephthah who intended a human sacrifice from the outset, since he only had one "A person could come out of the door of his house to meet him."

But in those two, through Hebrew and Greek texts¹
 The traps preserved by the vowing party did not benefit those who had made the pledge.
 Even in the guise of a fairy tale, the memory of
 I oppose the barbarities of antiquity. There must be Væ²
 In their distress, they gave the first thing to a monster as their own.
 promised what they would encounter upon their return home;
 But the first thing encountered is a daughter, one's own child.
 How little the biblical account itself provides any impetus to This matter takes, however far away it is, so vows, as
 That, as against the spirit and law of the Jehovah's religion, strife
 The tendency to view it reveals itself decisively enough through the
 The train, that on Jephthah, as he makes his vow, just then the
 (The Spirit of Jehovah has come). And what should one fully do?
 to the end of the story, where it says: "And it
 It became a custom in Israel: from year to year the daughters go Israel, to praise the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite, forty days — ? That was the willingness of Daughter, to make herself a victim, thus this kind of victim³ cultus selbst, as something flawless, indeed glorious, of all Israel is recognized, and Leo is absolutely right when he

1) Brothers Grimm, Children's and Household Tales, Berlin 1819, No. 88.

2 BS 6. ff. with the notes of volume 3, p. 156. That the

The monster that demands the girl to be a bride and wife is based on the fact that that in antiquity the sacrifices of human persons were considered a violation
 He described the meals of the same with the god, see above and in the following.

2) Isaiah 29 f.: "Then the Spirit of Jehovah came upon J. and he pulled — — — and made a vow to Jehovah," etc. I

I have already emphasized this before, and it has had a counter-argument.

Theologian (Courtly, Illumination of the Daumeian letter to the parish⁴ (rer Kindler, Nuremberg 1832, p. 134) notes the following: "The spirit of the

The gentleman who came upon the judges was not a revealing one.

and renewing, not an inwardly enlightening and more holy, even less was it given without measure, so that he "Would have been preserved from error and sin." What a thought!

It is permissible to say to such theologians and apologists! To another
Would one consider such expressions to be the most terrible blasphemy?
Lay down a load.

43

about the deed of the Hebrew chieftain as about something the Religion and the cult of the ancient Hebrews in general Cha
The following statement, which is quite revealing, says: "As evidence for the exit sayings that the Jewish concept of the deity and whose veneration was of a decidedly abstract nature, can one can consider the terrible violence with which Jephthah crushes all human feelings to the ground in order to create a something done carelessly (2) to the deity, but once spoken to fulfill chenes and therefore binding vows. — — —
It is not something that merely stands alone; where a Va
ter fo, with this composure and preparation fine touch can sacrifice himself without everything around him becoming outraged,
This necessarily requires everyone to adopt this abstract way of thinking.
where one lives, it must turn one's whole life into terrible contrasts torn finely D).« Thus Vatke also concludes completely as proof strongly on the general nature of the old Jehovah cult,
as a man-sacrificing Molochism, by saying:
"Jephtha's sacrifice seems to stand alone, but only on the first glance. A human victim had apparently already been intended for the one making the vow; but through such a thing he could I believe I deserve Jehovah's help only in that case.
to whom other people were also sacrificed; in response
By setting a trap for him, he only provoked Jehovah's anger. The prudent
The execution of the sacrifice also speaks in favor of it, and the up-
The falling circumstance that the Hebrew tradition only has one
An example is told, which explains itself from the fact that a later continuation enduring custom attached to it, which is itself a tradition
The leader was «29.

With regard to the alleged Mosaic Law, it is from
to draw the conclusion from this story that neither Jeph That's time, insofar as one considers the narrative of the Book of Judges.
to the standard, even at the time when this story was told

- 1) Leo, History of the Jewish State, p. 126.
- 2) Vatke aa OS 275.

44

As it lies before us, a law was created by Jesus.

va's existirte, which such human sacrifices as a foreigner abhorred such atrocities and threatened them with death.
 This becomes all the more obvious when you look at it with the biblical relationship compares that of Josephus, who although the same, but told in a completely different manner, and not unterläs, to add that Jephthah was an unlawful, God-mis-

A necessary and by no means glorious deed has been done. It falls here with the historical difficulty that Jephthah's deed is connected with the — considered Mosaic — prohibitions on child sacrifice in ancient Hebrew legislation stands in stark contradiction, and with it a resolution of the same, as Winer gives it, completely removed: "That human sacrifice 1) to the Mosaic
 The fact that he had acted contrary to the law is highlighted by the remark that in the troubled age of judges, as some other relations reveal that the Mosaic Law is by far superior.
 was not generally known or strictly observed, as then also the entire version of the vow with thoughtful consideration
 The implementation of the law could not exist at all « 2). As if

1) This is still the false claim of theologians that Human sacrifice was forbidden without exception, which even after
 The present collection of laws is incorrect.

2) Winer aa OIS 636. The praising Jephthah should certainly had thought of an animal sacrifice, and there he might have been given an unclean, Come towards an animal unsuitable for prey, a dog or donkey!
 Cf. Michaelis, loc. cit. III. §. 145. p. 12, which is characterized by degradation of Jephthah helps. "This one from a dishonest and birthless child to a robber, and from the leader of a robber band to a military commander
 "become a brave barbarian" — "who was driven early from his fine homeland" bene and trained as a man under a band of robbers in the land of Tob-Jephthah didn't want to know much about the laws of Moses, and a bad one.
 'A legal scholar and just as bad a theologian.' But it can

The matter, as demonstrated, is by no means as one that leads to such isolation and Subjectivity is treated as an integral part of the narrative; Jephthah's That was the his people, who allowed him to do so after he had been for two months hesitated and no one informed him of the illegality during this time.

45

it would only be the times of the judges in which the mo-Saisian law was not followed and therefore not even before-
It seems that there have been hands. For example, think of the Passport, which, according to the express assurance of an oldtestamentary historian since the time of the judges except for Josiah, not in the proper, Mosaic legal form was held 1), or at the places prohibited by law and but continuing the usual high worship of Israel among judges and kings, for "not only up to the time of Solomon
There were such holy heights where sacrifices were made and smoked, but among the kings of the separated kingdoms
It seems that the high cult was formally organized, and Even pious kings could not exalt him" 2) —
which then gives rise to the peculiarity that the Pentateuch
"From the time of Moses' death onwards, the most important laws were neglected-sight and only after a millennium did he examine the most petty details.
was followed, instead of every other legislation in the first
The times of their introduction were practiced with conscientious rigor.
will be, and only gradually fall into oblivion « 3).
As for the child sacrifices prohibited by law, well... not only in the time of the judges, even in this respect
but also those of the kings, from Solomon onwards and until into exile, the Mosaic legislation » by no means well known or strictly observed, "since we hear that
The Hebrews throughout these times were not only the most barbaric Moloch servants were, but also their children to Jehovah himself.
who brought sacrifices). Yes, we will see that Moses, had been instructed in his undertaking, indeed, even in honor of the accomplished

That an annual festival and song of praise was sung.

1) 2 Kings 23:22; cf. 2 Chronicles 35:18.

2) Winer aa OIS 600, cf. that Art. Law, p. 493 f.
and the writers cited here.

3) Bohlen, Genesis, p. LXL of the Introduction.

4) Compare the first note above and the closer notes below.
layings.

46

who have forbidden these sacrifices, according to their own legislation knew or followed so little that he himself was one of the fans
He was a sacrificial man and child victim.

The biblical narrative can also be drawn here, after which Mesa, the king who came to the Hebrews Moabites turned to the deity for salvation, his firstborn son and heir to the throne on the wall
fort besieged by the kings of Judah and Sfrael Kirharesheth burned on the 9th. For this sacrifice had an effect according to biblical accounts, so powerful that the—
The warehousemen had to withdraw. A large group or Jehovah's anger against Israel and drove it away, so that the God, to whom the Moabite prince made this terrible sacrifice, with the God of Israel, the biblical Jehovah, apparently in One thing coincides, and the power and effectiveness that the
They had the same sacrifices at Jehovah's court as the Bible itself describes.
recognized, is in sight.

He was probably also such a victim when he was already up there.
The aforementioned Carthaginian priest Cartalo was crucified, and as there
Mesa intended to defend himself against his besiegers, so he wanted
Here, the besieging rebel of a happy battle has found himself to insure the city to be captured. It was this Hin—direction, considered as a victim, of double weight, once as a priestly sacrifice, see above, and secondly as the offering of the egg her son to his sacrificial death. Were the same a pure Cruelty without the stated religious meaning — surely the despicable father would not have dared to do that to her to be allowed to do so without inciting his army against him; he would not have had to not only as a child murderer, but also as a mocker of the Re religion and cult were sacrilegious. And yet the gray was liche Schauspielspiel recht gefleißentlich im Ansicht der Heere und given to the city! 2) He was also not subsequently...

1) 2 Con. 3, 27.

2) Atque ita eum ornatu suo in altissimam erucem in conspectu urbis sufligi jussit. Justin. XVIII. 7.

47

against this atrocity, which he committed in the spirit of his religion rather to be considered a great deed, but because of Master rhetoric was punished with death.

Let us now turn to the core of our argument, to the most conventional view of the old story

and the legislation of Israel, with its wonderfully contradictory pro-Phetish places over! There we hear, for example, about a ge

They know how to speak of shameful idols, to whom Israel has always been beasts and Men, sons and daughters sacrificed. "The shame-Goetze Pwan devoured the acquisition of our fathers from our Ju gend an, their sheep and cattle, their sons and daughters.
We lie in our shame, and our disgrace covers us;
For against Jehovah our God we have sinned, we
and our fathers from our youth until this day, and did not obey the voice of Jehovah our God « 1).
Truly, that was the God whom the Prophet described.
referred to as Jehovah, never the God of Israel-being, but rather that very idol of shame, whom he had devised for him-contrasted and which he contrasted with in a subsequent passage
The name Baal signifies: "For as many of your cities as there are, so Many are your gods, Judah, and how many roads of Je Rusalem, so many altars have you given to the shameful idol Nwab makes altars to smoke Baal « 2). But Baal was called even Moloch, to whom the Hebrews in the valley of Hinnom their Children burned: "They built high places for Baal in the Thale, the sons of Hinnom, to give their sons and daughter to the to sacrifice Moloch « 3), — so that everything is justified, the sentence to put forward: "Moloch was from the Hebrews from the beginning."

"Here, with the offering of one's own children, is honored."

closes the enormous, our whole traditional Theo

The project's claim shattered at a stroke, shattering the logic of the proponents.

Prophet Amos said that Israel would be in the midst of the forty years.

Not at all to Jehovah, but to Satyr

1) Jer. 3, 24 f. 2) Jer. 11, 13. 3) Jer. 32, 35.

—

48

nus Kijjun as a fine king (Melech, Molech, Moloch)

served. This passage reads as follows: » Have you

Battle and grain offering brought to me (the Jehovah) in the

Have you lived in the desert for forty years, House of Israel? You bore the Hut of your king and the Kijjun, your idols

image, the star of your God, which you have chosen—

(makes had«). The word jd holds a part of the Er clearer with a comparison of Syriac, Arabic and Persian fchen for the name of the planet Saturn, which the Arabs revered as a star of misfortune and the "great

Mishap was called; others translate: "the mishap".

1) Amos 5:25-26

2) S. Winer, bibl. Realwort. II, p. 455 ff., where the explanation of the where Saturn is holding firm against Hengstenberg, and Movers,

Phoenicians 1st Book, p. 289 ff., on the use of the names Kijjun, Kun,

Kon, Kyn, Keiwan for Saturn among the Hebrews, Phoenicians, Babylonians,

Syrians, Egyptians, Arabs, and Neo-Persians. Regarding the meaning of the

As far as its dark name is concerned, one will, in the circle of the school-like

Persistent in explanations, finding it difficult to discover the truth; for those

Those who can tolerate being led beyond that, be the result.

He noticed something. Just as in other, previously occurring cases, he

Here too, the languages of America seem to be important and informative; compare Araukanisch cuni, evil; Mithridates, 3rd Th. 2nd Abth. p. 422, which strikingly matches the Swiss German word Kuhni, Kueni, meaning devil; Grimm, German Mythology, p. 562. Marquesan in Australia is called Kuani spirit, probably actually Böofer spirit, demon, on New Zealand and der Hervey-Gruppe kino, böfe; Baseler Missionsmagazin 1838, p. 163. Kehnis is the name of a malevolent Latvian ghost that haunts people. Turns his neck; Kohl, the German-Russian Baltic provinces, Dresden and Leipzig 1821, 2nd part, p. 33. And how this evil God, the God of the forgiven Since the fire was called "renden Feuers," the fire was also called "so," as in Latin and Greek.

Vulcan and Hephaestus also refer to fire; compare in American Languages coun, coun, kan, chaan, kchan, fire; Mithridates 3rd Th. 3rd section, pp. 226 f., 424. The name Jehovah, which we The above differs in America and the Hebrew also Jeho, Jo, Jahu is said to have become the name for fire, cf. in American languages iuu and Jau, fire; father, investigations about America's population, p. 198; and the rabbinic fire angel your pictures, « however, the claim always remains, that the Hebrews worshipped a completely different God than Jehovah served the Prophet, that they were a hut — that is, the so-called collegiate hut? — and a star of this god as their king's bo worn; only the designation of the The ancient Hebrew idols appear less definite; the antagonist The striking accusation concerning the Pentateuch and The traditional theological view of history does not lesser. It can also be described as a pathetic exaggeration. The Prophet's words were by no means relevant; for, he said more than was considered undeniable truth in his time If it was valid, then he had to be sure that he would not be accused of lying and accused of slander. Try it sometime, to accuse someone of that. people or a religious party against which one criticizes and eagerly puts himself in his place, accusing someone of something that is not true. to be admitted as pure truth and historical fact must! Even the obvious truth is denied, if their recognition would be too shameful or dangerous for the The existence of a thing appears! And should we believe the prophet...

Jehuel; Eisenmenger, Discovered Judaism II "p. 379.

49

ten dare to be so reckless as to expose themselves to such embarrassment? Ben? No, the Prophet's statement must be a firm, traditional one. had a factual basis, on which we also agreed with him may support, and it is not permitted to do so recklessly and to honestly set aside, because one would, however, fears enormous consequences. With these highly important The testimonies of the prophets must one day be taken seriously. and it is a disgrace to history and to humanity? The mind knows that it hasn't happened long ago. But it has Our time has already begun to address these statements appropriately. to place increasing emphasis, and in this way create a completely new to establish the Old Testament history of Israel. Vatke äußert He describes that point as follows: »Ex-wagons we the words of Amos, as the general public notices, in which the Saturn service is a prerequisite for the Israelites; They can therefore be attributed all the less to the prophetic. Daumer, Fire: and Moloch Service. 4

50

To use pathos and pass it off as mere exaggeration, since the The speeches of Amos are by no means fantastic and hyperbolic have a bogeymanlike streak. Therefore, we cannot to make do with the makeshift solution of some outriggers, which under the aforementioned tent of Saturn, a small, insignificant one To understand the small tent, which a part of the Israelites secretly had carried it around with him, so that it was visible to the eyes of Moses and would have remained hidden from those with better intentions. The words Rather, they presuppose that one does not have any opportunity at all to Jehovah. offered, but the cult of Saturn prevailed; Yes, this circumstance is mentioned as a well-known fact; the Tradition of this must therefore at least be linked to the Mosaic one. The legends of the Pentateuch run parallel, indeed, more generally... It spreads out. That much is clear at first glance, that They both contradict each other completely and therefore are not so can be united, so that one may be under the tent of Amos virtually the lodge of the Pentateuch, and the same besides Jehovah, Saturn is also given as an inhabitant; much more will be added if the tents are otherwise identical, the one God had to give way to the other, or their difference consisted of merely in the different imaginations of the people «). The

The thing is, there is a difference between Jehovah and Saturn or Moloch in earlier times there was no difference at all, and that a difference only became apparent at the time when a reformatory party elevated the national god of Israel to a higher position, which although the, etymologically already obscurely known to those whose names were most holy, indeed for himself alone claimed, but changed the idea so drastically, that a decisive, albeit highly unhistorical, and hence a forced contrast arose. Considered aspects, such as the following: "I am Jehovah, that is my name, and I will give my honor to no other, nor my glory to anyone else. idols « 2). — "Those who swear by Jehovah's name and praise the God of Israel, but not with truth and Honesty, etc. — and immediately afterwards: "That you do not You spoke: my idol did it, my carving and casting image ordered it«). — »And even if they » in life If you swear to Jehovah, you swear falsely" 29. — "If you sweep your vile idols away from my In your presence — and you swear by the life of Jehovah a with Truth, with due and justice « 3). — »Your My sons have deserted me and sworn by non-gods «Y). — "But you, house of Israel, thus says the Lord Jehovah: Go and serve each of you his idols, even in your future, if you don't want to listen to me, but my hot Do not profane the name of the Lord any longer with your gifts and through your idols!« 5) — Passages from which it is clearly stated It is evident that even those against whom the prophets spoke out Far away, Servants of their kind were, so that Jehovah was involved and idol worship did not stand in opposition to it, as the shift The teaching of the prophets compels. The original unity of Jehovah's and Moloch-Saturns in respect of those in service at the child sacrifices made, but can also be seen from the Prophets prove. Micah claims that Jehovah requires neither Animal nor human sacrifice, not the fruit of one's own— who of the womb, not the firstborn son. "With what?"

1) Vatke, Religion of the Old Testament, Vol. 1, p. 191. 2) Isaiah 42:8.

51

Should I stand before Jehovah, bow down before the God of Height? Should I approach him with a burnt offering, with years of experience? Calves? Will Jehovah take pleasure in thousands of them? Aries, on myriad streams of oil? Should I mean Firstborn give to my guilt offering, my The fruit of my body as a sin offering for my soul? — which- chen questions are immediately countered with a purely moral law 9).

1) Yes. 48, 1 fv 5. 2). Jer. 5, 2. 3) Jer. 4, 1 f. 4) Jer. 5, 7.

5) Ezek. 20:39, cf. Leviticus 18:21: "From your offspring You shall not give to Moloch to sacrifice so that you may receive the name Bu. You are profaning Jehovah, your God.

6) Micah 6:6 ff.

4 *

52

This undoubtedly establishes the prevailing faith as the= He stated explicitly that Jehovah does not only harm animals, but also took pleasure in human sacrifice, and that in the sacrifice= birth of a firstborn son, extinguishing a debt of sin The power lies there, just as the real thing is in flux. Such a child sacrifice cult is certainly documented by this. Because Nobody contradicts or denies something that isn't even true. and takes place; which the prophet first questions and then negated, is whether he should do as is done; and so the following sentence is decisively included in the above passage: Israel worships the Lord with burnt offerings, yearly sacrifices. Kal Bern, rams, oil and sacrifices of firstborn sons, and believes that this is necessary for his salvation and Jehovah's Will, law, demand be«). Ezekiel further confesses, that a Hebrew legal code existed according to which the The sacrifice of all firstborn is prescribed by Jehovah himself. was, and lets him say: he himself, Jehovah, has been= a people in the desert, an evil, healing oven divine service prescribed by him being commanded= ten, to sacrifice all firstborn; but he had to whose punishment and chastisement were done: "And I also gave They were given statutes that were not good, and rights, which meant They were not alive; I defiled them through their offerings.

by offering up all firstborn children, so that I might destroy them Relieve me, so that they might recognize that I am Jehovah! D.. The
 The prophet does not dare to cite such a law of Jehovah in
 To make an agreement — how deeply rooted, firm and long-established
 The belief in them must therefore have existed! = who he —pk —ē * n rat

1) Cf. Gramberg, Kellqtondidern, 1st part, p. 119, where the Ver-Fasser expresses the still-blindly clinging assumption that that
 The custom of burning children as a sacrifice to atonement, from the service of Moloch
 "Has been incorporated into the Jehovah's Witness cult!" In this context
 However, consider the ancient = Jehovah's Witness human sacrifice cult! (also)

Vatke the place, religion of the ancient e 4. — p. Be 10 4
 2) Ezek. 20:25-26, 455

53

seeks help through the wonderful, violent turn that the same only a penal court for disobedience
 People, not actual, immediate, essential will
 The Hebrew God had been a member!! Kecker, on the other hand, was Defeat! Jeremiah, the law on which the opponents based their arguments—fen, be a falsified, fabricated one: »How may you say:
 Are we wise, and do we know the law of Jehovah? Indeed,
 It is the writer's lying pen that turns it into a lie! « 1). How They, however, base their arguments against him on the law and God's word.
 The Prophet himself tells us how he could do this, as he says in the following:
 "They say: Come and let us consider proposals."
 Jeremiah; for that cannot perish. Law under the priests, nor the council of sages, nor the Word of God among the prophets. Come and let us Beat him to death with your tongue and pay no attention to anything his speeches!!
 So we see who the innovators were, "the historical and ge-legal; the unentitled, the apostates from the old faith and Worship, the heretics against traditional orthodoxy
 the preacher... and the people were — those reformatory, a "completely different Jehovah and Jehovah cult than that of the Fathers and prophets who raised up the people!

They did, however, retain the name of the national god, changed: but concept and idea. Nevertheless, it should This "Jehovah" is no new God, no other than the ancient one. be paternal; hence the ancient tradition The giving of this god is declared to be falsified and fabricated, or to circumvent this bold move, the turn ge= It was said that Jehovah had instituted that terrible law of the old— Hebrew child sacrifice cult in his anger and as punishment of the true and * Jehovah=Cultus unfögen in Vol= kes given. a Let us compare Hebrew legislation as it is in the biblical Sefek famation still today before our distant Au= Located in the area, we also find all of this here. sufficient confirmation. Here, not only all firstborn children, As with cattle, so with man, the Jehovah is without that a distinction is made: "Holy to me all Firstborn, everything the mother breaks, under to the sons of Israel, both people and animals; mine it shall be«) — but Jehovah commands it further more explicitly as follows: "The firstborn of your You shall give me sons. So you shall do. with your ox and sheep, for seven days sfal= Len fie at the mother's fine, on the eighth you should 2) — where is the thing through the connection, through the complete equalization of the humans and livestock with regard to the offering and through the absence of all precepts that precede human sacrifice= The message and explanation shine so brightly into the eyes that (all doubt must vanish). Here we see that old one= paternal, terrible law of the Hebrews, against which the Pro= to fight the prophets, still in his entire original, un= expressed with reduced severity, and when at other Relief measures will be implemented and ransoms will be ordered.

, .

1) Sen, 8, 8, of, c. 7, 4. 2) Ser. 18, 18.

54

 will, so it is obvious that they are nothing but reformed
 later changes to human feelings
 They pay homage to the dawning of times. For example, when it says: "Bring Everything the mother breaks, offer to Jehovah, and everything first offspring of the cattle you have, the male ones, to which on But all from 1

19.2 of. 13, 2. 2) 2 Mof. 22, 28 f. . *

3) Gramberg also sees what is so obvious in the *
 1. Th. p. 106; but to express with certainty what he sees,
 He still doesn't dare: "One would almost be tempted to harm people."
 to think of victims, since the expression (the firstborn of your sons shall be (you give me!) is not explained in more detail and the poet continues
 So you shall do, etc."

55

Among your sons you shall redeem « 1). And if one could also deny what, after all that, would be more sincere and In a reasonable way, no one will be able to deny that the genuine ancient Jehovah=Cultus of the Hebrews a man= and child=
 Even if the sacrificial service had been, it would still always remain, as with the one that Abraham's forgiven child sacrifice — it would remain even in those mitigating, remitting passages, the principle of man= and child sacrifice cult recognized, sanctified and valid= keit. All firstborn of humans and animals should be of Legally, to fall victim to the national god: "My is everything firstborn! At the time when I was everything firstborn—Born in the land of Egypt, I got everything first.
 Born in Israel, it is sanctified, from humans to cattle;
 It shall belong to me, to Jehovah! Y. Certain and the principle could not be expressed more decisively, and which was already clear, that among those relatives and the Je=
 hova eigen fein, nichts Anderes, als ein Besfindsein zum Understanding death is further aided by the reference to the strangulation of the firstborn in Egypt confirms that= with as a great sacrificial act of Jehovah for himself to be considered is 3). That mitigation and exception can in the given context only as a mere after—view, a merciful remission of the due person, a not Jehovah's complete insistence on his right appears nen, actually, but — that remains — should also be the human

(The firstborn child falls victim to sacrificial death). There in Egypt

1) 2 Moses. 13, 12 f. 2) Numbers. 3, 13.

3) Compare the passages highlighted above where Jehovah reveals himself who carries out great slaughters as a sacrifice, Isaiah 34:6ff. Jeremiah 46:10.

4) In the same sense, as far as I know, it speaks for itself, to the Jewish writers: “Indeed, Moses (2) against the service of Moloch; but was it not the custom to give the firstborn Sacrificing children to Saturn, only seemingly absolved, only mild-dert in the commandment came to the fore again, which commanded, to consecrate all firstborn to the Lord, but firstborn children

56

By striking the firstborn, Jehovah demonstrates his full power
Right; he takes what is due to him; the Egyptians —
That is the ancient priestly meaning of the story — to refuse.
his property, the amount rightfully owed to him
Tribute; he must obtain his own rights; they sacrifice
He did not give him their firstborn children, so he took them himself.
His Hebrews, who were loyal to him, however, paid him freely.
willingly and of his own accord, what is due to him, therefore he needs it here.
not to use violence. But for Israel, this event was... a warning sign that it will never again be its firstborn spare, but truly sacrifice; that was obvious expressed in a passage of the Pentateuch where through Um Education now presents a curious contradiction to appearances.
comes; because it makes absolutely no sense to say: »Yes Hova killed all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the first from the firstborn of humans to the firstborn of cattle;
Therefore, I sacrifice to Jehovah everything that the mother breaks. and all the firstborn of my sons I will redeem « 2). Jehovah's
That should then be the fine model for sacrificing Israel;
What his God has done before him, he shall imitate; Jehovah

Without exception, all firstborn children were killed, so too must Israel.
Without exception, everything, including humanity, was killed. Thus Does the passage have meaning and coherence down to the beginning?

“And I will redeem all the firstborn of my sons”; by whom who contradicts herself in the most peculiar way, and who is so which is sufficiently recognizable as unwary and strange.
Thus, it is often seen that documents relating to the Pentateuch are included.
The reasons lay in the strict, relentless spirit of the were composed of ancient Hebrew human sacrifice service, and that later, reformatory hands were busy, through Correct to buy one's freedom by paying a tribute to the priests?" Nork, the life of Mosis, Leipzig. 1838, p. 202.

1) Cf. Bohlen, Genesis, p. 231 and CIX of the introduction.

2) Exodus 13:15.

97

doors, transformations and switching on those terrible ones,
to reduce strictness without exception or relentlessness.

The use of "man" was found to be extremely strange.
To sacrifice one's firstborn, even in America. The one to be sacrificed
The child was brought before the prince representing the deity.
and in the presence of the grieving mother after completion of a dance and other ceremonies placed on a block and beaten to death with a club. The French saw in Florida perform this sacrifice, and Lafitau compares it to the Canaanite Moloch sacrifices 1). How close at the same time the for not to see him and his ilk out of religious bias
a comparison with Hebrew legislation and The passages in the Pentateuch mentioned above do not require any explanation.
further discussion. Furthermore, this includes the fact that several American peoples, such as the Caribs, Galibis and Brazilians, a custom of men to the birth of their firstborn children very strict and hard to impose fines, which probably affected the original
The sacrifice of the firstborn, also customary here, from whom they

The demanding god should be redeemed. One reads at Labat, Biet, du Tertre and Lafitau from one to the Ge-rib-wasting, thirty- to forty-day, yes, three- and six monthly fasts with cutting the skin and snowing into the body, drawing blood from all parts of the body and washing the wounds with allspice brewed in water. or Indian pepper of the strongest variety, roucou and Tobacco juice; according to Thevet's insurance, the Brazilians must niche women undergo an even longer and harsher fast than the Men, endure. What Labat says is particularly strange, that the terribly abused father was completely bloody. puts on makeup on a red-painted chair— sets and is offered as a sacrifice to the devil,

1) Lafitau loc. cit. Baumgarten loc. cit. 1st Th. P. 87. Majer's Mythological Lexicon, Vol. 2, p. 91.

58

where one treats the unfortunate person like a small child, puts food in their mouth. This also happens with other children. as the firstborn, should fast, but not so strictly, like the first time 1). The underlying idea It therefore seems that the negating God applies to all human beings. claiming illegitimate births, but especially on the firstborn, for whose release it is therefore the extraordinary They require the most apologetic imprisonment. They have, after all, American tribes were found where it was customary to all to kill their children or all their female children! In the »Evenings« expensive, travels and shipwrecks of Don Alvar Nunez

1) Father Labat's travels to the West Indies by Schad, Nuremberg 1782, Vol. 1, pp. 441 ff. Lafitau, in Baumgarten, loc. cit., Part 1, p. 123. Biet, voyage de la terre équinoxiale, 1.3. ch. 13; Thevel, cosmogr. univers. I. 2. ch. 5. Du Tertre, hist. nat. des Antilles, traité 7, ch. 1. §. 4. According to Barrere's description of Guiana, the man must, after first His wife's delivery also took place for some time with an old Indian man. to enter into service and to regard and treat oneself as a slave to let. Cf. Humboldt, Journey to the Equinoctial Regions of the New

Continents, Vol. 5, p. 323: "To the men of the Carib peoples
The custom is attributed to them, when their wives are in their weeks come, lie in a hanging bed and commit to prolonged fasting.
It seems this strange custom belonged to only a few tribes.
ben, more often among other nations from the Orinoco and Amazons to have been a stream. The same was formerly known among Iberians and Corsicans.
and Tibarans. Even in several provinces of the Füd-
In the French countryside, it is said that men go to bed when a child is born to them." In Orbigny's picturesque journey in South and North America, German translation by Diezmann, p. 27, it says at Treatise of the Dutch Guiana: "After a very strange in-
According to Dianian custom, the man must be ill when the woman gives birth.
Stand still, stay in the hammock and fast strictly. After thirty days
Then they lift him out of the hammock to whip him and give him
To put large ants on their arms. That's what some travelers tell us;
According to others, the inexplicable ceremony only lasts three days." That The man had to pretend to be the new mother himself, is probably only a false understanding and brings with it one of the most serious meanings
The ceremony was made entirely ridiculous.

59

Cabega de Vaca l is told by the Maregmees that they

the custom of having their own children in certain dreams to kill, but as for the daughters, to kill them immediately after the
To let puppies eat after giving birth. The latter would also be done by...
The Yguazes; yes, they also killed their sons. (Woody)
If they wanted to marry, they bought wives from their enemies.
the; just so they bought them too. the sons of other peoples tribes 1). It is hard to believe such things;
But we are standing here in a realm of human delusion.
sense, which has created so much that is impossible to believe would be true, if it were not unfortunately all too certain and historical.
which would undoubtedly be true. Similar phenomena are encountered.
in Australian history: child murder, child sacrifice and that infamous order brotherhood of the Arreoyo, Arreois or Erredes on the South Sea Islands, of which Cook, Foresters and others report, and in which cases it was law, to kill every newborn child, so that whoever in this Ge-

Society let even one of his children live, the lost his rank and privileges and was expelled from the order. was pushed). That Abraham was such a sacrificer of all his children was, whose last he only — as departing Arreoy, one might say — kept alive in order to prosper his lineage. We probably found what we were looking for above. From that A. v. Chamisso reports on the child murders that were common at Radack. The following: "Each mother is only allowed to raise three children, that's..."

1) Ternauro-Compans, America, fine discovery and fine prehistory, Deutsch von Alvensleben, Meissen 1839, Vol. 4, pp. 217 f.

2) Cook's third and last voyage, translated by Wetzel, Anspach 1789, Vol. 3, pp. 43 ff. Missionary journey to the southern Pacific Sea under James Wilson, Vienna 1801, pp. 525 and 34: "An uncle of King Pomare had killed eight children to gain a fine rank as "To bechhupten Arreoi." Cf. Basel Missionary Magazine, year gang 1832, p. 173, where an islander committed the crime against four children a murder was lamented. The year 1827, p. 206, describes "the terrible Arreoi-Society" "For a pagan / with mysteries very bound Inquisition" court declared. u

wJ

60.

fourth and the following should be buried alive by her own hand. ben. An implanted rod with ring-shaped incisions! (refers to the grave of the children who were not allowed to live). Due to "urgent lack and infertility of the earth", As can be found, this law explains itself most clearly. sufficient; for why that purely superfluous cruelty, that The mother herself must bury the child alive? It lies rather the comparison with the Phoenician child sacrifices near, at which the mother herself had to be present and was not allowed to express any expression of pain 2). Also ancient Arabia, as it existed before Muhammad's religious revolution. The tongue was, offers some remarkable hints. The The Quran often refers to these phenomena. For example, it says

It says at one point: "The idols of the Meccans have: they are all..."
 leads to killing their children and abandoning their religion to make this boy's piece." And on another:
 "When an Arab hears that a daughter has been born to him, he..."
 Sadness turns his face black; this news
 It seems to him such a dishonorable evil that he seeks refuge from no one will see it, and it is doubtful whether he will.
 to keep his daughter, born to him, to his dishonor, or in the
 "They should dig in the earth." The pagan Arabs cultivate the home escorted bride with the. To greet her with shouts: »May you To be happy is to bear only boys, not daughters? Special
 This is the case with some tribes, such as the Kendah tribe,

1) Chamisso's works, 2. BS 235. O, v., Kotzebue, Discovery reise in die Südsee und nach der ger ee RAN 3. Bd.
 p. 119. ee ee

2) be de superstit., 13, from the; BEER 7 RE NOEN
 Those who were childless used to buy children from the poor and to slaughter; the mother stood by, without shedding her tears.
 to shed a tear or let a sigh be heard; but she let to notice only a sigh or a tear, that was it. The money was lost.
 Loren and the child were sacrificed, the less so; to the image
 Around the column of the god, everything was full of the noise of flute playing and the Drumming, so that the screaming and wailing could not be heard."

61

The birth of a daughter was considered a true misfortune.
 to keep, so that such a child is not infrequently driven by the Temple leaders sacrificed to idols or buried alive
 was. This is probably related to the Hebrew form of denigration.
 and cursing of the woman, as one of the Semitic Mo hole=Jehovah= Saturn especially hostile and hated Essence, together. As for the sacrifice of the sons, Even the family of the Arab prophet shows a [characteristic] boasted, with Abraham's offering of his son to Victims compiled example; for Muhammad's Grandfather Abdalmutaleb is said to have made a vow to in the event that he discovers the holy well Semsem

would be to sacrifice one out of ten sons, according to Fulfillment of his wish, but struck by the luck of the draw a son of Abdullah, the father of the Prophet, through a (Sacrifices of a hundred camels have been solved).

With that strangling of all firstborn in Egypt
through. Jehovah links the biblical account of two things.
Firstly, Jehovah's saying: "All firstborn are mine", and the commandment to consecrate all firstborn children to him, secondly the insertion of the Passover. This connection raises questions about the latter.
There is a great light. For the Passover sacrifice is certain.
originally nothing other than a large child sacrifice festival of the ancient Hebrews, with all firstborn being devoted to Jehovah were killed as victims, and these terrible people
The sacrifice later became an animal sacrifice, the slaughter of the Paffah=Lamms transformed, to whom the Be= also continually
The interpretation of a sacrifice offered to Jehovah remained, for Na, it was called a sacrifice; the animal's blood was caught by the priest and poured out at the altar or
The three and the pieces of it were placed on the altar

2 on

37 Quran, Surah VI, XVI and XLIII, pp. 113, 216 and 496
Translation of election with the grade i at the last mentioned place, cf. that p. 442, note 2, p. 668, note p and introduction, p. XIII.

625

and were burned). Passover was a night celebration, because it is the light-hating god of night and darkness
was valid; therefore, the Passover lamb should still be slaughtered.
between evening, as Luther translates, Hebrew denden ya,
between the two evenings, a long-standing tradition tiger expression, partly understood from the time when the
The sun begins to tilt, until it actually sets, partly from the time between the sun disappearing under the horizon until the sky darkened.
Abraham, too, sacrifices his covenant offering at his downfall.
the sun and as darkness approaches, and

As it became completely dark, the god appeared and left.
 through the offerings. As an annual recurrence
 The Passover celebration is compared to the annual one.
 brought child sacrifice festivals of the Phoenicians, from which Eusebius reports 2). That the Passover lamb was eaten and for Family meals served, suggests that with the child, at whose place it took, was once handled in the same way, just as the commandment that no bone of the animal should be broken was permitted to ensure that the same applied to the child.
 were considered, in that the bones of the in fine completeness to be found were a holding part of the god who offered him as a sacrifice had to be burned 3). Thus the Cheremises the
 The custom was to burn only the bones of the victim.
 to consume the rest; so too did the Votyaks, who ate the meat to eat the sacrificial animals themselves, the greater part of the bones but and burn the fat that has filled the stomach with blood nen Y. On BEE victims of the * also the m ———TL—— 0 N RE .

N Verg. Winer, bibl. Realwörterbuch II, 234.

2) Eusebius. Or. de laud. Constantini, c. 13. 'Koorw veg. Domnes x08? Exuorov erog Edvoy Ta d avv, A MovoyEvm o TERIAM.

3) The legs of the Passover lamb were also brought onto the table and were but on the 16th of Nisan with ben, Ware ASt edible ee burned.
 Winer aa O.

4) Bastholm, News on the Knowledge of Man in Fine

63

—

from Prometheus, who dismembered a bull, the dismembered
 He puts the meat and entrails in a pile, and on a second one, the fat-covered bones, which the God preserves. There is also a lack of noticeable [unclear] in America and Australia.
 No worthy analogies. When describing an Indian

Regarding the sacrificial festivals in North America, Loskiel reports the following: "It is the law that everything destined for sacrifice must be from the It is consumed entirely by the guests. Some pour out the fat. The oldest men put something into the fire; the bones will be "burned." And in reference to another such festival: "The guests must eat the prepared bear meat clean." And in depicting a third: "The burning of the Knochen made the decision « 1). Also from the Passover lamb Nothing should be left over. Furthermore, one reads of to those Indians, that when they offered the firstfruits and not one of the man's bones was broken (should be?) and likewise the law applied on Otaheiti that not a single bone was broken of the person who was sacrificed. (should be broken). From this is the great, religious one.

wild and raw conditions, trans. by Wolf, Altona 1821, 4 vols., p. 219 and 221. Majer, mythol. Lexikon, 2 BS 556 f., where the word also appears Amin notices that during the priest's prayers, which turn towards the earth The inclined community of the Cheremis speaks.

1) Loskiel, Missionary History, Barby 1789, pp. 54, 55, 58.

2) 2 Moses. 12, 10. 3) Noah aa OS 38.

4) Missionary journey to the southern Pacific Ocean under James Wilson, Vienna 1801, p. 546. Cf. John Tanner's Memoirs of his thirty-year stay among the Indians of North America, over. by Andree, Leipzig, 1840, pp. 310 f. "At the Feast of the Naming" "Guests must eat everything that is put before them, no matter how much there is." "At a wartime feast, everything intended for the meal must be eaten completely." Nothing at all may remain. Great care is taken to ensure that... that not a single bone of the consumed animal is broken. The bones are tied together and hung on a tree. And p. 206: "The animal's bones were gutted and all laid in a pile, taking care that no one was left standing. The ziger broke; then they were taken to a safe place and so to recognize the historical context in which this Old Testament things are mentioned and in which it finally takes place.

It would be appropriate to address the ancient horror of the cinema.
sacrificial offerings and children's meals, with the collection of bones
For the god, even among us old fairy tales are still played and Play songs, e.g.

"My mother cooked me,

My father ate me,
My little sister sat under the table,
Die Knöchlein all' all' auflas —“

or, as I heard in Nuremberg:

— — — — — m — — — — ä —D2—

11

My little sister

Lift your legs,

Wrap it in a little cloth,

"Bury it under a linden tree" —
or, as in Goethe's Faust:

“My mother, the whore,”

The one who killed me,

My father, the rascal,

The one who ate me,

My little sister,

Hub on the leg',

Then I became a beautiful little forest bird" —)

such memories of old terrible people¹ and Child sacrifice cult in our house² and more children's fairy tales³ hung high so that neither dogs nor wolves could reach it;

for an animal bone offered as a sacrifice in this way may
"Under no circumstances should it be broken." That "purely eaten" likely refers to the all-consuming fire spirit, in whose honor feasting; cf. Loskiel aa OS 55: "The fourth sacrificial feast, in which the Indians eat all the prepared bear meat and Drinking fat like water is a fitting tribute to a certain gluttonous spirit.
held who cannot be satisfied."

1) Cf. Grimm, Children's and Household Tales, No. 47. "The Ma⁴ chandel⁵Boom" with the notes in 3. BS 79 f.

65

to appear well-behaved, cf. the above with regard to the daughter Jephtha's remarks and below about the ancient Hebrew oven⁶ service. Now, one would naturally believe that someone so extreme Abomination, like eating one's own children, is something else entirely.
human nature is not capable; but it is only too certain that that such things really happened in ancient times, and that especially in Palestine, for which we have a very decisive to have biblical testimony. "You hated the ancient inhabitants."
of your holy land, because they perform abominable works of sorcery and practiced sacrilegious customs, and as merciless children murderers, which sacrificial feasts of humans—
They considered flesh and blood to be shameful idolatry.
Initiates, and helpless children's souls choking parents, and wanted to destroy them through our fathers
* 6 1). Although everything here is quite cleanly done by Israel

1) The Chaldeans who roamed around during the Roman imperial period were reputed to have come from the blood and entrails of the guilty children prophesied, from the meat sacrificial meal⁷ ten held and from the evoked demon of the child over the To⁸ future would be taught, cf. Philostratus, Vita Apollon, VII. 20, VIII. 10. 12. f. 15. Clem. recogn. II. 13. III. 44. Cannibalistic sacrificial feasts were also common in India, hence Indian scriptures teach the practice, One should eat the flesh of animals, but not one's fellow human beings. consume; Bohlen, Ancient India I, p. 303. On the moral possibility. The capacity to eat one's own children, cf. what Humboldt said about America Canarian custom proves: Pedro de Gieca accuses the Indians of Darien, Uraba, Zenu (Sinu), Tatabe, the valleys of Nore and Guaca, the mountains of Abibe and Antioquia, the most gruesome man-eaters to be “. and assured that the natives of the valley of Nore They abducted women from neighboring tribes in order to first take those in this The connection produced children to consume and then the women themselves. Since he presupposes that one can think of such a hideous degeneration of human nature of a natural nature, which Colomb also claims to have noticed in the Antilles, Not believing it, he refers to the testimony of Juan de Vadillo, who had observed the same thing and was still alive in 1554, as the Pedro de Ciegça Chronica del Peru appeared in Belgium.” Alexander von Humboldt, Journey to the Equinoctial Regions of the New Continents, 6th part, second half, p. 61. Baumgarten, general history of

Daumer, Feuer and Moloch service. 5

wur

2

66

shifted the responsibility entirely onto the Canaanite tribes pushed; but that the Hebrews had once been no better than These people related by tribe and language, the prophecies tell us ten and other biblical writers were open enough. Thus it happens Jehovah's word to Ezekiel is as follows: "People Son, make known to Jerusalem the abominations you commit; and say: Thus The Lord Jehovah speaks to Jerusalem: Your origin and Your birth was in the land of the Canaanites, your father "an Amorite and your mother a Hittite," etc., where for also from the battles customary in Jerusalem of their own children and victims of their sons and daughter and of "the blood of fine sons, who gave it to fine abominable idols given « explicitly and repeatedly the speech is and under Furthermore, the following is added: "And your older

Your sister is Samaria, and your younger one Sodom. But you
 You did not walk in their ways, nor follow their abominations.
 You didn't do that, soon it was too little, you did that.
 worse than you in all your changes. Through Your sins, which you have practiced more horribly than they, appear (She is more just than you). According to another passage of the same.
 Israel received nothing from Egypt but idols as prophets.
 driven by service and child-sacrificing Molochism, and it is itself in relation to a better, post-exilic state
 In the future, the statement was made: "You will remember your Change and all your actions, by which you are confused
 You are unclean, and you will be disgusted with yourselves for everything.
 your evil deeds which you have committed 5). So on one third duck, where idolatry of Ohola's. and Sol, db Countries and peoples of America, 2nd ed., p. 152. "The old inhabitants led by Carthage, so often they went to war; their idol Chi appen with themselves, to whom they sacrificed their children at the beginning of a war, fadiche verbrauchen, und mit dem Blut das een * 4A! Ka
 1. Th. ©. 633. Ä
 1) Ezech. 16. 1 ff. v. 20 fv 55. 58 v 4. . 1
 2) Czech. 20, 4 ff. 43. N Zr

67

Samaria and Jerusalem, also extending to Egypt is brought back and both are referred to by name as follows will be tigt. "And Jehovah said to me: Son of man, Will you judge Ohola and Oholiba? Reveal to them their
 The horror that she committed adultery, and blood on her hands!
 that is, and that they committed adultery with their idols and even her children, whom she bore to me, gave to them as food consecrates. — — — — For when they consecrate their children to the Having slain idols, they came to my sanctuary on the same day.
 Days to desecrate it, and behold, this is what they have done.
 in my house «). Thus Pseudo-Jesus further calls out: »Enter her, sons of the sorceress, brood of the adulterer and the Whore! Who are you making fun of, who are you locking up?
 Open your mouth, stick out your tongue? Are you not children of the Repulsive, brood of lies, who have been kindled for the idols
 under every green tree, which the children slaughtered
 in the valleys, under the rocky gorges? 2) On the same

Cruelties of the Hebrews, who are related to others
The tribes of Canaan refer to their communal cult.
Passages in the Psalms: "They did not destroy the nations,
and mingled with them and learned their deeds; they
They served their idols and sacrificed their sons and Daughters to the idols and shed innocent blood, their Sons and daughters, blood which they sacrificed to the idols of Canaan= ten, that the land was defiled by blood « 3). Thus
There is also a lack of references to the people who were reprimanded.
sacrifices, associated sacrificial meals and pleasures of people= Blood and human flesh not. "I will not give their money."
the one of blood — Jehovah is my cup portion," he boasts (a reformatory-Jehovahistic psalmist), and Ezekiel

1) Ezech. 23. 1 ff. v. 36 ff. 2) Jef. 57. 3 ff. 3) Pf. 106. 34 ff.

4 Pf. 16, A ff. It can be seen here in that blood cup of Ma=

Think of stusius in Greek legend. Demipphon, King of Plagusa,

He sent to Delphi during a plague raging in his country and

He received the reply that he should sacrifice a noble virgin every year.

5 *

68

says: "Thus says the Lord Jehovah: You have an effect with the blood and lift up your eyes to your idols and shed Blood! «) — »And you, son of man, will you judge the City of blood guilt? Tell her all her atrocities and Say: Thus says the Lord Jehovah: City of blood
You pour out your burdens in your midst and make idols your deities.
"uncleanliness" — — — — "eating on the mountains" Sacrificial flesh within you, they commit crimes in your midst « 2). —
"Such a person is righteous, not a victim on the mountains."
meat iffet « 3). — "Hear the word of Jehovah, you mountains Israel! Thus says the Lord Jehovah: Because they speak to you= chen: »» You have devoured people and your people are childless
"made," therefore you should no longer eat people and “Do not make your people childless again,” says the Lord Jehova. And I don't want you to hear the smæ anymore

You shall not take the scorn of the peoples or the scorn of the nations.
You shall bear more, and you shall no longer leave your people childless.
"Do it," says the Lord Jehovah. And the word came to pass.
Jehovah came to me and said: Son of man! the house of Israel lived in his country and defiled it with his Change and through his deeds; like the impurity of a
His conduct before me was that of an unclean woman. And so he poured

He did this after the decision of the lot, but he left his own
Don't let your daughter get involved. The father, enraged by this, of a sacrificed
A maiden named Mastusius invited the king and his fine daughters to...
The victim killed the latter and handed their blood to the father in a cup.
dar; the king had him thrown into the sea along with the cup, which there= of the names of the Mastous, just as the port bears the name of the
The crater was received. The astronomers placed the crater under the stars.
Images on, Philarchus in Hyg. Poet. Astr., 2, 40. The Custom, 2
Plutarch mentions using blood for libations in Publicola, 4.
"A great, terrible oath was sworn, involving human blood."
used for libations and the entrails of the sacrificed person 1 should be.”

1) Ezech. 33. 25. 2) Ezech. 22, 2 ff. 9.

3) Ezek. 18:6. Compare vv. 11 and 15.

69

I vent my anger on her because of the blood she gave me.
shed in the land, and because they destroyed it through their idols
had been uncleaned «). |

How did these numerous, bitter complaints and pre-existence
Did the Old Testament writer cast the slightest doubt?
Incidentally, the situation in Israel looked exactly like this:
the surrounding related tribes? that here too
the cult consists especially in actual child sacrifices=
the children who were slaughtered as victims, just like that.
served in bloody sacrificial feasts, as in those from the Book of Wisdom concerning the cannibalistic mysteries of Canaan?

 Prohibitions on blood consumption in the law, on the other hand, can be so little entangled, as the prohibitions of the child protection found there¹ burning Moloch cult against the certainty that this
 The service, however, is the old, eighth national service of Israel.
 being; for these were evidently written very late, which in to eradicate rampant atrocities and barbarities²
 On the contrary, the prohibitions strongly testify to the contrary, when also finally destroyed, but which had previously taken place³
 the deeply ingrained custom of these things.

“You shall not eat blood in any of your dwellings — jeg⁴
 The soul that eats blood shall be exterminated from its land.
 People « 2). — “Everyone from the host of Israel and of the foreigners who are staying among them, the Anyone who eats blood, against such a bloodsucker I will bring my judgment.
 Behold, and purge him from among his people. — — — — —
 Therefore I say to the sons of Israel: No one among
 "You will spawn blood," etc., in a continuously emphatic manner.
 Repetition, so that partly of blood consumption by victims, partly
 The discussion revolves around drinking animal blood while hunting, and One can see how greedy the old Hebrew was for this pleasure.
 was because, when killing an animal, he immediately ate the still-warm part

1) Ezech. 36, 1st v. 13 - 18. 2) Leviticus. 7, 26 f.

70

drank his blood 1). “Only fast,” it says on a other places, “that you do not eat the blood, — you shall
 Do not eat it; pour it on the ground like water.
 You shall not eat it, so that you may be well and to your sons after you, if you do what is right in (in the eyes of Jehovah). What an overcoming it must be!
 so it cost the people to abstain from blood, Since such stricter measures were necessary! How difficult it must have been.
 to have become the reformatory legislators, with such Regulations that go against the nature of the people to penetrate, and how easily possible it is that such a thing could happen.
 deeply rooted customs were partially and secretly maintained despite the same! That one should consider the reformatory prophets, the who railed against national atrocities, but their hearing was ignored and unconcerned about their sermons and rebukes,

 as was the custom, their incessant Complaints about it. And here I cannot refrain from mentioning that to accuse Jews of ages
 think that they had in use, for their Passover sacrifice
 To slaughter Christian children with the blood of the sacrificed to bake their unleavened breads and to make their festival wine to mix, even to cut flesh from the still-living child and to suck the blood from the wounds, over which iron Menger and Hosmann a number of cases that occurred in the Orient and Occidental events are said to have occurred, collected).
 The ancient rumors that circulate about these horrors are

1) 3 Mos. 17:10-14.

2) Deut. 12, 23 ff. compare v. 16th c. 15, 23.

3) Eisenmenger, Discovered Judaism, Vol. 2, pp. 220 ff. Sigmund Hosmann, the Jewish heart that is difficult to convert, Zelle 1699, p. 90 — 132. Cf. Brothers Grimm, German Legends, Vol. 1, pp. 455 ff. The Missionary Wolf encountered the same tradition among Muslims in Persia.
 When one of these men once noticed that one of his children was missing, he blamed the Jews, having murdered the child and drunk its blood,
 See Basel Mission Magazine 1837, p. 598.

71

in our time, at the sudden disappearance of the priest
 Thomas received new inspiration in Damascus, and it have on this occasion public newspapers from the in The faith, widespread throughout Syria and the Levant, was spoken of.
 that the Jews received a so-called "complete" for their Passover menes Brod « with the blood of a stolen Christian child prepared, but at times when the Jews in Damascus were the year in question, 1840, a "completely perfect"
 To bend bread, for which it requires the blood of a slaughtered spirit—lichen needs, which the latter gives us that sacrificial death of Hebrews and other priests and priest-priests, of whom we above traded, may bring back to memory. The old,
 The eighth victims of this kind were members of their own tribe.

mes and their own religion, children and priests of the same
 The nation that made these sacrifices; we know, however, that with The time when the turning point came, strangers and enemies were used for this.
 use. Diodorus reports that the Carthaginians used the against Agathocles lost the battle to the wrath of their Moloch-Kronos attributed to him because they no longer gave him what they had given him in earlier times, their own noblest youth, but foreign youth, specially created for that purpose—bought and fattened boys and offered them as gifts; it was said that at the Investigation of some of the children whom the parents had set aside
 Children were found, and now Agathocles with his army Appearing before the walls of Carthage, the old custom was revived.
 to restore it and two hundred boys from sacrificed to the most distinguished nobility 1). A similar turn of phrase
 The matter may have taken place among the Hebrews, and Strangers may take the place of victims from their own tribe.
 He has been kicked. We have the crucifixion of a Carthaginian Priests remembered by his own father, in which the Be=

The interpretation of a victim is not to be underestimated. The cross=

But Jews should also consider their Passover victims.
 They served. According to an old message, they did in

1) Diod. XX, c. 14. Compare Lactant, inst. divinar. I. 1. c. 21.

72

Year 419 to Inmestar, a town in Syria between Chalcis and Antioch, a Christian boy to a (bound to a cross and beaten to death). This is how it is said in the
 In the year 1250, the Jews in Aragon also welcomed a boy.
 crucified and pierced with a spear). In Syracuse, on the other hand, they, as one reads, in the year 1113
 a live ram crucified 3), where again animal=

Sacrifice instead of human sacrifice. That, the early Christians meant,
 This was done to mock their religion; we, on the other hand,
 the free, purely historical standpoint on which we stand,
 may see in it the connection between Christianity and its Recognizing the Eucharist through ancient Hebrew Passover celebrations. Ancient Sacrificial practices are what everything depends on, and it It's simply a matter of having the correct understanding of nature.
 of the Hebrew Passover, the oldest style, as one of great men= namely, offering feasts, whereby one can do so in various ways

 He sacrificed people, whose flesh and blood were offered as holy sacrifices.
 grind and their unbroken bones for burning;
 sacrificial offerings were used. At this great festival of the ancient Moloch;
 It was probably Jehovah who also ensured that the princes and high priests sacrificed in ancient Hebrew, and therefore
 The Messiah of the Jewish-Christian Church also had to attend this event.
 Death of faith, whereby what was transformed into an animal sacrifice
 Passah referred to the significance of a great human sacrifice-was led. Jesus, according to well-known biblical and ecclesiastical conception in place of the Old Testament
 Passover lamb, and as such suffered on the 14th of Nisan Crucifixion; according to tradition, he was condemned to such a death.
 Not even a leg was broken 2). Of great peculiarity

1) Socrat. hist. eccl. 1. 7. c. 16.

2) Eisenmenger aa OS 220, according to Johannes a Lent de Pseudo-Messias, p. 33.

3) Hosmann aa OS 99, according to the Chronicon of John Bromide.

4) 1 Cor. 5, 7. John 19, 36. Winer, Realwordb. II. P. 239.

N 73

Is it that the custom of crucifixion, as a sacrificial hand-lung, which is also found in the ancient cult of America. The Tlascalans fastened the people destined for sacrifice to high and low crosses and shot arrows at them, or killed those who had been hanged there). The site, on where Jesus was supposedly crucified, the skull-place of Gol-Gotha was probably originally an old site for human sacrifice, where People were crucified, especially during Passover, and whose heads were preserved in a way that was customary in ancient Mexico
 That. There were buildings here where the heads of the sacrificed were kept.
 People, impaled on poles or attached to walls,
 a gruesome sight; the greatest of these gebaude, called Huitzompan, had the form of a ravenous shortest pyramid; one flies a staircase of thirty steps up to the surface, where large poles stood, through which had holes drilled from top to bottom; through these Holes ran from one tree to the next, small stones on which the heads were emblazoned. At every corner of the

 The house should have a tower built of heads and lime.
 have found. Some Spaniards brought numerous counterattacks.
 136,000 heads out 2). That one in Greek mythology the monster Kyknos, a son of Ares, which appears in a Passes of Thessaly, according to the story of the Stefichoros, the passing strangers, and cut them off cut off their heads to make a tem from their skulls for Ares to build a pel. Heracles fought with him, but Ares came.
 to help his son, and Heracles fled. Afterwards, he met He alone attacked Cyknus and killed him. 2) Probably a struggle between Hellenic humanity and Semitic barbarism,
 We will encounter similar things more often. For under the Ares, whose son is the Abominable One, is probably hiding.

1) Clavigero, History of Mexico, Leipzig 1789. Vol. 1, p. 395.

2) Ibid., 1st ed. p. 373.

3) Schol. Pind. Ol. 11, 19.

74

the Hebrew y, used by Jehovah, ariz, mighty, strong, terrible, as the name of this god in his ancient, pre-reformatory form, in which he made those terrible victims Heische))). That the Semites, the most fanatical and gray
 The most human sacrificers of antiquity, in that of their Tribes, which did not cease even in so-called exile, the Slaughtering one's own children, even in later times the ancient,
 deeply rooted custom not entirely abandoned, but the same one, since they were not allowed to do so publicly, they were recorded in secret and Driven on, it can only seem unbelievable to someone who has been with History and character of this tribe unknown, or blinded by any prejudice and subjective interest
 That is. The trial against the Jews in Damascus is indeed conducted in a very barbaric manner and the whole thing was last defeated in court; but that any

An atrocity has occurred, but that is not easily resolved.
 deny it, and even men have spoken out against it.
 testifies that the matter is entirely without hatred or passion, and formed even with the eyes of the opposing prejudice considered times past. A public newspaper in this
 The following was communicated regarding the relationship: "The superior of the Lazarists"
 The mission in Damascus, Tustet, has sent a letter to the General Plenipotentiary powerful Lazarists in Paris, Abbé Stephan, a A letter addressed, in which the bloody incidents in Damascus are described. The ver
 The author of this letter has reportedly been living in Damascus for 9 years.
 and is described as an understanding man; that he has no Hatred against the Jews is evident from his own words.
 first, he says, suspicion fell on a Jew who
 He had recently become involved with vaccinations.
 He was arrested and his apartment was searched; but since they Finding nothing, he let go again. Public opinion
 However, he referred to the Jews as perpetrators. He accused them of...

1) Cf. below on Phalaris as a Semitic W Upg.

75

She mentioned the human sacrifices and named various people, who disappeared from the Jewish quarter before Ibrahim Pasha's time, as well as others who barely escaped the fanaticism of the same have gone. Various attacks of this kind, although...
 Those who knew and proved had remained unpunished because individual Jews held the majority in the government. Initially
 This talk seemed so nonsensical to us that we shrugged our shoulders.
 They flinched and treated it like an Arabian Nights tale. When
 As it later spread, we tried to refute it.
 Almost all Europeans in Damascus tried to find those May to ridicule the situation; they supported themselves exceptionally well.
 that such things are not found in current education, even in the Orient too contrary. But finally we had to give our Phi However, give up on philosophy, because the truth arrived last.
 the day. Yes, dear friend, there really is still something like this here.
 Jews who have barbaric fanaticism, people to make sacrifices « 1). A handwritten one

Declaration by the person known as Mohamed Muslimani on Rabbi of Damascus, Moses Abu, who converted to Islam Afie states that the latter was involved in the sacrificial death of Father Thomas.
 were present when the blood of such sacrificial victims the Jews need to prepare their Easter bread, and that a separate Jewish book deals with these bloody things 2).
 The human remains discovered during the conducted investigation and pieces of the black cap with peculiar,
 The reddish-black border lends these statements an air of authenticity.
 pressure that is difficult to resist. Those bones have four European and seven Arab doctors for human recognized 3). One might feel inclined to do so, although to despair at the innocence of the Oriental Jews, but

1) Leipziger Allgemeine Zeitung of June 12, 1840, No. 164.

2) "The great trial against the Jews in Damascus for murder-dung of Father Thomas and fine servant there" from "+ 395, Augsburg 1841, p. 10, cf. p. 49.

3) Daf. p. 15, 49, 55, 71 f.

76

but to those of the Western, widespread among ourselves
 To believe in Jews; yet even in our century in
 In Germany, a case has occurred in which, according to Oertel's Presentation of the circumstances that did not make these Jews innocent-beings can be. Here the victim was a Christian boy, which, as is clear from the discovered corpse, blood was drawn from under the tongue 1). That it was a general
 It is the custom of Jews to wear bought or stolen items for their Passover.
 to torture and sacrifice children, and to drink their blood, but-
 To use for religious purposes, even several in Jews born and raised in Judaism claim 2). The Jews
 They refuse to accept the testimonies of the apostates; one
 But one must first consider that these, even if not in Faith and custom, but always Jews by descent remain, and no one willfully insults his origin;
 Secondly, one must know to what degree the

—

1) Oertel "What do the Jews believe?" Bamberg 1825, p. 133 ff.

2) Ibid., p. 128 f. Eisenmenger. II. p. 225. M. Raderi Bavaria sancta, 3rd part, pp. 172 and 179. Brentz, Jewish stripped snakes balg, o. 1. Wülfer, theriaca judaica ad examen revocata, Nuremb. 1681, in which work Brentzen, a baptized Jew, first in Nuremberg 1614, then the same printed text from 1680, where p. 5 Fol^o to read the following: "But if there is a Jewish woman who is of female descent If one cannot get rid of the burden and is in great distress, then one takes the rabbi or the chief Jew after him, called Barnus, a pure Hirschin takes a piece of parchment and writes three different slips of paper; the first one One is placed on her head, the other is given into her mouth, the third one in the right hand, and she will bear children. But what about that? It must be an ink so that these notes can be written, hold They were completely hidden; but I have known such things through true and credible testimony. There is a long story that the Jews sometimes bought or gave Christian children. stolen and tortured the same, with whose blood perhaps such notes were written^o written, which I know well, they do not consider it a sin, what They say they are against the Gentiles, that is, against the Christians, and that they are also against the Christians. It would be better to kill a Christian than to... The whole sex should be the devil's work, that which would come from him. come."

77

Jews who converted to Christianity, along with their native people sympathize, and with what fire and resentment they react against He tends to deny the accusations made against him. Therefore, if they nevertheless allow something so harmful, Therefore, one is justified in giving her statement the greatest attention. to give as a gift. That to the sacrifices of the Jewish fanatic. The blood that has flowed should be used, in particular, to relieve the pain. They serve to reduce births. The underlying reason is probably the The idea that in such things, the becoming of a human being Essence's distressing and dangerous needs, those nature^o and life-hostile power is at work, which is carried out through the blood of her to appease the sacrificed; cf. the narrative of the book Exodus, according to which Jehovah, who is about to lead Moses to be killed, by the blood of circumcision is confirmed). This also includes the old German legend of the "poor Henry, the leper, who according to the wise man Master of Salern only through the blood of one for him The sacrifice was to help the virgin. The place of the sacrifice The doctor takes over the priest's role here; the form of sacrifice is the cutting out of the still beating heart from the completely naked living beings; just like the old Mexican sacrificial custom 2)! The legend of Duke Arthur's wife Hirlanda be- characterizes this method of curing leprosy as a Jewish tradition. discovery. A Jew advises the leper King Richard in England, seeking liberation from its horrific, through no other means of curing the disease in the fresh Blood of a newborn, unbaptized child from Fürth- to bathe the same stem, and moreover its heart still warm and raw, just as it was taken from the body, to consume 3). The sacrifice of princely children was also Semitic antiquity for the most powerful and among the

1) Exodus 4:24 ff.

2) Clavigero, History of Mexico. Vol. 1, p. 389.

3) Folklore of Marbach, Leipzig 1841, No. 21, p. 1ff.

78

One of the accusations leveled against the Jews is that They abducted Christian children, slashing their bodies open and (Tearing out of the heart sacrificed). Travelers from Greece- The country and Turkey assured me that it was the case among the Greeks. and Turks the general belief that the Jews in the Ge- needed to fatten stolen children for forty days, to then draw all their blood and use it for the purpose of To distribute the mixture with the unleavened bread, where again an analogy between Sfrael and America- falls. To feed the people destined to be victims and to fatten was a custom of the inhabitants of New Spain 2). and even Münter compares it to that of the Carthaginians, who

(to fatten up boys destined for sacrifice). Thus they fattened the old inhabitants of Haiti the captured children of (Enemies to be devoured). A similar situation was also formerly found in Northern Europe among the Esthenes, who belong to the god Thor to slaughter stolen and fattened children and their bodies which they used to use for a sacrificial meal. Read the following in more detail: »Thor's veneration was among Terrible, worrying circumstances. They then gathered. The priests held a council and often recognized, that the best means of appeasing their angry God was that Battles of chosen boys. These were fought by the Residents of the island of Ösel were robbed on foreign coasts. and well-fed. Once the unfortunate ones had been slaughtered, sacrificed and their entrails given to the birds of prey, So they roasted the bodies and ate them in the style of the Ka-raiben « 5), The following is reported of the same people:

1) Eisenmenger, IS 162.

i 2) Clavigero. aa OS 393. Gemelli Carreri, Giro del W Venice. 1728, after which Cortez, when he entered Tlascala in 1519, this custom was found. 3) Münter, Religion of the Carthaginians, p. 19.

4) Baumgarten, History of the countries and peoples in America. 2nd ed. p. 629.

5) Kohl, the German-Russian Baltic provinces, Dresden and Leipzig 1841, 2nd ed. p. 276.

79

"They often secretly take a small bottle of brandy." to the church, so that it may be sanctified; it is afterwards against They are effective against many diseases. Likewise, they seek something out. to obtain some of the wine and bread of the Eucharist, in order to in a hundred cases. to be used as a cure « 1) — a Superstition, which was transmitted from paganism and combined with to be connected with the Jewish blood customs in question It seems that in the converts' imagination, the The consumption of bread replaces the ancient pagan sacrificial feast— of and wine as of the flesh and blood of Christ in

The Eucharist was celebrated. According to Josephus contra Apionem II. preserved narrative, Antiochus found in the temple in Jerusalem a person who has a table laden with various dishes. A table was set up, and one who said he was a Greek, was captured by the Jews and taken into the temple. The temple has been closed, and I will be well fed there with all kinds of food. I will be nourished. This was done, however, according to Jewish custom. After which a captured foreigner destined to be a victim was fattened up in the temple for a whole year, then with certain sacrifices were offered during ceremonies and parts were consumed. Should now this old story is also based on mere lies and malice. These are based on fiction, like everything of that kind that has so many and so diverse voices from different eras and nations against the Jews testify, so it is highly strange that also this lie again in a very specific analogy to Aztec sacrificial practices. For here prisoners were sacrificed, who were to fall victim to the gods Tezeatlipoca and Huitzilopochtli. They should be selected a whole year in advance, and by one of them. It is said that he was given magnificent meals. the. 2). But what finally puts the matter on a firm footing. The basis is the fact already highlighted by Oertel. The matter, *. the rabbis considered the blood of the pagans pure

1) Kohl 2c. p. 279.

2) Clayigero, History of Mexico. 1st Th. p. 416 f. p. 419.

80

explained and thus, limiting the biblical prohibitions against bloodshed, to cannibalistic sacrificial practices and blood worship provide the necessary (Room saved).

Incidentally, I am far from being all living Jews. traditional ecclesiastical character without difference to men. to make sacrifice-hungry monsters. Remnants of the old Sacrificial atrocities can occur in various Jewish communities. preserved in different ways and to different degrees, to Part has withdrawn into a very deep mystery, from to which the vast majority of the Jewish population was completely excluded. ward, partly already completely disappeared. Eng Lish sheets have excerpts from a modern Greek work given, which was written in Moldovan in 1803¹. They wrote finely, and the Islamic legal scholar Haham, who converted to Christianity in his 38th year and later became a monk was, should have been the author. In this it is assured that such murders, as occurred in Damascus, however among the Jews it is prescribed that this secret not written down and not known to everyone, son² who of the wise only revealed it to one of their sons will be allowed; he himself had learned it from his father 2). In this way it is easily possible that the majority the Jews know nothing at all about this evil entity and is able to sincerely express a decisive disgust with it, while the nation nevertheless secretly with people³ sacrificial atrocities and the associated superstitions. Even in individual cases, the Jews often enough may do without He was accused and persecuted for this reason. That proves it. but nothing against the correctness of the matter in general; But it is decreed that those living among Christians and Muslims Jews were completely innocent of the crimes committed against them. those burdened everywhere throughout Asia and Europe

1) Oertel, aa OS 130. Mischnah Th. 6. Cap. 7. Abth. 2.

2) Kesselring Village Newspaper of June 8, 1840, No. 128.

Misdeeds always remained. The underlying traditions. important, in that they refer to the biblical authors themselves attested barbarities and cannibalisms of the Hebrew Al⁴ to reject prejudice and help bring it to light. Be⁵ especially important is that those legends and sayings complain so definitely and explicitly to the Jewish Passover tie and turn this into a human and child sacrifice festival to stamp what is characterized by the hatred of Jews among Christians and the A tendency to blame them severely, not can be sufficiently explained, but our assertion is confirmed⁶ that the Passover really once included such a sacrificial feast with It was a sacrifice of people, especially children. Further confirmation of this claim can be found in the following:

to use very striking American analogies. At the Peruvian festival of Citu, whose preparation includes Seclusion and strict fasting were part of the ritual; at night the Brod Cancu prepared a dish of two kinds. Among them, Blood was mixed into the dough of one of these types of bread, that one should give to children, especially boys aged 5 and up — 10 years, tapped. So just like after those Do the Jews say their unleavened Passover bread, their so— They called it preparing perfect bread, with children Blood! With that blood-dough the front door was further rubbed, just like the Jews with the blood of the Passover— Lamms painted the front doors. Finally, a A type of Passover lamb was eaten, prepared in a similar way to... the Jews, who take the place of the original child sacrifice— ten seems to have, however, that the latter is still in the ab— tapping children's blood for the purpose of that nightly feasting Bakery was hinted at and remained somewhat unchanged. A large number of sheep were sacrificed, their blood and Entrails thrown into the sacrificial fire, the meat roasted, distributed among those present and consumed publicly I). The

1) Garcilasso de la Vega, histoires des Yocas, I. VII. ch. 6 f.
Daumer, Fire: and Moloch Service. 6

82

Hebrew and Peruvian smearing of the doors with blood or bloody dough corresponds to hanging in ancient Mexico blood-stained iris leaves on the doors to Signs of completed penance, which consisted of the fact that one drew blood from various parts of the body 1). Here But people and especially children were also continually the sacrificed, the door cornice of the temple with the Smeared with the blood of the sacrificed, and the flesh of the— partly consumed themselves 25. Torquemada claims it would be twenty annually in Mexico, in addition to the other victims (thousands of children were slaughtered), and even Clavigero fin Isn't it incredible that at least so many people are born every year? fchen in general throughout the entire kingdom had been sacrificed 5). If the Hebrew story tells us of monstrous, the Je hova tells of the animal slaughters organized as victims, how, that for the dedication of Solomon's Temple 22,000 rinds and 120,000 sheep were slaughtered 5), forbes In contrast, the story of Mexico from just such human slaughter, so that the number of people which were sacrificed at the dedication of the great temple of Mexico According to Torquemada, the number was 72,344, according to Andersen, it was 64,060. have amounted to fol. 6). And since Mexico, like America overmain, also so many striking analogies to the Religious customs of the Palestinians and their relatives ten peoples delivers, and the conditions in ancient Palestine with to have had the greatest similarity to those of Mexico It seems, therefore the question is whether it might not be at the inauguration of the fa-

Majer's mythological lexicon, Weimar 1803, 1st BS 388 ff., cf. p. 396. f. E general history of the countries and , of America, 2nd part. p. 232 f.

1) Clavigero, History of Mexico, 111 p. 414

2) That. P. 390. 3) Monarch. Ind. I. 7. c. 21.

4) Clavigero, aa OS 393.

5) 1 con. 8. 63. 2 Chron. 7, 5.

6) Clavigero, aa O., p. 288.

83 approached the Lombard temple in a similar way as in the case of the Mexican, so that a later, the old horrors A concealing hand was used instead of human sacrifices; animal sacrifices were offered. The same can be assumed if, during transport of the The Ark of the Covenant under David always after six steps, which the Carriers have done, a cow and a fattened calf fall victim, and so the whole path is marked by blood and death. The same would probably still have been too poor to be used at on an extraordinary occasion to please a god which, according to the facts we have gathered here and

Traces of the original, pre-Reformation God of the ancients Hebrews were. That the ancients, with Phoenicians and Hebrews a Carthaginian tribe, several of their Moloch
 It is known that hundreds of children were sacrificed at once, cf.
 above. In that distress caused by Agathocles, he contented himself the terrible religion of this people is not comparable to the aforementioned one.
 The sacrifice of two hundred boys from the noblest families,
 but three hundred more men also consecrated themselves voluntarily submitting to sacrificial death. From a great human and Child sacrifice festival, which Moses considered an Orthodox celebration of his Lord and God in contrast to the worship of the golden Calf, to which the quantity had fallen, arranged and by—
 I set, a passage in the Pentateuch tells us, where Moses speaks as follows: “Fill your hand to the Lord.”
 hova, yes, everyone (fill them) with his son and his Brother, meaning each one sacrifice a son and brother!))
 “To fill one’s hand to Jehovah” is, in fact, a Hebrew phrase.
 A saying meaning: offering gifts and sacrifices to Jehovah bring 2), and: “fill his hand to Jehovah with et=

which means: to offer him something, e.g., to fill a fine hand “53, with a bull 2). There in our place it says=

each filled his hand “hun Men, with fine son and

1) 2 Moses. 32, 29. 2) So 2 Chron. 29, 31 ff. 1 Chron. 29, 5.

3) 2 Chron. 13:9.

6 2

8⁴

“Brother, there is therefore no doubt that Moses had a general orders the slaughter of sons and brothers, just as The words "Let every dead person be" appear shortly before.
 a brother, and each one his friend, and each one his neighbor. And Levi's sons did according to the word.
 Moses's, and on that same day some of the people fell.
 three thousand men «). After this point, it seems the monstrous slaughter, the meaning of which was lacking for Jehovah=

not having ten victims; but firstly, we already have above
 I saw how the Pentateuch religious criminals were treated. Jehovah sacrifices, secondly, it seems here, as in many other places, that of the Pentateuch, the case being that the narrative from

is composed of several different representations, from one namely, who order a formal sacrifice, and from another, which orders a mere slaughter.

If now, as no one will deny anymore, the
not the use of his eyes conspired, the Hebrew Passah an original, only later into a mere animal victim transformed human and child sacrifice festival had been, fo:ent-
The question arises whether it can be determined when and by whom This transformation has been brought about. But that reveals itself through the Hebrew history books of the biblical
The collection stands out quite clearly. The kings Hisfia
Josiah and Josiah undertook and brought about this reform.
The former invites the entire people to a reformatory Passover.
one which was partly laughed at and mocked,
But that was from a large crowd of people in Jerusalem
2) is celebrated according to the will of the King.
It is noted that the passport has not been kept for a long time, as written 5), and since the time of the king Solomon, likewise it did not happen at Jeru (Salem). Then, under Sofia, a Ge suddenly appears.

“ 1) 2 Mos. 32, 27 f. 2) 2 Chron. 30, 1 ff.
3) That. v. 5. 4) That. v. 26. N

*

85

Book of rules, which dates back to the time of our fathers in Judaism's existing cult was considered disregarded and as one that was contrary to the Jewish faith.

hova rejects objectionable idolatry, whereupon this cult, including the Moloch service in the valley of Hinnom, abolished and a passport of the kind held as it is in the new—(Found book prescribed). It is added:
No, such a pass was not observed by the times of the judges and throughout the entire time

the kings of Sraael and the kings of Judah?) or: "no such thing has been held in Israel since the time of the prophet Samuel, and None of the kings of Sfraael had ever held such a thing—
 ten and the priests and Levites and all Judah
 and Israel and the inhabitants of Jerusalem not). It was therefore something completely new, unheard of, the—
 No one could recall anything like it. To do something so
 To impose something strange, something that never happened among the Hebrews, so long they had been ruled by judges and kings,
 That is, it had never happened at all; the invention was a-
 He enlisted the help of a law which was supposedly divine and of ancient Mosaic origin, and in which to read was what was done contrary to ancient custom.
 wanted to set. At that time, the legend of the end—
 exodus from Egypt and the Passover law given therein
 Jehovah has been given the gentle form in which he is now described in the book Exodus lies before us. The deception is evident; it—
 But that is so little to disgrace those reformers that one Rather, they should be valued and revered to the highest degree.
 must. Hezekiah's earlier attempt at reform was as quick as which had been thwarted; already his son Manasseh had set the plan.
 The abolished cult was reinstated. That the reforma-
 a civic party without any historical basis or legitimacy-

1) 2 con. 22, 8 ff. c. 23, 1 ff. 2 Chron. 34, 14 ff. c. 35, 1 ff.

2) 2 con. 23, 22. 3) 2 Chron. 35, 18.

86

gung was, and that Hezekiah's abolition of the previous:
 the previously introduced service as a pure innovation and as
 The destruction of the true, national Jehovah's cult was considered,
 This is revealed in the accusations made against this king:
 "He has the high places and altars of Jehovah, the God
 Israel's, broken off and therefore could not be derived from this fine National gods can no longer expect help in times of need 4).
 Under such circumstances, it was probably urgently necessary to shift to give the Reformation a historical basis, and so Was the reformatory law introduced under Josiah with the new Passover=Legend of the Book of Exodus to appear= brought, so that Josiah could say: "Hold the Passover to the Lord, to your God, as it is written * in this book of the (Federal 42). It's just a shame that Josiah, who was his equal, (should not have had full, legal piety) so unhappily it had to end; this was due to the opposing party surely for a divine judgment and a clear sign interpreted as divine disapproval, and therefore one may not care about it. It is less surprising that Josiah's son, Jehoahaz, also was a follower of the old orthodox cult.

We have yet to see that sophisticated form of Moloch= service, with burning the children in the arms of the ge= heated, glowing idols, to trade. The same one probably developed from an outwardly cruder, simpler version, according to which of the idols was a mere, formless oven, which only later developed into a metal statue. Both forms fan= which takes place in America. North American Indians commit, according to Loskiel, to the fire a sacrificial feast and to build in the sacrificial house a furnace that is heated, and in which twelve men crawling, enduring it as long as possible, and, if "They come out, lie unconscious for a while." – an unmistakable remnant of old, the fire and oven god K——

1) 2 con. 18, 22. 2) 2 Kings. 23, 21. 3) That. v. 25.

4) Loskiel, Missionary History, Barby 1789, p. 56.

87

—

Human sacrifices brought, so that one day there really were 12 men= a burned one, later only up to the specified amount Points exposed to the heat of the sacrificial oven. Traces of this Cultus have themselves survived among us in fairy tales and legends. and innocent children's games, in which an oven is worshipped, about which J. Grimm remarks the following: »How The Swedish people kneel before the Ugnhol, so it is in German Fairy tales and legends of the train, to kneel before the stove and to worship him, to receive; — it is the one from the ancient fire cult² leftover, misunderstood formula and form «). One has to kneel in front of the stove in children's games and ask: "Lie³ By the oven, I worship you," — to which an arbitrary rhyme follows, like: "Be my dear godfather." In a The old amusing game goes: "Come, let's go in front of the oven." kneel, perhaps the gods will hear our prayer « 2). It is There is also a fairy tale in which a virgin to marry an iron furnace, i.e. to be sacrificed to it (fol). In a Christian legend, there is a story about a Jew fine own child, because it participated in a communion-men, a fine god throws into a heated oven as a sacrifice, and in the new testament there are passages where hell, in even more a very clear connection with ancient oven cults, when the A sacrificial furnace appears, into which criminals and enemies of Jehovah are brought.

1) Grimm, German Mythology, p. 359.

2) The Life and Death of Honest Woman Schlampampe, Leipzig 1696 and 1750, Act 8, Scene 8.

3) Grimm, Children's and Household Tales, No. 127. Grimm leads the iron furnace back to the old iron furnace, fire furnace, fireplace, 3rd thl. p. 221. But perhaps the memory of the metal stove lies there— Do the idols of antiquity perish?

4) Bovius, Marian Treasure of Grace and Miracles, German by Banzau, Augsburg and Stadt am Hof 1737, Part 1, pp. 79 ff. Merk⁴ Worthy is the prayer placed in the mouth of the Jew: "God, let May this deed of mine please you, since I am today more than Abraham I did it myself, and not just wanted to and was close to it, my to kill a son, but to kill him out of zeal for your holy law "Thrown into this fire with my own hand."

be thrown 1). Let's go to the Old Testament

rußk, fo we encounter not only the story of the bren

end of the fiery furnace, in which Nebuchadnezzar was the despiser nes Idenes throws), but traces of are also found.

an ancient Hebrew veneration of the oven or oven god.

The oven in which David sacrifices his enemies — the oven pressure is warning from the Moloch victims used, the edge gloffte giebt ov, brick kiln, the text pn = thy, "In,

Moloch 3) — I only touch the top here, closer down there which will be discussed later; but let us direct our attention

famity on a number of biblical proper names, which each

to bear not insignificant witness to veneration, info=

since it is a custom of old age already mentioned above

Thums was to look after the deities one worshipped.

to name. For example, the frequently occurring names Achijja.

and Achimelech. If one derives the common nx here, achi, von nx, ach, Bruder ab, fo erhalten man die Bedeutungun

gen: Brother of God, brother of the king — how the Names could be difficult to choose. But now, alas, that also means a fire pot for heating the rooms — and now the Matter clear. Oven of God and oven of the king.

(Melech, Molech, Moloch) are the names and refer hen sich auf den althebräischischen Ofen- und Molochdienst. So

Furthermore, Achindam, a female name meaning not brother,

but oven of splendor, of glory, of HI, Beautiful

heit, splendor, however one might also mm dyn, splendor of Jehovah's finds); fo Achitub, Oven of Majesty of dw, Beauty, Splendor, majesty, namely that of Jehovah himself ö); fo Adhitophel, oven of prayer, han = nden, prayer of dos, be ten, like dyn of vom. The name of the Moloch servant

1) Matthew 13:42 and 50, cf. Revelation John 19:20, c. 20:10.

2) Dan. 3:1 ff. Münster, Religion of the Babylonians, Copenhagen
1827, p. 71, f. 4

3) 2 Sat. 12, 31 4) Pf. 27, 4.

5) Exodus 33:19.

89

Königes Ahab means: The oven is father, just like Joab, Jehovah is father, insofar as father = Lord is; see the above in the treatise on Abraham's child-victim and his merging with the Phoenician Kro-Nos noticed. So too will God, with this the oven-God-designating ach exchanged, cf. Achieser, Eliezer; so also adon, Lord, cf. Achikam, Adonikam and Achiram, Adoniram. In America, one finds words that, similar to the Hebrew 'ach', meaning oven, meaning God, according to Ottom. oqha, Huron. ocki 1), compare the name of the evil spirit Okée, as his victim, according to a description by Lafitau, a number of Native American boys are being horribly mistreated, so that they partly die from it, partly through this operation-ferweihe sanctified, to priests and fortune tellers of the Indians be raised 2). Hindustani is ag, Nubian yag, Gypsy-nersprache jag, jak, jago, Feuer 3). But that the He-They baptize their god — not just a foreign, alien one Moloch idols, but their native, ancestral Jehovah Even — in the form of a heated oven, we know determined by that excavated place of genesis above, which this entire treatise has been based on, and to to whom we hereby return once more. Jehovah appears there to Abraham as a smoking furnace» sun) — just fo ist Rauchofen, ywy ud, the name of an old Hebrew city, which apparently originated from this oven cult has. Also in the description already mentioned above: "Smoke rises from fine. Nose and fire consume from fine Mouth, coals burn out of him «?) — is Jehovah still the Living ancient Moloch and oven god. The one who was sacrificed in

1) Father, Investigations on America, p. 195.

2) Baumgarten, op. cit. 1st volume. p. 134.

3) Grellmann, The Gypsies, Dessau and Leipzig 1783, p. 195

and 222.

0) 1 Mosh. 15, 17. 5) Pf. 18, 9. 2 Sam. 22, 9.

90

Gluth erected statue of the same, as it is in the valley of Hinnom at Jerusalem, as is well known, had a human form, but with The bull's head, cast from bronze, was of enormous size and hollow inside, the arms were designed to receive the sacrifice. Extended. That's how the rabbis describe them. The ones at Kar^o Thago, according to the accounts of the ancients, was also from metal and had stretched out his arms so that the one inside Children rolled down into the fiery abyss 1). The legend from the bull-man Minotaur on Crete, to whom the Athenianer those nine, or three, or annual tribute of young lingen and virgins delivered, just like the one from the bronze, also Tauros, bull, called Talos on Crete and Sardinia, glowing with fire, embraced the arrivals, Without a doubt, the same art and cultic practices are at play. Reasons. It follows the tradition of the rather^o nen bulls of the Phalaris, where the Semitic oven god the full— (has a bull-like shape?). One can in the name of that Ty^o rannen einen nur gr^oacisirten semitisch fürstentitel zu erkenn^o nen glauben, der aus ya, baal, Herr, und yw, ariz, m^oach^o tig, stuf, furchtbar, zumengesetzesatz. It could be this indef- sen also the name of his god, used by the tyrant His; Baal, Lord, is also the well-known name of God, and (Ariz is used by Jehovah). Therefore, when it says, Phalaris had his own children or the infants of Agrigentines, alive and whistled?), so one can here the child-eating Kronos of the Greeks, as well as the one with him fso seemingly identical Moloch-Baal of the Semites^o nen. And when one reads that Phalaris soon the boys devoured, soon used for lust, so is this religion^o gionssph^ore eigene Darstellungsweg des Cultus zu ber^ockfich^o

1) Cf. Munter, Religion of the Carthaginians, Copenhagen 1821, pp. 9 f. Böttiger, Ideas on the Mythology of Art, Dresden and Leipzig 1826, p. 372 et seq. 377, ff. Winer, Realwortb. Artic. Molech. |

2) Böttiger, op. cit., p. 359. 3) Jer. 20, 11.

4) Böttiger, ibid., p. 384.

91

tigen, according to which the god, to which human sacrifices fell, to this in the relationship of suitor, groom and husband
st. I want to consider this with regard to the one to be illuminated here. Objects, so of the most important point now a detailed subject to consideration. From the marriage of the op= Distant Dido with the Phoenician Hades, Shicha or Si=
chæus, the marriage kiss, through which, according to Jewish tradition, Say Moses, Aaron and Miriam died, the East Indian verse Meal of a virgin left to be devoured with the cro= kodill, the Germanic fairy tale tradition, that a monster or an iron stove, a girl who demands to be a bride or wife, is It's already been mentioned. The legend probably belongs to it as well. from the virgin Aspalis to Melite in Phthia, which the Tyrant Tartarus (who was besold to Tartarus); in German legend comes to Virgins as suitors or bridegroom » death incarnate « 2), and in an old German song the bride is described by the Bridegroom murdered before the altar o), in which one can easily the Connection with ancient, the god of death and the enigma
The sacrifices of virgins brought to ruin are revealed when one sees those is familiar with the representational methods of antiquity. In a very merf-worthy Silesian legend, which took place in the meadows of Kohlsdorf near Neisse, stops, the toad pond located here — a dark, stagnant water considered bottomless — inhabited nender, soon appearing as a toad, soon as a harp player an evil spirit appearing at a virgin's wedding, and attracts She descended into its depths. A man from Kohlsdorf, who came from Having come to distant lands, he sacrificed long ago to the
The demon of this pool burned his seven daughters.
lastly himself; every year the maw swallowed a cabbage=
village girls, and to put an end to the misery,
A priest ordered all the young people to go out and sift

1) Antonin. Lib. 13.

2) Brothers Grimm, German Legends, Berlin 1816, Part 1, pp. 173 ff.

3) The Boy's Wunderhorn, Heidelberg 1819, 1st volume. P. 117 ff.:
"The Horrible Wedding."

92

Avoid the dwelling place of the evil spirit for years, the children
But the daughters, in particular, went to the neighboring place
saffrons are distributed and should be performed in strict service
ten. But finally, after another seven years, it had to be another virgin to sacrifice herself, and with him as a suitor of the
The underworld was described as a daemon who surrounded it with a "sky-blue, David's gold-stringed harp enchants, dressed in coal black
To hold a wedding. The day appointed by the demon is the first.
May, which, however, went beyond the fifteenth.
It will happen. Tents will be set up in the meadows and people will celebrate in the
In the dark, without candles or lamps, an ancient pagan festival; here
At midnight the bride disappears into the abyss and on her wreath floats in the black water 1). That find very clear references to old human sacrifices with only a light veneer of the fairytale-like. Without a doubt, it was Every year in May, a virgin is sunk into that pool, which as the same marriage with the demon, whereby one who celebrated a nocturnal religious festival, which was associated with the old Hebrew Passover, also a nocturnal spring celebration with Child sacrifices, appear to be closely related. How The Silesian demon appears as a harpist, so Sweden
a water spirit named [name] who entices through musical art Strömkarl and a wise man of the Strömkarlslag, which belongs to the night:
spirit and his army belonged; in Norway the water beckons
The ghost Fossegrimm haunts people on quiet, dark evenings.
through his music 2). The once this dark water daemon
The human sacrifices brought by the victims also still live in the land.
The people's memory lives on. When people drown, so they say man? »the river spirit demands its annual sacrifice,« habit lich »an innocent child«, in which J. Grimm also the

1) Silesian Legends by Ladislaus Tarnowski. Brunswick
Morning newspaper, November 1840, No. 81 ff. |

2) Grimm, German Mythology, ©. 278.

3) Ibid. p. 279. Brothers Grimm, German Legends, Nos. 61 and 62.

93

Trace of ancient human sacrifices spotted 1). The same observer notes that
The water sprites possess a unique element of cruelty.
and bloodlust goes, which among demons of the mountains, forests and houses are not easily found 2). That can work wonders take, since otherwise water would be considered beneficial and healing-the same element has been worshipped '); but the idea of the evil demon of the waters, whose nature and character entirely that of a child-eating, life-hating Semitic
Moloch is, probably comes from harmful, greyish swamp waters,
Pools and chasms, as well as whirlpools and dangers-Lit areas of flowing waters, where many people tend to have accidents. It could happen just as easily as in the consuming flame, the evil principle to heap and fine
* to — appear. This is what the children's rhyme suggests.
Nothing in the pit,
You are a bad boy, etc.

cf. Mittellat, npccä, spectrum marinum in fluviis et stagnis, a form that fi) is related to the Danish nocke, nok, nope for nothing, water spirit is closing. The vita S. Sulpicii Bituricensis narrates: "Gurges quidam erat in Virisionensium situs agello aquarum mole copiosus, utpote da em onibus cons eg ratus, et si aliquis causa qualibet ingrederetur eundem, repente funibus daemonicis eircumplexus amittebat ie vitam" 4).ee Tiiberiensis

=

5 Grimm; German legends, p. 279. 20 That. p. 280.

3) See pp. 327 ff., p. 339, where the beautiful legend of Lake Eim is told.
and . 701, where, as already mentioned above, with the American "Girl in Green" and the waters sacred to the Bosnians in Africa-snake of assembled Swedish Agathodenia, one in the Holy-source lying white snake, the speech; Prichard, Egyptian Mythology by Haymann, Bonn 1837, p. 62 ff., and below about the Donkey and spring cult of antiquity. The Egyptian Osiris is Water and light, Nile and sun; the cult of those malevolent waters= Ghosts, however, are like that of Moloch and ancient Moloch. Israel's cult, a cult of night and darkness.

4) Grimm, German Mythology, p. 337.

94

told by a lake on a mountain in Catalonia: "in cujus summitate lacus est aquam continens subnigram et in fundo imperscrutabilem. Illie mansio fertur eat da em o-num ad modum palatii dilatata et janua clausa — in Jacum.
si quis aliquam lapideam aut alias solidam project mate-riam, statim, tanquam offensis daemonibus, tempestas erumpit." Whereupon the story of one of the water spirits began (abducted girl follows). From one for unfathomable
The lake in Switzerland, called Calandari, is described as follows:

"When stormy weather is present, it swells up."

In the middle of this lake, a tremendously large whirlpool arose, which as he grew, he roared so loudly that one could probably can hear for 6 hours. This lake has another one.
Another hidden characteristic is that he is the people who are involved sleep, pulls itself towards it." Whereupon the story of one of the See the swallowed woman. "There are still people alive, who also fell asleep by this lake, and when they awoke, already had their feet in the water « 2). In America
It is believed that the swirling Kenaway River is home to within him an evil spirit that will drive everything to the ground= (pull), and to the Egyptian, Typhon was not only the demon
the heat and drought and the scorching, fiery wind of desert, but also that of the barren sea, the rohre arouysrog, in contrast to Osiris, the genius of the (beneficial moisture and the fertilizing Nile). A
A curious feature of that Silesian tradition is also that They point to an immigration of the cult from afar.
It seems that he who sacrificed his daughters burned himself.
The Kohlsdorfer family comes from far and wide, from foreign lands.

- 1) Grimm, German Mythology, p. 337 f.
- 2) Scheuchzer, Natural History of Switzerland, Zurich 1706 — 1708, 1st part, p. 314.
- 3) Assall, News about the former inhabitants of America, Published by Mone, Heidelberg 1827, p. 106.
- 4) Prichard aa OS 66.

95

the name of the beautiful Zille, who must sacrifice herself, would like I almost sense something Semitic; compare, sunk who den, zula, mezula, mezola, depth, abyss, of sea and river. Zille probably referred to every boat intended for sinking in the mire destined bride of the abyss; cf. below about the name Hyacinthus. That the father of the seven sacrificed The fact that the 'ten virgins burn themselves is reminiscent of the one above guided Old Prussian tribal heroes and priest princes, who at her age, a sacrifice for the salvation of the people, herself burned. The father of the beautiful Zille, which was still there at the very end. Becoming prey to the abyss is called Sifemummel, which is related to the water lily, which is called water man and mummel !), to the West Prussian Watermoon 7, the child-stealing Rye aunt of the Altmark and Mark Brandenburg)), to the goblin names Mummhart, Mummanz, Mum mel and Mummelmann)), and to those bewitched by mermaids lived lakes that were reminiscent of the names Meumkeloch and Mummelsee lead 5). Plants have nothing also other names, such as Nymphae, Nirblum, etc., after the water sprite of the Lusatian Wends, who put people under Water draws, are the flowers and seed capsules of some Named reed; also from the Finnish Nækki, Estonian Nek, who lures people into the depths and has iron teeth, have Water plants the name 6). Si semummel therefore probably has the demon himself was called, and the sacrificing father was old. Custom named after his god. What the sound Sise concerns, fo is quite the same in sies ang, carmen lugubre, contained?). Of those spooky Mummelsee lakes, there is

- 1) Grimm, German Mythology, p. 276.
- 2) Grimm, aa OS 276.
- 3) Ibid., p. 269 f. Brothers Grimm, German Legends, No. 89. Cf. the child-stealing “underground women”, No. 90.
- 4) Grimm, German Mythology, p. 288, 513.
- 5) Daf. p. 276. German Legends, No. 59. 331.
- 6) Grimm, German Mythology, p. 276, 699. 7) Ibid., p. 628.

96 especially the one in the deep Murg valley with the ruins of the fortresses Seeburg and Schwarzkopf and the legends associated with them

Please note: Twelve people appear here on Fridays at midnight.
Nuns, in their midst a bleeding man, in whose body twelve daggers are stuck, as well as twelve completely black men^{er}ner, from whose bodies sparks flew and everywhere burning Flakes burst forth, a female creature creeps in their midst.
The figure. The nuns relate the legend to the Mummelsee!). Here twelve fire and twelve water stars appear. to have been worshipped as demons, so that one could see them as one Man, diefen, sacrificed a virgin, and on both sides
the sacrificed as the cacodaemonic courtship of this part female, partly male depicted evil beings gone^{er} give thought; the strikingly prominent number twelve er^{er} within the Hebrew importance of the same, which is also evident in the natives. America's finds. The fire which the
He is to be the grandfather of all the Native American nations of America, he gives the belief of the same twelve Manitos or fetishes in Y);
A sacrificial feast, already mentioned above, will be performed for him, where^{er} when one builds an oven, to which twelve poles are needed, each of which a special type of wood, taken, which with twelve is heated with glowing stones, and in which twelve men^{er}
ner kriechen, for wie auch zwölf Pfeifen Taback zur Opfer^{er}
The gift is poured onto the glowing stones 9). On

Other sacrificial ceremonies of the In~~r~~ are also conducted in a similar way. Indians described: "Twelve sticks are fastened in a circle."

The circle was rolled, each of which was dedicated to a god. is, the greatest »to the great God in heaven«); some Native Americans considered it necessary to cleanse themselves of sins. to let with twelve different sticks >);

- 1) Gebr. Grimm German e No. 331.
- 2) Loskiel, Missionary History, p. 55. 3) Dal; ©. 56.
- 4) Ibid., p. 566. 5) Ibid., p. 50.

97

It is also a custom of the Indians to make their altars out of twelve (to lay out stones), as it was done by the Hebrews. Shah 2); yes: there is even a tradition according to which all Native American tribes descended from a man who was twelve (He had 3 sons). But to get to the negative principle, as a pretend suitor, groom and husband of fine victims To return, the well-known bloody events also belong here. Bluebeard legends. "The Lord of the Murder Castle" is the god an ancient cult to which virgins were sacrificed, and "that Murder Castle: "the sanctuary in which these atrocities were committed practiced). A term used in the Middle Ages for secret courts: The first image was the so-called Jealous Virgin, which the had to embrace those destined for death, and those who were in the same situation this embrace by means of a certain mechanism the Death: there was. That was called the virgin kissing, of which The legend of Munich has been preserved, and I have no doubt that 'this! type of execution from an old victim~~r~~ entlus ftammte, in which the deity took the form of the boo~~r~~ dender il. Weibes chatte. „Dähin also points to the legend of the Miss von Spt, whom I only know from Rückert's poem: 9 The greetings to your Kynast « 0 know. The proud Frätti~~r~~ Lei" Wil only 9 def n ,fine "the, without falling, the wall~~r~~ Fand der Veste ürilfften; u; das: bringt viele Ritter zum Vernichtben; But she remains single and eventually becomes a woodworm. A picture that makes one want to kiss a stranger:

2 A picture) (anfflk: the hedgehog, covered with hedgehog skin,
2. Vin Fremder must kiss this when he watches the Kynast.

We bring it to him with kisses, and if he dreads it, .
ONLY he with E money can solve them, he went, not kisses the wire: u

: et Er bi, Ca . and 15. EN 247 77

1) Noah, proof that the Indians are the ver-Lornen Tribes of Israel are, Altona 1838, G

2) 2 Moses. 24, 4. Jof. 4. 8 2

3) Basel Mission Magazine 1834. p. 498.

4) Grimm, Children's and Household Tales No. 46, with the notes in the 3rd book, pp. 75 ff. Cf. Wunderhorn, Vol. 1, p. 284: "ulrich and Annchen."

Daumer, Fire: and Moloch Service. 12

98

It seems that strangers once fell victim here, and their death was seen as a marriage with the idol that they kissed had to. And their suitors too. Leading them to their doom.
The women Penelope and Sara in the Book of Tobias, f. An-section II. For further comparison and mutual explanation serve: the Venus Libitina and Epitymbia of the Romans and Greeks 1), the Lamiae, Empusae and Mormolyhkeien of the Greeks, who covetously lure beautiful young men to themselves in order to...
To consume meat Y, which refers to old, cannibalistic victimsschmause refers to, see above, our belly-cutting st:
distant: Bertha), the iron Karl on" iron nem horse, whose sight almost disembodies) who died Beloved five-eyed, and embracing Karl's) and ber iron Pandora of the Greeks, of which it is said 1.14
Quickly off the beaten track. Aided drove up through! The praising fire!
Unholy women full of horror, merciless and unapproachable: appearance; *

For the one form was el erhe, 7 ache de, Bade (Pandora kingdom is named). — 1
Regarding the biblical expression: Bhutbrdutigann 8 5018 Bezesch ö nung des durch die Beschmüdirn in, ein zmyftischfches Eheper Helping Jehovah. [The following appears to be a garbled string of characters and phrases, possibly related to a person or group, and is not translated: "helping Jehovah."]
The speech is fine. Also in Christianity Ae Ff passed over: in the Gospel I find that S id xom Baayz tigam and the virgins. N; the Apostle Paul says: I I have married you to one man, Christ, in order to... you en as pure age Haul b . and in the

after a song, the bride who prays
re * 1 4

- 1) Plutarch. Qu. On, 23. a te ee
- 2) Philostr. vit. Apollo. IV, 25. VIII, 9.
- 3) Grimm, German Legends. 1st part, p. 259. A) That. 2nd part, e. 113.
- 5) Daf. ©. 129. 6) Orph. Arg. 973. 7) Be 25, 4 f
- 8) 2 Cor. 11, 2, 9), Rev. * , right RE

99

Agnes!) and the recording immersed in this symbolism female Livable persons into the monastery association; such become brewers.
dedicated to the faithful and married of the Christian God; it Their hair will be cut off and placed on a victim plate carried to the altar; a shroud is placed over: fie." ge spreads; they are blessed as the dead; a new quem sung and the fo as if to the sper! The slain a crucifix was presented to her as her bridegroom to kiss 2).
The kiss, through which Christ himself is consecrated as a sacrifice in the Gospel, who so-called Judas kiss, like the one Achilles received from Deiphobos receives visitors while Paris stabs him, whereupon we
We will return to this in the appendix. At the same time, we will discuss this further here.
several old names, word forms and biblical passages into one to shine a new light; so seems the name of the Greek Hades and death god Arc, Ardys only another form and Pronunciation of rug, lover, too fine, and the same
The suggestive name David was probably originally a name of the God, after whom the Molochic king called himself; therefore for also the expression: "City of David" for Jerusalem actually wants to be as much a city of Moloch, whereby The names of this city were changed to City of the God Israel, the Lord of hosts, the great King of the Jews (Compare Hovav's 3). A passage in Pseudo-Isaiah states that recognize that the Hebrew idols are represented by the expressions non, Dearest, and Jan, husband Berg ran, wife) refers to 5 Cf. Rousseau y Pupuroiofen der Heiligen. anf a. . Main 1835. 1 vol. ©. 28.

2) Cf. Bettina's Diary, pp. 71 ff. of the 2nd ed. From Schiller's Knight Toggenburg, everyone remembers the words:
She whom you seek wears the veil,
She is the bride of heaven;
Yesterday was a day of celebration,
She trusted God.

3) Pf. 48, 2 fv 9.

100

were: » the idol builders find all vain and their loved ones They are of no use. — Who formed a god and cast a An image, that it is of no use? Behold, all his husbands will to shame («), where »the beloved ones they made!« — > the husbands he created « or idols so called to understand. David is also said to have ruled in Hebron, and This name, from the same root as the one just mentioned n, man gebildet, thut diesynesel Symbolik kund. Ein“ ande The name of the deep city was: vim Den, city of Arba. and here too the root offers vin, to lie, to mate, this meaning. The names go: thus presumably all to Canaanite Moloch service, and when Axba, the father of the Enakiten ig), as a historical person rzuifaffen ;: that's what he just did like David, he bore the name of his God! Indeed. socqyerhäft es sñich mit dem König Oeg:: Nur Og „ber König of Basan, was left over from the remnant of the giants, see), — Bette pon Eisen, stehet es nicht zu Rabba, im Landeszd Sons of Ammon: "nine cubits, a fine length, and four cubits."

Width, after: your elbow vleinesrMantesi?:« Y Og /a means oven, e.g., to bake, and this one: oven god / to whom one
He married people, i.e., he sacrificed / had an egg at Rabbah.
serves bed, into which one also the metal one Sol and the people who sacrificed to him, so that everything together was set in embers / and) the people were roasted were; to which interpretation diabolical nature. this Cultus and the whole context justify sufficient.
A peculiar superlative that occurs in several languages
einſtimg der Auspröcke für Ofen und Buhlfſchſchaft iſt hie
The leg is also not to be overlooked, cf. vs, ſübegit feminam, and wa, oven, lat. fornix, whorehouse and whore, fornicari, whores, rogvos, fornicators, furnus, fornus, fornax; Oven, Arabic 155, furnus, in quo panis, coquitur. Those who surround strangers
1) Isaiah 44:9 ff. N 7 ö

2) Jof. 14, 15. c. 15. 13. c. 11/21/3) 5 Mof. 3, 11.

101

Poor, fire-glowing bull idol of Crete and Sardinia, Called Tauros and Talos, in the latter name it meant the Groom, cf. day, marriageable girl, bride,
Latin talassus, talassio, talassius, apparently as a pre-existing name Bridegroom of the unfortunate woman he embraced. That he also in the legend of the Trojan woman-snatcher Paris (35, par, Taurus) such a sacrificial and matrimonial bull hides, who has the most famous beauty of Greece to Bride or sleeper, i.e., chosen as a victim, I will Explain in the appendix. It is the same one, as we see who the, quite clearly not only with the Cretan Taurus Talos and. Minotaur, with whom he also the apple, the symbol of the Love and marriage, have in common, but also with the great Troy's hoard, Apollo together with whom he wished
The role changes, and apparently in Troy was worshipped as a bull-headed Moloch, so that the Trojan Alexandros, to whom we therefore attribute his historical existence need not deny, as Paris received from his god the
It bore a name and therefore merged with him in the myth.
This terrible god, who already in his name (Ar ovvvv) and owl) the destroyer, like Jehovah Shaddai is, at Homer sends the plague into the Greek camp and the night immediately proceeds, indeed in the Homeric hymn at his invitation Triton frightened all the gods into the assembly of the gods, so that they jumped from their seats trembling, this terrible night. The God of destruction and terror is fundamentally not other than the Semitic Moloch-Jehovah, of whom cheerful, human genius of the Greeks only mitigated, debarbarized and gradually until that wonderfully magnificent work of art emerged "transfigured, in which one now of course no longer sees the old ugly one." He recognizes the monstrous creature he once was. But that he deep within his being truly the old, evil Saturn. The nature of the creature is strongly evidenced by the circumstances. From the fact that he, like that one and the one with Saturn in his root also identical Jehovah of the Hebrews, the seventh

102

The day was holy and its own), and like Saturn the children-devouring, Jehovah who strangled the firstborn and sacrificed demanding, and its female representation, the evil Lilith (Lilith), who is child-killing, so Apollo sends the Argives. a monster called Poñene, which steals children from mothers snatches it away until it slays Korobus 2). The Semitic Moloch In his ancient form as the child-eating Kronos, he was considered by the Greeks as fallen world rulers, in whose place the bright-niche Zeus entered, but in a transformed, rejuvenated and The corrupter also had a refined form in Hellenic times. Olympus took its place, as Phoebus Apollo, from whom — as once identical with Kronos — but the legend still exists received that he was smashed to death by Zeus and destroyed. (not been done). What concerns us here in particular, I find the Loves of this God, which have a very unique, enigmatic quality Have character. If Apollo, as Otf. Müller points out... The pure, chaste principle, which is hostile to nature, is emphasized. DoißBog, Fh %, ayvog is, fo ift er doch gleichgleich auch der loving, courting, but not really a friend-lichen and nature-loving, but in that inauthentic way- bad, negative meaning; for his love and lover- The shaft brings ruin and death. The beautiful Hyacinthus, God's favorite is struck down by him and killed — Thus Paris kills his favorite Antheus, — Leukothoe, Apol-

Ion's lover is buried alive in the earth by her father.
dug; so too do other children beloved by God go Ben and girls, such as Kyparissos, Leukates, Boline and Then below, and only from the meaning of this God,

1) Aeschyl. Sept. c. Theb. 806: — to the Εβδουος ò oewwos HHV ucyerceg avak Amo, Ee.

2) Paus. 1, 43. Coroebus must do penance for this and pay tribute to Apollo.
to build a temple — one of the ancient struggles of Hellenic humanity with Semitic Moloch service, several of which we will demonstrate.

3) Otrfr. Müller, Prolegomena to a scientific mythologique, Göttingen 1825, p. 307.

103

as a genius of death and destruction, and of fine love:
fschänken, as a former human sacrifice cult, it explains that those he desired would be so very distant from him—
sit down, flee his embrace, and in his artistic form
To prefer such a beautiful god to a human being. Daphne withdraws.
In Ovid's work, Cassandra is still described as a tree before his kisses.
resist him, since he intends to surprise them in the temple, or
She promises him she will give herself to him, but doesn't keep her word.
and Marpeff a scorns the one who woos and fights for her—the one, and chooses Idas. It is very strange that in the Myths of Hyacinthus and Cyparissus instead of Apollo,
They are also called Boreas and Zephyrus as lovers, since Semitic names are only translated into Hellenic forms here.
The shaped sounds of speech betrayed them. Compare with Boreas, Hebrew 1a.
boron, pit, grave, underworld, with Zephyros ax, zephira, Ruin, downfall, Arabic dex, to die, so one will die more—ken, that one can use the Greek name of a Semitic to do with the god of death, and that Boreas and Zephyrus actually only the one who loves to the detriment of beloved beings Apollo himself is found. That the myth of Hyacinthus based on ancient human sacrifice practices, several others still exist.
To recognize the circumstances. Pay particular attention to the name, which was probably once a common name for those dedicated to God,

at the festival called Hyakinthia, they were sacrificed
 According to Zille, as mentioned above, "Junglinge" was a name that referred to...
 Silesian demon prey on virgins. He actually belongs to a dark-colored flower, which is produced by the now so-called hyacinths are quite different, and are in ancient symbolism related to death and the underworld. By Kosmo= sandals or hyacinths of this kind were the wreaths—braided, which the boys wore during the Demeter festival procession Ethhoenia to Hermione were called), and Hyakinthides

1) Pausanias 2.35. Clymenus and his sister Chthonia shall
 They had founded the sanctuary of the goddess; she herself was called Ehthonia,

104

those Attic virgins who were “given an oracle’s pronouncement”
 Follow the tomb of the Cyclops. Geraeus sacrificed when in Wars with Minos, famine and plague. The city be= pressed; also called. Hyacinthus, a place where they, the daughters of Erechtheus, who was supposedly sacrificed when Athens was conquered by the Eleusinians and Thracians or from the Boatians with war was waged. Furthermore, the circumstance that the Base of the Apollo column at Amykla for: the tomb= Hyacinthus' meal (applied), on Mover's assumption he= inside, that the Moloch service in the golden shop of its Fire gods, the burned bones of sacrificed children at= (set). Pausanias also reports that one can see the Hya= Kinthien to Hyacinthus a heroic sacrifice into those, like a
 The altar-shaped base also alludes to this, although it is now only a reinterpreted remnant of the old Molochist Custom appears. From the statue of the Amyclaeon Apollo, who — gruesome enough, at least — stood on this grave, Pausanias says it is old and made without skill; for the face, the outermost parts of the feet and hands= taken, be it like a bronze pillar, have on your
 He wears a helmet and holds a spear and bow in his hands.
 So, no idea about the beautiful Hellenic art here yet.
 The form of the god, as if. Completely based on Molochic bull:
 form the name of Apollo Karneius (p, chald. maip, karna) suggests. The origin of the name is indeed unclear.

correctly interpreting. (him with the Greek word Kraneiaë, Cornelian trees, combining) legend is indeed noticeable through this= worthy that they were on a grove of Apollo at Troy= niche Ida traces back 9, and that at least in the Trojan

the underground one; Klymenos was the name of Hades, and a temple This Klymenos stood opposite that of Chthonia, which was Alles Pausa= as Nias communicates in the same chapter. Cf. Otrfr. Müller, Prolegomena, p. 243. f

1) Pausanias 3.1 and 19. 2) Movers, Phoenicians, Vol. 1, 356 ff.
3) Pausanias 3:13.

105

Cultus entirely the Semitic form with a bull's head, glowing
A metal statue ruled, bearing several famous names.
to recognize the royal family of Priam, as the Paris, Bull, whose brother Hector from the Hebrew... and Chald. Chek and Tor, Bull's Oven, and his son Kory= thos, from the Hebrew cor and ud, fiery furnace; cf. appendix.
Helen, abducted by the bull Paris, corresponds to the one from Bulls robbed Europe, a name that is probably also of Semitic origin, Beloved or bride meaning, Arabic 30, dilecta conjugii.
The Stiet appearing in the latter myth is said to be partly the ver= Zeus, partly a sent by Zeus, the so-called Fretifihe Stier gewefen fein, gegen whom Heracles marched).
The Minotaur, the bull-man, also lives in Crete and
The bridegroom's bull Talos Tauros, also plays the role of the courtesan here.
shaft of Pasiphae with the bull, and this bull of Pasi= phaë should also be the same again, against whom Heracles drew 2). The Minotaur is also called Asterion, and a Cretan King Asterios or Asterion, father of Crete, takes Europa, coming to Crete, to the woman. The Minotaur Theseus slays, and he also overcomes the Marathonian.
Bull. The Cretan Althamenes further adds to the Atabyrian
Zeus had a temple on Rhodes, and here on the atabyri=
In the mountains there are bronze cattle that bellow when Something extraordinary happens, which is reflected in an orafel- the metal bull idol. This is probably all merely a symbolic and mythical expression of Semitic-Molochi= sacrificial cult? . . and Zeus as the bull of Europa, the Bull of Pasiphae, the Cretan and Marathonian bull, Asterion and Asterios-Minotaur, Talos-Tauros and Zeus Atabyrios with the bronze cattle — they are all the same bull-shaped or bull-headed idol, against whose abomination Hellenic humanity fought. Another one here¹

* Four is in the . of which was by Heracles²

1) Apollod. 2, 5, 7. cf. 3, 1, 3 f. 2) Daf.

106

The forced, fire-breathing Cacus of Italy was given. The same hauf'te, like the Cretan Minotaur, in a kind of labyrinth³ rinth, the foreign river approaching the outflow of the Tiber⁴ Lingen's ruin is imminent:

There was once a cave there with a deep entrance.
Which the half-human Cacus inhabits, a horrible monstrosity;
The sun never shone into the crevice, and there was constant freshness.
Murder was indeed the reason; nailed to the infamous gate.
Floating were men's faces, bleached in grassy decay;
Zeuger was Vulkanus the monster, whose blackened Flames erupted from his mouth when he clumsily let one in.
hertrat).

Virgil calls this monstrosity a half-man, later⁵
a half-animal, whereby one can easily mistake the bull-man⁶
The Minotaur is reminiscent of the Minotaur. The last words of the woman—

1) Virg. Aen. 8, 192 ff. Ovid. Fast. 1, 551 ff. On the highest Mountains of the South Sea island of Rajatea is the Po, a mysterious, still unvisited cave, presumably the crater of a volcano, formed by underground passages are connected to a cave on the coast. A
An islander said that an evil spirit once haunted this place, which preyed on travelers. jumped out and dragged them into the fifth containers of the same, to consume them. He didn't dare go near the horror.
ortes; Basel Mission Magazine 1832, p. 275. Also, in this Cave an old, extremely cruel and hated king named Ta i he live, see there. This is one of Anderson's in Cook's third To compare the legend of Otaheiti, which was communicated during the journey of 1776– 1780, according to which two people named Taheei once lived on the island,

They lived in the mountains, killed and devoured the country dwellers, and who depopulated the island, but were finally killed by the fact that One heated stones, placed them in sourdough bread and fruit dough, and gave them then there was food. Doesn't that sound like the myth of the Child-eater Kronos, to whom Rhea gave a wrapped stone as a gift
Were loops enough? A woman associated with those Taheei had two Teeth of enormous size and was counted among the goddesses relocated. The name Taheei is actually used to refer to a cannibal.
draws, as well as a grim-looking animal with large tusks.
It is evident that Taihe or Taheei is the name of a type of Moloch and Minotaur of these islands was, and that sole with under-earthly passages, its labyrinth.

107

led place: magna se mole ferebat, seem to point to a to interpret the metallic colossus, and that it spewed fire, suggests a fire and furnace god, like Moloch and Talos,
however, those placed at the entrance to the sanctuary to notice human heads that are attached to the top above the skull
The place of Golgotha may be remembered. Here the people destined to be sacrificed before they were burned, probably first beheaded; in contrast, the Cretan Talos beheaded the living.
klammerte; for they had to endure those convulsive rage
They die with facial contortions, which are called the Sardinian ge—called laughter, f. below. "Strange," says Bottiger,
"The similarity also exists on old monuments in the Presentation of Cacus, slain by Heracles, and of the one by Theseus defeated the Minotaur. Antoninus Pius the liberation of the Evandrian colony on the Palatine Hill of Cacus to be depicted in a large bronze medal.
to let the slain Cacus emerge with half his body from the
The cave was dragged out to the feet of Heracles, whose Right-wingers and girls leaning on their clubs
To kiss, to make an effort. Who doesn't remember this?
Thanks of the Athenian girls and boys to Theseus, the Minotaur's slayer, in the Pitture d'Ercolano?" 1). If This Cacus had three heads and three fire-breathing mouths. have 2), so he appears to the one killed by Bellerophon three-headed, fire-breathing Chimaera, which the Hellene only through reinterpretation and transformation of a Semitic Name in das Griechische zur Ziege Keuuwipx, Xirapos ward. For it is obvious that the name Chimaera entered the Verwandtschaft von od, camar, entbrannt fein, son, im Tal mud anbrennen, n, chemar, flammable earth resin, As—asphalt, Jewish pitch, heard, and so we find it again here

1) Böttiger, Ideas on Art Mythology, pp. 387 ff., cf. via the very similar depiction of Theseus, p. 352.

2) Propertius 4, 9, 10, 15.

108

The Semitic trace in the language. Still noted that the phenomenon of Moloch service in the last discussed The shape was also found in America. Several hollow metal statues of immense size with outstretched and ge-folded hands and in these colossi the remains of burnt Human sacrifices were practiced by the earliest explorers of America. in the year 1518 on one of the islands of the 8 Sea-bussens saw, which they called Carolina 1).

That the human sacrifice service itself also in this developed form, as it was by the ancient Hebrews in the valley Hinnom was driven, to no other god than his own—nen, native, national Jehovah was considered, there is also a lack of information on this. It's not about testimonies. Jeremiah is vehemently opposed to the—He collected the bloody and gruesome sacrificial beings of his people; from He claims that Jehovah gave the body burnt and sacrificial offerings. Fathers of the people, since he led them out of Egypt, nothing offered 2), with which he all the many and extensive. Victims-laws of Jehovah, which the Pentateuch lays before us, It was declared negligent and fabricated. Soon after, it was also said of him. The speech concerns the Hebrew Molochism driven in the valley of Hinnom, and it is also claimed of this one that Jehovah I neither ordered nor wanted it. "The inhabitants

From Jerusalem, the hills of Topheth were built in the valley of the Hinnom's sons, to bring fire to their sons and daughters. burn what I (Jehovah) did not command, and what I did not occur to me (43). The same applies to another Passage: "They built * against Baal in * the sons

—

1) L. Vives ad Augustin. de civitate Dei l. WED. c. 19. Compare Tree~~g~~ garden, general history of the countries and peoples of America, 1st part. p. 646, where Grijalva encounters such horrors on two islands, on one, which he calls the sacrificial island, contains six corpses in monstrous statues. Wooden idols were found in the South Seas when they were destroyed. inside it a large number of bones of sacrificed people, Basel Mission Magazine 1832, p. 108.

2) Jer. 7:22. 3) Jer. 7:31.

109

Hinnoms, to sacrifice their sons and daughters to Moloch, what I didn't offer them and didn't even occur to me~~s~~ that one should commit such atrocities«). This negation~~s~~ and assurances that Jehovah did not make any of these victims Wanting to do something and not having ordered it would be superfluous and absurd, if they are not directed against a view existing in Israel would be those who affirmed what the Prophet denied. No one, as we already mentioned above in a similar passage from Micah notices, contradicts, and denies something that is completely untrue! and takes place; therefore, what Jeremiah denies must be true in Israel. have been valid; the people must have believed Jehovah himself demand such sacrifices as were made in the valley of Hinnom, This cult is a fine arrangement, a fine law; that one Bull-headed igloo-shaped metal idol! Can be considered a deity to Jehovah hostile, opposing beings were considered impossible to meet. fine, and if one believed it was Jehovah's will and law, on To burn children to this idol, so too probably for nothing other than a representation of Jehovah himself~~s~~

2) The names Baal, which denote the idol. and

Molech cannot put us in any embarrassment in this matter;
These are not foreign, non-Hebrew names; they belong to the people's own language, Lord God.
King significant; that Israel might have a Baal named, wife and we decided from a prophetic place 3), and how “come in the “writings that the

-

a: N 5 .. 24 '

2) — Hale, Religion of the Old Testament, Part 1, p. 355

“From the antithesis of Jeremiah (7:31, 19:5) one may perhaps conclude that the idolatrous people (the Molochist human sacrifices) with the Jehovah's Witnesses. knew how to unite it and in it: no direct ab=

"One should dare to speak firmly; for one
He has the right to do so! * I

3) Hosea 2:16-17, where at the same time the prophet's reluctance is mentioned.
The sentiment towards this name, and the tendency to abolish it, is expressed.

“There will come a time when Jehovah can no longer be called that,” yes.
I will never hear that name again.

110

Jews still use the term to refer to their God in the current excerpt.

print: King - King Jehovah - Jehovah, King of glory or majesty, before! So especially in the psalms, several of which begin with the exclamation: "Je hova ist Kings! immediately take their beginning); »The great “King's City” is Jerusalem in the same place?); also

The Jehovah of the prophets is considered a king without hesitation, great=

King, eternal king, King of Israel, King of the peoples designated?); Israel had as king in the theo= in a Catholic sense, actually. only Jehovah”), and if the Word form commonly used in the Bible, in which Jehovah is called King

That is, Melech is, the metal idol, but on whose glut=

He burned children in their arms, the exclusive

The name Molech leads to: forrft, which is just different.
 spoke one and the same word, as they often did otherwise.
 nug occurs: 5), and since the vowel signs of the Hebrew Writing, originally missing, so the whole difference is back= evident from ancient usage in Palestine and among the biblical-
 * 3. Moreover, very uncertain. But it can

. J J. 5, 3. 5 24, 7 9. N 46, 5. Pf. 47, 3. Pf. 98, 6
 Pf. 95, 1. Pf. 97, 1. Pf. 90, 4. Cf. Pf. 90, 10. Pf. 140, 10.

2) Pf. 48, 3.

3) Pseudo-Jesus 44, 6. or 52, 5th Sermon 10, 7 and 10. See 3, 15.

Malachi= 1, 14.

4) 1 Sam. 8:7, c. 12:12.

5) Compare, for example, Wie, omer and emer, word; wee, oscher and escher, luck; wa, bosem and besem, spice; dim, chosek and chesek, help; Vn, goschem and geschem, rain; en „ chozen and chezen, Busen; NDN, choseer and cheser, Mangel; ,pn, mothek and methek, Süß:gfeit; Wa, noscher und nescher, Unglück; 93d, sobel and sebel, Last; DSY, ozem and ezem, body; POY, omek and emek, Depth, That; into which series then also p, molech and melech belong.
 Those familiar with grammar are familiar with the so-called segolate forms.
 with a, e and o in the first syllable, one of which is p, is already be= knows.

111

One can assume that it was once already in Palestine and still in Pregnant Moloch services both forms in the manner side by side, that Molech, the older one, at the idol adhered and remained only in connection with the molochisti= fchen sacrificial cult received, while the other, the reformed= ten Jehovahism W r enn only Pre said.

The question now arises, where in the Bible and history of the Hebrews the first trace of the oven and Moloch service of the Breisgau people is to be found in this trained form. I have already seen them. in Genesis, specifically in the story of Abraham It covers. It is indeed only a single word, a mere name, whom I can invoke, but who appeared like a lightning bolt in the The whole gruesome secret was suddenly revealed that night. It is the name of the son whom Abraham goes to sacrifice. The name Ifa ak. We know, in fact, that one can through the Burn pain. Excited facial distortions, under which the people in the arms of that brazen, fire-glowing Talos on Crete and Sardinia die, the Sardinian G laughter called 1); now' is the name Isaac px» or "dw" is formed from pnx, Bw, which means laugh; and Thus, suddenly what was once so deeply concealed becomes clear: Is aak foilte laughter, like those victims of Talos, in or on the arms of the glowing metal statue, and the The name was initially not that of an individual, as such, son= dern a word of the Molochist Eultus language, which is to that terrible death laughter destined human sacrifice designated, in a similar way to how we described the names Zille above and were caused to barrel Kyparissos.

Now, consider the following connection. The The place where Abraham led his son to be sacrificed is the According to Genesis, a mountain "of the land of Moriah" or "of

2

1) Cf. Bbtttgers Sdeen zur Kunstmythologie, pp. 359, 378.

112

rij ja heit der fdr mit bent — 74 — * — Zion, hills of Jerusalem connected by a bridge 2), and :here the Temple of Solomon (Ordeis)=
 bau s': "And Solomon began to build the house of Jehovah."
 To Jerusalem, on Mount Moriah, David, be!
 a father, was shown, in the place that David had designated had on the threshing floor, 48 8, of the Febusite «). “Was, that one Mountain; and that region: M orijg, wg; b taham. feinen n. son led to where this d 85 death laughter, be ber Molorhopfer, laughter fonte, a 1 old 11 en; Moloch E Sehona holy. Territory with, a hol. and, Cultus det, b Man t, fo dra inge I suspect that. 'up. That 75 is probably the, e Dr. "po found the so-called threshing floor of Arnan or Arab, iener 19; e sacrificial plaza, of D Ovid, where Han Zurich, Mölochdi Eneri Sche Phoenicians fine, famous temple haute, nothing but a sanctuary and, spawning ground of the Nuloch, equal to Abraham's. been, and, that, also the famous Fin che temple, no landern god and cult dedicated. been, Those Phoenicians, £ aten a bref, religion fine-skinned. God, 7 would have, the refor 0 torüiche en, Jehovah “here Prophets mb, I “xeformatpri ifchen 6 gears, of Peytg Certainly, no temple, and not at all, Diefi em God was right and natural to remove such hated ones.

430

To have a pagan built for themselves, but we see

David and Solomon in. EN e. 97 zin. intimate Sreunbfcaft and “fraternization” And 5 to the H Hiram, the King we A ik 13'339 von, Tori, fine kne all ber n he had heard, that they anointed him to be 15 in his father's place; for Hiram was a friend, Dapips was always there. 72 and Hiram rejoiced and said: N. eprehen. O Jehovah 75 which; 'To David one, bah Höhn. given, 'over

1) 1 Moses. 22, 2. * 5 Arch. 15, 14.
3), 2 Chron. 3, 1. de Fe 2

113

this great people — “And there was peace between Hiram and Solomon, and they made a covenant with each other.

Whereby the recognition given to Jehovah by Hiram, which is not insignificant, but can easily be deduced from the given information¹ a historical point was explained. The documentary evidence of this Hiram's connection with Solomon is said to have occurred during the time of Josephus in the Tyrian archives 2).

That there is something uncanny about Solomon's Temple
There was something to it, and there is no shortage of other evidence to support that.
Thus, a reformation by King Asa is reported, including the bronze altar of burnt offering of Solomon's Temple which comes up in a mysterious way. "And Asa
He took courage and banished the monsters from the whole land.
Judah and Benjamin and from the cities he took from the mountains of Ephraim and renewed the altar of Jehovah—va's, which is in front of Jehovah's Hall). What should What does that mean? It refers to a restoration of the altar, as which has been removed, or a rededication of the same, as whom was used for idol worship, the speech? Since
But one should expect to read some of it or beforehand to have read what has happened in and with the Temple since Solomon Abusive and idolatrous practices were carried out; about this However, a deep silence prevails, and thus it gains the
It appears as if that altar itself, just as it was built by Solomon her existerte, in need of change and redesign² being. Was this bronze altar perhaps nothing other than that bronze idol of the Phoenician Moloch cult, which was quite possibly.
an altar. It could be called that because the children to be sacrificed were placed there.
who placed it in her outstretched, glowing arms?
Indeed, this idol appears to have existed from Solomon until Asa's
The Reformation stood untouched in the temple, and this only

1) 1 con. 5, 15, 21, 26; compare 2 Chron. 2, 2 ff.; 2 Sat. 5, 11 and others.

2) Joseph, ant. 8, 2. 8. Auditorium, 1. 17.

3) 2 Chron. 15:8.

Daumer, Fire: and Moloch Service. 8

an altar intended for animal sacrifices was placed in its place.

to have 1). But we find him in the temple under the mo-hole-servant Ahas again, who doesn't remove him, but gives him only another place 2). The matter is closer Ahaz saw an altar in Damascus that pleased him, and according to whose pattern he made one for the temple in Jerusalem.
He makes a change. To attach it, he makes a change.
change in the position of the so-called brazen or cup-distant altar and commands the priest Uria as follows: "Up at the great altar the morning sacrifice was offered, and the evening sacrifice was offered.
grain offering and the king's burnt offering and his food-sacrifices and all burnt offerings of the entire people of the land and their grain offerings and their drink offerings and all the blood of the fire-
You shall throw the victims and all the blood of other victims upon him, and because of the copper altar I want to—
"Think." That's the bet. From one who is concerned
Nothing is heard of the king's decisions.
There is probably no mention of any concerns whatsoever. The word;
that should denote the same thing, is wa; this is called Chaldean also.
seek; and seek the Jehovah or the face of the Lord.
ho va's fuchen (pa, n, mw) means: to look to him
To turn to him, to plead with him, to worship him; this can lead to the Vermuthung lead that in our place the name of the god have been omitted from seeking the one whom the offering of to offer sacrifices on that altar, the king had come before.
held; if that was the name Jehovah, then there was no reason to.
To mutilate the text; it is therefore probably good, the Molech, ge-beings, and the words: dab -en. nwnan na find to be understood as: and the bronze altar (of the Moloch idol) remains me, to seek the Moloch, to offer him a kin-to worship it. That bon was struck down happened when as was the case, not in favor of the otherwise not already-

1) Cf. 2 Chron. 15:11. 3) 2 Con. 16:14.

ten, harshly enough sued king, of whom there was before "Going" means he also burned his son, so Mo-lochdienst driven 1); it happened in favor of Solomon-fchen burnt offering altar, of which one should no longer know,
 What was the deal with him? It is, however, Another explanation of that apa is possible, whereby one might even no omission is necessary. We will find below.
 that the bull-headed Moloch idol, to whom David on the threshing floor Aravna sacrificed, wan, the bull, doyn pa, the sacrificial bull,
 The burnt offering bull, was called; from this pa, bull, Bull idol, could be a denominative verb pa, which Bulls, bull god, sacrifice, made fine 2), and this Perhaps it is the word that confronts us at that point.
 But even disregarding the possibility and likelihood-Despite these explanations, the situation remains problematic enough, and
 The aforementioned translation of Wette's would also be used in the dar-
 the suspicious nature of the bronze altar, over which the king wishes to consider a continuing hanging of the diesel-ben in his Molochism, in which he has recently only have become wavering, to be able to relate.
 Further points to consider, and one will likely find fine genu-
 The most recent explanation is a curious contradiction, in which There are two biblical accounts concerning King Manasseh. According to This great idolater, who also had his sacrificed his own son to Moloch, in his stubbornness until in death s); according to the other, he converted thoroughly to the faith.
 Jehovah's service and set up the altar of Jehovah).

1) 2 Kings 16:3.

2) So bis, ohel, tent; bare, ahal, to wander around with tents, Hi-phil same; W, schoresch, root, Piel: scheresch, to uproot, Poel, Poal and Hiphil, root striking; from 725, laban, white fine, comes nanb, lebena, brick, and from this again laban, brick-Shape stones.

3) 2 Con. 21, 1—18.

4) 2 Chron. 33:12 ff. v. 16. The Hebrew expression is Jon, Reconciling both accounts is not possible.

gen; »the author of the book could not have included such an important fact« the kings will not pass by; however, the news will the chronicle is suspected, since it deals with the dual ambition of the author's untheocratic life of the Jewish rulers in to show it in the softest possible light and to interpret everything teleologically tiviren, fo nahe zufeinmentriff." So Winer). But much
 The narrative of the chronicle is easy, so unhistorical it is fine may have, but it had a cause and historical basis,
 which only in a false, historical truth in its essence has been understood and used in a way that is contrary to the nature of the person.
 The government of Manasseh is followed by that praised government of Hezekiah.

ahead, which is devoted to idolatry, as defined by the Reformation

Jehovahism, which he wanted to destroy, proved hostile; this has the old Moloch idol, to whom his predecessor Ahaz only another place in the temple was given, probably difficult in the Sanctuary left untouched; but it is quite natural to assume, that the Moloch-servant Manasseh would return him to the temple ), and that may have been what the story was about.
 reported, by describing the production of the Solomon-like Manasseh spoke of the altar of burnt offering; the relation of However, the chronicle interprets this as if Manasseh had joined the converted to reformatory Jehovah's Witness, in whose splendor the distorted history of the Hebrews, the governments of David and Solomon's poses. The strange circumstance is still to be highlighted.
 to emphasize that in the 2nd Book of Kings, as in the Pro
 The message of the destruction of Je was attached to the prophets of Jeremiah.
 rusalems, with a detailed enumeration of the brazen equipment
 shafts in Solomon's Temple, the bronze altar with no places, while in the above news of the renewal of the Xitare by Asa win fteht.

1) Realwörterbuch, II. p. 63. Cf. Gramberg, Religionsideen II. p. 233 ff.

2) Compare 2 Kings 21:3 and 2 Chronicles 33:3.

— — —

| 117

ner Sylbe is thought of 1). This reluctance to even name it,
This greatly increases suspicion, and so many other striking things.
Taken together — should it not be the right to... ben, in this enigmatic sacrificial altar of Solomon something quite to see something other than what he had been thought to be until now.
Is? Let us now conclude from the bronze altar of Solomon.
fchen sanctuary on that of the mosaic, of which we the Pentateuch provides a description that is certainly not eighth 2).
so we ourselves will be in this even more concealing Dar=

The attitude allows the truth to shine through; for when this
The altar is not only horned, like Moloch, bull-headed, son=

(which also appears hollow and anointed, like this one),
Thus, those in whose interest it is not to...
Even to blind oneself, one is sufficiently taught finely).

That it was once customary in Jerusalem=

to sacrifice people in the temple, specifically to Jehovah, to Israel's own national god, as even testifies.
another biblical psalm, in which the poet proclaims, that he thanked Jehovah for saving his life and to fulfill a vow made in necessity to publicly offer such a sacrifice in the Temple in Jerusalem
I will: "I will fulfill my vows to Jehovah before the
The eyes of all his people. Precious is in Jehovah's Eyes of death, his pious ones. O hear me, Je—hova — — — — I will sacrifice to you, a sacrifice of gratitude

1) 2 kings 25, 13. ff. Jer. 52, 17. ff.

2) Cf. Bohlen, Genesis Introduction, p. XII ff.

3) Exodus 27:2, verse 8; chap. 29:36. Compare the passage concerning the anointed one. Sacrificial altar and Moloch idols below.

4) A closer one, and one connected with peculiar research
The lighting of this object was provided by the librarian.
Dr. Ghilany is expected in Nuremberg. He, too, will be meeting with me.
following the same path of historical investigation and knowledge Scholars cannot avoid the bronze altar of the collegiate church.
and the metal idol of the Phoenician Temple Moloch service to see.

118

and call on Jehovah's name. I will give my vows to him.
Jehovah fulfills before the eyes of all his people in the Courts of the house of Jehovah, in your midst, Jerusalem! «).
One should first notice the emphatic, repeated-
He obtained assurance that the poet would pay his vows.
will be, and indeed before the eyes of all his people, there with, as it seems, no doubt remains that she really is him
It has been filled. Why this re-emphasis, this repetition?
retrieval, this safeguarding against any doubt and misunderstanding Trust? That can't be about anything small, about anything so... common sacrifice, such as an animal sacrifice would have been, the speech to be; there is something greater, something more difficult to accomplish, Something more precious is meant. But what is precious, valuable, whole?
especially pleasing in Jehovah's eyes? "Death free-
"ner Pious," i.e., the sacrifice of people who come from
to their own people, from the midst of the pious, faithful community Jehovah's worshippers are taken, in contrast to enemies, Foreigners, prisoners of war, heretics, religious criminals. Because These too are sacrificed, but they are nowhere near as large.
and precious sacrifices, as those made from individuals of to exist of their own, orthodox, holy lineage. To animals Sacrifice is therefore not even a thought; even human sacrifice of the
The less esteemed type would be too bad and common; the poet has something far nobler, has most truly true presumably an individual from their own family, a child, to
He vowed to make sacrifices.

Let us now turn to the examination of the Jerusalem Temple in its first form and layout, the so-called Aravna's threshing floor, as the place David chooses, to sacrifice to avert a plague 2). Here too, the view through the transformations that tradition has undergone, The original, and not at all strange, is revealed. In a

1) Pf. 116, 14 ff.

2) 2 Sam. 24:15ff. and 1 Chron. 21:14ff.

119

extraordinary plague and distress of the people, during a The king, appointed to deal with the murderously raging plague, takes hold of it. from the seer Gad, his refuge to a sacrifice on the The threshing floor of the Jebusite Aravna — why? The relationship gives no reason given. Although it is told that the angel of Jehovah, who, corrupting the people, stretched out his hand over Jerusalem, He stood at the aforementioned threshing floor; so that it may appear, as if this appearance were the reason for choosing this place. thought; but it is also stated, even before the beginning The god bought the threshing floor and the sacrifice thereon. Death was brought to an end: "And the angel stretched out his hand." out of Jerusalem, to destroy them; then Jehovah repented the evil one and spoke to the angel who was among the people corrupted: Enough, now withdraw your hand! The angel Jehovah's was at the threshing floor of Aravna the Jebusite « 1). And yet, the sacrifice on the threshing floor is still required. to avert the plague, and only through this could Je= They requested help from the land, and the plague was averted by Israel « 2). — "And Jehovah commanded the angel, and he drew his sword back into its sheath. At the same time, when David saw that Jehovah heard him on Arnan's threshing floor, of the Jebusite, so he sacrificed there" 3). The narrative seems thus composed of two different relations, whose one who reconciled the land to God without that sacrifice will be, while others will only be created as a consequence of the same. This raises the question: perhaps the first one Relation their good reasons why they don't want any of it The victim wanted to know, perhaps it was from a certain of a terrible kind? And perhaps the second relationship helped?

by not completely concealing the victim, but Did it take away his offensive character? Furthermore...
The following assumption: That on that threshing floor the Ver

- 1) 2 Sat. 24, 16. compare 1 Chron. 21, 15. 2) 2 Sam. 24, 25.
- 3) 1 Chron. 21:27-28

120

He is said to have seen a more rugged version, which appears to be a mythical one.
A train that the historian doesn't need to concern himself with;
But surely he had some reason; it lies Surely something must be wrong with him, something that only this To preserve a mythical form — and what is that? Remembering we believe that Jehovah was a God of destruction to the ancient Hebrews.
The disturbance, the ruin, was that this self-described name be says, yes, as also to the Greek fine Apollo the verse of the ber Aron and ovAsos were also called, like Jehovah Pest was god.
This spoilsport was surely standing there on the so-called threshing floor.
Aravna's, namely an idol of the same, a statue of that ancient,
pre-Reformation Jehovah, who is one and the same as the ca Naanitic and Phoenician Moloch was; it stood on the Aravna's threshing floor was a monstrous image, and the threshing floor was a Sanctuary of this Moloch-Jehovah, set up for terrible things Human sacrifice services. Even that seems like news.
from the idol's outstretched hands, as is well known to be contained in the narrative, since the angel of the verse standing by the threshing floor, stretching out his hand; a
A train that has been erased from the chronicle, in that the angel is mentioned here.
no longer simply his hand, but his sword over Jerusalem shudders 1). This is the first explanation for this myth of the plague angel, secondly, this gives rise to the historical reason, from which it was said to have been so beneficial during the plague.
to sacrifice that place. That here no small, insignificant thing is being sacrificed.
Thinking of victims would be obvious anyway; mythology and ge History teaches us in many ways that in antiquity one could in times of great need and distress, especially when Plagues raged, his refuge was for humans and children.
sacrifices took place; as was the case with the ancient Hebrew sacrificial system over
The main task was to procure, it has been shown, and only to procure to remain in the position of things under David, so be-

This was also permitted during a famine.

1) 1 Chronicles 21:16

121

Human sacrifice, and only after those men fevered from Jehovah was sacrificed to the band of Saul as atonement.
satisfied and reconciled to the country; how could one believe, that he himself, during the plague, offered an animal sacrifice and more to that with such a poor one as according to the available
It seems that the stories will have been sufficient! But especially in This poverty of the victim conceals a new clue.
of the Moloch service performed on that threshing floor. Aravna says namely to David: "Let my lord the king take the Threshing floor and offer what seems good to him; behold, the cattle to the burnt offering and the threshing machines and the utensils of the Rindes zum Holz «). — » Take the threshing floor, and it
Do as my lord the king pleases; behold, I Give the cattle to the burnt offering, and the threshing carts to the Wood and wheat for the grain offering « 2). That's at Good heavens, how miserable things are here! David must, in order to be able to sacrifice, from the Jebusite cattle and buy wheat as if he and his people had not themselves had such sacrifices, and as if the king had been,
Victory and national pride allowed it to become so deeply entrenched in a
to let down defeated enemies; for the Jebusites were the former owners of Jerusalem (Jebus) and David had conquered their city. Indeed, even more than that: it even the threshing carts and the cattle harness must to serve as timber! However, the purchase is particularly important.
The weight of the cattle was placed on it, and it says last in the book Samuel's very simple explanation: "And so David bought the "Threshing floor and cattle for fifty shillings of silver." He buys with the place wan, the cattle, the cattle — remember we are reminded that the image of Moloch held by the ancient Hebrews, like the one in Carthage, which had a bull's head, and that that, called Talos, Cretan and Sardinian Moloch idol
also called Tauros, the bull; let us think of the Cretan-

1) 2 Sat. 24, 22. 2) 1 Chron. 21, 23.

122

fchen Minotaurus, the Cretan and marathon bull, back to Trojan Paris, etc., so we will know more.
ken, that the purchase of a bull-headed Moloch image the Rede is, which was also called fo pan, the bull to the 'Fo'.
Although pa is not used in the Hebrew we have before us to stand for the individual bull, but rather for the collective cattle.
to mean cattle; but it is a singular form, which once it could also have a singular meaning, to which The latter also leads to the plural form ass>2. The bull pan also appears with the addition ny — fo ist er the sacrificial bull, cf. doyd nam, burnt offering altar. The Taurus, the bull-headed Moloch image, is, as already mentioned above... notices, at the same time the altar for the human sacrifice to be offered,
that one reaches into the idol's outstretched, glowing arms lays. That with that expression in our narrative origin=

I really want something like that, and not to make a victim=

The fact that the actual bull was meant is fully clarified by

The following is clear. Aravna says: "Let the king take and Offer what seems good to him; see the cattle to the burning.
sacrificial" etc. Here it is truly strange that Aravna fine offers cattle without being approached about it, as if that was self-evident and no other cattle than his own were available, but what a riddle it remained Opens, if one uses the expression "wan" in the specified way secondly, the choice of the victim is described in those words.
initially left undefined and subject to discretion, to arbitrariness
the king's decision, but immediately afterwards and in unknown
most obvious contradictions, thus a specific object,
The owner's cattle were designated as a sacrifice for the threshing floor.
From this it can be seen that something else is meant by the latter.
meant to be, as cattle, destined for sacrifice, and also
The matter is explained most sufficiently here, if we look at... to recognize the bull-headed sacrificial statue of the sacrificial bull. What What was truly sacrificed was most likely a personal one.
Child of the king, entirely in the manner of those later Hebrew ones

Kings who sacrificed their own children to Moloch burned, and when Aravna says: "The king takes and
 "Sacrifice what seems good to him" — so he appears to the terrible Meaning: » here you may, as is customary and as your will dictates "Sacrificing your own child" — not exactly out of the ordinary press, but, sparing the king's paternal feelings, in order to wanting to write. But by giving over the bull, Aravna
 He also points to the bull's harness:
 "The harness of the ox to the wood." Here it is.
 Dishes, probably for bs, dungeon, in the sense of: Be—Hold, hollow, set for the placement of firewood;
 doxyh pan sb> also actually the oven of the bull, bull idols, to whose heating and smoldering. And so more
 We know that these stories have an old, all quite un-fetch in the spirit of the pre-Reformation orthodoxy of the molo—Christian Jehovah=Cult tradition underlying lies, which is especially evident in the 2nd Book of Samuel Bare and literal remains are present. But there are still
 To answer some questions: how do the threshing machines get there?
 In? How did this sanctuary of Moloch become a Threshing floor, on which in the chronicle Aravna Waizen Threshing? Who was this Aravna and what kind of...
 Relationship to the sanctuary? What the latter means as an
 As far as the alleged threshing floor is concerned, the matter can be explained by... the word zen, which means a flat, open space in general, especially a threshing floor, a firmly packed ground in an open field. This particular meaning was given to one under the word, and so it was from the holy Be—
 The circle on which the idol stood, a threshing floor, and from Aravna, a thresher. But what a real thresher he was!
 His relationship to the place can also be guessed.
 The name of this enigmatic man varies greatly and Spelled inconsistently, as: dane, dane, ne, jane, from which it can be seen that the secure form and pronunciation of the
 The name is lost. It can also be read as Arona.

and jam with the very slight change in u can Aron are called; whereby the name of the High Priest Aaron is easily derived, Aharon, compares, which also means High Priest in general.
I have this in another place and in a
the ethnographic context developed there
Name of a head of the priesthood on the Sandwich
Orono Islands, as well as Moria as a place for child sacrifices
Abraham's places of human and child sacrifice of the silent (Compared to the sea, which is called Morai). Both names
We find it here, namely the threshing floor of Aravna's (Arona's) on a hill called Moria, the holy mountain of the later construction of Solomon's Temple. Already
From this, one can draw the assumption that Aravna is a Priest of the Moloch cult, and to him, as such, his fuge-
The threshing floor was called its own. Then that name appears in the Connection on nine before, in which one can now immediately the Meaning: To recognize the priest of Molech or Moloch
The passage is translated rather strangely as: "Everything was Aravna the King, to the King « or, as above and at de Wette: »All this Aravna, O King, gives to the Kings." The true meaning of the words is rather this:
"He gives everything (sanctuary and idol) over, leaves it to the Priest (Aaron Aron, Aronah) of Molech (S Melech, King)
the king (David), so that he could fulfill his plan to the "Sacrifice Molech." And only then does the Be finally come to understand.
The action that Aravna learns from the king. For — must
One can finally ask — how is it that the king with this Jebusite, a man from a recently over-wounded, Canaanite tribes, so many circumstances makes; that one has not only been in quiet possession of it so far-left his property, but also now, since one whose worship is needed, not immediately from his

1) Athenæum, October 1839, pp. 14 and 19. In ü een Works, see Appendix III.

Possessions displaced, does not simply take possession of the place, but to him the same with so much consideration and courtesy bought with money. This must be the case with the one in the old testament.

a frequent and overtly displayed custom of the ancient Hebrews, with their enemies in the most ruthless and barbaric way to proceed, take no small wonder; but even this Rthfel löft sich ganz ungegessen in der Einsicht auf, dass the Hebrews, servants of Moloch, like the Jebusites and others related tribes of Canaan were; that Aravna was an seen priest or priest-prince of this common-Semitic Religion, and therefore so sacred and inviolable, even to the victorious and conquering Hebrews, when it was within the Christianity, the bishop of an enemy territory, a The good Catholic conqueror is. The purchase of the sanctuary Aravna probably had this meaning, that the priests should be able to... would extend to David and his family themselves, and so 'The finer the sacrifice at that height, the more national and powerful, the finer the sacrifice David should. According to biblical accounts, David wears a priest's robe. He wears ceremonial clothes and performs priestly duties, including his Sons are called priests, and Solomon's son was- He directs at the dedication of the temple he built on this very spot Platze, the threshing floor Aravna, built, the functions of a supreme Priests. Yes, if instead of the words vn donne 4877 9523 » and the "The sons of David were priests," as the Second Book of Samuel states. yields, at the corresponding point in the chronicle, the words er- appear: on mb o⁹⁰¹⁰ en 7817 9551 » and the sons of David were the first (most distinguished) at the hand of the king" h, It is therefore clear enough that both bodies have a joint The original text is based on something that must have read as follows: pon mb Dans ovv 333 or: bon ans 7997 3337 » and the David's sons were priests at Molech, or priests of the Molech," i.e., they were priests in the sanctuary of the

1) 2 Sat. 8:18. 1 Chron. 18:17

\

126

Molech ordered on the so-called threshing floor Aravna), which for later times, a highly offensive place in two ways was changed, once so that the addition: »at Molech or "of Molech" was deleted, and then so that instead

"Priester": "the Erften" set and bw on the king
David was referred to. This latter correction was made at the same time.
This was done because the chronicle contains no un-Levitic priests.
as others have already recognized in history 7.
Perhaps one will see a difficulty in the fact that
We already saw above in the bronze altar of burnt offering of the Mosaic
The sanctuary was recognized as a Moloch idol; for had one already
If one such item was in use, why would anyone have another?
to acquire from a foreigner and on its acquisition and use
Why place such great emphasis on it? This leads to the conclusion that...
Give an answer that King Saul, in which we below will recognize a major opponent of the Moloch service, who had probably destroyed his idols in Israel, and that as a result of this religious upheaval, even at the time when David Jerusalem had taken place and the plague raged, to which in Molochistic, deemed absolutely necessary in this emergency

1 to be a being, that one of Alexandros or — according to the Gögen 9, par, s. above — Paris was called; as such and in the name of its Abducting Helena, whom God had chosen as his sacrifice, he melted with the God combined into a mythical person, should "it be similar Wise with Amnon, the son who punished his beautiful sister David's behavior? The Molochic oven idol was lover and bridegroom= gam, see above; ach means oven and brother in Hebrew; the Hebrew.

Molochoven lays claim to the phone Tamar, and in whose name
Amnon as a priest of Moloch; thus, the legend could easily have formed.

She claims that violence was committed against her by her brother himself. That is how she understands herself.
also easier the murder of Amnon by Absalom, which we also otherwise Find a cause for an anti-Molochurchist prince of David.
To keep house, that was his outrage against David and his Na=
Regarding men, which was the name of an opposing deity, see below.

2) Gramberg, Religion Ideas, Vol. 1, pp. 186 and 252.

Human sacrifice because no other metal idol was available, than the one located on the Aravna threshing floor.

Let us now see whether, in the history handed down to us...

David's not to discover any further traces of that cult.

A very striking one is found in the second book of Samuel.

to stop, where it is practically said that he has enemies in Moloch or sacrificed to a Moloch furnace. The place is called, according to the bet:

“And the people who were therein (namely in the conquered city)

Rabba) was, he led out, and laid them under saws

and under iron threshing carts and under iron axes and

She put them in brick kilns»). But that is not the whole story= faithfully; for it says in the text dong dre Wayne, which which apparently means nothing other than: he sacrificed her in Moloch.

It is indeed good, Malcan, just another form of psbn, bp, Malcam, Milcam and Molech; and the above

Translation: »er stete fie in Ziegelöfen « ift nach der Rand=

glosse: yabo, which is also not faithfully reproduced;

for it had to be translated at least: he put them in. the Brick kiln; and this brick kiln would be just again, nothing other than the old stove god of the He-

*bræ*r, but in that simple, untrained form, of which we have already traded, and which one can see here all= can think of things as being put into practice. This confirms the expression used to describe the action of the defendant

to describe burning in this oven, because it is precisely

the word that comes from the ancient Hebrew burning of children used for the sacrifice to Moloch, namely to warn, to offer, to offer as a sacrifice, to dedicate Bob Warn to Molech.

How could there be even the slightest doubt in all of this?

The inhabitants of the city of Rabbah were undoubtedly taken by David treated as Cherem (see above) and all on a grey=

same agonizing way, as was the spirit of this cult,

Killed as a sacrifice to Jehovah.

1) 2 Sam. 12, 31.

Furthermore, let us note the following. David is a friend. and allied with the priesthood of Nob; Saul lets them strangle, and the only one who escapes flees to David. The refugee is Abjathar, son of Ahimelech, and this The latter stood at the head of that priesthood, stilled David's Hunger with show bread and armed him with the one in the Holy One Thume preserved the swords of Goliath 1). But it was this Ahimelech, like Ahia, that Jehovah priest at Shiloh, a son of Ahitub (3), and an Ahimelech, son of Abjathar, he (also appears later as a priest of David). That these names compounded with Ahi (Achi, Ach, Ofen) to rely on the furnace and Moloch service of the ancient Hebrews Pulling has been shown above; here we see one of the David, Priester, who was friends with him and allied against Saul the group against which the otherwise so mild and humane king proceeded with such rigor, repeatedly and conspicuously through These names are designated; from this it is clear that Dapid with the old kind of Jehovahism, the old furnace and Moloch The cult of the Hebrews held that that priesthood was an open-air church. and Moloch-servant, and Saul, who sought their destruction outgoing strict judges of the same, an opponent of this cult was. In addition, at one point in the books... Samuels 5) received a few words that were quite be That's right, and to say outright that Saul was an opponent of Moloch service was; these, the interpreters and translators into a so he— The words that cause misery are dong dwe. Jywr dave ya and mean: "Saul was an emperor against free-nen Molech (king, lord, god) « — namely, it became, as will be evident from what follows, after he has two He ruled Israel for years, resigned after two years of his reign. He was elevated to the throne as an opponent of the Moloch service. The word aw namely comes from maw, to rebel, and

- 1) 1 Sam. c. 21 and 22. 2) 1 Sam. 14:3. 3) 1 Sam. 22:9.
4) 2 Sat. 8, 17. 5) 1 Sat. 13, 1.

The passage is related to the immediately preceding admonition. nung Samuel's together, not to become apostate from Jehovah; also immediately follows the split between Saul and Samuel, whose Jehovah's Witness, in its entirety, is not an appropriate—who was, as that of the oven-servant priesthood of Nob. To maintain this religion of the evil principle, David was anointed by Samuel as Saul's rival, and... speaks to the wishes and expectations of the old Moloch—prophets in their most perfect form.

The news of the appointments to offices still deserves—a closer look at the period under David and Solomon:

“And David ruled over all Sfrael and practiced justice and Justice to all his people. But Joab, the son Zeruiah's was over the army, and Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud's, Chancellor, and Zadok, the son of Ahitub, and Ahimelech, the son of Abyathar, were priests, and Seraiah Screamer, and Benaja, Sojada's son, was over the sharp-judges and runners, and the sons of David were priests « 1). The exact same words are also found in the chronicle, except that Instead of Seraja: Savfa stands, and the last of the occupations fo Expressed, it appears: "and the sons of David were the first to the hand of the king « 2). This very important and The treacherous difference has already been mentioned above. and it has been shown how the comparison of both locations The result is that it is based on a community-wide principle. The report states that David's sons were appointed priests of Moloch. been. We encounter a very similar case with the offices occupation under Solomon: "And so was King Solomon King over all Israel. But these are the rulers who He had: Azariah, the son of Zadok the priest, Elihoreph and Ahija, the sons of Sisa, were scribes, Josaphat,

1) 2 Sat. 8, 15 ff. 2) 1 Chron. 18, 14.
Daumer, Fire: and Moloch Service. 9

Ahilud's son was the chancellor, and Benaja's son Jojada's was over the army, and Zadok and Abjathar Prie ster, and Azariah, Nathan's son, was over the officials, and Sabud, the son of Nathan, priest, friend of the king's, and Ahisar was over the house, and Adoniram, who Abda's son, about the servitude « 1). Note that in Both lists first list two persons as priests be conducted, and then after an interruption, another Priestly dignity comes into play, which is therefore of a special nature. It must have been a fine way. The first two priestly persons The sons are first Zadok and Ahimelech, then Zadok and Abiathar; the second place appears under David through whose Sons, occupied by Sabud under Solomon. And like sons... It is possible that, with regard to this second point here, how there, in a mysterious way, the word king (melech) was whispered! If we now consider in this one case, in this melech recognized Molech, Moloch, to whose service David the If he ordered something for his own son, something corresponding should not be ordered. also be given in the other? Indeed, it can, viewed in this context, not hidden remain that in the Hebrew text the word ya, friend, between od, priest, and pon, of the king, only one was moved to give the latter word an unobjectionable appearance to draw a connection to King Solomon. But here too Once again it had meant Moloch, and how the sons there David's, so was here for the special service of the bullhead gen, heated metal statue Sabud ordered, while the two other priests to the Moloch-Jehovism in the otherwise usual were presented in a common form, according to which one could determine the Victims included certain children and other people who were slaughtered. sacrificial meals related, and the unharmed remains as a portion of the god, consigned to the flames.

1) 1 Con. 4, 1 ff.

131

Let us go further back into Hebrew history and show the traces of the perhaps still to be discovered further afield Moloch service and an antagonism concerning it and The fight begins. Here is Samuel's youth story and his relationship to Eli and his sons in Silo of In Teresse. It can be seen from this that at that time the old Mo-

Jehovah's Witness has receded so much into the background that a Cults of entirely different spirit and character prevail.
became and it was Samuel who pushed him back and reinstated the old Orthodox service in a fine position.

“The word of Jehovah was rare in those days,” / but Samuel, “who served as a squire before Jehovah” 2), felt newly inflamed and enthralled by this negative Power. The sons of Eli, the priests Hophni and Phinehas,
"They slept with the women who entered service, at the Door of the assembly tent « 3) — this indicates reli-regional mixtures and so-called temples-immorality, such as in the cult of the Babylonian Mylitta and the Armenian Anaitis), as in the service of the cana-
The ancient Baal Peor took place, at which, according to an Er-counting of the Pentateuch, the Sfraelites also participate, and to whose atonement Jehovah all the heads of the people

1) 1 Sam. 3:1. 2) Isa. 2:18. 3) Isa. v. 22.

4) According to a well-known passage in Herodotus 1.199, every Babylonian woman at least once into the sanctuary of the Babylonian Aphroto sit and mingle with a stranger, cf. Baruch 6:43 ff., and 2 Con. 17:30 the Babylonian settlers establish in Samaria n23 9, daughter's or girl's huts, bi tents and leaf huts, in which the girls praised themselves in a divine service in honor of Mylittagave. Thus, by all appearances, the Jewish Feast of the Leafy Huts is cancelled.
oon an in close connection, see below. To the service of the ar-
During the Menische Anaitis, the most distinguished members of the country delivered their daughters to the hospital.
the temple, where they exposed themselves for a long time and then upon their return
The sooner men found their way into the father's house; see Creuzer Symbol II.
P. 26. Gefenius, Commentary on Isaiah, II. P. 338.

9

132 sacrifice commands 1); but the depiction obscures the meaning of that deed; for the sons of Eli you will find nothing but “nothing”.

worthy boys, who had no divine significance whatsoever and justification for sinning out of mere lust; but are the Statements are strange, that she knew nothing about Jehovah 2) and that they despise the sacrifice of Jehovah 3); for in it. seems to be more likely than what is shown in the presentation— This led to them treating those who offered sacrifices in an unseemly manner. and arrogantly took away the best pieces, even before the sacrifice was complete. But what was most remarkable was... "Is," a prophet of Jehovah rages against Eli and his house, foretells his rejection and great misfortune, and leaves under To pursue the god who inspires him, the following:
 “I have said: Your house and the house of yours

Jehovah's saying: Farewell to me! — “And I will I will appoint a faithful priest, who will do as it is in It is in my heart and in my soul, and I want to give it to him. build a lasting house and he shall stand before my anointing⁵ ten wander eternally⁶). Here is from a king the Speech, before which the one who took the place of Eli's sons to faithful priests should walk, and yet there is also at the time this is said, there was still no king in Israel! The same peculiarity appears again in the⁷ the same chapter in the prayer of Hannah, who speaks: “Jehovah judges the ends of the earth and gives authority to his people.” Kings and raised the horn of the fine anointed one 5). If now, indeed, Jehovah has a hint about the future king⁸ The words of the Hebrews were put into their mouths. although that too is strange enough in this context; how Could that praying woman make such pronouncements?

m *

5) Numbers 25, 1 ff. Y 1 Sat. 2, 12. 3) That. v. 17.
 4) 1 Samuel 2:30 and 35. 5) 1 Samuel 2:10.

133

Moloch⁹ Jehovah of the Hebrews as a benevolent king or Melech Israel is hiding. This becomes absolutely clear when one looks at...? notices the context of Jehovah's speech, after which

Eli's house should walk before Jehovah forever, now
but the new priest of Jehovah before his anointing—
The walk will last forever. So Jehovah and his God—
The anointed one is one; before both should walk the priesthood.
to be administered; a priest of Jehovah and a priest will be appointed.
called the king, and both fall, like Jehovah and king, all together in one. The only question is, how can Jehovah separate himself from... distinguish himself from his king and anointed one? We
There is no need here to corrupt the original words.
sere. To take refuge; the fallen King of Jehovah is the
this god-representing idol, which became the ruler over He used to truly anoint his devotees. Remembrance we at the point already mentioned above, where Sfrael became king with oil and takes much of his ointment, to attack Moloch falben 1); a passage in the Pentateuch commands all Hebrew Sanctuaries, collegiate church, Ark of the Covenant, table, candlesticks, etc.
to anoint with holy anointing oil 2); but another seems to restrict this anointing to the altar of burnt offerings, in which we above identified as the ancient Hebrew Moloch idol 3).
From the custom, which also occurs elsewhere, of anointing idols,
is in German the strange expression Oelgötze remaining);
Such an oil idol was indeed that Moloch of Canaan ,
that oiled, anointed King of Jehovah, who was Jehovah himself.
The relationship between these anointed Moloch idols can be discussed here.
to the one located in the Holy of Holies, in the so-called Ark of the Covenant hidden or enthroned on its lid idols come into question; the latter, about which is in the appendix Moreover, it was the holiest of all, first and foremost, the

1) Yes. 57, 9. 2) 2 Mof. 30, 25 ff. 3) Exodus. 29, 36.

4) Götze is in Old German Bildsäule, idolum; see Grimm, German Mythology, p. 11.

134

representing the Hebrew God, unapproachable and unseen
every people and in no direct dealings with them
standing; it revealed the God's innermost, most secret essence that, in contrast to the eternal and all-knowing one=,
a friendly being of light, who sees the world as the sun=

shines, lives in deep, eerie darkness, and emerges emerging from it only in phenomena of terror and confusion coarse, especially in that of the blazing flame and ver a consuming, fiery glow is perceived. In this, it offers
It therefore presents itself to public veneration and receives fine sacrifices; for the god is a flaming altar, a fire.
pit, a simple or glowing metal statue formed a sacrificial furnace. Through the latter, Jehovah stands with the Molochist people in a mediated, public relationship;
This Moloch or king visibly rules over the land he calls upon.
Yiddish and fine tribute-bringing Israel, and is it then called preferably the lord and king of the same. One on Israel shouldn't even have that, and a ver breaking, it had been a falling away from Jehovah that Israel
Samuel demanded another, real one; if there
When Jehovah speaks of his King and Anointed One, he means he has no real one, but rather the one that publicly represents him.
anointed Moloch=Idol. There also find the words of a to interpret the Hebrew song, in which Jehovah and his...
when speaking of an anointed one, from whose supreme authority peoples and seek to make kings independent, and where Jehovah
He says: "I have anointed my king in Zion, my holy mountain« 2). An anointed Moloch had, according to Ver Saul's destruction of these idols failed; Israel was without them.

1) Jehovah speaks these words to Samuel: "Not you, but They rejected me, that I should not be king (melech, molech).
"Follow them." 1 Samuel 8:7; and to the people: "You reject today your God and say to him: "You shall set Len king over us."
1 Samuel 10:19

2) Ps. 2, 6.

135

U

such a theocratic ruler had been; now there was one again present and solemnly anointed king over Sfrael; and there, what is done by priestly hands, the deity Jehovah himself did it, so he himself again had a king over Israel anointed a king who himself introduced him, who his was its own divine representation and appearance. By but David, as Moloch priest, anointed this idol as king, He formally demoted himself, becoming a mere priest. The vizier of the idol was thus made guilty of that crime. of the people, anointed another real king above them. to have, good again, what then in Moloch-servant eyes It was an infinite merit, an absolute piety. Therefore, a divine pronouncement (pn) now goes upon him, which... through this deed he exalts himself as the eighth son of Jehovah: "You are mine Son, today (on the day of anointing or consecration) "I begot you!" That is why Jehovah explains himself at the same time. ready to hand over the rule of the world to him). And if it goes on to say: "Serve Jehovah with fear" and tremble with quaking! Kiss the son, lest he torne, and you will perish on your way. For soon he= His anger burns! Hail to all who trust in him! 2) — fo The expression "son" here seems to refer to that oracle. to refer back to the king's son conceived today Jehovah's names; but the whole context of the words shows, that a Higher One, that Jehovah himself is meant, to whose ancestry Recognition and worship are requested of those addressed. The Hebrew word for son is not the same here either. but a completely different one, in which a certain Ge= It seems to conceal a secret. It is the word z, bar, which In Chaldean it means son, and this is some from the derive from Hebrew itself and "the appointed one, the chosen one" translate. The word alone in this form owes its This likely results in a correction, which replaces the original.

1) Pf. 2, 7 ff. 2) Daf. v. 11 f.

136

standing do, par, bull, with slight change 12, bar, Son, placed this expression on the words: "You are my son" wanted to know, referring back. "The "Bull" was edoxyv is again, like the Trojan Paris, where we encounter the same word as the Cretan Mino=

Tauros and Talos, the latter also Tauros, the bull,
 It was called the bull-headed Moloch image. As for the warning, to kiss that person in cash, that is the well-known kiss of homage.
 means the honor bestowed upon kings and idols; at one point of the Old Testament is from the kissing customary in Israel.
 of Baal, on another from the kissing of the one in the ephraim Mitischian cult venerated calves the speech 1). It is the naturally also an invitation to kiss the idol.
 to make the usual, due sacrifices; it is made to the peoples subjugated by David and their rulers chiefs; they shall send their human sacrifice tributes to Jerusalem send, in the same way as the Athenians sent to the Cretan Minotau sent their children to be devoured.

Let us return to the one concerning the Hebrews and Moabites revered phallic Baal Peor. I find in him the Donkey god, whom, according to the well-known claim of the ancients, Hebrews revered. Note first of all the following summary.
 menhang. Balaam, who has the famous talking donkey, leads the Hebrews into the service of Baal Peor, who also (only Peor is called), he prophesies on the mountaintop.
 Peor 3) and is called and calls himself a son of the Beor)) — which latter form is apparently only an-their spelling or pronunciation of Peor with known Alternating 5 and 2, as in "us" and "12 is." Balaam is a son, i.e. a follower, priest, prophet of the god us or Wa, to whose cult he seduced the Hebrews, and that

1) 1 con. 19, 18th yard. 13, 2. Winer, real word. IS 811 f.
 Gramberg, Religious Ideas IS 470. 2) 4 Mof. 31, 16.
 3) Numbers 23. 28. 4) Numbers. 22, 5. c. 24, 3.

137

This name means donkey, according to fi) from the Aramaic K.
 arab. wa, jumentum onerarium, camelus, as inus — cf.
 Spanish burro, donkey; burrazo, large donkey; Gypsy language Purikka, donkey — to lose weight. The American tapir, Danta or Anta, an animal about the size of a medium-sized Mules, also called Beori)), yes, perhaps the radical one Basis of these forms: w, w, wp, donkey, Greek ogev, ovpev, mule, jo, that the preceding > one with the Words of fused old articles is, which left its trace in the so-called Beth essentiae left behind, and with the head The table article p, pi, C is comparable, the, the noun—ven prefixed, also forms such a word with them. With an= The set + becomes r, , onager, from it. What Balaam's As far as talking donkeys are concerned, one can consider the mythological donkey. the Greeks, to whom Dionysus bestowed the gift of human voice to speak), like the talking horse of Achilles—similar. Such horses also appear in German literature. chen before; in one of the same speaks the runaway one Head of the horse Falada 3). But the donkey is not only the

1) Clavigero, History of Mexico, Part 1, p. 77, and Part 2. p. 435. .

2) Driven mad by Hera, Dionysus took refuge in the Dodonian oracle; on his journey there a lake hindered him; there He met two donkeys, one of which carried him happily through the flood; For this, the god placed the helpful animals among the stars, or he gave the donkey that carried him a human voice and speech, which was used by him in a dispute with Priapus, which ended in his death of the donkey ended. Hyg. Poet. Astr. 2, 28. To this Dionyfos = Ejel This is related to that of Silenus, cf. Creuzer, Symb. III. p. 208 f. and 383. In ancient symbolism and mythology, the donkey is associated with water. and wine were associated with it; in Nauplia, one was shown in the rock-hewn donkey, from which the pruning of the vine was learned—wanted to learn, Paus. Corinth. c. 38. Cf. 1 Mos. 49, 10 ff. and. Kanne, Pantheon of the oldest natural philosophy, Tübingen 1811, p. 124 and 409. More on this will follow below.

1) Brothers Grimm, Children's and Household Tales, Nos. 89 and 126, besides the notes in 3. BS 161.

138

speaking, but also the musician; of this, to make music= The donkey knows Orient and Occident in proverbs and To tell a fairy tale: "What donkey can't make a sound?"

“He who must carry the sacks to the mill.” In a German
 The donkey goes to Bremen to become the city musician.
 to become 1); in another, a king is appointed instead of a
 A donkey was born to a human prince, whom he nevertheless... destined for his successor in the kingdom. The little donkey shows bespecial love for music and masterfully learns to play the lute.
 It strikes. It goes out into the world and comes to another.
 King, where he plays the lute with his feet, about which Al-
 Les laughs. But the king takes him in stride and gives him
 His daughter. On her wedding night, she sheds her donkey skin.
 and stands there as a handsome royal youth, and the lukewarm
 The scourging king seizes the shed skin and burns it. to Ashes 2). This German children's fairy tale is found at the highest strangely, it reappears in India, in the following form.
 A Gandharva, or celestial choir singer, is condemned.
 was given the form of a donkey. In this Ge-ftal he is born in the house of a potter in the main-City of King Tamrasena, must wander daily and to search for his food. Then he demands the king's daughter.
 to the woman; he will give her on the condition that the Gandharva until tomorrow morning before sunrise, the wall and turn the city's houses to bronze. It happens.
 This, and the wedding proceeds. The mother listens.
 and sees the Gandharva in human form with the daughter Lying down, he also sees the discarded donkey skin and burns it.
 The same. That's where Gandharva's career ends and he returns to heaven).

1) Brothers Grimm, Children's and Household Tales, No. 27.

2) That. No. 144 after a Latin poem from the 15th year-hundred, cf. 3. BS 237 f.

3) From the 1st section of the Sinhafana Dwatrinfatī, called Vi-

—

This Indian fairy tale is very suitable for immersing us in the speculative circle of thought that initially appears so raw to introduce the donkey cult. But before I get into this... To clarify, it will be good to add the following from Jewish Theology. to give logy and mythology.

Several things happened before the world after this, several created with her. Among those is the name of the Mes—sias, who is also said to have been from the beginning—It has been spoken. Among these is the mouth of the donkey. Balaams, os loquens asinae, create with nine others Things on the first Friday between dusk. Then the rabbis also have something to say about a donkey, which has existed since ancient times, and which is "a filling of those est—lin« gewass, »welche zu Anfang Welt in der Dämme—rung was created «; it is the same one on which the May—sias will make his entry into Jerusalem 2). The speaker Balaam's donkey and the Jewish messiah's donkey are clearly different here. into one. Also, the one in the beginning of things. pronounced messianic name, like the New Testament Lo— may be combined with it; the donkey god of old age—Thums is namely the Logos, the creative word of God, in which the deity, creating the world and becoming nature, manifests itself spoken aloud themselves, so that they themselves might experience their pre-earthly freedom— He has disillusioned himself with his spirituality and assumed the form of a servant. men hat. The same was in the donkey cult of antiquity through the The form of the servant animal is indicated, which was common among the Greeks and Germans into the nobler, more aesthetic, but lesser and from the underlying idea: the receding form of the horse crama—Uupachyana, cf. Wilford essay on Vicramaditya. As. Res. IX. pp. 147–149.

1) See the evidence in Gfrøer's Century of Salvation, Stuttgart 1838, 2nd part, p. 30 ff. and Eisenmenger's discovered Jew—thum, 1st part, p. 316.

2) Gfrøer aa OS 339. Eisenmenger II. 697. Micah 5, 1, which latter point we will discuss in more detail below.

over. That eel and horse gave the divine to antiquity
 The word that was Logos, we will ourselves explain below through the Testimonies of the languages are seen as confirmed. But since those Entau= Improvement of the divine essence in becoming world also through The image of dying and death was described, so it is the donkey, also the dying, dead one; the one with a human voice
 The gifted Dionysus donkey finds death speaking, and the wish...
 The great Falada in the German fairy tale is still in death the Speaking. The self-expression of the divine essence in
 The creation of the world is also symbolized by song and play.
 Bolisirt; therefore the donkey is the musician, therefore it appears in Greek mythology: the horse in connection with the Muses and poetry, although the idea of Pegasus as one the riding horse of the poets was alien to antiquity; Pierides
 The singing muses are called, a Piero is supposed to perform their service.
 have founded, cf. the horse spring Peirene, which was founded by Zeus in Horse-shaped fertilized Peirithoos and the forms s, pere, wild donkey, 1, pered, mule, Latin veredus, African.
 Galla Ferd, horse, German: Pferd, Latin: burdo, mule, arab. u, jumentum, syr. then, Maulefel. In Indian In fairy tales, the donkey is a heavenly choir singer who comes from descended from a higher sphere, taking on the form of a donkey-named; but he throws, like the donkey in the German fairy tale as a lute player, he sheds his animalistic shell and appears in royal human form. Stepping into this form, the old donkey god appear as messiah and savior of the world;
 Therefore, Balaam, the donkey prophet, prophesies the coming Mass—sias, who meanwhile is still half donkey and therefore to appear as a donkey rider and without pomp and stature, as the prophet says in the well-known passage: “Rejoice!”
 Shout aloud, daughter of Zion; rejoice, daughter of Jerusalem! Behold, your
 The king comes to you, just and victorious is he, humble and rides on a donkey, on a full, the donkey's son.
 And I will destroy chariots from Ephraim and horses from Jerusalem, and war bows will be eradicated. And he speaks of peace.

to the peoples and fine rule extends from the sea to seas and from the river to the ends of the earth «) — a

 The passage to which the Gospel refers, since it is the in-(Christ's journey on a donkey reported?). An apocryphal Gospel Gelium tells of a young man transformed into a mule.
 to the man on whom Mary places her child and who thereby regains his human form — probably also with related to that ancient symbolism of the donkey cult, in this relationship, with all attention, has a Wertherian mythical aspect?).

This was the Messiah and savior of the donkey cult;
 But there was another one, that of Moloch-Jehovahism.
 He was not one who had come into the flesh, taken on the form of a servant-
 a fallen god, but a mere man, the savior to be the leader of his people and their elevator to world domination and according to the ancient usage explained above as High priests and priestly rulers of the people, such as Aaron and Moses,
 was to fall victim to the nation's negating god.
 Jewish theology still makes the distinction between two Meffiufe, of whom they den one the son of David, the others call him the son of Joseph; which of the latter it is, who be killed and the people of God with fine blood-
 2) Furthermore — which is extremely strange —
 The former is under the image of a donkey, the latter under the egg—thought of an ox, and then according to rabbinical custom (referring to various Bible passages?). The Messiah of the Donkey—cultus is a royal lord and from a royal gang, like the donkey in the fairy tale, a king's son who, in a donkey

1) Zechariah 9:9. 2) Matt. 21, 4 f. John 12, 14.

3) Fabrieii codex apocryphus NT, Hamburg 1719, IS 183 f.
 Compare ibid., pp. 3 ff. and II, pp. 399 ff., concerning the Jews and Christians Guilty donkey worship. Ononychites, having donkey hooves, the pagans called the God of the Christians, whom they heard with their ears and Depicted the hooves of a donkey, Tertull. Apol. 16.

4) Gfrører aa OS 258 ff. Eisenmenger II. 720 ff.

5) Eisenmenger I. 481; cf. Gfrörer, p. 259.

and servant transformed, this animal and servant form from throws himself and appears as lord and king; he does not die either. to sacrifice, like the Messiah of the Molochist Bull religion; He is indeed also a suffering, dying person, but in a completely In other senses; he dies as God in the creation of the world and rises again, alive, in all existence. The Messiah of Moloch=Jehovism is initially so little a god and Jehovah even that he is rather called a servant of Jehovah, and so to this in the highly different relationship of the subject=nen, serving, stands by his lord and master; entirely at= This is how it is with servitude and bondage, from whose form the donkey messiah arises; he is none Servant of God, but of the creature that is the basis a creative deity who has reduced creaturely existence himself. But can the Moloch messiah be a son of his god? to be called in the same sense as the psalmist, to whom Je= who speaks the pleasing words: "You are my son, "Today I have begotten you," f. above; it can also be interpreted as in- Spirited prophet and priest of Jehovah, representing himself= ren, so however, to melt together with his god himself and even apply to Jehovah and Moloch the Bull. A son Joseph's he was called because, as Moloch- bull, the words relating to Joseph in Moses' blessing were applied: "The firstborn of his bull, Your Highness is to him like the horns of the buffalo his horns, with them he butts He destroyed the peoples, all to the ends of the earth, and These are the myriads of Ephraim and these are the thousand Ma= Nasse's « 1). But this has now changed in the new Testament and Christian dogma strangely mixed together and into one= other confusion; as Messiah, David's son, Jesus is God and Word, world-creating Logos, as such simultaneously degraded, God in the form of a servant and a donkey rider, a The appearance of salvation and peace for all, only love and respectful, attending banquets, and Bacchic water in wine transforming); as Messiah, Joseph's son, he is indeed God's son, but the father is greater than he; as such must he would reconcile his terrible father with his blood and as humanized Passover lamb and large human—to die a martyring, dogmatic sacrificial death; as He comes only to fulfill the law, not to abolish it. He does not come to bring peace, but rather conflict—costume and sword; and unfortunately the latter has been part of this peculiar mixture in the previous history of Christianity, the theological and world-historical. Gain the upper hand, so that in the pyres and chambers of the Inquisition and the witch trials, even the old pure fire and Moloch service with its horrible men—hexen was brought back to life 2). As a strange Remnant of the old donkey cult in view of the animal form of the Incidentally, the so-called donkey festivals of the month appear on God's behalf. telalters, which are in use in Italy, France and Spain were. A polished donkey, on which a young whore was riding. He sat, was led with great ceremony into the church and to the

1) Deut. 33, 17. Gfrdörer aa OS 200.

1) Certainly eight bacchi, since Jesus remarked in John 2:10, to whom Excessive preventive custom is despised. (To use mythological comparisons.) The daughters of King Anios serve on Delos, who are called oworgomur, the Wine transformers, as they were called, and received the gift from Dionysus—ten, water into wine, and everything they wanted, into grain or olive oil—to transform ven, Tzetz. Lyc. 570. “In Teos,” says Diodorus 3, 66, “If one refers to the fact that Dionysus originated from this, to the Er—appearance that at certain times in the city a deliciously fragrant spring with wine flowing from it by itself,” and more Does our people believe that at Christmas or Easter, around or near the middle of the month? At night, spring water turns into wine; Grimm, German Mythology logy, p. 328, Appendix p. LXIX and C.

2) “They offer human sacrifices to the God of love, like a “Fire-armed Moloch,” says Schiller’s Karl Moor, robber, last scene of Act 2.

altar led; during the Mass all the prisoners were blessed with the
 The donkey's tone was finished; instead of the blessing, the priest brayed.
 three times, and the assembled people shouted "Amen!"
 in case, which would turn this cult into something purely ridiculous and farcical—
 The following is probably also to be expected.
 At a spot before Querfurt, where the donkey of the holy Bruno became satiated and could not be brought any further, built one visits the chapel at Eselstett, and large pilgrimages of the
 The people's actions took place on the Querfurt donkey meadow; later
 At times, a fair was held with an influx of people from the surrounding area.
 residents of it).

One can trace that ancient Bacchic-Priapic donkey cult from Standpoint of our own morality as something very Ver—to regard it as abhorrent, since he diligently goes through all the bonds were broken, in which law and custom the natural
 To keep man's drives and desires imprisoned; one must However, I must admit that it was of profound, speculative content.
 and that a spirit of gentleness and humanity breathed within him, which brings him the greatest honor, so that the Christians thum certainly has nothing to be ashamed of in this respect, with to join him. If Jesus, instead of the cursing one, to Cursing, only blessing is commanded, so it refuses in the same way.
 Spirits Balaam, to utter any curse; he and his God only wanted and could bestow blessings and goodwill.
 The Hebrew relation interprets this as if Balaam were...

1) Spangenberg, Querfurt. Chronicle, pp. 128, 131, 133. Grimm,
 German Legends, No. 572. Part 2, p. 369. A "holy donkey rider,"
 Like Bruno, Saint Florentius was also a hermit and founder of a
 The monastery at Haslach. According to legend, the monastery grounds were designated by
 King. Dagobert of the Forest as much as the saint, while Dagobert
 He sat in the bath, and would be able to ride around on his donkey. The donkey ran wonderfully fast, he circled the entire forest and pressed down his footsteps.
 into the stone. S. calendarium annale Benedictinum von Ranbeck, Augsburg 1677, 4th part, the legend of November 13th, along with the other items. p. 367
 The aforementioned writers. The expression "holy donkey rider" was coined by the Translation by Vierholz, Augsburg 1731, 4th part, p. 157.

a prophet inspired by Jehovah, who was known as such
 Of course, one should not curse the chosen people of this God.
 could; but she thereby entangles herself in a serious matter, the negligence contradictions bearing witness to this account; for now it will
 It may seem incomprehensible how Balaam led Jehovah's people to could seduce the services of the enemy Baal Peor; now,
 What is even more wonderful is that this Jehovah's Prophet said of his his own god was attacked without any cause, by the one—
 The giving of the same, however, only results in the strictest consequence; for He dismisses him and orders him to leave, and how he is from who makes use of this instruction, becomes enraged—the god and we—he is standing in his way 1).

This, the creative force of nature in contrast to the corrupting—benden, annihilating God of Israel, the good principle in Ge—propositions of evil, in the form of a Bacchic-Priapic Donkey worship religion appears to have been prevalent at the time of the judges.
 to have been predominant among the ancient Hebrews, until Samuel and David, the ancient Abrahamic and Mosaic
 To restore Moloch=Jehovism to its rightful place. It will find in the Book of Judges relations which refer to one in Israel formally introduced and priestly organized donkey cult to close. So Judge Jair ordered us, thirty Sons riding on thirty donkeys, and thirty cities, dev, have, which are the villages called Jair's 2). Jair
 That is the name of the judge, and the same name is used for... designated the villages of his sons who ride on donkeys; to=
 The word * is like a city that does not otherwise occur.
 mende plural form dos instead of de given, which with dw, Donkey, exactly the same sound. That demands attention and Investigation of the name, which is reminiscent of w, donkey, striking echoes and is probably only a modified pronunciation of the same.
 Word is. This is confirmed by the fact that among the prizes...
 Star of David also a Sairite, named Ira, Nm, on:

2) Numbers 22, 20. ff. 2) Judges 10, 3. f.
 Daumer, Fire: and Moloch Service. 10

– e ER ENENEER

is led !), so that the forms A, vv and to line up one another in apparent connection.

Esel, w, was also the name of a Canaanite royal city, probably from named after the same donkey cult of Canaan, from which Jair and his villages had that name, indeed, by all appearances

The word *, city, originally meant nothing other than

Vp, Esel, gewesen, so dass die spezielle Bedeutung: Eselstadt,

The city as the seat and center of donkey worship, in the general:

The city has passed over, and even the language for this once in Canaan, during the prolific donkey cult,

in a similar way to those once common religious rituals

Bad mixtures in the sanctuary the word dwop, Hei

lige, consecrated, for whore. Wp, ir, gir, ist mit modifi cirter Ausfroche das gleichbedeutende Vp, kir, np, kereth, chald. kartha, with the city names Cirta, Tigranocerta

etc. The thirty sons of Jair are probably not sons of the judge in the true sense of the word, son

the sons of the god and his supreme representative in figurative and spiritual sense, subpriests, bishops, etc.

say, of the donkey cult, whose pope or Dalailama Jair was).

1) 2 Sam. 20, 25. "Ira the Jairite was also a priest of David,"

i.e. probably: even the priestly head of the Hebrew donkey cult

He entered the service of Moloch under David and became a priest of Moloch. He

Let us remember here that, according to the above, David is a name of Moloch.

was, Priest of David also = Priest of Moloch.

2) Compare in the New Testament the synagogue leader Jair to Capernaum, Luke 8:41. Matthew 9:18. This place is referred to as the

The city of Jesus, referred to as a fine city (7 d nos), Matthew 9:1.

Mark 2:1. This is a translation of the name thing 8, city of the thing, of the god and savior of the donkey cult; cf. END, Trö ster, name of the Messiah among the Jews; Eisenmenger II, 653. Gfrdrer, Century of Salvation, Part 2, p. 266. This is where the myth begins.

at an old site of the Canaanite donkey cult, as is often the case;

Cana in Galilee was certainly one such place, where Jesus turned water into wine.

transformed; so too Bethany. From here, the place of Mary and Martha is Lazarus; here he is raised from the dead; here Jesus is resurrected.

The same phenomenon recurs upon mention of the judge.
 Abdon, who has forty sons and thirty grandchildren, who are after her= Benzig donkeys ride 1). It is a formally organized donkey= Cult hierarchy, whose highest head is Abdon; under him There stand forty donkey priests of the second, and thirty others. of the third rank; they all ride on the holy Animals of this cult, which with the priest sitting on it= The judge of Israel is the living representative of God. Furthermore, Judge Abdon has 40 sons and 30 grandchildren, who together find 70, so Judge Gideon has 70 sons 2). with which things are probably just as described below. Furthermore, the name of the city Pirathon should be noted, from which Abdon is and in which he was also buried 3); for there The meaning of "donkey" even appears doubly prominent. Compare "take". lich with yynysn erftlich n, pere, wild donkey, and two=

He was innkeeper and anointed; here he stayed overnight after his entry into Jerusalem; Here he ascends to heaven, John 11:1ff., c. 12:1ff., Matthew 26:6ff. c. 21, 17. Luc. 24, 50. Together with Bethany, Bethphage is formed. named; near these places Jesus sends two disciples "into the Fle—" "The crouch that lies before them," after the ass-filling, Mark 11:1ff. Luke 11:1ff. 19:29-30. Matthew 21:1-20. Bethany is the house of the humble, to Servant-like form of the humiliated donkey-god, Hebrew Chaldean 729, Ng, as which refers to the Messiah riding on the donkey in Zechariah 9:9 will; Bethphage is the house of the jawbone, the donkey jawbone namely, from which the spring flows, see below, Chald. dad, Greek. Yayav, maxilla, cf. Castelli lex. heptagl. col. 2955, and Kanne, erfte Documents of History, Bayreuth 1808, pp. 69 and 686. In Syriac it is #55, maxilla, gena, German backs. The skull site Golgotha there— According to the above discussions, against belongs the human sacrifice Molochism. So too the Mount of Olives, 2 Samuel 15, 30 and 32. 1 Kings. 11, 7. Gramberg, Religionsideen, 1st part, pp. 36 and 64, along with p. XVII in the preface, where Gesenius remarks: "that the Mount of Olives also belongs to the ancient The prayer sites of Palestine belonged to the new Testa— ment, where the same is a favorite place of worship of Christ, and would have of the extensions of the same should not be overlooked." 1) Judges 12, 13. 2) Judges 8, 30. 3) Directives 12, 13 and 15. 10 *

tens pe, athon, Eselin, wo nur = für v mit bekanntem Change stands, as in dan for day, etc. If all this
 If it were a coincidence, it would be an enormous one; but that's how it plays out.
 It's no coincidence. Abdon is also the name of a Hebrew city; also This name seems to refer to the ancient Hebrew donkey cult and to refer to the god who appears in the form of a servant: av, abad means obliging, fine; ebed means servant, compare Arabic am. asina, ancilla et ex his natus 1). Like the Shechemites of
 When Abimelech rebels, Geal, the son of Ebed, appears and be-
 She speaks of serving the men of Hamor, the donkey, and he
 He himself is the son of Ebed, the servant, a man of the Donkey or donkey god, who was called the servant, in contrast against the Moloch of Jehovah of Israel, the eternal and unchanging, A king and lord who never disappoints with his finer glory. A Hemor, Chamor, Esel, as ruler of Shechem, appears before us
 also in Genesis; the name Shechem also bears whose son 2), and this name also has the whole together=

Menhang means donkey, pack animal or servant; Shechem, dw, namely means shoulder, neck, and could do that best to describe a slain animal, æthiop. dw, bajulavit, tulit, portavit, Compare the words in Jacob's blessing: "Isachar, a bony man Donkey, — — — — — he offered his shoulder
 the burden and became a day laborer « 3), Arabic nv», ephippium, sella camelina, asinus, Greek voreus, the one on the dog pregnant donkeys of vwros, males, u Ao, donkeys, AH, last= supporting underlay, ovos, donkey, onus, load, zorpXBy, hem= saddle, saddled mule, packhorse, Spanish asna, female donkey

 and rafters, asnilla, a crossbeam used for support
 a wooden frame, asnillo, serves as a repair for a damaged building.
 a trestle of masons and carpenters, asnico, /Efelfüllen,
 and the block or iron on which the roasting spit rests,

1) Castelli, lex. heptagl. col. 6. Freitagii lex. arabico-latinum I.
 p. 2 and 3. N

2) 1 Mof. 33, 19. c. 44, 2. 3) 1 Moses. 49, 14 f.

asnado, a buttress in the mine. Shechem was also called Sichar), which suggests a Bacchic cult, dw, schachar, to drink, drunken, intoxicating drink, drunken Schickaron, drunkenness. Such a cult took place according to biblical law. The news about Shechem actually happened, about which the following is below. Nearer. It can also be the Persian shakra, donkey, compare, taking into account the striking similarity comes, which also has other expressions for donkey in other languages, To have wine and vines; compare Hebrew wn, chamor, donkey, chald. chamar, Hebrew chemer, wine, Greek u, vine, ovog, donkey, osvos, wine, Latin asinus, donkey, asinusca, a kind Grapes, o, aavswv, wavdgnAioc, donkey, navsnAir, Hem saddle, Latin cantherius, canterius, beast of burden, mare, acid poi, a type of grape, xuvFzpog, cantharus, drinking vessel, N and zavdnkie, grape butts, zovdv, cups, German Kandel, Kanne, Greek u, nuveov, Huvovv, Vessel, to which perhaps the wedding at Cana is added, where Jesus turned water into wine.

The judges of Israel will soon strike their enemies with a Ox stick, soon with a donkey jawbone. Samgar strikes with those six hundred Philistines 2), and Samson with this one 1,000 (3). The underlying historical truth is that these military leaders would soon be under the sign of the bull—God's or Moloch-Jehovah, soon under that of the donkey god or Baal Peor fought and won victories. Compare the image of the Minotaur used as a war symbol) and The news in Diodorus that the Egyptians had images of the They made animals they worshipped and put them on spears, which the commanders had to carry them; victorious they would then have been believes she owes her happiness to these animals 5). There she declares

1) Gospel of John 4:5.

2) Judges 3:31. 3) Judges 15:15-16.

4) Böttiger, Ideas on Art Mythology, p. 351.

5) Diodorus 1, 86.

JS

u 150

The Greeks also believe that Troy was captured by a horse.
those who fought under the sign of the Poseidonian horse, cried
Ben diesem den Sieg zu; das divitliche Roß, dieser hellenischen Horse and water god, had over the Semitic bull and Troy's fire god had won the victory through his enchantment.
The city was taken by the rulers and, fighting within them, by the troops.

How the Moloch-like Jehovah's Witness of Israel is a fire service, a Worship of the negating principle in the devouring, consuming
renden flames, so was the one introduced by Balaam Donkey cult, a water service, a veneration of the blessed, fertilizing moisture, similar to how waters are used in India
The religion of Vishnu contrasts with that of the fire god Sivas (stands). From Simpson's donkey-like jawbone springs a Source, and even if one considers other views and
The overlay of the words gains the meaning that the source not from the jawbone (lechi), but from a crevice in the rock jumped at a place named Lechi, so it is the Relationship of this lechi on the chin (lechi) of the donkey Undoubtedly, so that even in this case the source and Donkey in a connection appears, as it is very strange weise auch fonst, und recht namentlich in Beziehung auf he
The Brazilian donkey cult comes to light. According to Tacitus

1) When Vishnu's tyrant and enemy of the gods Mahabali, who His rule had extended so far that even the heavens threatened by him, robbed of his kingdom, and left with only the underworld.
If it allows someone to stay, then this probably has the same meaning as if the Hellenic Zeus replaced his predecessor in rule, the fearsome Kronos, dethroned and banished to Tartarus. How this is a semi
The tic god, the Phoenician Moloch-Baal, is probably also the one in
It may have been a Semitic Baal; just as it may be with the fire god Sivas, whose name is partly of Semitic origin to appear Indian; compare with Sivas, Siva, Hebrew VYW, sevaa, terror, and with Haras, Hara, Hebrew den, chara, to ignite, charchur, inflammation, charon, fire — certainly more fitting for the terrible fire god, as if these names were understood in Indian: “the

The words “Venerable” and “the moving one” mean.

151

Did the Hebrews place the image of a donkey in the sanctuary?
consecrates, because, led by a herd of wild donkeys, they bring abundant (Fountain springs were found), and the Genesis tells of a certain Anah, who the water springs (dvs related to de, sea, lake, river) found when he found his father's donkeys Zibeon huftete 2). Here seems in the name Anah, nov, selbst
The meaning of "to lie like a donkey" is again related, compare Arabic "many".
herd of wild donkeys, donkey, "e, the humble donkey god of the Zechariah, see above; likewise in that of his alleged father Zibeon, the colorful one, the check, vdr, dye, zeba, a
A brightly colored dress. It is, in fact, the spotted donkey—means, who was held in special esteem by the Hebrews, since—Here too, their messiahs, on such a colorful, speckled one.
(Hundred-colored) animals appear riding (fol. 3). In Greek—
In terms of mythology and symbolism, we see the concept of water and spring in the same way with the form of the Rosses linked, and Greek, as well as German, mythology
It has horse and donkey springs. To the Greeks, the horse is Ge—crest and attribute of the water god Poseidon; on horseback whether sitting or driving with a two- or four-horse team, he will depicted himself, as horse god bears the name Hippios, Hippeios, Hipparchus, Hippagetes, Hippocurios, transformed even put himself on a horse to entice Demeter, and as Perseus of Medusa, with whom Poseidon in the form of the Rosses had impregnated, cut off his head, and the spring sprang forth—
Great Pegasus (spring) emerged. From this very horse
The Hippocrene spring on Mount Helicon was created by a hoofbeat.
Like the spring at Troezen, so too is the spring Peirene at Corinth. From
The hoofprint of Charlemagne's horse is said to be the Gleisbrunnen (track fountain).
(originating from the Odenberg), and in the Ortenau, where the

1) Tac. hist. 5, 3 f. 2) 1 Mof. 36, 24.

3) Eisenmenger II, p. 698. Winer, bibl. Realwörterb., IS 408.

4) Cf. Mone, History of Nordic Heathenry. Vol. 2.

p. 155. Grimm, German Mythology, p. 526.

152 .

At the All Saints Monastery, a donkey once struck with its hoof. onto the ground, and a fresh spring gushed forth 1). A Canaan also had such a spring. It is the spring from Simpson's donkey chin even in name. For these The source is: pn s, which is the biblical account on Simpson's cry (gp) to Jehovah refers to which cry itself only interpreted from the word and through one of those false etymologies have been produced, which are in Hebrew and other legends so frequently found 2). For np, kore, probably originally meant donkey, and np pr, donkey spring, like Hippukrene Rossquelle; cf. Sanskrit Kharas, Pelvic. Khar, chald. we, donkey, German Gorre, Gurre, horse, which perhaps also explains the name of the man who conspired against Moses Korah, Arabic Ka run, belongs to the legend that he lived on a white mule ride). Of equal importance as Kp 79 seems to be n pb, the source Harod too fine, on which of the donkey servants Gideon), so that au Sw, onager with confusion of the throat breaths n and v

The name of the donkey spring, Samson's, led us into the Indo-Germanic language area; Fol transports us into it. gendes. Simpson's father is named Manoah, cf. Indian ma- well, human, actually. Manus-born, since Manu is the tribe

1) The already in my treatise on Epplein von Gailingen he The legend thought this one was closer. Duchess Utta of Schauenberg, who had that The monastery, to which it owed its origin, sent a donkey to find its place. Pack it with money and go there freely. At the top, where the The Donkey Fountain, with its monument of the donkey, was the site of the Donkey Fountain. He jumped from the spring, and on the hilltop he threw down the sack.

2) Cf. e.g. Grimm, German Legends, No. 111. 1st part, pp. 168 f. At the site of Lake Arendsee in the Altmark region, there once stood a large A castle that perished, leaving only a man and a woman behind. came. The woman, looking around and noticing the sudden change— Meanwhile, he called out: "Arend, see!" i.e., Arend, look! for that was the man's name; The name Arendsee derives from this.

3) Cf. a von Wahl, Halle 1828, ©. 365, on Sura XXVIII.

4) Directive 7, 1

153

father of men, manus, man, goth. man, man,
manna, derived from mannisk, man, manus, the stem father of the Germanic tribes according to Tacitus 1). Samson was also from the tribe of Dan, of whom it was said in the blessing of Jacob will: "Then he will judge his people like one of the tribes."
Israel's« 2) — so that he is not even considered an Israelite here
The tribe is viewed, rather than as foreign to the other tribes.
who seems to be opposed. Probably had an Israelite with a foreign design mixes, that he was completely absorbed in it. In the book of Richter is the separatist nature and activity of the Danites very striking; they have no inheritance in Sfrael yet,

They find a place to live, take up residence, and call it Lais.

Dan 3) — where the note of the immigration of an actually to easily discern a completely foreign ethnic group. After a According to rabbinic legend, the tribe of Dan moved during the time of Jeroboam.
to Ethiopia), and it is wonderful how clearly in the languages of the eastern rifts of Africa an Indo-Germanic component emerges; one often hears there completely German Forms resound 5). The Apocalypse, when enumerated,
1) Bohlen, das alte Indien IS 218 f. Grimm, deutsche Mythologie.
p. 204 and Appendix p. XXVIII. 2) 1 Mos. 49:16.

3) Judges 18, 1 ff. 4) Eisenmenger II. p. 527.

5) This is how it is in Kielmaier's small directory, abroad of March 16, 1840, No. 76, p. 303: Galla ferd, horse, Danakil voddar, sheep, compare ram; Somali are, sheep, compare Greek.
«onv, lat. aries; Danakil achaera, earth, cf. lat. ager, German field;
Danakil gaer, to run, Schiho cor, to ride, cf. lat. curro, run, currus, carrus, wagon, French carriere, Spanish carrera, horse race, reindeer nen; Danakil jo, I, cf. yo, ego, Italian io, Spanish yo, I. From

 From Mithridates, Part 3, Section 1, I cite, for example, the following afrikanifche forms, with which it is just like this: Sokko manni, Lagoa-Bay monhee, Mensch, Beetjuanas monuna, Mann, auch hier
 so that Indo-German word; Agows kussani, to kiss, cf.
 Sanskrit: kus, to kiss, to embrace; Agows vaya, Falasha vajn, Gallas wajen, wine; Gafat, mojt, amajät, wine, cf. our meth, Greek.
 ue v, wine, Sanskr. madhu, madhus, honey, nectar; Tembu bu, child;

4

154

of the twelve tribes of Israel (the tribe of Dan is removed), and Hippolytus and Theodoret, based on Jewish tradition,
 They even declare that the Antichrist will come from this tribe.
 arise 25. To Dan Jeroboam presents a fine golden Idols appear, which we will see below are not Calves, but donkeys. Danaans and Danaids
 They were called the Argives, and in the myths of Danaus and His daughters are prominent in the water and spring service. "That
 The water-poor Argos turned the water-rich Argos into the daughters of the Danaos «; Amymone, the daughter of Danaos, is taken from—sends to seek water; there Poseidon dwells with them and He will show her the springs in Lerna, or he will command her to go to... whose legend tells of the trident he threw into a rock to extract; the resulting triple spring was called After her, the Amymonic one. The daughters of Danaus were They were worshipped in Argos, and there were four fountains there for them.
 consecrated. At holy springs, Bacchic and Phallic rituals were performed.
 Donkey service was once such a place, at
 in which Maimuna, a wife of Muhammad, was buried.
 For this happened, according to their desire, alongside a spring and under a tree, under which Muha—med had slept for the first time; here a
 A mosque was built, to which people frequently made pilgrimages 3).
 Most likely a Muslim shrine around transformed paganism. The name Maimuna corresponds to same on the Gold Coast, Basel Mission Magazine 1827, p. 540;

cf. Bu, Bube, English boy, Knabe, Fatos, small; Wawu mone, Moon, Old German mone, poppy; Lagoa-Bay matee, water, cf. Latin: madeo, madidus; Galla bischan, water, which was at the Indian Water god Vishnu reminded us. Among the Kaffirs, it's Hamba to go, Basel Mission Magazine 1835, p. 536, Latin ambulare, to go, Italian. gamba, French: jambe, leg, foot; gambade, aerial leap; English: gambado Half boots, gambol, air jump.

1) Revelation John 7:4 ff.

2) Gfrøer, Century of Salvation, 2nd section, p. 237.

3) Koran, by Wahl, Introduction, p. LXX.

155

which the Danaide Amymone founderbar agrees with, so that one I also suspect a connection here. A place in Palæstina was called 'day', spring of two calves, and we will find that the two alleged calves of the Se-robeam to Dan and Bethel donkey had been. At the gate of Enaim, the Two Wells, will be Tamar of Judah by poor, and perhaps the name Thamar contains the meaning tung Esselin, cf. in Africa Somali damer, Esel 1). Eben that is Shiho danan, donkey 2), which gives us the names Dan and Danaos might explain. The name is complete. the one from Shechem the donkey, and son of Chamor the donkey, weakened Dina. The names of these girls are probably actually that of the female donkey god, hence, as we will see, Thamar at the same time the wife of the donkey y, Mv. In Aramaic, the somewhat more distant uo means laden. to be, Hebrew: to pack the animals for a journey, Latin: migravit, iter fecit, Arabic. yiyo, camelus onus gestans. Heb. with before striking x is ne, aram. xine, arab. ene, asina, The latter at the same time, which is very strange, locus aquam haurientis ad oram putei, which is explained by the fact that the fresh, invigorating spring as the dwelling place and sanctuary of the Donkey God, indeed as this nature god himself appearing within her, just as fire as the appearance and presence of the was regarded as the corrupting fire god Moloch-Jehovah. Therefore, a further comparison can be made: 137, Arabic with Dsal fluxit, won, sea animal, American tuna, water and river 3), ga

lifch tonn, Woge, nebšt river names, like Dunne, Don, Danube, Tonna, Tanais, Danubius, Dan in America
etc. When Judah woos at the Two Wells, that is what it means.

1) Kielmaier aa O. 2) Das.

3) Humboldt, Journey into the Equinoctial Regions, 2nd Th. p. 258.

Murr, Travels of some missionaries of the Society of Jesus in America, Nuremberg, 1785, p. 402. There is Chaymas tuna, water, here tama

nakis tuna, water and river. f

156

Actually, the tribe of Judah is, here the lustful
Source and donkey service result; and this is referred to here as Ver Guilt and apostasy to false religion are described and in
It casts a hateful light. Tamar bears two children by Judah.
Sons, named Perez, i.e. crack, split, break, and Serach, i.e., leprosy, cf. n, from the outbreak of dessel
ben) — so probably an insulting allegory and representation lung of a defection of the tribe of Judah to donkey service. But are perhaps in a manner very common among the Jews
according to) certain others, Eighth, the one to be insulted
The party itself, even its members, only use hostile forms of names.
changes and twists; for Perez appears from Pered, mouth
animal or donkey, made, and Serach may perish in it lying, unadulterated form the designation of a bacchi fchen Cultus gewesen fein, vergl. pw, sorek, eine edle Art of vines, dopyw, noble vines, Arabic max, wine.
According to the account of Genesis, earlier, a Canaanite woman, three sons of Judah named He,
Onan and Shela were born; he became the husband of Tamar,
But it is evil in the eyes of Jehovah and will be punished by him.
tordtet; On an lässt feinen Samen auf dem Erde fallen und is also killed, Shela becomes Kesib, the liar

1) 2 Chron. 26, 19.

2) Thus, in hostile opposition to Christianity, the Cathedral to the abyss tehom, or to impurity tuma, the mass to the death mitha or misa, the festum natale, the feast of the hanged man Nithal, the Apostle Peter or Saint Peter, at the birth of the donkey Peter Chamor and others distorted; yes, the rabbis have said the same thing. changes made mandatory; 5 fol for Beth Galja, high House, the church, be said, deep house, house that into the pit, or beth calja, destined for destruction, or beth gadja, Bockshaus, or beth charja, Schweineftall, in which part The highly compliant language came to the aid of very droll changes; cf. Eisenmenger IS 275, 277, 518 ff. 528, 539, 549 ff. 533 f. 654. Bohlen, Genesis Introduction, p. CXCVIII.

157

(city, born) and seems in fine name a heresy, to denote a false cult, cf. dow, to err, to be missing, to commit a transgression, in Hiph. to lead astray, to deceive, recalls but at the same time to Shiloh in the blessing of Jacob, with whose Mentioning the words connected: "He binds to the wine." stock his donkey filling and to the noble vine of his donkey's son, He washes his clothes in wine and in the blood of the Grapes fine garment" 2%); the one associated with Tamar Onan is the donkey, Onan is the donkey god as generative, the Earth-fertilizing solar power, cf. ue, on, generative power. Similarly, in the name of Gad's sons, the The relationship to the donkey cult is highlighted. It is discussed here as— collectively called: Ziphjon and Ezbon, Eri, Arodi or Arod, Osni and Chaggi); the forms Ziphjon and Ezbon, the latter with prosthetic e = ix, may remind us of to remind you of the Zibeon discussed above as a spotted donkey; Eri is, like He, the son of Judah = , donkey, Arod is w, wild donkey, Osni, cf. isl. asni, Latin asinus, like= derum donkey), with Chaggi cf. African Galla gage, Mule 5), Quagga, Quacha, equus quagga, a South African animal of the horse family, which includes many It resembles the zebra, and its tail... like a donkey, loses its tuft of hair, Hebrew zn, chag,

Feast, among the Talmudics the joyous leaf hut festival, ur=

1) 1 Moses. 38, 1 ff. 2) 1 Moses. 49, 10 f.

3) 1 Mof. 46, 16. 4 Mof. 26, 15 f.

4) A foreign word would be quite appropriate here, because the Cul= tus is based on contact and mixing with Indo-Germanic roots; However, Kanne, Pantheon, pp. 214 and 621, places the word with the Hebrew osten, Ohr, zufummen, asinus, echttl. Ohrenthier, asio, Ohreule, vom The basic sound is as, but of course it is again the Indian and Greek. suitable, Sanskrit usa, hollow, Greek ovs, ws, out, ear, ros, otus, Eared owl, from the genitive form, Modern Greek avziou, hearing, out, ws, with Alternation of s and r, Latin auris, German ear.
| 5) Kielmaier aa O.

158

Originally probably named after the eel god, Eselfest, ton, to dance, of the celebration of the donkey cult U., which is marked by dancing.

Jacob's blessing contains a very dark passage, which cannot be overcome by conventional ways of thinking, But this has made it perfectly clear to me. She be= namely refers to the self-celebration of the tribe of Joseph at a holy spring with tents pitched, as the be= knew ea rad or daughter huts, where the Babylonian Girls were allowed to sleep with them. It's called VW Y DayX here. Then, the daughters of the donkey or donkeys, at or in front of the tent, the leafy and daughters' hut of the donkey cult, sitting; for davx means asinus, vnx, onager, dr Den in Arabic, onagri, and know the Ethiopian vw, locus secretus, claustrum 2), es ist fo viel als dd, Laubhütte, in der Be= nennung nid md, daughter huts. Joseph, himself is called * Yes, a son of the donkey at the spring; for nn is certainly just a different spelling or pronunciation here for ns, mule, Latin veredus, burdo etc. w., as in daa, Arabic: Inn, to divide, compare also Arabic: vod, equus velox, a= Simpler form Chaldean: es, to run, Hebrew and Arabic: dn, onager, arab. dnn, asina, nn, alacer, agilis fuit, "yo, alacer, agilis. At the site of Shechem, where we find Efelcultus after shown, after the age of Jesus a Neapolis is mentioned,

1) It is the cult of the golden calf, in which we below to recognize the cult of the golden ass attributed to the Hebrews will be; cf. Exodus 32:5-18-19. Here, "calf and The word "Reigentanz" (round dance) is also associated with it, and the word "ain" is not missing either. This is also in this cult rooted in a leafy hut festival, about which below closer, was celebrated with music, singing and dancing.

2) Castell. lex. hept. col. 3212 and 3719. Freitagii lex. arabico-latinum J, p. 162. II. pp. 498 and 480. American in Guiana ift Sura, an Indian hut, one story high; Barrere's description by Guiana and Baumgarten, loc. cit., 2nd ed., p. 470. A low one, which On earth, a house of the same type is called kubuya, Arabic, Hebrew dap, kubba. Bedroom.

159

whose native name is after Josephus Magopdæ or Ma-pd war; derfelbe means donkey spring, from d, », Arabic. sn, water, and that 43, nn, n, mule or donkey. But how in Arabic those donkeys and wells in One collapses, so it is here too; those forms also mean Water and spring, Arabic: s, aqua duleis, Arabic: nen, Hebrew: nun, the Euphrates, with which the latter Greek Form forming prosthetic x: ee, d,, the water and Eselstadt, from which the Messiah of this cult, the speculative, the primordial word and that in the beginning the mouth of Balaam's donkey, created by things, os loquens asinae, ist, ausgehen soll).

The mention of donkey worship in Jacob's blessing is Approvingly, the poem is, as one can also from his bacchi fchen Schilo-Silen with donkey and vine stick sees, in donkey the composed in a Nerian spirit. The situation is quite different with that depiction of Judah's consorting with Tamar, which breathes the spirit of the opposing religious party. Thus However hostile she is, she has still managed to defeat us in two of the

The name she mentioned is very expressive and memorable—worthy testimony to the good nature of the attacked Cultus preserved. They are the names of the men with whom Judah comes into contact with it from the very beginning. He draws down from his brothers to a man of Adullam, whose name is Chira; there he sees the daughter of Canaaniter's shoe, with which he had the three sons Er, Onan and Shela begets. According to the dialects, Chira is home to the The concept of goodness), in Schua the concept of magnanimity and freedom

1) Micah 5:1. "But you, Bethlehem Ephrathah, from you will May the ruler who is fine come forth from Israel, whose origin is from of prehistoric times, from the days of antiquity." Compare above regarding the Donkey as a creative word and the one that has existed since ancient times Messiah-Donkey of the Rabbis.

2) Cf. Castellus under n col. 1217 ff. the Ethiopian and Arabic, and Friday IS 540.

160 4

generosity; it is actually the name of the donkey god, as the Good, benevolent, richly endowed, life and pleasure preparing, in contrast to those against life, pleasure and well-being—finely hostile deity of Semitic Moloch-Jehovahism. Moloch ≠Jehovah is night and darkness, the West is Fine part, he hates morning and sunlight; star—Rushing cold and consuming fire, plague and death are subtle manifestations in nature are revered and appeased. him through abstinence, castration, self-harm and self-mutilation, through oppression and subjugation annihilation of the generative and birthing forces of nature, through castrations and surrogate circumcisions, through Sacrifice of the newly emerged and flourishing human being—life, the most precious, noblest and dearest personalities of the people, and also everything else as friendly as hostile living being. Of all this is the donkey. God and his cult, in its original and unaltered state They mixed purity, at least, quite the opposite. He is completely harmless, completely mild and without violence; that's how it appears.

He stands out particularly in the prophetism of Balaam. The God
 the same, who was humbled and died in creation good spirit of life and nature, as a lowered one Having the symbolic form of a donkey, is the God of light, of water, wine, Bacchic and phallic lust, the
 A persecutor and instigator of the most unbridled gaiety. He Is the light and life-giving solar power, as such The inseminator of the earth, the sun god Onan. He is to-like the god of fertilizing moisture, he is water- and Spring god, from the bone of his severed head
 The spring gushes forth, or he hews it out of the rock with the Hoof. He is the god of vines and wine, and transforms water into Wine increases the cool, sober element in grapevine,
 Grapes and fermenting must for an exhilarating, intoxicating experience Grape juice. He is also the god of sexual pleasure.
 and production, and this in particular becomes Cul~~r~~ here

161

tussache, to sacrament and divine service. Those Babylonians
 In Samaria, daughter huts are made according to a related cult.
 and even earlier we remembered the Jewish leafy hat~~r~~
 tenfestes, which Plutarch describes as a Dionysus festival. designated 1). It does indeed arouse the interest in the Book of Nehemiah.
 Description of this festival, remark made that the Sfrae-
 They did not suffer as they had done since the days of Joshua the son.
 Now), the suspicion that the whole thing is only a post-exile—
 It was a clever invention; but it seems to be the case here as...
 with the reformatory Passover of Kings Hezekiah and Sofia: a passport holder had probably been there, but not a completely different one.
 the same; and how one can see this in the old Moloch of Jehovah's Witnesses founded festivals, the human sacrifices and the associated~~r~~ abolished cannibalism by eliminating animal sacrifices and
 By replacing the consumption of animal meat, one created this for the Canaanitic donkey services belonging to old leaf hut festival in a joyful, yet those worshipful sexual—nut-banishing Jehovah celebration around 3). Thus they mingled two completely opposing cults under different forms Restrictions and allowances combined into a third~~r~~
 men. In consideration of the donkey cult as MWaffer- and Wine cult is the following, which remained in the Jewish Feast of the Leafy Huts.

The rest is worth noting. On each of the 7 festival days, a Waf-Serlibation took place; at the time of the morning sacrifice a priest fetched

1) Sympos. 4, 5. Cf. 2 Macc. 10, 6 f.: "And they celebrated with Joys eight days according to the way of the leaf huts, — and bore Ivy staves and beautiful branches, also palm branches" — which Ivgoopogi" Deserves all attention.

2) Nehemiah 8:17.

3) Cf. 5 Moof. 16:13 ff. "The feast of the leafy huts you shall celebrate They last seven days if you gather from your threshing floor and from your winepress. And rejoice in your feast, you and your son and your daughter, etc. For Jehovah, your God, will bless you in May your produce and all the work of your hands be good; therefore, be only "Happy!" |

Daumer, Fire: and Moloch Service. 11

162

into a golden jug water from the spring of Siloam and poured It next to wine in two on the western side of the altar be- perforated bowls, with music and hymns of praise erton 1). At the Laubhuttenfest, as this water festival, it is also that Jesus appears and presents himself as a messianic giver to reveal living water 2); according to Zechariah, whose Messiah coming on a donkey will in future only come to Jerusalem the Laubhüttenfest is celebrated, and those who do not Those who come to celebrate will have no rain; Out of Jerusalem will flow two streams of living water. emerge 3); cf. give life, abundance and health- the stream which, according to Ezekiel's prophecy, flowed from the temple break and irrigate the land, and those of Joel next to A bounty of must, milk, and water was promised. Temple spring). Modern Jews call the seventh Day of the Feast of the Leaf Huts, the Little Judgment Day, because God In my opinion, on this day judgment over the waters holds, i.e. decides how much it will rain in the following year. (should be 5). Very characteristic is finally what has recently come out of Jerusalem is reported to have seen that in the synagogues there, which is called Kehal Zijon, attaches an artificial machine, the water during the celebrations of the Laubhüttenfest the height splashes ©).

That the ancient Hebrews had a Bacchic religion and mythology= That it was absorbed is beyond doubt. Still.

Rabbinic fables attest to it. The Greeks tell of

1) Winer, biblical Realw. II, p. 8 f. 2) John 7, 37 f.

3) Zechariah, 9, 9. e. 14, v. 1 + and 16 ff.

4) Ezek. OT, 1 ff. Joel 4:18. Also Isa. 35:6. Reveal. John 22:1, where a river of living water flows from the throne of God. The corresponding rabbinic ideas can be found in Gfrøer, century of salvation, 2nd section, p. 250.

5) Oertel, "What do the Jews believe?" p. 116.

6) The Orient. Journal by Dr. Julius Fürst, Leipzig, February 25. 1840, No. 4.

}

163

/

King Midas' rose garden and the one with wine= mixed spring Inna, where the captured Silenus was brought to the king I had to prophesy 1). According to another account Midas mixes a spring with wine and sends a man there. Satyr, whom he wants to capture. The same satyr drinks, sleeps drunk. one and is captured. This is said to be Apollonius of Tyana. imitated and also captured a satyr 2). In rabbinic legend, the role of Midas is given to the king.

Solomon transferred, and Silenus is the devil. Ashmedai.
 He has a waterhole from which he usually drinks;
 Solomon sends Benaiah, who pours wine into the pit.
 Ashmedai drinks, gets drunk, and falls asleep. Benaya ties him up.
 him and leads him to Solomon, to whom he must reveal where to find the stone-splitting worm Shamir 3). Mi-
 It has, as is well known, donkey ears, according to a friend of the Bacchic.
 Cultus was and appears in the Bacchic procession. The to different regions, from Xenophon to Thymbrion and Tyraeon, from Pausanias to Ancyra, from Bion, the
 She calls Inna, Midas relocated to the Pannonian border-source where Silenus or the satyr is said to have been captured, was a sacred spring of donkey worship, like those in the places
 nau, the Samson's from the donkey's jaw and the source Siloa, whose waters were mixed with wine at the Feast of the Leafy Huts mixed. Midas' father was Gordius; he was King of Gordium, and even Kanne has this name with 7139, arod, garod, Esel, combinirt). The city was located on the Rivers Sangarius or Sagaris, and this name also leads on donkeys and wine; see above on the name Sichar, Hebrew.
 Shachar, drinking, etc. From Bacchic donkey service came probably also the one in the Herodian temple above the gate of the Halle showing itself, colossal golden vine, whose dream-

1) Cruiser, Symb. III. p. 215.

2) Philostr. vit. Apollo. 6, 27. 3) Eisenmenger, IS 350 ff.

4) First historical documents, p. 677. Pantheon p. 125.

11°

164

ben said to have hung down to human size 1). Before-
 A strange person also developed positions within this religion.
 Palm, which mentions the name Jehovah and where it says:
 "God of our salvation, who stills the roaring of the sea"
 and the roar of the peoples — of morning and evening
 You fill the rising sun with jubilation. You look down upon the earth and You lend her abundance, you bestow upon her riches, God's stream is full of water, you prepare grain, soaking their furrows, leveling their clods, washing them away with downpours, their Blessing the growth. You crown the year with your blessing,

 And your footprints are dripping with grease. The Anger are dripping.
 the desert, the hills girded themselves with jubilation, they clothed themselves
 The pastures with sheep and the meadows are covered in grain;
 Everyone shouts and sings « 2). The feet dripping with grease
 The footsteps of the bringer of blessing can be traced on the giant shoe of the Perseus, who in Egypt was the sign of a fertile year was 3), as well as those appearing in an old monument Footprints of the fruitful Isis remind us where one can walk between...
 The image of two footprints or soles bears the words: Isidi
 fructiferae lies't Y. |

We have been ordered above to see Judge Gideon in a line with the judges and priest-priests of the Efel-to establish the cult of Jair and Abdon. He was the destroyer of the Baal cult to Ophra 5), and we will go after the earlier
 The Baal cult presented here does not involve any external influence.
 guided, alien service, but the same ancient, all

1) Winer, real word. II, p. 682.

2) Ps. 65:6 ff. Ä

3) Herod 2:91: "The Chemmites say that Perseus is often in seen in their land and within the sanctuary; also, a Lace-up shoe of fine foot, two ells tall, and as often as this one was worn.
 "When I see it, blessings will come upon all Egypt."

4) Schlager, de nummo Hadriani et gemma Isiaca, p. 142. Creu-zer, Symb. IV. p. 57.

5) Directive 6, 25 ff.

165

common Semitic, albeit in a particularly distinctive form here to recognize the cult of the negating principle, which already Abraham and Moses and later Samuel, David and Solomon paid homage. Baal, Moloch, and Jehovah are—wiesenerzigen nur versjälene Bezeichnungen einer und der= the same, otherwise also called Kronos and Saturn deity had been, and the altar of Baal, which Gideon destroyed, is that of his own father Joash, whose name was Wen—which refers to Jehovah's service. What about the altars on Baal's altar? As regards the Asherah standing at Joas, it is difficult to know how one did, to a goddess of luck, to a friendly, cheerful to think of her as a nature goddess; rather, we will think of her as associated with Sivas, the Indian god of fire and destruction, ver—to compare bound, terrible Kali. Because everyone The Indian god has his rightful wife or sakti, power, those with the same attributes and the same power as you husband, provided for and intended to spring from him—who cares for him. Thus, Shiva's wife or he himself in female—licher form which, just like him, destructive, annihilating Kali, whose bloody cult, formerly practiced with human sacrifices among the Shaivites it is spread throughout the entire country, so that (she has her chapels on every street). On a fearful= The word associated with Asherah appears to be a representation. miphlezeth, from ybs, to frighten, to interpret 2), cf. tiphle-Zeth, terror, and the aforementioned names Pachad, God, actually terror, etc. Also the one in the Scythian Taurica, the venerated Upis, can be remembered, from the Crosser The following is said: "She was the bull goddess in the land of bulls." She was ordered to perform a bloody duty, and she thirsted no less craving human blood than that bull-headed Moloch. the Ammonite. Still in the transplantation to Sparta be=

1) Bohlen, das alte Indien, IS 180, 208, 247, 265.

2) 1 Con. 15:13. Assa robs fine mother Maacha of her king's would, because she made a miphlezeth of Asherah.

166

This Scythian religion retained its character. The Lacedae= Monier had their Upis, so they said, from there; already at The inauguration of the divine service was marked by frenzy, murder, and The first effect was a fatal blow, and if one were to Sparta, even at the beginning, slaughtered these Taurian women. so later it had to be said of the back of the scourged

Youths, human blood flows. The first glimpse of the image.
 had driven those approaching him mad. So a gray one
 A monstrous, appalling idol with magical power. Perhaps.
 It had, sent from the land of the bulls, a bull's head «).
 This Scythian Artemis is called Orthia by Pausanias, the Upright, called 2), and this name is synonymous with the Hebrew name Asherah from wn, just fine;
 These Asherahs were erected on a pillar.
 or idols erected on a tree trunk, initially probably Above, the roughly hewn idols, incidentally left as a tree to think of tribes such as one finds on the islands of the silent (found in the sea), or as they tell us a myth in Eusebius describes where Zeus, with the help of Alalkomenes, built a great Oak skin, which carves the same human-like, bridal out (decorates and Daëdale calls it). Columns of white stone, Erected by Darius, the Byzantines used it as an altar
 Artemis Orthosia, which is just another form of Orthia (ö).
 But the Hebrew Asherahs, with their word included in it...

1) Creuzer, Symb. II. P. 127 f. 2) Paus. 3, 16.

3) One such, an old Heiau (temple) of the Sandwich Islands Ha-waji belonging, "cut from a single tree—
 The image of a detestable figure is in William Ellis's maturity
 Illustrated by Hawaji, Hamburg 1827, p. 242; cf. the illustration a royal morai of this island with the wooden carved and raised on tree trunks, greyish figures in Kotzebue's Discovery
 Reise, Weimar 1821, Part 1, between pages 18 and 19.

4) Eusebius. praep. Evangel. 3, 1: — reuoyrug avrovg EUNTERYOY xus nayxulny dpuv, MopPWoci TE KvrnV x, xaraorekai vuupinws Jadalny NpoSuyopevouvrus.

5) Herod. 4, 87.

cut down and burned, and according to rabbinical Sprad)- (Use means Asherah, a tree). "You should Do not plant an Asherah of any kind of wood on your altar.

"God's, which you make for yourself," commands a passage in the Interpretive—ronomiums 2), and Gideon, with ten servants, beats the ko—
He turned over his father's ashram and arranged with the wood a burnt offering to the same (3). That this Asherah, the few ftens theilweise Gestalt des Stiers, wie Moloch und Minotaur, and how, according to Creuzer, that Scythian Artemis had, of which
The following clue is found. Gideon receives the following order:

"Take the bull 2 that your father has, and the second bull of seven years, and destroy the altar of Baal, which your father has, and the Asherah, which is next to Cut him down! And build an altar to Jehovah, your God,
'on the summit of this rock with the prepared wood,
and take the second bull and offer a burnt offering with it from the wood of Asherah, which you cut down. Then he took Gideon chose ten men from his servants, and did as Jehovah had spoken to him. — — — — — And when the People of the city who rose early in the morning, behold, there
The altar of Baal was shattered, and the Asherah, which stood next to it, was destroyed.
him, felled, and the second bull lay as a burnt offering.
on the built altar («). What Gideon did with the first
The bull's actions remain unmentioned. It is, however, easy to to see that only under the second bull, the one who was sacrificed will be understood as a true bull, under the enigmatic
But the first, of which it is said in a very special way that he Joas had a bull-headed idol. She is known for...
Astarte depicted with a horned bull's head, on which the city name Astaroth refers to Karnaim; »Astarte set
"A bull's head as royal jewelry on her head," he says.

- 1) Compare Movers, Phoenicians, 1st Th. pp. 567 and 573.
2) Deuteronomy 16:21. 3) Judges 6:27. 4) Judges 6:25-28.

nJ

Sanchuniathon 1). So, quite a female juggernaut, and how Moloch is equated with Baal, yet in a certain sense... Just as he is distinguished from Asherah, so too is Asherah. Case. For as it says there in Jeremiah, the Hebrews had in the valley of the sons of Hinnom the Baal high ground builds to sacrifice their sons and daughters to Moloch 9, Thus, in the Book of Judges we find an altar to Baal, and as the idol of this altar, one representing Baal Asherah. But as with the altars of Baal, so will Asherah be, to a passage in the Pentateuch already mentioned above= follow, also connected with those of Jehovah 3) and represents so too this one; and so all these Na= flow men and figures are ultimately brought back together in one. Another name for Asherah than this sakti of Jehovah and Baal, it seems Lilith was too refined; he is from Ib, Night, formed, whereby we refer to Jehovah's, as the above after—to remember the appointed God of night and darkness, and refers to a Jewish, child-stalking, child-killing Night spectre, those Lamiae, Empusae and Mormolhykeiae similarly, who kidnapped children and lured young men to themselves, to enjoy their flesh and blood, and which in Basically, it's probably nothing different than the female version. Moloch with its human sacrifices and sacrificial feasts. Mopuw, wopuoAvnssov, Schreckbild, Larva, Boganz, ist der Word meaning according to that Hebrew miphlezeth, the mover certainly incorrectly reinterpreted in veretrum, genitalia, op-706, fchrecklich, ο πvvovvv. u. f. w., erfchrecken, fschrecken, scare them away. In Egypt, Lilith-Ashera is the evil Nephthys. who, unlike Isis, belongs to the dark hemisphere, and which the Greeks called AQpodiry Txori). She is

1) In Eusebius, prepar. gospel. 1, 10. 2) Jerem. 32, 35.

3) Deuteronomy 16:21

5) Plutarch, de lside, c. 44. Hesych. sv Zxorsa, Prichard, ægyp= Table mythology, translated by Haymann, p. 124.

and in which the Moloch is a lover, bridegroom and husband of those who fall victim to him, to him as the God of death and destruction of life and equal to be married together. The same relationship occurs in the Dar. The position of the cult between the god and those, who emasculate themselves in his service, or who are given to him through Circumcision consecrates; for this is the representation of the Castration. The uncircumcised boy is called Blood Bride at the in Referring to a mystical marriage of the same with Jehovah, the construction which comes about), and according to the language- The Arab, Persian and Turks need the snowmaking. The name wedding 2. It is the relationship of the Attys and the emasculated gall, like him, to their Goddess, cf. bea, gaal, to marry; so the name Attys can be Attis, who was also called Attin, with inn, chathan, bridegroom, chathunna, marriage, to be compared; the servants of the Kybele are also called Kybeben, like the goddess herself Ky— bebe 3); cf. æthiop. ada, nuptiae, Hebrew dan, chuppah, bride-chamber, bridal bed, Arabic and Hebrew dap, kubba, bedroom, the place where Simri woos the Midianite woman, dap, koba, shame, occurring in the same place), Latin: cubare, cumbere, cubile, Greek v at Hefych. = ouvovose, αυovovoseapos, Hebrew an, chob, chald. dan, choba, chuba, Nan, chubba, lap, Busen, Zan, chabab, love, chald. »san, N h⁹v , An, chab-bib, chabbibah, chibbub, lover, and several other forms in Arabic; from which the forms Kugel, Kun, Kussysy; Koußyßos, bride and groom, wife and husband, Kussyßos, Kussassos, with insertion of , as in cumbere, and otherwise:

172 Mos. 4, 26. |

2) Cf. my writing: Sabbath, Moloch and Taboo, ©. 13 f.
Note. 3) Cruiser, symbol. III, p. 40.

4) 4 Mof. 25, 8: “and Phinehas went to the Israelite man He went into the chamber and pierced them both, the Israelite man. and the woman through her shame.”

Kvußabos, the castrato name Combabus; even euvouxos,
 "Verschnittener" shows the same original meaning, from euyn, Bette, Ehe, Beischlaf, Ehe- und Bettgenosin, und ex, have, so one who has the bride, the wife, significant.
 This also applies to Rhea, Rheia, another name for the Cybele, compare dvd, raja, ny, rea, u, reulh, girlfriend, Comrade, lover, amica, vd, rea, lover, consort. Man
 Remember at the same time what was mentioned above, from the oak tree.
 carved, bridal-adorned image of the god. The one in the he=

Brazilian history mentioned in connection with Asherah=

Alleged suitors, deep, i.e. consecrated, sanctified, a Expression that refers entirely to different deities Which can mean different things, are snippets, galls of the Asherah, the female Baal and Moloch-Jehovah), and Asherah is not a goddess of lust, but of nature and life.
 hostile purity and chastity, a being that witnesses-fought against the forces of nature, both fertilizing and fertilizing, and their Products that had already come into existence were destroyed. At a
 There we come across tents of Asherah and her holy people.
 (Castrates) in Jehovah's house; the women go into the dwellings of these secrets that were set up in the temple precinct lighten to weave tents for Asherah 2). Here one must Don't be fooled. We know that the galls in Ge= society with the women lived, and both parts a fan

 They harbored or harbored romantic love for one another. Lucian tells... of Stratonice, who loved the Combabus, that she expressed her love
 They did not give up on him when they found him emasculated.
 but remained in inseparable communion with him.
 He then continues: "And this kind of love came into Ge=

It is used in the holy city and is still found there today.
 The women are particularly fond of the cisgender devoted to priests, and these galls in turn harbor a hef=

1) Cf. Movers, The Phoenicians, Vol. 1, p. 683.
 2) 2 Con. 23, 7.

171

intense passion against women. But nobody resented it.
 not out of jealousy, but one sees there in this Love something sacred « 1). With four hundred such holy Queen Jezebel surrounded herself with castrati; for as such are they certainly to grasp those four hundred prophets of Asherah who (besides four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal).

When one considers the self-mutilations in the service of Cybele derives from a veneration of the generative power of nature, so it is That is utterly absurd; because castration is, after all, abortion.
nullification of the generative power, and with the same right could
It could be said that the Catholic monastic and nun system is inherently...
Nature worship is the underlying principle. The nature-hostile character That religion otherwise stands out so decisively, so, what concerning the self-harm and penances which the wandering galls and priests of the Syrian goddess to
They offered a glimpse; their heads bowed low to the earth and circling.
turning around, so that the dissolved hair passed through the dung (looped), they flew wildly around each other, biting each other in the process.
She exposed her arms and cut them with the two-snipped knife.
with the swords they used to carry. Then he began one of them, with groans and moans, to prophesy
He publicly accused himself of the sins he had committed.
on, whom he now punished by floggings of the flesh
wool, took the knotted whip, which also contained galls which they used to have with them, shattered their backs and cut them.
with swords, until the blood ran from the mutilated body—

1) Lucian. de dea Syria 22. Compare Cruiser Symbol. III. p. 61.
Movers aa OS 686.

2) 1 Con. 18, 19.

3) Therefore, the names of these castrates correspond to several words, which signify a bowing of the head and a circular movement, s. in Castellus lex. heptaglott. col. 1663, f. under 235 the Ethiopian and Arabic, in Greek the forms contain both meanings
ug id, zußsoraw, xuußexgos; with Gallos compare vyz, veoh, habs, the latter wheel.

172

per dripping down 1). "If only the gallstones," says Movers, »in honor of Asherah, he himself as a Kedesh prize« ben, so this is difficult to explain otherwise than by the fact that They are two different gods, Moloch Saturn and the impure nature goddess, were holy « 2). Thus satisfy Anyone who wants to and can. Mover himself points out that those wandering galls only very secretly turn to pederasty (to be used 2); so this was probably not a cult act.

 Even monks and nuns indulge in secret vices that are not to their status and cult, but to this in the highest
 I find the highest degree repugnant; the monks' lust is to the
 The people have become a proverb; a young, still immature
 The seemingly innocent girl is thus referred to in an old satirical song as talked:
 Have you tried it with our servant?

| That's how you do justice to priests and monks —

Yes, there are small wooden pictures of monks whose robes, when you pull on a thread, go up high and, immediately
 the neurospasms of the elderly), a relatively enormous

1) Cf. Movers, Phoenicians, Vol. 1, pp. 682 ff. with the same.
 tirteen Schriftstellern u. p. 688, where he discusses Julian's pneumatic interpretation
 There is. In America, there is a similar religious fanaticism noticeable.
 worthy tribe; they are the Minetars of upper Missouri, who are among the Ofchippeway's bear the name Agutſchaninne. They celebrate all Every year a so-called remorse dance takes place, in which the penitents... mutilate, or cut flesh from the body by the priests with a knife
 Some have their shoulder pierced, pull it out.
 through the opening a strap to which a buffalo head is attached, and
 They drag him behind them, all without making a sound.
 Balbi's Geography by Andree, Vol. 2, p. 575. John Tanner's
 Memories of a fine thirty-year stay among the Indians
 North America's, Leipzig. 1840, p. 42.

2) Ibid., p. 688 f. 3) Ibid., p. 683.

4) Lucian, de dea Syria, 16, describes them as “small, made of wood carved little men with extraordinarily large genitals”; they were pulled with strings or threads and set in motion, hence the Name.

Phallus is shown. But can it be inferred from this that unchastity and that fornication is a matter of Catholic worship? — But to get back to our hero, who the If the Baal cult of his father falls to Ophra, then it can be a Contradiction means that Jehovah also as his God he= It seems. It would allow fi) that, on account of the presentation, fchrei= ben, which made him a Jehovah's Witness hero in the sense of a later seeks to stamp time; but Gideon also erects a an altar and call it Sehova-Shalom, which means Jehovah's blessing!), and such specific names linked to places= They attract considerable attention. But we see here, at least, that... the idea already inherent in the name, as explained above, of Jehovah, as a genius of destruction and corruption= bens, transformed into its pure opposite, and thus it wants to gain the reputation as if the name Jehovah had already been established back then etymologically obscure and therefore capable of being derived from various— to those and opposing parties and to be needed, just like our equally dark one The name God reflects the various conceptions of God held by ours Religious sphere, indeed, the deities of all religions and Cults find their application 2). Let us also see how

1) Directive 6, 24.

2) “We are not sure about the root meaning of the word "sufficiently explained," says Grimm, German Mythology, p. 10. [Seeking] If you have an explanatory German word for it, then only good things are available; This is rejected by Grimm; however, if the equation were correct- tig, fo would not prevent them from speaking of evil gods, and Theologians such as Krummacher and Hengstenberg would nevertheless claim— ten, that God would "revel in the death rattle of his enemies and in “To the eternal torments of the damned, reveal his glory”; so too Conversely, if the name originally referred to that associated with human sacrifice... honored crocodile, Indian godha, alligator, should mean; cf. planks, India IS 190, and above about crocodile cult. One compares ußri= gens das perfich khoda, and finds in it the concept of the self-made= about being; Grimm, aa O. Bohlen, India IS 146. Kanne, in Pantheon, p. 634, also makes the following summaries:

he in connection with the alleged calf service of the old Hebrew appears, whom we will show below to be not a bull service, as one assumes, but a donkey service beings, like the reformatory one, the Moloch like the donkey service the opposing party of the Old Testament not only also quite harmlessly uses this name, but rather it to have it all to himself and to keep it from any other party who wants to deny him, and how the Pentateuch, in a certain way, interprets, which, however, does not correspond to the original meaning of the same This is far from being appropriate — for this “I am who I am », this I = I, this abstract relation to itself selbst * is indeed only the spiritual expression for that evil principle, the principle of the completely abstract, in its relation A hung on other things only results in selfishness and egoism that negates selfishness and egoism — who, however, does not know the true etymology of the word. or seeks to veil. Jehoyah-Shalom would therefore be simply a god of salvation in contrast to the old— kömmlich molochiftichen God of misfortune and destruction; Another form of the name appears to be Ab-Shalom, father of the Salvation, to have been, and from this God, ancient According to custom, he rebelled against the Molochic David. Absalom to have borne the name; compare the one about the— The prince already mentioned this above. However, one could also to suspect that Gideon was not merely a donkey servant, but to merely mitigate the old Molochian Jehovah's Witness and with the They sought to mediate and merge donkey services, so that a cheerful cult with animal sacrifices instead of human sacrifices there was connected. We also don't hear that his seven karalite. gud, Creole. Negro god, Tatar. in Tobolsk chudai, Canada cud-ragnii, Kamchad. kout, Friendship Islands catoa, God, Greek xvdos, Glory. The German word itself is in the various German— Mani languages and dialects: guth, gudh, gud, god, got, cot.

1) Exodus 3:14. “And God said to Moses, I am the one who I am. And he said: This is how you shall speak to the sons of Israel: “I am he who has sent me to you.”

dozens of sons, who according to the above were seventy sub-priests and to seize subordinate leaders, riding on donkeys, like the self-princes Jair and Abdon, and as the reformer When the throne is offered to him, he says: "I do not want to rule over you, and my Son shall not rule over you.

"Jehovah will rule over you!" And now he makes to give his people a Melech or Molech, a ruler in Form, as its priest and vizier he himself over Israel presides over a so-called ephod, which he established in his city of Ophra erected and which all Israel serves. This seems entirely in that sense of Molochist theocracy already discussed above traded, according to which formally no other ruler of Israel, as the one anointed to be its king. Moloch, may exist. Since However, in such investigations, a name sometimes escapes us. ræth, what the later representation tells us with or unintentionally conceals, so perhaps the name is not to be overlooked, which a squire of Gideon's wears. His name is Pura; Gideon trusts in him, since he is in the enemy camp goes, and one doesn't understand how he only mentioned this fleetingly. servants become so important that the enormous A war hero feels no fear only in fine company 1). Something seems to be hidden behind this. Is it perhaps Gideon's God, who accompanies him and in whom he places his trust He sets, a portable idol that he carries with him? That name also leads the winepress, which is called purah; was that pura a winepress god, a Dionysus Lenaïos, to whom a winepress festival Auuva,, was celebrated? Lenai von. Ayvos, wine press, wine harvest, They are also called Bacchantes; Gideon threshes wheat in the Winepress; there his god appears to him, and the citizens of Shechem, since they were destroyed by Abimelech, the destroyer of the Gideonian kingdom Religious institutions, falling away, staying in the house of their god a winepress and joyous festival and cursing the Abimelech 2). That Pura became Gideon's servant, squire, and attendant,

1) Judges 7, 10. 2) Judges 6, 11, e. 9, 27.

This could be because the donkey god was called the servant 29, See above; and so the cult of Gideon nevertheless seemed to expose it as a Bacchic donkey service. On such a Perhaps the name of the city where he lived also refers to this.

Image set up; dv, the young of deer, roe deer, gazelle, Arabic.
young Capricorn, — meanings associated with that of the wild Donkeys are related, more on that below, Arabic.
n, dorcas, 159" and Wav, a donkey's name, asinus quidam celeber Mahomedi 1). From the source of the donkey Harod, where Gideon is encamped, as has already been mentioned above, and that at This source represents a selection and separation of the people.
What is happening is also impossible to overlook and seems to be heading towards a to refer to the separation of two religious parties. Already 22,000 Men had left Gideon, and only 10,000 remained.
remained; now, in the divorce proceedings, remain at the donkey spring.
only three hundred — probably purely donkey-servant-minded — back. However that may be the case;
It is quite clear that Gideon was an opponent of the old, pure Moloch-like Jehovahism of his people, and not a refined religion was without mildness of character. But like Abimelech, who
The hero's son strives to thwart his work. The same is to be considered as Gideon's true son, whereas those seventy only improperly and in the sense discussed above his sons are named, although they are considered the legend to be the actual takes 2). These seventy Abimelech strangled all of them on one No, stone, i.e., he sacrifices them; immediately he rules Israel as King for three years; his name, however, means "father".

1) Freitagii lex. arabico-lat. III. p. 184. Castelli lex. heplagl.
col. 2845 f. 9 alternates with 3, 2, p, and in Arabic has v
the harsh guttural sound Ghain; to this is connected the Latin caper, caprea, capreolus, capricornus, billy goat, chamois, roe deer, roebuck, ibex, Galician gabhar, goat; but since it is also interchangeable with &, as in WV, NDS u. s. w., fo ist 129 = x, hebr. arab. D, laufen, Wx, Bock, etc. |

2) Directive 8, 30.

dh vizier of the king «), — this king, as his vizier
He reigns, is none other than the ancient Hebrew Moloch-Jehova, whose kingdom and service Abimelech has been restored.
But the citizens of Shechem rebelled, and Gaal, the son Ebed, the servant, that is, the donkey god Ebed (Pura-Ebed, of the winepress god Gideon), enters Shechem and calls upon the citizens to give thanks to the men of Hemor, the donkey.
serve 2).

So rich is the Book of Judges in traces of the old-Hebrew donkey cult is, so poor is the later biblical Ge-
The layer of it. The victorious Molochist endeavors Samuel and David destroy his existence, and if Saul and Absalom fought in the interest of the donkey cult.
So these appear to have been the last utterances of life.
the same in Israel. Later, a new contrast emerges against the ancient abomination, re-established by Samuel and David of the Moloch service, as well as against the one who, through all limits, breaking bacchi-priapic donkey cult, the imageless one, mora-Jewish Reformationism of the Prophets and Jewish Kings up, while the torn-away kingdom of Ephraim mostly turned to the so-called calf service yields, of which one does not know, what one should hold onto, and what one should attach it to.
But now it is time to address a topic that has already been provisionally discussed several times.
thought he was developing a suspicion which, if they could be held to account would be a much wider extension of the donkey service of the Hebrews-give, and bring great clarity and simplicity to the would bring back ancient Israeli history. It concerns many things:
sen so-called calf service, the service of the golden calf

1) "Father of the King", a well-known oriental expression to denote the vizier's dignity; so Genesis 45:8: "God has appointed me made father of Pharaoh and master of all his house and to the ruler of all Egypt."

2) Judges 9 and 28

3) Compare the following remark about the probable
Sources- and Saul's donkey cult.

Daumer, Fire: and Moloch Service. 12

in the desert and the one of Jeroboam I in the kingdom of Israel or
 The service of the golden calves at Bethel and Dan.
 It is believed that this animal figure is the symbol of the Hebrew cult.
 borrowed from Egypt, where two live bulls, the Apis in Memphis and Mnevis at Heliopolis were worshipped;
 but these bulls are the model of the Hebrew calf-bringing system were, why didn't they stick to venerating lifedigen bull 1)? Should there be so much cattle in Israel?
 were missing, either none could be found at all, or that it seemed too precious and indispensable to be used for cultivation.
 to use tus? According to another view, »the Hebrew bull images rather resemble the older Canaanite ones.
 Symbolism, specifically connected to the service of Saturn to have « 2). That seems to fit perfectly at first glance-the; yet it is strange that the name of the idol always bay, calf, young bull, is, since Saturn = Moloch fo Certainly the old man, the crone. For the Moloch bull on
 We found the term pa in the threshing floor of Aravna;
 According to other usage, one would have asked 15 questions.
 can, which also combines both; the bull idol Tro-Yes, it was called Paris, the In, and the idol overthrown by Gideon.
 is denoted by un Is, see above. The assumption that

1) Cf. Vatke, Religion of the Old Testament, Vol. 1, p. 398.

"The peculiarity of the Egyptian animal service in general and the bull:
 The service in particular consisted of using live animals for considered sacred, but animal images were usually only used as masks or in comics.

 positions attached, f. Cruiser's symbol. I, 480 ff."

2) Vatke, aa OS 398, cf. ©. 198. According to Movers, Phoenician J.

On page 380 f., the Israeli conception is indeed derived from Egypt, closer to si — but more from the Phoenician and Upper Asiatic perspective, where the bull not both a symbol of the generative power of nature, but the god-lichen power in general was, and it connects with the calves.
 the idea of Moloch-Jehovah, although the usual cultic way of the Moloch in fire and with human sacrifices not so significant here= precedes, as one might expect. — That is quite pathetic. Back and forth, instead of remaining completely silent.

179

Calves here are much more common than little bulls (bull idols). No probability at all; however tiny the idols might be. ten, when complete, standing in their full strength, respectable Animals were depicted, as can be expressed in terms of the concept of power and rule was required, so One couldn't possibly call them calves; it also doesn't suit... that idea, as well as for the erection of the idols to off= public, general popular veneration, where rather some impo= (santes, colossal to be expected?), the assumed smallness of the idols by no means. What if Bay isn't even involved here? What would be the meaning of "Kalb" instead of "Esel"? The names of the animals often change in languages 3), and

1) Movers, aa OS 376.

2) Cf. 1 Con. 12, 28 and 2 Mof. 32, 4 ff. The idol becomes It was shown to the whole people, the whole people look at it and worship it, Aaron erects an altar before it; it becomes the central point of a general cultus made.

3) Cf. AW v. Schlegel, über Tiernamen, in whose Indian Library, 1. B. 2. HS 238 ff., and Kanne, Relationship of the Greeks Chinese and German language, Leipzig 1804, p. 72 ff. The first Examples given in the place mentioned: Hebrew eleph, ox, Greek. tdlapos, Hirsch, eL,epas,. Gen. ehepuyros, Elephant, goth. ulbandus, Franconian olbent, angelfächf,, olfend etc. w. camel; Latin vulpes, fox, goth. vulfs, wolf; Greek rungos, boar, Latin caper, goat; Latin ursus, bear, Old High German *ors, horse; Greek *aumkog, Hebrew *gamal, camel, Latin *cabballus. Kanne cites, among other things, the German bear, which in Westphalen means a male pig, English boar, and barrow-hog, boar, boar-cat, tomcat. Also comparable is: Indian naga, Ethiopian nage, elephant, jolofish and sereric in Africa nague, nague, ox; Schlegel, aa OS 207 and 211. Mithridates 3rd Th. 1. Abth. p. 160; American. Quichua llama, Thier, Llama, the peruani= sheep-camel, African. Harrer lamb, cow, Kielmaier aa O.; Conguar, Jaguar, Jaguarete (names of American tiger species) Brazil. jacoara, dog, jagoarete, tiger cat, jacare, crocodile, caiman; Clavigero op. cit. 2nd Th. p. 431. Baumgarten op. cit. 2nd Th. p. 398. Murr, Travels of some missionaries of the Society of Jesus in America, Nuremberg 1785, p. 269, 542, 549; the Brazilian rabbit In Paraguay, "maus" is called "pag", in Brazil "paca", and in Quito "picuru".

12*

180

The Arabic word "an" and "nan" combine the meanings of... Bull, donkey and horse 9). Imagine that it had once also combined the meanings of donkey and calf, how easily possible that one was lost, and only the other one remains in use! What the ones from the Semitic self-generating etymology and basic meaning As far as the meaning of the word is concerned, it fits far better on donkeys, than on a calf. Several Hebrew names for donkey come from roots in which the concept of speed, swiftness fluidity is involved; whereby the great speed of the wild donkeys, and also to remember that even the tame The donkey of the Orient is in no way comparable to our Nordic donkey. Chung is coming, and far more stately, lively, courageous and faster than this one. So it is not only called "n, which wild donkey, actually the fast one, from reā, to run, ele riter ferri, just fo vo., onager, from , arab. micare, emicare, celeriter prosilire, but also w, Efel in general, is etymologically traced back to this idea 2). Since It is now the same with bay, egel, if one speaks Arabic. bay, festinare, properare compares, according to which egel a fchnel les, fugchtiges Tier (referring to a fleeing animal), so at least that is unzwei It is a mistake that this word is a Semitic name for the donkey. could. In Ethiopian is % dae, juvencus, pullus, catulus, infans a " usurpatur de homine deque omnibus

Muskrat is called pachira on the Orinoco, pecari by Buffon, and kanadi by the Canadian. fche Marder pecan, the American lion in chili pagi, the chili-like Sheep camel alpaca, camelus paca L., Clavigero, aa OS 432 f.,

Latin pecus, gen. pecoris, cattle in general.

1) Friday, IV. p. 412: 8, spoken differently, hyaena, pullus asini, taurus, equus, dnnn, asina. This is a common form in Arabic. e.g. B. 9½% ` %, asellus, Ua, sus, asellus, lupus, vulpes; zy, lupus, asinus; Wav, onager, equus, taurus, bos, camela, vulpes, lupus, hyaena, leo, canis, lepus etc. w.

2) Cf. Bohlen, Genesis, p. 187. Winer, Realwort. I. 407. Winer, lexicon manuale, Leipz. 1828, pp. 788, 747, 713.

181

animalibus “ 1), African Danakil okolo, donkey 2), and how it
It often happens that old language forms and word meanings tungen, which have disappeared from the mouths of the people, in the language of the cult is preserved, so may it be, in the Be The meaning of the donkey is related to the Hebrew donkey cult. Je ner calling on the citizens of Shechem to participate in this cult
The donkey prophet was called Gaal, vv, which is probably actually bay.
was, but through a deliberate metathesis — cf. the
the above-mentioned examples of Jewish name distortion — in bay transformed, so that an object of abomination from this came, since yz, gaal, despise, goal despise be indicates. If one speaks the v, which is foreign to our organ, that we to completely disregard in our pronunciation of Hebrew
gen, and that the LXX partly express through T, how g, fo becomes bay and bys = 533 completely identical and one
The transformation is all the more easily understood. Now, let one... but also a more far-reaching one, extending into the Indo-Germanic Allow research extending beyond the sphere. The 1 of the word seems to be set, and the simple basic sound av, z, ag, ak, too fine, Sanskrit ag, Greek v, Latin ago, to move, Sanskrit ag, anc, pass through, penetrate, agus, lively, Greek waug, Latin acer, fast, Sanskrit acvas, Latin equus, Galician each,
Greek uu, horse, Old Germanic forms wigg, vigg, vieg, extended form is Hengst, where heng, eng, ang are the basis lies; also angel, the name of the one blessed by the divine horse = named Angles, whose main heroes were Hengist and Horsa find); to that follows that day, as Arabic Verb and presumed ancient Semitic name for the donkey,

1) Castle. lex. heptagl. col. 27. 2) Kielmaier, op. cit.

3) Compare the Anglo-Saxon family tree in Grimm, German Mysteries. thol., Appendix, p. III. ff., where several more horse names appear, To as regards the limbs standing between Voden and Hengest. "The The names stallion and horsa are borrowed from the horse; one would like to also in Victgisl, Victa, Vecta to the angf. vieg, altf. wigg, altn. vigg, equus, think, Latin vehere." That. p. IV.

182

African: ogola, Efel, the Greek Achilles with the talking horse, the Frankish knight Ekkelein with the leaping Wonder horse, about which I once wrote a separate treatise written 1); he was also called Gailing, cf. Gaul); fo with the name of the leaping knight Harras) the old German fche hors, horse, French haras, stud farm. One of the places where Ekkelein gesprungen fein folt, heißt Dramaus, griech. doo, dpoux, Sprung, dpa peiv, Aorist of rpexw, and the Jewish Tradition speaks of a hero, Bar Dero ma, who was (jumped half a mile), where again the one from the outside was up To recognize the myth and word form. From a Ge Lorich's poem of Hadamar, which describes the leap of the Effelein In the song about the Main River, it can be seen that this jumper is considered a River god was worshipped (where the horse god was again) and a water deity appears as one, as in the Poseidon of the Greek mythology. According to the above, the he Braish donkey god, a water god; it wonders if there are any of them Trace in the alleged calf service of the ancient Hebrews to find. On the name debzv, En eglam, source We have already mentioned the two calves above; It was called a Moabite city; dobzu, Eglaim, for which the LXX Ayaisiz, Ayaadeia, was another city called LXX Ayaisiz, Ayaadeia the border of the Moabite region; the name is explained by gemina aquae receptacula, geminae piscinae; cf. Wogu

1) See the 3rd annual report of the historical society in the Re zatkreise for the year 1832, Nuremberg 1833, p. 11 f. Ekkelein is the Form appearing in the imperial charter of 1375, Eppela Galla von Dramaues in the old rhyme.

2) Both names were used not only by the individual, but by the whole Knightly family; “the Ekkelein, called Gailing,” it is said in that document. One could see the Roman family name Asinius. to compare to the donkey asinus; there a German sex had settled Named after the ancient Germanic horse god.

3) Grimm, German Legends, 1st part, no. 321: “The Harras Jump.”

4) Eisenmenger, 1. p. 396.

5) Waldau, Contributions to the History of Nuremberg, 1. BS 219.

183

litschi agel, water 1), Greek AxeAwos, the well-known river, and water in general; at Enaim, Zweibrunnen, Judah woos the donkey Tamar, see above. Then the The name of the kingdom Ephraim is probably Eglaim, insofar as this is two donkeys means, because that » is prosthetic and dds is Dual from a5, 50, donkey. Here too, the Be= appears simultaneously. interpretation water, cf. the above about forms 1005, none, about Joseph the donkey's son, yes, and the one from Ephratha said to the coming donkey Messiah. Furthermore, the Founder of the alleged calf service in the kingdom of Ephraim as the son of Nebat, vaguely referred to; if we hereby mean the arab. va, scaturivit, emanavit, vag, puteus scaturientis aquae, along with the related Hebrew, Chaldean, Syriac and Arabic vas, springs, flows, compare, that's how the water service becomes clear to us, the Jeroboam in contrast to the ancient Hebrew fire service paid homage, shining clearly enough into the eyes 2). A Another clue is that Josephus established the Ephrai= Mitish calf service by Jeroboam to the Feast of the Leafy Huts knots, which, as shown, is the great water and wine festival of the Hebrew donkey cult. Furthermore, "vag" also means... the Nabataeans, an Arab people who came from Neba— Joth, the son of Ishmael, shall be descended from, and Ishmael will (referred to as a wild ass in Genesis), whereby the The naming of a source is associated with the name ana nb receives; compare the name d now, and the donkey= (Samson's chin fountain). Also, an oriental

1) Father, investigations into America's R from the al= ten continent, Leipzig. 1810, p. 53.

2) Was Saul perhaps also such a spring-dweller? He is A son of op, Kisch, and ip, Rishon, is the name of the one on the Tabor springs brook. Kish has donkeys, which his son Saul seeks; Remember what in Hebrew means: seek God, seek Jehovah, Seeking the face of Jehovah has a meaning. Saul had a seeker, i.e., admirer, worshipper of the donkey, and From this, the legend spun that tale.

3) Genesis 16:12. 4) Judges 15:17 ff.

“J

184

Legend is known, according to which in the Semsem or well... Zemzem near Mecca, which is revered as the spring that God 'for the sake of Hagar and Ishmael, they sprang forth, the two The golden gazelles dedicated to the Kaaba were thrown after almost 1500 years, through a heaven preserved in a dream= guided by Lish instructions, Abdelmutalleb, the grandfather of Prophets, brought to light again 1). Shouldn't that in connection with the two set up by Jeroboam golden calves? Here, donkeys were turned into, like otherwise calves, gazelles, which probably only applies to speech= is based on a constant change of meanings; one should remember above explanation of the name Ophra, as that city was called, where the probably donkey-servant Gideon sets up his fine idol, Arabic: Wav, a donkey's name; Hebrew: day, the young of a deer. Deer, gazelle, Arabic 139, young ibex, etc.; into these Meanings also extend to that bay, egel, calf, over; for there g in sibilants — such as the z of the Semitic alphabet= pray in Arabic in j — transitions, and this with the Mutis of the linguals change, so this probably also includes the Greek F, Gemfe, Steinbock, FA, ic, ird eA, Zie= genfell, Nor, lat. vitulus, calf, and therefore not here either. The harmony with the names of the water is lacking, so Compare Tatar. idel, American. Vilela itels, River 2). The forms Fog, iEaiy, socein, also correspond to Arabic. vw with Sin, celeriter incessit, bwy, camela velox, hebr. ve, gehen, arab. bew, syr. dp, hinnulus, pullus dorcadis, capreolus, German donkey. The Greek vvvos, ivvos, Yivvos, Latin hinnus, hinnulus, is mule, but v and vvvas becomes also explained by et ayas, and hinnulus, hinnula, hinnullus is a young deer and roebuck. A son of that Ana,

—

1) Cf. Herbelot, Oriental Library 4, BS 64, and Muradgea d'Ohsson, Description of the Ottoman Empire, by Beck, Leipzig, 1788 and 1793, 2nd part, pp. 139 ff. cf. p. 90.

2) Father, Investigations, p. 160.

185

who grazes the Efel, fine father Zibeeon, and the springs finds — in both names we have the meaning donkey recognized — is Diskon), and that is the name of a Ga= cells= and antelope species), who, buck, billy goat. We have above the name of Thamar, the wife of the donkey Zw, y explained by donkey, African damer, donkey; since now wn with known change = ww is ?), fo could also add the Name jw, Samaria, the capital and residence city of the Rich Ephraim, belong; the Ephraimian idol is called »Calf« Samaria's«), as well as the name Samaria otherwise to designate this cult; from Semer, Schemer, to the lord of the mountain on which the city is situated, it shall have their name 5), which is probably correct insofar as Sche— was a name of the Ephraimite donkey god; related It seems that, semer, a certain animal from the deer or Gazelle sexes 9), Arabic. nr, saliit caprea, Samiri is Name of the artist who, according to the legend of the Quran, the Israelites in the desert made the golden calf 7), and The man who attended the festival of the donkey god Baal is called Simri.

Peor woos the Midianite woman, and probably with her the
 The pair of gods of the donkey cult represents, therefore also against the—
 This couple, above all, the wrath of the Molochist fanatic.
 Pinehas is inflamed 8). That the names of the donkey in Semitic and other languages for names of wine

1) Genesis 46:25

2) Among other animals permitted for consumption, Deuteronomy 14:5, named.

3) So , schor, chald. , tor, beef, Arabic. thsaur, with thfe, Greek revgos, Latin taurus, Sanskrit sthuras, sthiras, German Stier.

4) Hof. 8, 5 f. 5) 1 Kings. 16, 24.

6) Quran, Surah XX, p. 271 ff. of the translation by Wahl.

7) 5 Mos. 14:5, called together with that dischon.

8) 4 Mos. 25:1 ff. v. 14. Compare the May Count and the May= Countess, the May King and the May Queen chosen by him of the Germanmanic May festival, in England lord of the may and lady of the may, Grimm, German Mythology, p. 449 ff.

186

and vine, which has become air and festive joy, ha=

We have been taught a number of the most striking examples above;
 Is it also the case here with the root we, cf.

the forms semora, vine tendril, samar, to cut the vine=

den, samir, time of the grape pruning), simmer, fangen,

Semir, Simra, song, jubilation; an Ephraimite king who

(who walks in the ways of Jeroboam) is called Simri. What but our assumption is most strongly supported and almost confirmed

The account of the Prophet is beyond all doubt.

Hosea. For by this against that alleged calf= service of the kingdom of Ephraim zealously and the "calf Beth" of Aves and Samariend« fchilt 3), he first points to the above be=

The service of the donkey god Baal Peor was illuminated and spoke:

“Like grapes in the desert I found Israel, like an Erft-
 I saw the fig tree fruit in the early morning, your Fathers; but they went to Baal Peor and dedicated themselves to him shameful idols and became abominable like their lovers shaft «); then he also seems to take on the donkey form of the one from The wealthy Ephraim worshipped God by speaking:
 "They are moving to Assyria; one forest donkey remains (but otherwise)" for himself alone, but Ephraim hires concubines « 5) ;, also
 The cult is seen as the genius of the generative, creative being.
 Nature prevails and is repeatedly linked to fornication.
 It says: “Argue with your mother — — — — —
 For she says: I will go after my lovers who are with me give my bread and my water, my wool and my Linen, my oil and my drink" — "For grain and

1) This samir means the Germanic somir, sumar, sumer, Summer, which according to Grimm, German Mythology, p. 436,
 "Beyond all kinship stands." Autumn is called wiosna in Polish.
 Mæhr. wesna, serb. jesen, was just so with the discussed For men osen, osni, asn, asinus, ear, A donkey, asinusca, wine grape, touched.

2) 1 con. 16, 19. 3) Hofea, 8, 5. c. 10, 5. 4) Hof. 9, 10.

5) Hos. 8, 9. a;

187

Most verft verfalleln fie fich, mir find fie abwendig« — »Hu
 "Rerei and wine and must rob the mind" — "I I cannot punish your daughters for being whores, and by your cords, that they commit adultery; for they themselves go
 "Aside with whores and sacrifice with harlots" — "Joy
 You, Israel, will not be like the nations to the praise of Israel, for you
 You whore, unfaithful to your God, you love harlots' wages on every grain threshing floor. Threshing floor and winepress will not refresh her, and the must they deceive« 1). One might recall here once again, as it is said of those citizens of Shechem, who are from Abi-Melech fell away, and the Gaal that had entered Shechem did the same.
 converted to donkey service: "And they went out into the field and they cleared their vineyards and pressed their grapes and held a celebration. They denied it and went into the house of their god and cursed to Abimelech" 29. As for the charge of fornication, Does the Prophet go so far as to consider the kingdom of Israel with those unchaste inhabitants of Gibeah, of whom the Book of The judge recounted the well-known shameful deed to a class. to throw and to put into historical context: »Deep, "They are corrupt, as in the time of Gibeah" — "Since Gibeah's Time be cleansed, Israel! Then they remained; The war against the wicked did not reach Giben" 3). The cult of [name omitted] is also characterized as a cult of pleasure. The golden calf made by Aaron; the people eat and drinks and dances; Joshua hears from afar the shouts of the people. Kes and Moses heard the tones of the song, and as it approached, they beheld it. (he calf and round dance). That this cult that character- teriftifchen Kinderopfer des molochistischen Stierdienst vorge- will be thrown out, which the prophets and other biblical ex— We don't hear toren fothers so often and explicitly mention. Finally, there is also an oriental legend,

- 1) Hof. 2, 4 ff. 7. c. 7, 14. c. 4, 11 v. 14th c. 9, 1 f.
- 2) Judges 9, 27. 3) Court 9, 9. c. 10, 9. Cf. Judges c. 19 f.
- 4) 2 Mof. 32, 6. v. 17 ff.

188

which still very clearly reflects that idea of the speaking, fin- corresponding to the donkey's claim that the golden calf I made a resounding noise 1).

To that extent, then, what the profane would be true would be true. Writers say that the Hebrews used the donkey as an object. made of their veneration; Moses would not have objected to an ancient Egyptian tischen Apisdienst, not against a Molochistian bull cult, but against the same, in Indo-Germanic religious ideas and tendencies rooted in donkey service, whose prophet and Priest Balaam was, and who in the time of the Judges was so big a role it plays, and the religious opposition would be sentence at the collapse of the Davidic-Solomonian Empire into the The kingdoms of Judah and Ephraim so determined that Judah should participate in the ancestral, restored to its rightful place through Samuel and David

The installed Moloch of Jehovah's Witness remained, but Israel, detached from the Davidic-Solomonian tyranny, to submit anew to the turned to the violently suppressed cult and the donkey service which it became the court and state religion.

This Ephraimite donkey service has now apparently just like that. made, as the party of reformist Jehovah's Witnesses did in Rich Judah; he has established himself in ancient history and law—to give a basis to the people's giving, and therefore brought into a form appropriate to him; this form has Tacitus, who wrote the following about Israel's desert expedition, was known to us. Legend says: "Nothing oppressed her so much as a lack of Water. And already they lay, close to death, on the rock. around, as a herd of wild donkeys from the pasture onto He ran towards a rock shaded by the forest. Moses followed the trail. of the grassy soil and found abundant spring water. These refreshed them; and after uninterrupted wandering from

1) Tabari's Arabian History of the Peoples and Kings, and from it Rofenol or Legends and Customs of the Orient, Stuttgart and Tübingen 1813, 1. BS 105. The Jews say it came from the Kalbe der Sammael gebrüllt, Eisenmenger J, p. 824.

189

Six days later, on the seventh day, they captured a country where they, after the expulsion of the farmers, city and temple green= deten." — "The image of the animal, whose instruction they were from Having redeemed them from their wanderings and starvation, they consecrated them in Sanctuary « 1). Traces of this representation can also be found and fragments in the Pentateuch, which in this way is an ancestor= A mixed work, like the Gospels of the New Testament= tes, and partly the old, Eighth Molochism of the Na= tion, partly based on the invading donkey cult. That already includes the story of Moses' childhood; he is here the incarnate god of donkey and water service, the Indian Krishna, the Greek Dionysus and the newborn god— man of the gospel; he escapes, like Krishna and Christ, a child murderer; the role of the Indian Kansas and Herod's character in the Gospel is played here by Pharaoh; in Moses swims in the castes, like Dionysus according to the legend of the Eleutherolacons in Brafia 2). As Dionysus, Moses strikes with his staff he drew the spring from the rock; it is the spring, the Greek god of Kyparissia with the thyrsus the ground 5). However, it adheres in rabbinic tradition. This miracle had a flaw; Moses was to use a staff. of a severe nature and therefore struck have healed the rock; from this staff a other, benign differences).. The first one is just the thyrsus of Dionysus, which the antimolochistic, the Ephraimite party gave their corrupted Moses into their hands.

One might ask here: "If it is in Hebrew..."
 Antiquities from the migration from Egypt to Palestine, from
 'ER und uin een, zweierlei ganz verfdiedene Dar

0 Tacit. bist. 55 3 f.

1) When Cadmus discovered that Semele had been given Dionysus by Zeus After drilling, he put her and the child in a box and threw it into the
 The sea, which drove ashore at Brafia. Semele was raging, Dionysus.
 But he was raised by Ino in a grotto. Pausanias 3:24.

2) Paus. 4, a. E. 3) Eisenmenger IS 379 f.

190

Positions were given, how can one recognize which of the two the eighth and older ones, and those who accused of falsifying history Was it dormant? Wasn't grain a later addition from the outside? invading Molochism just like donkey service and dio Nysian cult, which seized the old history of the people, and have changed it according to his interests? — This is what However, it is not difficult to answer, and the answer lies there. already in our entire treatise. The Moloch service was the cult particularly characteristic of the Semitic human race, and it appears among other peoples, such as the Greeks, appearing as one imposed by Semites; But the Hebrews belonged to this race. Conversely The Semitic donkey, water, and wine cult point outwards to Indians, Greeks, and Germanic tribes. The uncovered and discussed accusations and concessions of the biblical prophets, which is truly national and historical basis, especially when it was with visible Coercion and reluctance to admit something that is not theirs. The claims are true, and what they would like to deny, If only it were possible; so, if Ezekiel were speaking of the one in the Desert speaks of the sacrifice of the firstborn commanded by Jehovah. The eighth Moses was without any doubt the Molochic one; the Dionysian, as well as the Reformation-Jehovahistic with The abolition of child sacrifice was a fabricated event; the Molochi- The stic basis looks to the Pentateuch, as in the following historical books and the entire history of the Hebrews from Abraham to Solomon everywhere, and the Ge Laws emerge in certain forms, like Balaam, the great prophet of the donkey service, against Moses, Gideon against his father Joash, Saul and Absalom against Samuel and David and Jeroboam against Solomon and Rehoboam; Everywhere there is generally Semitic, ancient Hebrew Molochism and fire service bacchi and priapian donkey- and water- sercult opposed, and the later developing Re- Formatism in the Kingdom of Judah with its under Hezekiah and

191

Sofia's newly introduced Passover festival is already in the most evident relationship to traditional, deeply rooted The Molochism of the nation, which proves almost invincible, yes, general accusations from peoples and centuries and According to irrefutable evidence and traces, to make oneself at home- has even been preserved down to the most recent times. It still seems that an explanation is needed as to how it come that in the biblical books the Moloch service of a David, Samuel, Moses and Abraham so deeply into darkness pushed, that of Solomon only partially, that of the later Kings are finally admitted quite openly and without concealment. This phenomenon is easily explained in the following way. Those pre-Solomonian figures and names of the Hebrew Ge— The layers were dedicated to the memory of the Moloch-servant people. too sacred and inviolable to be, immediately later, the

The reformatory party was simultaneously opposed by princes, portrayed as godless and enemies of the national god were allowed; there was no other advice than to tell the story.
 to falsify those men pious, orthodox, and pleasing to God to present in the sense of Reformation-era Jehovah's Witness, this everywhere the old, eighth, identical with the Moloch service to instigate, and thus turn everything upside down. It was this also the way to overcome the ancient Molochism
 to deprive the nation of its historical basis and legitimacy—
 pull, and one such reforma suspended in the air—to conquer Torian Jehovahism. At Solomon's time, the
 The turning point of this all-reversing falsification of history;
 Solomon was not allowed to receive his Moloch service from David,
 the temple in Jerusalem, which was considered the seat of the reforma Torish Jehovahism, no Moloch temple was allowed:
 his being, he had to be from the outset devoted to the god of the new Cultus have heard, and Solomon only in his later Le seduced into idolatry by strange women have been, and when the books of the kings have told Solomon partially admitting to niche idolatry, however, in order to 1 *

192

not to let it fall on David, Temple and nationality,
 on the foreign beauties of the royal harem
 ben and on the sanctuaries built outside the temple
 To limit, thus erases the chronicle, which also contains many other things.
 fortunately preserved in the books of Samuel and the Kings Traces of the old-nationalist Moloch-Jehovahism completely erased, even this, and makes Solomon's government even more so shining in the pure splendor of reformatory Jehovahism.
 Yes, the chronicle goes even further, purifying history.
 the kings down, and if, for example, in the earlier rela tions of Rehoboam says that under him is the most grey the most devout idolatry was in full swing, and Abia, his Son, I walked in all the sins of my father, if he
 In contrast, he appears in the chronicle as the purest and most zealous.
 Friend of the later-educated reformer Jehovah

mus and Levitism). In this way the whole History of the Hebrew people up to Solomon and beyond out with their most sacred and revered treasures from ancient times The name was given a foreign, unhistorical character, and it It became possible to deliver eulogies to the Hebrew ancestors, like that of J. Sirach, which begins with the words: "Let We now praise famous men and the ancestors of our "Gesch lechts" — where then with the most high-sounding phrases a selection of ancient Hebrew names is presented, and in a series: Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses, Aaron, Phinehas, Joshua, Caleb, Samuel, Nathan, David, Solomon, Elijah, Elisha, Hezekiah, Fesala; Sofia, Jeremiah, Hey= . u. s. w. erscheinen 2).

What I have now partly demonstrated beyond doubt, partly at least to a high degree of probability= I believe I have brought this to some university events. Down! 3 — 9 1 con. 14, 14 ff. ö. 15, 3. 2 chron. 13, 8*.

2) J. Sirach, c. 44. . 50.

193

1) -Zehova and Moloch were originally one and the same. the same God.

2) Solomon was not the first to establish the Moloch service in Israel; it is the ancestral one, already descended from Abraham— inherited religion of the Hebrews, and the most distinguished Personalities of ancient Hebrew history up to Solomon, like Abraham, Moses, Samuel, David, were prophets and Heroes of this religion.

3) Human sacrifice was considered in the ancient Hebrew religion as

Moloch=Jehovism was essential, even after open, unvarnished accounts of biblical history and clear, certain pronouncements of the present Hebrew law— collection, under Moses, judges and Davidic kings:

rule customary, permitted, deemed necessary and before written.

24) The ancient Hebrews brought their Moloch-Jehovah partly enemies and foreigners, partly people of one's own Tribal people, criminals and innocents, their own children, Sons and daughters, even their princes and high priests in various forms as a sacrifice.

5) In particular, the invariable, inconsiderate law bot, all male firstborn, also and especially the human, to be killed as a victim, the core of the eighth, uncorrupted Mosaic religion and legislation.

6) The Moloch - and child sacrifice service in the refined sten canaanitic and Phoenician form with glowing me The statue already depicts Abraham on Mount Moriah and David. on the hill of the same name (the so-called Aravna threshing floor) driven where Solomon was destroyed by Phoenicians at the Temple of Jerusalem — a Canaanite-Phoenician Moloch temple — had it built. Also, the so-called bronze altar of the mo— Saisian and Solomonian sanctuary nothing other than that metal idol destined for Molochian child sacrifices been.

7) However, only the children of

Daumer, Fire: and Moloch Service. 13

194

Heads and princes of the people and their closest relatives The nation's nobility sacrificed their company; furthermore and after common custom of Hebrew Moloch-Jehovism were the children and other men dedicated to the sacrifice of God They were slaughtered, their flesh and blood offered as a holy sacrifice. and family meals, which were preserved unharmed But the bones, as a parting of the god, were consigned to the fire. 8 8) This service of the negating principle was replaced by In earlier times, another, foreign, in Indian, Greek and Germanic religion, mythology and language pointing towards, the generative, creating and he the holding power of nature as the object of his veneration made. To Moloch-Jehovahism, as the service of the Fire and darkness, the same stood as water⁸ and Light service opposite, and as the god of the former through Abstinence, self-mutilation, torture and murder, so the second was given with unleashed joy and ascent⁸ promoting natural well-being to the highest possible degree served. The God, as a world-creating being, humbled himself and having reduced to a subservient basis of creaturely existence, had the form of a donkey, and was in this relationship Baal Peor or Beor.

9) This latter cult, as its priest and prophet in contrast to Mosaic Moloch-Jehovahism, to itself⁸ the first Balaam made noticeable was in the time of the judges before⁸ ruling, and appears in the Book of Judges as hierarchical organized folk religion with a spiritual/secular leader, like the judges Jair, Abdon, and Gideon. Later He will be through Samuel and David, against whom Saul and Absalom unsuccessfully tries to stop him, is overwhelmed and suppressed, and ancient Semitic Molochism to the exclusive It was made the state religion; however, after Solomon's death, something changed. The old antagonism re-emerges and tears the empire apart.

10) This cult also includes the so-called golden calf, which the Hebrews worshipped in the desert, as well as

195

also the alleged calf service of the kingdom of Ephraim to calculate, so that here under calf in truth nothing else to be understood as a donkey.

11) In opposition to both cults, it developed in In the post-Phalomic era, a moral Jehovah's Witness =reform-matori-like nature, with rejection of both on the one hand of the ancient eight-national Moloch-Jehovahism with human sacrifices, only that religious opponents also fell victim here, when also on the other side of the one indulging in unrestrained pleasure Donkey worship, like all image services of any religion, by seemingly retaining the old national god, but in a character-changing, more or less was interpreted and presented in a mitigating manner.

12) This most recently developed reformism was, which is based on Mosaic law and the history of the nation of from ancient times to Solomon and beyond, the opposite—truly present, partly concealing the old atrocities, partly combative, prohibiting all image services, falsified form given, which, however, were left uneaten by a large number of undigested Remnants and traces of historical truth in history and Law, but especially through the unvarnished and expressive—biblical confessions, reports and testimonies of the biblical prophets. The prophets recognized it as something quite easy and certain as what it is. can be.

13) In addition, there are traces that the Efel-cultus the old national history according to fine interests be-acted and transformed, so that Moses became a prophet of the Moloch service into a prophet and appearing god the donkey cult was transformed, from which representation several with Indian, Greek and Christian myths consistent features in the history of the legislator stem from men.

14) The eighth, Molochic-Mosaic religion of the The Passover festival belongs to the Hebrews in its fine, original form. It was an annual, general human sacrifice festival where

13

1096

Ah, children slaughtered and eaten, and the unharmed The bones that were preserved were burned as an offering to the god. The kings aimed to reform this festival. Hezekiah and Josiah, who were for those to be slaughtered and enjoyed to give the so-called Passover lamb to the children of the people.

15) In contrast, the Laubhüttenfest belongs in its original form original form the donkey and alleged calf service of the ancient Hebrews, and is a Bacchic-Priapic feast. with the awarding of the virgins. This celebration with moderate character, the reformed Jehovah's Witness of the later Incorporating times was the work of Ezra and Nehemiah.

16) In this way, a multiple Moses can be created= scheiden, a purely Molochistisch, which is the eighth historical one, a donkey-servant, who is a completely unethical, freed one, and a reformatory one in two respects, firstly in relationship to the old-national Moloch service, which he through Abolition of child sacrifice and reshaping of man mitigates the sacrificial ancient Hebrew Passover, and secondly, on the from outside came the efeldienft, which he turned into the Jewish foliage= Hut festival moderated.

17) Regarding the messianic ideas of He= bræer reveals a duality and a contrast, which is precisely so in the case of the two religions that have been at odds since ancient times of Moloch=Jehovah and Baal Peor or Donkey God is. Each one has its own, very different definite. ten Messiahs; the Messiahism of the Moloch service without speculative content, that of the donkey cult of deeply speculative Nature; that is particular, selfish, hostile and destructive, and leaves the high priestly prince and hero of the nation as a great human sacrifice to reconcile the negating God's fall; this one has with the idea of the reconciling Human sacrifice has nothing to do with it; his Messiah is directly God himself, as the creative Word, in his creation himself alienating and losing, the form of lowliness and Accepting unfreedom, yet casting it off and in

197

God appearing in royal human form; a mixture Mythology, dogma, and religion are derived from both elements. history of Christianity, however, such that the eight Semitic, nature-hostile element, the world-historical preponderance, he= hold, and the pre- verse linked to the ancient Hebrew Passover The position of human sacrifice and its necessity for It has become the dogmatic center of the new religion.

Attachment.

I.

The Ark of the Covenant.

It refers to the well-known, sacred box that is used for
It served as a repository for the Hebrew Law Tablets. Otherwise
There was absolutely nothing in this famous container,
It is explicitly stated: "There was nothing in the drawer when only the two stone tablets which Moses placed there on Horeb« etc.). Precisely this express assurance but arouses suspicion by refusing this kind something to be rejected, based on a contradictory tradition or
This claim suggests something one wants to be rid of. From What kind of thing might it have been? Was it perhaps known?
to speak of an idol that was kept in that box-who? And if, on the other hand, efforts were made in the interest of a reformatory Je— excluding all image services Hovism, this knowledge, this tradition from memory to erase the nation?

Let's see if there isn't more to support this assumption.
Find other points of support. The drawer will en n, drawer of the law, as well as the so-called pen-hut now bass, nn won, tent, dwelling of the law, called. But this law, this law, is a riddle.
a word, and is mentioned in one passage of the Pentateuch to the God's name Jehovah was decidedly equated: "And Moses spoke to Aaron. Take a vessel and do a gomer.
Fill it completely and place it before Jehovah (sum h) to

1) 1 Con. 8, 19.

202

Preserved for your future generations. Just like Jehovah commanded Moses, Aaron presented it before the—fetz (haun „h) zur Aufenthalt «). Impossibly could
But the tablets of the law apply to Jehovah himself, or would they?
If it had been so, these tablets would have been considered an idol.

seeks and idolizes God himself. But it
 These probably never existed, and "day" meant the one in his/here an image of the present God and this in the holy
 The box preserved the image of God itself. The word can be spoken—lich with zy, ed, commander, up, attud, leader of the Vol=
 kes, und ine, jathed, Oberer, Mächter, princeps civitatis, to compile which names are probably all just different= whose forms are one and the same word, an ancient one word, which also appears in Egyptian, Phoenician and American. In the directories of the ancient Egyptian Dynasties and royal names take the form Athothis, Athofthis, Athotes before 2); Sanchuniathon's Phœnician
 The story in Eusebius's Praepar. evang. I. introduces a god.
 King named Adodos on), and Atahauta is a God's name heard among Indians on the Lorenzo River, which might also explain the New Zealand name for God, Atua, on Otaheiti eatua, God, to be reckoned with 5). Those first names

— — — ä — —

1) Exodus 16:33.

2) Cf. Prichard, Egyptian Mythology, trans. by Haymann, Bonn
 1837, pp. 387 and 401.

3) Compare Macrob. Saturnal. I. 23: Assyrii deo, quem summum maximumque venerantur, Adad nomen dederunt.

4) Deuber, History of Shipping in the Atlantic Ocean, Bam=
 Berg 1814, p. 85. The American word forms adaut, atat, attata, tat, lata, tautah and other similar words mean father, also in Africa the forms tata, tatatat, tatame, f. Mithridates in the 3rd part;
 But according to the above discussions, father is originally = N r3
 Nadowestish, according to Carver, is ota father and king.

5) Basel Mission Magazine 1836, p. 635: "Their God Felten
 New Zealanders see themselves as a great spirit thundering in heaven, brings up the wind and causes all the damage one can do to eggs-

at least those with the Greek ending removed:
Names like Athoth, Adod, etc., are quite clearly those.
Hebrew atid etc. w., Lord, King, God, like Adon, Adonai, Baal, Bel, Melech, Molech, Moloch, signifying;
for the idol of the Hebrew Ark of God eduth = attud, —
Perhaps the latter form was deliberately changed into the former.
so that the name means law — especially the Phoenician god-king Adod a telling comparison.
This makes it perfectly understandable how dv and din are considered equivalent-significant expressions changed; the first name was attached to the ancient idol of the holy ark, as the name Molech is attached to it metal bull image; but Jehovah was both, and not a Ge-(Set of the same, no law tablets, no decalog) lay in the Lade, but a Jehovah idol, the Eduth or Attud, Lord, ruler, king, was called, strangely corresponding to that gentry and life. That is why they only with fear and trembling, thinking of this highest being, whom they call Atua. Is When this Atua becomes angry, he makes people sick by in Ge-in the shape of a lizard it crawls into their bodies and on their entrails so

"It gnaws for a long time until they die." S. f. Missionary journey into the southern silence Meer, Vienna 1801, p. 536, and Cook's third and last voyage, over-sessets von Wetzel, Anspach 1787, 2nd part, pp. 329 and 337 f., where about a sacred, shrouded receptacle, a "covenant (ark) of the Ea—
"tua" the speech in which the god to whom a human sacrifice was offered, or the symbol representing him was included.

1) Regarding tablets and decalog, cf. Bohlen, Genesis, Introduction
p. XXXVIII f. and CLXXIII, and Vatke, Religion of the ancient Testamentes, 1st part, p. 202 ff. Note: They betray a very late time;
There is no valid historical testimony for them, and neither a pro—
No one, nor any moralist, has ever rebuked idol worship.
or invoke adultery. Vatke illuminates "the unclear way".
with which the tablets of the Pentateuch are introduced and the wisdom
the saying in which the significance of the chest is related to its alleged contents stands, and comes to the result: "If one puts all this together,
The later existence of a written record about the Ten commandments — and these could only be the tablets themselves — more than doubtful, and in this we are also bound by oral tradition shown."

Trojan idol, given to Dardanus by Zeus, which
It lay in a holy ark and was called Ascvuvyrns, the Lord.

And just as Dardanus had this image of Zeus, so Moses had his Idol Eduth or Attud received from Jehovah himself; how ferner Eurypylos at the opening of this Trojan Ark of the Covenant and upon seeing the image preserved within, he went mad, so The Hebrew version of "fo" was also more horrifying, more uncontrollable. Holy-

The possibility that no one should either look at them or touch them directly.
was allowed, and plague and sudden death their sight and their Touching was punished. The following analogy can also be found here.
in ancient Ilios. Ilos, the city's builder, receives from Zeus a Pallas idol, Palladium, for which he built a tem-Pel builds. Since this burns down, Ilos saves the picture, becomes
But, since it must not be seen by anyone, it is done blindly.
Native Americans in North America have a sacred ark that they,
how the Hebrews did what they did, going to war with themselves lead. According to Adair, it must never touch the ground.
will be, and Long, a more recent traveler, reports in his Expedition to the Rocky Mountains: The following is from her:

"It is placed on a base and must never touch the ground."
touch; no one may uncover all their coverings, and three People who, driven by curiosity, the mysterious
Those who dared to examine the cargo were, according to tradition,
The wanderings of the ancient Mexicans are recounted here.
can be obtained, and is wonderfully reminiscent of the way to wan-
those who, according to the biblical account, had Israel, at the foundation-Hut and Ark of the Covenant. It was at the command of their God.
Huitzilopochtli, that the Mexicans from their former homes-sat and set out to find a land of promise and of to seek happiness that he would give them, and where they
to become masters of the peoples who were in their opposite-had real possessions. At the * the god

1) Noah, aa OS 14 ff.

*

205

their guide, who told them through the mouth of the priests, where they should turn and where they should stop). That The image of the god was placed in a box by the priests.

— the Mexican Ark of the Covenant — carried, and took The hikers were somewhere on their way, so he was told in the middle,
in the camp a hut — Stiftshütte — was built) and fine
The image was placed on a kind of altar. The god then gave Laws, ordained sacrifices and customs, and imposed punishments Criminal courts over disobedient persons 3). It is also said that they had to the patron god of their nation, so that he might guide them on their journey who wanted to accompany him, had a wooden statue made and placed it on They placed a chair made of reeds, which they called the chair of God.
named, also priests elected, four of whom abdicated the idols taking turns carrying them on their shoulders, and servants of God (were called). This can lead to the following discussion. form. (

The Ark of the Covenant is called the footstool of God, in particular.
as it is said, Jehovah is thought to be enthroned upon it.
Thus it is connected: "The Ark of the Covenant of God and the footstool of our God" — "Let us go to be In the apartment, fall down to the stool of fine feet! He-Lift up, Jehovah, to your resting place, you and the ark of your-
"In glory" — "Exalt Jehovah our God, and falls down to the stool of fine feet « 5). Then they stood on the lid (Luther: Mercy Seat, Hebrew nnd) two golddene Cherub-images with outstretched wings, the face

1) Compare 2 Mos. 40, 36 fu especially 4 Mof. 9, 17 - 23:

"At Jehovah's command they camped and at Jehovah's command they broke camp

They observed; whatever was observed against Jehovah, they observed according to Be—Jehovah's fails through Moses."

2) Numbers 2:2: "They shall be encircled all around the temple opposite the temple." store." g

3) Baumgarten, op. cit. 2nd Th. p. 56. Clavigero, op. cit. 1st Th. pp. 172 f., 176, 179.

4) That. p. 176.

5) 1 Chron. 28, 2 Pf. 132, 7 f. Pf. 99, 5.

206

turned against each other, and between these cherubs it was, where one is — so one claims — Jehovah is present I thought. In the same psalm where the quoted words are found. Stand: "Fall down to the melting of his feet," it says. also: "Jehovah is king — he sits enthroned on the cherubs" and otherwise, for example: "The Ark of the Covenant of Jehovah of the hosts, who sits enthroned above the cherubs" — "I want to talk to you from the lid, emerging between the two cherubs that were on the Ark of the Law find « 1). Furthermore, we hear that Jehovah appeared in a cloud above this lid 7), and the Rabbis speak of a cloud, diedw, that constantly hangs over the Ark had hovered, and the symbol of Jehovah's nearness had been the "gracious presence of God", which after (the Quran was at the Ark). It seems that Bible... The place is to be explained by a subsequent one to the effect that the cloud is nothing other than what covers the lid of the drawer-enveloping cloud of incense 2); but this declaration none of the following correspond to the context of the earlier passages. way agreed: "Speak to Aaron, your brother, that he do not enter at all times the sanctuary behind the curtain before the lid on the chest, so that he would not die; for I appear in the cloud above the lid « etc. Aaron shall not enter into contrary to the rule, namely without at the same time to make the affirmative sacrifices, because otherwise he would lose the appeal. to gaze upon the deity would be deadly; in the cloud itself But if the same thing appears, the looking at the cloud itself would be deadly; this is therefore by no means suitable for the one enveloping the deity.

to keep the smoke cloud contained 5); only so much can be admitted-that the relation itself already gives the matter this turn gives; however, the basis and revision are to be found below

- 1) Pf. 99, 1st 1st Saturday 4:4. Exodus. 25, 22.
- 2) Leviticus 16:2.
- 3) Koran, Sura II. P. 38 of the translation. of choice.
- 4) 3 Mos. 16:13.
- 5) So Winer, Bibl. Real dictionary IS 239.

207

to separate, and to realize that 5% is something completely different for those.
res, than for this one. That one must have an idol under it to have one, an image of Jehovah enthroned on the Ark, and that vv, cloud, could also mean picture, the following

To understand proportions. Cloud and shadow, cloud darkness and Shadow and darkness are related concepts, as are...

Shadow and image, as we see both in the word shadow—

unite image, cf. Hebrew de, dor, shadow, dōx, image,

Shadow image, idol image, Latin umbra, darkness, shadow, adumbrare, to imagine through colors, to design, adumbratio, Silhouette, draft, umbral, pictorial. And so it will be.

It cannot be denied that the chest is not merely a

a sacred box for a Jehovah idol locked inside, but at the same time the throne for such a thing, which probably—

The same thing was true, namely that during hikes and carried in the box during wartime campaigns and the general an—

The image, hidden from view, was removed from the sanctuary and on the lid which then served as a throne and footstool

was set.

Two cherubs, we hear, were on the lid of the

They formed a holy ark; Jehovah was enthroned between them. Now

Consider the following passage from Sanchuniathon's Phoenician

History in Eusebius, praepiph. evang. I. under consideration:

"Tautos invented the sacred symbols and letters by..."

he the figures of Uranus, Cronus, Dagon and which he replicated: he also devised for Kronos Ab

Signs of his royal dignity, namely four eyes, two two in front and two in back, two of which were gently closed, Furthermore, four wings at the shoulders, two of which are like a...
Wings unfolded, the other two lowered. The meaning of this
The pictorial sign was that Kronos was still active even while sleeping.
looked and slept awake, and that he also flew along resting, and rested mid-flight. To the other gods he gave Each one had two wings on their shoulders, as a sign that they accompanied Kronos' flight; finally, two more to himself

208

Wings on the head, one as a symbol of the ruling Spirit, the other of perceiving knowledge." This
The description sounds strikingly similar to the Cherubs.
of Ezekiel, how the appearance of the one who was above them was described.
They accompany Jehovah. They have spread their two wings.
and two lowered, and find full eyes so far back as in front 1).
If we now consider the Bible and Sanchuniathon to be mutually relevant...
Let it be clarified and supplemented, so we gain the following result—sultat. The gods accompanying Kronos in the latter.
find the cherubs of the Bible and especially of the covenant load, between whom Jehovah sits enthroned, and the image of this

The enthroned Jehovah is that of the Phoenician Kronos after Sanchuniathon's description. The one that so often arises

The conviction that the Hebrew Jehovah is basically not other than the Phoenician Moloch - Saturn, finds
This is a new confirmation.

So, was there an idol in the Ark of the Covenant and One was enthroned upon her, namely that of a god who with that Phoenician one and the same, so he understands himself Perhaps that's why he also has a Jehovah, but a very... different, reform-transformed preaching Jeremiah
so ill-disposed towards this sanctuary, and it from to know that his people's religion and cult are forever removed will. For thus he lets his Jehovah speak: "Return

Return, rebellious sons, for I am your ruler and

I want to take from you (even if it were only) one person from the city, and two of the sex and bring them to Zion. And I I will give you shepherds according to my will, who will guide you with Insight and wisdom feed. And it happens when you
May you increase in number and be fruitful in the land in those days, Jehovah says, "Then people will no longer speak of..."
the Ark of Jehovah's Covenant and it will not—
They come to mind, and one becomes aware of them.

1) Ezek. c. 1 and 10.

—

j 209

not remember, nor will one Others will be made. At the same time, one will Je
They will call Rusalem Jehovah's throne, and they will become Assemble all nations for the sake of the name of Jehovah.
and they will no longer be subject to the stubbornness of their evil heart
"follow" 1). On the Ark of the Covenant that idol was enthroned of the old Moloch Jehovah; that shall, so wills the prophet, into future ones will no longer exist; Jehovah will only be invisible and spiritually enthroned in Jerusalem, and this shall no longer be the case.
the old, gruesome Moloch Jehovah, whose idols the Hebrews, according to a passage occurring in the same chapter, from Since time immemorial, their sheep and cattle, their sons and daughters sacrificed 2), but the humanized version of the reformatory Pro

Phetism is fine. Then Sfrael will be "with truth, fee".

and justice »» by the life of Jehovah 00 swear « 3).

I had written this essay so far when I...

The assumption about movers already used above is carefully considered. It was discovered that the Moloch service was in the golden shop of his Fire gods, the remains of the children burned as sacrifices to them the one occupied. Applying this to the Hebrew Ark, Thus, the aversion of the anti-Molochist prophet still appears far better motivated. As for the relationship of the, the open lichen anſchau price given metallic Moloch idols of the Hebrew sanctuary, which is known as the so-called more a hidden altar of the same, to which it is hidden in the innermost part nen Jehova=Idol 2 fo " dass?file fchon oben occasionally

1) Jeremy. 3, 14 ff. 2) Jer. 3, 24.

3) Jer. 4:2. Compare c. 5:2: "And if they BE "" at the Leſ "Ben Jehovah's" "swear, so they swear falsely!" — and immediately again in verse 7: "Your sons have forsaken me and sworn an oath." among non-gods" — and v. 12: "They deny Jehovah" etc.

Daumer, Feuerſ and Moloch service. 14

210 = j

The topic came up. Dad, the idol who actually... most luminous, most central presence of the one dwelling in the deepest darkness, from him. sending forth fine, corrupting utterances, represented the terrible demon, was hidden in deep secrecyſ He preserves his expression and effect, his public

The appearance in this was personified in the Moloch idol, who as a kind of representative of the innermost, trueſt The deity was considered to have taken his place as king over Israel. was anointed and accepted the sacrifices due to God!). But this would establish a connection between the two idols. will become part of the remains of the burned peopleſ Sacrifice scattered into the holy ark. The base of the column. According to Pausanias, the tomb of the Amyclaeſan Apollo was considered to be... The name of Hyacinthus, who was killed by the god, which, according to the above, was actually the one that in earlier times belonged to Apollo sacrificed boy in general — and had the Geſ in the form of an altar; a sacrifice was also placed into it.

 gen, which, viewed in this light, is related to that Molochist Scattering burnt human sacrifice remains into the holy ark
 in apparent connection. fteht: If one takes that Regarding the above news about the Mexicans' wanderings, in which an image of the war god is in a box. ge carry them and, when a stop was made, place a [something] in the middle of the camp.
 Hut (monastery hut) built and that picture in a way
 If it was placed on the altar, then the assumption is permitted.
 It is that the so-called golden altar of the Hebrew Holy... une, ber chen fo, „like the * of eme dos and with
 “ “ “ a 12
 nn, 2 | 7 ur } | 8. 17 rn * 4
 Compare the account of Arktino, in Dionysius. 1, 69, * u
 Dear Palladio, which Dardanos received from Zeus, until the Eroberung
 The ring of Troy was hidden in the sanctuary, but a replica of it exists today.
 dtfentlich aufsteigend ward, and the biblical cloud pillar, who stood in the doorway of the tent and was surrounded by all the people geföhren ward; in contrast to the cloud explained above: des Holy of Holies on the lid. the nn W 2 we ie

Fri —
 % 2. „% „ „n

211.

It was supposedly covered in pure gold, but in reality it was nothing.
 Other than the ark itself, which also served as an altar
 It was considered, and in tradition partly as an altar, partly as a chest.
 was designated, which then finally created the misunderstanding, as if the ark and the golden altar were two different holy things over been.

145

II.

Apollo, Paris and the fight against Troy.

Apollo, of the affirmative genius of Hellenic humanity transformed into such a beautiful and glorious figure, was, as we were already prompted to note above, originally nothing Other than the negating, cacodamonic Moloch-Jehovah Canaan and Phoenicia. He is still called AoA. and ovAsos, the corrupter, destroyer, names that are considered over stipulations of the equivalent Hebrew: Shaddai and Jehovah can be considered). When this terrible Being he leads bow and inescapable projectile, and It sends plague and death. So too does its female representation. Artemis, who speaks as a fine shakti, Indian, the aroAAovex, She is the destroyer and goddess of death, bringing plague and death to the land. sends people and animals, and as such, communally It works with the brother. He was also nothing at first. less than a god of light, but on the contrary, like The Hebrew God, a spirit of night and darkness. He is a son of Leto, Latona, the Darkness, of Ace, latere, Hebrew »b, not because it is light and sun breaks out of the darkness, but, as in Hebrew Language uses a son of darkness as much as a Darkness itself is. That is how we see him in Homer's work. march at night, leading the Trojans into a Ge-cloud shrouded as a terrible war god, the horrific

1) Cf. Aeschyl. Agam. 1081, where Cassandra calls: Axoldos, ayviev 7 u“ euos, Apollo, my guide and destroyer!

213

Agis carry 1). That is why he is also called owsaAAiog, the Dark One, von que, Schatten, fo wie Auuwsos, Aunsioq von Avxy, Darkness, and Aungyere, the Night-born, in the same Sense, like Leto's son. That's why Auxos, who is at night, is also ly wolf, at the same time as a terrible predator, his and His mother's animal form; Leto came from the wolf as a she-wolf. Hyperboreans to Delos, a wolf of ore lay near the Altars at Delphi, and that a wolf falls into a herd of bulls, prompted the worship of Apollo Lykeios in Argos, where

 To see the group in bronze at the market. Apollo is the enemy of generative, creative nature, with which he is in Struggles lie, whose births or which he in their births murders himself, and those who call him Python, Del~~ph~~
 phyne, which opposes Niobe. Delphym is the name of the snake.
 Python, who guarded the Earth Oracle at the Castilian Spring and himself gave oracles at Parnassus. The name means Mother Nature, the birthing mother, compare o'Oy, matriarch, eben fo Python after the Semitic, cf. jwa, pray,
 womb, but with hostile, Semitic wordplay:
 Snake, cf. ine, pethen, otter, poisonous snake, where~~de~~ through which, perhaps, the dolphin first became a snake. The same Niobe, who had many children, including Apollo and Artemis, is the mother of two children.
 tortured, that same the all-generating, all-nourishing mother Gaia, this mater omniparens et alma, who also once, alone or with the Water gods Poseidon, the Delphic oracle possessed, and the,
 according to Pindar, also fought with Apollo 2). Another
 The figure of contrast is the Phrygian Silenus Marsyas,
 "a demon of lush nature and a spring god",
 fine symbol a hose which, according to local legend—
 ner to Kel~~an~~æ at the flute tone into a gentle, friendly Movement occurred?).

1) I, 1, 47 and 15, 306 ff.

2) Cf. Otr. Müller, Prolegomena to a scientific

Mythology, Göttingen 1825, p. 278.

3) That. p. 114.

*

214

Apollo was born on Pergamum with his mother and sister worshipped by the community; here to his temple he carries the Aeneas from the battle tumult, here troiis war~~de~~ (prey consecrated). Apollo is the great hoard and supporter.
 Troy's and Hector defending it in battle with the Greeks; we also hear of Trojan fire service; Homer tells us how a rich, powerful fire servant to Troy sends its children to battle, and how they adapt to the fire god sought favor 2); on the other hand the horse and water god Poseidon, with bitter resentment against the Trojans fulfilled, granting victory to the Greeks. Just as in Palestine. Donkey and water cult with Moloch bull and fire service, for Here, Ross and Wassercultus are fighting with the same enemy. Achilles has a talking horse, like a talking donkey. Balaam, and both horse and donkey, are, as already mentioned above, partly, basically the horse and donkey god himself, in whose The services of Achilles and Balaam stand, and of the former the also has a fine name; a horse, i.e., this very god, in in whose name the great battle is fought, Troy takes One. It was a religious war, or in the language of the ancients. The world is a war of the gods; that is why the gods fight in Homer's works. They themselves against each other. Traces of this also exist. that the Trojan god of fire and destruction, as in Canaan and Carthage, a bull-headed Moloch and oven god were. Just like those ancient Hebrew names Ahia, Ahimelech u. s. w. diene Cultus zum Schautragen, for is it also with troish. The main hero of Troy bears the name Bull's oven, Hector namely of the, check, depression, from the altar: the depression in which the fire burns, and San, tor, cattle. Korythos is the father's name. of Dardanus, also a son of Paris bears this name; the name means fire furnace, cf. 115, cur, cor, furnace, e, ud, Feuerbrand, and the city name zw» un, smokehouse;

1) Homer. Il. 5, 446 and 7, 81 ff. 2) U, 5, 9 - 24.

215

Korythos is also the name of a city in Etruria, and it was originally from there. This was supposed to be Dardanus. It was also called Cortona, Oven. of prayer, praise, like Ahithophel, from that cor and nan, tana, in Pi. to praise, to sing praises. It seems this refers to an old To interpret the Molochism of Etruria, which is connected with the Trojan in Connection existed. Paris, furthermore, the notorious robber Helena, the bull is called, , par, for as well as that one brazen fire-glowing Talos of Crete and Sicily — an open-Bare and recognized Moloch god — ravpos, the bull only' edoxyv, it was called. One reads of a favorite bull of the Paris, for which there had been fighting) — a white tere track of the Moloch bull, of which Alexandros was Paris who bore the name. Since this Trojan, like the god himself, Because of that name, he could easily get into a conversation with the god himself.

 mythical person melting together, as we also to find the striking circumstance that he is with the .troifchen Apollo collapses in the following way. On Ida Paris grazes his flocks, and Apollo grazes his flocks there as well.
 the cattle of Laomedon 2); as the god, so it appears also Paris as an archer, wounded as such the Dio-Medes, Machaon, Eurypylus, Euchenor, Deiochus, — and Both he and the god killed Achilles. Achilles died Shot by no man, indeed, but by God himself, as They say, by the power of Phoebus 3); the god strikes him, shrouded in clouds, at the ankle; nevertheless, he should also be from Paris was killed, either in the Temple of Apollo to Thymbra or in battle, so that the god of Paris
 'projectile directed at the hero,' or Apollo took part in Er-(laying the same in the form of Paris). One notices

1) Hyg. f. 91. 2) Il. 21,448:

But you, Phoebus, were tending the heavy-walking cattle.
 Through the wooded bends of the winding Ida.

3) Sophocl. Philoctus. 334 f. Ä

4) According to Dictys de b. Tr. 3, 29, Achilles loved Polyrena, came upon the promise to have her as his wife, into the temple of the 216

From this, that Apollo was indeed Paris himself, takelich as Moloch bull "2; indeed Apollo was also called Car:
 neios worshipped, a name that refers to a similar design indicates, from the Hebrew Chaldean op, keren, p, karna, Indian.
 carnis, Latin cornu, Greek xepas, horn. This now also allows the abduction of Helen and her marriage to Paris in to see in a new, almost religious-historical light,
 and when one knows that antiquity is the offering
 of human sacrifice as a marriage with the god, to whom the sacrifice was offered, was usually referred to, so
 The suspicion arises that Helena was abducted.

in order to be wedded in this sense, i.e., sacrificed. After According to legend, Helen was indeed sacrificed, although not in Troy, but in Scythia among the Taurians 1). It would allow One can probably guess why the scene of the victim's death was moved.
had been; there was a legend that Helen had been sacrificed;
But already poetry had taken hold of the matter and it perceived and noted in the usual cheerful manner; there it was because the victim was relocated to a foreign region. But it
There is also a well-known legend according to which Helena even did not go to Troy by simply being similar to Helen A mirage that accompanied Paris there, but the real Helen was brought to Proteus in Egypt and remained there, until Menelaus came to get them. Here, one already mentioned above... touched upon Bluebeard legends, a strange feature
A comparison. A dressed doll must represent the bride.
imagine and step into the shoes of the girl who was rescued

Apollo to Thymbra and was here, while Deiphobus kissed him, by Paris stabbed. It is unfortunately quite clear from all this that the hero was sacrificed. The kiss of Deiphobus is the kiss of Judas.
consecrates the Christian Savior as a sacrifice; let us also remember the Moses, whose soul Jehovah kisses out, and the so-called Virgin^s kissing in the Middle Ages, which was mentioned above.

1) Ptolemy, Hepheus 4.

-

217

/

will be 1). This suggests a mitigating modification of old

Human sacrifice practices, so that instead of the real one, the god

People dedicated and presented an image representing him

ward. Thus, in Egypt since Amassius, instead of humans, wax figures symbolically presented 2), so the Romans threw In the month of May, images of people from the wooden bridge in the river, and this is said to have happened because one could here formerly captured Greeks were sacrificed, but Heracles sacrificed the Ge— had introduced the custom, instead of such images in the to throw into the river 3). Let us apply this to Helen and the Trojan War, so it seems as historical The truth is as follows: Helena was a victim of him= see and should be effective for the trois Paris-Apollon= offerings were made; but they were not given and He sent an image representing her, with which the god ab= should be found. But he — who was then headquartered in Troy, spiritually tyrannizing Greece namely the Semitic priesthood — consisted of the real Victims, and this is what sparked the battle against them. Priesthood rebelling Hellenes, who with the destruction Troy's end. But those horrors survived the fall of the City. For the Locians, afflicted by a plague, er- (followed the oracle's instruction to marry two virgins annually) to send to Ilios. They did this until the holy war. If the virgins entered the sanctuary unnoticed, then... whom they called temple servants; if they were noticed, they seized and They killed her and threw her ashes into the sea 5).

3) Grimm, r and fairy tale no. 46, with which those 11 See the relevant note in the 3rd volume, p. 76.

2) Eusebius, Preface to the Gospel 4:16. On Egyptian usage, to make an earthen statue in the form of a girl, “who— Thomas plays the part of praising the bride and plunging into the Nile. Moore in his famous poem Lalla Rukh.

3) Plutarch. Qu. R. 32, cf. Ovid. Almost. 5, 621 ff.

According to Serv. Virg. Aen. 1, 45, only one.

5) Müller, Orchomenos, p. 167.

But why was this Helen of Troy given to the Trojan Mo?
 Did they see the hole as a victim? Because they are the most famous and... celebrated beauty of her time and of the theocratic empire of Troy, whose lords and kings the most beautiful as To bring the bride, according to old Molochist tradition=

lungwise proper. That is connected with that inscription: »the "Shönften" together, which are on the golden apple of the Eris stood. Paris is depicted with the apple he Aphrodite as the prize of beauty is sufficient. Even the
 The Cretan Minotaur offers a rune on ancient artworks.
 the object that one might mistake for an apple).
 This reveals a new, and certainly obvious, connection.
 into the eyes. Paris the Bull and the bull-man Mino=

Tauros are the same divine being, the Semitic Moloch, the man people, especially the most beautiful female people sacrifices, and those who are brought to the god as his brides=

He is depicted holding an apple, the Symbols of love and marriage, the apple, through whose enjoyment Persephone also becomes the property of the god of death 2). This
 The apple is the apple of engagement, of bridal union, of—meal, namely with a Semitic word, from which,
 the Greek-interpreted, mythological apple of Eris
 ward, cf. wd, eres, to buy, free, or obtain a wife praise, un, oras, engaged fine, from the girl, chald. dad 3).

1) Böttiger, aa OS 349, with plates V. * 1 and 2.

2) Cf. Kanne, erste Urkunden der Geschichte, p. 283 f. Creuzer, Symbol. and Mythology II., 588, f. Sickler, Hymn to Demeter, Hild—Burghausen 1820, p. 135 ff. with the white [items] located at these places.
 tern Citaten. The three golden apples, the Meilanion or Hippome=

When he threw himself onto the racetrack during his victory over Atalanta, he had from received from the goddess of love, Aphrodite; the scholiast on Theocritus, id. 2.
 118, calls them Dionysus' love apples. According to Solon's law,
 The bride, before entering the bedchamber, had a "food", Plut. Qu. Rom. 65.

3) In American Chayma language, it is . girl.
 Humboldt, Journey II. p. 258.

This apple is offered by the god of beauty, i.e., he demands it. They became victims. That such things really happened in antiquity Shah, we know. Think of the evil hero of Te-messa, which the Oracle at Delphi advised by endowing a groves and temples and through annual offerings to reconcile the most beautiful maiden. They formed that evil demon black, terrible appearance and with a Clad in wolf skin; he was probably nothing more than that, as the night god and wolf god Apollo himself, whose hopeless Oracles, as in several cases preserved by tradition, so too in this the most outrageous human sacrifice cult be-founded 1). Like Bellerophon and Theseus, the sons of Poseidon, fighting against Chimaera and Minotaur, so over Euthymos, moved by compassion and love, takes the Fight the monster and free Timișoara from the Abomination; but he does not die, but goes down into the river. Cæcinus down and is considered to be a son of the river god 2). The following is entirely analogous. At Krissa, at the foot of the Parnassus, a female demon of terrible size lived and form, called Sybaris or Lamia. Here beautiful ones fell. Youths as victims, until one day Eurybates, from the Gebad of the river Axios, out of love for the beautiful Alcyonew, who is about to fall victim to the evil Sybaris of plunged down the cliffs of Mount Parnassus. It shattered. his head against a stone, and from it sprang immediately

1) Even in the first Messenian War, the Delphic oracle commanded to the Messenians, the subterranean powers in the dark of night, a To sacrifice a virgin, Pausanias, J. 4, c. 9. Here again he betrays himself. the night god and the nocturnal Passover of the Semitic corrupter of the of flourishing human life. How powerful superstition still was back then. This can be seen from the fact that, when Aristodemus married his daughter, who had the He had tried in vain to save the love of his fiancé, murdered him, and this deed had been declared a sufficient sacrifice, the Lacedaemon Nier and their kings became discouraged and harbored doubts about continuing—to summon the messmen to a meeting; cf. c. 10.

2) Cruiser, symbol. III. 22 f.

J

220

one source 1). Loud battles of the Hellenic water service against Semitic Molochism and fire cult; water and The source service takes the place of the one also provided here by Apollo. Oracles justified sacrificial atrocities, and the source of the stone, where the monster smashes his head, is their religion. giosen meaning according to the same as that from Samson's donkey chin cheeks. Sybaris means "the corrupter" as a female. Apollo or destroyer (xroAAum) with retained femiti tischem word, cf. w, scheber, aw, schibbaron, Ver severe, ruin. In Achaia further, in times of crop failure and plague, The use was introduced at the behest of the Delphic Oracle. leads, the Artemis Triklaria annually the most beautiful prison ben and to sacrifice the most beautiful virgin). In India, among the marauding rats, has this type of victim preserved down to the most recent times. Maurice tells the story, "that among some marmot tribes, people who distinguished by youthful blood, like the oxen for to be fattened up on the bloody sacrificial altar, which is especially true in the case of The girl's case « »).

The hero of Semitic Molochism was killed at Troy Achilles; Peleus, Achilles' father, but stands in enemy territory: lichen relations to actor and phonos and should they also Both were killed. In these names he betrayed himself. Fight against the Semitic fire and furnace service, which the Greeks and Achilles fought against Troy. Like Hector von pon und n, fo Aktor von nu, ach, und un, tor, So again, bull's oven; compare with Phokos: focus, fire Place, Oeryo, roast, fry. Peleus and Achilleus, these to fire, Oven and Semitic bull cult in general contrast Standing water and horse heroes are in this relationship with the Nereid Thetis, with the horse-man Chiron, a those anti-animal centaurs, with the god of the waters Poseidon and the un given to Peleus by Poseidon

1) Daf. p. 24f. 2) Break. 7, 19, 2. 3) Basel. Missionary m. 1816 p. 345.

221

linked to the mortal roses of Balios and Xanthos. - Those Ken-Tauren or Hippocentaurs, Horse Centaurs are probably found for that reason.
the bull-hating, bull-killing (xevo and Tevpos), and one Therefore, he lays them cattle-killing axes (Boy@ovovs re, because they were opponents of the Semitic bull service and aimed to destroy his bull idols (rxupov;).

They were bull-slayers, like Theseus the slayer of Mino-Tauros, Bellerophon of Chima, Heracles of Cacus
was, and how even in Catholicism the destroyers
an image of Christ was punished as God's murderer Ward I. The great desire attributed to the centaurs for Wine and women, especially the Dionysian wine barrel of the Centaur Pholos, whose name is vwAos, foal,
Filling, comparing, indicates the phallic and bacchial
Nature of the cult, which also corresponds to the Canaanite
Donkey cult was proper; the name of those who opposed them
Lapithen, however, points again to Semitic fire service, cf.
nh, lappid, flame, torch. Although one keeps the word for unsemitic, for. wand, Greek Auurw, Are; but Does the agreement correspond to that Hebrew design?
of the word, and it also betrays the language here otherwise.
of the sex and shows how Hellenic humanity with Semitic-speaking fire servants lay in battle; the Lapith Ka in eus places fine lance for divine worship on the Markets and also carries a name relating to them, da pp, cain, lance is called; the fine father's Atrax would to explain themselves casually as: worshippers of the oven, cf.
inv, 6 — 7 and nn, ah. When the centauses

1. The fate of that Roman sculptor is known, namely, who made a marble image of Christ for a cardinal, because but had withdrawn and smashed it due to poor pay. He was accused of deicide and according to the pronouncement of the holy Officium of the Inquisition led to his death by fire by s?ue-

He tried to excuse himself by saying that it was only a work of his own making.
I destroyed a hand.

222 \

This applies to children of the Nephele, so it probably originates from an expression of the hostile, Semitic party, which die Kinder der daz, nebala, der Böseigkeit, Verwaltheit, also mentioned the crudeness and lack of slaughter that led to their downfall.
Accusations made, may mainly be at the behest of hostile parties.
Presentation coming; one thinks of the friendly, guestlichen Pholos and the wise, through teaching and education effective cheiron, preferably called the centaur. The-
It must be a great and universal symbol of the nobler and milder Hellenic nature: to have been, he, the most just all centaurs, at the. rich in medicinal herbs Pelion well-nend, where, after him, the centaury is called Kentauion, where, late, the Magnesians dedicated the first products to him, and the healing clan of the Chironids, from him the Namen traggt, er, der, nicht nur der Jagd, aber auch knowledgeable in medicine, music, gymnastics, and prophecy Teacher of the Hellenic heroic boys who were sent to him
the Pelion Beingt, - like HE Peleus. Achilles "Theseus, Safon: u. s. w.. N er,

One of the heroes who marched against Troy "shown si 5 the horse and water god so hostile — why? For among the reasons given by the poets, and which have no history-
To grant fresh light, one cannot remain still.
But the news that Odysseus is partly had to be forced to take the train to Ilios.
Let us consider the curious circumstance that on the Days on which the returned Odysseus, in his fear
a bare form appears, in Ithaca a great festival of Apollo was that "on the day of Apollo, the avenging god, the
The leader of the archers, Odysseus, seizes the projectile.
and with Apollo carries out the work of revenge) — so We will notice that it relates to Odysseus.
* biefelbe Bewandiffß, wie mit dem * Paris had: Apollo was the king's god, the same Apollo who who was the god and protector of Troy, and against whom at the war against Troy the Poseidonian horse and water religion entered into conflict; like Paris, so too was Odysseus. named after the god himself, and thus melted with this quite understandably merged into a mythical being^s men, so that the bow of Odysseus, like that of Paris, in The reason is that of the god himself; namely, Odysseus from odvw, cedvccw, the distressing one, the pain-, lament-causing one, a name of Apollo in Ithaca, where he was still completely in his unmitigated horror as a Semitic Moloch and It appears that it was worshipped with human sacrifices. That the The fact that Penelope's suitors fall on Apollo's day shows that They die as human sacrifices for a fine Passover; yes, in Pene^s lope seems only Odysseus^sApollo in female form^s ben, so that according to the discussed expression of antiquity the Those dedicated to this deity called their bridegrooms and his half Penelope, who was courted by suitors; cf. the Jewish demon Asmodi, who seduced Sarah's bride dead 1). On Moloch sacrifice in the narrowest sense of the word This suggests that the suitors in Homer's Sardonian court Laughter breaks out: "And already they were all laughing wildly!" with a distorted face" 2). But that most gruesome form of sacrifice seems to be

1) Tob. 3, 7 f.

2) Odyssey. 20, 347: of d' n7dn yyasyoıcı yzkoıny akkorpıoıow — still quite characteristic of those strange facial distortions of the most terrible death pain; compare what follows immediately:

— — ——— but the eyes

They were filled with tears and their hearts were filled with sorrow.

Now before them began Theoclymenos, divine education:

“Oh, unhappy men, what do you endure? All around, in night, are...”

Wrap your heads, faces, and limbs!

Terrible lamentation rings out, and tears are streaming down the cheeks!

Blood is also dripping from the walls and every beautiful recess!

And the hallway and forecourt are filled with shadowy figures,

Those who hasten to Erebus in darkness! But the sun is

The sky is extinguished, and all around there reigns a horrible darkness.
The name of the Sardonian laughter also appears before verse 302.

224

which was described as sardonic laughter, already present here in has receded into the background and the milder folly set for it to have been. The king of the island, as priest of the God, imagining himself and his name (Odyssey (seus) carrying, shot with the bow those destined for death ten; which the suitors, bridegrooms of Penelope, the female Their feasts were probably based on Odysseus.
that they, the Semitic and already mentioned above
In accordance with American custom, they were fattened up to become victims.
The destructive power is associated with the destroyer Apollo.
Ulios, Schaddai, Jehovah identical to Odysseus's epithet rrokrop do, city wrecker, and Penelope as female Odysseus is the destroyer of tissue, namely of the tissue Especially of creative nature. It still seems to emerge from the symbolism and the imagery of the cult to originate, when Odysseus as described as carrying fire on their head instead of hair
will: | on u |

It seems to me that there is a radiance on it, like the glow of a torch,

From the top of the head, on which not a single hair can be seen).
He is Moloch, Jehovah, the Semitic fire god, hence the
The enmity of the water god Poseidon against him, therefore him even after the prophecy of Tiresias from the water of the Death come — Hellenic Water Service the Semitic fire

cultus verrungen fon.

1) Odyss. 18, 354 f.

III.

Egypt in America.

fragment

a general investigation into the Old Testament human human beings and the history of nations in relation—hung on Australia and America.

1

That famous, forty-year-old, a whole generation away
'Israel's sweeping move from Egypt to Palestine, with fine long, numerous, dark and incomprehensible series of stations, is in perfect harmony with the geographical situation of things
most charitable, without coercion or violence, both unbelievers as a contradiction that has never been resolved on the part of the believers 1). This This made me wonder if Israel isn't entirely came from somewhere other than Egypt or Africa,

1) Compare the essay "Israel in Goethe's West-Eastern Divan".
the desert "" and in Winer's biblical real dictionary, 2nd BS 810 ff.
the article: "Arabian Desert." That those touched, the contradiction fundamental features of the Hebrew tradition, in which I essentially I believe I must firmly hold fast to this, not based on mere invention and This is based on exaggeration, and I have a good reason for that. Because... large scope also includes legend and folk poetry in fantastical renditions.
embellishment and exaggeration of old events and recollection of Although it has additions, it still has its certain psychological limits, and He readily invents and elaborates on ideas that flatter national vanity.
and has led to fame and glory, but never the opposite; which is why
one can safely assume that that long, shameful wandering of the emigrant, seeking a new home and place to stay-that the people's suffering and misery should not be a fairytale fantasy, fondern in Achter, historical national memory is rooted.

Daumer, Heuer: and Moloch service. 15

226

whether there might have been another Egypt besides this one, whether that it is not located in the other hemisphere, in Amerika, where those wondrous ruins and remnants of old, a-native culture, where those temples, pyramids, obelisks, La-abyrinths, colossi, animal circles, hieroglyphs, mummies, etc.
so strikingly reminiscent of the old cultural conditions of Asia and Africa, especially Egypt, warn. The wonderful dry Israel's crossing of the sea — it was perhaps nothing
Other than the transition from the American continent to Asia across the frozen Bering Strait, and this one, not the Arabian bays, the sea that Jehovah turned into dry land Ground was cleared and Israel was crossed on dry ground.
have 1). One should not disdain to use the words of the
to consider the Quran, which thus tells: "Moses spoke to
to his servant: I will travel until I come to the place, where the two seas meet; long,
"For eighty long years I want to travel." 9. And was not according to a Hebrew station list desert before and after that transition, desolation here and there, so that one can easily think of them, even if not now.
more uninhabited, northern regions of America and Asia can think of things that one can think of before and after crossing the
to cross the strait separating the two continents?

1) Exodus 14, 16, 21, 22. "The sons of Israel will be in the midst of "Walking through the sea on dry land." — "Jehovah did that Sea to dry land" — "and the sons of Israel went "Right through the sea, on dry land" — in what expressions one can easily still find the simple, historical reason for a traditionwill know, which in its application to the Red Sea, which is not freezes (becomes dry ground), necessarily a such fantastic wish-had to take on the form of

2) Koran, Sura XVIII. P. 247 of the translation. of choice.

3) Numbers 33, 6 ff. Etham, Desert Etham, v. 6 and 7, between when the walk through the sea; compare Arabic. dus solitudo, Heb. d, DWN, DOW with known alternation of N and W, of which nw and dw, desert, wilderness.

227

%

Has not the memory of... still been preserved in name and legend?
(preserves a train to the north)? Yes, that doesn't attest to that.
The aforementioned station list even mentions this, that the one from The sea crossed by Israel is different from the so-called Was the Sea of Reeds or the Arabian Gulf 2)? On this
In that case, everything would appear very natural and understandable, and also many similar riddles of world history
Find a fine solution. Not only Sfraelites, but also Indians, Greeks... chens, Colchians, Afghans, Caucasian mountain peoples, gypsies, Irish Lands are said to have come from Egypt — how strange!
Is that perhaps consistently true, but in the sense that all these peoples not belong to African Egypt, but to a originating from a large ancient Egyptian empire of America, from which Was Africa itself just a colony? The Afghans
They call themselves Bene Jisrael, Children of Israel 3), so they probably once a people with the Sfraelites; but their Deriving from Palestine presents significant difficulties. The Mif-
State Wolf, a Jew by birth, says the following about her:
"That they descended from the emigrated ten-tribe kingdom"
Men, I still have many doubts about that. They have in Generally speaking, there is no Jewish facial features, their traditions

1) That the Hebrews' journey to cross the sea, in

The name of the one that went north does not indicate that it was in the old world—assigning Baal Zephon, Exodus 14:2 and Numbers 33:7. Baal is the well-known Hebrew prefix before geographical names, and Za—In Hebrew, phon means north, northern region. After the famous—After Tabari's ten Arabic history, the Hebrews turned to him to...
to cross the sea, heading north, and had a night

Northern Lights as a guidepost; see Rofenöl, or legends and customs of the Orient, from Arabic, Persian and Turkish sources, Stuttgart. and Tübingen 1813, 1. BS 100.

2) A distinction is made between the sea and the reed sea; about this Israel does not go, but over that one, v. 8; it comes to the Red Sea. it only later, v. 11.

3) Basel Mission Magazine 1837, p. 701.

4) So she is not missing in any individual case.

15 *

228

of Jewish descent is not universally true, because some believe they descended from the Egyptian Copts. Men. There is great confusion in their gender registers. and their language bears little resemblance to Hebrew). From a very strange, in a similarly distant and yet savage peoples closely related to Israel in the Mountains north of Cabul and Peschaur, the Ka~~r~~ Fir Syapus~~ch~~, reports the same. Her appearance is quite eu~~r~~ European, they sacrifice animals and sprinkle blood over a idols, know the difference between pure and un~~p~~ pure animals, and a mother who has given birth will have three They were kept away from the village for days so that they would not make it unclean. (make 2), they worship a god whom they call Im Ra (Lord, of) Wu (Arabic: W, imperator, princeps) indicate a Inscription in an unknown language, taken from the Torah (Torah, (Law of Moses) etc., but have no tradition about their origin 3). Characterized by a similar enigmatic quality Furthermore, the Ossetians of the Caucasus, who are considered an ancient tribe, completely different from all the surrounding tribes~~r~~ their root people are determined. They are to be born of a son. Yes~~r~~ phets, named Oss, originate from, and therefore, as they themselves They were called Ossi. They once had to give the Khazar a Paying tribute from oxen, the begar (Hebrew: bakar, cattle) was called. They honor Saturday and Sunday by... Go to Baarhaupt. They call the first one Shabate, Sabbath.

A type of shaggy fabric, coverings, and coats

They are called burkas, Hebrew barocheth, curtain. It applies to them

The Jewish law states that the brother of a deceased person

A man whose widow must marry. The patricide.

They burn in a very Old Testament fashion, along with family, house, and possessions.

council and cattle — customs, which also, incidentally, in

3. See p. 702, cf. p. 628.

5 Missionary Magazine 1837, p. 705.

229

They were in large numbers in America 1). They are celebrating the Feast of St. Elijah.

whom they call Ilia, by cooking certain dishes themselves to feast heartily on it, and to put some of it in a lonely room.

more places so that the house spirit may enjoy it, just as

The Jews at their Easter feast a cup of wine and a Bowl with leftover food on the table

let and believe that Elijah will come in the night and bring wine and eat food 2). Otherwise, much about these Df-

They are reminiscent of the Germanic tribes of ancient times. They have blond hair.

Hair and blue eyes. Their drinking vessels are large horns.

of sheep or cattle, and they put something in it, so (Enormous cups to empty in one go). That even these Peoples, however little they may be derived from the Jews,

but once in a certain connection with the Semitic

It will be admitted that the tribes must have stood; they...

They probably belonged to that group of Semitic and other people who were involved with these connected peoples from America to Asia); but the Zu

The cohesion was already broken before the occupation of Palestine by

1) Baumgarten, general history of the countries and peoples of America, 2nd ed., p. 236. Kanne, System of Indian Myth, Leipzig zig 1813, p. 260. De la Borde, Journey to the Caraibes or wil—

the inhabitants of the Antillean islands, German in Schad's Travels of the Father Labat to the West Indies, Nuremberg 1782, 1st Th. p. 377, where it from the islands of the Caribbean means: "Some imagined that they were from the Jews, because they have to marry their blood sisters and not eat pork." Charlevoix, History of Paraguay, Nuremberg 1768, 2nd part, p. 303: "If a man dies without children,

So his brother marries his widow, and if the woman has no children

If she dies, the man marries her sister, if she has one.”

Genesis 38:8, and Bohlen, Genesis, pp. 365 ff. in the note to this Position.

2) Oertel, “What do the Jews believe?” Bamberg 1823, p. 98.

3) Foreign countries 1839. No. 109 ff.

4) Compare Exodus 12:38 and Numbers 11:4. It went with Israel, According to the tradition preserved here, 27,300, a large number Non-Israelites — only from our standpoint are they sufficiently satisfied. clarifying move.

230

7

Israel. That even the mountain peoples of the Caucasus from Egypt² ten stummen, is a tradition already mentioned above, which the Missionary Lang found in an old Turkish script 1). What As for the Gypsies, it is believed that they originated in Egypt. originate from a place as old as their immigration to Europe; he ent² stag through the s¹ sel sich für emigrante aus Aegypt¹ er e¹ r¹ r¹ r¹ e ... The newcomers themselves were even called Egyptians, English. Gipsies, French Bohemians, but also Egyptians, Hungarian Pharaoh Nemsetség or descendants of Pharaoh; Michel, Her² moved from Egypt, the leader of the 1418 into the Gypsies invading Switzerland, also Egypt is on the Graves of Gypsy chieftains 2). Not only But Egypt, and also India, were named by the Gypsies as their homeland. Heimath s); also call themselves Sin te), which has to do with Sinde, the Hindu name, Hindu, is correct. Essence and Customs point to the barbaric tribes of India, who were so² so-called pariahs, especially those brought closer by Malcolm Bhill's (Billa), which became well-known, with decisiveness 5). and in their dictionary, according to Bohlen's Be² Note, two thirds on Indian idioms, and even on (to trace back to Sanskrit). But in their language it falls

1) Basel Mission Magazine 1834, p. 406. Of Noah's Sons
'They are said to have come from four great sources, which in ancient times with their
The people migrated to Egypt, and one of them, named Walaun,
The sex register of the Circassians is being returned.

2) Grellmann, The Gypsies, Dessau and Leipzig 1783, p. 90 ff.
pp. 192 ff. and the chronicles cited therein. Michael v. Kogalnitchan, Sketch of a History of the Gypsies, translated by Casca, Stuttgart 1840
Pages 3, 5, 8, besides the crap of the ER mentioned here
Joh. v. Müller.

3) Muratori scriptor. rerum Italicarum, XIX, p. 890: Aliqui dixerunt, quod erant de India.

4) Kogalnitchan, aa OS 71, cf. p. 4.

5) Bohlen, India I, p. 44 ff., cf. that of Grellmann, ibid.
drawn parallels. f

6) Bohlen, aa OS 46. Grellmann, aa OS 216 ff.
Kogalnitchan, aa OS 38. Barrow, the Zingali or an account of the word rom, man, which is a Coptic word!);

231

There is also a lack of analogy in customs and traditions.
with the Egyptian 2). Now, however, there is also the fact that Several things in the language, nature, and customs of this
The people were reminded of America. American word forms resemble nen e.g. to be the following: Gypsy. dud, Glanz, tuttu, tatto, hot, talto, tattopen, heat, cf. brafil. tata, fire;
gypsy. pabni, lemon, compare pappai, papaya, papayo, an in

A very common name in the languages of America for a noble

Fruit; gypsy. schegari, hunting (catching), compare Peruvian tschigra, net, rete; gypsy. gad, gath, shirt, compare Peruvian.
catana, covering, garment; gypsy. kutschaha, tuna (soft).
earth), compare Peruvian cotscha, swamp (mud) etc. w. 3).
Furthermore, the copper-colored people seem to point to America.

(sight of the gypsy girls), the use of the body to colors 5), the arge Kanni, who blamed them in Hungary the Gypsies in Spain etc., London 1841. George Barrow, agent of the

The English Bible Society in Spain has a lot of contact with the Roma here.
wrong and wrote the last-mentioned work, which I haven't yet could use, but I read that it is a glossary of
It contains Gypsy language, which the author combines with Sanskrit in the
I find it particularly relevant that he therefore considers the Gypsies a people from India explained.

1) Grellmann, op. cit. OS 232, 252. Kogalnitchan, op. cit.
pp. 41 and 63, cf. p. 71: "roma, romino, romnitschel, Gypsy"
– and p. 4: "The Gypsies call themselves Romnitschel in their language, Son of woman, or rome, men."

2) Grellmann, p. 203 f. Among those listed here, by Grife
Compared to the customs in the line, some are indeed striking.
Agreements that could not be entirely dismissed.

3) See the word lists in Grellmann and Kogalnitchan.
Father, Investigations p. 53, where also American Musgohg. toutkah, Asian.
Wogulitschi tat, Ostiak. tat, fire, compared; Galician ist teath, hot.
Murr, Travels of some missionaries in America, Nuremberg 1785, p. 340, 436, 438. An apple-shaped American fruit is called pepunha, daj-
p. 538, cf. Greek ren, Latin pepo, Pfebe.

4) Kogalnitchan, aa OS 10.

5) Grellmann, aa OS 31, 91.

=,

232

balism and the burning of the bones in the process I), whereby
we, the one discussed above, with such burning, are concerned to remember bound American Hebrew sacrificial feasts. In Germany, France and Spain were blamed for Gypsies of child abduction; several writers speak of their kidnapping and claim that they are particularly kindern followed, and Grellmann suspects that they did that, ten, to slaughter and consume the stolen ones, with which The Hungarian news reports are accurate, according to which they were before, namely, he lusted after the flesh of young people. That The common people in Moldavia and Wallachia believe of the Gypsies, that they are heading towards the end of the world, the Anti-Christ at their head, will appear to the Christians torment and devour their children 29. All this looks very American. Individual American tribes of particularly gypsy-like character are described by several writings. The actors were highlighted. That's what Veigl says in his description. the landscape of Maynas: "To the village of the Omaguas I also found some Mayuruna families included who are at Language as well as gestures, a very special nation a are. From all other known ones, one knows of no other that, like these, always living in the Gypsy style without a formal residence wandering here and there; but they remain for fear of being on Christians or other wild peoples, during their Hikes only within the district they know « 3). Veigl also mentioned the usual manufacturing process used for panoramas. (of bowls, pots and jugs, says), can be attached to the Zi-Geuner remember. Walter Scott in his novel »Guy Mannering or the astrologer" says of the Gypsy hor- the following in Scotland: »Many crude crafts were

1) Grellmann, aa OS 34. Kogalnitchan, p. 32.

2) Grellmann, aa OS 35, 38 f. Kogalnitchan, ©. 32 ff.

3) Murr, Tires of some missionaries of the Society of Jesus in Ame-rika, Nuremberg 1785, p. 87. 1

4) That. p. 66.

233

to these hikers entirely, especially the art of the Production of wooden plates, the manufacture of the horn spoon

"Making it and the whole secret of the art of boiler repair." —

"These hordes," he said, "were the pariahs of Scotland, which, like wild Indians, under European settlers lived and, like them, according to their own-customs and opinions, and not as members were judged by a civilized part of society.

A Gypsy- and Jewish-like people met Pentland during a Excursions to the Sorata Valley. "It's a lake of about 3000 lakes." a large population, of which the male persons preferably wander around as quacks and fortune tellers. They leave with one in the valleys on the eastern slope the bundle of herbs gathered in the Cordillera, the land and wander from one end of South America to the others. You meet them in Chile, Buenos Aires and Buenos Aires. They bring large sums of money with them on their journeys. together, which they squander in drunkenness upon their return. In their habits they are very similar to the Gypsies— Men have a completely different facial structure than others. Indians, and are getting very close to the Jews. The The language they speak among themselves is entirely their own. lich and completely unknown to the Aymara Indians «). Egg Gen. Israelites among the Indians of America, after Rabbi Manasseh, a Jew named Aaron in the 17th century Levi, also called Montesinus. He had for his Leader an Indian who referred to his god with the Hebrew The name Adonai was attested when his ancestors Abraham, Isaac and Jacob were named, and himself from the tribe Ruben derived from him known to the entire tribe of Jews, who considered him their brother- who embraced and kissed him, but could not communicate with him could, so that he, since he had no answer to fine questions held, became angry 1). This latter is a most noteworthy Werther Zug, who guarantees us that the news of the Montesinus's words are not purely fictional; for if one had told a lie... Had it been conceived, such strict limits would not have been imposed on it;

1) Foreign Affairs of April 17, 1829, No. 107, p. 428.

234

would certainly not have silenced those Indian Jews, son²
but rather important, extraordinary and wonderful
Let them tell their stories; Montesinus really must have been thinking about this.
He had been attacked by Indians, for which he had reasons.
To keep relatives, and we will remain so only in this sentence, which leaves aside everything more specific To stand, that is already significant enough. Regarding the narrative Jewish writers, who also came from the teachings of Montesinus, have based on a Christian assertion that the owners-Born in America's Israelite heritage and of the once-displaced dragged and lost tribes from Asia went to America. But those Native American Israelites
They might rather have been those who were present at the aforementioned migrations of peoples, the alleged exodus from Egypt, in their left behind in the American fatherland, which resulted in the best those, despite all the agreement indicating kinship² mung, prominent large difference explained, which also in in other cases too great to include all those of Adair, Noah and others reported and compiled, in part most striking analogies 2) to an ancestry from Palestine

2) Rabbi Manasee, Mikveh Yisrael, c. 20, fol. 6, 1st col. 2. Iron² menger, II. p. 571 f. Noah, aa OS 24.

1) See our above treatises with the accompanying citations.
Here is the following from Kanne's System of Indian Myth, Leipzig.
1813, p. 260: "Even the shoe of ruler and woman
We find slippers in the marital ritual of the Peruvians; for they
They seal the marriages by the groom putting the bride's shoe on,
And here again Huet has made his excellent comparison
American customs combined with Hebrew, the Mosaic Law²
It was established that whoever did not want to marry his brother's widow, to him
The sister-in-law should take off one shoe and his name must be written in Israel is called the House of the Barefoot Man. For that the brother the 235

to believe. Isolated, scattered hints between the semi²
There are many dialects and languages of America, so that a not insignificant list is compiled

Let it be. Several things of this kind have already been mentioned in the preceding paragraphs.

actions were occasionally taught; some other aids

The games are as follows. Hebr. ani, I, pimas. and muscohg.

ani, delawar. and in related languages ni, ich. Hebrew.

Henna, here, Tarahumara henna, here. Hebrew: oth, sign at

My sister-in-law, who wed, was also in Peru, just like in New Spain and Guatemala, Law.” Regarding the news, Adair remarks Carver states the following in the aforementioned work: “Mr. Adair claims, that the peoples among whom he stayed had almost all the customs—observed which were prescribed in the Mosaic Law; but I could among the Native Americans who live only a few degrees further west, no Discover traces of Judaism if you have a certain habit excluding women and their division into tribes.” Father, Us Studies on America's population, p. 15, Außert fi) on Adair

as follows; “Adair, with his extensive knowledge of Israelite antiquity—

thumbs and from irrefutable data that he had about the peoples in South—and North Carolina, West and East Florida, there are a lot of Similarities were compiled. Most striking is that the Chickkasah, in their religious customs, began to sing Alleluia, which one Adair, with fine visible effort, reliable discussions to give, one would have to believe, even if Eskarbot did not sing the same song—led by wise peoples from more northerly regions. Also Charlevoix, who led the Ab—

The leadership of the Americans is denied by the Sfraelites, they are hunting from this

Alleluia, and that he found people who, because of this religious custom, and because of the similarity of certain purification laws of women, it would not let them get away with saying that there was a conflict between the Canadians and the old He—

"A strange agreement is the

in Long's Travels of an American Interpreter, Berlin 1792, p.

87 f. remarked: “Part of the pious superstition of the savages be—

It states that everyone has their own totam or favorite spirit who watches over them.

He watches over him and takes the form of an animal, which he therefore never hunts, kills, or eats. — The famous Jewish banker to Lud-

William XV's court, Samuel Bernard, had a black hen, on which

Her fate hung in the balance; he bore the greatest worry for her, and her death was the end of his own life in January 1739; see Private Life of

Louis XV."

Sky, Huafteca ot, star. Heb. laila, night, lule lailo, Night. Hebrew zach, white, zachach, to be white, Maya in Yucatan zac, totonak. zacaca, white. Hebr. parur, shine, Zamuca porora, white. Hebr. zaid, zeda, food, rice food, mixtec dzita, bread. Heb. bold, bold, chaymas Topuche, with Spanish pronunciation, fat. Chald. Attun, oven, Pima etonni, burning. Chald. arak, earth, Aymara urakke, Earth. Hebrew: ud, firebrand; Caribbean: ouato, fire. Hebrew:
 sed, sidon, ußermuþtig, frech, frevelhaft, Tarahum. tsetu, boße.
 Heb. adam, human, Cochimi tama, tamma, tamma, human,
 Othomi dame, man. Hebr. poth, female genitalia, Tama= naka puti, female. Hebr. caph, hollow hand, Maya cab, Mo= bima chopá, island=Caribbean noucabo, Maipuri nucapi, my Hand with prefixed nu, my. Heb. chasek, strong, make= tig, Haitian cazique, casiche, leader, regulus. Hebr. ba-jith, beth, house, Poconchi pat, house. Heb. boker, Mor= gen, Quichua in Peru pacarina, Morgenroethe. Heb. ziza, Flower, Quichua sissa, flower. Heb. we, jaar, forest, syr.
 jaro, thorn bush, Quichua yura, tree, Haitian jaruma, jauruma, forest tree. Hebrew shem, name, reputation, Quichua.
 schimi, mouth. Heb. pw, eth with the breath of Ajin, time, for a while, atta, at the time, after some time, Quichua huata,
 Year. Hebrew jerakon, pallor of the face, Quichua yurak, white. Hebrew: oh, brother, Aleuts: agi, Quichua: huauki, huaquey, brother, Onondagos akzia, sister. Heb. em, amma, mother, shebay hama, lule umue, mother. Heb.
 av, ub, darken, nav, uph, be darkened, Lule uyba, - Night. Heb. caphal, chald. kappel, make double, Pukatan Cappel, two. Hebrew: sabal, to dwell; sebul, dwelling, place.
 huafttekisch tzabal, earth. Heb. rakia, heavenly vault, Ki= riri arakie, heaven. Hebrew piggul, grayish, hideous.
 Guiana puguly, a poisonous tree, whose milk the Indians used poison their arrows 1). Hebrew: camar, inflamed fine, chamar,

1) One should consider the strange thing about going to America=
 The resounding circumstance that Hebrew chema means milk and poison.

roth fine, Guiana coumery, Rothholz. Heb. Any, omer, Garbe, Guiana hummari, Kopfbinde von an einander gebundenen feathers. Hebr. vpa, baka, to split, to cut, Guigna pagaye, a thin oar, with which large waves can be driven most quickly to be cut. Hebrew: tzitzit, forehair, pukatan, tzoz.
 Mixteca ydzidzique, ydzidzini, hair. Heb. , whew, blah= sen, Chipira poagan, pipe 1). From nas is Hebr. nod, piach, ashes, Shawshank piqua, made from ashes 2). Hebrew.

 haga, to speak, to complain, to sigh, to coo, haggy, of the form hagag, lament, sigh, Quichua, guagani, weep, Mexican.
 cuica, Cora chuica, caught. Heb. maweth, moth, death, muth, to die, Cora mueat, death, Pimas muhat, to kill. Hebr.
 awen, nullity, vanity, delawar. awonn, Miami awaun-weeh, air. Hebr. gapb, dogs, height, gab, vault, ga-wow, high, Caribbean cabo, cabou, Tamanaca capu, Vaoi capou, heaven. Heb. 733, gabah with a pronounced h, high, he= have fine, gobah, gobach, Highness, Majesty, Quichua capac, King. Hebrew: tukkijjim, tukkijjim, birds from Ophir, who mistaken for peacocks or pheasants, cf. malabar togei, Peacock, in America arawack. tukkuku, "the red geese at Lakeside « to Quandt, Chaymas tucuchi, Colibri to Hum=

2) An Indian, in John Tanner's Memoirs fine thirty= year-long stay among the Indians of North America, German by Andree, Leipzig 1840, p. 248, calls Opoiungun, the pipe.

1) Piqua is the name of one of the four Swansong hordes that from a man who emerged from fire and ashes, their origin should have jumped. Another of these hordes, the Mequa—chake=Horde, ift priest tribe, as with the Hebrews
 The tribe of Levi. They perform all the religious business of the nation.
 and no one, except certain individuals of this horde, is allowed to their
 To touch holy sites. Assall, news from the earlier days.
 Inhabitants of North America, Heidelberg 1827, p. 89. Also Humboldt, Reise, 5th part, p. 39, speaks of this strange phenomenon: "In
 In North America, it is observed that among the Shawanos, who come from several tribes exist, the priests who preside over the sacrifices have, from a single tribe, as with the Hebrews, the one of Mequachakes, chosen fine must."

boldt, toko, toucan, ramphastus toco, ramphastus tucanus, the brafilian pepper-eater. Heb. chor, mountain cave, in America cuar, mountain gorge, as the end syllable of many Cumana-Goths- and Carib names, as in guaymacuar, lizards-Gorge. Arabic: ma, Hebrew: majim, me, meme, water, Vil-lela ma, norton street mooe, water, meami, miami, maumi, North American- Native American river names. Hebrew: ben, child.
 son, Araucanian penien, pnen, child, Eslenes panna, son, Greenlandic pannia, pannik, Tfchuktschen panika, Kadjak paneaka, daughter. Hebrew nin, offspring, Darien ninah, Daughter. Heb. jonek, joneketh, jenikah, offspring, Vil-lela inake, son, daughter, Mbaya yoniki, son, yonaga, Daughter, Greenlandic. nuka, son. Hebrew makak, in Niph.
 to fade away, to pass away, decay, rot, muehound. mu-kiki, Mexican. miqui, to die, delawar. mekih, corruption, Rot. Heb. zula, sea abyss, mezula, depth of the sea-res, Flusses, Darien dulah, Wasser, Arawacken tullan, tief fein.
 Hebrew tehom, flood, water, tehom rabba, the great waferser, the sea, Mobima tomi, water, Quichua tamia, rain, Floridian the lake Theo mi, which outflows the great flood the Appalachian legend caused. Chald. teren, three, Yarura tarani, three. Heb. aleph, syr. olaph, Arabic. eliph, Phœnician-Greek alpha, the first letter of the alphabet, as a number—sign one, Lule alapea, one. Heb. beth, gre. beta, second letter, as a numeral two, Cayubaba bbeta, Mbaya itobata, two. The same is in Arabic, cf.
 in Africa Mobba bah, Camoncons ba, Afnu biu, Kashne biju, two, in America Aymara paya, two. Heb. ajin, Arabic.
 ain, in, chald. aina, eye, Moffa aaino, eye, tamanak. ano, Lule ini, inni, sun, day. That Semitic word means but also a source, therefore to compare the Haitian river—names Aina and Junna, huronisch aouin, Mossa une, uni, omaguifsch uni, Quichua unu, maipurifsch ueni, Kolushchen in,
 iin, jin, water. Heb. nagah, shine, nogah, negoha,
 Shine, firelight, sunshine, Syriac nogah, daybreak,

Mokobi naga, Abipona neoga, Mbaya nocco, Toba naax, with span. Pronunciation Day, Quichua nagui, Moffa nuki, eye,
 In Africa, Widah noucou means eyes. Hebrew ner, nir means light.
 only, nahar, shine, be bright, nehara, Chald. nehor, nehira, arab. only, light, Aymara naira, Caribbean enourou, eye.
 Hebrew: or, to become bright, or, orah, light, ur, fire, Aymara uru, Huron ourhenha, juaran. ara, Tupi arà, mean=bra=, filianifsch ara, Collæaura, day, in Africa Somali orah, Shiho and Danakil euro, sun. Hebr. sarach, to rise, Used for light and sun, serach, rising, cf. Hot=, tentotten sorököa, day, in America Galibi siricca, Yaoi chirikka, tamanak. and otomak. circa, star, Guiana xeric,
 The Pleiades. Hebrew: cheres, charsa, sun, Guarani quarasi, cuarazi, Tupa coaracy, omaguifch huarassi, ge=,
 my=brafil. arassu, sun. Hebr. athek, athik, shining, Knistenaux attak, Stern, Cayubaba itoca, Sonne, arawack.
 addikin, see, in Africa Shiho hottug, Danakil hottugt, Somali hittigah, star. Heb. bal, beli, not, belijjaal, Worthlessness, decay; pal or pel, the Delaware
 According to Heckewelder, a word placed before a word indicates a negation.
 also something wrong, evil, fo in palhiken, to miss, pelsittank, an unbeliever etc. w. Heb. nyw, taam, ko=, sten, Arabic oyw, essen, dyn, derp, nnyw, food, grain,
 Shawanese lady, grain, Mexican tawalli, Othomi thume, Tarahumara temeke, Greenland. timmiursaut, Brod, Yarura tambe, bread of cassava. Heb. vz, nega, plague of God sent, Haitian nigua, who puts his eggs under the nails
 the toes lying and thereby violent, sometimes burning sand flea, pulex pe-, causing transient inflammation netans. Hebr. zuph, to overflow, sub, to flow, delavarisch sipo, sipu, river, hence the Mississippi, actually namaesi sipu, the Fish River, Swansea sepe, river, Ottawa sepe, Otta=, wa=river etc. w. Heb. chedek, briar, delawar. hittuk, tree, A faph, the singer of David, delawar.
 assuwi, sing. Heb. tachan, weigh, check carefully, tick, to weigh, to measure, to determine, to straighten, to measure, measure, araucanian. toquin, law, jurisdiction, rule. Hebrew.

harag, to ruin, to kill, araucan. hueracan, to insult, hai-
table hurricane, uracane, Orkan, Galibi Hyorokan, Teufel, evil spirit, a demonic being that brings about illness and death beings. Heb. car, Anger, Aue, pasture, arawack. carau, Grass, savannah). There is also no shortage of strange things.
grammatical analogies. For example, in American English, as in Semitic languages the appearance that the third Person of the verbs without pronominal preamble is, while all other persons have similar things), and here as there they find the regular systems of conjugations with modified-cirter meaning, series of verbal forms, as they are in ourrer 1 only possess the Semitic languages. One Compare, for example, the following Hebrew and Arawak conjugations-Yes:

1. Hebrew conjugation Kal katal, kill, Arawackisch assu-kussun, wash;

2. Hebrew Conj. Niphal niktal, to be killed "arawack.

Askussahün, to be washed; |

3rd and 4th Hebrew conj. Piel kittel and Hiphil hiktil, to d-ten lassen, arawack. assukussukuttun, waschen lassen,

5. Hebrew conj. Hithpael hithkattel, to die, arawack.

asassukussunnua, to wash oneself?).

10 The American and African words and names, according to Father's Investigations into America's Population and Mithridates,
A. v. Humboldt's journey to the equinoctial regions of the new Continents, Heckewelder's message of the Indian peoples;
Loskiel's Missionary History, Quandt's Message from Suriname, Assall's
News about the former inhabitants of North America, Barrere's

Description of Guiana, Carver's journey into the interior regions of North America, Baumgarten's general history of the countries and volumes of America, Murr's Travels of Some Missionaries of the Society of Jesus in America, and Kielmaier ibid.

2) Father, Investigations into America's Population, Leipzig 1810 p. 204.

3) Quandt, News of Suriname and its inhabitants, Göttingen 1794

241

Sometimes the American word forms seem to reflect this. to betray the prominent m of Semitic word formation; so would like to find the root in the Swansea miskeque, puddle. and contain fine, syr. and, fracidus, putridus, xn, putredo, corruptio, compare in America itself sahgiegun, lake), Traces of Semitic education can also be found with prestepping n; the Haitian tabaco did not mean the herb, but the tube that was used for smoking tobacco 2). and in this word is, as in the forewords mentioned above men poagan und opoihgün, pipe, the root bac, pag, pach to recognize, Hebrew puach, naphach and japhach, blow, hitchen, dud naphuach, heated by blown fire Pot. The same applies to the Swansea tecaca, axe, explain, Hebrew npri, chaka, ppn, chakak, to cut in, cf. (Shawanese cheketecacu, battle axe 3), likewise the name of the Native American warrior Tomahawk, tamahican,), Hebrew. pro, machak, beat, in Arabic and Samaritan: to spoil, to ruin erase. Many of the in- are also hard to miss. Native Americans of America, with ancient Hebrew, biblical Highly strikingly similar idioms. Thus, "living flesh" was used to mean "people", Hebrew. n, meat instead of people; »all meat« fl. »all living Creatures « and in a narrower sense »all people «, in the Arabic The word has a bit of the meaning eutis hominis, homo, homines, humanum, genus. »To take one under one's wings To the Indian, "stellen" means: to protect him, to put him in the litz 1807, p. 301 f. Quandt himself points here to the Hebrew.

"All Arawaken verbs can be used, so that they..."

"The meaning of the conjugation Hiphil is to be gained."

1) Asffall, aa OS 105: miskeque, puddle, miskekopke, Marsh soil; cf. John Tanner, aa OS 50 f. and 22
muskeeg, Moraft, muskeegonegummeweesebe, Strom des Moraftes,
a river name, and sahgiegun, lake.

2) A.v. Humboldt, journey to the equinoctial regions etc. w.
2nd Th. P. 233. Murr, aa OS 407.

3) Assall, aa OS 105.) Heckewelder, aa OS 425.

Daumer, Feuers u. Molochdienst. 16

242

Psalms: "Hide me in the shadow of your wings!"

An apprentice of an Indian sorcerer appears near Loskiel.

God in the form of an old man with white-grey hair and

Speaking to him in true biblical style, he said: "Be afraid

No, I am a rock; that is my name; so you shall

Call me. I am lord over the whole earth and over

Everything that is on it, including all birds in the air, also Come rain or shine. Nobody can resist me, and "I will give you the same power." The word "brother"

is used to denote similarities; so sings a

The Indian woman, from the heart of her lover, that it is always in Love bebe, and therefore calls it "the brother of the aspen—"

"laubes," just as the Hebrew expresses himself, e.g., "I

"I am a brother of the jackal," meaning I whine like him. Wool

the now-defunct Iroquois expressed their decision=

When they said, "Come, let's go and fight an enemy," they said: "Come, let's go and fight."

"These nations will eat us!" They applied for the position.

The state of a neighboring people, so they invited it "to a Soup made from the flesh of their enemies. Heckewelder introduces the Saying to: "We give you the Christian Indians,

"To make soup from it," also Loskiel: "We send

These prisoners to you, so that you can make soup from them cooks." The same man says: "If someone wants to celebrate his

 To declare martial courage, he takes a piece of meat,
 He shows it to those present and consumes it, saying:
 "That's how I'll devour my enemies," — to the whole...
 Even in ancient Hebrew sayings, the Israelites measured their
 To devour enemies, to use them as food, yes to treat each other this way 1). And that's how we are.

1) The Native American sayings -f. in Robertson, History of Amerika, German translation by Schiller, Leipzig 1802, 1. BS 462, at Heckewelder, aa OS 213. 219. 264. 20, at Carver in the cited Works, German, Hamburg 1780, pp. 262 and 339, and in Loskiel, loc. cit.
 p. 61, 188 f., 198; cf. Pf. 17, 8. Pf. 36, 8. Pf. 57, 2. 5 Mos.
 32, 4. 31, 37. Job 30, 29. Proverbs. 18:9. Numbers. 14, 9. Deut.

243

Once again, unintentionally, in the region of that altameri-
 has reached canine cannibalism, which is also equally prevalent revealed among Palestinian peoples and Gypsies. For Even if those expressions are not to be understood literally, so deu-ten fie, however, on older, real enjoyment of human flesh (towards). But to get back to the Gypsies,
 So I am of the opinion that they did indeed come to us from India, after India, however, came from the same Egypt from which Israel moved from an Egyptian empire of ancient America, Both nations considered themselves subjugated to whose ruling people they were, barbaric tribes, as so-called pariahs, behaved. A
 Such a relationship can also be explained on linguistic grounds.
 Muthen. The Hebrews want to go to Goshen, Goschen, jus, have been used to something that hasn't changed in our hemisphere.
 white lets, and in Arabic the very similar is called wa,
 syr. maori, Cingari, Nubiani, tympanistae, gypsies 2).
 In the language of the Gypsies, it is gadzo, gatscho, Menfch,
 Person, gads, gadschi, woman, wife; Asian overtones,

7, 16. Ps. 27, 2. Jerem. 50, 17. Micah 3, 2 f. The last cited-ten were also found in Australia, Basel Mission Magazine 1827, p.
 260 f.: "I have come to cut you into pieces and to "Eat. You shall be good food to me." — "Since you in the—

You were defeated in battle and they already said you were meat for eating.
sought." i

1) Loskiel, by asking those for the purpose of "cooking soup!" Speaking of sent prisoners, he adds: "Such prisoners will Therefore, they were not eaten; but their execution is inevitable." — "The "Indians," Carver observes, "say they want the meat of their Eating enemies and drinking their blood; but only a figurative person does that.
To be an expression. But sometimes they really do devour the heart of theirs.
"They laid the enemy's blood and drank fine blood." And Assall, aa OS 9:
"The Ottawas fed the minced meat of their prisoners in Soups. The Miamis held their last cannibal feast more than 35 years ago.
years; since that time, cannibalism has completely ceased; in However, in earlier times it was said to have been very common and widespread."

2) Castelli lex. heptagl. col. 590. 3) Grellmann, op. cit.
pp. 229, 232, 238. Kogalnitchan, op. cit. OS 57. 64.

16 *

27

244

also meaning human, find chassa, kasee, kaise, kese, kisi; Smith=Barton has them with the American kessona, Man, compared 1), and this again corresponds very closely to the form ywa. These names now probably actually=
The term "barbaric, despised and subjugated"
ner tribes in ancient America; the Gypsies=

The language also reveals a contemptible human being through those sounds.
art an; therefore gatscho, farmer, gadsche, country folk, gadscho, Heathen, non-Gypsies; the Gypsies despise everyone.
other peoples, and only themselves do they call themselves Romnitschel, of Woman's son, man in the nobler sense of the word 7.
The same likely basic meaning of the names Gofchen, gatscho u. s. w. is what the rich arabi also refers to=

fche dialect through a lot of sound-related, Vorftel= lungs that express forms of that kind. Such are those for whom the simple ws, ya with a partly wise approach is based on a third consonant / and which refers to Servility, hard work, toil and coarse, rough, bad, to refer to the base nature of things and persons, charled. da, erassus, rudis 3). A similar thing can be observed when one the sounds in, un, yn and those beginning with them are extended= ten forms are considered); likewise, if one considers the

1) Father, Investigations about America, p. 49.

2) Kogalnitchan, aa OS 37. 52. 59. 62. In a similar manner say, according to Humboldt, Journey to the Equinoctial Regions, Vol. 5, p. 27, The Caribs or Karaibs in America: "We alone constitute a people; "The other people are only there to serve us." Despite all humiliation and oppression, the Jews have remained in the shadows. preserved, cf. Ezek. 34:30-31, where Israel takes the name Man from= ultimately leads. See also Robertson's History of America, from Schiller, Leipzig 1802, 1. BS 530, and Adair, hist. of Amerie. Indians, p. 32, according to which the Cherokees in particular the beloved and the chosen people, the Europeans, however, the accursed Name the gender.

3) Freitagii lex. arabico - latinum, 1st Th. p. 277 ff. p. 32⁵ cf. 250 ff. Castelli lex. heptagl. col. 588 ff. col. 626 ff.

4) Freitag, aa OS 373 ff. p. 442, 482, 484 ff.

245

Initial letters 3 and n are swapped with > and p, and the Meaning of the manifold forms belonging here ver= similar); words with the suffix zwi= are also included. fchen den beiden erstese Confannen eingesatzten Kehlauche v. Listing all these word forms would be tedious. fein, among which fselen the meanings impure= Make yourself noticeable by odor, dirt, filth, and stench. Similar sounds also appear in American languages. something bad, evil, base, impure, Discarded things from; fo itonamic kisihiane, böfe, Achaßlier keches, with French pronunciation böfer Mensch und verdor= bene Speise, Tarahumara cotschi, Chippeway. coocoolche, Pork, Tarahum. Cocotschi, Caribbean caicouchi, with French. Pronunciation: dog 2), Akouchi, a small four-legged animal in Guiana 3), Co aso, a type of skunk in America 9, Compare French coche, cochon, pig; in Peruvian it is Cotscha, swamp, cf. gypsy. Kutschahu, Hindustan. Kitsch, the clay of the potter 5), Hebrew wn, wss, gusch, gisch, earth=fclole ©), franz. couchis, base of sand, gravel, etc. under the pavement, gächis, liquid mud, puddle, gächeux, fmuddy, muddy, Arabic. un, wys, wyp, vwp, up, latrina, merda, stercus, lutum, sordes, pituita, sputum. As india= Niche tribes in Guiana are the Cussanis and Cai— (called cucianes), which latter form is the Caribbean

1) Friday, op. cit. 4th Th. p. 31 ff. 3rd Th. p. 438 ff.

2) Mithridates, 3rd Th. II. P. 146. 573 f. III. p. 204. Father, Investigations about America, p. 199.

3) Buffon and Clavigero, op. cit. 2nd Th. p. 428.

4) That. p. 429.

5) Grellmann, aa OS 283.

6) Job, 7:5: "Worms and clods of earth clothe my body."
– the latter being of a dirty earth color and scaly, crusty
Shape of the patient's skin.

7) Baumgarten, aa O. 2nd ed. p. 467. Barrere, Description from Guiana, German in the "New Journeys to Guiana, Peru and through southern America", Göttingen 1751, pp. 176 f. Among the 246 caicucahi corresponds, and the Minitars at the upper Missouri

The Oschibbeways bear the perhaps contemptible name

Agutschan innes Y. Simultaneously with a remnant of the original relationship seems to be this ancient Name of crude and dependent peoples and their settlements between Maracaibo and Rio de la Hache near the Goahiros and to have received kitchens, of which these are more easterly than those and live in a kind of dependence on them 2).

To find it believable that such shameful names³ nungen, as according to the above summaries the names Gosen, Cussanis, Gocinad, etc. were, from the used by the tribes they degraded themselves and that they could be preserved, one considers that once among the Natchez in America, the common man, himself, miche-miche-quippy, meaning stinking). The name further, under which one calls the barbaric tribes of India, the so-called⁴ called pariahs, summarized 4), is associated in America the Paria promontory — a harmony of perhaps more as of a random nature. The old names of the country, such as the the sailors thought they heard, find Pariah, Uraparia, Huriaparia, Payraz, through the resistance he In 1530, Don Diego Ordaz, a famous cacique, was called Uriapari, and Uriapari, Yuyapari or Jyupari are names given to the Orinoco at its mouth⁵ nommen; the Orinoco is also called Guiana parava in the upper Guiana, Sea or large body of water is called in Caribbean, Maypurian. and Brazilian parana, in Tamanaki parava, pe⁶ Ruanis means to rain, parani, and paria * archaic in Quandt aa OS 290 of the nations called Arawacken are the Kaiukussian u.

1) John Tanner's Memoirs of his Thirty Years' Life A Stay Among the Indians of North America 1, translated by Andree Leipzig 1840, p. 42.

2) Mithridates, 3rd Th. II. P. 699. 3) Daf. in. p. 287.

3) Bohlen, aa OS 43. u

Name of a lake in Peru!). Compare this to Hindustan. pohara, spring, and in the Gypsy language the words pir, River and para, shore 2). All of this together suggests that that the eastern shores of South America are an ancient habitat. It was the seat of barbaric tribes, including Gypsies and Indian pariahs have their origins there. Another interesting point. The trail is as follows. Gypsy. bolepen, bolipen or hollo-pen, World 3), ift::a word of the Caribbean language and means actually the mainland of America; the Caribs of the Antilles divided their nation into inhabitants of the islands, oubao - bonon, and inhabitants of the mainland, baloue-bonon)), which the latter with bolepen, bollopen, bolipen clearly in one together falls, so that the continent of America appears as the former reveals the world of the Gypsies.

But not only these barbaric and subjugated Tribes from America found their way to our continent; also the noble and ruling part of the ancient American population: The people migrated. William Jones cites Indian legends. after which Egyptian priests once settled in India left, and an Indian pandit gave our view very much weighty supporting decision: "there are two countries" named Mift" — as is well known, that means Egypt — » the one in the west under the rule of the Muslim men" — African Egypt — "the other one, which has all the shazars and Puranas mentioned a mountainous region to the north of Ajodhja «., 5). What kind of Egypt is this? Can one

1) Humboldt, Journey to the Equinoctial Regions of the New Continents, 2nd ed. p. 236, and father, aa OS 197, where Galibi and Brazil. Parana, Yaoi parona, sea, compared.

2) Grellmann, aa OS 223. Kogalnitchan, aa OS 57. 69.

3) Grellmann, aa OS 221. Kogalnitchan, aa OS 70, cf. ©. 60: bolopen, sky, air.

4) Oubao, island, baloue, mainland, icabanum, icabatobon, wohnung, cf. Humboldt, loc. cit. 5th Th. p. 319.

5) Treatises on history, antiquities, etc. Asia, Riga 1795, 1. BS 238 — 242. | in Afien, in our hemisphere? Where would one want to look here?

 To gain a foothold? Are they perhaps those of old cultural states?
 ten-covered ridges of the Cordillera and highlands of America,
 What does that statement refer to? Did I once have that courage here?
 measured American Egypt its seat and extended its Rule also over the lowlands and plains of America ka's out? This would even correspond to the state of being in which was located during the conquest of America.
 Here, according to Humboldt's remark, large states were only on the back of the Cordilleras and on Asia against found over coastal lands, while those with forests
 plains overgrown and crossed by rivers, which extend eastward in immeasurable expanses and the horizon-limiting grasslands, savannas, the eye
 the wanderer merely wandering about, through language and custom presented separate, scattered peoples. Let us imagine now the mountain ridges and plateaus of South and North America
 rika's occupied by an American-Egyptian ruling people, Thus, the biblical names Aegyptia harmonize perfectly with this.
 tens, which originally meant nothing other than America, insofar as to have designated it as being subject to that ruling people and only seem to have been transferred to the African language.
 Under Mazor, Veste, namely the mainland of America, the baloue of the Caribs, or more precisely, the seat to understand that people on the highlands of America, so that the dual form mizraim refers to the two Americas, to South and to be sourced from North America. Some time ago I reported ten public newspapers the discovery of a million Mexicans fcher mummies, which are in a seated position with Egyptian ban be provided with covers, coverings and ornaments; in Central Among other things, America has a [place] with hieroglyphs.

 A covered monument in the shape of an obelisk was found.
 that bears a male statue above and at its base
 many figures, and four other monuments, between which is a round stone with inscriptions and hieroglyphs located, etc. It has already been claimed: "Ruins made of The oldest times irrefutably prove that Montezuma's ancestors inhabited the banks of the Nile « — however to answer the question of whether the opposite behavior is not possible

 niß der Abftirung zwischen Aegypten und America could take place instead. To Tututepec, the former Main towns in the land of the Lower Misteks, the residence of the
 The ruler of this people, Mühlenpfordt saw traces of an old sacrificial pyramid (of a so-called Teocalli) and thereby two ancient stone images that bear a "great resemblance to Egyptian or East Indian statues have." A human figure wears a type of turban, consisting of a cloth around the neck and on falls down both sides of the face; a long hanging down Gender jewelry adorns the ears, a peculiar ornament.
 covers the breast and hangs down over the back, various Belts and hanging decorations cover the rest.
 Part of the body, arms and legs are not visible.
 A second figure is that of a reclining animal with the Tail on its back and missing head, perhaps a statue of the person divinely worshipped by these peoples local rabbit. Both statues are made of an extremely hewn from hard and solid syenite, and one understands its rawness Despite this, it's hardly possible to see how the Indians cope with the lack of everything.
 iron tools that were able to hew it out «). In a
 In ancient American graves, the spinal vertebrae and rib were found.
 pen of a snake that »belongs to the species Crotalus hear seem. It is known that even now various Native American tribes show special reverence to this animal species.
 prove, and the circumstances of the discovery of these bones
 This location likely makes it possible that rattlesnakes divinely worshipped by the early Indians and named after their

1) Mühlenpfordt, excursion to the shores of the South Sea, abroad of June 19, 1839, No. 170, p. 679.

(Deaths were buried). Who can abstain here? to think of the well-known custom of the Egyptians, which they
to embalm sacred animals and place them in holy tombs?
2)? Many other things are also indicated with more or less determination towards Egypt, in order to no longer the unacceptable connection between ancient America and the
To harden the land of the pharaohs. "One will be surprised, Father says, "if one is in faithful imitations mexi-Canarian paintings, which can be found in Herr von Humboldt's essay politique sur le royaume de la new Espagne will find, completely the style, completely the faces and body proportions notices which characterize the Egyptian human figures « 3).
Furthermore, Mr. Uhde's in Handschuhsheim near Heidel-Berg private collection of American antiquities, a koloose head, »which is in the Osymandias in sublime, noble
Peace and his headdress, the magnificent piece of Turin's Collection, remembers«). In the face of such agreementmungen can no longer appear too bold and too dreamyto speak of a former Egypt in America.
From the remains of an old Peruvian building in Callao
An observer says the following: "One can see in the walls..."
Enormous stone blocks and the doors are narrower at the top than below. This Inca temple, which is called Huayna Capac describes it as a building of four-sided shape,
It was 20 meters long on each side. One can Four more outer gates and eight chambers can be identified. The symmetry-

1) So Assall in the news published by Mone about the former inhabitants of North America, Heidelberg 1827, p. 59.

2) Herod. 2:67ff. The sacred snakes in the region of Thebes were buried in the sanctuary of Zeus; ibid. 2, 74.

3) Father, aa OS 13.

4) Carl Ritter's preface to Braunschweig's treatise on the old-American monuments, Berlin 1840, p. VII. f. p. IX, where to-like the people with red skin, beardlessness and the headdress of Peruvian Incas in the illustrations
the campaigns of Sesostris are commemorated on Egyptian monuments.

trie of the doors, the regularity of the niches, the Bes
 The way the stones are hewn is reminiscent of Egyptian architecture.
 in their less perfect creations. The building must in the time of its glory, between two snow-covered mountains peaks, Cotopaxi and Jlinissa, located, magnificent and impressively exempted «). The Peruvians had also a type of labyrinth, a building with rooms and Passages, » which represented a kind of labyrinth from which one could could hardly find out. Even those acquainted with it did not dare to go in without a ball of string, one end of which was tied to the door, in order to not to get lost « 2). To avoid some of those strange Mexican to highlight the Canadian pyramids (Teocallis), so is the be—
 You praised the same ones of Cholula, which are also known as the ones of Man-made mountain (monte hecho a mano) is called and their shape through collapses and plant growth so
 The change is such that one might mistake it for a natural hill. could. Their sides, as far as one can still discern, were precisely aligned with the four cardinal points; their basis is twice as large as the Egyptian pyramids, their height
 However, it is only 54 meters long. It is made of unburned wood.
 Built of mudstones, which alternate with layers of clay. After According to local legends, there were caves inside the pyramid.
 for the burial of kings; also, in the pages of the-
 the same square one made of stones and with beams of copperpressus disticha built house without exit with two Corpses, idols and artfully painted vessels Found. Eight hours northeast of Mexico, in a
 The plain, which bears the name Micoatl or Way of the Dead, stands
 two large pyramids, 55 and 44 meters high, the sun

1) Picturesque Maturity through South and North America, written under under the direction of Alcide d'Orbigny's, translated into German by Diezmann, Leipzig 1839,
 p. 59.

2) Baumgarten, general history of the countries and peoples of Amerika, Halle 1753, 2nd Th. p. 146 ff.

and dedicated to the moon, and by several hundred small surrounding the area, which runs from south to north and from East-west oriented roads are formed. At the top the great stair — the pyramids' Colossi of the Egyptians correspondingly — two colossal statues of the sun and the Moons of stone and covered with gold leaf, which the Spaniards tore down Cortez's data. Hidden in a forest. Towards the side stands the Pyramid of Papantla, which differs from the others. differs in form and material, from very regularly hewn stones. Three stairs lead to its platform. The shape, the clothing of the heels, is with small niches and hieroglyphic sculptures symmetrically decorated. Like the Egyptian and Asian pyramids were also the Teocalli of Tenochtitlan (Mexico) — a pyramidal structure in the middle of a large ring wall, 37 meters high and made of seven consisting of floors — precisely according to the regions of the world directed. The historians say this large wooden building is covered with a hard and smooth stone. have been, and you can actually find them around the city. enormous pieces of porphyry with which the temple is covered may have been 1). In the name that these Mexican Buildings lead, we find a Greek one most peculiar Word again; teo-calli means house of God, like teo-pan, Place of God: another word for temple in Mexico niche; teo is the basis of the Mexican teotl, God, cf. tetéō, gods, teoyotl, deity 2); theos are what the Betoyers call according to Gilij, the sun which they worship as a deity 3), and that is entirely the Greek Neos, cf. Jarurisch do, sun)); with calli, Mexican house, compare Mughal kol, kual, kölla,

1) A.v. Humboldt, Vues des Cordillères et monuments des peuples indigènes du new continent. Orbigny, aa OS 240 — 243. Braunschweig, aa OS 49 ff.

2) Clavigero, op. cit. 1st Th. p. 365. 2nd Th. p. 532.

3) Murr, aa OS 341. 4) Das. p. 402.

House), Greek aadın, dwelling, grotto, chapel, neon, God's dwelling place. This comparison is all the more important and deeper leading, since kol, kual, kölla, Greek x an ameri= Kanish formation is by Illi in the Mexican substan= The tive ending is. Such things apply to America as the fatherland of the Word formation: there are several indicative cases, e.g. perua= nisch tiu, sand, araukanisch tue, earth, tuetu, earthly, with the ending tu 2), Hebrew wor, tit, clay, pottery, sans= Krit ditis, Earth. — Cora. mueat, Death, where the radical ist; this compares to the Coptic muy, death, Hindi= stan. mua, gypsy. mojas, muyas, dead, lifeless, hindostan. muena, gypsy. mujas, to die 3); among the Pimas in Mexico ist muhat, to die), Hebrew muth, to die. A legend leads the origin of that ancient pyramid of Cholula on a giant race of prehistoric times, which the Mexicans inhabited high plateaus and erected a mountain to reach the to ascend to heaven 5). The following passage can thus be taken from a older French missionary reports can be compared: »One Various [things] can still be found in the province of Chinca in South America. Monuments that commemorate those giants, whose mentions the history of Peru and that of a vice, that already happened in the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, the punishment of the sky, were said to have been destroyed by lightning. The following legend about this has been preserved among the Native Americans. A great flood forced their ancestors to prepare for the highest To flee the mountains; when the water had once again entered the sea. when they were and wanted to return to their valleys, they found

1) Father, Investigations into America, ©. 54.

2) Mithridates, 3rd Th. 2nd Abth. p. 406.

3) Father, Investigations, p. 171. Grellmann, aa OS 234 and 237. Kogalnitchan, aa OS 62 f. p. 68 under lifeless, Corpse, death.

4) Pfefferkorn, Description of the Sonor Landscape "Cologne 1794, 2. BS 253.

5) Orbigny, aa OS 241.

254

Men of extraordinary stature, who committed a gruesome started war with them. Whoever escaped their persecution, hid in the caves of the mountains. Here lived the In-dianer; for many years, until they finally found one in the air young man saw, who with lightning and thunder their under-printer shattered and returned them to peaceful possession their old homes« 1). Several legends of the Ge-Nesis finds its resonance here, the giants before the flood, the flood itself, the tower-building at Babel, Sodom and Go-Morrha; Australia and America are full of flood legends,
The tradition of the Confusion of languages; creation of a human pair, ent-
The origin of woman from man's rib, the Fall of Man, Snake with the fruit, Cain and Abel, the lineage
from a man with 12 sons, analogies of tradition among the Egyptian plagues are encountered; in particular
The legend of the tower's construction appears to us in a strikingly local style.
In contrast to the shape, namely in that tradition of the Chiapasians, that Wotan — a grandson of the venerable old man, who built the great ark to protect himself and himself from the great flood to save his family, and one of the famous men, after which the 20 days of the Chiapas months are named have been at the great construction site, which was built on the orders of his Uncles should be carried up to the clouds, that Back then, every people got its own language, and that Wotan received from God the task of dividing the to make Landes Anahuac (Mexico's) 2). »The legends of the

1) To the knowledge of foreign peoples and lands, from French-speaking mixtures sionsberichten, Leipzig 1782, 2. BS 141.

2) See below for a more detailed presentation of these traditions our above treatise on the Moloch service, the task concerning the Twelve number among the registrars of America, in the March issue of the Athenaeum 1839, pp. 75 ff., C. Colton, in the Basel Mission Magazine 1834, p. 498
ff. Clavigero, History of Mexico IS 133 f. 138. 164 f. 344 f.

“Genesis,” says Bohlen, “Elingen in the oldest Hellenic again, yes, they found each other at the discovery of America. among Peruvians, Brazilians and Mexicans; all these volumes They knew of a flood and a box with animals, of the invention of weapons and of the killing. It was found

Shipping in the Atlantic Ocean, Bamberg 1814, pp. 84 ff. Ph. Sal-
Father Gili tells the natural history of civil society and the sacrament of rain and delle
Provincie spagnuole di terra ferma nell' America meridionale, Rome
1782, in German excerpt from Sprengel: News from the Countryside Guiana et al., Hamburg 1785, p. 441, where the creation of the Lich-tes before the sun and that of the woman from the rib of the sleeping Mannes, de la Borde, Journey to the Caraiben, German in Schad's Über-Setting the journeys of Father Labat, Nuremberg. 1782, 1st Th. p. 384 f., where the Great Flood and serpent daemon with tree and fruit, bark beetle, Brazilian history, Cleves 1659, p. 711, where at the Fall of Man and Losses of Paradise, the fox plays the role of the snake, Quandt, News of Suriname and its inhabitants, Görlis 1807,
p. 257, where creation, the Fall of Man, the loss of immortality and Egyptian Darkness, and James Athearn Jones, traditions of the North American Indians, London 1830, where in particular a story
the dog rib=Indian with the biblical creation=, sins=
The case and flood story, as well as the Babylonian confusion of tongues That's correct; the latter is also reflected in a legend of the Bomelmeek Indians.
precisely there, the well-known Mexican and an Iroquois one, see Neorama.
von Carové, Leipzig 1838, 3rd part, p. 394. The flood legend is found there.
not only in the Semitic form and with all the features of the biblical Tradition, but also what the Greeks said about Deucalion and Pyrrha and the new people created through her say, told an American tradition, to which A. v. Humboldt and Ph. Salvator Silit commemorate; only the Americans put instead of the backwards thrown Stones, the fruits and kernels of the Mauritia palm, Humboldt, Reise into the equinoctial regions of the new continent, 3rd part, p. 406. It It might even seem as if the name Deucalion were American; for the natives of West Caledonia on the northwest coast of Ame
Those who complete their maturation in canoes call themselves Ta-Cullies, Waf-

Serwanderer; they also speak of a flood and a unique human couples rescued from her, Braunschweig, aa OS 16. 18. The name Hellen, among others, also appears to be American and actually as much as being human at all; for elene means in the Shawshank, lenno in the Delaware man, and the Delawa similar ideas about creation; the inhabitants Speakers from Mexico and Cuba themselves referred to it as a human being, who saved himself and his wife in a small boat and a to release a small bird that brought a green branch; But they did not know the Tower of Babylon, so little as like the Indians and Greeks, because this myth is local; They did not know Jehovah, nor the Hebrew prophets, which is certainly true of a legend from Judaism were important; however, the idea was probably not so important among the Iroquois. lung of the indicative Greek hell river and the mythi fchen tortoise, which carries the earth 1). In respect of of the Babylonian tower and of Jehovah, the ge taught man; nothing is more native to ancient America than the legend of the tower's construction and the confusion of languages or Language division, as is indeed the case in America Home to an infinite variety of languages and dialects is 2), and we have Jehovah America's ren call themselves lenni lenape, original people, Asffall, op. cit. p. 104. Heckewelder, News of the history, customs and customs need of the Indian peoples by Hesse and Schulz, Goddess gen 1821, p. 24, Mithridates, von Adelung und Vater, 3rd part, 3rd section. p. 361. 363. 415, where Schawano ilenni, illenni, Miami helaniah, Ilinois illini, Messissaugers linneeh, Mensch.

256

1) Ancient India, Vol. 1, pp. 217 ff. Latifau in Baumgarten, ibid. 1st Th. P. 45. New voyage d'un pays plus grand que l' Europe, par Louis Hennepin, Utrecht 1698, p. 117. Deuber, aa OS 85. Heckewelder, aa OS 434 and 527. "One of the tribes of the De lavaren or Lenape, which bears the name of the turtle, makes on a priority over the other claim, because it is the large tortoise related to which this large island (America) carries on its back, and whose movement causes the earthquakes.

2) Cf. Vater, Investigations into America's Population, Leipzig 1810, pp. 92 - 100. Jefferson, notes on the state of Virginia, London 1787, p. 162 ff. notes that one finds, if one considers the languages of the peoples in America and Asia according to their probable origin order, always twenty different ones in America against one in Asia, take~~r~~ They differed to such a degree that all similarity between them was lost.

257

* above in the treatise on * Moloch service followed~~r~~ meadows, there also from the one seen in Guiana worthy pyramid of the evil spirit Jawahu was spoken to. In A.v. Humboldt's Vues des Cordillères et monuments you can find one of the indigenous people of the new continent Description of the construction type of those Teocallis or Mexican

Pyramids compared to the architecture of the Belus Temple, the arabesques with which the ruins of Mitla are covered, Idols made of basalt decorated with the Calantica of the Isis heads h, and a large number of symbolic paintings, which depict the woman with the serpent — the Mexican Eve —, the Great Flood of Coxcox and the first migrations of the peoples of Azte~~r~~ imagine a Christian tribe. The author endeavors to... vanished. After a trip to Lima on the orders of Bishop Urban Matha's printed Spanish news about the land of the Mores, The peoples encompassed by this name speak nine and thirty languages that have no relation to each other~~r~~ Ben, — “the visible work of the devil,” the Bishop of Lima puts it. in addition, “who, through this confusion of languages, facilitated the spread of the Evan— “Wanted to make things more difficult for geliums!” Regarding the knowledge of foreign peoples and countries, from French missionary reports, Leipzig 1782, 2nd BS 199. Cla~~r~~ Vigero, born in Mexico, still counts here at thirty-five.

languages that remained known; at the Margnon, the Portuguese were among the most numerous.

At the beginning of the 18th century, there were one hundred and fifty of them. "In the south..."

America, particularly in Guiana and Columbia, reveals countless Diversity of languages in a small area and with low

Population. Humboldt estimates the population at 60,000 to 80,000.

Individuals speak more than 200 languages — one of the strangest things to know!

Appearances." Braunschweig, aa OS 7. 9. 22. 24. 27 f. Known is the difference between the languages spoken by men and women in the Caribbean.

La Borde, speaking of this appearance, adds: "If the Al

When planning a military operation, they use a kauder

"Italian language, which the younger ones understand nothing of." St. Father Labat's Journey to the West Indies by Schad, Nuremberg 1782, 1st vol.

p. 455 f.

1) The bust of a Mexican priestess, whose headdress the calantica of the Isis heads, the Sphinxes and other Egyptian images similar and decorated with pearls, see Atlas pittoresque, pl. 1 and 2.

Daumer, Feuer and Moloch service. 17

(

4

258

to show similarities, partly the Toltec calendar and the catastrophisms of the Toltec animal circle over time accounts of the Tartar and Tibetan peoples, partly the Mexican traditions about the four earth regenerations with the Pralayas of the Hindus and the four ages of the world have siodus. He also shares fragments from the Mexican Manuscripts relating to Rome, Velettri, Vienna and Dresden, and the latter is indicated by linear symbols.
reminiscent of the Kouas of the Chinese. "Gabriel of Cabrera",
The same famous researcher said elsewhere, "I found
In Cuba, a tradition which is similar to that of the peoples of fe:

resembles the Mitisch race of Noah, who for the first time the
The effects of a beverage produced by fermentation were felt.
He adds that the tradition is linked to this one= séance of two human races, one naked and one be= dressed. Should Cabrera have added a new train.
to the analogies of the woman with the snake, of the struggle
the two brothers, the great flood, the rafts of Coxcor, the scout bird, and many other myths, which undoubtedly demonstrate to us that a connection between old Traditions exist between the peoples of both worlds.
was that? «). The certainty of such a connection leads to the question of its nature; perception |
the units taking place between the two hemispheres

the tradition, conception, custom and cultic way, as they in a scattered manner very frequently, also already various has arranged compilations for various purposes,
It is a riddle that requires a fine solution, and its solution
Although it may seem impossible, it might not be if Certain prejudices blinded our eyes and the through migrations and settlement of tribes and folklore in foreign regions went crazy and out of their brought to light the true situation, an old story and

1) Humboldt, Journey into the North, Vol. 6, p. 179.

259

Traditions did not continue to tease research.
What I mean is that there was once a time when which is the old world we call the new world, and the
what we called the new one was the old one, and that a lot Stories and traditions of ancient times, from which we learn
It never even occurred to us that they should belong to someone other than ours.
could belong to the hemisphere, namely all biblical Stories before Israel's exodus from Egypt, i.e., from America, actually quite foreign to the so-called old world and to relocate back to America and Australia, from where they are through emigrants, leaving their old residences.
alien and completely unrelated to them brought over to the peoples and settled in the occupied, with the

The names of the old residences were native to the new regions.
 have been made and located. Asia's and Africa's ancient Cultural conditions and cultic practices are merely reflections of one another.
 the continuation and further development of such, the origin
 like the old, prehistoric America, perhaps even a now no longer existing, located in the still sea belong to tinente, which was affected by a major catastrophe — the
 The Great Flood of the Bible — was destroyed, and at its Perished as remnants of its existence, those across the ocean left behind numerous scattered mountain islands of Australia. It Many things come together to make me believe that on this continent, the one described in the biblical document (located in paradise), as well as the fact that the same one is the Atlan

1) For scientific reasons, the Chancellor had already relocated von Autenrieth the origin of man and the biblical paradise into the South Seas, see his speeches about man, Tübingen 1826, p.
 7 ff.; Haug recently takes a similar approach to this point, See his general history, Stuttgart 1841, 1. BS 77, where on Javanese legends of the destruction of a continent are reminiscent of and
 It is suspected that there, in the exuberantly rich abundance of nature, the Fatherland of the Pisang and the breadfruit, the oldest distribution center of man.

1

260

tis of the Egyptian priest legend in Plato's Timaeus and Critias was, who at the same time with the entire sex of a primal, the model of Egyptian state institutions
 former, located on the opposite mainland
 The city of Athens is said to have been destroyed. If this Athens, the well-known Greek-European city, was supposed to have been,
 So nothing can be done with this matter, and this the
 The thirst for knowledge, such a peculiarly charming tradition, remains a eternally deceptive, never settling on the firm ground of history
 A descending air formation. But Athens, Athenai, is a

1) According to Plato, the most beautiful and fertile part of Atlantis was, (Critias, p. 158 of Becker's edition) a centrally located

A plane that probably coincides with the biblical Eden.
 would like to. Also, one of those born from the earth lived on Atlantis.
 a human being, and with his daughter Clito Poseidon fathered the ten gods.
 Lantic princes and tribal chiefs, who comprised the ten parts of Atlantis masters and much analogy with the twelve sons of Israel and The progenitors of the Israelite tribes. As under these Rus ben — who, however, in Genesis 49:4, appears horrified by his fine dignity — fo. has Among the Atlanticists, Atlas, the oldest of those ten, was the overlord;
 One of the ten Atlantic kings was named Gadeiros, in Greek Eumelos.
 the sheep-rich, cf. Hebrew gader, wall, gederah, the wall which the shepherds erect shelters on the pastures to secure their livestock. The remaining Gen names, according to the explanation in Critias, are only in Greek fcher Ueberfation gegeben, fschelen zum Thelscheinen nur gratifi irt, griechisch la uten d made to be, like Atlas, Atlantis, which name so enticing is the one that corresponds to the Mexicans' old northern Give the fatherland Aztlan the name Eudaimon, the Fortunate One.
 as a translation of the Hebrew root names Gad and Asher analogously, which means the same thing. The covenant described in Critias p. 171
 The sacrifice of the assembled Atlantic leaders corresponds to the rap-
 The passage in Exodus 24:4-5 has been echoed; there is also a reverberation of it.
 this ceremony was preserved on the islands of the Pacific Ocean; according to Ellis Description of his journey through Hawaji, Hamburg 1827, p. 80, be-
 The Sandwich Island chieftains and priests gave themselves up for the purpose of a peace treaty in a temple, where an animal was slaughtered, which His blood was poured into a vessel and then poured out. What the curse pronounced upon the transgressor of the Atlantic 5 Regarding this, cf. Deuteronomy 27:11 ff.

261

| American word, and the Egyptian priests, when they of those ancient battles between Athens and Atlantis and the tell of the terrible catastrophe that destroyed them both
 They directed and recounted Australian and American prehistoric stories.
 Athenai namely is the Indian Otaeney, which is simply City means), and the sunken American-Aegyp-
 a city that suffered a similar fate to that of 1746
 the coastal city of Callao, swallowed by the sea, was called the city vr efoxyv, like Rome also urbs, the city, That was called. That once between the inhabitants of America, the In-feln des fstillen Meeres, des indischen und japanischen Archi-

Pelagus, a connection has been found, as evidenced by proof. many striking similarities were demonstrated, in particular The monuments of Palemque show, even what the face... Regarding the formation of the human characters, the island world of the still sea 2). The one linked with the tidal myths Name Noach, Noah, Noe, Phrygian on coins of Apamea No, appears to be native to Australia and is the name of the

1) Heckewelder, News from the Indian Peoples, Göttingen 1821, p. 188. The same word is also probably the Name of the Greek city. I have already mentioned some Greek names above. American English words and names explained. Including the name... The Athenian goddess Pallas is American; palla was a title. led by Peruvian women of royal blood, Pele was called a great goddess of the Sandwich Islands, Hebrew: baal, Lord, baalah, Lady, Bel, the god Bel, Belus the Babylonian. Babel is called Bel's Castle, from the Australian pa, mountain fortress, castle; Basel Mission magazine 1836, p. 627.

2) Braunschweig, aa OS 79. 92 ff. Ellis, Reise durch Ha waji, Hamburg 1827, p. 244: "One can see some similarity between fchen the Native Americans and the East Islanders of the silent Discovering the sea, as in terms of war customs, tools, the physical exercises, the rafts or canoes, the treatment of the Children, the way they wear their hair, the feather ornaments of the upper class heads and girls, especially the clothing of the latter, which, to Cuts and use are completely identical to the Peruvian ones. 71
* N

262

here shattered continents and with them perished: to have been the former Australian ancient empire. After the Tradition of the Society - Infeln have the great gods of the Once, in a fit of anger, an islander broke the whole world, and All the surrounding islands contain only small parts of Venus. noi, the great land that was shattered 1). Otaheite Nue, Greater Tahiti, is the name of the larger peninsula of Tahiti. or Otaheiti, jeri nue means on the Sandwich Islands big boss), and nue, nui means in Tahitian, mar

Quesan, New Zealand and Hawaiian (large N); in Ame-Krika meets Maja (noh, large *), cf. Hebrew na, noah, something Great, beautiful, glorious 5), Arabic: aud, eminent, admi-ratione affectit, placuit, 3, eminent, in Africa Coptic naa, Tigrayan nauy, large “), and the inhabitants of the island
Huaheine had a deity named Noah, whom they considered described a terrible giant who was carrying out a destructive work carried weapons in his right hand, with which he could see everyone he met.

struck down, but was lenient towards the defeated and He protected all those who sought refuge with him from their enemies.
apparently the personification of a powerful empire that terrible to the enemy, gentle to the vanquished, and helpful who was referring to those seeking protection. That was probably the one.
The Atlantic empire situated in the still sea and its ruler gender, and nothing else, as this personification seems to be.
to be the biblical Noah, just as his sons did nothing
Other than the name of three human tribes from which the population of this empire consisted; cf. in the latter Be-drawing the apocryphal Book of Enoch, where Noah with three

1) Missionary voyage to the southern still sea with the ship Duff unter James Wilson, Vienna 1801, p. 537.

2) Kotzebue, Discovery Tour, 2nd ed. BS 115.

3) Basel Mission Magazine 1838, p. 163.

4) Mithridates, 3rd Th. III. P. 15. 5) Ezech. 7, 11.

6) Mithridates, 3rd Theology, IS 77.

7) Basel Mission Magazine 1832, p. 156.

263

—

Companions in the ark, one of whom knows,

The other is red, the third is black. The "backwards" Meeting of the three main races of present-day humans—gender, the European-Caucasian, the American—mon—"Golish and the Negro in Australia" has already been published. Rieth asserted; explorers and travelers have often done so here a three-fold and multiple coloring of the population on a Points were noticed, and these were described as "copper-red, white and black". — yellowish-brown, black and white like Europeans — black, white, yellow and blackish-brown — yellowish-brown, of a darker shade Color: silky and completely white — copper-colored with smooth, long with hair, white with red hair, mulattoes with curly hair Hair determined 2). This is also the best explanation for the trun— Noah, by which this representation is based on the well-known Kava— The intoxication of the inhabitants of the silent sea is taking place, whereby The interesting fact to note is that the Chileans in America has a potion they call Kawau and which is prepared like the kava of the South Seas 3). The Hotten— Dead men told that their god Tiqkoa had a man named Noh and

A woman from Hingnoh was sent to her country, and these were her first parents had been), which probably indicated an origin from that refers to a sunken continent that mediates between Asia, America and Africa lay and were divided into these three continents sent colonies. Those who brought America through Jews to be populated, relying on an American tradition,

1) The Book of Enoch, Jena 1838, 2nd part, p. 712.

2) Autenrieth, about men, Tübingen 1825, p. 10. Alexan— the Dalrymple, historical collection of voyages to the South Sea in 16th, 17th and 18th centuries, Hamburg 1786, pp. 47, 168, 119, 122. 132.

3) Chamisso, in Koßtebue, loc. cit., 3rd ed., p. 50. A similar one prepared by chewing, also from Murr aa OS 279

The drink compared to the kava of the South Seas is that of the peoples of May— nas, called Massato.

4) M. Peter Kolben's description of the foothills of the good Hoffnung, Frankfurt and Leipzig 1745, p. 21.

264

which of ten parts of the Native American ancestors nine crossed the great river, and people here openly believe to see the Israelite ten-tribe kingdom, which, into the Towed captive, found a way to America 1). Even on Atlantis, according to Plato, a kingdom of ten flourished. The kingdom was divided into parts, and it was probably from this that it originated, that the Americans immigrated. Among the Svanesi, it was found The legend goes that their fathers, in ancient times, spoke of the They came from the sea; they didn't know where from, but they celebrated. an annual celebration to commemorate the happy arrival of their Ancestors 2). That the Hebrews came across a body of water men, their name is still recorded; for they are called Eber, Ibrim, from Abar, set over a body of water, eber, that land situated on the side of a body of water, el eber hajjam, over the sea; especially Abraham Ib ri, the stranger ling beyond the waters, i.e., the Australians. If one in the biblical genealogy from Shem to Abraham the names Schelach, Eber, Peleg, Reu and Serug) If examined, one can find in it the hidden note of an ex migration across the sea and the tearing apart of a people Recognize a unified whole. The name Schelach expresses Entsdung, mission, emigration from, boar with Peleg together men den Uebergänge, 1 heißt in unsferem Hebrew Bach, but in Greek pelagos has the meaning Sea preserves, remorse and sorrow together declare: Tearing apart of the band, cf. va, to break, to shatter, and the form men sarach, sarag, intertwine, entwine, seroch, cord. Abraham's sacrificial site Moria is an Australian Morai. were, such as the sacrificial sites, idol groves and holy places These are called inlets on the islands of the South Sea; Society Island Eimeo is called Morea by the natives,

1) Basel Mission Magazine 1834, p. 497.

2) Assall, News about the inhabitants of North America, here

Published by Mone, Heidelberg * p. 87.

3) Genesis 11:12 ff.

265

(called Muria!) — perhaps the same word. Mor ai means also an old Heiau or temple of the Sandwich Islands Hawaji 2). The story of Abraham also includes the Terebinth More, like the terebinths in Deuteronomy More, before; also the same dwells among the terebinths of the Mamre, and appears among the terebinths of Mamre Jehovah in three forms 2). The inhabitants of Rai They have sacred coconut palms, in whose crown their god resides. Anis settles), and on Huaheine there was a magnificent Tree, which with its branches sinking into the earth and to formed a grove of branches growing up from new trees, who was sacred to the highest patron god of the island, Tani; and on whose branches human sacrifices were hung 5). Especially But are those giant American news outlets coming here? costume, of which three contributed to the formation of an ancient Indian holy Thumbs belonged. In the Zapotec village of Santa Maria del Tule, east of the city of Oajaca, rises within the wall surrounding the church, a giant cypress (cupressus disticha L.), which is older than the fanifche Invasion, whose trunk has a circumference of 124 Spanish feet, and from which, above, where it splits into branches, approximately

1) Missionary voyage to the southern still sea, p. 52. Cook's third and Wetzel's last journey, Vol. 2, p. 323. According to Forster, Morea is a District of the island of Eimeo. Another Society-Island is called Maurua.

2) W. Ellis, Journey through Hawaji, p. 28.

3) 1 Moses. 12, 6. 5. Mof. 11, 30. 1 Mos. 13, 18 and 18, 1 ff.

4) A.v. Chamisso, works, 2. BS 229.

5) Basel Mission Magazine 1832, p. 140: "Near the Baumes is a pagan idol temple, in which the Re

where the people of the island are buried and where they lie at the foot of the holy mountain-ges, under the shadow of the magnificent Ada, in more than oriental

"The ornamentation rests side by side on the bed." The name

Tani means God, the first human being, and a husband.

ibid. p. 155, Hebrew adonai, adon, Lord, God, husband, derived from din, dun, to rule; so also the Hebrew baal, lord, God and God's meal.

266

A spring flows 25 feet above the ground. "The old in Native Americans considered this tree sacred. Almost always, it is found...

Three of them can be found near the ruins of old adoration houses.

often in areas where nature originally provided the tree

does not produce, and where he only came from a great distance

It can be brought. Also to Tule, whose church, like almost all in ancient Indian sites, in your place of the old pagan Adoratoriums built is, find. Three of these Cyprus are present.

The first is the one described; a second stands not far away.

from this, besides the southeast side of the church still within the wall, a third outside the same, northwest of the first one, hardly further away from her than the second.

Both, especially those inside the wall, whose trunk

Those that are about six feet in diameter are also very large.

Trees. Near Mitla, close to the palaces, one can find also three of these Cypress «). An American journey

The description states the following: "Throughout the entire province

(of the state of Oaxaca in the United States of Mexico), especially halfway from the coast in the ge:

temperate region (tierra templada), three hours from the

In the capital, one finds the monstrous tree of the Cupressus.

A distich, which has a circumference of 36 meters. This old tree

It is thicker than all the boas in Africa, which is less surprising.

looks like this since Anza discovered that he was the union of three different tribes (ift«). It referred to this

Baum probably refers to a triune god worshipped in ancient America, as we find them in the story of Abraham. Just like the s?em under the terebinths of Mamre three men appear,

Those who reveal themselves as Jehovah are accompanied by three Men to war, one of whom was named Mamre leads; the three together are called Eshkol, Aner and Mamre, Genesis makes them three brothers, and Abraham zealously

1) Foreign Affairs 1840, No. 10, p. 37.

2) Orbigny, aa OS 260.

267

so that they get their share, the war effort namely, which the King of Sodom of Abraham to receive wishes, that is: these prisoners should to fall victim to the threefold God of Abraham, and the King of Sodom, as an opponent of human sacrifice,
She seeks to relinquish the spoils of this person by renouncing them.
to wrest fates from their hands, against which Abraham, with fanatical indifference, self-interest sacrifices all gain to the gods of his Cultus to satisfy: — » they shall have their share! « 5).
Perhaps the biblical relationship here has the true meaning deliberately conceals the tradition she is dealing with,
or that she herself no longer recognizes him; the context
The matter is clear and decisive enough. Even the American—Kanish god; Bochica (Botschika) had three names; namely Bochica, Nemqueteba and Zuha, as well as his wife, who Chia, Yubecayguara and Huythaca were called 2). But that Abraham, who never set foot in a country of our hemisphere, in Asia and that he supposedly traveled around Africa is not more wonderful than that our Christianity, settled in America, already Fine legends of saints were relocated here, and Saint Anthony...
Nius fought with the devil an hour away from Potosí.
have fol). Where the Ur lay, from which Abraham came=
I believe I can definitely prove that it is supposed to come;
It is the Sandwich Islands of Hawaji with its divinely revered volcanoes that formed the fire island of Ur (Hebrew: ur, Fire) was called), and where unmistakable traditions still exist.

1) Genesis 14:21 ff.

2) Orbigny, op. cit. Introduction. pag. VA v. Humboldt, in the Cottaischen deutschen Vierteljahrs-Schrift, Januar — März 1839, p. 107 ff.

The first Spanish conquerors were shown idols in which Bo—chica was depicted with three heads, cf. Aßall aa OS 67, about the so-called Triune Idol, an artifact unearthed in North America Vase, which consists of three heads.

3) Orbigny, aa OS 214: "An image of St. Anthony stands as proof of the matter, and woe to him who dares to doubt it!

4) One district of Hawaji is called Ora, Ellis's journey through Ha

268

from Abraham (there called Umi) and according to rabbi Nifer Sage gigantic servant Eliefer ober Og (dem fand have received the wichinsulanian Kauroalani). The oven, in which Charan, according to a Jewish legend, met his death that should have 1), is precisely that volcano in which the cult

the islanders to appease the volcanic deities
He threw down victims 2). Charan, whose early death in Ur is described in the Bible.
only quietly and as if concealing a certain secret (believes 3), is thrown as a victim into the crater of Kiraura.
(been). Jehovah appears to Abraham in the form of a waji, Hamburg 1827, ©. 157. uri is the name of the chief god of magicians.
this island, that. p. 149. That it currently has an opposing
The name is derived from the fact that Hawaii, the island of war, is called, cf. Basel.
Missionary Magazine 1832, p. 193, seems to be from a point in time before ren, in which water service triumphed over fire service; for of a
The traditions of the island speak of such things, s. Ellis, aa OS 128, where the battle between the water god Tamapuaa and the volcanic Feuergdttin Pele befchr.

1) Eisenmenger, discovered. Judenth. 1. p. 492.

2) Ellis, aa OS 127, cf. 117. 22. 200. Feuer and Vul
Kanencult, and victims thrown into the crater, are also found on Java; Stuhr, Religious System of the Pagan Peoples of the Orient, Ber lin 1836, p. 324. Volcanoes of the Tonga Islands, for dwelling places of the gods held, s. in the Basel Mission Magazine 1824, p. 203. Also the Residents of the Fox Islands believe fire-breathing and smoking mountains to be Dwellings of the gods and spirits, and their shamans perform rituals at These mountains their prayers; Bastholm, News for the Knowledge of Man^o fchen in fine wild and raw state, trans. by Wolf, Altona 1821, IV. p. 155 f. In Chile there is a volcano in which, according to India^o According to Niche belief, Pillan, the most powerful of the gods, resides in Orbigny. aa OS 202.

3) Genesis 11:28.

4) A description of this crater can be found at Ellis aa OS 117 ff. "An immense chasm yawned before us in the form of a half^o mondes, approximately two miles long, one wide and seemingly 800 feet deep. The ground was covered with lava, and to the southwest and north.

was an extensive flood of burning matter in a state of fear^o terrific surge, its flaming waves and fiery surf Rolling back and forth. Fifty-one cone-shaped islets of ver^o

269

Oven and a torch 1) — because Jehovah is a God of fire and destruction, see above; the form of the Ofens is connected to both Australian and American. ancient Hebrew volcano cult), as with American and together with a Semitic Moloch service, whose idol is an oven or a heated metal statue — one trained to be a statue^o ter sacrificial oven — was 3); which gave the shape of the fire torch When it happened, the war god Tairi also appeared on the sandwiches. islands and the god Tani on the Society Islands as flame or similar to the tail of a comet. Also Abraham-Umi brings this to Hawaji, the deity who gave it to him. He commands terrible sacrifices from heaven, his dearest there, and like * oriental legend the giant Og or of different shapes and sizes, containing 70 craters, raised around the edge and across the surface of the burning lake. Two and Twenty constantly gave a mass of grey steam or pyramids. of shining flames from themselves, and several of them spewed to At the same time, lava streams erupted from their fiery maws, engulfing them in flames. the streams flowed down the black, jagged sides into the boiling water below. Masses flowed.” — “All this constituted an immense volcanic spectacle.” painting, whose impression is enhanced by the constant roar of the large= "The area was increased by an underground oven."

1) 1 Mof. 15, 17 — already in the treatise on the Mo- Lochdienst, a frequently used important location.

2) Mount Sinai smokes like a furnace, Exodus 19:18 — the= It was, as will become clear through future discussions, a volcano. of the heavenly mountains, which the Hebrews lost on their journey through Asia honored. That the phenomena which, according to Philo's description, are the laws= accompany Jehovah's mission on Sinai, "vigorously participating in the exodus- “Remember the breaking of a fire-breathing mountain,” Gfrø= remarks. rer, Century of Salvation, Stuttgart 1838, 2nd part, p. 397.

3) See our above treatise on the Moloch service, Loskiel, Missionary history, p. 55 ff., where an American oven cult was described= Ben, and Mũnter, Religion of the Carthaginians, p. 10, where an American Molochism has been proven with a heated metal statue. See also the idea of the Sociefätsinfulaner that the deceased, in e in em Baked in an ember oven, as a delicacy on the table of the gods men, Baseler Missionsmagazin 1832, p. 141.

270

to “ Audśh, whom the Jews claim to be the servant and He had been a housemate of Abraham, in the waters of sin. fluth wadet und fích mit der Hand Delphine und Walfische from the depths 1), so that gigantic companion would become Umi's in the waves and catches the fish with his hand. up from the sea 2). It may be an old Australian prince= It was once customary to have gigantic servants and attendants; had a "huge" slave, according to a missionary reports, a New Zealand chief 2). At that time Umi's are supposed to enforce Australian taboo laws with extreme strictness. have been valid, and I have already in another place these laws of the Hebrew Sabbath celebration are based on these laws. leads. Here, the following has been brought to light. Under strict taboo All light and fire had to be extinguished, no canoe was allowed into the Water should be let out, nobody should bathe, nobody except the to give one foot in front of those who had to be in the temple Set doors, no dogs barking, no pigs grunting, no Rooster crowing; dogs and pigs had their muzzles tied. to, placed the poultry under gourds or fastened in front of His eyes were pieces of stuff. Neither the king nor the Priests were allowed to touch something, so that they

1) Eisenmenger, discovered. Judenth. IS 381 f. 385. 389. Rosendl, 1. BS 35.

2) Compare the pamphlet: "Sabbath, Moloch and Taboo", Nuremberg berg 1839, p. 18, and Ellis, p. 201 f. 57.

3) Basel Mission Magazine 1833, p. 75. On the great 'yes' gigantic human stroke of the still sea f. the year 1824, p. 186, 244, 306th year 1827, p. 200th year 1832, p. 71, 212. 248th, 265th year, 1838, pp. 120, 123. Especially the heads to distinguish the islands by their size, as Abraham also did even a giant was supposed to have been fine, see Eisenmenger IS 392 f.; of a Chiefs of the boatmen or Samoa Islands, it says in the last one The position of the mission magazine stated: "He was one of the greatest and the most gigantic men I have seen; his mighty bone structure Stell reminded us of those heroes of old who carried spears, whose shaft was like a weaver's beam."

- 271

the spokes were put into another person's mouth had to be. Breaking the taboo was punishable by death; The criminal was sacrificed to the gods, slain, or strangled. or burned 1). Compare the biblical Sabbath Laws, no starting fires) and not from the (to go home). The death penalty was, as if on the taboo

Break, so on the desecration of the Sabbath; a man,
 (He who cut wood on the Sabbath was stoned.)
 the rabbinic rules for the Jewish Sabbath celebration
 The prohibition of bathing and swimming is also in effect 9).
 A Jew is not allowed to touch a letter on the Sabbath.
 and open, as those islanders were not allowed to touch anything).
 According to a tradition of the same, in the days of the king
 Umi, a thirty-year-old taboo celebration, took place.
 during which the men were not allowed to to shave beard, etc. 7). Even the Jews are forbidden offered to shave his beard on the Sabbath and the (to cut nails). Very noteworthy is the
 The circumstance that the converted islanders observed the Christian Sunday celebration to understand and treat it entirely as a local taboo celebration.
 As stated in a mission report: "Today everyone was employed Christian islanders, preparing their food for the communal to prepare for Sunday. On Sundays, they No fire lit, no breadfruit baked, no tree climbed, launched no boat, and made no journey to Land made «). Just like near Vancouver by a Interdict or taboo to read, with which a district in Otaheiti
 It had been occupied. "No canoe was allowed along the shore."
 Rowing was prohibited; no fires were allowed to be lit. The day before...

- 1) Ellis, p. 215 ff. 2) 2 Mof. 35, 3. 3) Exodus. 16, 20.
- 4) 2 Moses. 31, 14 fuc 35, 2. 4 Mof. 15, 36.
- 5) Bodentatz, ecclesiastical constitution of the Jews, Erlangen 1748, II.
 p. 129. a
- 6) That. 7) Ellis, p. 217. 8) Bodenschatz, ibid.
- 9) Basel Mission Magazine 1832, p. 51.

272

However, there were numerous fires throughout Difhite.
 noticed; the islanders were probably preparing themselves for this.
 Food for the time of the interdict." Thus, here the End to fine beginning back 2). Also the Hebrew Food prohibitions, as well as the Hebrew impurity resulting from the Touching a dead person or a woman during the monthly blood flow belongs to this ancient Australian Taboo system. "Taboo (taboo). was the right that' the Kings as high priests had certain foods, and

 To prohibit work on certain days, etc. Any over-Breaking the taboo exposed the offender to the death penalty « ?).
 – “This taboo system, according to which certain persons and things consecrated to the gods, also certain foods, hand-lungs, trades, places, etc. were forbidden as unholy,
 and which in the same form on the Sandwich Islands,
 on the Society Islands and on New Zealand or still taking place, has undoubtedly been the case for several years.
 Millennia underway on these islands «). — »The
 The most important role in the lives of these islanders is played by the taboo.
 or the consecration, which deals with all matters of life is interconnected in many ways and on all the islands of the South Sea, but in its broadest scope on New Zealand, the dominion leads over the people. Whoever touches an infant, a I came close to a corpse, paying my last respects to a friend.
 proved to be under the strain for several days.
 "Laws of Purification" etc. 5). — "The Taboo formed an important and essential component of the grey-

1) Vancouver's Voyage of Discovery by Sprengel, Halle 1799, p. 51, see p. 60, 217, 219 f. 239, 262, 265, 267 f. 271.

2) Compare the cited text: “Sabbath, Moloch and Taboo”
 p. 25 ff.

1) Basel Mission Magazine 1824, p. 283.

2) Daf. 1821, p. 152.

3) Daf. 1836, p. 603 ff. where about the taboo of the ir from-

It was handled dangerously.

273

seed idol worship system and was one of the strongest Cornerstone of the same. In most dialects Polyn-fiens is the actual meaning of the word holy; it

However, it does not point to a moral quality, but rather expresses merely a relationship to the gods, an exclusion of ordinary purposes, the special provision of sacred People and things out. But the natives use the word leek in a broader sense and apply it to every prohibited and improper item." Cf. Hebrew: zyn, taab, in the game to abhor, in the Niphal an abhorrence to be, toebea, abhorrence, horror. "The taboo was a religious one." The event could only be imposed by priests; Its age is that of the other branches of superstition, of to which it constitutes a component. The meat of pigs, Birds, tortoises and various types of fish, Coconuts and almost all the things intended for sacrifice were taboo for the use of gods and men, and The women therefore remained, except in special cases, excluded from enjoying them. Certain fruits, animals and fish in special places sometimes stayed for months. taboo for men and women « 1). — »The woman during The Katamenien is taboo; the person and the things of the Priests and chieftains are taboo; whoever kills the first enemy, is taboo for ten days; the Morai is taboo; people's Meat is taboo for women « etc. 2). The woman to The time of monthly flow and childbirth was also in America is taboo. This is true for Florida Indians, among whom An old travel guide for women says the following: "If When women are in their critical days, they only fetch them for food for themselves and nobody else touches any of it « 3).

1) Ellis, aa O. 215 ff.

2) Braunschweig, aa OS 141. Langsdorf, remarks on a journey around the world, Frankfurt a. M. 1813, 1. BS 172 — 186.

3) America, by Ternaux-Compans, Meissen 1839, 1. BS 244.

Daumer, Feuer and Moloch service. 18

Of those who use sonography, Pfefferkorn says: "If the As childbirth approaches, they seek a secluded place. They do this out of a kind of superstition; they imagine one belief: that being near a woman giving birth brings bad luck. From Women must face the same cause as long as their period lasts.

takes time, in a separate place outside the room
"(to stop the society of other people)". — "In terms of the separation of the girls and women during their monthly
"Cleaning," Latifau said, "find the customs in America."
very strict. Because they will be given special cabins excommunicated, like those among the Jews who were sick with leprosy lay. They are then also considered so unclean that they must not dare to touch the slightest thing, which might be might still be needed. When they first entered those
If they fall into this state, they will be exempt from the overflow for thirty days.
separated from the people; when they leave their cabin,
The fire was extinguished and a new one lit; among those on the Plata
To the local peoples, they are approached in hanging mats, as if They were dead, and left only a small opening at the mouth;
They must endure this, however long their circumstances last « 2).
– "When a Delaware girl has her first cleansing
"has," reports Loskiel, "yes, it must be the same except for the village."
wait in a secluded hut. There, she will be given the Head covered for twelve days, so that they could see no one.

can; she must take emetics, eat little and is not allowed

She won't work. Afterwards, she will be washed and dressed again;
but for another two months nobody is allowed to see her" 9).
"The girls who are having their period for the first time," Barrere says in his fine description of Guiana, "it hangs one in their hammak at the very top of Karbet. She

1) Pfefferkorn, Description of the landscape of Sonora, Cologne 1794, 2nd ed. p. 237. 100.

2) Baumgarten, aa DS 125.

3) Loskiel's Missionary History, p. 73.

They must fast strictly for a while; then they are given Various bloody cuts to the body. The men...
 They keep to themselves when their wives have their time, avoid which they with great caution and do not allow to allow them to prepare the food or otherwise not to touch anything at all, as if their breath were poisoned « 1). The one on The curse laid on the woman characterizes Australian, American and Semitic peoples and religious systems; cf. above in the treatise on Moloch service. Also the train,
 The fact that certain foods are taboo for women comes in America before. "The girls of the Mbayas never eat meat."
 and women are forbidden to eat certain foods." 2) From the Hottentots, which we above trace back to Australia
 On that occasion, a writer reports many Jewish customs, whereupon, as he adds, they knew nothing of the children Sfrael,
 They knew nothing of Moses or the Law. That was true for them too.
 Women are taboo during childbirth and menstruation; also
 They must abstain from certain foods, namely pork.
 (Avoid meat, suffocated food, and fish without scales). One of Europeans were allowed to eat the pig placed before them, according to A. v. Chamisso's Story, Sandwich-Islanders don't eat. »The pig,
 That which we placed before the Lord was not consecrated in the Morai,

1) New trips to Guiana, Peru and southern America,
 Göttingen 1751, pp. 168 f.

2) Orbigny, aa OS 137. |

3) P. Kolben's description of the promontory of Good Hope, Frankfurt and Leipzig 1745, pp. 22, 136, 140. Cf. Basel Missions-magazine 1816, p. 365: "The Negroes in Loango believe a good God Zambi, whom they love without worshipping him, and an evil spirit Zambianchi, whom they fear and whom they seek to appease, these and prepare those foods; to make them pleasing to him.
 "They will even destroy their breadfruit trees." That's how it all came about.
 Nature: and misanthropy in the cults of the highest antiquity, like those of later times, from the idea of an evil, through negation-

a satisfying essence of existence and life.

18 *

276

And that's how it was, to speak European, not Chinese, and Nothing of it was safe, what with that same fire
He had been cooked and roasted. They had to make us fasting.
to see them eating without even being able to talk to us.
He recounts the following: "The table was set up for us in a House, which lay within the boundaries of the royal Morai, on euro Covered in a traditional manner. The king escorted us there with fine chieftains; but neither he nor any of them took:
a share of the meal that we alone ate. Our Sailors were treated in the same way after us. After Tameiameia whistled to us in a fine group alone, whereby we watched him, just as he had watched us « 1). That he:
within in the most striking way to the following place of the Ge nesis: »And they carried for him (Joseph in Egypt) special the one, and for them (his brothers) especially, and for the Egyptians who ate with them, especially; for the Egyptians Animals are not allowed to eat with the Hebrews because it is an abomination.
(nayin, tabu) ift« 2). A completely identical ab to the Jewish one.
Aversion to pork was found among the Native Americans of America.
"No Indian," says Peppercorn, "can be persuaded to..."
To make swineherds, not out of pride, but out of innate, irreconcilable hatred for the pig, which they so despise that they would rather have the bitterest hun
They would suffer more than they would enjoy a piece of pork.
The same aversion was found among the Caribs and Native Americans in Paraguay. "The southern Americans," says Latifau, "un
They cannot eat everything. In particular, they
The tortoise is forbidden just as it was formerly for the troglodytes.
They eat even less of the meat of pigs and the La mentine« 3). What the language of that island world of silence

1) Chamiffo's works, 1. BS 224. 213. 2) 1 Mof. 43, 32.

3) Pfefferkorn, ibid., 1st ed., p. 239. Dobrizhofer, History the Abiponer, 1. BS 342. Schad's Travels of Father Labat, 1st Th.

p. 377. Baumgarten, ibid. 1st ed. p. 326. But will the ame Eaten a Korean musk pig, Pfefferkorn, pp. 271 ff.

277

As regards the sea, in which we found ourselves drawn to the primal form of the
To recognize Hebrews, it has been remarked,
"that the Tahitian language, which has low Change is also being discussed on the Sandwich Islands.
contains a large number of words, which are true Hebrew roots are, and that in her the multiple changes of the verb almost in the same form as in Hebrew appear 1). The sandwich-in indicated by Chamisso
The Sulani peace greeting and toast arocha is apparently Hebrew word, Hebrew arucha, salvation; and so it also revealed itself otherwise in the word forms of this dialect the Semitic Ele—ment. Compare also Tahitian taparahi, to murder, Hebrew dabar, to devour in the game; Tonga talfi, drum for song and dance, Hebrew: toph, hand drum, played by dancing women; Tonga kofu, Hawaji kapa, clothing, Hebrew chapha, to cover, to conceal len, chuppa, blanket; Fiji Islands suli, clothing, Hebrew schul, Train of the dress from shull, Arabic sala, wide, limp,
hang down; Fiji talo, clothing, Hebrew talal, in play.
cover, dalal, hang down; Fiji avila, murder, Hebrew.
and Chald. abad, perish, of which Pi. ibbad, Hiph. heebid, Aph. hoked, to kill, to murder; Fidfchi soloma, compassion, Hebrew: shalom, peace, friendship, good understanding; Cha mori lemmai, bread fruit, Hebrew lechem, bread; Chamori off-bale, bad, of people, Hebrew chabal, to act badly; Chamori matai, dying, friendship and sandwich islands
mate, kill, in America Pimas muhat, dead, Cora mueat, Death, Hebrew muth, to die, meih, a dead person, motheth, to die;
Chamori tahnno, land, island, territory, Hebrew tanna, dwelling;
Chamori didiki, small, Hebrew dakak, delicate, fine fine; Chamori
kanei, arm, hand, Hebrew kane, arm of the candlestick, arm tube; Chamori tjumatju, Eap thamunemun, eat, Hebrew
taam, cost, in Arabic essen, in America thume, dame
u. s. w., bread, grain, s. our above American Semitic

1) Basel Mission Magazine 1827, p. 662.

Glossary; Eap turu, to catch and dance, Hebrew tur, to circle around; Eap alit, black, Hebrew alata, dense darkness; Eap emul, fall, Hebrew, amal, wither, amelal, weak, faint; Eap tuv, star, Hebr. tub, shine, Congo in Africa tubia, fire; Eap olia, mast tree, chald. ilan, tree, Hebrew ellon, allon, terebinth, oak; Eap thillagk, Ulea tilleg, throwing spear, Tonga tolo, the throwing of the spear, in America Norton-Sund dallek, Greenland. tellek, Eskimo telluk, Unalaschka toolak, arm, Hebrew tul, long fine, in Hi: Phil and Pilpel stretch out, throw; Eap and Ulea kaul, Sling, Hebrew kala, to sling, kela, sling; Eap pan, Ulea oluel, plant, tree, herb, ual, flower, Hebrew ben; Sprout, seedling, son, ollel, child, boy, in America araucan. penien, child, Eslenes panna, son, greenland. pan-nia, daughter; Ulea eculip, deadline, Hebrew cheleb, fat; Ulea cotomai, eastern region, Hebrew kedem, eastern region, kidma, kadmon, eastern; Ulea and Radack oath, smoke, Eap athanevi, smoke, in America Pima etonni, burning, chald. attun, oven; Ulea eppel, light, Hebrew lever, breath; Radack allil, shadow, Hebrew. elil, nothingness, just like Eap vahn, shadow, to the Latin $\neq$ fche vanus, deutſch Wahn erinnern; Ulea und Radack sagi, Sleeping mat, Hebrew sak, coarse, hairy stuff, in Ethiopia $\neq$ fchen coarse tent blanket; Ulea eulul, cylindrical, Hebrew galil, rotatable; Radack elüp, Ulea eolep, large, etolep, much, Hebrew. and Chaldean eleph, alaph, thousand, compare Hebrew rab, great, many, ribho, rebaba, tithe-baptizing; Ulea ta, blood, New Zealand and Hervey $\neq$ Group ta, murder, Hebrew dam, blood, murder, Tahitian tamai, war, Fiji ta, evil; Ulea por, drink, Hebrew bor, Cisterne, beer, fountain; Radack eidara, good, Hebrew adar, to be glorious; Radack elallap, old man, Hebrew alluph, family $\neq$ main; Radack gäloch, to jump, Ulea galloch, to go, Hebrew. halack, to go, halich, step; Radack loma, people, humans, Hebrew leom, people, nation; Ulea and Radack tapi, Eap thawi, a ship-shaped, wooden vessel, Arabic thabuth, Chaldean te-butha, Hebrew teba, chest, casket, coffin, Noah's ark

and the vessel in which Moses was set adrift; Ulea
 gkeus, Radack gisu, Hebrew gesa, tree trunk; Radack giru, Mammals, New Zealand and Friendship Islands, guri, dog, Hebrew: gur, young animal; catulus, in the dialects young Dog, lion, and the like. The Semitic pre-Sentence letter m is discovered, as in the American Languages, as is the case here, cf. e.g. Radack moghan, Confect made from banana juice, Hebrew maog, cake, from ug, cake backen, uga, small bread cake; Sandwich Islands maru, shady ten, Hebrew mare, mara, appearance, shape, vision, mirror, from raa, to see; New Zealand makaridi, cold, Hebrew mekera, Ab-cooling, from Mp, cool, to be cold, from which also kor and kara, Cold, cold, cool. The things that were made noticeable here at the same time Agreements between Australia and America would be to be further increased by many other examples, cf. e.g.
 Friendship Islands, Catto, Caribbean, Catoli, Korb, New Zealand pa, mountain fortress, Guiana Bahii, Haiti boa, house). Under the one noted by Anderson in Cook's third and last voyage
 One of the Otahai sayings is quite biblical. »The A phrase found in the Bible: the entrails are moved by pain, is also said in Otaheiti.
 needs, because the islanders assume that the seat of the Pain in the intestines, indeed, that this is the seat of all
 "The effects of the spirit." To boil, to simmer the Hebrew the entrails own», and the heart 2a is at the same time stomach, sense, intention, understanding, knowledge, Insight. The name of the Sandwich Island Priefters-Prince Orono with that of the Hebrew High Priest Aaron

e

1) The Australian forms according to the information and glossarynissen Chamisso's, Mariner's, who speaks about the Tonga- or friendship-islands wrote, and of the mission magazine, where especially year 1838, Page 163 contains a tabular comparison of nine Australian dialects.
 given, see also year 1830, p. 73, and incidentally Mithridates and the works listed above.

To compare, we are already in the treatise on the Moloch service was initiated; actually, a god was called that, and then the priest as the representative of the god. » The Islanders first gave the name Orono to an invisible being. Being who dwells in heaven; then he was the title of ei= a man of great rank and prestige, who was with the Dalai Lama in Asia and the spiritual emperor of Japan has much similarity «). A holy house was called harre- no- onoro, House of Orono, and Captain Cook was known as the Orono, which appeared on the island, is considered to have this name named and venerated through sacrifices offered to him 2). Also This name refers to a king of Hawaji who who ruled in ancient times, descended into battle-crazed madness= len and in a specially formed canoe to Haiti or ei= sailed out to a foreign land, fine fol. Probably Here, under the name Orono, is not just an individual, but a whole, the name of his God and priest-priest= leading priest of the head of state and princely family to understand that, for the sake of his all-too-hopeless endeavors, it leads to... was forced to wander. And that is probably the one Emigration across the sea, of which the above he= clarified the sequence of names Schelach, Eber, Peleg, Reu and Serug speaks, and the emigration of Abraham and his family from Ur was that sandwich= island Orono from the Fire Island Hawaii, which leads to Haiti, i.e. to America= tet was). That was Abraham umts rr in Sawa n

—° + * 2 . — .. e er

I us e W ns ne sus U [>

1) Cook's third and last neife, by Wetzel, published in 1787.
4. BS 161.

2) That. P. 173 ff. P. 165. 3) Ellis, aa OS 67 f.

4) On the sea voyages of the islanders and their traditions of sol= chen from ancient times f. Ellis aa OS 245 u. 220. After a According to the Sandwich Islands, they originated from Tahiti; that.

p. 243, and another seems to indicate that she was once under the
The rule of a societăţat=insulanian prince stood, that. p. 219.

281

Valley of Waipio, "a prisoner of traditions"

first place on the island, as it is the dwelling place of Akea and Miru, of the first kings, as well as the kings Umi and Riroa,
who play a significant role in Hawaj's story.

The cruel Haakau, the Nero of the Sand, also lived here—wich=Islands « 1). It was also here that Umi once set out on a once sacrificed eighty people. "After Umi the Be=

Having defeated the ruler of six divisions of the island, he sacrificed several prisoners to Waipio when he heard Kuahiro's voice, of his God, heard from the clouds, which more

People demanded; the king sacrificed more and the voice

He demanded until he had all his people, except for one,

who was his great favorite, and whom he slaughtered

refused, had offered. The god demanded with impetuosity, and so he also sacrificed this «2). The name Umi, the Abra= ham, in the tradition of Hawiji, is perhaps related to the Peruvian umu, Prophet, together with which the chief=

The priest of the Peruvian Villac Umu was named. The sandwich island nifche kumu means teacher 3), and the k is omitted in the dialect.

the society* (*away). The stems also point to this.

1). That. 202.

2) Ibid., p. 201, cf. p. 140. With the name Kuahiro

It could be derived from Hebrew cur, oven, with Akea and Haakau, Hebrew ach, oven.

compare. To Abraham in the Bible, his God appears as an oven, and

The princes and priests of antiquity bore the names of their gods-ter, s. above. Akea and Miru are also names of gods; in America ist othom. oqha, huron. ocki, God, and an evil spirit is called Okee, See above.

3) Basel Mission Magazine 1832, pp. 248 f.

4) Ibid., p. 216: "The language of the Sandwich Islands is theirs roots according to the same which was spoken on the Society Islands will. The main difference lies in the use of the letter k, which is common here and which number 1 doesn't know. More details On the dialects of Australia, see ibid. 1838, p. 161 ff. They differ which is primarily characterized by exclusion or confusion. How Letters; fo ino in three, kino in two dialects, bd fe.

282

The Sandwich Islanders lay there, so that they were in connection with many other circumstances the investigation into the Her future and the oldest settlements of the Hebrews, who initially to America, as to the Egypt of biblical primeval history, and from there to Hawaji, as to the very top of the same, led saw, one step further to that group of islands of South Sea is being pushed back. And after all that, it can now also It will no longer seem strange to find several Australian place names in the Bible, specifically in the station list of the ifrae- to be found in the Lithuanian desert. In the area brought by Ellis The Sandwich Islanders shared their legends, which is where the name comes from. Societatsinfel Tahiti, Tahaiti, Otaheiti and the Marquefad = Infel Tahuata before, compare the biblical one Tahath Station. Mathana, in Otaheiti, refers to a excellent residence, to which others are subordinate, and That is also the name of a biblical station. The stations of Abarim and Rithma can be connected to the islands of Aborima and Rotumaah are held together; the stations Hiroth, Kohelata, Makeheloth, Phunon or Punon Hiro, Köhala, Puna and Ponahohoa on Hawaji 1). Several such measures are expected to be used in future disputes. be brought, and so little such agreement If they can prove something to themselves, then they will get Weight is determined by accumulation and correlation. The weight in the History of the Hebrew ancient names occurring among the ancient Greeks Changes, such as Abraham instead of Abram, Sarah instead of Sarai, Israel instead of Jacob, are entirely according to Australian princely custom; just so changed at * * the kings

1) Ellis, aa OS 220 u. 243, nebst. der dem Werke beigebe a charter from Hawaji. Missionary journey to the southern still sea, p. 355.

Missionary magazine 1827, p. 214, according to which the island of Huaheine is divided into eight Matenas or districts were divided. Matania was the ancient Indian name for the West Indian island of Martinique, Baumgarten, aa O. 2nd th. p. 830.

Regarding the names Rithma and Rotumah, jo ift omaguifch in America ritama residence; Mithridates, 3rd Th. 2nd Abth. p. 608.

— ————— »Adöw———— — 22⁵ 2 · * 2 —ü—ü—HS=EM

283 of Otaheiti their names 1). On the name Abraham as

The American princely title is already mentioned above in the treatise.
The discussion had been about the Moloch service. Because of precise details.
Similarity of an institution on Hawaji to the ifraelitist ones
Ellis considers Freistätten an imitation of the latter.
impossible 2) — then the Hebrews of Palestine would have to
from the islands of the Silent Sea. Here but things seem rather to have their origin and their to have an ancient homeland. It's probably the same with the biblical legends found here, which the missionaries so were striking. "Wonderful enough," said a missionary leader.
Right, » we meet almost all of them here (on the Sandwich Islands).
the old legends again, which, because of their similarity to the
the earliest Bible history has its roots in this shit
nen, and which are everywhere on the islands of the still sea around, just like on the nearby West American Coasts from 0 to * Chili, 3 will be « 3),

1) Dar. 1838, p. 41 and Missionary Journey, p. 197. A King Otu changed his name to Otju upon the birth of a son; formerly
His name was Whappai. The king and the chieftains also led a...

Sotietäts=Inseln (society of islands) various names at the same time, see Mission Magazine aa O.: "Besides their proper names, the king and the chieftains had
"They will also receive special official titles." Something similar appears on the Sandwich Islands. "The king's usual name was Rihoriho; otherwise, he was sometimes called after his fine father Tamehameha. ge-also named and used a lot of other names, of which the most ordinary Jolani was." — "The Queen, like all Per=

Many names, many of distinction; her. It was Kamehameha maru." Ellis, aa OS 253 and 256. 5

2) Ellis, aa OS 84. a

3) As a test, the following. From the mouth of Auna, a member of the Society of the Islands, former Goözenpriest and leader of the myfterib. The legend was heard by the society of the Arreoi: the Sotte Taroa, the creator of all things, who made the first human from sand made and called Tani, the thought came that it must be this. He would be an unhappy creature if he left him alone, and that is why I he decided to give him a companion, to cut a hole in his side.

284

Only those that are so prominent in America, the biblical Tower of Babel and the language barrier. Confusion and corresponding traditions in Australia are nothing; these are an increase in the number of Semitic people in America. Legendary history. The sagas that agree with the Bible. The borders with Australia do not extend beyond those mentioned. Abraham out, who from America not about the exodus from Egypt. From Australia came all the ones I found. According to traces and connections, the entire population. The turning of America, partly before, partly after the Flood Catastrophe; both Egyptians and Hebrews were like into our hemisphere from America, so to America from Australia came, and the Atlanticists of Plato, who opposed it overlying the mainland (America), probably only made their right to a dependent one originating from them, sene, but sich sich bruchgerißen habende Colonie in Amerika gilt. The common belief of the Egyptians and Hebrews: j — which was also found in America, has focused on the

ns,

u took something out of A from which he formed the woman, which he was then presented to the delighted Tani, Basel Mission Magazine 1832, p. 155 f. — just as the biblical creator of mankind considers, It is not good that Adam should be free alone, and decide to get him a helper. to make, 1 Mof. 2, 18. Besides this stands the double comparison because of an American legend already briefly mentioned above. "Purru" Naminari, the highest being of the Maipurians, first created man, and while he was asleep, he took one of his ribs and formed it into the Woman, then he woke him and said to him, "Look at the woman!" Ph. Salvator Gilii, aa OS 441. From folder creation of Woman knows from man's rib, according to Colton aa OS 449, including the Native Americans of North America. That's how the story comes about. from the Fall of Man in Australia and America before and — which is completely different — properly strange and far more weighty than oral traditions. ditionen is — was even found in a work of art by Otto von Kotzebue in a morai or priestly shrine of the Sandwich Islands. Islands saw, expressed with unmistakable clarity; s. Otto von Kotzebue, Discovery trip to the South Seas and to Weimar 1821, 2. BS 115. |

285

Islands of the Silent Sea as a native custom spread shown, and is partly carried out entirely in Jewish manner; the inhabitants of Otaheiti even had a curse (word for an uncircumcised one). That the Otaheitic women respected strangers with the same indecent ceremony greeted, like the Egyptians greeted Apis, as Otfried Müller already noted. ler notes 2). Pyramidal buildings were also seen in Australien. Obea's large morai, on a promontory of Otaheiti Located, there was an enormous mass of stonework in Pyramidal form listed on an elongated rectangular area, with a staircase of ten steps all around and with Mau surrounded by a pyramid, courtyard and sacred spaces closed 3). In the lists of the ancient Egyptian K Some have several Australian names; for example, Orus, Athoes, Othoes, Rathuris). Ori, Orio, Uru, Otoo, Othu are princely names and royal titles of the Society Islands, the same names as the first three of the aforementioned benen ägyptischen, wenn man von diesen die unächte Endungen separates; uro means king in Egyptian, and ratira, ratirra is the name of a type of noble, chieftain and property owners on Otaheiti 3). To the Egyptian

1) S. Authenrieth, Treatise on the origin of snowmaking Tübingen 1829, p. 19 ff. 40 ff., where the circumcision in Amerika, on the islands of the South Sea and in New Holland, and Cook's third and last voyage, translated by Wetzel, Anspach 1789, 3rd BS 48.

2) Otrfr. Müller, Prolegomena to a scientific mythology Göttingen 1825, p. 280 f. Diod. 1, 85.

3) Missionary voyage to the southern Pacific Ocean under James Wilson, p.
283. Braunschweig, aa OS 128: "The large pyramidal thinkers Painters in America are apparently from a further artistic development of the Mo-Rai's emerged. The colossal Morai on Ota- is likely the type.
It is fine to accept this. The great monument of Cholula united the burial mound with the pyramid and originated from the shape of the Australian Morai!"

4) Prichard, Egyptian Mythology, p. 389 ff.

5) Basel Mission Magazine 1819, pp. 263, 274, 280. Year 1832,
p. 313. Missionary journey to the southern still sea, p. 517.

286

Pharaoh, the Australian name forms Faaroau, Faarua, Faori an)); yes, a gender register of the Kings of Hawaji shows the name Po ora at the tophoo 2). Joseph in Egypt receives: the daughter of Poti-phera, the priest of the sun city On or Heliopolis to the woman; this name Potiphera is probably the Australian one.
God's name and princely name Futtafahi, composed of raa, holy 3), or rahi, great). »The chieftains of the
The friendship island of Tongatabu is called Lords of the Sun and of heaven; the king's family leads the
The name Futtafaihe, after the god of this name, the Sea god Futtafaihe or Footafora, whom they probably as their patron god and common ancestor-ten 5). Potiphera would therefore be a priest-prince from the Princely tribes that migrated from Australia to America the Potiphe or Futtafahi ©). It has finally

1) Missi Jonsmagazin . p. 263rd year 1830, p. 8th year 1838, p. 88.

2) Cook's third and last voyage, trans. by Wetzel, 4th ed. 378.

3) Missionary journey, pp. 517, 522.

4) Missionary Magazine 1838, p. 163.

5) Cook's third and last voyage, 2nd part, pp. 260, 264. Cf. p. 272: "Poulao is merely a nickname to distinguish the king from the others." to distinguish the family." See also Missi onsceiser "©. 70. 75. 233. 235.

6) Moreover, the social and physical phenomena of America for commentary. The Egyptians ver= They buy bread from the Pharaoh in a time of famine; thus they sell the Mexicans their freedom for corn ears, since the maiden harvest was missed They advised and a famine arose; Clavigero, aa O. 1. Th. p. 263. Of a general crop failure that affected corn and wheat and lasted for seven years, Father Sepp recalls; s. his Journey to Paraguay in Charlevoix's History of Paraguay, Nuremberg. 1768, 2nd part, pp. 12 f., where this is repeatedly mentioned as "for seven years". The talk is of "prolonged pestilential drought". In Jamaica, they want one a great dying of the population that recurs every seven years= have noticed this, s. Baumgarten aa O. 2nd th. p. 740 and about on the Society Islands and on New Zealand also a high strange type of embalming and mummification of the Bodies were found. "On Otaheiti, the Egyptian culture was completely destroyed." Procedure applied and even the taricheut, who the kœ= per anointed with fragrant oils, considered unclean, and The wild New Zealanders are mummifying themselves more artificially than ever before. Egyptians have done!«). The impurity of the Tarichute is a belonging to the Australian taboo system outlined above Train. Regarding the transition of the Egyptians from America into un= As far as his hemisphere is concerned, so too did the Hebrews. the Egyptians the tradition of one, according to Diodorus nine years= rigen, great trait of their nation, that extraordinary Un=

287

The enterprise of King Sesostris, who with a mighty Armies traversed the mainland and from this movement the col left behind by the Egyptians; — the Egypt from which The one who set out was probably the same one from whom the Hebrews came, not the Egypt of Africa, but the one suspected above America's, yes, the news of Herodotus, that this Sesostris is at A sea has come that is no longer navigable due to its shallowness. was 2), seems to me to reveal the same, what the dry Israel's crossing of the sea — the encounter with a Frozen sea in North America. What the peoples Ame rika's into these harsh northern regions and across the ice It is not hard to guess why the North drove into Asia. when one considers the so-called Egyptian plagues as one, similar to the Black Death of the Middle Ages), with many

the number seven as a natural period; Schubert, premonitions of a general a story of life, Part 2, p. 15.

1) Bohlen, Das alte Indien, 2nd part, p. 184, with the cited therein Writings. Vancouver, Voyage of Discovery, translated by Sprengel, Halle 1799, pp. 62–66. Missionary journey, pp. 563–564.

2) Herodotus 2, 101.

3) Cf. Hecker, The Black Death in the 14th Century, Berlin 1832, especially pp. 15 ff. Crop failures, famine, torrential rains, floods Then, earthquakes, swarms of insects, etc., everything combined to form... Unparalleled horror and unbelievable devastation. "From China to other honest and extraordinary natural phenomena accompanied, great epidemic disease period of old Ame rika, as a monstrous, to the people's life of America's Ver not thinking of the imminent upheaval of nature, which affects all social and state ties, and to which the terrified crowds who sought to escape at any cost. In this way It is easy to understand how a community exists in North America. mendrang von Völker ents t arose, die theils, einander fortsto sending, flooded into Asia and settled in a great voluminous migration, of which Israel is only a part, through Asia spread, partly in North America, their needy drive established a residence, and in later times at veran under the circumstances, they migrated back to the south, like the highly civilized peoples of New Spain, the Toltecs, the Chichimecs and the Aztecs, who from the 6th to the 12th year one hundred of our era of three north-lying nights (barlændern denigrated to claim too finely). It is wonderful

288

The ground trembled on the Atlantic Ocean, throughout Asia and Europe. The air circle was thrown into turmoil and endangered by harmful encroachments. Fluff the plant and animal life. In the innermost womb of the earth. The impetus was given in the year 1333, which was in constant agreement and successes for 26 years, reaching the western shores of Europe The Earth's surface shook. Right at the beginning, the air circle took part at the telluric tremors; atmospheric waters flooded the lands, or scorching fire disgraced plants and animals ten. The insect world was wonderfully brought to life; it seemed as if the The living complete the destruction that will destroy the astral and telluric realms Forces had begun. Thus, this gruesome work of nature gained strength from Year after year, it expanded more; it was a progressive increase. Expansion of the zones that exert their mighty swings above and below ground gen aregte, and already in the first years of the telluric upheaval in China, recognizable by milder premonitions, the whole globe

"

1) When the Aztecs came from the unknown land around the year 1160 When Aztlan broke out and appeared in Anahuac, they remained for a while. down by the Gila River. South of this one, which joins the Rio where the Colorado River flows into the Californian Gulf, they lie lonely in the derbar, on the archipelago of the Aleutian Islands, which is located in an arc from Alashka in America to Kamchatka in Asia attracts those proven to be on the top of the South Sea Islands. Egyptian custom of embalming the dead is rediscovered. This custom also took place among the Peruvian Incas. Inca Viracocha, the eighth of the 13 legitimate Peruvian Rulers from Manco Capac to Huascar, embalmed Garciasso de la Vega has the body, as well as that of his wife.

289

 seen in the year 1560 and these bodies so perfectly preserved ten found that they only seemed to lack life 2).
 One reads of a king of the Chechemeca's in Anahuac, that after his death, his entrails were removed had been embalmed, see below; mummification of the corpses
 It was also found among the Appalachians in Florida and already Columbus visited Cariari on the American coast in 1502.
 fchen Festlandes embalmed corpses and gravediggers with carving
 | Painting W decorated with various animals 9

Steppe, the ruins of the Ann Las Casas Grandes.
 Aztec palace. The Franciscan monks Garces and Font, who... visited themselves in 1773, assure, the ruins took over one square mile area. The entire plain is covered with shear.
 covered with artificially painted earthenware. The main palace
 It is 420 feet long and 260 feet wide. According to Johannes von Müller's These remarks were also widely discussed in North Africa around the time of that train journey.
 Migrations of peoples. The invasion of the Tartar Niuscheh changed the Chinese emperors of the Sum dynasty were forced to further expand their residence to relocate south to Linegan. It seems that even back then it was like a flood of people poured from North America into Asia have, while the Aztecs moved in the opposite direction towards Anahuac turned. Cf. Humboldt, Views of Nature, 1st ed. 140 ff.

1) Aleut mothers tend to the embalmed bodies of their children.
 to keep with oneself for a long time; Orbigny, aa OS 301.

2) Baumgarten's general history of the countries and peoples of Amerika, Halle 1752, 2nd part, p. 297, cf. p. 221.

3) Cf. Bohlen, India, Vol. 2, p. 184. Customs and Opinions gen der Wilden, Frankf. a. M. 1777, II. p. 100. 112. 496. Brown Schweig, über die altamerikanische Denkmäler, p. 15. Barlaus, bra

Daumer, Feuer and Moloch service. 19

Also, those found during the discovery of America and did not admire cultural states and cultural empires. the only, oldest and highest in ancient America sen, and tribes that are no longer there, have in ver in various parts of America the traces of a mysterious Being left behind. I will leave a series of comments on this. Testimonials and judgments follow, which at the same time constitute the assumption of a closer to the former Egyptian empire in America will be. Great monuments of architecture, such as those found in Peru. Niche and Mexican empires included, according to Garcíasso de la Vega, even before the Incas; they found the mountain The plains of Tiahuanacu already feature ruins of distinguished sites. ter Große covered; according to Garcia, inan found during the conquest Buildings already destroyed by Tabasco with traces of the of the highest antiquity 1). A. v. Humboldt remarks in these Relationships The following: »On the shores of Lake Titicaca, whose surface area is twenty times that of Lake Geneva and twice the medium size of a French department includes, near Tiahuanacu and in the highlands of In Callao there are ruins that point to an earlier culture meadows, as the one which the Peruvians gave to the Inca Empire Manco Capac thank must believe «). — »In nern of South America, between the 2nd and 4th degrees north Of a certain width lies a wooded plain, which is bordered by four rivers. sen, the Orinoco, the Atabapo, the Rio Negro and the Cassiaquari is enclosed. Here you will find granite and Syenite rocks, which, like those of Caicara and Uruana, are composed of symbolic images — colossal figures of crocodiles, Tigers, household appliances, moon and sun signs — covered are. This remote corner of the earth is present: on filian history, p. 751, where it says of the Indians in Chile:

 "They wrap the corpses in various herbs and spices to protect them from the rot and so they leave them lying for several months."

1) Mithridates, 3rd Th. II. P. 325 f.

2) Humboldt, Travel, 5th Th. p. 410.

More than 500 square miles of surface completely uninhabited.
 The neighboring tribes are only found on the lowest level.
 Stage of human education, naked rabble roaming about,
 far from it, carving hieroglyphs into stone. One can in South America, an entire zone of these rocks with symbols
 The sign covered by Rupunury and Essequibo from to to the banks of the Yupura. Strange remains underneath
 Also part of a bygone culture are those with delicate labyrinths.
 decorated granite vessels, like the earthen ones, the Roman ancestor lichen masks, which one sees on the Mosquito Coast under wil-discovered by the Native Americans. Antiquarians are amazed by the similarity of these a la grecs with those which the Pal-Last of Mitla near Oaxaca in New Spain adorn « I). — » On a vast landscape, on the Lower Orinoco, like as on the shores of the Cassiaquari and between the springs Granite rocks can be found along the Essequibo and Rio Branco rivers.
 covered with symbolic representations which testify that They vanished gender sequences — peoples belonged to them
 ben, which are now living in these landscapes, various the were « 2). — » The cave of Ataruipe is actually a vault, a far overhanging cliff, a bay, which washed away the waters when they once reached this height-sufficient. This place is the tomb of an exterminated people.
 Tribes. We counted approximately 600 well-preserved skeletons.
 in just as many baskets, which were made from the stems of the palm tree.
 The bones are woven into the tree. The bones are in three different ways.
 prepared, partly bleached, partly with onoto, the pigment
 the Bixa orellana, red colored, partly mummified between-fragrant resin kneaded into pisang leaves. Ne-
 Beneath the baskets, one can also find urns made of semi-fired clay.
 Clay, which contains the bones of entire families appear. The larger ones of the same are 3 feet high and 51%

1) Humboldt, Views of Nature, 1st BS 177 ff.

2) Humboldt, Travel, 5th Th. p. 16.

19 *

Foot long, of a pleasant oval shape, greenish, with Henkeln in the form of crocodiles and snakes, on the upper Edge decorated with meanders and labyrinths, ornamentation-gen, which are quite similar to those which the walls of the meri-Covering the Kanian pallastes at Mitla « 1). — “I am far
 It is far-fetched to claim that in Anahuac before the Aztecs, the appeared in the year 1190 on the Anahuac plateau, and in Peru before the mysteriously shrouded An-
 The future of the first Inca lacked both intellectual education and order.
 nung in den ges²achlichen Verziehungskräftn. bebei.
 The large pyramid-shaped monuments of Teotihuacan, Cholula and Papantla are older than the Aztecs, and so are they.
 The ruins of Tiahuanaco in the surrounding area offer us of Lake Titicaca on the Peruvian plateau Spurepresent a civilization that is responsible for the design of buildings to Cuzko through the Incas. But the new world has, like the old one, undoubtedly a change of barbarity and Ci-experienced violence. We know for certain that the Peoples of Peru before the theocratic legislation of the first Heliades (of the sun's son Manco Capac) in a striking-to fall into a state of mental and moral weakness
 ren; we know that the industrious and inventive people
 the Tultecs, which inhabited Mexico 500 years before the Aztecslived in a place that, like them, used a hieroglyphic script.
 served, and had a year that was more accurate than that of the most peoples of Europe, since the 11th century from the
 The pinnacle of his power was overthrown, leading to great humiliation.
 had sunk. Before the time of Columbus, Cortez and Pizarro, perhaps other centers of partial Culture in Guatemala, including Utatlan, Copan, Peten and S.
 Domingo Palenque; in northern Mexico near Quivira,
 the Dorato of the bearded king Tatarax, which through The lies of Fray Marcos of Nice have become famous;

1) Humboldt, Views of Nature, 1st BS 224 ff.

d

in northern Louisiana between the banks of the Ohio and the Great Lakes of Canada, from the 39th to the 44th parallel latitude. The traces of a kind of progress in the Kalm
 From the north to the northernmost regions are except Doubts have been raised, but it has not yet been possible to determine to determine more precisely the period in which the tumuli and polygonal-like ramparts in upper Louisiana and the richly decorated building of Palenque stand to find. The center of the old civilization of the
 The Kingdom of Quiche, which is probably older than the
 The arrival of the Aztecs in Anahuac may also include the Monuments in the Honduras peninsula, where one can still near Copan you can see a large circus, furthermore the underground vaults of Tibulco and a number of images columns whose clothing has an extremely bizarre character has «). MM Noah, Major of the Militia to New York, former her port commander and North American envoy to Tunis lets the same sex prevail in America as the
 He built the temples and pyramids of Egypt, but by
 From the usual perspective, everything from our hemisphere lets go. "If," he says, "from the Mexican age."
 When it comes to talking about thummers, one must consider the crude work of the not to be confused with the shining masterpieces of more recent times sel, which distinguished the efforts of those who the Egypt
 Table pyramids towered and the temples of Thebes and Memphis built. Not the Mexican antiquities, who They are from Tultekan, and to the ruins of Palenque must you can see the pyramids of Cholula, Otamba, Paxaca, Mitlan, Tlascala and those on the mountains of Tescoca join, the large
 They are larger than the Egyptian hieroglyphs and animal circles,
 a symbolic and phonetic alphabet, papyrus, Meto

1) Humboldt, critical investigations on historical development of the geographical knowledge of the new world, trans. by Ideler, Berlin 1836, 1. BS 381 ff.

pen, triglyphs, temples and buildings of immense size,
 Military roads, water pipelines, country roads, post offices and distances, bridges of considerable size and masonry Construction type, which provides all the clearest evidence of the existence of ei-deliver to a powerful, enterprising nation, which in 2000 (must have flourished years before the Spanish conquest).
 Orbigny's scenic journey in South America and North America contains about the famous ruins of Culhuacan, which are actually
 The ruins of Palenque are called, as follows: "The traces of a Hidden in a vast forest in a large city were three unknown to our archaeologists for centuries remained when, in 1787, Captain Antonio del Rio and Don Jose Alonso de Calderon came across these rubble, which notice-most worthy and extensive in the New World. Since then have these been obtained on the spot by Captain Dupaix monuments in the eyes of European archaeologists has gained great importance. The city of Culhuacan, Located not far from Micol, a tributary of the Tulija, it seems,
 as far as one can judge from the sight of their remains,
 to have lasted six to seven hours. In Throughout this entire expanse of ruins, one can recognize temples, Fortifications, diggers, pyramids, bridges, water pipes,
 Houses, and finds vases and idols under the sand,
 musical instruments, colossal statues, as good as very good elaborate bas-reliefs with characters who represent real history
 They appear to be roglyphs. The appearance of the place, the Completion of some of these sculptures, the general form of the Monuments, everything betrays another civilization, which that, which far surpasses what one finds in the rest of Mexico.
 The figures represent a tall people of slender, delicate chen sl: ...
 dung represents. Among these fragments of a precious antiquity

1) Noah, proof that the Indians of America were the newcomers of the lost tribes of Israel, Altona 1818, p. 28 ff.,

295

One particularly notices a large temple of four-of angular shape, surrounded by a peristyle, a building that

It may have been 300 feet long and 60 feet wide.
 The walls are four feet thick. The interior is divided into various...
 Apartments divided. The form of the whole is a measure.
 of pyramidal buildings on a base in elongated four-Corners that rise sloping downwards above each other. In front of the façade, which faces east, there is a large staircase from hewn stones, which lead to the main entrance. In
 In the middle of the building rises a structure approximately 75 feet high.
 Tower, which probably served as a belvedere, and whose four Floors still untouched. The staircase leading up—led, is located in the middle and is surrounded by windows—bright, which can be found on every side and on every floor.
 The building's design is, on the whole, delicate and Simple. Enormous cellars extend beneath the temple.
 which do not yet appear to have been searched. The walls are carved in stone and covered with very fine plaster—
 The figures were usually seven to seven in number and covered in bas-reliefs.
 eight feet high. A bas-relief was found in Palenque depicting a alleged veneration of the cross and about which
 Our archaeologists have written very learnedly about this.
 The bas-relief shows a large cross of la— in the center.
 (Teinian form with a second one on top of the first). The
 The three upper arms of the two crosses terminate in three ver—a crescent moon, and the foot of the great cross rests on a semi-elliptical support, on a heart whose
 The upper part bears the figure of an 8 in a horizontal position. Above the
 On the cross there is a rooster with a double tail, which is in Schnabel holds a semi-circular cap. To the left of the cross.
 You can see a woman holding a newborn child on her left

1) Consider the so-called Egyptian Tau, crux ansata, Creuzer, Symbol. 2nd ed. 2nd part. p. 512 ff.; cf. Humboldt, critische Untersuchungen, überf. von Ideler, 1. BS 544 f.

296

arms held and the same to a standing priest in priest-wander next to one consisting of two opposing spirals Formed seats are sufficient. The child lies on two lotus two-gen; its head ends in a crescent moon, from whose

The tip of the upward-pointing ray disc emerges. Towards Behind the head emerge two lotus leaves, and his body per, which also ends in a leaf, is divided by four Small spheres separated from the woman's hand. That The cross on the cross is supported along its entire length by four semicircles surround each other, two and two facing each other.
 Stand. From each of the arms of the great outer cross.
 A straight branch extends from it, which turns at a right angle
 ligen Haken mit divergieren und von kleinen Kugeln gehen
 The rays end. This large painting is from Basre.
 surrounded by figures and characters. The Scarab is found several times on both side stripes, and on the right
 The cross is depicted as two crossed ellipses.
 Several medallions feature a right-angled cross with equal parts, and on one it carries four balls, whose Each corresponds to one of its corners. On another medal
 From here you can see the T and below it an ellipse, which is a closes in a second ellipse, forming an arc with a Py
 The pyramid above it contains two spheres. Two spheres are located above a... and one below. In this painting and in the Character stripes around them have our European archaeo
 They claimed to have seen real hieroglyphs. Furthermore, they believed that... that these hieroglyphs in many respects the Egyptian-like«). Don Alonso, an inhabitant from La Paz, spoke during a visit to the ruins of Tiahua Naco to a traveler as follows: "The gate that you to see before oneself and its admirable preservation of The durability of the building had to withstand all storms.
 defied, for it did not tempt the conquerors' greed. His

l) Orbigny, aa OS 257 ff.

297

Size and dimensions, as well as the strangeness of the architectural design
 The system to which it belongs testifies to the existence of a People, whom I consider older and more powerful than the Qui Chua Nation, or the Inca people. Just look at this one.
 piled-up hill and on it these colossal statues,
 these rooms enclosed by enormous pillars; consider

These massive buildings, whose stones are of a large size hardly which are inferior to the buildings of ancient Egypt, under-Look for this gate with sculptures in relief, whose main-
 The most objective points undoubtedly reveal the importance which one the condor, which served as a political emblem of the Great and of fame, or rather as a special object—was regarded with veneration. Not all witnesses of this... objects from the existence of an older and further advanced—tenen Civilifation, als die der Inca's feselst war, einer Civilisation, of which the latter, however imposing they may be-may seem to have been only a remnant? 1) In the same sense Alcide d'Orbigny expresses himself in the introduction to the picturesque Travel in South America and North America. "Before I," he says, "of
 I believe I am speaking of the historical period of the Inca Empire.
 I have to say a word about the monuments that consist of to write of an earlier time and from no historical tradition
 These structures are those of Tiahuanaco.
 on the shore of Lake Titicaca, at the top of the Andes, in the heart of the Aymara nation. I have built immeasurable structures.
 investigates which might indicate an even higher civilization-gen, than those of the Incas, and which one cannot compare to others-can change; one must find a center of civilization here-hen, who is at least as old as the one from Palenque, and probably also in the grandeur of the buildings not inferior. These are particularly characterized by the un-the current size of the hewn stone blocks from which they exist, and must have been brought from a great distance, because

1) Orbigny, aa OS 217.

298

one can only find this type of stone at great distances — a
 A fact, of which one can find an example only in the old Egypt is found. In the middle of a wide plain,
 a tumulus 100 feet high supported by rows of columns.
 It is surrounded by several temples, ranging from 3 to 500 feet in height.

Each façade has colossal pilasters and monoliths-Porticoes exist and are covered with flat reliefs, which

To imagine allegories and very regularly perform them, even if They are crudely drawn. You also see colossal statues with all-Gorian sculptures, which always depict the sun and the condor, their Messengers, imagine 1). What this symbolic condor be-
 When one encounters such a thing, one thinks of the monstrous Simurgh or Anka.
 of the oriental myth, that wise bird king, which the first trusted state councilor of the pre-Adamian Solomon Islands and was the Genie Emperor, and still alone on the Ge-Birge Kaf lives, of whom the whole Orient speaks and whom no one saw him. He is probably a reminder of the living in isolation, avoiding the dwellings of other people American giant vulture, vultur gryphus, which is what the concerns the largest individuals, which can be found in the Andes chain around Guito finds it measures 14 feet with wings extended, and whose habitual residence is in a region that is in the height of Etna begins 2). The pre-Adamian Solomon-

1) Orbigny, Introduction. p. V. It is written of the Inca Viracocha that he had two symbolic condors erected on high columns, and at Several distinguished people adorned themselves at the great Peruvian Sun Festival.
 Peruvians (Curacas) with the feathers of the condor, as a symbol of the Ab-Stammung von ihm, Baumgarten, aa O. 2. Th. S. 291. 227.

2) "Higher than the conical mountain of Tenerife on the snow-covered Hounds of the Pyrenees towered higher than all the peaks of the Andes range.
 Hovering above us was Cundur, the giant among vultures. Predatory lust.
 and imitation of the soft-wooled vicuñas, which are chamois-like and herds swarm in the snow-covered grasslands, attracting the mæch-
 "A common bird in these regions." Humboldt, Views of Nature, 2nd ed.
 P. 2 and 58 ff. and the recueil d' observations de zoologie et d'ana-tomie comparee, vol. I.p. 62.

299

But they, whose mythical glory is based on the Hebrew was transferred to Solomon, at whose court
 once the giant bird prince Simurg as vizier and representativesentant of the bird sex appears, this ancient dynasty of djinn world monarchs, whose universal rule with the appearance of the Adamic human race to its end went, probably actually refers to a real, American^sches Urreich, which through a red, self Adam, i.e. red man (Hebrew adam, red) called gender ge= has been crashed 1). The Mexicans may be involved. Otomie's, these ancient red inhabitants of Anahuac, in their language lady, man — cf. Cochimí tama, tamma, tamma, Mensch — means, as well as the He^s related Edomites, who were from Esau Edom, the Rothen, derived from, and even Edom and Adomi — with the same basic meaning as Adam — are called, in Memories come. A city called Adam, and a Adami, also named Adami, appears in the Book of Joshua 2). And Adma was the name of one of the five cities that were associated with the Thale Siddim perished. A difference and contrast. The color in old America can be determined even according to the standards of 'present and historically known Indian body' The color is very well received. The Indians Ame^s Not all rikas are red. "The color is very masculine."

1) JD Hunter, an Englishman who in his childhood was among the North American Indians came and "memorable events fine "Staying among the savages" writes, states: "The Indians — red people are distinguished from white and black people, and They tend to be very proud of their skin color. For a special Their dark copper-red color signifies bravery; paleness of Skin, on the other hand, is a sign to them of being soft, cowardly, and effeminate. Nature." Hunter was finer color because of the Native American Kna^s Ben mocked them by claiming that every white person was a squah, i.e. a woman, as an insult in contrast to an Indian warrior needed.

2) Jos. 3:16 and 19:33.

300

"Wrinkled," Orbigny says, "North Americans find it copper-colored and reddish, the Peruvians, Patagonians and other peoples of the south dark, and the peoples of the dark forests yellow^s light and almost white «). Some remarks by Humboldt The following are true about this object. »If the similar Skin color of the American tribe northward coppersmith and red appears, so it is with the Chaymas dark brown and close to tan. The name roth= copper-colored people would be used to describe the inhabitants Bornen in den Aequinoctialgegenden nie entfseien « 2). Native Americans with light brown skin saw Humboldt and Bonpland in Esmeralda and near the sources of the Orinoco 3). »In the northeastern part of America one encounters Tribes whose children are white and who only at the time of their Manhood, the color of the natives of Peru and Mexico accept. Michikinakoua, the head of the Miamis, was on the arms and the parts not exposed to the sun of the body almost white. Westward from the Miamis at the Kolouchen and Tfchinkitans of Norfolk Bay show the adult girls, when they are told to Wash, the white color of Europeans. Precisely this white According to some news reports, paint will also be applied under the mountain. encountered in Chile «). — »They are found among the native tribes of America from a very little dark color, similar to that of the Arabs and Moors. The peoples along the Rio Negro are less black-brown than the on the lower Orinoco, and yet the climate there is fresher than Here. Several whitish species live in the forests of Guiana. Tribes that, without a trace of the disease of Albinos exist, who have the color of true mestizos. They never mixed with Europeans and are surrounded by

- 1) Orbigny, Introduction. p. VII. ö |
- 2) Humboldt, Reife 2. Th. p. 189. 3) Ibid. 245.
- 4) That. p. 251.

301

of blackish-brown stems. — Below 54%, 10° north= of a certain width to Cloak-Bai, right among natives who a copper color and small, very elongated eyes. have, reveals a tribe with large eyes, European facial features and skin that is less brown than the our farmers « 1). Jesus Eckhart in fine additions P. Cudenas' description of Brazil says: "On the river

Xingu was a nation called Coriberé, which was settled by white people. surpassed many Europeans" 2). In the works of Ternaux-Compans Published old reports mention white Native American women mentioned and at one point it says: "We saw an Indian woman, who was as white as a Spanish woman, except that who had painted her chin like a Moor." Ibid.

There is an old Native American legend about white, bearded people. before), as are, of course, the mythical prophets.

and cultural founders of America, Quetzalcoatl and Bochica.

(should be fine). "The Carapachos at the Marañon," says one Spanish travel report, "are white and have extremely strong Beard. The same was said by the missionary P. Narciso Girval de Barcelo noticed among the numerous tribe of Chipeos."

– "The Sipibos or Supebos distinguish themselves from their neighbors."

barn by their long, knitted dresses, which resembled a

They resemble tunics. Many have a white complexion.

among them « 5). But that the Hebrews were originally redder, smoother, i.e. the beard and body hair, except for the Australian-American person who pulls out their head hair

There is much to suggest that they were a human tribe. For example, what the Color refers to: the name Adam, the Red, for man,

the Heliopolitan tradition that Moses, and the biblical,

1) Humboldt, Essai politique de la new Espagne, p. 82 ff.

2) Murr, aa OS 522, cf. p. 32.

3) Ternaux-Compans, Amerika, Meissen 1839, pp. 99, 180, 200.

4) Orbigny, op. p. IV. f. Clavigero, op. cit. 1st Th. p. 350.

5) Fischer, Contributions to a more precise knowledge of the Spanish possession= genes in America, Dresden 1802, p. 258. 262 f.

302

that Esau and David were red men, but especially

the Jewish legend of the Red Jews, Hebrew

Relatives with purple faces,

who live on the other side of the Sambatjon, a mythical river,

in which the apparent memory of a northern sea
 It contains the division between Asia and America. If one considers the traditional description of Moses' appearance reads, which tells us Eusebius preserved it, so it is believed that it was the remains of an original inhabitant.
 from Australia and America, of tall stature, red
 To read color and strong hair growth: Yeyovarzi de Ono. r Mwvoyy Hvhoç, muppany, Houyrary) — cf.
 which was a mission report from the inhabitants of the eastern Australia says: "The color of this sex is high copper."
 well-behaved; his hair hangs long over his shoulders.
 downwards; the men are tall and slim, mostly over 6 feet high « 2) — or what Humboldt said about the Caribs:
 "I haven't found an entire tribe of slimmer ones anywhere."
 and seen colossal, highly educated people. Since their bodies dyed with onoto (roucou), that's how their large figures look.
 of copper-red color and picturesquely draped from afar
 Ancient bronze statues rising towards the sky on the steppe (equal to 5). — "They have extremely long and black hair,
 "They comb them often and rub them with oil," says de la Borde of fine island Caribbean), and Clavigero of fine Mexicans: "They have thick, black, strong, shining hair 5). Esau Edom, the Red, is described as such
 * the expression admoni * just fo David ©), and

1) Eusebius. prepar. Gospel 9, 27.

2) Basel Mission Magazine 1838, pp. 157, 159.

3) A. v. Humboldt, Reise, Vol. 5, p. 11. Cf. Ternaux & Compans aa O. 1. BS 178: "The Indians I saw in Florida, to see, as they are very large and completely naked, like giants in the distance."

4) Travels of Father Labat, by Schad, 1. BS 435.

5) Clavigero, op. cit. 1st Th. p. 126.

6) 1 Moses. 25, 25 and 30. 1 Sat. 16, 12. j 17, 42.

303

the latter, who according to Arabic legend was also a tattooist), proves that the Hebrews were also partly red in Asia

Humans were, like their relatives the Phoenicians, likewise, which are known by this very name (Poune, roth) as a red human tribe. A weighty
In contrast, there is the white Laban, whom Jacob serves and whose daughters he marries, Hebrew laban, meaning white. That Jacob Serving the father-in-law for the daughters is an old American.
Canarian law, which was valid in Guatemala, as well as a custom (according to what Carver found among the Nado-Wessians); for so it is Here everything is Australian and American, step by step, and as To recognize such things even now, after thousands of years. Furthermore, that Esau was a hairy man, but Jacob was a smooth man (3).
means that he is rubbing the hair of his body against his... wahnntem australisch-amerikanischen Gebrauchen verschwendender —
with the root withdrawing — human being, cf. here about Volney, Loskiel, Adair, Carver and others. The one to The latter, for example, says: "The men believe that a
They disfigure their beards badly and therefore expend a great deal of effort to improve them.
to free them from it. That's how they keep everyone else's hair.
grew her body to be ugly, and both sexes turned much time on the eradication of the same «). The guana's In Paraguay, the hairs of the beard and eyebrows are pulled.
and the eyelids from 5), and Barlaus says of fine
Brazilians: "They only have hair on their heads, otherwise..."
They suffer none and fight it out everywhere). From the Residents of Otaheiti Island were quoted as saying: "They draw every hair located in the nose, armpits, etc. «), and of those from the Pelev Islands: "Few carry a

1) Rofenöl, 1. BS 140.

2) Orbigny, aa OS 235. Carver, aa OS 314.

3) 1 Moses. 27, 11. 4) Carver, aa OS 193 f.

5) Orbigny, aa OS 136.

6) Barlaus, Brazilian History, p. 69.

7) Missionary journey to the southern still sea, p. 554.

Beard; they usually tear it out. From the women
 Some have very long hair; but otherwise...
 Both sexes tear themselves apart when it comes to hair on their bodies. everywhere: from «). But there is also no lack of the in the Genesis through Esau's hairiness denoted the contrast. Thus Orbigny says: "If the Guarani are almost beardless, then..."
 They have among them the Guarayos, who are truly patriotic.
 possess an archaic beard." — "Several of the Guahibos had beard and seemed proud of this ornament « 2). And Gilii: » Among so many beardless ones and the hair of the body, Even people who pull out their eyelashes, there are some,
 who take care of their beards. The king of Ojis often touched his chin with pleasure, and rejoiced (that the missionaries also had beards). Then after our system Everything in the Hebrew folk history, what happened before the exodus from Egypt (America), still not in Asia and Africa, but in Australia and America, and in the latter part of the world everything happens that according to Abraham's Exit from Ur (Hawaji) except for Israel's train from Egypt
 As ten proceeds, we have the white Laban as a white to grasp the people and tribes of America; and that such people and tribes down to our time in That it has been seen in America has already been proven above. From Jacob and the daughters of White Laban lead the Rolf Sanne — here) whereby this appears as a mix

1) Plant's Gersefäisung, ,und Gefhichte Pospnest ine, . und Gera 1789, 2. BS 250. a

2) Orbigny, a a. O. p. VII of the introduction and p. 41.

3) Gilt, News from the Country of Guiana, by Sprengel, p. 249.
 Compare, besides what has already been touched upon earlier: Pfefferkorn, ibid., 2nd part.
 p. 11 with the writings cited here; Father, investigations about America, p. 74 f., the aforementioned Volney, the savage with he saw astonishingly long armpit hair, and Humboldt "Journey into the Aequi nightlife areas, 3rd part, pp. 200 and 493, where especially those with dense bearded Pabipais and the partly even on The speech was about the hairy-chested Guarani. *

people referred to as folches already from high antiquity originates. The red color gradually faded within him and It only occasionally appeared as a rarity, which, like the highlighting of David as a red man shows, a still valued advantage was. Higher up, above the origin of the twelve tribes Looking back, the Hebrew people only recognize the red tribe. as his own; appointed by the three sons of Noah Ham, Cham as the black (dyn, Arabic black fine, Hebrew: dn, black), Japheth (Japetos, the Hellenic father) of the human race) as the white tribe, so that for Shem, the “father of all Eber’s sons”, the red tribe¹ If color remains, compare the three whites mentioned above², red and black companions of Noah in the Book of Enoch. As for the Sambatjon River, over which the red ones Jews live there, so it is called the Sabbath River, which the resting, still one (Hebrew: shabbath, to rest), also the stone river (nehar abanim); it dries up according to legend after and transforms into a white one, the snow same sand — all hints of a freezing and frozen water, he separates »the great in— dien «, one cannot reach him without necessary ent³ Sanctification of the Sabbath by peoples and wildernesses; he lies above the desert of Calicut beyond the scattered across Asia Jewish genders and limits a large country with many Countries and kingdoms where "a beautiful, large, thick Wheat grows and where countless Jews live, which Mountains of gold and a hundredweight of gold for a hundredweight Give iron, which is the only thing lacking — one knows the scarcity and value of iron tools among the inhabitants born America's 2), and in the »beautiful, big, thick

1) Genesis 10:21

1) In an old pamphlet (in Humboldt, critical investigations⁴

gen, 3. BS 181) it says: "The natives lack iron and give up everything they own to obtain a hoe. The Daumer, Feuer~~z~~ and Moloch service. 20

-4

306

Wheat! You will easily recognize American corn;
Sabatjon continues to roll stones — in the Berings Road,
which in winter are characterized by enormous, tightly packed
If the ice rinks are closed, you can see ice even in summer.
Clods of earth drift about; at times he lets out a terrible roar,
like the loudest thunder, to hear; — compare with that One can find the following words from Wrangel's Requirement along the North~~z~~ coast of Siberia and on the Arctic Ocean: "Even in the full In summer, the sea here is filled with large and small ice floes.
covered, tossed back and forth by winds and currents~~z~~ driven and in somewhat stronger storms an un~~z~~
to give a written performance. One must face the monstrous Uproar of the raging element, which is raised by the same

"The hoes and spades of the Native Americans are mostly made of stone." Even the
The oldest knives of the Hebrews were made of stone, and it is most noticeable.
It is worthy that the Bible places such great value on iron; 5. Mof.
8, 9 Jehovah leads his people into a land whose stones are iron are, and Deuteronomy 33:24 promises the Asherah: "Iron and
"Ore be your bar" — as we are told in the proverb "golden Mountains promise. But where does the memory of the American age remain?
Since the thing should be preserved, iron had to stay away, hence 5 Mof.
27:5ff.: "You shall build the altar of the Lord with unhewn stones, of your God, build, not fall upon you swing an iron over it — because Jehovah (Pohewah, Jawahu, see above) is an American God was; cf. Joshua 8:31 and 2 Mobots 20:25. The Canaan, in which Moses led his people must necessarily have been a land of the egg~~z~~
They are called sens because Eisen gives the American Hebrew the
The most delicious thing was; but Canaan, in which Israel was before the great Desert trains, emigrants from America, accustomed to the American

Original Canaan was a land of gold, and Abraham and fine
 Their descendants had an abundance of silver and gold there, 1 Mos.
 13, 2. Judith 5, 9: "and they dwelt in Canaan and became rich in Gold and silver" according to the Greek; Genesis 24:22 gives Abraham's servant Eliezer gave Rebecka a golden nose ring, like him the Carib women, according to Volney the Louisiana Indians, of silver and wear copper in the pierced nostril ("nose and lower lip of the Guatemala Indians wear rings" (Orbigny, p. 236) — and what the Israelites during their exodus from American Egypt for Bring treasures, find gold and silver, Exodus 12:35.

307

hurled, grooved masses of ice and fine foam:
 I saw mountains, one must hear the thunderous roar of the
 the icebergs crashing together, the terrible hissing who heard them during their fall, in order to take a precaution to take a stand on the whole thing «). It is also by two kings living on the other side of the Sambatjon,
 one of them was warlike, sometimes traveling over 17 miles.
 I'll draw a broad samba and do everything with fire and sword.
 one devastates, but the other is a supremely gentle ruler.
 be and have a carbuncle which is made of precious stones and Pearl-built castle, illuminated like the sun 2). This suggests American gemstone cult; in the Peruvian
 In the city of Manta, people worshipped an emerald that was of a certain size.
 an ostrich egg; this was placed at large festivals.
 for everyone's inspection and the Americans came from distant places to worship him « 3). These are true Jewish legends also with the Greek ones from the island
 Meropia agree. Old Silenus said to the Phrygian Kings Midas, there are besides Europe, Africa and Asia
 an even larger country, an immeasurable continent.
 There were two cities there, Machimos, the warlike one,
 and Eusebes, the pious one; in the latter lived the inhabitants ner in peace, The inhabitants of the former but feien fo streit-bar, that the children were already born armed and most of them fell in the war. They were once sent to the sub-Europe's dismissal, but out of contempt again returned to their homeland, where they had gold and silver in

1) "Das Ausland" of 1839, No. 361, p. 1441.

2) On the Sambatyon, the Red Jews, etc. See Eisenmenger.

discovered Judaism, Vol. 2, pp. 533 ff.; land treasure, ecclesiastical associations

Version of the Jews, Erlangen 1748, 4th part, pp. 262 and 265, and Oertel,

"What do the Jews believe?" Bamberg 1823, pp. 189 ff. Even the

The latter knows a story that is significant for the history of Israel, indeed for all of humanity.

Such an important national memory is met only with scorn and contempt.
treat.

3) Baumgarten, loc. cit. 2nd Th. p. 340.

20*

308

so large a quantity that these metals would be in smaller quantities Values stood when, in our case, the sulfur 1). To the Ge:

Principles of character, which are here of Jews and Greeks

As has been emphasized, this was already the case at the time of the discovery of America.

the empires of Peru and Mexico analogous; for if the

The Incas fought, and this was the only way to defeat barbaric peoples.

to civilize, with gentleness and only in the case that over-

The discussion remained fruitless. Those genies of Solomon in the Orient-

Talish legends already express a peaceful sentiment in their very name.

mild disposition. The names Djinn, Djan —

Jan Ben Oshan was the name of the first and last of the pre-Adamites.

Genie emperor, and as Eve was born from Adam's rib, so it was from the rib of the jinn father Jan Ben Jan the Creating the mother of the Osage race — has been done with compared to the Sanskrit word jana, which person,

Man, human being means; at the same time it seems highly significant.

and characteristically too fine, that jana, jani, jan,

dschin in Egyptian means tender, gentle, gentle, mild, kind.

2) The name Solomon is associated with the calm, non-warlike

The Irish government, incidentally, is by no means mild and gentle.

Kings referred to 3) and from shalam, in peace, prosperity live, have peace and friendship, shalom, health, well-being-

to be, happiness, peace, friendship, derived; it asks

However, it should be determined whether these meanings are not of a secondary nature and from the peaceful, mild, happy and blissful Lord:

the shaft of those Osinians and Solomonians are derived, so that

This latter name actually means something completely different, namely

Ruler, regent means, cf. in America Tara humara seli, command, selimea, empire). From the simpler

1) Theopompus ap. Aclian. var. histor. III. 18.

2) Cf. Koran von Wahl, Halle 1828, p. 633, the collection

Herbelot's, on the pre-Adamian legends of the Orient, and Rosendl, 1. BS 13 ff.

3) 1 Chron. 22:9, according to which the meaning of the Peaceful is.

4) Mithridates, 3rd Th. III. pp. 149 - 151.

309

Form without the attached in ift wol door, the Schilo or ruler named, whom the blessing of Jacob promises), with which the one mentioned in the treatise on Moloch service to compare the American name of God, Shilu; but also

This is where the second meaning comes in, so that one can also could explain this word through pacificus, Prince of Peace, cf.

schala, shalaw, to be calm, to find peace and happiness

Rejoice. According to an oriental myth, Solomon, dying, took a position by which he could help the deceived DOzhinnen

as he appeared alive on his throne 2). Here too, the connection is made to remember the name of this Hebrew king

from America. The embalmed bodies of the Peruvians

Kings were magnificently dressed and ceremonially placed in the Temple of the Sun.

golden thrones were set up so that they seemed too fine to live 3)

The body of Xolotl, the first king of the Chechemeca in Anähuac, ward on a chair of rubber copal and'

all sorts of aromatic substances were added, and thus remained five Days stand still. The same thing happened with the body of his neighbor.

Successor. That of another, King Quinatzin, was opened, embalmed after the entrails were removed, in

He was seated on a chair in royal regalia and for forty days (exhibited). These Chechemeca worshipped the sun, and offered her herbs, flowers and copal gum as a sacrifice 5). a cult that differed from the gruesome sacrificial practices of the Aztecs and other similar peoples of America sharply separates, and with that of the ancient Appalachians in Florida and related to the Peruvian Incas. From the five ponds and educated Tolteca's, the predecessors of the Chichimecals in Anahuac, whose kingdom was ravaged by famine and plague destroyed — it is also known that they destroyed those religious

97 Genesis 40:10.

| 22 Nose oil, 1. BS 255.

3; Baumgarten, da O. 2 * p. 221.

4) Clavigero, op. cit. 1st Th. P. 151, 156, 158.

5) That. p. 143.

310

They practiced atrocities, and Quetzalcoatl, whom they worshipped, was so gentle and had such an aversion to all cruelty Possibilities that he didn't even hear the name of the war could). All of these mitigate regional and national characteristics. America's seem to be remnants and echoes of those ancient djinns and Solomon's reign in the American continent to be, partly through rising wildness or their wildness blending with a degree of assumed culture Pariahs and Adamites, whose character is revealed to us in its most perfect form mensts in the gruesome religious cult of the ancient Aztecs in Mexico, as well as in that of the Canaanite and Phoenician The peoples of our hemisphere show this in a pronounced way, partly through large-scale events leading to state dissolution and migration of peoples The natural events were shaken and ended. One Remember here that Hyksos of Manetho, which once Egypt was conquered and tyrannized for several centuries. should have, and in whose history the history of the Hebrews and their exodus from Egypt is intertwined with this. These are all American primal stories and touch on the African Not Egypt. Manetho tells of the fortifications, which the Hyksos established; here those old Be present themselves. works of enigmatic origin that can be found in North America between the Rocky Mountains and the Alleghani-mountain range found, for comparison. A. v. Humboldt

 The following is communicated about them. "All square forts are just as precisely oriented as the Egyptian and Mexican ones.
 Niche pyramids. The walls of these fortification lines are mostly listed from earth, but two miles from chili-Cothe, in the state of Ohio, there is a stone structure.
 built a wall that was 12-15 feet high and 5-8 feet wide
 "It has thickness, and forms a capture of 80 acres."
 "These military monuments should not detract from the hills or tumulus not mixed, which thousands of legs-

1) Clavigero, a. a OS 139. 351. 388.

fi

311

skeleton of a short, barely 5-foot-tall human-tribal content. Brackenridge believes it may be slightly near an 3000 tumulus of 20 — 100 feet height between the Mouths of the Ohio, the Illinois, the Missouri and the Rio San Francisco be present, and the amount of it the contained leg skeleton must have been the formerly strong population These regions will be represented. These monuments, which one considers burial sites of great atrocities, mostly at Confluence of streams on the river used for trade
 The best points were hit. The basis of the cumulus is round or oval; they are mostly cone-shaped, at the top sometimes flattened, as if they were for victims or others Ceremonies determined, which are attended by a large crowd of people.
 They should be seen early; see my views of the Cordilleras.
 p. 35. Near Point Creek and Saint Louis finds those with 2 and 3 floors, their Formen remind us of the Mexican teocallis and the steps-pyramids of Egypt and West Asia. The tumu—Lus are partly made of earth, partly of one another.
 built of laid stones. Axes and colored tools were placed in it.
 Porcelain, copper vessels and ornaments, a little iron and perhaps gold was found. Some of these hills, which only Those with few feet either stand in the center or in the proximity of the circular entrenchments; they resemble the cerritos hechos a mano, those in the Kingdom of Quito, in the Near Cayambe adoratorios de los Indians antiguos are called;

 They were either tribunes from which one could attend the assembly
 "Melten Volke sprach, oder Opferstätten." I bring here
 the sacrificial highnesses, bamoth, of the ancient Hebrews in Er—memory, which with the touched, already by Gesenius in his preface to Gramberg's religious ideas are intimately related to the aforementioned American phenomena would like to. "Sometimes," H. continues, "where they are 20–25
 Having a foot height, they can be used for a kind of observatory, for Detection of the movements of a nearby enemy, viewed 312

The large tumuluses will be 80 to 150 feet high.
 They usually stand alone, but at other times they also appear with the Fortifications with which they are connected, same age to have. These latter ones deserve special attention.
 I know neither in southern America, nor on the old Mainland something similar to them. Exceptionally strange
 The regularity of the polygonal and circular patterns appears.
 figures and the small ones, to cover the entrance gates
 The works were in harmony. It is not known whether there were any versions with their own features.
 proper plots of land or defensive walls against enemy
 liche Volker find, or entrenched camps, as in the central Asia « 1). Assall, after he had been informed by these North American traded in antiquities, says of the vanished people, of which they testify, the following: "that it has been for many centuries"
 who stayed in these areas and covered a large area
 The area it occupied, the size of Europe, can be seen from the close numerous burial sites that contain the bones are overrun with people of all ages; so much so that They lived together in cities or communities. South from Columbus on Scioto, Paint Creek, Muskingum, Ohio, Grab-Bach, etc. were their settlements on strongest, and that once the Mississippi Valley was much stronger Whether people were, as now, is beyond doubt.

Many of these hills contain a number of skeletons and Bones, and those along the large Grabbach stream and most rivers are filled with millions of human bones. It had to this ancient people engage in considerable agriculture and animal husbandry, because hunting alone, this way of life of the Indians, could not feed such a large number of people « 2). Assall also compares a number of similar phenomena in our Hemisphere. "If we," he says, "Pennant's maturity through Wales to consult and the description and copper from Deloins or Juch= I am Flusse Tay 5 be=

5 Humboldt, Reif, 5. A0. p. 305 . 2) Assall, aa OS 80.

313

If we strive, we will bear a great resemblance to the old ones. Don't overlook the works on the Licking River near Neu-Ark. Pennant will call it Romans, but Boethius will call it Picts, who called it Tulina, attributed it to Comeril's camp. The Zuchel river lies on a high, flooded area Boden, as well as the antiquities of Ardock on the River Kneck; the ramparts, ditches, gateways, the hills in front, behind and within They bear the greatest resemblance to the unfree ones. Pennant considers it a work of the Romans; others, however, maintain that They have more right to be of Pictish origin. Likewise, they procure is Catter-Thum, two miles from Argus, likewise the Works on the river Loder or Lowther and on the Cimet, etc. This writer describes many more such ages— thumpers in Scotland, England, Wales, Ireland and more-different other British islands, of which very many because of their similarity to the American ones, they are being considered. to be drawn. They served the Pictish people, of the 'So called Romans because of their custom of be— paint, like the Aborigines of America, as places religious rites, such as burial and defense Places. On the road from St. Petersburg to Moscow One comes across a number of conical hillocks, beneath which those between Yezolbisky and Valdav on both sides the road, from where they seem to extend to Jedrova, They are the strangest. But you don't find them alone. here, but across all of Russia and across the steppes of the Tartary and Turkey spread. A few miles from Wornetz on the road to Paulowsky has some very well preserved. The inhabitants of Tartary frequently make use of it. this hill for the construction of cellars, and at this opportunity- Today the content was sometimes discovered, as Edw. Dan. told us. Clarke during his journey through Russia, Turkey and Tatarstan in the year 1800. Vases were found whose dimensions corresponded to those in England, Scotland, Wales and North America. The findings found in niche countries are consistent. Clarke recounts further, that he had a place in Tartary called "Inverness", which lies in the bend of a river. When asked about the meaning of this name, he received the answer that he, in their language, "in the curvature of a river" means. Let us compare this to Pennington's works, so we find a record with a city in Scotland, which lies in the bend of a river, with the same name. Quite a few rivers in Scotland, England and Wales use names which we know from the rivers of the Tartari will be found in great similarity. It will be there reinforced by the assumption that the British Isles would become first by Scythians or their descendants, the Tartars, be populated, and the fact that the Scottish, narrow Lish, Welsh and Asian antiquities of these species in so many of their circumstances differ only slightly from American ones deviating, is based on the opinion that America is a related tribe, but from the west, populated was « 1). Shouldn't those traces simply lead the way to draw the American peoples through Asia and Have they taken over Europe, except for the British Isles? Should those painted Picts 2) not have been Americans be? Or do they perhaps want to see them spread throughout America and Australia's native and prevailing custom is to clean the body to paint and tattoo 3), by migrating Picts

314

1) A Ball, aa OS 76 ff. é

2) Britanni has the same meaning as Picti: "painted or tattooed people”, see Mone, History of Nordic Heathenry, Vol. 2. p. 423 ff. Brut is the name given to the first king of Britain, Hebrew. barod, speckled, spotted, colorful. Most of all takes place in the Americas= Red coloring instead, but also multicolored coloring with red, white, Black, blue, green. The Hebrew princes were colored in a variety of colors after Lamentations 4:7: “Their princes were brighter than snow, whiter than...” Milk, redder were they on the body than coral, like sapphire their garments “Salt” — a splendor that Kaspar Hauser greatly enjoyed. would, see my communications on Kaspar Hauser, 1st issue, pp. 28 f. 3) This phenomenon is also seen on the East Indian islands.

315

derive? Do we want to perpetually maintain the flare, such a great absurdity? deeds, the leading opinion, is that everything is from our Hemisphere must have been exited — an opinion that in the story may be the same as what in astronomy the The view that the sun moves around the earth — ?

Finally, one more thing. That the detailed Treatment of the topic suggested in this, our last essay objects that would be the subject of a separate, major work, It is easy to judge. Such a work, an explanation the biblical primeval stories through Australia and America, is It has already been designed, but I would prefer to wait several years before implementing it. can come to light. For a concise overview of the To give some basic ideas, the following was already presented some time ago. according to information I received from a magazine Advertisement, to which I would like to add some notes here.

The work in question was, in fact, "in which reveals the biblical primeval stories in a completely new way be illuminated and the Hebrew people with all their Semitic kinship and several other peoples= communities of our hemisphere as from Australia and America originating from and emigrating to [the region] is proven. The whole The long journey will be undertaken with the help of biblical documents, Australian, American, Jewish and Egyptian traditional tions, geographic, ethnological and natural science= richer notes, surviving architectural works of the antiquity and linguistic agreements still almost

This is how people live on Luzon, the largest of the Philippine islands. Slaves, who go almost completely naked and cover their face and body with paint, hence also called Pintados (painted ones) by the Spanish; Plant, Geography and History of Polynesia, 1. BS 532 u. 602. So Picts here too.

316

1

Let them follow it step by step. The Hebrews went, according to the sub-provisions that have developed into the most specific provisions of Researches of the author, from the Society Islands of the South Sea, namely from the island of Raiatea; from there they set they over to the Sandwich Islands to the north and lived on Hawaii Island, where their religion was fire and Volcano cult with human sacrifice was 2). From the sand The islands fell under the rule of Thor, the father of Abraham. to America and spread eastward and South of this continent to a time when the The Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea not yet 1) Raiatea, O Raiatea, Raiatea, also Raiatea (Miffion ripeness into's (southern part of the sea, p. 54), was the main seat and motherland of the former The religious cult of the South Seas. "The king of the island was also The high priest of all the surrounding islands and fine. Name. was deified Tert. Human sacrifices were brought here from all neighboring islands. brought and dedicated to the god of war (Oro). Pilgrims made their way here. the idolaters with their priests, to indoctrinate themselves in the fatherly faith Strengths. Here, a system of absolute priestly power was combined with royal tyranny and formed a since time immemorial for un "Violence held in check." Basel Mission Magazine 1827, p. 223, and 1832, p. 271. Here one even still has the Jewish physics. siognomies found, missionary journey into the southern still sea, p. 223. The Raiatea of Phoenician-Greek antiquity was Crete, where the Athenians sent their youth to be sacrificed, and from this island, which also bears their name, Raiatea, Raiatea of the South Seas

It sounds like, according to an old legend, the Jews are said to have come from there, Tacitus, Histories.

5.2. Recall that above in the treatise on the Molochdienst on Rajatea a kind of labyrinth and Minotaur ge found, and so one becomes in this Molochist ruler- and prize

ster Island an original Crete recognize, as we otherwise know it in this sub

Search with an original Egypt and original Canaan in the West and have to do with East America. 5

2) The Fire Island of Hawaii with its volcano, its Ora district and their god Uri is, according to the above, the biblical Ur, Hebrew ur, meaning fire.

On the Society Islands reigned the cruel service of the Oiro, who described as "the general Moloch of the South Sea Islanders",

See Mission Magazine 1833, p. 46, cf. pp. 16 and 36, year 1832.

pp. 271, 273, cf. pp. 131 ff. Doro, Ooroo can be found in Cook,

Oroo, Oraa, named as gods of the South Seas, in the aforementioned Missionary journeys bring the names of gods and princes Ura, Ur aa, uru, compare Egyptian uro, king. The meaning king is probably the original one; fire as lord and god (melech, molech) of the fire service was the name of the king, ur = melech, molech, and fo,

ward ur the name of fire, Latin urere. ' 122 2

317

existirte, but in these areas American mainland

was. As an immigrant from the Australian afterlife.

(Eber) was the name Abraham Ibri, the Other Sider, as was his people.

Ibrim and Sons of Eber. In the West of America, it flourished there.

once a cultivated Egyptian empire, from which the African-to come from the Canian Egyptians; to this Egypt, not to

In the African context, the Hebrews came into a relationship with the

to stand in bondage; from this Egypt Moses led her to North America and across the frozen Berings

street, the Sambatyon of Jewish legend and the sea,

Jehovah made firm ground, across to Asia. The famous, multi-year desert trek of Israel, which involved an entire ge neration that swept away, did not go through the Arabian Desert, son

through eastern Siberia and the great Mongolian Gobi Desert right through Asia, by what route would the true Sinai located, a volcano of the Celestial Mountains, which the Hebrews in the manner of their ancient Australian fire and

They worshipped volcano cults 1). From there they finally withdrew.

1) The names Sinai, Desert Sinai, Desert Sin and Zin —

Compare the distant land of Sinim, Book 49, 12, where, as is well known, Sina, China sees — indicate frequent distances, and the name Sinai is a consequence of the confusion of American Egypt with the African, and the Gobi Desert with the Arabian only overtraged. Into the Gobi Desert, the Chinese sand sea Shamo, flattened The sky mountain range Thian-Shan or Mus-Tagh with fine high revered three-peaked height, the holy mountain or mountain of God named — just as Sinai is called the mountain of God, the mountain of Jehovah — and this mountain range offers many volcanic phenomena and It has the Peshan volcano on its north side and the Vulcano volcano on its south side. kan von Turfan oder von Ho-Tschu, der ruhig vom Rauch aus.

"Mount Peshan was once a very active volcano; as early as 92 BC it..."

Chinese annals describe it as a volcano, from which chem befratig Feuer erupts; in the beginning of the 7th century er- The history of the Soui dynasty of this mountain tells us that it has always Aare and smoke show, and in the history of the seaweed he becomes the mountain called the fire fields. According to another Chinese report of this Time, it's said, that he... continuously fires and smokes out. push, on one side of the same all stones burn, melt and They flow for several hours. According to a report from last year There is a hundred sal ammoniac mountains full of caves and ravines in this area, and these are full of fire in spring, summer and autumn, so that at At night the mountain seems illuminated as if by a thousand lamps. Nobody.

,

318

down to the Mediterranean Sea, however several Peoples who identified Israel as one nation, such as the Kashmirises who appear Jewish-like and who still present themselves as Israelites referred to Afghans in the east 1). Extraordinary, threatening the peoples of America with annihilation Terrors of nature, from the Bible under the name of the Egyptian plagues known 2), had the ethnic can approach it; only in winter, when there is a lot of snow

"The fire, the inhabitants gather the sal ammoniac." Ritter's Geography II, pp. 335 ff. In a statement given by Ritter on p. 349
The article states: "North of Pething lies a mountain, from which one obtains the ammonia salt; it smokes constantly during the day and is almost always in
the
The sea is covered with snow and fog. Those who go there to get the salt,
They wear shoes with wooden soles because the leather ones will soon burn.
Even birds and rats are attracted to the light of its fire.
"A gleam of light." This is wonderfully reminiscent of Moses's shining ant.
litz, which he is said to have received by speaking with his fire god
en

1) See above. The frequent use of this term is found among cashmere merchants.
of the name Musa, and Bernier, who of the hypothesis, the Kashmiris free scattered Jews, contradicts, yet admit that [this name, fo
how the whole impression her behavior had made on him
I have most vividly reminded the Jews, cf. Ritter's Earth Knowledge III, p. 1185. The Afghans and Kafir Syapush were already
The speech above. The Bene Kaibr in Arabia call themselves Bene Moses, children of Moses; the Jews say of them that they are in remained in the desert when Joshua led God's people to Canaan, Basel Mission Magazine 1823, pp. 246 f. Scattered parts of the he
The letters of the train seem to have reached the west coast of Africa, too fine, where the Ashantees distinguish themselves through circumcision and frequent lack of characterized by Negro physiognomy; legends of a ei are found among them.
a human creation, from a choice presented by the deity between good and evil and the division of the world between white and Black people, indeed even the tradition that they once lived with other African people
| * twelve tribes identified, cf. Ritter's Geography J.

1) Some peculiar features of biblical narrative are also the American tradition preserved, so, as for the transformation of the water concerning blood and the Egyptian darkness. A North American
A local legend, for example, tells of a lake turning red with the blood of a demon.
has been and bears the name of the same to this event, who red sea, back; s. J. Long, Travels of an American Interpreter Schers, translated by G. Forster, Berlin 1792, pp. 81 f. A river in Paraguay truly has a blood color; Charlevoix, History of Para

Guay, Nuremberg. 1768, 1st Th. p. 221. Indians in Suriname told a missionary not only one of the biblical stories of the Fall of Man's stories, but also reported that such darkness had once occurred.

319

The bonds of old America dissolved, and a migration of peoples began. caused by which the migration of the Israelites under Moses only a part 1). From the then-current American movement The Colchian Egyptians wrote themselves as Egyptians through Asia. from Herodotus. The whole story unfolds in this way. the Hebrews before the migration of Israel under Moses not in Asia and Africa, where they only travel by mistake over The name borne has been relocated (2), but in Australia and America, and the Bible contains what has so far been revealed no one has dreamed a history of these parts of the world from distant, ancient times. Also the destruction of Sodom. and Gomorrah is described by the author as an ancient American The event was proven to be a volcanic catastrophe in the Region of western India, which includes the Antilles, remnants of a former-

The idea that the Indians had remained permanently in their homes ben müssen und weder in ihren Corjaren fahren, noch den Busch zu ih They could have cut off the cosabi fields; see Quandt, News of Suriname and its fine inhabitants, Görlitz 1807, p. 257, cf. 2. Mos. 10:22-23

1) In the later history of America, the downfall corresponds to the monarchy of the Tolteca's in Anahuac by a although limited tere Krankheitsperiode der americanis Natur, Clavigero, aa DI p. 140. Considering the grandeur and universality of the appearance We have already compared the so-called Black Death above.

2) Conversely, we named our European place names after Ame transferred to rika; one thinks, for example, of New Spain, New Orleans, Frankfort in America, Amsterdam in Dutch Guiana, etc. What was transmitted from America to Asia in high antiquity Regarding the name Canaan, which is also the native name of the Phoenicians zier war, so s?e hier die Vergleich mit den amerikanischen Namen Guanahani, Guanaheini, Guanina, Guanima, Goanin,

Guanaja, Guana, Guiana, Guacana etc. w., cf. Humboldt's kritische Untersuchungen, trans. von Ideler, 2. BS 116. 148. 150. 152. A Ghanaian woman is entered into the sex registers of Afghanistan. nen vor, Baseler Missionsmagazin 1837, p. 702, and among the two dozen famous ancestors of the Chiapas, who belonged to the kingdom of the ancient Mexicans belonged, is a Ghanaian, Clavigero, aa O. 1. Th. S. 412. In North America you find the Kanai or Kanhawa's, whose Namen also carries a river that flows into the Ohio, Heckewelder, aa OS 26 and 164, in Brazil the Guaycanans and f. w. Several corresponding names, such as that of the Guayanicos, Guanimasse, Jaba cuyanas and Paraguayan gives A. v. Humboldt in the list of tribes along the Orinoco; Reife, 5th part, p. 341 ff.; cf. Mithridates, 3rd Th. 2nd Abth. pp. 426. 462. 470. 474.

320

former coastal land, were separated from the continent and through the incursion of the Atlantic Sea, the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico was formed 1). So large that The event was, well, it was merely the aftermath of a much larger; of the. largest. in this series of disasters and Nature's terror, and the 'greatest of its kind in the whole world' layer of the earth inhabited by humans, namely the The downfall of a continent adjacent to the American mainland Continentes in the still sea, of which the Australian mountains islands, the scattered remains are found). That was the biblical one. Great Flood, and on that sunken continent was the biblical paradise and the origin of the Semitic, yes of the entire human race. | Eee

1) "The low landscape east of the Andes of Guatemala and New Spain appears to have been sunk into the sea and now forms the bottom of the Antilles Sea." Humboldt, Maturity into the Equinoctial regions of the new continent, Vol. 5, p. 398. Peter Martyr cites American legends according to which the islands of Cuba, Haiti, Jamaica, etc., were once a continent: Innumera- - biles Mexicani sinus insulas, quas uno nomine Jucaias dicunt, cum caeteris majoribus Aiti, Cuba, Jamaica, Borriquen, unam olim continentem fecit; ita ex majorum antignissima traditione ipsos incolas

asserere; labentibus saeculis avulsas vi tempestatis et exiguis fretis divisas in tantum numerum excrevisse. About the volcanic system Antilles, which possesses such great power that it from time to time even the mainland is shaken, see Humboldt in the cited work, 1st Th. p. 494. 3rd Th. p. 5. 8. 32. 34. 38. 43 fl.

2) This paradisiacal part of the world through the importation of corrallenbanken, which formed on islands and which immediately became a rich Nature seems most eager to restore the vegetation that has taken over.
to be obligated.

The

Human sacrifice

he ancient Hebrews.

A historical investigation

Dr. FW Ghillanö,

Professor and city librarian in Nuremberg.

2 ———kK—'..—

Pürnberg

with Johann Leonhard Schrag

1842.

Campesque printing.

School and University Library

1. "fu: / Man

Foreword.

The publication of this book requires Feis a justification; it deals with an object that the East and West for two centuries already send employed, without having yet undergone a thorough examination. The following would have been examined: the people's sacrifice of the Hebrews. It seemed to me, and certainly not wrongly, as a contemporary work, the old question: whether there are still remnants of a human being among the Jews' Find sacrificial service? From the current standpoint to investigate science on which which receives far more light than under the trapped one's a circle of faces from the recent past, which in the Old Jewish history. Nothing was allowed to be noticed when which was acceptable to church dogma. Already had the humanity of modern times the thousand-year pre-' The accusation against the Jews was dismissed as a hateful fairy tale by the postponed to the Middle Ages, when the murder of the priest

Thomas in Damascus the object once again in An's

IV

brought about a stir. I said a few words in public at the time. public newspapers were consulted, not about the case myself — he could not have been more familiar to me than the newspapers, and these contradicted each other — probably But I sought from the essence of ancient Judaism to demonstrate that the thousand-year-long debt of the Orient and Occident, which offered the Hebrews a fort's The practice of the old human sacrifices is being criticized. could not be plucked out of thin air, but rather the I find the most significant evidence in the fact that the Men's sacrificial service among the pre-exilic Hebrews not a creeping, disreputable innovation, but a law's more favorable cult, favored by the veneration of Moses was, which was considered an essential part of the public God's service throughout the entire duration of the kingdoms of Judah and through Israel to the Babylonian captivity received and was only challenged by the later prophets was. My articles from back then were met with great enthusiasm. Eyes looked at; the editorial offices of renowned magazines⁸ then did not hide from me that my topic was too much for them⁸ It appeared quite daring; rabbis sat down with Bitterkeit in opposition to the outrageous claim that the accusation of using children's blood is now completely unfounded. extending to formal human sacrifices: I saw,

V

This requires a detailed scientific analysis. action, which above all changes the previous view of the The essence of the old Jewish religion in its erroneous—keit represented. Therefore, I promised to put the object in to address this in a detailed text, and this I hereby present this book to the learned and all. before an educated public. I have tried to to process material in a way that "does not merely not only accessible to scholars, but also to every educated person and to make it palatable. Perhaps I was less successful at this. gen, as I wished, since it was a fine significant sister⁸ has rigkeiten, a mass of historical notes, from de⁸ kept one's own reasoning as far away as possible. should be, because they speak most strongly for themselves⁸ to bring chen into an attractive form: but will The book, I hope, is of fine material indeed. because of which, throughout all of Jewish antiquity, a truly spreads a peculiar light, even to the non-learner— ten of interest. The present part deals with the human sacrifices of the ancient Hebrews; whether a second I will follow the band, which will examine the object down to the Let it remain as it is the most recent era. In my opinion, even this first one spreads via the Question: Enough light; however, the following offer centuries and even the most recent decades very Important data.

VI

Our time sincerely desires truth; it wants to finally get to the bottom of this question; they no longer prosecutes the persons who participated in a
She lies ill with dangerous delusions, but she does want to...
Eradicate delusion itself, and the first and most important
The first step in this process is a ruthless extraction of this bring to light. Only the enlightened want to...
Men among the Jews themselves sincerely hand in hand
gen, those valiant fighters for the progress of their People, to whom the ossified narrow-mindedness of the old which places endless difficulties in the way of believers:
That would be more helpful than a workaround.
and embellish!

The author.

Contents.

Introduction.

On the composition of the Old Testament writings, namely the Mosaic books, as well as about the Ber:
offered human sacrifice in the Mosaic Law.

The justification of the standpoint from which
The fact that the present investigation must be carried out makes it necessary agile, the actual subject a treatise on to precede the creation of the Old Testament.

The collection of Old Testament writings, as we
They now possess it, which appears to have been closed approximately 150 years ago.

The birth of Christ. At that time, the bravery of the Maccabees to the Jewish state for the last time a brief period of independence given; they were now looking for those scattered in the war. Books and brought them into a collection). Since the At that time, the majority of Jews considered these books. like a sanctuary, it would be considered a crime. have the right to change even a single letter of it; and we can therefore be assured of possessing these writings in such a manner, how they were about 150 years before the birth of Christ from the More

1) 2 Macc. 2, 14.

2

number of Jews were recognized as a national shrine. But should Moses now be considered one of the Old Testament figures: barrels are valid, and let us place this man, according to the usual— (According to a common assumption, around 1500 BC); fo We would have a period of thirteen years from 1500 to 1500. centuries, in which the Old Testament writings They would have developed gradually. However, it would have been a very long process. moreover, a time in the distant past, which is based on on the one hand, finding the authors and their accounts This makes the situation more difficult than it actually is, but on the other hand, the There are enough reasons to assume that this book— dear, if they really go back to a deeper antiquity chen, amid the incessant religious and political storms men who went over the Hebrew people, various kinds of fashion They may have suffered losses, especially in the hands of Ab-writers who reflect the changed views of the various ages could not remain inaccessible, and, as the Visual evidence proves that later Jews did not possess that piety, which would have prevented them from exercising their own religious Conviction in earlier writings according to feasibility to wear.

Let's go deeper into the past, starting from the year 150. heit back, so we find the last reasonably safe one Stop point regarding a collection of Old Testament writings ten during the time when some sections of the Jews from the

returned to Palestine after Babylonian captivity and endeavors to collect the nation's scattered literature were. Serubabel was the first to use a co—

) According to Seyffahrt, Professor of Archaeology at Leipzig, Contributions to Art, Mythology and History of Ancient Egypt, Leipzig 1833) the exodus of the Hebrews from Egypt did not fall within the
the year 1487 BC, or 1491, 1500, 1571, 1821, 1853, 1854 BC, but according to discovered Egyptian inscriptions

to the year 1908 BC

3

A colony of 50,000 people moved to Palestine (536 BC);
He was succeeded by Ezra in 478; later the king sent Artaxerxes called on Nehemiah to help the beleaguered colonists.
(444 BC). These three men are probably the ones.
also those who took care that those pieces of the older Hebrew literature that we now possess, in total were melted. At least we can be certain of this from Serubabel—Muthen; Jewish legends speak in favor of Ezra; from Nehe
But in 2 Macc. 2:13 it is explicitly stated that he a book collection was created, the Books of Kings, Pro-Phets and David's, but no less so the letters of the Information collected from Persian kings regarding temple gifts
have,"

This collection, however, apparently did not include The
The entire literature of the nation. Probably a great one.
Part of the holy scriptures no longer refers to Ezra and -Nehemiah came. Even the Old Testament states... various writings mentioned that are in our collection can no longer find it, e.g. a book "by the fighters Jehova's), a «Book of the Honest 2; also the chronicle
He also cites several writings, of which, of course, one cannot can know whether their titles, "History of the Prophet Na—" than», of the «Prophet Gade ꝛc. not fragments from the Samuel's books are described.

Without a doubt, the men mentioned above also have the collection was organized, but by no means did it include everything.
Men want what was offered to them, rather from the previous—handene sschriftrikeschen Arbeiten der Heräbe nur diejeni= selected those who were in line with the principles of their religious party—were written or could be reworked accordingly, and then worked to ensure that this sifted collection was considered divine—

4

It was recognized as divine revelation. The Hebrew language was already dying out at that time, even the Hebrew script.
Signs had been given to the Chaldeans in captivity.
They had to. So they left the books in Chaldean letters.
to describe as we still possess them today; however not literally copied, but, as the clearest Evidence is available, even if arranged at will, supplemented and was corrected. How much one may allow oneself in this regard is up to the individual.
as evidenced by a Jewish legend in the 14th chapter of the 4th Book of Ezra. She says that the holy books were with the Babylonian conquest of Jerusalem destroyed them all—were killed, and Ezra had forgotten them all—
He recorded it again. He met with five men.
He was imprisoned for 40 days, then a higher power would grant him one.
A chalice containing a fire-colored potion was served, which enabled him to, within 40 days, deliver those five Men read 24 Old Testament writings from memory to dictate. According to another legend, Ezra had been at his work involved a college of 120 scholars, the so-called
"large synagogue, supported; the existence of such a
However, the synagogue cannot be proven to exist. Indeed, it is itself
It has been doubted whether Ezra and Nehemiah were even truly who had organized the collection; by renowned scholars
The claim was made that the names Ezra and Nehemiah was a front, but the gathering itself was only gradually and seemingly by themselves).

Is it now uncertain by whom and to what end?
Time that collection and final revision were carried out
has been, which gave the Old Testament its present form

1) So de Wette, Introduction to the Old Testament, I. 14. I
I cannot share this view. An ordering and reviewing
A hand that tolerated only such writings which were in the sense of the re-formatorian party, as it emerges under Josiah, written Whether they were or could be revised in this sense is obvious.

w

2

There was, we are already fluctuating here between the period of 536 to 150 BC; so the sister-in-law becomes Freedom is even greater, if not only after the last Collectors and reworkers, but according to the actual—
The authors of these books are asked. The Ant-
The answer to this question is short: It can only be for the prophesied-Ticino books (with the exception of the prophet Jonah, as well as of the second part of Isaiah, chapters 40 to 66), ferner for the books of Ezra and Nehemiah an author with Si-certainty is stated; but even most of these
We know little more about the prophets than their names.
The authors of all the other Old Testament writings are unknown to us.
Completely unknown. Our current headings of the biblicalfchen Bücher felbft, wie Buch Sofua», „Bücher Samuel» ꝛc.
They do not want to name the author, but rather refer to the Person about whom a book primarily deals.

It was natural that, given the lack of historical information about the authors of the old Testamentes now had to adhere to these writings themselves in order to through They themselves, if not the names, but at least that
To determine the era of the author.

Here, it was initially the language which in Be—Traditional dress had to come. History shows that every language starting from a basic level of education, developing over the course of Developed over centuries to ever greater perfection,
a high point in the training, a so-called golden one

It reaches an age, but then declines again and falls into decay.
 Therefore, one is quite right to, if not at whose reasons suggest a deliberate imitation, those writings of a people are considered the oldest, in
 in whom the language appears to be the least developed,
 and immediately with the development and the clear traces of decay into an ever later age of decline Close the sung. If you place this measuring stick against the old testament, so one already finds in those writings which the 6 früheften feyn fallen, as in the books of Moses and Joshua,

 the language at its highest level of perfection, completely on the level of education as described in those books seems to deal with the last times of the Jewish state deln. It can be found in the biblical documents of the ancient
 The Testament only mentions two ages in relation to language.
 distinguish; the one, the so-called golden one, extends to the End of the Babylonian captivity and includes the book Moses, Joshua, the judge, Samuel, the kings, the my-
 The Psalms!, the Proverbs of Solomon, the Book of Job, the Prophets Amos, Joel, Hosea, Micah, Isaiah, Nahum, Zes
 Phanja, Habakkuk, Obadiah. On the border of this age
 The prophets Jeremiah and Ezekiel stand there, as do the last.
 26 chapters of the prophet Isaiah. The Silver Age, which is characterized by approximation to the Chaldean dialect—
 The drawing dates from the end of the captivity (536 BC).
 except for the Maccabees (around 160 BC), and includes the books of Chronicles, Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, the Prophets Jonah, Daniel, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi, Prediger, the Song of Solomon and some Psalms).

Just as in the millennium of Charlemagne,
 Until our time, the German language has been so extraordinarily—has undergone such a change that those old word forms have become obsolete.
 men are hardly understandable anymore; so it can rightly be said assume that the Hebrew language also existed in the millennium from Moses to the end of the Babylonian captivity have undergone a significant change. Find

“We therefore use the language in the books of Moses, Joshua, Judges at the same level of training as at the time of the sinking of the Jewish state; this proves that the drafting of these books do not go back to the deeper antiquity of Moses to set up, but against the Babylonian captivity to or into captivity itself; to the minimum

1) So Gesenius.

7

So much must be admitted that any older Records completely reworked in that later period have been).

An unbiased look at Jewish history also reveals History, that in the earlier times of this people there was no writing Artistic activity could take place, as our biblical books attest to this. As long as a people is nomadic. wandering around, it won't be suitable for writing anyway. are especially inclined; but in addition to this come incessant Wars like those waged by the Jews up to Solomon, that's what I would like to see. They also lack the necessary education and leisure time. In such times, one can only think of short notes at most, which the priests recorded, if otherwise these priests could write back then, but not to a related party Gened historical writing, least of all among the Hebrews, who are still at a very barbaric level of culture the, when the neighboring peoples were already quite far in Ge Advertising and arts had progressed. Even to Saul's At that time, no blacksmith could be found in all of Israel who could... could have repaired worn-out weapons, yes. Not even the agricultural implements were too much for the Hebrews to handle. to sharpen, let alone manufacture; the like They had to have the Philistines do their business for them. When When they got into arguments with them, they had no useful [solutions]. Weapons; only Saul and his appear in a battle. The son was armed with sharp weapons, the rest led Knittel 2). — Such historical traces truly prove

It was characteristic of antiquity to compose important documents in a certain way. Writings can be traced back to ancient, famous names. After the Preface by Philo of Byblus to his translation of the Sanchuniathon (in Eusebius praep. evang. I. 10) would have had Sanchuniathon drew his story from the books of the Taautos, who is said to have invented alphabetic writing.

2) 1 Samuel 13:19-22

8

striking enough that one is very badly advised if one the flowering of Hebrew literature can be traced back to David. A people so lazy and dull-witted that it not even the most indispensable tools themselves tigen fucht, and in this respect in a miserable way Dependence on its enemies persists: such a people may not be suited to history writing and poetry. especially paid homage to David, a barbarian who had paid homage to the gods. saw captured enemies in half, chop them up with iron wedges and let it burn,) is for the transferred highlight not at all suitable for Hebrew pious song poetry. net! The headings of the Psalms, which contain so many of these Partly sublime songs, shouting to David ben, find fämtlich von einer spätereren ordnungden Hand nach Made at one's own discretion. Just compare the content of the Psalms with the headings frequently given historical reasons; the content rarely agrees with this. the topic that one might assume the psalm is in The truth about the above-mentioned topic has been established. Post-exilic collectors selected songs from the available collection. selected the suitable ones, and wrote to give them a high rating. To give value to the writing of a famous predecessor ren to or related the content to the fates of an The man seen, namely David's. Perhaps they later poets also found themselves in the circumstances of this man. He set to music and composed songs in his name. Most of them Palm trees have a late origin, many apparently only appearing in exile. They are written, but nevertheless, with little thought, attributed to Assaph, David's songmaster; one ver same, for example, Psalms 79 and 80.

If one considers the biblical text of the Old Testament closer, so very clear and not at all ready ones become apparent. Tangible evidence of the activity of a later hand. All

) 2 Sam. 12, 31.; 1 Chr. 21, 3.

9

Things will become older records in our current texts. underlying; but this much is irrefutable: these Records now bear only traces of a deeper past. Antiquity, it was improved, it was added to, but also omitted. One with the events described A concurrent writer would have, for example, to name just a few Evidence must be provided, exaggerations must not be allowed, such as... They interpret the Old Testament narratives in the interest of the nation— nalruhmes fo so frequently present. Just think of Samgar, the 600 of the brave Philistines trained in arms with an ox stick, at Samson, who had a thousand of them (slaying a rotten donkey jawbone); one thinks to the accounts in the chronicle about David's and Sa Lomo's age, according to which, for example, Solomon in Jerusalem (would have made gold and silver equal to stones in quantity?). A simultaneous or even just one and the same writing The actors would probably not have so many contradictory statements. hatches, as they are found in the Old Testament writings. For example, we read Joshua 11:16, where this general said that all the land designated for the Sfraelites was taken; Chapter 13:1. But it says that at the time of his death he was still very

) Judges 3, 31, Chapter 15.

2) 2 Chron. 1:15. The temple shall have 4000 gatekeepers and 4000 clay: artists have (1 Chronicles 24:5); at the anointing of Solomon a sacrifice of 1000 bulls, 1000 rams and 1000 sheep brought (1 Chron. 30:21); at the dedication of the temple Solomon sacrificed 22,000 cattle and 120,000 sheep to Jehovah.

(1 Kings 8:63); David amassed a treasure of 100,000 talents of gold, 1,000,000 hundredweight of silver (1 Chr 23:14), a sum calculated at 5,454,200,000 Thalers, as they are hardly found in precious metals anywhere in Europe today—would be driving. The profit from a single trading voyage to Ophir amounts to 450 hundredweight of gold, which is 22,680,000 Thalers. Josaphat, king of Judah, has 1,160,000 armed soldiers.

without those which he placed in the fixed places (2 Chr 17:14 ff.);

David 1,300,000 (1 Sam. 24, 9.)

10

Much land had to be taken over; we read 1 Kings 18:22. Elijah was the only one left of all the Jewish prophets. Ben-Hadad; but already 1 Kings 20:13, 22, 28, another appears. Prophet before King Ahab; we read 2 Chronicles 14:1. that under King Asa the country had ten years of peace; have; according to 2 Chronicles 15:19, but this peace would have been 35 years lasted and so on.

In many places, the text itself stands with clear words reveal their later origin. For example, Josaphat is called Josaphat. 4, 9. the twelve stones which Joshua erected at the Jordan—5, 9: The name of the place was called Gilgal “except for this day; Not. 6:24: The altar of Gideon is to Ophrah, except for this day. 10, A: It is called the towns villages Jair's “until this day; Not. 11:40. It is recounted at the sacrifice of Jephthah that the Israelites Every year, the daughter of Jephthah is praised; the Ben-Hadad: «at that time there was no king in Israel,» which recurs frequently), apparently originates from a time, where people already knew of kings in Israel. They are coming. Place names that only came about later are mentioned; for example, the city of Jebus, which only came into being with David and the construction of the temple Jerusalem was named under Solomon, except for David. but it was in the possession of the Jebusites, already in the Book of Joshua “Jerusalem.” Soph, 10:1. “A king of Jerusalem will be born.” Salam, Adoni-Zedek, is mentioned; Joshua 18:28 becomes Jebus. Added for clarification: «that is Jerusalem» After 1.

Samuel 17:54 even brings David the head of Goliath.
Jerusalem, which at that time was not yet the Jewish capital, but it was a city of the Jebusites. Relations with the ba—
The Bylonian captivity is the subject of most Old Testament accounts.
Books; the chronicle also recounts that Cyrus granted permission
The fact that I gave my consent to return falls even later than the

) E.g. Judges 17, 6; 18, 1; 21, 25.

(Captivity). The circumstances also speak very clearly.
for a later revision, so that certain pieces can be changed.
repeated times with the same words in different Books can be found switched on. For example, one can read Jos. 15.
16 — 19:

“And Caleb said: Whoever strikes Kiriath-Sepher and If he wins, I will give my daughter Achsa as his wife.
Then Othniel, the son of Kenaz, the brother— took her Caleb's, and he gave him Achsa, his daughter, as a Woman. And it happened, when she entered, she urged him on, to demand a field from her father, and descended from the Eje» u. |. w.

The same section can also be found in the Hebrew text.
with the same words Judges 1:12-15:

And Caleb spoke: Whoever strikes Kiriath-Sepher and
If he wins, I will give my daughter Achsa as his wife.
Then Othniel, the son of Kenaz, the young man, took her Caleb's brother, and he gave him Achsa, fine daughter—ter, to the woman. And it happened, as she entered, drove She asked him to demand a field from her father, and descended from the Efel» etc.)

Since the books of Moses contain the law which was given by Moses is said to have had an effect, since one particularly

1) 2 Chron. 36:22. Cf. Sof. 13:16; Ch. 23:13, 15; 1 Kings, 8, 34, 46, ff. 2 Kings. Cape. 24 and chap. 25.

The translation of the biblical passages is consistently based on de Bet placed. — Compare, for example, Esra Chapter 2 with sidebars. Chapter 7, 6 ff.; furthermore 2 Kings 18:19-37 with Isaiah 36:4-22; 2nd King Cape. 19 and 20 with Jef. Cape. 37, 38, 39; 2 Chron. 36, 22 - 23. with Ezr. 1, 1—3; Jerem. Cape. 52 with 2nd Kings. 24, 18 ff.; the 14th Psalm with the 53rd Psalm; Pf. 96 with 2.

Ehron. 17, 23— 33; Pf. 108 with Pf. 57, 8 — 12. and Pf. 60, 7 — 14; Pf. 105 with 2 Chron. 17, 8 — 12.

12

cites passages from this law to prove that the Even in Moses' time, human sacrifice was strictly forbidden for Jews.
have been; so I cannot, for my purpose, avoid the Origin of the Mosaic books especially and somewhat from
To consider this more thoroughly, I must of course also I'll keep this as brief as possible so as not to make my introduction too long.
to extend the fee.

Initially, evidence for the genuine Mosaic origin was taken from...
The origin of these books is stated as being that in them often
It is explicitly stated that Moses himself said this or
That was recorded. For example, it says in Exodus 17:14:
“Then Jehovah said to Moses: Write this as a memorial—”
Read into the book, and command it to the ears of Joshua, that I who wants to eradicate the memory of Amalek under heaven.
Exodus 24:4: Then Moses wrote down all the words of Jehovah, etc.
The mere fact that a certain person appears in a book Being named as the author does not yet prove that that this person is really the author, least of all if There are such weighty reasons against such an assumption, like here. The main question here is: Could a a later author might have an interest in Moses being responsible for the
Who is the author of these writings? Indeed, one.
very significant interest, since the name Moses is associated with the laws
It was held in high esteem. However, it is not even mentioned that... that Moses read the books attributed to him as we know them sitting, I have written; the above statements always refer to only on individual pieces and prove it precisely through their one

— 3 —

— — A

1) Compare this to what is said about the same subject
The words were primarily spoken by the sadly deceased Bob:
len, Professor in Königsberg, in the writing: The Genesis, histo Risch-kritikisch Erläuterung; Königsberg, bei Bornträger; furthermore de Wette, Textbook of Historical Critical Studies. Introduction to the Ancient Testa ment; Berlin, at Reimer; Gramberg, critical history of Religious Ideas of the Old Testament, Berlin, by Duncker and Humboldt. f

13

Scheduling that the author(s) intend a later revision not to deny the books in any way, but only the suggestions to justify their work as if it were based on ancient, Moses-era foundations.
originating regulations. Moses also speaks in these writings not, as would be natural, in the first Person of himself, but in the third. Indeed, Deuteronomy 5.
27, 2. claims that Moses commanded the Sfraelites when They had crossed the Jordan, large stones on the to raise up Mount Ebal and all the words of this law-to write down what seems to presuppose that already a a written copy would have been available; only the Many things stand in the way. For example, there is the same fifth...
The book's late origins are clearly recognizable by this.
nen, that it reports the death of Moses with the remark,
No one has found their grave until today.
day, and that it was quite clearly the Babylonian prisoners—
mentioned; but then a writing from the Um beginning of the Mosaic books, even if only the fifth books, not far from upright stones, they would be even if it was of extraordinary size, it would still find space.
However, the earliest material that could be used to Writing was used, stone, later wood and metal, and the

The remark in that verse therefore probably wishes to be considered certain
 This suggests that the Hebrews also had individual,
 short legal provisions were inscribed on stone slabs;
 It certainly couldn't have happened to anyone to write entire books in
 To want to write like a stone; even a few sentences condemned
 a significant load on this material, and it would be Hundreds of camels would probably have been necessary.
 the Hebrews on their military campaign, the ones written in stone want to keep Mosaic books. But that even just the art of writing in Western Asia up to the time of Moses—
 The recovery distance is more than doubtful. The highest date
 The Semitic script does not extend beyond the year 1000.
 before Christ's birth, and Moses already said that lived at least 1500 years before Christ). If one while also considering that it dates back to the first invention of the Writing skills are still a long way from becoming a writer, that centuries must pass before a people of the first use of the characters to the state

14

 point of writing a prose story works; so it is probably due to the fact that Moses is not the Ver barrel of the books attributed to him could be; to be sworn gen, that from the standpoint of writing, wel chen die mosaikischen Schriften verwahrt, auch nicht auch dendenken bar is, it could have been just a single man, like Moses, occupied with this, so that his works comprise the entire folk literature characterized a fine age. If now the mosaics Books already speak of a divorce letter, which the
 (to issue a letter to a rejected woman?), so ken
 They apparently already used animal hides and ink as writing materials.
 terial and thereby place themselves in a late time; the Hebrew
 The word for ink is of Persian origin, and the
 The name for scrolls only appears in the time of Jere mia before; the art of writing with ink on animal hides,
 It therefore seems to have come from abroad and only in recent times ten of the Hebrew state, shortly before being taken into the Captivity, which became known to the Hebrews.
 The language used in the text also points to this late period.
 Mosaic books, their composition. The Hebrew

Language is on the same level in the books of Moses.
Training, as in those prophetic writings whose ent-
Its origins date back to the Babylonian era.
capture falls. If already the two centuries of the Hebrew literature, of which we have samples of scripture-

1) Cf. Hartmann, bishop's critical research on books
Moses, p. 588, where it is said that the Hebrews in Solomon's Ages when they learned the art of writing from the Phoenicians.

2) 5. Mof. 24, 1. "

15

presenting, indicating very significant changes, Therefore, it can probably be assumed all the less that language persisted for a millennium in earlier times
I have received it unchanged. They refer to the simple...
The purity of language in these books; but this simplicity alone
This can also be found in the other writings of the Hebrews; the Schreiber was forced to adopt a simple style; because
The Hebrew language is poor in words and phrases.
Individual expressions which bear traces of a high antiquity
According to the latest studies, those who are supposed to wear [something] can [something]
do not provide such proof!); contrary evidence is found—some Aramaic and Persian words that date back to a very late Point out the time.

This late date is further evidenced by the content
the books themselves in a very striking way. The baby-
The Ionian captivity becomes very clear in many places.
(mentioned, indeed entire chapters deal with it); it is discussed with in clear words Deuteronomy 28:36, on the removal of the king—
No one pointed this out when it says: Jehovah will give you and your king, whom you will set over yourself, to a people lead which you do not know, nor your fathers; Leviticus 11:12.
26, 33: "And I will scatter you among the nations and Draw your swords behind you, and your land shall be a wasteland.
be and your cities in ruins 2 5. Mof. 4, 27: «And Jehovah will scatter you among the nations, and you will...

det remain in small numbers among the nations, where Jehovah will lead you away." At such passages, which au=

Probably cannot be written before imprisonment
If it is no longer necessary to have a special weight to emphasize that these writings were already those of the kings mentioning which were not yet known in Moses' time

1) Compare the aforementioned work by Bohlen, p. XLIV.
) Compare e.g. B. Leviticus. Cape. 26; Deuteronomy 29, 24 - 29th; Cape. 30, Chapter 32.

16

(I thought) that Jerusalem is often mentioned and to the Temple festivals, at which the Jews celebrated the feast three times.
(to meet annually?), that the formula: "except for the frequently recurs today, which apparently confesses, that the author does not want to conceal how long he (I'll write about the events described below; if not much)
It is easy to assume that he is here and because he had fallen out of character and unintentionally into his role= genwart hineingeraden fey. MWeberall_ift the effort of the Author visible, later institutions trace back to Moses= to push them into an age, into conditions to which they are not suited.

(are measured). Contradictions, which are also a testimony.
must submit that no eyewitness could be the author, are frequent. For example, according to Genesis 15:13, the stay lasts of the Jews in Egypt for 400 years, according to Exodus 12:40.
but 430 years; so the tabernacle will be according to Exodus 40.
first made, however, according to Exodus 16:33, long before=

Her manna was placed in the Holy of Holies, and after Exodus, Chapter 33: the people are said to have already gone there. After Numbers 16:32: Korah's band, with all its members, will be...
Swallowed up people and goods from the earth, after Numbers 26:11, but the children will live.

1) Genesis. 17, 6, 16; 1 Mos. 35, 11; 1 Mos. 36, 31., where deut= It is said: These are the kings in the land of Edom, before Kings rule over the sons of Israel, and so forth.

2) Genesis. 22, 2-4; Exodus. 15, 13, 17; Deuteronomy 16, 16; Deuteronomy 12:5

3) Genesis 19:38; Genesis 26:33. Similarly, it says

Deuteronomy 31:22: Moses wrote the song at that time;

A 5. Mof. 2, 34: "Everything happened at that time.", 1. Mof. 12:6: "The Cananites were in the land at that time. 1. Mof. 13:7: The Cananites and Perizzites were then living in the Lande., ö

The entire third book testifies to this. See also Book 3. 4 Mos. 15, 32; Deuteronomy 12, 5; 15, 1; 16, 1.

— — - 6

17

Numbers 22:20: God commands Balaam to use Balak's to draw servants, according to verse 22, but God's anger rages, as he travels, and according to verse 35 the angel commands again The Lord's command that he should go with him. (Numbers, Chapter 23) and 24, Balaam blesses the Sfraelites, according to Deuteronomy 23:4. He curses them. According to Numbers 33, 31, 38 and Numbers 38. 20, 23, 24. Aaron dies on Mount Hor, according to Deuteronomy. 10:6. He dies at Moses. According to Numbers 14:45, the Jews were driven back by the Amalekites to Horma= gen, according to Deuteronomy 44, from the Amorites, etc.

Even if one considers the circumstance as evidence for the Mosaic version wanted to point out that in these books a detailed acquaintance with the Egyptian Ver= If the evidence shows that the evidence is flawed on two fronts, then this proof is flawed on two fronts. Because

Such an acquaintance with Egypt would one day be... by no means implying that Moses in particular, and no other, was the one
The Jew could have obtained it; but then they
the ideas about Egypt in these books of such a kind that they prove the opposite and point to a
The author suggests that he could not have lived in this country.
but the Egyptians only knew very superficially from hearsay knew. First and foremost, this point of evidence is based on the circumstance... rebutt that the Mosaic writings originate from those four centuries which the Hebrews spent in Egypt=

ten, had absolutely nothing to report. However, the first book strives to recount the history of the Hebrews up to the creation
the world and its sex register down to the first man=

To trace the narrative back to [unclear], the second book takes the story to [unclear]
not with Joseph, with whom the first concludes, but begins his account with Moses and the exodus from Egypt=

ten; so that a period of four centuries here in the
The center lies, whose story is attributed to the author of the Mosaic.
Books were completely unknown to him. If Moses were this author, he certainly would not have missed the period immediately available to him=

left touched, he would have bridged this gap of four centuries

2

18

filled in fine work, for which he received a far-reaching acclaim.
More casual and richer materials had to be available,
than for Abraham, or even for Noah and others.
But what if the unknown author of these writings comes along?
When Moses spoke to Egypt, it immediately became clear that such a half-baked knowledge of Egyptian conditions, such a
A harsh attack on the customs of the country, that at a stay of the same in Egypt is not considered can, Even the story that the Hebrews were from the Egyptians= used in brick kilns, does not fit

on this land, but is one taken from Babylonia=

A picture; for, as is well known, the Egyptians built with stone.

nen; in Babylonia, however, where there was a lack of stones, were the large buildings made of fired clay.
 The author links stories to the name Moses,
 which are in sharp contrast to the customs of the Egyptians.
 Sayings stand. To explain the name "Moses", which is supposed to mean a lot, as "the one who's been pulled out", a lot.
 more than that means "the departing one, the train leader"
 here, the author lets the little Moses be led by a Prince to find zessin in the Nile reeds. One must reasonably doubt that a royal princess opens up in an educated country.
 I had bathed in the river; but the king's order,
 to throw all newborn sons of the Hebrews into the Nile,
 This is directly contrary to Egyptian religion, because the Nile was a sacred river and was not allowed to be polluted by corpses.
 become uncleaned, not to mention that if such a thing happens,
 The order would have been carried out, I didn't know how Aaron and
 The 600,000 militant comrades would have survived.
 be able to, unless this barbaric commandment only had to be very
 It was followed for a short time. The author does not know.
 that camels and sheep do not fare well in Egypt, and that the donkey was a hated animal there; it is the
 The land is so foreign that he finds Aramaic words almost unfamiliar.

19 .

Egyptian issues); he lets Moses issue laws about the winegrowing, which the Hebrews neither in Egypt, nor (were able to meet in Arabia?); he claims the number
 (the number of Hebrew men was 600,000), which is a Total population of 3.5 million people before would expose a mass which neither the province of Go—sen, even less the district designated as the assembly point Rhamses could have grasped that it was also impossible for him to do so.
 would have been, with all their herds, in half a night
 to cross the Red Sea.

The author of this text doesn't deal with numbers at all.
 Writings not so precisely. Also, the number of The number of Hebrews would have been only two million, that's how one understands not how they would earn their living in the small desert can be found, as the entire Sinai peninsula has hardly any

It has a population of 4000 souls and can hold little more.
 It is possible. It has been calculated that with 3.5 million people there, on 5000 people would have come to the square mile, as they
 They can barely feed even the most cultivated countries. If one wants to
 to the cattle and sheep, to the many cattle, which according to Exodus 12:38, the Israelites brought with them from Egypt
 ten should have led; so this too must have been Fut have; but where then does this extraordinary
 A longing for meat, as if for something since the Exodus.
 no longer enjoyed delicacies, already in the middle of the second month of the hike?"? Everything was already there.
 Cattle completely consumed, Jehovah must send quails,
 to satisfy the starving people! What should one do?
 Now, let us consider further what Deuteronomy 7:2 tells us:

) Compare the cited text by Bohlen LV.

2) Egyptian wine, says Herodotus II, 77, is made from barley does, because there are no grapevines in Egypt.

) Exodus. 12, 37. 9 Exod. Cape. 16.

| 2*

20

The Israelites from Palestine were frightened; they had expelled peoples.
 must be "bigger and stronger" than themselves? After this approach That would mean Palestine would have had over 20 million inhabitants at that time.
 had, however it is already decided that this country
 chen also in the whole in the Mosaic writings him intended expansion and possible cultivation not exceeding
 It could feed three million! In contrast, one reads again...
 Joshua 7:5, "that the heart of the people melted and was like water—" fer ward,» as if before a monstrous blow, as though only 36 men in a battle against the inhabitants of Ai perished, a remark which, however, was more accurate
 A look at the state of Israeli power at that time
 Nomadic tribes want to let things happen and exaggerations sufficiently rejects it, as we see, for example, in Numbers, Chapter 31.
 find. There the Israelites are to be found by the small people.

The Midianites had 72,000 cattle, 675,000 sheep, and 61,000 donkeys. They have captured 16,750 sekels of gold and 32,000 maidens. It probably won't be too much to assume that a people from whom one can capture 32,000 virgins, who double the number of fighting men, so 64,000; but Let's take just half. These 32,000 combat-ready Midianites fought against the 12,000 Hebrews who were fighting against them all those who were led to remain on the square. However, not one of the Sfraelites falls either! You can see that the late author is acting in the interest of the Na= National fame from small nomadic tribes to large peoples, elevates the battles to wars of nations and the pastures to extensive empires.

Most striking is the claim that the Ifraelites had spent forty years in a desert, through which

— —

1) Numbers 31:49. Here the Midianites are said to have been destroyed, and in Judgment, Chapter 7, they appear again against Gideon with great power, "like locusts in number and the number of their Camels are a dime a dozen.

21

(one matures in a few days), and the self is so difficult= due army campaign, as the Israeli one according to the statement would have been, not over a few months. can hold on. The situation is made even worse by the fact that one does not understand how the several million Israelis in who would have the necessary food in a desert for this long time= ten can be found, and that the author himself only knows about the two first years to report, while he knows the 38 fol. The process continues with silence. The food goes to the Since the need was great, people tried to help themselves by relying on the The area of the wonder fled; for however much one might see the allowed Israelites to roam freely in a wide neighborhood, 3.5 million people require an excessive amount of care every day.

A huge amount of food, more than you'd believe!
They might find that they would have the same without their own agriculture.
in a desert for forty years by neighboring tribes—forced. Regarding the second point, the stillness
The author's silence about 38 days spent in the desert
Years, this problem will not be eliminated if one
What he means is that nothing has changed in these 38 years.
Important event occurred, or we could have also talked about the still longer—
no successors during the Babylonian captivity period—(to correct?). That would be uniquely his way, if he among a people who, according to the biblical account, a new religion, a new set of laws from a pair of priests—

) One of the newest travelers, Duke Maximilian of Bay—Ern, left Cairo on April 28, 1838, passed through on the first day well-developed rural areas, entered the desert on May 2nd and reached On May 7th, Palestine, where a magnificent vegetation began to bloom.
The journey through the desert thus lasted seven days, but of course it went on camels, but it can be inferred from this that an army of these

Way, even with such a cumbersome approach as the Israeli one,
In any case, he could have saved up in a few months, as well as is generally accepted.

) So Winer, biblical. Realw. II., 818.

22

part is forced upon him, where in the first two years of the Excerpt: such stubborn resistance, a continuous Dissatisfaction is shown, which can turn into outrage at any moment.
threatens to break down if among this people, in whom there always increasing food shortages, looking for the two Nothing happened in the first few years, which would have been a good thing.
a scribe of the same people and of the same time remarks—
It should have been worth it! Of course, we also discussed the Babylonian captivity is not a story, but we have not even a partially completed, suddenly broken piece of it, that aims to cover the entire period; it may have
No one involved in recording this story, much—
One such example was readily available and was incorporated into the canon — not accepted because they were difficult for the Hebrew people to accept.

 It became established among the pagans, a glorious memory would have been. But here we have a story that was told by
 It should be written by a man who experienced it firsthand: a Such a person would not have described two years in detail, and Nothing has been said for over 38 years. One thing remains: either
 The stated high number of Israelis is false.
 The entire nation did not consist of millions, but of one.
 moderate nomadic groups of at most a few thousand People, who, however, were rejected everywhere, forty could have wandered around in this desert for years; or the Forty years can be traced back to two. One would like to The truth is probably best understood by considering both.
 assumes. The number forty, like the number seven, returns in the biblical writings everywhere. again; it seems holy to have been valid and does not provide any guarantee for the information.
 For example, the Noachian flood is intensifying over forty days.
 40 in the process of losing weight; Isaac is 40 years old, Esau is also 40 years old, when they married; Moses was 40 years old when he came out of Egypt
 He flees, and at twice 40 years old he starts his business.
 against Pharaoh, and at that same advanced age the
 The author also loves and marries Jethro's daughter, Zipporah.

23

Then; Moses stayed on the mountain for 40 days and nights.
 Sinai; the explorers stayed in Canaan for 40 days; 40
 Years after the Exodus, Moses dies; Eli Prie is 40 years old.
 ster; David and Solomon reigned for 40 years, and after Apostele story 13, 21. also Saul; forty years prepared Absalom fine waste before) u. s. f.

Do these individual points already strongly suggest that...? that the Mosaic writings were neither by Moses, nor by anyone
 one of his contemporaries, or indeed any eyewitness.
 can originate from; so does a general look at the
 The content of the laws given in these books is still far from complete.
 no more. Not even the simple Ten Commandments can be extended to to Moses, for surely the prophets would have ten often invoke this authority, if it were available-(being?). The sacrificial law, according to which the death penalty applies?)

The fact that sacrifices should only be offered in front of the Tabernacle was never established.

observed several times before the exile.” The hierarchy appears in these books in an education, as they do not suddenly² can be introduced by a single man and, as history shows, it was not introduced either; the The most convoluted laws are here concerning priestly privileges. and arduous ceremonies were performed; for example, those who... on Pasha Leavened bread is eaten, whose soul shall be exterminated. the'), however, far more important things, such as perjury, lying and Infanticide remains completely unmentioned in the law. It is May only one unbiased glance into the mind of this Ge³ sezes, in order to gain the conviction that there is a far presupposes a later level of education than the one at which

1) 2 Samuel 15:7

) Cf. Vatke, The Religion of the Old Testament, Vol. I, p. 204, note.

) Leviticus. 17, 8; Deuteronomy 12, 13. ff.

) Judges 6:24; Chapter 21:4; 2 Samuel 24:18; the high-altitude cult un⁴ There would be an uninterrupted, legislative power among the kings. This was a sin against this commandment punishable by death.

) 2. Mos. 12:15.

24

the Israelites were in Moses' time, and that a such a law in its fine, petty extension from one certainly also a clever military leader of a ruthless nomadic horde. would not have been given, since adherence to such a— difficult ceremonial service under such conditions It could not have been conceived. The people who still lived under Saul could make neither a plow nor a sword, Certainly, 400 years earlier, the great artistry was not as evident as... fie for the artificial production of the Ark of the Covenant and the tent- temples are used, at which — one Remember! — 29 hundredweight, 730 sekels of gold, and 100 hundredweight,

1775 Sekel silver was supposedly used 9. At a people who see themselves in these books, but then in The course of history is also widely documented in the books of Joshua, especially Richter and also Samuel, at a barei bordering stage of culture shows, in such a Volke probably cannot speak of woven veils, of seals wrestling, of art weaving in blue and red purple and The talk is of an outward splendor of the priesthood, how they attributed the Mosaic books to the age of Moses— (write?). Such products of a higher culture belong to a much later time, which is also reflected in this law through regulations which already have a certain degree of The presupposition of humanity is made very clear. We read For example, Deuteronomy 20:19: “When you besiege a city...” For a long time, so that you fight against them, to conquer them, so You shall not damage their trees, so that you need to use the axe you should not lay on it; for you may eat of it, and you shall not run away (because for man the trees are of the field), that they get away from you to the siege works. Only the trees which you know do not bear edible fruit Trees are, you may spoil and cut them down, and Bela

1) Exodus. Cape. 38.) Compare e.g. B. 1 Mos. 24, 65; 1 Mos. 38, 14, 18; Exodus. Cape. 28; Exodus. Cape. 38 and 39.

25

"Building gerungswerke from it." It also starts from the beginning. The passage highlights that the trees are only in the interest of the Hebrews were to remain standing because they were providing them with food. can serve, but the addition in the middle of the sentence... ses: «for the trees are for man,» the commandment a semblance of humanity, and one wonders how the ancient Hebrews, who were so barbaric in their wars— against humans and animals, against the fruit trees The enemies should have observed such lenient consideration. But now the proceedings against the Jews in enemy territory show Even among the kings, quite the opposite was true; the fruit Trees are being cut down, and every enemy field is being cleared. must the Hebrew throw a stone so that this humane

The commandment of sparing, which was attributed to Moses,
The decision was postponed to a very late time. The more...
Hova prophesies to his beloved King Jehoshaphat through Elisha,
2 Kings 3:18: "The Lord will give Moab into your hand, and you will strike down all fortified cities and all good
You will cut down trees and block all water sources.
And they ruin all the best fields with stones. Really Jehoshaphat falls into the arms of the kings of Israel and Edom.
The territory of the Moabites, and they "destroyed the cities and on
They threw down all the best fields, each one his stone.
and filled them with it, and all the water sources became blocked.
They cut down all the good trees. (2 Kings 3:25)
So the Hebrews here have no idea about such a thing.
Laws, and Jehovah is still far from giving one,
that he, without the slightest disapproval, the extermination of Fruit trees are even promised.

Now consider the desert, where one finds fine houses
He had no permanent dwelling places where the ground was scarce.
or produced nothing, and a trade which was noble
Metal could have been provided, but this should not be taken for granted; to the hunger and misery with which, according to biblical Confession, the Hebrews ceaselessly on their journey to 26.

had fought: how will they give the priests the masses?
Sacrificial meat was offered; how will they cope with the endless have subjected them to taxes and burdensome customs, which (which later hierarchy took advantage of)? Those old testamentary books, which prove to be the oldest,
The books of Judges and Samuel know nothing of this.
Hierarchy and its institutions?); also the Book of Job makes no reference to it, nor to the older Jewish people.
The prophets. Yes, even more: the entire kingdom of Srael, as long as it existed, our Mosaic precepts were known
No. The reformist party of the Jews quite cleverly leaves it at that.
from Moses the teaching that Jehovah only in the Temple that the Lord should live in Jerusalem, and that all Hebrews should worship God
They would have to go there. However, this statement contradicts that.
the entire kingdom of Israel, the greater half of the nation, as un True. The Israelites did not consider rising up before Jehovah.
To bring her sacrifices to Zion; that dwelling place in Jerusalem

This was a new thing for them, which the tribe of Judah had introduced for its introduced purposes; they, on the other hand, had the old sacrificial sites, the ancient dwelling places of the Ark of the Covenant in their land and worshipped Jehovah in the ancient way under the image of the Stie—
It is said that this is based on a decline of Jehovah; but where in history do entire nations fall? only so quickly and easily from a traditional religion from, like from a king? Elijah, the great prophet, Surely he couldn't be among the idolaters, the apostates—

9 Jeremiah Chapter 7, 22. denies that Jehovah the Hebrews
At the time of the Exodus, burnt offerings and sacrificial offerings were presented:
I wrote.

2) In those ancient times, not only priests sacrificed, as in the Mosaic law.
The law prescribes it, but also prophets and nobles;
Samuel sacrifices, 1 Sam. 7:9; 16:2; Saul, 1 Sam. 13:9;
David, 2 Samuel 6:17; 2 Samuel 24:25; Gideon, Judges 63
Solomon, 1 Kings. 9, 25; Elijah, 1 Kings. 18, 30.

27 hear? But is this Islamic prophet perhaps after

Did he go to Jerusalem to offer his sacrifices?
Did he even utter a single syllable admonishing the Israelites?
Did Elijah, also a Sfraelite, do this?
Prophet after Elijah? Elijah's Jehovah did not dwell in Zion.
but on Mount Carmel, there the Prophet stayed up, there he built an altar to his god, as one might expect.
The prophet Micah speaks to Jehovah, chapter 7, verse 14: Willow your people with your staff, your own flock, especially living in the forest, in the middle of Mount Carmel!-
Had we had written records from these two Israels
The Islamic prophets would provide sufficient clarification;
They probably also wrote down their oracles, but The Reform Party of the Jews included them in the
The collection of Old Testament writings is not included.

An important circumstance that, to my knowledge, has not yet been
What was not taken into account is also this: the name

Moses, except in the post-exilic Malachi chapter 4, verse 4. and Daniel chapters 9, 11, 13, in no prophet at all occurs; at least to me this name is nowhere in the Prophets appeared to him; even Ezekiel, who was un- who knows the contents of Mosaic Law precisely, appeals not yet on Moses. It must be very natural that The question arises: how is it possible that the prophets... The name of the famous legislator and founder of religion not mentioning that they do not appeal to his authority everywhere? — They probably would have done so if they had these who would have had authority for themselves! The few prophets who All of those that have been preserved for us belong to that prophetic tradition. party which sought to refine the worship of the Hebrews; They did not feel compelled to appeal to Moses to remove him from the situation. whom they probably knew that the human sacrifice service which traced back to him, as Ezekiel really was. He clearly acknowledges (chapter 20, 25) that Jehovah the Jews, allegedly to punish them and thereby lead to their extermination.

28

to bring knowledge, that a law had been given in the desert, that it had not been good, the law, the firstborn to sacrifice. Such an inherited law was the foundation upon which including the opposing priests and prophets, this was to them the old, true and genuine law, which cannot be under- (may let go); the precepts of those reformatory But prophets declared them to be forgeries.

Two extremely important circumstances come into play here. Consider; once: the books of the Old Testament. They do not hold any prophetic writings from the Kingdom of Israel. Hofea, whose homeland is doubtful, probably belongs to— (likewise to Judah); then: they also contain no Writings of a prophet from the kingdom of Judah, in whose time to look back on the last years of the Kingdom of Israel would be; the oldest Jewish prophets, Amos, Hofen,?)

Isaiah, Micah, do not extend a century beyond those Ka— catastrophe up, which in the year 722 BC was given to the kingdom Israel brought an end to it. Now it is known that the empires Judah and Israel were by no means lacking in prophets; in the Prophet's schools in Ramah, Jericho, Bethel and Gilgal Prophets were trained by the hundreds. In Bethel, they met—Saul once had a whole host of prophets with Music 3); Samuel teaches two choirs in Rama. Prophecy—ten, and whoever comes near these prophets will

1) Yes. 28, 7; Yes. 29, 10; Jer. 13, 13; Jer. 18, 18; Ezekiel 22, 26; Jer. 8, 8, 9; Jer. 7, 4; Jer. 9, 5.

2) Joel is usually placed around the year 800 BC; Vatke In contrast (I, 462) places him in the post-exilic period. Apparently This prophet did not live before the Babylonian exile. He speaks from a return of “the captivity of Jerusalem,” chapter 1. 3, 6., concerning the sale of Jewish prisoners to the Greeks—chen, Chapter 3, 11. — Even the oldest prophets know sämmt The downfall of the kingdom of Israel. Compare, for example, Amos 3. 11-15; Amos chap. 9; Hosea 3:4; Micah 2, 10, 12.

) 1 Samuel 10:5

29

likewise seized by the Spirit and also prophesies); the According to this account, the gift of prophecy spread among the Hebrews. like a contagious substance. When Jezebel attacked the prophets Je-Hova's exterminates, Obadiah hides a hundred of the same in two caves); fifty prophets appear at Elijah and Elisha (students?); according to 2 Kings 6:1, the number of prophets—The pupils grew so tall that they had to build themselves a new house; Ahab, king of Srael, gathers the prophets of Jehovah, "at 400 men." How is it, then, that we at a such a multitude of prophets, whose kingdoms of Israel and Judah rejoiced, only so few prophetic products er—How have we been held? How is it that we are from the kingdom Israel, where the prophetic sites of Ramah, Jericho and Bethel (Laying, having no prophetic writing at all?) How come that those collectors of the Old Testament after the return Return from captivity to us from the earlier prophets, e.g. by Elijah and Elisha, such important people, Haven't kept anything? — Should all of these pro—

Only those sixteen prophets recorded their oracles, which have been preserved for us? Certainly not! Rather,
 Writing instruction constitutes a significant part of the un—have identified the instruction in the schools of the Prophets, and the same motives that led those sixteen to write—Despite stipulating the proper safekeeping of their oracles, they had to Other prophets also called for the same procedure.
 Let it be! Or would the writings of all the other prophets be...
 Lost? That would be truly strange; alone
 the writings of a few men, which we continue to read

1) 1st Saturday. 10, 6. 1 Sat. 19, 20 - 24. 2) 1 Kings. 18, 4, 13.
) 2nd King. 2, 7.) 1 Kings. 22, 6.

Ezekiel still seems to have records from Israelite prophets.
 know. Ezek. 38:17. It is admitted in this passage, that the Israelites also pro in the name and spirit of Jehovah phezeiten.

30

rend with their age, with the priesthood and the pros
 The prophets, seeing themselves in battle, would have survived; the writings
 But the vast majority of the prophets, who were indeed false, for blinded, for wicked in our biblical books he is explained, but nevertheless, as the ruling party, it is-(seems to be persecuted by those who see the Reformers as innovators): the
 The writings of this ruling majority would all be characterized by Chance lost? — No chance can work like this;
 There is an intention behind this. The post-exilic collections
 They rejected all prophetic writings that did not were held within their system, and since we had no prophetic to possess a book from the kingdom of Israel, since it is not a prophetic one Book from India dating back to the year 800 BC, fo
 This is proof that the earlier prophets were with him
 later so-called Mosaic Laws do not agree—ten, and that it was therefore deemed necessary to remove their existing to reject those writings. This is also evidenced by—confirms that precisely those aforementioned places of the prophets—Schools were the main centers of the condemned idolatry (cf.

(Hosea 5:8). Hosea warns the Jews to go to Bethel and to go to Gilgal, where the bull service flourished (Hof. 4, 153

(Chapter 9, 15; Chapter 12, 12) Amos says in Chapter 4, 4: Go to Bethel and practice apostasy, go to Gilgal and heap up apostasy! How little those earlier prophets were concerned about human sacrifice—rebounded, is indeed due to Samuel's own dismemberment of the King Agag and through Elijah's sacrifice of the n hin^s (expressed at length).

1) Yes. 29, 10; Yes. 9, 15, 16; Yes. 28, 7; Jer. 23, 11; Jer. Cape. 28; Jer. 37, 19; Complaint Jer. 2, 14; Complaint Jer. 4, 13.

2) No one will object to our writing skills here. does not extend back beyond the year 800 in Paleftina; this is the The reason why we do not possess any prophetic writings that speak about extend into this year. It would therefore naturally also be Judgment was also passed on the Mosaic writings! Rarely

31

But even those prophets whose writings have been given to us were kept, except for Ezekiel, who was in the baby- prophesied about the Ionian captivity, no knowledge of our^s rem of today's Mosaic Law; first Ezekiel (600 BC) demonstrates a precise familiarity with the so-called mo^s (Saisian precepts!). The prophets in general go to many places beyond this law; for example, when they, like Isaiah^s, their Jehovah neither sacrifice nor Sabbaths, but good works demanded, if they, like Jeremiah), so^s even to declare the Ark of the Covenant insignificant: this is what they are. Sayings which the mofaifchen books, to which it is distinguished^s It is not at all necessary to do anything about priest statutes^s ten. One can see from these Mosaic books that Prie^s The prevailing influence was that of the Reformation spirits only insofar as the priestly pre— Some allowed it. It is no longer that more sublime spirit. of Isaiah, who speaks through them: it is the ossified one The spirit of the priesthood, as it manifested itself at the founding of the announces the new state after the Babylonian exile, how The prophet Ezekiel also explains it in detail; it is a Dissolving into a hollow, dead form, between which

here and there a spark of the spirit of those few prophecies—ten urges. The same biblical books which this offered—know the Mosaic Law, as in the books of Joshua, the King—
Nige, the chronicle, also know the Babylonian prisoners

This art may well have existed in those early times;
However, one can probably assume with certainty that in the Sa
The art of writing was already practiced in Palestine during the Lamonian era.
has been. But even if the rarity of this art of The reason would be that we have no writing from any prophet before 800 AD.
to possess a product: how is it that we also have no soches of the important prophets in the subsequent period have, who appeared as opponents of our traditional prophets?

From Chapter 40 onwards. The face falls into exile.

) Yes. 1, 11. ff.) Jer. 3, 16.

32

Shaft; earlier writings know nothing of this law.
Even the proverbs of Solomon, which so often give rise to
They would have, but nowhere do they invoke such a law.

The festivals, of which so many are mentioned in the Mosaic books...
Extensive discussions can be found in earlier times.
The Jews were likewise not celebrated in the prescribed manner.
We hear nowhere that the death penalty, which is described in Exodus 2.
31:14 and Exodus 35:2, on the desecration of the Sab baths would have been used. Only The Mosaic books themselves once let a man who Anyone who cuts wood on the Sabbath, stone them!); the whole community must lead him out of the camp and carry out the stoning
gen; one needed such an example in ancient history, for the Jews were by no means inclined to submit to that late to submit to the more devout commandments of Sabbath rest. The oldest
The prophets are not inclined to observe the Sabbath. (According to Isaiah?)
Sabbaths and new moons are an abomination to Jehovah;
(in Hosea's case) Jehovah wants the new moons and Sabbaths of the
To put an end to the Israelites. These were the days of sacrifice.

the human sacrifices, and probably also the market days, where a Special trade with the Phoenicians took place.
The seventh day was sacred to Saturn, the Moloch.
oldest trace that this day was marked by rest from business
The celebration can be found in the prophet Amos. This prophet says in chapter 8, verse 5, that the Jews hardly saw the end of the Sabbaths could be expected to resume their trade.
begin. Jeremiah stands at the gate and demands the Jews who called for the observance of the Sabbath, but in vain");
Ezekiel also complains that the days of rest are being desecrated. Yes even under Nehemiah, after the Babylonian tragedy—
Genschaft, the Jews worked on the Sabbath, as on the rest of the week.

— —

) Numbers 15, 32.) Jef. 1, 13.) Hof. 2, 11.) Jer. Cap. 17.
9) Ezek. 20:16; Chapter 22:8.

33

in those days; Nehemiah admits that the fathers also so-than would have, and closes the gates for the future,
to interrupt trade). — How can this be prevented?
The relationship was based on a law originating from Moses.
will be, after which even the smallest offense against the Sab—
In Karlsruhe, reading wood was punishable by death.
would have been?

A Mosaic celebration of Pasha, as described in the Pentateuch so frequently and so seriously, even under penalty of death?), prescribed—Ben is also only found under Josiah. When that When the Book of Law was found in the temple, King Josiah ordered 2 Kings 23:21: "Keep Passover to Jehovah your God, as It is written in this book of the covenant. For it was "No such Pasha," it says, "has been held by the Times of the judges who judged Israel, and the whole
Time of the kings of Israel and the kings of Judah.
In other words, one didn't know how to react.
internally, that Pasha had ever been celebrated in this way

be, or, it was in truth never before in such a way
 The form was committed. For it used to be, as one does with good Reason may be assumed, that annual festival of the Phoenicians tribes, which was celebrated with human sacrifices, a Festival, which in ancient times also included the inhabitants of Rhodes and Creta committed this by dedicating children and a ge— to Saturn.
 fattened man sacrificed s). This is a strange thing.
 Confession. Back to the time of Josiah, a few years ago.
 tenth before the fall of the Jewish state, no pa
 sha, as prescribed in the Mosaic books;
 and this is literally stated by the biblical author himself.

) Nehem. 13, 15 ff.) Exodus. 12, 19; Leviticus. 23, 5-8; 4 Mos. 28, 16 - 25; 5. Moof. 16, 1-8.

3) Alexander ab Alexandro, dierum genial. VI., cap. 26. Also In Carthage, an annual festival was celebrated, at which the sacrificed his most beloved children. Eus eb. de laudib. Constant. c. 13.

2
 >

34

Agreed! He sets the border at the beginning of the judges period, because according to the discovered law book in the age
 Moses himself celebrated the Passover in the correct manner.
 (should be). However, the author could not find any evidence of this anywhere.
 who conclude from this, as from the law book itself, which of course this insurance had to be given if it implemented its new order nung wanted to assert as Mosaic law. Because Had there been any news besides that discovered law?
 have that one can compare the previous cult in a disgusting way such an error, in contradiction with Moses' will;
 So would a king like Josiah, who so willingly embraced the religion...
 (gößen Dienst amended according to the discovered law)
 This was already done when the new government took office.
 have. =

Even the Feast of Tabernacles, prescribed at the following times, different places in the Mosaic books?), confesses the biblical. The text itself states (Nehemiah 8:17) that it has not existed since Joshua. It was celebrated according to Mosaic law until Nehemiah, after the founding of the new state at the end of the Babylonian captivity. The Mosaic writings are so bold as to put the command in Moses' mouth, that at this festival the law will be read to the people (should have). That this did not happen is taught by the whole of Jewish history. A strange story. How could such an institution have...

The chronicle, dishonest for its own purposes, as is so often the case, does indeed give the same message as above, but says (instead of about the Times of the Judges,) "since the time of Samuel the Prophet, "and thus, by this leap, requested the judicial term for the. Having taken possession of the validity of the Mosaic precept, a Period, which, however, very clearly shows that one can find neither in it nor in the Bible that the Jews neither followed nor knew the Mosaic Law.

) Compare 2 Kings, chapter 22. We must immediately address this point. I'll come back to this in more detail. | .

) Exodus. 23, 16; 3. Mom. 23, 33; 5. Moof. 16, 13; 5. Moof. 31, 10. 9) Deuteronomy 31, 10.

35

Could Mosaic law have fallen into complete oblivion? It would also have been hardly possible within the seven Days that the festival lasted, the five books to the people to read aloud from Moses; one would work from early morning until late into the night. had to read late at night, so that the common man would undoubtedly have lost all attention. The general historical cause, to which the Mosaic books refer (bring the festival back!), clearly shows itself as sought after, undurable, false. The festival should be celebrated in remembrance that the Hebrews had been in the desert in wretched conditions. They must live in huts; and yet this Feast of Tabernacles is a lavish feast of joy, where huts made of palm trees are built and (builds lemon branches), celebrates merry feasts and in Germany. A society of women performs nightly dances. Plutarch (Does the Feast of Tabernacles contain a festival of Dionysus?), and

He is certainly not wrong; the Jewish Jehovah and the Greek Chinese Dionysus are, as we will learn in the course of our study... The fear will still be clearly visible, very close to each other. related, originally one and the same being, so that not the Jews who took God and his festival from the Greeks that they had borrowed from them, but that this Dionysus from Phoenicia came to Greece. The festival itself is a harvest festival. and a joyous celebration in honor of the creative force of nature. The Huts made of foliage, the pouring of water, the meaning of form of fertilization, the nocturnal activity of women, which took place in Jerusalem in the courtyard of the temple on the evening of On the first day of the festival, an illumination will be performed, with the lambs pendochte made from the priests' worn-out trousers the"), the music and the torch dance of the men on the Places of this lighting: all these circumstances are proof for a gender-based cult to glorify the creation of nature.

1) Leviticus. 23.) Josh. antique 13, 13. 5.) Plut. sympos. 4, 5.
) Talmud. Tractate Succa 5, 2 — 4. in Winer, Bibl. Realw. II., 9.
 3 *

36

From the celebration of a jubilee year, which is described in detail. The instructions given in 3 Mos. Chapter 25 are found before the No trace of exile; and after exile, where the law is in truth If there was any such thing as "heir," one will search in vain under the Jew seek the realization of that precept which demands that all serfs be freed and all purchased Land returned to its original owners without compensation to be handed out. Even the good Michaelis (must confess): "Mostly I only read about transgressions of this." Law. Never in history do I find the celebration of a the The Bible never mentions or weaves in the years; it never counts. after years of celebration, which would be a much more comfortable chronograph It would have been more accurate to simply follow the years of the kings. to reckon with.» Biblical passages, such as 1 Kings chapter 21, Isaiah. 5, 8, Jer. 34, 11. apparently suggest that, how else "Waywards, even among the Jews the purchased properties as always." were considered during possession and serfdom was life imprisonment. Likewise, no trace can be found that in every seventh or sabbatical year, the properties unbuilt remained. "When I read 2 Chronicles 36:21," says the Orthodox Michaelis, "then I almost come to the Thoughts that the celebration of the Sabbatical year seventy times one after the other, that is, over a period of 500 years, unbuilt has been left. Moses himself seems not to have believed, that this law of the Jubilee and Sabbath year shall not be violated. would be kept sufficiently light. If he were among others Curses threaten the Israelites with the devastation of their country, He writes: then the land will celebrate the Sabbaths, which it had not celebrated before (Leviticus 26:34), sets so in advance that this celebration is taken away from him around that time I will move there, since it is populated.' — How clear everything becomes, when one knows that this supposedly Mosaic law only shortly before the Babylonian captivity and in the level of detail we have in five books, either processed in captivity itself or after it was! Thus, the authors were able to easily place Moses in the Let the future be read, that the laws concerning the Sabbath and The anniversary year would not be celebrated; they had this time behind them. But if their law originated with Moses, then They had to, of course, at least for Moses' time. to ascribe validity to age, as they do in all their laws have done.

) Mos. Law II., p. 4s ff.

37

There are so many points of proof that support this of ours. Mosaic Law in the last times of the Jewish state reject the notion that taking all into account and choosing one from detailed treatment of the same, this my introduction goes too far would expand. The object wants its own, made of Deserves a comprehensive work, on which our diligently researching Time will probably not allow any more waiting; Bohlen has already in his introduction to Genesis a good reason It's been laid out. Here are just a few more remarks.

We are not alone in finding the Mosaic prohibition of a marriage with the so-called heathens before captivity nowhere observed among the Hebrews (more on this later); but the older writings also know the strict prohibition of marriage with persons from nearby Not degrees of kinship. In the second book of Samuel's Chapter 13, verse 13, Tamar finds no reason why her Father David forbade her marriage to her brother Ammon. should; a position that would certainly give the rabbi much to do. has done. The king's harem is inherited by the ancient Hebrews from one ruler to another, from Father to son. David comes into possession of Saul's Women; Jehovah himself gives them to him :). As Absalom was Having dethroned his father David, he asks the Ahithophel asked Rath how he should begin to get involved in to strengthen the regency; for the counsel of this man This was true for everyone, and even for David, as much as a saying. Jehovah's). There he acts in the guise of a prophet ten standing Ahithophelus proposed that Absalom should be in Jerusalem wives of his father David be-sleep, in order to prove to the people that he is in the possession of the royal harem; such an act It seems that among the Hebrews, as elsewhere, the crowning achievement is the public one.

1) 2 Samuel 12:8.

38

to have given literal proof that one is in possession of the Regenshaft sey. This proposal, which 2 Sam. 12:11. as An event of Jehovah is presented, also actually to be carried out. Absalom holds a public meeting. and rapes his father's wives in front of the eyes of entire Sfrael» 2). — How can such historical Testimonies speak of the fact that at that time a mosaic Was the Schengen law known, like ours? —

The very late emergence of Mosaic law, shortly before the fall of the Kingdom of Judah, but now there is the Old Testament itself is an explicit and compelling one Testimony 2 Kings chapter 22 and 2 Chronicles 34.

The empire of Ssrael had long since perished (722
(b.C.); King Josiah reigned in the kingdom of Judah (642 to 611).
(b.C.). The kingdom of Judah was already inclined towards its
The end; for already in the year 598 Jerusalem was conquered by captured by the Chaldeans, the temple plundered, the king Jehoiachin with the prophet Ezekiel and a number
Jews taken into captivity; in the year 588 end
It was when King Zedekiah sided with the Egyptians.
If it strikes, the Chaldeans will again invade the land, destroying Je Rusalem and lead most of the Jews away with them.
to Babylonia. Under the reign of the aforementioned King Josiah, therefore, around the year 622 BC, wore

1) 2 Samuel 16:23
) 2 Samuel 16:20-23

39

to himself an event that relates to Jewish history, such as on the old testament, which casts a very different light.

King Josiah was, as is told in 2 Kings chapter 22, eight years old when he came to power, and ruled for a Thirty years in Jerusalem. In the eighteenth year...
In the government, he sent his clerk Saphan to the High Priest Hilkiah went to the temple to collect the payment of the
to find construction workers who can improve the Tem pels were employed. The High One hands the scribe over.
The priest had a book of the law that he found in Jehovah's house.
I have, it seems, in the box from which he took the
The clerk took money to pay the construction workers.
Saphan tells Josia: "Hilkiah gave me a book, which he "Priest, given," and reads the scripture to the king. As
When Josiah hears the contents, he is dismayed and distraught.
He tears his clothes. He commands the High Priest Hilkiah, to the scribe Saphan, the Ahikam, Saphan's son, the Achbor and Asiah, for him and for the Jewish people

“Through the words of this found book, to Jehovah ask. For great is the wrath of Jehovah that is against us. It is inflamed because our fathers did not obey the Words of this book, to do everything as it tells us^{ben}.» Upon this order, the named men ordered themselves to the prophetess Huldah, the wife of Sallum, to ask her to learn Jehovah's will and judgment. Not so Jeremiah, who was already in the thirteenth year of Josiah had begun his prophetic career, nor the The High Priest himself reveals Jehovah's will, but a a little-known prophetess who undoubtedly... enjoyed the highest esteem in Jerusalem; although hers was not in Josiah's possession. given promise, which has not come to pass, from its Her prophetic gifts have not left a glorious legacy. gives the pronouncement: “Thus says Jehovah: Behold, I bring Misfortune befalls this place and its inhabitants, all words of the book which the king of Judah read. Therefore, that they would leave me and smoke me with other gods, me to provoke with all the works of their hands; such is my wrath. It was kindled in this place and will not be extinguished. But to the king of Judah, who is sending you to ask Jehovah, Jo spoke to him: Thus says Jehovah, the God of Israel: the words you heard — because your heart was softened^{whom} you humble yourself before Jehovah by listening, what I talked about regarding this place and its inhabitants, that they shall become a source of devastation and a curse, and Because you tore your clothes and wept before me: so I I too belong, says Jehovah. Therefore, behold, I will gather you to your fathers, and you shall be gathered who May they rest in peace at your graves, and may your eyes be not to see all the misfortune that I bring upon this Location.

40

It was in the way of the prophets that for the non^{Following} the commandment, which was said to originate from Moses, punishment had to enter, although king and people were so far away and unschooled. were dig when (as the whole story shows) neither priests Even prophets knew something about this Mosaic law.

The prophetess must therefore have prophesied misfortune.
 In contrast, the relationship is focused on the soon-to-come the complete downfall of the Kingdom of Judah was so clear that one not the hand of the biblical authors of the books of the Kö
 Some who knew of this downfall should notice it.
 King Josiah, for his part, had to be punished for his attention to the
 A pleasant promise is given by the law, which each but it did not come to pass; for Josiah was not “A peace gathered to the graves of fine fathers, much more in a battle against the Egyptians under Pharaoh Necho at Megiddo difficult 0 so that he at his Wounds die.)

★

) 2nd King. 22, 29 ff. 2 Chr. 35, 20 ff.

41

When King Josta was told the prophetess's pronouncement
 Having announced, he gathered to him all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem went up to the house of Jehovah and all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests and the prophets and all the people, Both small and large, and he read all the words in her ears.
 of the Book of the Covenant, which was found in the house Jehovah's. And the king stood on the platform and closed the covenant before Jehovah, to follow Jehovah and his—
 to keep the messenger and his ordinances and his statutes with all my heart and with all my soul, the words of this to fulfill the covenant, which was written in this book.
 And all the people entered into the covenant. And the king commanded Hilkia, the High Priest, and the Sub-Priests and the Doorkeepers, to remove all things from Jehovah's temple—
 räth, which is for Baal and Asherah and the whole army
 "made of heaven" and so forth. What follows is an appendix.
 a count of all the deities who were then in Jerusalem and were worshipped in the temple itself, which we will not discuss here.
 to continue acting. One is almost tempted to believe that they are acting against the Human sacrifices offered to Jehovah have

This discovered law has not yet been pronounced; for according to 2 Kings 23:20, sacrifices, precisely as a consequence of his reformation, Josiah the priests of the heights; and yet again the men are offerings from the prophets, who at least according to this law~~s~~ book involved find, so sharply criticized, that they in this Points will hardly have been conceded to the priests).

The chronicle (2 Chronicles 34) gives a slightly different account. Its authors are far bolder in their portrayal of history. real truth in the interest of the later Jehovah cult and the The nation's glory; in particular, they like to conceal circumstances, which testify against a previous validity of the Mosaic Law. Thus, the chronicle (1 Chronicles 14:10) mentions nothing of the Je~~s~~ The image of David; it conceals the idolatry of Sa~~s~~

—

42

We initially conclude from this historical news...
So much is clear and undeniable:
In the last days of the Kingdom of Judah, a flourishing [culture] flourished among the lomo (2 Chron. 13); she says nothing about the idolatry of Abia. (2 Chron. 19), Nothing of the bronze idol of the serpent, that was supposed to originate from Moses (cf. Gramberg, Critical History). d. alt. Test., I., 538, where such omissions and corruptions further evidence has been provided). Also the above er~~s~~

The chronicle seeks to mitigate the counting as much as possible in its own interest. She abandons King Josiah in his eighth year, when he was still a boy whom God David sought, and in the twelfth, still before the discovery of the Book of the Law, the kingdom of Judah from the Cleanse the idolatry. She conceals the fact that Josiah the priests sacrificed, but only says (2 Chronicles 34:8) that he the He burned the bones of the priests on their altars. In eighteenth years now (she explicitly puts it in her interest in addition: »after the cleansing of the land and the house,) lets They too will find the Book of the Law in the temple through Hilkiyah at Ge~~s~~

Opportunity for improvement. She pushes without any historical context.
 There is a good reason why the kings of Judah were defeated by force.
 Destruction would have made repairs necessary, just to...
 to increase hatred against those idolatrous kings; the temple was completely devoted to idolatry, and it was among the Therefore, kings were by no means a cause for hostile behavior.
 There is an objection to this building. However, it now appears that...
 The chronicle also tells of Josiah tearing his garment when they...
 The words of the law were read aloud, followed by a literal repetition.
 retrieval of the further course of events, as it is told in 2 Kings 22;
 One asks the prophetess, one holds a meeting of the Priests.
 ster, the prophets, the people, a new covenant is made.
 before Jehovah, to follow him: in short, all the circumstances follow, which prove that the content of the book is new, great sensational, whereas idolatry has so far been generally considered Mosaic institution was recognized, which further proves that Josiah did not practice idolatry before the discovery of the book
 It could have been abolished, according to the chronicle. It then concludes.
 a new narrative about the glory of Pasha, the
 They celebrated, and as usual, exaggerations were made. Josia commands the Levites according to the writings of David and according to the 43

Jews, those cults which are described in the biblical books with
 The term idolatry is used; one worships Jehovah, the Moloch, the Camos, the Ashera, the Astarte, as this the 23rd chapter of the second book of Kings in detail confirmed throughout the land and in the temple in Jerusalem itself.
 It is not just a part or a few apostates who cultivate the not idolatry, but the whole people, the king, the High priests, the priests and prophets. This is through no deliberate apostasy from Jehovah, no aversion visible against an existing Mosaic law; rather It is generally believed that this service is precisely in the will
 the old legislator founded fey, The King to min Desten is very ready, just as one gives him a Mosaic law.
 presents a document that contradicts this idolatry, the whole to alter the worship of God according to this law; indeed, it falls into dismay upon receiving this new instruction, and shows it irrefutably, he had not the slightest idea,

that the existing idolatry was against the will of Moses.
Priests and prophets, of course, are not so easily deterred by
to turn them away from their inherited religion, like this young king; Josiah's reformation is unsuccessful; already fine son Jo a has brought everything back to the way it was before; he

The writings of Solomon instruct them to be prepared according to their divisions.

The post-exilic authors of the Chronicle as little as we; they only wish to be present on this occasion.
to trace the Levitical service back to David. For were Such writings existed in Josiah's time: why did the pious King Josiah not before the discovery of the Book of the Law
Was this taken into consideration? Josia is now supposed to celebrate the Pa
He provided the people with 30,000 sheep and 30,000 [items] from his own resources.
They gave cattle as gifts; the temple elders admit
These victims also included 2,600 lambs and 300 cattle, the colonels
The Levites demanded 5000 lambs and 500 cattle. So that would be... this Passover feast in the Temple in Jerusalem no less than 30,800 cattle and 37,600 sheep were sacrificed!!

44

It does again, "what is evil in the eyes of Jehovah, completely
Yes, as fine fathers have done (2 Kings 23:32); fine brother Jehoiakim throws the writings of Jeremiah into the fire (Jer.
36:23); idolatry remains dominant again in Judah until the complete downfall of the state, and the Jews take men took him into captivity.

This is certainly a curious testimony, which to put the whole story of the Hebrews in a different light must. — There is no recognized Mosaic law in un in his sense, except for King Josiah; the much-reviled idol Service is an ancient state cult; even if one does not...
Rade can derive in that manner and extent from Moses,
One thing is certain: what is called idolatry does not apply.
for an offense against the will of the legislator.

But the Mosaic Law was indeed found; therefore it is

It was undoubtedly lost at some point, in earlier times were they valid?

The law book of a religious founder is certainly the hot one—the most beautiful book of a nation, and it is inconceivable that it could only be lost or misplaced by such chance; especially if a copy was kept in the Holy of Holies—that would be as required in Deuteronomy 31:26, or if one must acknowledge the thousands of doorkeepers and priests wanted, which Solomon had already placed over the temple should, or if Moses himself, as the rabbis want, briefly He had produced thirteen copies before his death, to give each one a place to hand over a copy to the tribe; or if every king upon his accession to the throne, he presented himself with the temple specimens. The Levites would have had to take a copy, as it was Deuteronomy 17:18 prescribes it. It is also assumed that... Such a book of laws exists only in a single copy. If they exist, then one could expect all the more that at Fire hazards or looting especially threatened the priesthood. that would have brought this sanctuary to safety; to an ab Handling without external danger is completely impossible.

45

to be thought of. But now we find in the whole time-space from the construction of the Temple by Solomon to the The discovery of the scripture under Josiah, no fire in the Temple— The temple treasury was mentioned only once. It is indeed mentioned by Local kings were often plundered, but here it was only Aside from money. Only once did it penetrate before the chal—a foreigner entered the temple under Rehoboam, who Egyptian King Sisak; and of him 1 Kings 14:26 is written. only said that he had the treasures of the temple and the king took a copy of the law book with him from the palace; to have no value to a foreign conqueror. Also from the Israelite King Joash, who once conquered Jerusalem and plundering the temple, it is only reported that he got gold and I took the silver and the implements with me (2 Kings 14:14). King Hezekiah also had to deal with the Assyrians at some point. to hand over the temple treasure; but the enemies lift the Be encampment in Jerusalem without entering the city).

The Chaldean plunder under the reign of Joiah Chin's fell only ten years after Josiah's death; soon after
 The temple was destroyed under Zedekiah in 588 BC.
 (disturbs?). Would one of these lootings have resulted in the loss of the Ge
 This would have resulted in a set of rules, and would be, which is completely untrue
 It is likely that such an incident is not recorded in historical books.
 which cover this period have gone unmentioned; so would this perhaps lead to the disappearance of the law
 book, but not remotely a disappearance of the law
 Let them explain it themselves; because of course in such a situation
 If the priests had nothing more urgent to do than... the well-known law, in terms of its content, from memory
 to record again.

One might perhaps discover the existence of this law book there by believing one can save something from an earlier time, if one be chief, an idolatrous king (they were, of course, more than that).

1) 2nd King. Cape. 18 and 19.) 2 Kings. Cape. 24.

46

(or less all) have put the law book aside.
 However, it is not readily apparent why a King, why the priesthood, why the pre-kingdom at all?
 take those for whom such removal is solely intended
 This could become our Mosaic Law, which we should not wish to do.
 would have seen it if it hadn't contained any innovations.
 This law neither limits royal power, nor Otherwise, the aristocracy; the idolatrous cult had its own ceremonies.
 also; one can see from the biblical books that the mosaic
 The ceremonial service has been reinvented to the least extent, rather, it is based on existing customs.
 is; even the tenth is mentioned earlier, the Israel
 They also brought him to their bull god (Amos 4:4). There
 In addition, this our Mosaic Law also writes a lot.
 offerings to the priests and to the temple treasury, which
 This proved useful to the ruler in times of need:
 So why should kings and priests oppose this law?
 s?etz gewass s?ei, wenn sie die Uebkon haben ha

could it be that it originated in this way from Moses?
It doesn't forbid any of the favorite oriental inclinations
No despots, neither war, nor harem, nor wine,
And more extortion! It was such a wonderful thing for the Priests, that it may benefit the common man with his tithes and Temple offerings left one almost breathless!
But the king would have to be a great simpleton, who is a Ge ) The rabbinic legend (Rab. Salomon bei Lyra ad 2. Reg. 22), King Ahaz had all the law books he could get his hands on.

could be burned, so that he could not be accused of fine idolatry as an abomination:
The accusation of deviating from the law can be found in the Ge
The story offers not the slightest justification. Where do the Rabi get their information from?
Do they know this? Neither the Books of Kings, nor those of the
The chronicle gives any such indication. Also, the
The stated reason is absurd. Would it be the idolized kings?
to have been to cultivate the reputation of pure servants of Jehovah, they had Idolatry is not permitted.

47

a typebook he did not want, instead of destroying it, in the money box or hidden somewhere else in the temple, where it
The priests could have found them every day! And even If he had consumed it, that would have been against the religious
The constitution was still very poorly aligned. A Re religion, which has been among a people for a millennium would have been cultivated, which continually involved thousands of priests and had prophets as representatives whose laws were read annually
during the Feast of Tabernacles, for seven days, the whole
The people should have been read aloud: such an old, dergestal figure
A king in his right mind cannot have a secure religion.
by concealing or destroying the written originals to believe that the customer can be eliminated; also, it would be impossible for her to be in Complete oblivion has fallen, even if the written records...
Documents lost through fire or looting would be.

And now one more thing. How people are nowadays
They are as they were in ancient times; they have always been probably exchanged the unpleasant for the pleasant, himself but certainly not voluntarily, at least not without prospects for a later advantage, for a reverse exchange Understood. Human sacrifice is certainly the most terrible thing imaginable.

can prescribe a religion, and for parents, namely
For mothers, there will surely be nothing more terrible.
as a law which obliges them to provide for their children, their firstborn bornen to the priests for slaughter or burning to pass it on. Even if there is no sacred prohibition of men
If a sacrifice exists, a nation will only be able to survive through the extreme violence or the most extravagant ones that have grown on it to let their hopes be determined by human sacrifice; but now Furthermore, our Mosaic Law forbids people sacrifice most decisively: and from the observance of this so
A prohibition entirely in keeping with human nature would be, despite the curses that are placed on transgression, the Jews from
They would have liked it if their beloved children had been aware that

48

to break the law and incur Jehovah's wrath offered up to be burned? — No, such opposes all human feeling in the most gruesome way
Traditional customs require an ancient justification, a justification.
They have stood for centuries, they demand a long seen legislator, a sanction of highly esteemed ancestors, to be willingly practiced! Where human sacrifices are not not just by individual fanatics, but by the entire people
They are celebrated, and the will of the legislator cannot change that.
not oppose it, they must accept this will.
Find a foothold! A later legislator would no longer have had that opportunity.
can succeed in introducing human sacrifice; only in ancient times.
In ancient times of barbarism, such a law could not have been given.
will, which will then of course change with the growing culture in inherited from later centuries. May one only imagine oneself in Consider the circumstances! Every parent's heart will ache.
They have survived the fight if they sacrificed their child.
had to hand it over. Had the parents now respected the will of the Legislator for the rescue of their child, for the fulfillment their deepest wish was that they would truly only to have their child taken away by extreme violence,

and such violence could not have been used, without quickly leading to open outrage. If so our Mosaic Law forbids human sacrifice,
These sacrifices, however, were still considered a sacrifice in Josiah's time.
Part of the state cult is practiced without one knowing, that they are contrary to a Mosaic law: so it can
Our Mosaic Law was not present even before Joseph.
to be a being.

But now, perhaps the response has long been...
in readiness: Didn't they already before Josiah, before the Ascension?
The discovery of the Book of Law was the work of the prophets who lived, who...
To reject idolatry and appeal to a law?

They invoke a law of Moses, as already mentioned above.
I was noticed, the prophets nowhere; Malachi of course

—

49

and Daniel, where a law of the Mofe is mentioned, can't These options are not being considered, as the drafting of this Books only fall after Josiah. However, some disagree.
There are few places where the ancient prophets refer to called by the law of Jehovah'). For example, Amos 2:4 says:
“This is what Jehovah says: Regarding three transgressions of Judah and I won't take it back at four, because they are Jehovah's to despise the law and not keep its statutes, that their lies and idols lead them astray, which their fathers
He followed. Hosea 4:6: “My people will be destroyed.”
out of lack of knowledge. Because you [priest] know
If you despise me, I will despise you, so that you will not give me
You are no longer a priest; and because you have broken the law of your
If God forgets, then I too will forget your children.
In Hosea 8:1, Jehovah rebukes the Sfraelites for being against his have rebelled against the law?); in the twelfth verse he says:
Even if I wrote them many of my laws: they would whom they respected like a stranger's »).

Such places prove nothing for the former existence of our Mosaic Law, but the—rather to clarify the situation somewhat,

in which our traditional prophets to the then

9 The passage Isaiah 29:11, where the word mim with “Law, translated, cannot be counted here; for that Word does not mean law, but vision, prophetic vision;

It is therefore not to be translated: the whole law, but correctly with Luther: every vision. (Castellio translated: omne oracu(lum.) Cf. Winer's Hebrew Lexicon, p. 314.

2) The expression yvd means both rebellavit and defecit, and
However, the first meaning has a different meaning.
"give" is translated as "falling away".

Jeremiah and Ezekiel invoke a law of Jehovah;
Both fall within the period when the law book had already been discovered.
was.

4

50

prevailing religion. Throughout Western Asia, there was a stir.
A better religious spirit prevailed at that time. The same spirit is it, which in Persia and Media through Zoroaster the old
The state religion purified, abolished the image service, people
He rejected sacrifice as an abomination and condemned the worship of God to destruction.
van Akerene, on a single spiritual essence, "The uncreated greatness » led back to which one had no other
It should have a more accurate image than the purest thing that nature offers,
The fire. The age of this Zoroastrian or Devastated.
is of course indeterminate; the name "Friend of Fire" would suggest also a relationship with different people. We can Don't call him five to six centuries with Plato and Aristotle to set 10 years before Plato's birth, but the
It should be noted that he deserves recognition for having to fall earlier.

as Darius, the son of Hystaspes; for had he first
 Those who lived under this ruler would have been the Greeks—(more detailed information about him is available). To the Orient
 According to the Talish news, Zoroaster appeared under the medical leadership.
 nige Guschtasp, probably Cyaxares I., on which,
 as Herodotus I, 106 reports, reigned for forty years, after Volney's calculation from 635 to 595 BC.
 Are the oldest Jewish prophets, whose writings
 which came to us, however, a century earlier;
 This circumstance cannot yet prove that their reforms matorifern endeavors not also in the neighboring countries and especially in the media, such people have gone to the side would be; for even Zoroastrian's Reformation will have its pre-preparation was needed; a reformist approach is required.
 always, that a foundation has already been laid among the people for recognition
 To find security and support. That much is certain: the beginnings of a Attempted purification of religion in Palestine coincide with those in the media at pretty much the same time; whether one against

1) Compare the treatise on this in gleuker't Zend=Avefta
 1. Tol. II, p. 51.

51

Sideways. Suggestion found where the initial impetus came from.
 It can no longer be proven when he came. I am striving not to assign this specifically to the Medes; why Shouldn't this also be done in Palestine, regardless of foreign countries?
 Men have been able to gain the view that the previous Does a strict religion require refinement? The post-religious Judaism, of course, appears to have a large part dogmas, such as those about Satan, about good and evil Angels, of immortality, resurrection of the body, young ftem court adopted from the religion of Zoroastrian; alone
 This may initially be due to the presence of the Jews in Baby Loonies were caused to do this. It always remains strange.
 that the prophet Jeremiah, who in his religious pre-
 He raised positions far beyond his time, a decisive
 He is a friend of the Chaldeans and does everything to help them.
 to help establish dominion over Judea, so that furthermore according to the Chro nik (36:22-23) and the Book of Ezra (1:2) also the

The God of Cyrus is called Jehovah. Cyrus is represented there by Jehovah awakens and the Persian king says: "All kingdoms Jehovah, the God of heaven, has given me the earth—
give, and he commanded me to build him a house.
Jerusalem in Judah).

May these beginnings of a better religious Er—knowledge in Palestine with simultaneous efforts in Me=

Whether they are related or not: enough, they are about the
It existed among the Jews in the year 700 BC.
a time when the kingdom of Israel was just beginning its downfall—was sufficient. However, this improved understanding was limited only to on a very small number of prophets, as it was

) Compare also Isaiah 44:27. The Persian governor Shesba—Zar lays the foundation for the new temple in Jerusalem. (Ezra) 5, 16.) The temple is built at the expense of the Persian king.
builds (Ezra. 6:8); one should pray in it for the Persian king.
(Esther 6:10).

4 *

52

It appears to be cultivated only in a single school of prophets; the
The other prophetic schools, like the priesthood, were pillars of the previous service and pursued those individual men= more than dangerous innovators. It is most strange that, as mentioned above, precisely those places where prophets—schools were located there, because of our prophets.

Idolatry should be severely condemned; also the
The circumstance points to an important clue, namely that precisely the cities of Bethel and Gilgal, where the Ark of the Covenant was kept for a longer period
Time stood and Samuel held the judgment days), idols—
Three is accused of this. As proof that one Among those criticized prophets, not a few men may understand which of the teachings in the Prophets' school—that they had fallen away, that rather this very rebuke—
The ten prophets as the rule, our traditional ones, on the other hand to be considered the exception, some here may

Follow biblical passages literally. Isaiah says in chapter 9, verse 12.

But the people do not turn to the one who strikes them,
And it does not ask about Jehovah of hosts. And so Jehovah will eradicate from Israel head and tail, palm branch and A rush in one day. The oldest and most respected are
The head, and the prophets who teach falsely, are the Tail. For the leaders of this people are leading it astray.
And those who are led perish. That is why the one rejoices.
Lord not of his young men, and of his orphans and widows
He has no mercy; for they are all godless and from “Wicked, and every mouth speaks shameful things.” Isaiah 29:10: They were drunk, but not from wine; they were drunk ken, but not from strong drinks. For Jehovah poured

A spirit of sleeplessness came over you and closed your eyes.
(the prophets) and your heads (the seers) he veils, »
– Jeremiah says in chapter 5, 30: “Terrible things and horrors»

) Bethel 1 Sam. 7:16; Ch. 10:3; Judg. 20:18, 26. Gil:
gal 1st Sat. 7, 16; Cape. 10, 8; Cape. 11, 14; Cape. 15, 21, 33.

53

Bad things happen in the land; the prophets prophesy falsely.
and the priests rule under their leadership and My people love it, therefore. - Chapter 23, 11: "So Pros
Those who are priests are wicked; even in my house
I find their wickedness, says Jehovah. To the prophets
I saw Samaria's folly; they prophesied in the name Baal's and led my people Israel astray. But to the I saw something horrifying in the prophets of Jerusalem: adultery.
and deal with lies, and they strengthen the wicked, that they do not turn from their wickedness, each one of them; they
They are all like Sodom to me, and their inhabitants like Gomorrah.
That is why Jehovah of the hosts speaks of the pro—
Prophets: Behold, I feed them with wormwood and give them drink with poison water, for the prophets are wicked—
It has spread throughout the entire country. That's what they say.
Jehovah of hosts: Do not listen to the words of the Prophets who prophesy to you! They speak to those,

Those who despise me: Jehovah says: It will be well with you.
 go; and to all who walk in the rigidity of their hearts
 sinn, s²prechen fie: No misfortune will come upon you.
 Had they stood in my council, they would have proclaimed my words to my people and led them back from their evil ways and the wickedness of their actions! How long Will this last? Remember my name among the people.
 to bring them into oblivion through their dreams, as well as their Did our fathers forget my name over Baal?
 Ezekiel 22:24: "You are a land that has not been cleansed,
 That which is without rain is on the Day of Wrath. Conspiracy.
 of her prophets within her; like a roaring lion who
 They tear apart with plunder; they devour souls, goods, and sustenance.
 They seize possessions, they do much for their widows in their midst. Their priests violate my law and—consecrate my holy things; between the holy and the un—
 They make no distinction between saints, and the difference
 They do not teach a distinction between the pure and the impure, and before

54 :

On my days off they close their eyes, and I will desecrated among them, »

The older prophets also acknowledge and confess.
 Indeed, that what they call idolatry is the ruling
 It was a religion to which priests and prophets belonged.
 (knew them back to the distant past). They ma^s no attempt at all to save any era; highest
 The oldest time in the desert should be an exception.
 chen, and this too will be, as in the Mosaic books themselves), several prizes were awarded, namely by Amos, who Chapter 5, verse 25 says: - Have you offered me a sacrifice and a grain offering?
 Brought to the desert for forty years, House of Israel? Their Carry the hut of your king and the retinue of your servants.
 Images, the star of your god, which you made for yourselves! —
 This is a highly important point for our investigation, which is discussed under the article Jehovah n.^s men should.

That these few more enlightened prophets now...

presenting one's own religious views as Jehovah's law-ten, is very natural; they were also superficial in their inner selves testifies that this, their law, is the true one, the will of Jehovah.

Be. In Jeremiah, the law and precepts of the Prophets like him. He says?): "This is what Jehovah says: When because you do not listen to me to walk in my law, that I have set before you, that you should listen to the words of my Servants of the prophets, whom I sent to you from early times Tomorrow, before you hear: I will make this house Like Silo and this city, I will make a curse on all people. core of the earth." Be it then that Jeremiah here speaks the law distinguishes itself from the precepts of the prophets and under The law that came into being under Josiah, which the Jews refused to recognize, or that here

1) Compare e.g. B. Jerem. Cape. 2; Ezech. Cape. 20.) Deuteronomy. 12, 8, 9.) Jer. 26, 4, 5.

535

Does the law really mean nothing other than the regulation? ten, which the prophets gave: that much the passage says for sure, that even the prophets combined their sayings for one thing of Jehovah's law. In any case, the reform Matori school of prophets, their written records, upon which the prophets, as upon a law, stood. These These regulations presented themselves as ancient precepts of Jehovah; The prophets then declared the previous idolatry to be true. as a falling away from the will of Jehovah, however these Idolatry, rather, is based on an ancient legal tradition, The prophetic law, on the other hand, was based on an innovation. As is the case everywhere, things will develop gradually. have. Individual teachers gave the students their best. Views; some things were written down; the students became teachers, The young improvements were already being passed down as something of a thing inherited, and in a few decades the whole new doctrine, the prestige of an ancient heritage of the law have providers; although the circumstances of importance always depend on this. The fact remains that Moses is not mentioned. It already had that then.

The belief among the Jews that Jehovah was once prevalent
 He told Moses many things on Sinai, which only because it was passed down in secret tradition, this made it possible for newcomers to
 The struggles have already opened up a wide field; but they seem to be un-
 His earlier prophets, as already mentioned, relied on the authority of the to completely renounce Moses. For her, it was a matter of...
 to give effect to the better views as Jehovah's law-to create; and in this they did not tire. One can scarcely assume that the success was so very small, as he himself presents himself in the prophetic books; for the
 The teachings are too obvious not to have been presented here and must fall on receptive ground there; alone in Great
 These men never found recognition; their zeal backfired.
 from the age of the previous cult and in power
 the opposing party. They were only able to make a re-entry a few times.
 to win over people. First and foremost, Assa and his 56

—

His son Jehoshaphat was presented as a ruler who “did, which was right in the eyes of Jehovah, but the heights-
 They did not, however, abolish their service!); so that therefore, to a
 The eradication of idolatry was unthinkable. Even Joas fol gethan haben, -was Recht war in den Augen
 Jehovah's, for as long as Jehoiada the priest instructed him;
 But even he couldn't eliminate the highs. Finally, he took all the consecrated gold and silver from the temple, to
 to persuade the King of Syria, Hazael, to withdraw.
 (2 Kings, Chapter 12). Then Hezekiah followed (?), as the Bü-
 The kings report, “the commandments which Jehovah Mo-
 He offered, “also abolished the heights; but he nevertheless laid Hand on the temple treasure and the temple decorations. His
 The Reformation is seen by the people as an infringement on the old national order.
 religion, for an insult to the national god Jehovah;
 and it is important that the king, beset by the Assyrians-
 not the siege of Jerusalem as a chastisement, as it
 It seems, in view of his Reformation, that he was a priest at Isaiah sends, who do not follow the prophet's Jehovah to the not make their own, but say in the name of the king: « Se: (Hova, your God)), Finally, Sofia is also through the The discovery of the Law Book led to a Reformation, which is just as temporary as the finer three pre-gangs. The own sons of these reformist kings They are reintroducing the old idolatry. As our pro-pagans might try to find a prince for themselves If they won, the powerful opposing party probably also tightened its belt. Forces for the same purpose, if a king sides inclined towards the Reformed prophets. Among the twenty Be- There were only five rulers of the kingdom of Judah, exactly. Only two were taken, Hezekiah and Josiah, who obeyed the will the prophets, the ones given in our Mosaic books ) 1st king 15, 9. ff. Ch. 22, 41. ff.) 2 Kings. Cape. 18.

3) 2nd King. 18, 22. fi. Cape. 19, 4.

57

The prohibitions against idolatry were in accordance with the law; the eighteen kings of the All the inhabitants of rich Israel were devoted to idolatry; that The people on both sides, as is universally acknowledged, had to all the priests and most of the prophets the religion of the kings. In addition, the Israelites, who were taken prisoner in 722 BC, to vanish without a trace among the Gentiles; the Jews, who In the year 588, the same fate befalls them, likewise they go under; only the tenth part may escape from captivity to- return and found the new kingdom, although it is free for all— stands. — How could one expect the Mei under such conditions? to give space to the nation's old legislator. Regulations were established, like those in our Mosaic Law. Books that condemn idolatry and any community with To strictly forbid non-Jews? How could one believe that this our Mosaic Law already existed as such in the time of the kings or even in the time of the Judge resigned? N

On the struggle itself, which the reforming pro-

The scripture of the Prophets tells us about the conflicts between the Prophets and their opponents.

Jeremiah offers some insight. Even Elijah, whose barbaric

There is not yet a remote amount of zeal for the introduction of better terms.

went, but merely the elimination of the foreign deities

He had his eye on it, and was addressed by his king Ahab:

“Please do it, destroyer of Israel’s 92 Jere≈≈

Mia explains that all misfortune does not move the Jews.

was able to accept the prophetic teaching. In vain had I

“I beat your sons,” said Sehovah, “and disciplined them.”

Do not touch them. Your sword devoured your prophets like a sword.

A devastating lion. Since the expulsion of the Israelites

These prophets had a new purpose in their captivity.

) 1 Kings 18:17

So too the Books of Kings. 2 Kings 18:12. Compare Jeremiah.

25, 4, 5.

58

argument for themselves; they explained the downfall of the neighbor:

rich for a punishment of idolatry) and threatened the Rich Judah with a shared fate. “Thus speaks Ge

"Hova," says Jeremiah chapter 26, verse 4, "if you do not listen to me."

Listen, that you walk in my law, which I have given you presented to you that you should listen to the words of my servants, the Prophets whom I send to you from early morning without your hearing; thus I will make this house, like Shiloh.

And I will make this city a curse to all the peoples of the Earth. And the priests and the prophets heard it, and

All the people spoke these words to Jeremiah in the house of the Lord;

And it happened when Jeremiah had finished speaking. Everything

What Jehovah commanded to be said to all the people, so

The priests and the prophets and everyone seized him

The people said: You must die! — The Entrü≈

However, the threat was more prominent here.

called out, which Jeremiah expelled against Jerusalem; but shows the incident that the Prophet was not held in any respect, with His views had found little or no support.

“The hand of Ahikam,” it says in verse 24, “was with him, that he was not given into the hands of the people, to kill." — The same threat, downfall of the empire, Ger (captivity, is found almost consistently among the prophets); But it is completely ineffective; other prophets know (They said, on the other hand, a happy future?). It just helped, jo we nig, that the law was declared ancient and, in order to protect the up to to justify the invalidity of the present, even the fathers at the time of the initiation who caused the movement in Palestine to fall away from it." Jer. 6:16: "So Jehovah says: Step out onto the roads and look and ask following the old paths, which is the good way, and when Delt upon it, and you will find rest for your souls. But they say: We will not walk on it! And

1) Jer. 2, 30. *) Hof. 11, 5; Jer. 1, 16; Cape. 4, 1; Cape. 5, 19. x.) Jer. 6, 13, 14.) Jer. 32, 23; Cape. 31, 33; Cape. 11, 7.

59

I have appointed guards over you [speaking:] Pay attention the sound of the trumpet! But they say: We do not want to Remember this! Therefore I bring misfortune upon this people; For they did not heed my words, and my law was obeyed. They reviled them. Jeremiah 7:25: "From the day your Fathers left the land of Egypt, except for this one. That day I sent to you all my servants the prophets, every day from early morning onwards; but they did not stop. me and did not incline their ear and were stubborn; they They made it worse than their fathers. Jeremiah 8:5: Why This people has turned away from Jerusalem to everlasting Turning away? They cling tightly to their illusion, they don't want to. repent. Jeremiah 13:10: "This wicked people who refuse to repent, to obey my words, that which walks in stubbornness following his heart and other gods, in order to give them to serve and worship them, it shall be like this Gür "A phone that's good for nothing!"

Against such demands, the law of these prophets The Ge- The party declared its own law to be the original one. and true; and this opposing party is powerful, encompasses the

the whole country, as Jeremiah grants, kings, priests, prophets~~s~~ ten and people). "How may you ask," it says in chapter 1.
8, 8., "We know the wisdom and the law of Jehovah."
Truly, it is the writer's lying pen that turns it into a lie.
The wise will be put to shame, dismayed, and entangled;
See, they have rejected the word of Jehovah, and which Do they have wisdom? — Jeremiah 18:18: "They say: Come and let us plot against Jeremiah; for not
The law can perish among the priests, nor the counsel of the wise, nor the word of God
among the prophets. Come and let us kill him!

1) Jer. 1:18; Chapter 32:32.

60

Speak with your tongue and pay no attention to any fine speech!
Jeremiah refutes the claims of these people, that human sacrifice is in accordance with Jehovah's will. I have "Not commanded," says Jehovah in chapter 7, verse 31, "and it is not my command."
It had not occurred to me that the heights of Topheth to be built in the valley of the sons of Hinnom, in order to
to burn sons and daughters with fire;» Chapter 19, 4:
They have alienated this place and placed other gods there.
It was smoked and filled with the blood of the innocent;
"He did not bid," is stated in Chapter 19, 5 and Chapter 32, 35.
repeatedly, "it had not occurred to him that One should commit such atrocities and offer heights to Baal in the valley of the Sons of Hinnom build, to make sons and daughters the Moloch ..

to consecrate. — But the prophet finds no support;
People are mocking fine regulations. To whom should I speak?
He laments in chapter 6, verse 10, "Whom shall I warn that they may hear?"
Behold, her ear is uncut, and she cannot open it.
Remember. Behold, the word of Jehovah has been mocked by them.
They have been, they have no air in them. Chapter 20, 7: "You
You persuaded me, Jehovah, and I let myself be persuaded; you have Overwhelmed me and pushed it through! But I will become Laughter is commonplace; everyone mocks me.

"The word of Jehovah is a disgrace and a mockery to me!" —
When King Josiah attempted to introduce the Reformation to carry out in a prophetic sense (because that is what it refers to) (undoubtedly Jeremiah chapter 11), was formed in Jerusalem
Lem a conspiracy against these innovations; Jer. 11:9:
And Jehovah said to me: There is a conspiracy Rung among the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. They return to the sins of their fathers, the Ancestors who refused to obey my words
chen, and they wander after other gods to serve them;
It has broken the house of Israel and the house of Judah
my covenant, which I made with their fathers." —
This lawsuit aims to prove that the Reforma

—

61

King Josiah's reign did not go so brilliantly.
gen sey, as described in 2 Kings chapter 22. Also Without this point, it would not be believable that it has become possible for a single ruler to erect an old one to suddenly and completely abolish the traditional cult; by Jere Mia, the contemporary, we notice nothing of a success this purification of the worship of God in Jerusalem; the Pro phet begins and ends with complaints about idolatry.
Jeremiah is extremely active as he travels throughout the land.
Jehovah, who commanded him in chapter 11, verse 6: "Call all These words were spoken in the cities of Judah and in the streets
from Jerusalem and say: Hear the words of this covenant
And do it! For I warned your fathers about the Lord.
Days when I brought them up from the land of Egypt,
up to this day, issuing warnings from early morning onwards,
as I said: Obey my voice; but fie. ge
They did not listen or incline their ears, and walked Each one in the stubbornness of his evil heart; and so let
I will bring upon them all the words of this covenant that I commanded.
to do and which they did not do." — But even in his
Jeremiah finds so little home in the priestly city of Anathoth.
The implication is that one is telling him: Do not prophesy in the Na
"Men of Jehovah, so that you do not die by our hand!"

They are plotting against the Prophet's life and He says: "Let us spoil the tree with fine fruit and exterminate him from the land of the living, so that his
 "No longer remembered by name!" — Traces of this came—pfes of the more enlightened party with the measure which s²
 Those who adhered to the old religion can still be found in the aftermath.
 judge from captivity. So it says in Ezekiel, chapter 1.
 18, 25, 29: "But the house of Israel says: The way
 The Lord's way is not right. My way is not right, house.
 Israel's? Isn't your way rather unrighteous?"

However, we return to the one in the temple under Josiah.
 returned to the discovered law book. The question arises: what has 62

one can think of the contents of this book and what it says about it.
 the sudden discovery of the same?

As noted above, this much is certain: there was something about Josiah.
 At that time, there was no publicly recognized law in the kingdom of Judah, which—ches had rejected idolatry; but the—
 His ministry was criticized by some prophets, albeit with a strong emphasis.
 There are significant deviations; for example, Micah speaks of the men.
 (sacrificing gifts) is certainly not associated with abhorrence, as Jeremiah did.

Learn about the contents of the found book
 We see little in the biblical books themselves. We only glimpse (?).
 that Josiah, as a consequence of the same, abolishes idolatry;
 from other dogmatic or moral teachings of the Book^s
 ches ift im Einzel keine Rede, although the name «Gefgesetz^s book » one can rightly conclude that such things can be said. It is written by A covenant was spoken before Jehovah, and one is obligated to... to follow "Jehovah and to observe fine commandments, fine rules—" ^s
 To keep orders and fine statutes with all one's heart^s to fulfill the words of the covenant with all one's heart and soul.
 People, those who were written were in this book... One changes the celebration of Pasha according to this book; it must therefore
 They have also issued regulations in this regard.
 Statement of the King (2 Kings 22:13): "Great is the Jehovah's wrath, which is kindled against us, because

Our fathers did not obey the words of this book, everything to do as it is prescribed,» let with certainty

1) Micah 6:6-8

2) From 2 Kings, chapters 22 and 23. The chronicle can decide little. the; but she also nowhere says that the book came from Moses that it originated or was written; cf. 2 Chronicles, chapter 1. 34 and 35; rather, she uses the same descriptive expressions. express, like the Book of Kings. Only 2 Chronicles 35:12 reads man, that the Levites had separated the burnt offerings, as was said It is written in the "Law of Moses!", thereby the The content will be the laws, but not the wording of the * ches assigned to Moses.

63

conclude that there are severe threats of punishment regarding the contained idolatry, which mainly targeted the king. may well have prompted him to tear his clothes. Prophetess Hulda also explicitly speaks of an The book threatens the inhabitants to "destroy" and are supposed to become a curse. It would like to be from Be The interpretation is that the name "Mofe" is nowhere to be found here either. is called, however close the request was. The High One Priest Hilikia says: "I have found the Book of the Law; Saphan spoke to the king: "Hilkiah gave me a book." give;» the king hears the words «of the Book of Law; He commands: "Ask Jehovah about the words of this found book; for great is the wrath of Jehovah, that we should not "Obey the words of this book." The Prophetess Huldah speaks of all the words of the book which the king "From Judah." One reads before the ears of the people. all the words of the book that were found in the heap Jehovah's, one promises to keep the statutes which It was written "in this book." One observes Pasha, as it is written "in this book of the covenant." Josiah removes all the monsters from the land to express the words to fulfill the law, "which was written in the Beech tree, which Hilikia, the priest, found in the house of Jehova's. Only at the end of the narrative, where the speaker without doubt abandoning the historical basis he established before who had it, and switched on his own judgment, one reads that it Before Sofiar, there had been no king who had fought with all his might.

had turned to Jehovah entirely according to the Law of Moses,
And no one came after him either. I want to deal with these Quotations do not claim that the content of the book is not it could have been Moses; but Moses was certainly not considered the author of the text: why else?
the many paraphrases, where the simple name is the shortest and would have been the strongest designation? Even if the
The discovered writing is a component of our Mosaic

64

If books were made up of, then this is very understandable; for these books
They themselves do not want to be written by Moses, but They always refer to the legislator in the third person.

The extent of the discovered writing gives us
2 Kings, chapters 22 and 23. At least enough enlightenment that one as can be safely deduced from our five books of Moses
The writing was not included. Hilfia gives the book to Saphan; he delivers the document to the king,
She reads to him, it seems, without interruption, and in
All words will be heard by the appointed large assembly.
The book was read aloud. Back then, people still wrote on hides.
which were rolled up. Would the preparation also be the fer hides already to a considerable degree of fineness had thrived; so it is not believable that a single a man comfortably read the five books of Moses written in this way could have handled it — and we adhere strictly to it.
The expression, so the explanation cannot find space, that
The book was brought to the king by servants. But Furthermore, apart from this, it is explicitly stated that all words
the book feyen was read aloud at the meeting; that However, even if a gathering of early
The morning lasted until late into the night, not the five books
It is clear that Moses could be presented; the assembly would They will also lose all attention at the end. Furthermore, it will be... says he (the king alone) has read all the words of the book of
The federal law was read aloud, which was found (2 Kings 23:2), yes.
After the lecture ended, a conversation took place.
The ceremony began; the king stood up and sealed the pact.

Jehovah and all the people with him (2 Kings 23:3). The He= Clarification: it will be that lecture and the entire celebration. to have granted this for several days is a clumsy Attack on the clear meaning of the biblical presentation, which would certainly have noticed it as a significant circumstance. the celebration could not have ended in one day, son= dern, as necessary, a period of several weeks in have made a claim. If one wants to interpret the biblical text... not to use violence, so one cannot escape the explanation= to avoid the fact that the lecture lasted about a few hours, The whole celebration ended in one day. The king gathers the nobles in his palace. (2 Kings 23:1), goes up with them to the temple, where priests, prophets, and people are gathered, the Scripture before (verse 2), after the end of the lecture he= He rises from his seat and commits himself and the The people, upon the book, as the biblical text says, close the Covenant with Jehovah (verse 3).

65

De Wette vermuthet !), das aufgefunden Buch fey Our fifth book of Moses. As far as this book is concerned However, an overview of the entire law and in particular the most severe threats against the transgressors of the same contains, one would want, if one were choosing between our five books= should choose chern, however with the greatest probability= They can declare themselves the fifth. Gramberg is holding that up. found book for our second book Moses or for a Part of the same; with this second book, the first would be so of roughly the same age; the writing of the third and The fourth book would fall at the beginning, the fifth against the end of the Babylonian captivity); Vatke speaks Does the discovered writing suggest a greater age?

In my opinion, it would be difficult, indeed impossible. to provide proof that the discovered writing this or that of our Mosaic books may have been; for the hints about the content of the scripture are too few, and these hints, which refer to religious purposes Regulations point out and penalties against the offenders threaten, find their relationship to all Mosaic books, ) Contributions J, 175.

9) Krit. Gefch. I, p. 504 and in the preface.

) Religion of the Old Testament I, 504.

with the exception of the first, which is exclusively the Ge-

The history of the patriarchs is discussed. The threats of the Ge-captivity, which is particularly common in the fifth book

The signs are sometimes so clear that they are not visible before the baby

may have been written during the French occupation, consequently in no familial relationship with the threats in may be brought to the found writing; although

These threats, however, are more remotely related to a downfall.

of the people, to be taken into captivity may

had been judged, since the fate of the empire was known

Israel had before it, and little Judah was then between his powerful neighbor stood on such weak feet that

Any impartial observer could have foreseen such an end.

It is also not at all necessary to assume that the discovered writing brings us into our present time

Saisian books have been preserved. That much is true.

It is highly probable from 2 Kings 22 and 23 that their

The extent was less than that of any of our Mosaic

Books; for even "all the words of such a single person

The book could hardly have been presented in a single day at a public meeting.

lung can be presented by a single individual. I

I would rather put forward the view that this writing, which previously had no validity, which therefore undoubtedly applies to the

The temple was laid or found there with the intention of creating a

To aim for reformation, rather a condensed coming together

I have given a statement of all desirable regulations,

as incomplete fragments of one of our mosaic books.

It did not, of course, contain entirely new material, but was based on existing ideas.

on the old institutions, some of which were already in place by Hezekiah had attempted to reform; but she decided to insist on how the

The following activity of Josiah proves, on sole marriage

The revival of the national god Jehovah and a reformation of the Pasha; perhaps they were already reformed from Hezekiah onwards.

There are historical records available, which can be seen at the time of writing.

used the scripture. Our present five books of Moses...

67

against find in their present form apparently later, than this discovered writing. One cannot believe, in the turbulent two decades that passed between Josiah's Reformation and the deportation to the Babylonian captivity—fchhaft lagen, a literary leisure will be found among the small—that a reformed party had been so active that it had become our five books of Moses would have been brought to light, especially since... Even under Josiah's son, idolatry was once again practiced at court and It became the state religion. Rather, the origin of our rer mosaic books into captivity themselves or also only came in the time of the founding of the new state—drafted and attributed to that very small party, which designated a tenth of the Jews, mostly poor, in to return to the fatherland. The remaining nine tenths, who preferred to remain among the pagans, will as before, disdaining innovations and thus also at the I did not participate in the creation of these mosaic books. have. Of course, these Mosaic books were also the Jews are not an entirely new product; rather, the Ver—in all older historical records, whose could get hold of, in that respect more or less literally—have used it when they did not adhere to their reformed views appeared to oppose this, and among these records The scripture according to which Sofia reformed will also be—sen seyn. Where they lacked historical material or unSince it was inexpensive, they filled it out or changed it according to their own wishes. Discretion. Our Mosaic books therefore have allthings have significant historical value; but everywhere is to take into account that the editors were trying their best to their own religious beliefs and their newly introduced cult on Moses and other luminaries of Jewish history, like David, to carry it back.

The story of the objects found in the temple under SofiaThe script should now be something like this. Regarding the... It was common for peoples bordering Palestine to have a 5 * .

to worship the god of the tribe, but also the Deities of neighboring peoples. The Ammonites are called People of Malkam, also simply Malkam h, like the Hebrews Jehovah's people; the Moabites are called the people of Samos, verse do they also honor other gods?), without a doubt also Jehovah, as the Philistines really did when they built— They placed the Ark of the Covenant in their temple. A similar pro— This situation likely took place among the Hebrews. Each— Hova was the god of the nation, the chief god; but besides him The deities of the neighboring peoples formed a kind of court— The state was subservient to him. The god was jealous. his veneration, as is evident in a hundred biblical passages is given; and initially the per— Phetish zeal, like that of Elijah, mainly directed only at, to regard Jehovah as the supreme and most powerful God to obtain. As is well known throughout antiquity, the The power of a god should be measured by the power of his people. a view that was also prevalent among the Jews; each less so the little people of the Hebrews between them— wanted to succeed with a powerful neighbor, a political initiative— The more they saw themselves winning, the more inclined they were to worship other gods— The more preference was given, the more vehemently they strove for it. the other side, the prophets for their spurned Je— hova, by viewing political misfortune as a punishment of the waste, which was seen as proof by the people themselves It was believed that Jehovah's power was less significant than that of others. other deities. The sweetest wish of the Hebrews, which which runs through the entire Old Testament, is poli- Table power, dominion over other peoples; and This wish was only somewhat fulfilled for them in David's time. fulfilled, where the Jehovah's service flourished. Jehovah's Anz He therefore had to suffer more and more the deeper the— the kingdom fell into decline; and certainly this circumstance ) Jer. 49, 1, 3.) Jer. 48, 7. 35. 46.

— —
—

contributed significantly to the perception of the prophets.
to bring about that Jehovah, who is among the Hebrews
even if he proved so powerless, his power would likely be directed elsewhere.
fold, also God of the victorious peoples, the one, the almighty Be God.

That the purer religious views among the Jews
originating from the prophets and not from the priests,
That's certain. But these views could not have arisen without influence.
The decision to retain individual priests remains. During the drafting and
The discovery of the body that appeared under Josiah in the temple menden law book made, as content and circumstances showed gen, some prophets and priests common cause. To Next, it is the content of this book, which is for a
The influence of the priests in its drafting speaks volumes.
The book contained statutes, undoubtedly regulations concerning religious customs: the excellent ones participated in such things
No interest in prophets like Jeremiah; only those pro prophets who lived after the Babylonian captivity,
urge sharply the adherence to the ceremonial law;
Malachi, for example, curses those who do not have a beautiful
To sacrifice the animal, and insists on the delivery of the tithes). Jeremiah, on the other hand, is of the necessary-keit of this our Mosaic ceremonial law so little convinced that he even the Mosaic origin of the He rejects the victim when he says in chapter 7, verse 22: "I spoke not with your fathers and did not command them at that time, I carried them out from the land of Egypt concerning burnt offerings and sacrifices, but this I commanded them:
"Obey my voice, and I will be your God."
Ezekiel, a contemporary, already speaks of this in exile.
The word goes to victims and ceremonial services in general.
The prophetic participants in the drafting of the Book—

) Mal. 1:12-14; Chapter 3:10 ff.; he also mentions an e of the Moses, Chapter 4, 4.

ches will therefore either themselves be the brighter views of a Jeremiah did not completely divide, or, if our pro-
 Is Jeremiah really that son of Hilkiah who was at the was involved in the discovery of the book, so may they the prize-have given in to the star regarding the external cult, since to its abolition, to which some prophets, like Isaiah and Jeremiah, who really worked towards this (but in That could not have been seriously considered at that time.
 Now, the high priest Hilkiah will present the Book of Law to the king.
 The scribe hands it over to present it to the king, showing apparently, Hilkiah agreed with the content;
 because, besides, he would not have given the book of laws to the king.
 Positioned. Even in earlier times there were individual priests, which are prone to prophetic zeal against worship-
 the gods gave their consent; so Jehoiada under Joash; why shouldn't even priests of Jehovah gladly do it?
 have seen that the cult of foreign gods is suppressed
 And their Jehovah would be their only God? Wasn't that their God?
 since Solomon has been increasingly disregarded, so that not even him when Hezekiah took office Sacrifices were made). The reformatory endeavors-
 The descendants of Assah, Jehoshaphat, and Joash were very insignificant—tend; for as long as one does not consider the abolition of the height-cults outside Jerusalem could be attributed to an extermination.
 There was no talk of idolatry; no attempt was made.
 more than a cleansing of the temple in Jerusalem to Gun-Jehovah's; outside the temple the displaced whose cults continued their previous course. Hezekiah made the Attempt to spread the Reformation throughout the entire country;
 But the chronicle must admit that many priests and much
 The people did not purify themselves, not even during the Passover after the pre-dawn meal.

) Isaiah 1:11; especially the excellent Pseudo-Isaiah chapter 66:3; Jer. 7:3, 22. Also Amos 5:21; Hos. 6:6, etc.

– 2 Chronicles 29:7 |

(whose writings they wanted to eat); among the rest of the Israelites laughed and people mocked the new way of celebrating Passover; for This involved the abolition of human sacrifice. at the Passover festival. Hezekiah's twelve-year-old son, Manasseh, He fully reintroduces idolatry. It is striking that... that the father's reformatory zeal was directed towards the son which produced the opposite effect; it wants to go into the This circumstance provides significant evidence that Hezekiah's Reformation outside an unsightly circle, quite possible. found no approval, but rather the most decisive opposition. Len was agitated; Manasseh also sacrifices his son, it seems, to reinstate the old Pasha celebration. On Ma Nasse, who reigned for fifty-five years, succeeded in a two his son Amon, after this Josiah, who reigned for years, his son Amon, on this Josiah, who Son of Amun; he reigned for thirty-two years. Manasseh

It was a terror to the small reformist party; It might have struck her as odd that Jehovah had kept this king for so long. received; Amon also followed completely in the footsteps of his Va ters, but was soon murdered by conspirators. Josia was eight years old when he came to power. This king nig saw the party of progress in order to support its under expressed principles to gain public recognition, especially in relation to the Passover celebration; it had some Men who, in their view, were placed in high government offices, the The king's scribe, Saphan, and the high priest Hil kia; furthermore, the following also appear as active persons at the The event of Jeremiah, son of Hilkiah, Ahikam, the son Saphan 6, friend of Jeremiah), and a prophetess Huldah. In the king's eighteenth year, at an age when he was still young enough not to think about List, and old enough to implement the desired changes,

1) 2 Chronicles 30, 10, 15 - 18.

He once saves the man when the people want to kill him; Jeremiah 26:24.

72

The high priest Hilkiah finds a book in the temple that contains the desired innovations of the reformers as ancient, true—probably presented them as Mosaic provisions. After the It was believed that Hezekiah's Reformation had not been preserved. probably through an allegedly ancient one, preserved in the temple A written document to ensure lasting validity. I cannot agree with the view found by Hilkia—May that writing still be in the temple from the time of Hezekiah. It was located somewhere, and Hilkia found it by chance. The. This is intentional. Hilkia was high priest, to his At that time, idolatry was the dominant cult; were the In- If the scripture was not already known to him beforehand, he would be not in advance with their changes to the existing situation agreed: he would have reliably extracted the book. who not at all, or at least not without prior consideration He sent advice to the king along with other priests. Also There is absolutely no indication that Hilkia and Saphan would have wondered about the content of the writing: in— that the king might be concerned about the deviation from their prescription— ten was so horrified by the previous custom that he changed his Clothes tear. It might be argued that one could yes, we don't know how long Hilkia has been in possession of the opened— found writing before he handed it over to Saphan; whether he hadn't actually presented them to the priests beforehand and they with their consent, which I sent to the king. However The innovations of writing since Hezekiah were unknown. no longer; would the priesthood even be this new thing? Had the conditions been favorable, she would have already been able to do so before the discovery. The same were introduced during the writing process. Also to King Jo— fia could the reformatory endeavors fine great-grand— Father Hezekiah may not be entirely unknown; only that. It was new and unexpected to him that the changes, which a small party that has been involved in divine service for several generations. sought to carry out, based on ancient provisions should; and this was indeed the main purpose of the under—pushed writing; it was supposed to prove that what one previously considered a product of unauthorized innovation, as a rejected deviation from the old folk religion, namely the religious conviction and the service of the fathers had been. Neither the material nor the features of these can become obsolete. There must have been writing; for the scribe Shaphan read it. Without any propriety. That they were found in the cash box, as previously assumed, neither in the Bü—

73

 The kings' stories are still told in the chronicle; one suspects it because they were asked about it on the occasion of a payment the builders found. The rabbis claim that in the Temple walls were said to have been hidden holes; in one of these (For further study, Hilkia found the law book). The cash box itself was not a place where writing would have lingered for long. They may lie hidden, for it was emptied frequently; the Egyptian King Sisak plundered it (1 Kings 14:26). Jewish King Assa takes from the temple treasury to... to buy the support of the Syrian king against Israel (1 Kings 15:15, 18); Joash, king of Judah, bought by the same means the peace of Sfrael (2 Kings 12:18); Joash, king of Israel, takes from the temple in Jeru—Salem gold and silver (2 Kings 14:14); Ahaz, father of Hezekiah, brings the king of through the temple treasury Assyria against Israel on its side (2 Kings 16:8); Hezekiah himself, the renowned pious Hezekiah, wins the King of Assyria in the same way, and solves everything else. Gold and silver sheet in the temple (2 Kings 18:14-16).
 – Where the writing was allegedly found in the temple, It's pretty much irrelevant; I have these various scum items. The wrestling matches were only listed to prove that the cash box There was no place where an old, pious priest could have done that could have hidden the book from idolatrous kings.

) R. Jud. Leo lib. 2. de templo cap. 24. bei Lund, jüd. Heiligth. Page 81.

74

We now draw conclusions from these remarks for our Un-
 The investigation yielded the following result.

The religious views found in the biblical books

those described as the true Jehovah's Witnesses wear semmt-
The character of the religious standpoint on which.
the Jewish people only after the founding of the new states at the end of the Babylonian captivity, so not before the start of the second temple construction in 534 BC.
found. Before this time, as with other peoples, only a few men have such a better understanding, different-who, however, distinguished himself from the wise men of other nations by this,
that they did not keep their purified doctrine a secret,
but sought to assert their rights at the risk of their lives.
This includes the prophets Joel, Amos, Hosea,
Micah, Isaiah, Nahum, all of whom lived in that century
from 800 to 700 BC; so that it seems to be the first beginnings of such a purer knowledge and the rejection of idolatry should not go beyond the
They were moved up to the year 800. They were followed by Zephaniah, Habakkuk, Obadiah, then in captivity himself Je-Reemiah and Ezekiel. This reformist party, which her endeavors themselves were refined over time and he further, was, as we know from the writings of the last mentioned-ten prophets were chosen, who did not tire in captivity.
has been accused of blaming the people's misfortune on idolatry-ben, and had thereby gained a firmer foothold among the people, little-stens, supported by the related religious concepts of the Persians, increasing in number and using their influence, a portion of the Jews to return to the fatherland determine (Ezekiel 20:38). She appears as leading.
and ordering in the new founding of the state, which also laid out the collection of holy scriptures that we now have possess. Would be a collection of those Israeli and Jewish priests and prophets!) were organized,

1) Yes. 44, 25; Micah 3:8, 11; Jer. 2, 8; Cape. 5, 31; Sachar. 10, 2.

75

which with the last kings and the entire people were devoted to idolatry, to which they also belonged in prison-did not renounce their possessions: such a thing would of course be quite to be different and offer us much brighter glimpses into the
to allow the Hebrews to continue in their former religious state.
But reformers revised the scriptures to be recorded—ten in their sense and showed those that do not serve their purpose agreed, as they were undoubtedly from the opposing party—

 If they exist, return. Their main focus at work was, the purified worship of Jehovah on famous Na=

to trace back to the Hebrew ancients and the each=

The people's happiness as a result of a pure Jehovah's Witness= to present the misfortune as punishment for idolatry, there=

besides the privileges of the priesthood, the ten=

ten and other diverse levies through the name to provide Moses with an ancient justification. The one=

Implementation of the surreptitious Mosaic Law, although a

Such an attempt was already made under Sofia, but it did not yet succeed.

once completely at the beginning of the founding of the new State under Zerubbabel and Ezra. Only as a nephew=

mia followed and as governor over Judah to the people who exerted a far more significant influence than Ezra, used

one can determine the time of the dedication of the new temple, in order to

to now also give effect to the new cult. Highest

The 10th chapter of Nehemiah is important in this regard.

Here, plans are being made to introduce the Mosaic Ge=

fetzes made, which clearly enough prove how little be-

The same is also based on the opinion of the more distinguished

Inden was, as much as its existence was feared, like

His regulations seemed strange and new. The superiors,

Priests and Levites make a covenant with each other, =

They commit themselves by seal and signature for the recognitions=

The provisions of this law, namely these men will be by their named listing as a party, which=

Then the rest of the people, as it says in verse 29, will look to the

Priefters, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, the own

no people and all who have separated themselves from the nations of the countries to the law of God, their wives, sons and Daughters, indeed every insightful and understanding person connected. They too had to swear to uphold the Mosaic faith—to keep up. However, it wasn't that easy with the observance of these new Mosaic precepts; the Levites and singers leave him. Temple because you don't fie paid; one works and conducts business on the Sabbath, even Priests marry foreign women). Nehemiah does indeed proceed against these transgressions; but it is obvious that It probably took a considerable amount of time to give the law the to create a later, anxious observation. Especially

 The confessions of the prophet are important in this relationship.
 ten Malachi. None of the immigrants bewillingly submits to the arduous service which the prescribes a new law. Jehovah speaks to the priests.
 Chapter 1, verse 6: "A son honors his father, and a servant be..."
 a lord. Am I now a father, where is my honor? am Lord, where is my respect, you priests, you despisers of my-
 A name? These, however, complain (verse 12): "Behold,
 "What a chore!" the priest's lips rejoined the prophet.
 Chapter 2, verse 7, continues, "Keep knowledge and instruction."
 seek from a fine mouth; for a messenger of Jehovah's army
 He is a multitude. But you have turned aside from the way, have Many stumble because of instruction; you have destroyed
 Levi's Bund. But I also want to be contemptible and low to you.
 The people are primarily responsible for the fact that you do not observe them.
 "Take my ways and side in the instruction." «Ber:
 "It is true," said the returned Jews (Chapter 3, verse 14).

To serve God, and what a gain that we give everything against Him!
 we watched him and that we walked in mourning before Jehovah of the hosts? And now we praise blessed ones.

) Nehem. 13, 10; Cape. 13, 15; Cape. 13, 28.

77

—

Arrogant; built up are those who practice wickedness; upon the
 They put God to the test and escaped. Then Ma promised leachi, the arrival of the Messiah, who will bring a terrible judgment
 I will practice against the unbelievers; "but to you who believe
 "To fear names," he says, "goes to the sun of justice—"

tigkeit, you will leap like fattened calves, trample the wicked.

ler; for ashes will be under the soles of your feet.

“Days that I create,” says Jehovah to the hosts.

“Therefore,” the Prophet continues, “remember the Law.”
Moses, my servant, whom I commanded at Horeb for all of Israel, its statutes and rights.

We can therefore, regarding the former religious status-
Regarding the Jews, the statements of the Mosaic Books have only limited value; rather, they must for our investigation, the most excellent sources were such Recognize writings of the Old Testament, which are of a later—
The next revision will at least not fall below that degree—lay, like the historical books, writings, which did not Therefore, what needs to be done is to restore the former state of idolatry.
Possibility to conceal: and this is what the prophets find.
In the history books, however, especially in the case of—Famous names, clearly demonstrable traces of the Idolatry, which the editor has not sufficiently explained—covered, besides the testimonies of the prophets, suffice to the religious standpoint of the entire age into the true
To shed light on this. One can find this in Jewish history.
religious point of a time not in some verses cha—
want to find those who adhere to a pure monotheism to speak the word, as one has so readily done before

— — —

) Even the prophetic writings are no longer pure; the No further proof can be provided here; it may suffice that that Isaiah was assigned chapter 26, which only came after the were written during his imprisonment; the author of these chapters Cyrus already knows him.

78

has. Religious knowledge will always also be reflected in the actions must reveal; where a person or a
The age exhibits a mode of action that deals with which cannot tolerate better religious concepts, there is also the Proof has been given that such concepts are not appropriate.
knew. A man and his people, who, at the command of their

God, like Moses and the Jews, so inhuman against that their fellow human beings could rage: such a people must have a
They had a cruel, bloody God. A Samuel, who personally murdered a captured Wehrlofen king—
the one, an Elijah, who personally killed the priests of Baal—slaughtering them, instead of teaching them something better, a David, who stretched the prisoners of war onto the ground.
lets and measures them according to the measuring cord for execution:
Such people cannot live without faith in a universal—
They have been guided by God and Father of mankind.
Solomon, who has his brother killed, who in his Old man, when people usually go about things more thoughtfully.
He erected altars to the gods of his wives: such a man never believed in the sole existence of a single God believed, even less so of this one God Revelation—received renunciations; such a man cannot come from a faa milie emerged which belong to pure monotheism paid homage to a father who believed in a supernatural He would have been delighted by the illumination!

If one wants to examine the old testament impartially,
Thus the halo of pure monotheism dissolves,
sit in which a few men of a later better Knowledge that adorned their ancestors, and no
purer religion than that of the related Canaanite religion
Tribes, at most with the difference that the general
Semitic tribal god Baal or Melech, i.e., Lord and King, known to the Hebrews as Jehovah assumed the character of a Hebrew national god, who now to be distinguished from the neighboring gods, as the god of 79

The nation wanted to be worshipped by the Hebrews alone, and jealously guarded his service. Like the Cana-
They have existed since time immemorial, so too have they in the Hebrews, the altars of human blood smoked by Abraham until the downfall of the two states of Israel and Judah. The few voices among the prophets later times, they would oppose idolatry,
as noted above, not beyond the year 800 BC.

Burt back and cannot possibly be used for an expression of popular sentiment, not even for the ruling class Seen in the schools of the prophets; for it is written—ten of the prophets who have preserved us often enough about it complained that the entire people, priests and prophets, were not except those devoted to idolatry. Rather, they are These few voices are only isolated sparks of a—
 their insights, which could not ignite until the external
 The power of the Persians, who had no human sacrifices and no image who endured the deity, help came to them. For when it such valiant men even managed a few times to to win over the rulers of the kingdom of Judah; that was However, this influence was so temporary that it was clear enough—how these purer concepts take precedence among the people, completely without restraint
 were. Most compelling evidence for the claim that humans Sacrifice up to exile is also common in the Jehovah's Witness cult.
 The above is about those who were favored, and especially by Moses.
 Confession of the prophet Ezekiel, where Jehovah chapter 20, 25. says: "I gave them statutes that were not good were, and rights, by which they did not live, defile—
 She enfranchised them through their offerings, by giving them all
 They offered up their firstborn, so that I might destroy them, upon that they recognized that I am Jehovah." The same prophet continues in verse 30: "How? On your way Fathers, you defile yourselves and you fornicate with their abominations.
 after, and by bringing your gifts, by bringing your Children, consecrate yourselves through fire; if you defile yourselves, do not be defiled.

80

"Through all your idols to this day?" — We
 This point will be discussed in more detail at its appropriate place.
 have to speak. Here are a few preliminary words about the prohibition of idolatry and of people—sacrifice in Mosaic law; we are adopting both terms together, since the Canaanite idolatry is for the most part which involved human sacrifice and the prohibition of Idolatry in general also includes the prohibition of people includes victims.

The most important places through which in the Mosaic
The law forbade idolatry and human sacrifice.
the following). |

2. Mof. 34:12-16: "Beware that you do not fall into a
You make a pact with the inhabitants of the country into which you enter.
Come, so that they do not become a snare in your midst;
but you shall destroy their altars and their statues break their ashes and uproot them; for you shall not worship another god; for Jehovah, Zealous, is his name,
He is a jealous God; lest you make a covenant with him.
with the inhabitants of the country and then, when they have their
To forsake gods and sacrifice to their gods, to invite you and you eat of her sacrifice, and take from her daughters
God bless your sons, and then their daughters their gods.
They fornicate and make your sons like their gods whores.

Leviticus 19:4: "You shall not turn to idols."
And you shall not make for yourselves cast gods. I am Jehovah, your God." Chapter 26, verse 1: "You shall not make idols for yourselves and no carving or statue will lift you up, and no
You shall place stones with images in your land, to remind you of the people.
to worship; for I am Jehovah, your God." Compare Exodus 34:17.

The well-known passage: "I am the Lord your God, you shall
"No other gods besides me," closes the people.
sacrifices in Jehovah's service are not excluded.

81

Numbers 33:52: "Drive out all the inhabitants of the land."
of you and destroy their (stones with) images and You shall destroy all their cast images and all their
You shall devour the heights. » |

5. Mof. 4, 19: "That you do not lift up your eyes up to the sky and the sun rises and the moon and the Stars, the whole host of heaven, and let yourself be led astray.
lead them and worship them and serve them, which Jehovah,
your God, distributed to all peoples under the whole

Heaven. But Jehovah has taken you and cast you out.
leads out of the iron furnace, out of Egypt, that theirs
A peculiar people, as happened at this time. »

Deuteronomy 6:14: You shall not follow other gods.
They come from the gods of the peoples all around you. For Jehovah your God is a zealous God in your midst, that the anger of Jehovah, your God, should not be kindled upon you you, and that he may destroy you from the face of the earth.

Deuteronomy 7:1: "If Jehovah your God sends you into the Land brings you wherever you go to take it, and great things.
you drive out nations before you, the Hittites and the Gergesi and Peresits and the Hivites and the Jebusites, seven peoples greater and stronger than you; and Jehovah, your God, gives it to you and you hit it; so you should hit it with the verb.
nen, no alliance with them and no grace with them= digen. And you shall not intermarry with them; your
You shall not give your daughters to their sons, nor their daughters
You shall not take it for your sons, for they will Turn your sons away from me, so that they may go to others
Serve the gods, and then Jehovah's wrath will be unleashed.
One upon you, and he will quickly devour you. But so You shall do to them: you shall tear down their altars and break their pillars and cut down their ashes and their Images burn with fire. For you are a holy people.
You, Jehovah, your God; Jehovah, your God, has given you the power to-chooses to be his own people from among all peoples,

ö 6

82 which are found on the ground. Verse 25: The images

You shall burn their gods with fire; for you shall not covet their gold and silver and take it from you, that you do not become entangled in it; for it is an abomination to the Lord, of your God, if'ed, and you shall not put any abomination into your heart.
Bring yourself to a house, so that you will not be banished like him;
You shall abhor it and consider it an abomination; for It is banished.

Deuteronomy 12:2: "You shall destroy every place where the..."
Peoples whom you expel, who served their gods, on the high mountains, on the hills, and under all the green trees= men; and tear down their altars and break their pillars, and their ashes are burned with fire, and the images of their Gods shatter and destroy their names from the same.
Places. Not so you shall treat Jehovah your God, but the place that Jehovah, your God, will choose from
to all your tribes, to put his name there, his
You should seek out the seat and come there.

Deuteronomy 13:1: "If a prophet arises among you, gets up, or has dreams, and gives you a sign
or miracles, and the sign and wonder come,
that he told you when he said: Let us other gods=
to follow (those you do not know) and serve them: so You should not listen to the words of that same prophet or on him who has dreams; for Jehovah, your God,
Try to discern whether you have loved Jehovah, your God.
Pray with all your heart and with all your soul."
Verse 5: "And that same prophet, or the same one who gave dreams
He shall be killed because he spoke apostasy against Jehovah, your God.

Deuteronomy 13:6: "Speak, your brother, the son of yours
Mother, or your son or your daughter, or that Woman at your bosom or the friend you like Your soul loves you, secretly tempts you and says: Let go and serve other gods (which you do not)

83

You know, or your fathers know, the gods of the peoples all around.
all around you, near you or far from you, from a (from the end of the earth to the other end): so you shall not to drive on and not listen to him and not spare him, nor show you more mercy, nor hide him; but rather around-
You shall bring him, your hand shall be the first against him, to kill him, and the hand of all the people afterward,
and stone him to death, because he tried to kill you.
guide by Jehovah, your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, and

All Israel shall hear it and be afraid, and no more.
to do such evil in your midst, »

Deuteronomy 16:21: “You shall not plant Asherah for yourself.”
zen of all kinds of wood beside the altar of Jehovah, your God-
The test you make for yourself. And you shouldn't erect.
ten, whom Jehovah, your God, hates.≈

35 Mos. 12:31: Thus Jehovah your God, the nations eradicate those to whom you come, to drive them out before you, and you have driven them out and are living in their land: so Take care that you do not get entangled with them.
to follow them after they have been destroyed before you, and that You do not seek their gods and say: How these peoples
I will serve their gods, and so I will do. You shall Do not do to Jehovah your God, for all the abominations you detest.
The gods he hates have done to their gods; for
They also burned their sons and their children with fire.
their gods

Leviticus 20:1: “And Jehobah spoke to Moses and He said: And to the sons of Israel you shall say: A any of the sons of Israel and of the foreigners, who reside in Israel, which is of fine seed to the Molech gives, he shall be killed, the people of the land
He shall be stoned. And I will set my face against him.
that same person and exterminate him from his people, because He gave some of his seed to Molech, so that he was my

| 6*

84

Sanctuary defiled and my holy name disgraced≈ has consecrated. And when the people of the land close their eyes... closes before that same person, when he has received his seed who gives to Molech so that they do not kill him: so I set my Against the face of that same person and against his sex, and exterminate him and all who fornicate against him and the Molech fornicated from among her people.

Deuteronomy 18:10: “It will not be found among you.”

will be the one who sacrifices his son or daughter through the fire consecrates. » it -

Leviticus 18:21: "Of your offspring you shall not to dedicate to Molech, so that you do not lose the name You are profaning Jehovah, your God. I am Jehovah. r,

I don't need to comment further on these points.
that here the prohibition of idolatry and of people
The sacrifice is given with great severity. Hardly can a one Direction must be taken which will prevent any attempt at a violation.

leadership worked more effectively against it than the command in 5 Mos.

13, 6. ff., even the closest blood relatives and the ge to murder his dearest friend with his own hand,
-if he attempts to persuade someone to abandon Je hova wagen follte. The author of this order has in fei nem Eifer den fürchtechtes Überbrauch ganz anßer Acht ge let, which is driven by such a regulation could happen; for in this state of affairs, it could every murder with the pretense of an attempted seduction
to be excused for idolatry.

But it is precisely this severity of the ban that now also proves at the same time, that the prohibition itself could not exist, at least it was not recognized as the will of the legislator,
As long as idolatry was practiced among the Hebrews, namely not before the Babylonian captivity. It is
It is inconceivable that such a law, allegedly from the God of the nation through a highly revered legislator he divides and presents as the most holy commandment, so completely and

2

88

even disregarded by priests, kings and the people
It would have been that the individual and the entire nation

so willfully he had given free rein to the terrible curses ten, which were set on a violation of the same!
 We find no evidence of popular rebellion anywhere.
 against idolatry or against human sacrifice, nowhere
 one example, that among the millions, which centuries
 long the cult of the Cananites, Assyrians and Babylonians
 There were even just one person from the people who had a relative.
 ten or friend or stranger as a seducer to idol (who had reported or murdered members of the priesthood).
 Even in later times, when brighter views were more common.
 As one might expect, no participating voice is raised.
 no defending hand for the prophets who were isolated and fall victim to their better judgment.
 This is completely contrary to their aspirations, even in the Mosaic books on Abraham's attempt to make his one to sacrifice his ninth son, the greatest promise for himself and tied for the whole people. The progenitor of the
 The nation provides an example that aligns with the above regulations.
 which stands in the most glaring contradiction. If one only...
 Anyone who wants to look at Jewish history without prejudice must the previous view, according to which prohibitions of idolatry
 such harshness had already been given by Moses, to appear as an obvious error. The people of Hebrews should be in a constant alternation of Aner

One could cite, for example, the Pinehas and some other examples.
 to cite from the Mosaic books. This book alone
 Chern must have been motivated by the desire to also secure justice for her laws.
 To provide examples of an execution under Moses. The Hebrews-people who, according to Numbers, Chapter 25, sacrifice with the Moabites, will be severely punished (Numbers 15:32) for having stoned a man.
 because he read wood on the Sabbath. The struggle for recognition of a Cults were practiced only in higher circles, by priests and prophets.
 and led by kings.

86

identification and waste through fine whole history up found
 They were prisoners until their return from Babylon.
 Shaft. Such a relationship is not possible; one cannot not a law that presents itself as the most sacred and inviolable announces, follows in one decade, abandons in the next, to recognize again in the third, to remove once more in the fourth. fen, and so forth; one can find even less today pure and sublime concepts of a single, all-good God have and tomorrow sacrifice his children to the Moloch again. Rather, the dominant religion among the Hebrews was... not in the worship of a single, all-good God, as the new testament teaches him, but rather, depending on the circumstances neighboring people exerted more or less political influence, in Phoenician, Assyrian and Chaldean idolatry, from which a national god Jehovah emerges, whose manner of worship is adapted to these cults.

The prohibition of idolatry is usually followed by: as the above passages show, the order to the objects of the to destroy pagan cults and to deface the sacrificial sites= unclean. Learn of such contamination But we only in the time of Hezekiah and Josiah. In contrast= Partly, it is evident from the Old Testament that the Hebrews They also sacrificed their victims at famous pagan sacrificial sites. performed. Gideon does indeed topple the altar of Baal, which his father had built, build the altar of Jehovah but on the same spot on the mountain, and settle in his city Ophra itself a golden image of Jehovah. Solomon has through Phoenician idolaters the temple of Jehovah on the Build the hill of Moriah, the ancient sacrificial site of the Canaanites. Jebusites, who even after David's conquest in their Remain in the city of Jebus, the holy Jerusalem. David even buys a Cananitic from the Jebusite Aravna Sacrificial site, where probably an image of Moloch stood, like 2 Samuel 24:18-19 is recounted, with the intention of here the to sacrifice to Jehovah and thereby determine him, a plague to stop; and not just buy the place, David, but also the pagan sacrificial implements and animals, to offer his sacrifice here at the Canaanite site perform. Jehovah is so little offended by this that he solely through a sacrifice at this place where his angel stood, reconciliation could be achieved. Elijah also sacrifices on the mountain.

87

Carmel, which was sacred to the Phoenicians.

Likewise, there is no such thing in Hebrew history.

Evidence that a ban on marriage with the an-bordering pagan tribes, as also mentioned above Places are pronounced, among the Hebrews except for the would have applied to the return from captivity; «The
The Hebrews did not destroy the nations as Jehovah had commanded them.

“Foals,” says Psalm 196, verse 34, “they mingled They met with them and learned of their deeds. The Mosaic Ge—fei fehlt sprüche diesem Verbot d d e m 21:10, where it
This means: “If you go out to fight against your enemies,
And Jehovah, your God, gives them into your hand, and you
You capture prisoners from among them; and you see among the Ge—
They caught a woman of beautiful form and desired her.
and if you take her to be your wife, bring her into your house,
and she shall shave her head and cut her nails and Lay aside the clothes of your captivity and live in the—
a house and mourn her father and her mother
For a whole month; and after that you may be with her and she "Marry, that they may marry your wife." It will be in this Although some ceremonies were mentioned, which meant that foreign girls should, in a sense, be nationalized, but not a single syllable of a religious change). Much-
The law takes a more effective view of the pagan parents.
1. tender consideration, by prescribing to the girl that

1) The explanation that Moses only prohibited marriages with Canaanitesoffered, but allowed with other foreigners (fo Michael. Mor.
Law (and Win. bibl. Realw. under the article Marriage), is a failed attempt to resolve the contradiction that exists between 88

To mourn the separation from these parents for a month.
That the religious change would take place here of its own accord, cannot be claimed; this would be an important
That was a point that should probably have been mentioned much earlier.
must, as in cutting the nails. Others also indicate
They point out that one should not allow foreign women to have their native language.

Religion left; I am reminded, for example, of Rachel, who lost her father's idols from home, and to those from rural wives of kings, who have practiced the cult since Solomon practice their native gods. Moses himself went with the Example of a marital union with foreign women on; his wife Zipporah was the daughter of a Midianite Priest. Later he also marries an Ethiopian woman, which Aaron and his sister express their disapproval of, But they would be punished by Jehovah for it. This happened in the desert (Numbers 12:1). That he also had a Jewish It is not stated whether I had a wife, so presumably only strangers. It would be incomprehensible how this legislator, since he even if it only had foreign women, such strict regulations against intermarriage with neighboring peoples would have been able to: because a legislator must surely first and foremost To keep one's own law. Even if one wanted to say that Marriage to Zipporah occurs much earlier and in other times Relationships, as the prohibition; so this is not the case with the Cuschit's case, and so too would always remain the Sfraelites The objection at hand: How do you want to prohibit something? What have you done yourself? Why should marriage be for us? It would be a crime to do it to a foreigner, since she did it for you Isn't it? Moses was already an old man when he came to God. Zipporah was courted; the marriage was not a consequence of youthful [unclear]

the supposedly Mosaic commandments and Jewish practice pushed to the forefront. The Hebrews married both before the exile and the daughters of Canaan as other strangers; and after the exile was marriage with the other foreigners equally prohibited? offered, as those with the Cananites.

89

Haste, it was also not due to coercion by the authorities. Conditions were offered; he was even older when he saw the black Ethiopian woman took: the legislator therefore married of his own free will. Drive two daughters of idol worshippers and can the after no insurmountable aversion to idolatry have, especially since he himself did not face the Miss Billie Eilish. (he respected the gung of his brother and sister).

In the age of judges, kinship with
 This was commonplace among the Canaanites. (Judgement 3:5 states)
 es: «The sons of Israel lived among the Cananites, the Hittite and the Amorite and the Jebusite, and near-men made their daughters wives and gave their daughters to each other.
 They gave thanks to their sons and served their gods. Also from respected Hebrew men, such as Samson,
 It is said that they took foreign women. This Chosen ones, whose birth is announced by an angel,
 The Spirit of the Lord comes upon him repeatedly,
 He takes a wife from the Philistines. The biblical author
 He softens the blow by adding that the parents
 They had advised the son against it, but Jehovah alone had given them this.
 Marriage was desired so that Samson would have the opportunity to be with the
 (to start Philistine disputes?). Elsewhere it is not even the slightest hint of disapproval was shown, even as Samson with Philistine women extramarital Community has; it is called, for example, without any further comment, Judge.
 16:1: “And Samson went to Gasa and saw there a

This disapproval probably only referred to the black color.
 of the Cushites. The passage suggests a real story. lyrical incident. For even if one wanted to believe the biblical-
 The author only puts the rebuke into Aaron's mouth, to advocate for the prohibition of marriage with foreigners; so he would have
 He had already had a reason for this at Zipporah, where such a thing occurred.
 However, no disapproval is voiced from any side. — It deserves
 It should be noted that Herodotus III, 20, says that the Ethiopians
 They were considered to be the tallest and most beautiful people in Egypt.

) Judges 13:3; Chapter 14:4.

Whore and her greed dwelt likewise” Verse 4: And it happened
 Later, he loved a woman in the valley of Sorek with Na-Men Delilah.» Such things are an innocent embellishment on the part of the authorbenfache; he is only interested in the brave deeds and bold-to highlight one of his hero's pranks. In the Book of Ruth Marriage is also permitted without any disapproval from those with whom I spoke to foreign women. During a famine, one moves Elimelech from Bethlehem-Judah, without any fear of the abomination of the Moabites, to the land of Moab with wife and Children. His sons “took Moabite wives, The name of one was Orpah, the name of the other Ruth, and they lived there for about ten years.» When the sons After they had died, the mother Noomi moved in with her two Moabite daughters-in-law back to the Jewish land. Since she has no means, she demands help from her daughters-in-law. up, to return home “to their God?”; Orpah obeys, But Ruth goes with them to Bethlehem, although now of course... It is said that Ruth said, “Your God is my God?”; However, in the land of the Jews, Ruth is always considered a foreigner and The Moabite woman is called [name omitted]. She attacks Boaz, who [name omitted] marries and with her fathers Obed, the grandfather Da— David's lineage is thus recorded in the book. Ruth, from her mother's side, traces her lineage back to a foreigner= leads”), and thus also that of Messiah. The next tribe= The father of Messiah after David is Solomon, who came from the the inappropriate union of David with Uriah's wife; The next patriarch is Rehoboam, whom Solomon with (produced by a foreign woman). Psalm 45 even praises

1) Ruth 1:4.) Ruth 1:15.) Chapter 1:16.) Compare See also Isaiah 2:6; Hofmannslaus 7:8.

5) With an ammonite; 1 Kings 14:21. — After David had barely Jerusalem was taken from the Jebusites who lived there to remain, it says in 2 Samuel 6:13: “And David took even more concubines and women from Jerusalem, — whereby the verse

9

Verse 10, that king's daughters were among the lovers of the Jewish king= be the king of the king; he sings of a princess of Tyre, who comes with her playmates as the king's bride; Far from condemning this marriage, the psalmist does much. More to your advantage.

It is natural that marriages with foreigners are rare.
 were; among all peoples and at all times, individuals Villages, tribes, and peoples ensured that the
 My spouse is being sought in my hometown; however, it is proving difficult.
 among the Jews before their imprisonment, an explicit prohibition was given.
 A law was passed against marriage to a foreigner.
 Given the circumstances, we see the Jews also entered into marriage alliances with foreigners in large numbers.
 Only through such widely adopted marriage alliances will it become
 It is understandable how the greater part of the Hebrew nation, the ten tribes, gradually converting completely to paganism could turn things around. However, such numerous marriage unions would be not possible given the existence of such strict Ge—sensations by which the religion of the non-Jew and marriage any association with him would be an abomination to Jehovah—was observed. The complete disappearance of the ten tribes.
 in the pagan world, the circumstance that even the tenth Part of the Jews from the pagan countries to the Father
 The fact that the country may return is certainly strong proof that before the imprisonment of this allegedly Mosaic law against Idolatry and marriages with pagans did not exist.
 We also see the few Jews who escaped from prison.
 gens returned, for the most part immediately from rural women were married off. Ezra says in chapter 9, verse 1: “And When this was accomplished, the chiefs approached me and They said: It was not the people of Israel and the Priests and Levites from the peoples of the lands,

without a doubt means to say that he took them from the Jebusites have; for Hebrew women could not yet enter Serufah at that time.
 lem born s?ey.

92 _

according to their atrocities, such as the Cananites, the Hittites, the Peresits, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moah Bitter, the Egyptians and the Amorites). Because they have taken by their daughters (wives) for themselves and their Sons and the holy seed mixed with the nations of the countries. And the hand of the colonels and leaders is to have been the first in this misdeed. — If one thinks of must take into account that the Jews in the so-called prison

The population fared well, because most of them preferred to remain in the preferred new residences to returning to the fatherland:

Those who set out on a hike into the old fatherland understood, from a particular religious perspective Zeal animated them, or they were poor people who were far away. hoping to prepare a better fate for themselves. I imagine the That's the thing. The reformist party, whose votes we what remained in the prophets was, as is well known, unab- casually trying to portray exile as a punishment for venerating pagans to place niche deities. She was in her best... exercises essentially supported by the religion of the Persians, whose imageless God is like the Jehovah of the prophets in many len relations agreed; indeed, the Book of Ezra suggests so even chapter 1, 1. Jehovah awaken the spirit of Cyrus and to say to the Persian king: "Jehovah has given me all the kingdoms, The God of heaven has given, and he has commanded me, to build him a house in Jerusalem in Judah. Already the The circumstance of having been defeated by the Persians necessitated,

1) It must be noted at this point that, with the exception of the Peresites, Ammonites and Egyptians, the same peoples were called are, as Judges 3:5; since one should have expected these tribes from the time of the Judges, they are both (Jer. 12:14). like the Hebrews, scattered by the storms of time, and the Jews had rather come from Babylonia as a people of women brought along. In any case, these tribes were brought by the Chal who were also taken captive (Jer. 48:46): perhaps They too were later allowed to return. (Jer. 48:47) Chapter 49. 39.)

93

in the manner of ancient peoples, showing respect to the Jews for victory instill a rich God, even more so the long stay in Persian empire itself. The one that appeared under Josiah. The coming Mosaic laws had already had a reached a certain age and gained in prestige, the more the former Jews devoted to idolatry in exile and after dying out. But the reformers were concerned with the

Besides the purification of religion, imprisonment also brought something else. At heart: the restoration of the Jewish state. With They found these desires shared by the majority of the Hebrews. no response; the people were probably in a foreign land. Only the poorer ones, ever more inclined, to the priest who with Hopes comfort and something from the almighty God able to give a hearing, followed, moved into the old Fatherland back. Once there, the marriage took place= amusing, as desired, as has undoubtedly been the case so far in the Captivity was a continuous occurrence, even for women from the neighboring tribes. We ourselves see these eager ones. Jehovah's Witnesses here still without knowledge or at least Respect our Mosaic prohibition; it is inconceivable, that people who intend to exchange their places of residence, to found a state based on Moses' laws, a state like this so many people had acted against strict prohibitions, if this prohibition hadn't been new to them. Also Does the fact that Zerubbabel already existed in 78 deserve attention? Years earlier (536 BC) the first colony was established. had, whereby there was still talk of the expulsion of foreign women (no mention of it). Only now under Ezra, who in the year 458 followed with a second colony and, as Ezra 7:10 states. means: "had a fine heart directed toward the law of Jehovah to research, to fulfill, and to teach in Israel Statute

*) Rather, the term Zerubbabel refers to people who to abstain from the impurity of the peoples to the Israelites= They had. Ezra. 6:21.

94

And law, only now, it seems, has the marriage ban been lifted in given the known sharpness and in the collection father= Landed scripts are listed as Mosaic. Ezra makes No small amount of preparation is required for marriages with foreign women. to separate them and to impose such a ban on the general public to establish valid law in the young state. He fights It first pulls out beard and head hair, tears fine clothing= He remains motionless until the evening sacrifice; then he throws He lay down weeping before the temple and remained lying down until

He is encouraged to stand up and sworn to his fine will to comply. The superiors write a regulation. that every Jew, in case of loss of his possessions, within three must appear in Jerusalem in a few days. Trembling for the For the sake of the cause, as it is said, and to protect against rain, he sat on the third. The whole people gathered in the open square and swore an oath, after some resistance, all foreign women and the to disown children they have with them! — Also a Barbarity, carried out to glorify Jehovah, which in the story of its equal! — But there was immediately— probably also later under Nehemiah Jews, who as— dodish, ammonitish and moabite women home— led. The zealot Nehemiah shook them by the hair. around. Even the son of a high priest still married. (under Nehemiah, the daughter of a Moabite). In general This can be seen from the zeal of the prophet Malachi, who probably wrote in Nehemiah's time or later, that the Jews at that time had difficulty complying with the new law— (was the bot not so serious?).

The third thing that contradicts the claim that a Prohibition of idolatry and human sacrifice already from Given to Moses, the circumstance is that almost consistently as The punishment for idolatry is called imprisonment. Even the orthodox Michaelis could not resist the remark 9 Ezr. Cape. 9 and 10.) Nehem. 13, 23-29.

) Compare e.g. B. Malach. 1, 7, 8, 14. Ch. 3, 8 - 10.

95

not resist: “To one who has the divine mission of Moses If I do not accept it, it must seem strange that this is a^e (hit sey). The image which depicts idolatry as a fornication (Exodus 34:14), points to the later Other prophets, in whose case such a comparison is made is; at least, given this constant threat, it must be so much should be granted to prisoners that all the^e those places which prohibit idolatry under this threat prohibit not before the removal of the Sfraelites by The Assyrians (722 BC) may have been written.

The 26th chapter of the third book of Moses spreads extensively about this subject and knows so much about it to report from captivity that probably also the Orthodox
 The interpretation of our days will find itself compelled to draft the—to relegate the fungus of this chapter to exile. It is said there-even verse 27 ff., after various lesser penalties
 They were threatened with the following for violating the law: »And if you: thereby disobey me and move towards me—delt: fso I too will walk towards you in fury and tug Punish yourselves seven times for your sins. And you shall do this.
 Eat the flesh of your sons and the flesh of your daughters
 They eat. And I will devour your heights and destroy your sons—Break out the columns, and throw your bodies onto the rubble.
 Your idols and my soul abhor you. And I Turn your cities to rubble and devastate your holy sites!
 Thümer, and I will not delight in your lovely Smell. And I devastated the land, so that above it—
 I will destroy your enemies who live there. And I will destroy you.
 scatter among the nations and bring the sword behind you.
 They will move, and your land will be desolate and your cities ruined.
 Then the land will enjoy fine years of rest, which all the time of devastation, while you were in the land Beware of your enemies, then the land will rest and

) Michael. mof. Recht V. $. 246.

96

to eradicate fine years of rest; the whole time of devastation
 It will rest what it did not rest in your years of rest, when you lived there. And those of you who remained,
 I want to bring cowardice into their hearts in the lands of their enemies, that they are chased by the rustling of a blown-away
 The leaves and they flee, as if from the sword, and fall, without being chased, and one falls upon the other,
 as if from the sword, without being hunted; and their
 You will not stand firm before your enemies. And you shall perish among the heathens and the land of your enemies
 It will devour you. And those of you who remain, they
 They shall perish because of their misdeeds in the lands of yours enemies and also through the misdeeds of their fathers with them vanish. Then they will confess their misdeeds and the iniquity of their fathers through their rebellion, which they committed against me committed, and also that she walked towards me. Also I will walk to meet them and bring them into the Land of their enemies. Or let it be that they then humble themselves.

 her uncut heart and then bear off the punishment
 their transgression: then I will remember my covenant with "Yes."
 cob and also my union with Isaac and my Bun^o
 I will remember Abraham, and I will remember the land.
 Remember. For the land will be deserted by them.
 and wear off its years of rest, when it is desolate with them,
 and they will pay the penalty for their offense, therefore,
 Yes, because she despises my rights and my statutes.
 have spurned them. But also that, if they are in Lands of their enemies, I will not despise them and they not despise, so that I do not destroy them, that I may my
 I will break my covenant with them; for I am Jehovah, their God.
 And I remember them my covenant with the ancestors, which I carried out from the land of Egypt before the Eyes of the nations, to be their God. I am Jehovah!

The author of this passage apparently lived according to the Captivity; for he is already speaking of the return.

97

and of the entire time that the Jews spent in exile brought.

The imprisonment as punishment is made no less clear.
 idolatry is depicted in the fifth book of Moses; e.g.
 Deuteronomy 30:17 ff: "But if your heart turns,
 and you disobey and are seduced and worship^o
 You worship their gods and serve them: this is what I proclaim to you today, that you will perish and not remain long in the land, where to come you cross over the Jordan, it is^o
 "Take." Chapter 31, verse 17: "And my anger will be kindled."
 at that same time, and I will leave her and my Hide your face from them, and it will become plunder.
 and many evils and afflictions will befall it, and it will say at the same time: Don't strike me because

My God is not in my midst, all these evils? And I will hide my face at that time to save everything.
 for the evil it did, since it turned to others has turned to the gods.” Chapter 32, 21: They provoked my Zeal by non-gods and my reluctance by their worthless idols: so I too will provoke their zeal by a non-people and their displeasure through a godless nation.
 Verse 25: “The sword shall wear down from the outside, and in the chambers the terror, so young men, as virgins, Infants, along with the old man. I would say: I want
 They scatter and eradicate their memory among the people,
 If I did not fear the anger of the enemy, that not their Adversaries fail to recognize that they do not speak: Our
 A powerful hand, and not Jehovah, did this. It is a
 A people forsaken by counsel, and understanding is not in them.
 Were they wise, they would notice this, consider their needs.
 future. How could one pursue a thousand and two ten—
 They would hunt a thousand, were it not for the fact that their rock sold them and "Helmut has delivered them into Jehovah's hands?" Verse 35 ff.: "The day is near."
 their destruction, and what is prepared for them is hastening. Then He (Jehovah) will say: Where are their gods, the rock,

7

98
 on whom they trusted, who ate the fat of their victims and Did they drink the wine of their libations? May they rise.
 and help you, may they be your shield!

So much for the writing of the Old Testament
 Books and about the Mosaic prohibition of idolatry.
 The reasons given are sufficient to refute the objection.
 to encounter the fact that even from Moses the most emphatic ver-Messengers of idolatry would be present. I believe through The explanation of these reasons has secured my right to haben, the old testament from a point of view to be-seek to understand the news from the older Ge-the history of the Hebrew people is in truth a history-have a natural hold, but by later Jews in the interest were adapted to a later religious system; so that one of what, contrary to this system, in ancient times had validity, only more or less clear traces-can find them. It is natural that I should remember these.

 Traces and the otherwise expressive spirit of a time must maintain an age in order to get close to historical truth come: however, the clearest assurances of the countertheiles, which other places openly present, little consideration can be seen. That much is clear to everyone.
 theological schools of thought recognize that history
 The books of the Old Testament are nothing less than ge-tend to invent things which are a national per-personality or the whole nation according to their concepts

1) This threat of imprisonment as punishment for idolatry
 It also goes through other books which tell the older history of the Treat the Hebrews. Compare, for example, Joshua 23:16; almost every victory
 The enemy is depicted as punishment for idolatry. (Judgment)
 3, 12; 4, 1, 3; 6, 1, 7; 10, 6, 7, 10, and so forth. Furthermore, may
 One can still find the very clear passages in the Mosaic books.
 Compare the accounts of captivity: Leviticus 18:27; Numbers.
 24, 20 ff.; 5. Moof. 4, 27 ff.; Deuteronomy 28, 49; Deuteronomy 29, 25;

5 Mos. Chapter 32. uff

Disgrace could befall, least of all in regard to the Re-religion. At most, one could find the Be- among the prophets.
 Note that some influence should be allowed to show that their fervor among the Perhaps the sermons about punishment were portrayed too harshly here and there. I find...
 I, therefore, in the Old Testament writings about a person
 Two contradictory messages, the same person appears , from here as a follower of Jehovah, there to idolatry he-to give, here with a purely German way of speaking, there with ab-divine customs: so I must place them on the side of the Idol worshippers, because the author did not include the shadows-
 The lighter side, however, is likely to have been fabricated. It is against this procedure, and especially in recent times von Steinheim against Vatke, has objected: How,
 If the biblical authors were so clever, why did they
 They left so much standing, which in their eyes was the Na-
 If this had to lead to dishonor, why did they have famous Names not completely free of blemish? On the other hand
 It should be noted that it is not advisable to tell a story to draft a document in which all appearing persons are flawless are; every author knows that such a story would Some believe. But it was also the biblical verse—not both are concerned with moral deficiencies, nor less of a secret of idolatry in later times have; this time was too close to them, it felt too much like it was here.

 rather, it aims to prove idolatry in order to
 The more severely exile should be used as punishment for this, the better.
 and to prevent idolatry in the future. On the other hand
 They had a significant interest in their reformatory [development/improvement]
 Principles and hierarchical desires based on the old celebrated Legislator, on Moses, as well as on the highlight of the Nation, to the Davidic era. Therefore Only weak attempts appear in Mosaic history.
 to idolatry, which is always terribly punished, and
 The entire subsequent ceremonial service is with that rabble.
 already introduced in the desert: however, that which is attached to—va

100

closing ages of judges, where idolatry reigned is shameful and no one is bound by the observance of the Mosaic law Ritus believes such an alleged flowering of the Jehovah cult
 This was decisively refuted in Moses' time. However, there were also the authors were not exceptionally clever in their method, that they had not often betrayed themselves; they lacked and of their time, that degree of literary genius—agility and strength of judgment, which include would, in order to be critical of such a company
 To escape the harshness of our times. This alone makes it
 It is possible to follow today's criticism on its path.
 and to them a return of the religious concepts of their late more recent times look back on a crude and idolatrous past Assign. One can, in an impartial examination, do not evade the conviction of the Old Testament:
 Our mosaic books only took their present form in and brought shortly after the Babylonian captivity had been, and the human sacrifice service was Hebrew statecultus until the fall of the two empires, even in into captivity, until Cyrus and the Persians through

Their conquest brought an end to this service, at least.
forced him to withdraw into hiding. The Period of Jewish history from captivity to One had to go back to Moses anyway, at least until now.
to grant the rule of idolatry; but also in Mosaic Ages, as our previous investigation shows that, our Mosaic Law neither followed nor known have been. The former is confirmed in these books themselves.
that, when it says in Deuteronomy 12:1: This finds the Statutes and rights, which you should observe and do.
in the land which Jehovah, the God of your fathers, gave you
There is a right to take it, as long as you live in the land.
You shouldn't do what we're doing here today, a Everyone according to their own discretion!

The
Human sacrifice of the Hebrews

from Abraham to the end of the Babylonian Captivity,

from about 2000 to 536 BC.

First Department.

The deities to whom the Hebrews gave men were sacrificed.

First section.

The Semitic deities to whom the Hebrews gave people
They made sacrifices. 8

The oldest history of our sex shows eyes
probably that the idea of atonement through blood in the victims it is not the original one, but the

of the pleasure, the food which one enjoys in the
He wanted to offer a sacrifice to God. Man in his raw state Natural state and also based on a moderate level of education
The level was based on the view that the deity resembled human desires and inclinations, like any human being. Since Food and drink meet our most essential needs.
then, he was careful to include even a fine God with it to provide for him. He was usually only brought such things.
Dishes that are also most pleasing to the human palate promised, selected meat, fruit, baked goods, also Ge Drink, both water and wine. Because salt is essential for our human taste an excellent seasoning of the food
This is what makes it special, so too was the sacrificial meat and sacrificial bread.
sprinkled with salt). Even today's primitive peoples see ) Also among the Hebrews; Leviticus 2:13.

104

We use the same terms when referring to their victims. They
They sacrifice to their gods that which they themselves most enjoy.
The Black man, for example, drinks brandy, the American drinks tobacco. Not.
It was different for the ancient Hebrews. They received fresh bread daily.
slaughtered bloody victims, which regularly appear at every morning and evening offerings were made in the temple Show bread, made from fine wheat flour sprinkled with salt, which one placed it on the golden table in front of the Ark of the Covenant and replaced by newly baked ones every Sabbath were a Food intended for Jehovah. The Mosaic also had
The law ensured that Jehovah only ate tasty meat.
received; the animals had to be young, without defects and well-fed.
nourishes. Wine was added as a libation.

The human sacrifices are also on our eastern side.
The hemisphere is ancient. Is man even among the victims?
One will conclude, based on the assumption that he wanted to provide the god with food in order to prepare for this
In order to secure his grace, he would also have to deal with the other person.
people whom he offered as food of the god
have held; and were only such among the ancient peoples objects were sacrificed whose enjoyment was particularly to them said that those who offered human sacrifices,

They also ate human flesh. In truth, one eats with
This conclusion is by no means a historical error.
The clearest evidence exists that in ancient times
Human flesh was eaten on our eastern hemisphere as well.
was, as it was a few centuries ago in America and Australia. Even in the Old Testament, the men are mentioned.
Schenopfer, literally called food of the gods. But I don't consider the sacrifice of humans to be as old as that.
of animals. It may remain undecided here whether Diejeni=
gen, and among them Meiners, have right, which be-
They claim that the bloody victims are as old as the bloodless ones,

) Formerly water; 1 Samuel 7:6.

105

or those who say that man is of vegetable origin
Food has progressed to animalistic levels, the bloodless victims
"They are therefore older than the bloody ones": so much will certainly be,
the consumption of human flesh by humans is not an inheritance from a fine initial, albeit crude conditions, but a later deviation from the course of human and animal nature in general. No animal On Earth, it uses the flesh of its own species as ordinary food; most have a deterioration-
They shy away from such meat and only then attack their own kind.
on, when no other food is available to them;
What can be said against this statement is not a rule.
but an exception. Therefore, it cannot be assumed.
that the consumption of human flesh is a peculiarity=
the peculiarity of the original crudeness of our sex be; rather, he is already in a deviation from the Nature's subtle origins, which are themselves ancient, are not to be forgotten.

Later, a different idea became associated with it.
the intention behind human sacrifice. With increasing civilization...
The view is gaining ground that the god is not concerned with both to do the sacrificial food, that he rather mainly look at the disposition of the person offering the sacrifice. The object, whoever is to be sacrificed must provide a gift for the one offering the sacrifice.
Knowledge has value; the more precious it is to him, the more (He has a greater effect on God). Because

— — —

1) The ancients held this opinion. Aristotle leads the Ur-
The victims' leap from the gratitude of the people who, after the firstfruits of the harvest were offered to God (Aristotle, Ethics).
VIII, 11); after the harvest, he says, the people would also have
The easiest time to find for such celebrations was found. — Cf.
Pausanias. I, 26; VIII, 2.

2) Once a start has been made in times of need, so may it come to pass ten seyn, was Juvenal Satyr. XV, 86 sagt: Sed qui mordere cadaver sustinuit, nihil unquam hac carne libentius edit. “

) August. de civil. dei VII, 19.

106

The surrender of a valuable object, inner pain
As a result, they probably took another step.
further, and claimed that the deity suffered such pain
a pleasure, she envies the fortunate among men and can only be reconciled by extricating oneself from (to cause any harm through free movement). It was considered therefore necessary, depending on the importance of the purpose or the magnitude of sinful guilt, precious, dear to the heart
To offer up objects, people, one's own children.
The third thing, besides the above ideas, in later
The belief in human sacrifice that led to such practices was a time of The reconciling power of blood. Even animal blood could do that.
